RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

LIVERPOOL, MANCHESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALBERT BULMER,
The Empire, Liverpool.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

Pioneers of the 4 D. per foot, nett.

TRADE MARK MARK

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

PALMISTRY.
Code Word, CHIMIS.

A wonderful dissolving picture in which the old fortune-teller shows vividly what will happen to a gambler and a drunkard and a happy young couple. Quite a new treatment, and it will be a tremendous draw.

472ft. The Subject, £7 17 4d. Colouring extra, 10s. 6d.

MARY ANN IN A SWEET FRAME OF MIND.
Code Word, CAMOUFLET.

Mary Ann is annoyed—Plates and dishes fly about—Mistress tries to quiet her—Master intervenes, but all to no purpose—Force has to be used before peace is restored. Screamingly funny.

230ft. The Subject, £3 16s. 8d.

COSTUMES OF ALL AGES.
Code Word, CANIVEAU.

The historic interest and charm with which these costumes are portrayed make it a very interesting subject. Roman, Marie Stuart, Louis XIV., the Lady Dandies, The Crinoline, &c., &c.

396ft. The Subject, £6 12s. Colouring £3 12s.

THE LITTLE STATUE HAWKER.
Code Word, CICATRICE.

Touching scenes of a little boy who is obliged to sell statues in the street. His troubles, his joys, and his final happiness.

528ft. The Subject, £8 16s.

REDSKINS AND COWBOYS.
Code Word, BURIN.

The cowboy chief's wife and daughter are kidnapped by redskins. Owing to the intelligence of the cowboy's dog they are able to trace them, however, and after exciting and varied scenes the prisoners are restored.

545ft. The Subject, £9 1s. 8d. Tinting, 12s.

CRIME OF THE MOUNTAINS.
Code Word, CHOMAGE

An intensely dramatic story of the two lovers suing for the same girl in a small village in the mountains. The triumph of one; the hatred of the other. The murder, and the haunting of the villain by ghostly objects. These are a few incidents which thrill the imagination.

643ft. The Subject, £10 14s. 4d. Colouring extra, 2s 6d.

CHARLEY PAINTS.
Code Word, CITRON.

A bad little boy and his companion steal a pot of paint, and do all kinds of wicked things with it. Painting the face of an old man asleep, a baby in the arms of her nurse—each time something more daring. Very amusing and of grand quality.

382ft. The Subject, £6 0s. 8d.

CORSICAN'S DAUGHTER.
Code Word, CANARD.

Luigi finds his wife has betrayed him; he therefore shoots her and her lover. His little daughter, Veronica, now plays an important part. She protects her father from discovery in every possible way. Whatever the danger or difficulty, they always come bravely through. Splendid story.

577ft. The Subject, £9 12s. 4d.

A TRAGIC MOMENT.
Code Word, CHIFFRE.

A lady wishing to get rid of her mad dog puts it in a sack and fires three shots at it, then deputes a tramp to bury it. He is followed by two policemen, and is caught in the act of burying the sack. To justify himself he opens it and out runs the dog well and hearty. Very amusing.

330ft. The Subject, £5 10s. Colouring, 8s.

THE CLOWN DOCTOR.
Code Word, CHIDNON.

A young child is very ill, will not take sustenance, or the medicine given to her, and only calls for the Clown who has amused her at the circus. The father brings him to the bedside of his daughter and he succeeds in getting her to take the food. She recovers, and a very charming finale concludes this extremely attractive story.

428ft. The Subject, £7 2s. 8d. Colouring, 10s.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW RACE.
Code Word, CAPORAL.

In the presence of his Worship the Mayor and other local dignitaries, the above race takes place, the prize to be a handsome son-in-law. Away they go, some pushing, some pulling, up and down, until they fall in a solid mass. Screamingly funny.

314ft. The Subject, £5 4s. 8d.

BYKER DOES THE IMPOSSIBLE.
Code Word, CANNIBALE.

This cyclist is really a marvel. He and his machine work as one. Up and down stairs, overcoming every obstacle, and always followed by a crowd of onlookers. Finally he gets mixed up with a small carriage, lets go his own machine, and rides on the wheel of the carriage. Wonderful film.

330ft. The Subject, £5 10s.

A CARMAN IN DANGER.
Code Word, CAMBOUIX.

A carman has to take some valuables into the next town, and sets out with his horse and cart to do so. He is watched by three ruffians who attack him and steal the money. His faithful old horse goes back to the carman's house alone, attracts the attention of the daughter of the house. She, with the aid of neighbours and a sharp dog, finds the carman, the ruffians, and the plunder. Highly dramatic.

412ft. The Subject, £8 17s. 4d.

ON THE STAGE

COPYRIGHT 1907 BY THE VITAGRAPH COMPANY OF AMERICA.

A burlesque melodrama from the "Bowery" in 5 acts and 36 scenes. One of those thrilling scenic productions. A carload of special scenery, and all the latest sensational theatrical effects. An all star cast: the hero, heroine, Gladys, the darling child, the villain, the adventuress, the burglar, the banker, the detective, and the sensational, acrobatic "human chain" stretched across the roaring waterfall.

Length 715ft. Price £11 18s. 4d.

The "HOUSE OF HEADLINERS" originated and control exclusively the following great Films:—

THE FLAT DWELLERS

Re-posed on account of great demand and wearing out of the negative. Better than ever. Funnier than before.

Length 400ft. Price £6 13s. 4d.

A NEW, SHORT, SENSATIONAL SUBJECT

THE HERO

Daring rescue of a little child from the dizzy height of a top-story window. The "Hero" climbs up an iron leader pipe on the corner of the building. Flames and smoke are pouring from every window. The crowd watches in spell-bound, tense excitement. The climax is thrilling.

Length 250ft. Price £4 3s. 4d.

PAUL'S NEW FILMS.

THE BOOKMAKER.

An amusing study in facial expressions of a typical bookie accepting bets. His marvellous range of expressions as he follows the race through his field glasses clearly indicates his anxiety as to its result, which ends in his having to pay out till all his money is gone, when he is subjected to a severe mauling at the hands of the unpaid backers.

Code word, "BOOKIE." Length 140ft.

THE BROKER'S MAN.

Trials and troubles of a broker's man who takes possession of a house occupied by an athletic woman.

Code word, "UNWELCOME." Length 305ft.

THE UNNATURAL FATHER.

Man deserts his wife and child, but is followed to the mansion of his lady love, where an angry altercation with his wife ensues, during which their child is thrown into an adjoining lake by husband. His lady love, sculling on the lake, pluckily plunges into the water and rescues the child, to the surprise of the faithless husband.

Explanation demanded by lady, who removes the ring he gave her, and places it on the finger of his wife.

GREAT NATIONAL SPECTACLES OF WORLD-WIDE INTEREST.

ENORMOUS SUCCESS.—The Grandest Naval Display Ever Photographed.

VISIT OF THE COLONIAL PREMIERS TO PORTSMOUTH

(By courtesy of the Lords of the Admiralty.)

Never in its history has the Admiralty provided a more brilliant programme than that of May 3rd, 1907.

By virtue of several important concessions accorded solely to us, we were fortunately able to secure records of the whole of the impressive Naval Demonstration given at Portsmouth before the Colonial Premiers and Members of both Houses of Parliament. The complete, unique, and historical scenes were secured exclusively by us in their entirety, and are now published in THREE THRILLING, AWE-INSPIRING, AND REALISTIC SERIES.

PREMIERS' RECEPTION ON, AND INSPECTION OF, H.M.S. "DREADNOUGHT."

No. 2,130. Code, "Premiers." Length, 255ft. Price, £4 5s.

TORPEDO ATTACK — ON — H.M.S. "DREADNOUGHT."

No. 2,131. Length, 440ft. Code, "Dreadnought." Price, £7 6s. 8d.

NAVAL ATTACK ON PORTSMOUTH.

The most realistic battle picture ever secured.

No. 2,132. Length, 800ft. Code, "Defence." Price, £13 6s. 8d.

SOME EARLY PRESS OPINIONS:

Telegraph.—"Every action and gesture immortalised by the magic film."
Sunday Sun.—"A naval review and the moving film are more than a splendid substitute for the real thing. . . Marvellous moving pictures of the naval demonstrations. . . Here is the high-water mark of modern photography."

Referee.—"Splendid series of new Urbanora pictures. . . remarkable review pictures."
Sporting Times.—"The seal of public approval has been so indelibly fixed on the new Urban pictures that they will retain their prominent part in the programme."

Pelican.—"The Alhambra pictures of these stirring sham fights are unique in bioscopic annals—and in London."
Morning Leader.—"Never has a battle scene been so realistically presented."
Music Hall.—"The finest naval pictures ever shown. . . Unique. . . If he gets nothing else, the showman should get this section."

Rollicking Fun and Thrilling Adventure.

THE SHORT-SIGHTED CYCLIST. DEMAND FOR THIS FILM IS ENORMOUS.

Novel—Exciting—Humorous—Sensational—Daring. A Perfect Gem. Fun spontaneous and irresistible. No. 3,174. Code, "Gem." Length, 325ft. Price, £5 8s. 4d.

THE £1,000 SPOOK. "Is Spiritualism a Sham?" A new and marvellous Illusion which should, once for all, settle the question. We claim to have solved the problem in this Magic Production, but being satisfied with the excellent result, do not press for payment of the £1,000 offered. A HUMOROUS AND MYSTIC SUBJECT SUGGESTED BY A RECENT ACTION. No. 2,000. Code, "SPOOK." Length, 155ft. Price, £2 11s. 8d.

Urban Film Price, 4d. per foot nett. Terms: Cash With Order. Descriptive Circulars on Application.

BUTCHER'S EMPIRE CINEMATOGRAPH.

MODEL No. 1.

PRICE (Complete without illuminant) ... £16 16s.

There is no Machine on the market to compete with the Empire No. 1 in price, reliability, and up-to-date features.

The Body is mounted in runners on a solid oak base, in which it slides to focus automatically for projecting films or slides.

The Mechanism is mounted on a solid casting, with steel spindles and well-finished brass rollers, with the shutter working between the film stage and lens.

The Eccentric Film Adjuster spaces the pictures without altering the optical centres, and by the roller on this adjuster the noise caused by the "dog" beating on the film is reduced.

Two Spools. Two Lenses. Travelling Case.

WE HIRE FILMS.

Very few showmen can afford to exhibit new films every week. To keep thoroughly up-to-date they must hire. We have thousands of feet of film available, and showmen come to us because they can rely upon us, and know that the film sent will be in good condition. We are always adding to our list. Let us quote you for supplying the film to make your Exhibition a success during the season.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The play this week is Flying from Justice. The part of Haldane Gully is well played by Mr. Sterry Gofton; Mr. William Blake gives a very good portraiture of John Lacarsey; Miss Mary Raby acts most effectively as the adventuress; Miss Florence Nelson makes a success as Mrs. Bearing; and Miss Dorothy Clifton is an attractive Mildred Parkes. All the other members of the company play capably.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Marino's daring feats are followed with breathless interest, the show being one of the most thrilling that has been seen on the local stage. Scottie's Waifs and Strays appear in a capital sketch, depicting Life in the Streets; Mr. R. C. McGill, Scottish comedian, is warmly applauded; the Three Florodora Girls make a decided success with their latest sketch-comedietta, Rival Sweethearts; and Otto and Olga excel as instrumentalists. Among the others artists whose turns prove enjoyable are Brendall and Cooper, clever comedians; Mr. R. C. Note, an exceptionally talented vocalist; and Miss Daisy Devonport, a vivacious comedienne and graceful dancer.

ABERTILLERY.—METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Denton.—Th attraction for Whitsun week- (The Prodigal Parson) is provided by Messrs. Northway and Garrod's company. The name-part is excellently portrayed by Mr. W. O. Garrod; the acting of Miss Gwen Stewart as Fern Godley is excellent; little Miss Violet Jeffries as Myrtle Godley shows promise; Mr. Alfred Northway acts the villain forcibly; Mr. Owen Remonde as Phil Drive and Miss Sybil Hammersley as Gretchen bring the humour of the piece into strong relief; and Mr. William Hayward as Ben Jaggins and Mr. W. Vincent as Ned Kettlepin fill their rôles satisfactorily. Miss Dot Russell's dancing is generally admired.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—On Monday Mr. T. E. Ward opened in Second to None. Mr. Jerrold Heather as Harry Wilding is responsible for an artistic reading of that character; Mr. James Stillwell must be complimented on his impersonation of Capt. Phil Mannering; Sergeant Jack Horseman is well presented by Mr. J. G. Main; Mr. T. Sinclair is a funny Private Flutter; Mr. Louis Norman a good Sir Reginald Graystone;; Miss L. Ward a capital Nell Graystone; Miss Maudie Grayson a satisfactory Norah; and Miss Violet Ennis Lawson an ideal May Graystone.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Parsons.—An excellent bill is presented here this week. It includes the Geni Family in their clever Risley performance; Walter Wade, comedian; the Bros. Adderley, who are heartily received; the Bros. Diamond in their pot-pourri act; Barney Stuart, in character delineations; Tackio, who is very smart; and Martinetti and Wallace, in a pleasing musical turn. The "Hippo" pictures conclude.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—The Unseen Power was presented on Monday night. As Fred Granville, the wronged husband, Mr. Harry Starr is most convincing; Mr. William Miller played the part of Harold Granville with marked ability; Mr. William Firth, as Antonio Romane, was sufficiently crawling and venomous. The lighter parts were entrusted to Mr. F. W. Graham as Horatio Cracklesby, an actor, and Miss Lizzie Jacobs as Jennie Shrub, a barmaid, and their genial buffoonery made the audience laugh. Miss Madge Blundell as the passionate but faithful Anita Romano, Miss Kate Norris as the unfaithful wife who, through brandy and the schemings of the villain, sinks to the streets, Miss Dolly Starr as Chris Granville, and Mr. Will Hee as George Granville all bore their parts very satisfactorily. Other subordinate characters were taken by Miss Lye Jeffries, Messrs. Bernard Mostyn, William Gossett, and Fred Astley. Otto the Outcast was to be performed on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The Empire bill includes the Three Parzones in a knockabout act, The Troubles of an Elephant; Lindsay and Harte, kilted baritone singers; Drum and Major, comedy duo; the Henriques, a trio of clever acrobats of the comic order; Cliff Ryland, "the stolid man"; Mlle. Flora Lumière, the "Human Butterfly," in her fairy grotto; Mr. Edgar Forrest's comedy company in My Friend the Enemy; and the Romsakoff troupe of girls, who give a display of their skill in military drill, and they sing and dance well. "Catch the Kid" is shown on the Bioscope.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chris A. Wordsworth.—The management here relied on picture entertainments for the holiday attraction, and the result has been highly satisfactory. Miss Nellie Burke still continues popular in her songs, which are beautifully illustrated.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. E. Owen.—Mr. H. Leslie Bell and Miss Lily Pearl and company appear to great advantage in the sketch, The Red Letter. Mr. Ormonde Penstone, assisted by Tsaou-Ngo, a clever lady illusionist, gives an interesting conjuring display; the Three Royal Temples, operatic vocalists, are paying a welcome return visit; the Brassos, burlesque acrobats, are responsible for some clever work; Miss Blanche Marion is a delightful comedienne and dancer; a most amusing comedy act is given by the Sivanes; Mr. Percy Curry, in his song-scenas, proves highly diverting; and Mr. E. C. Clayton receives well-merited approval with his Attergraph pictures.

CENTRAL HALL.—Mr. Jasper Redfern, assisted by his courteous acting-manager, Mr. Frederick W. Holmes, has provided an excellent holiday programme, and crowded houses at every performance give proof of the popularity of Mr. Redfern's spirited enterprise. In addition to a splendid series of up-to-date animated pictures, the entertainment is contributed to by Miss Nellie Moore, who cleverly gives impersonations of Dickens' characters; the Cheers, in a comedy speciality act; Mr. Bob Best, comedian; and Miss Lila Lingard, male impersonator.

AYR.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry W. Day.—The two-performances-a-night arrangement was inaugurated here on Monday night, when the Anglo-American Bioscope and variety company provided the entertainment. The bioscope is always attractive, but more especially when the films shown are of first-class quality and absorbing interest, and the reproducing machine up to date. These qualifications were all apparent in this show of the Anglo-American Bioscope Co. Frances Letty made a great hit with her coon singing and dancing; Archie Cameron did well with his pleasant singing and refined humour; the Boston Twins were particularly smart; Jack Neil's turn was well received; Lambeth and Robertson, in their Scotch sketch, Scots Folks' Wooin' were capital.

BACUP.—NEW COURT THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Denman-Wood.—Messrs. P. McLeod Foster and Clarence Napier's company is here this week with the King of Thieves. The drama contains some strong situations, and is not without a series of humorous interludes. Mr. Frank Eaglesfield furnishes a good impersonation of James Galston, being ably supported by Mr. W. Coltman as Luke Kanley and Mr. Percy Dalroy as Dick Perry. Mr. George Wyley gives a manly rendering of Harry Travers; Mr. Tom Robertson appears as the villainous Sir Gilbert Redville; Mr. Rob Lempriere as Arthur Redville makes the most of that character; Mr. Harold Bath is decidedly amusing as Joe Ricketts; Miss Beatrice Balfour acts with much feeling as Mary Galston; Miss May Florance shows considerable ability in her delineation of Maud Desmond; Miss Lucy White is a lively Polly Puff; and Miss Fanny Wallace a successful representative of Mrs. O'Brien.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company in the drama In Holy (?) Russia is the holiday fare this week. Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy gives an admirable portrayal of Renee Rubinoff, and receives well-merited applause; Miss Florence Creagh sustains the character of Catsha Lavotski excellently; Mr. Martin Sands gives a very effective interpretation of Count Petrolski; Mr. Arthur Stratton as Col. Richard Forrest (Uncle Dick) is a constant source of amusement; the Micky Nolan of Mr. J. Rice Cassidy is a true Irish character drawn to nature.

TIVOLI.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edgar G. Laban.—An excellent programme is being presented here this week. The Bellonis top the bill with their wonderful performing cockatoos; Fred Elton, in his speciality piano scena, On Board an Ocean Liner, gives a musical treat; Zeta Grey and company appear in an exceedingly humorous sketch; "The Phanton Ship" is a cleverly manipulated and novel spectacle; Ariel and Astarte, aerial artists, give a clever performance; Edith St. Clair's songs are quickly taken up by the audience; the pictures by Vernon's Bioscope are most interesting.

HIPPODROME.—The British Empire Picture and Variety Company is here this week. The programme is a particularly attractive one, and the pictures are a pleasure to witness.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Egbert Lewis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lewis A. Long.—The Importance of Being Ernest is being presented by Messrs. Hoffe and Campbell's company. Mr. J. Græme Campbell and Mr. Montague Hoffe themselves appear as John Worthing and Algernon Moncrieff, and each enacts his character with excellent results. Miss Hester Newton and Miss Nona Hope as Gwendoline Fairfax and Cecily Cardew make a pleasing pair. Miss Phyllis Manners' talents find scope for some delightful comedy acting in the rôle of Lady Bracknell; Miss Amy Lloyd-Desmond makes a quaint study of Miss Prism; Mr. Ralph Hutton is propriety itself as the Rev. Canon Chasuble; the butler, Merriman, is carefully played by Mr. Arthur Forbes Watts. A well-written playlet, entitled Father Darien, is the curtain-raiser, the parts of a Priest and an Actress being admirably acted by Mr. Ralph Hutton and Miss Hope. The theatre closes after tonight until August, excepting for two flying matinées in June.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—John E. Coyle, the popular comedian, has had a great reception, and to that veteran of song, Harry Anderson, more ovations have been accorded. One of the best single-handed turns seen for a long time is that given by Larola. Will Bacchus still maintains his position as a coster actor-vocalist of the front rank; Winnie Derson and Rose Cabani are comediennes who gain many admirers; the Players give a turn that secures them much applause. Raymond's Bio-tableaux are showing the best and latest films.

SYDNEY GARDENS.—On Whit-Monday Mr. T. R. Gannon gave his eighth successive fête at these charming gardens. In addition to the daring performance of De Ora, three stage entertainments were provided that greatly pleased the crowds assembled.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The above place of amusement was packed on Monday night, when Mr. George Mudie and a specially-selected London company presented The Amateur Socialist. As the lovable old baronet Mr. George Mudie was eminently successful; Mr. E. Y. Rae appeared in his original part as Sergeant Fell, in which his acting was all that could be desired; Inspector Bott was capably presented by Mr. Bruno Holmes; Miss Marie Hudspeth as Lady Pennefeather gave evidence that the part had been carefully studied; a compliment which may be similarly applied to the acting of Mr. John W. Deverell as Spenser Goldwaith Pennefather. Miss Edith Deverell was a handsome and convincing Evelyn Rivers; Mr. Percy Carlton a capital Phillip Wykeham; and Mr. James Martin as Mr. Moberley, and Miss Kate Holmes as Cora Moberley, were extremely good. Lady Mabel Wriothsley was admirably portrayed by Miss Ada Gordon; and Mr. J. Fredericks gave a clever assumption of Pryce.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr James M. McCann.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford and company opened here on Monday in the evergreen comedy The Private Secretary, which met with a capital reception. Mr. W. Hargreaves, who for so many years has played the rôle of Mr. Cattermole, was as usual inimitable in the part; in the title-rôle Mr. Donald Price-Evans was decidedly amusing, presenting an unexaggerated impersonation of the meek clergyman; Miss Dora Gray, a charming actress, made a delightful Edith; Mr. James Hussey was in every sense capable as Harry Marsland; Miss Mary E. Deverell was conspicuous for her skilful impersonation of Eva Webster; Mr. Randolfe Reade was a manly and convincing Douglas Cattermole; Mr. H. Sinclair ably played the part of Mr. Marsland; Mr. V. Gilbert was all that could be desired as Sidney Gibson; and Mrs. Alfred Davis and Miss Cecily Wade appeared to advantage as Miss Ashford and Mrs. Stead. My American Admirer forms a capital curtain-raiser.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—La Pia tops the bill, and her statuary productions have been the theme of the greatest admiration; Athas and Collins, the popular duo, appear in their droll act, The Organ Girl and the Monkey, which has taken well; the Wakemann Quartette, harmonious vocalists, provide a most enjoyable entertainment; Mr. Godfrey James, "the singing collier," has delighted numerous admirers; and Blarney and Kennard, the capital comedians, introduce their clever waltzing dog. The remarkable cycling feats of Mr. Arthur Kenny have created the utmost wonder; and other attractions are the Bros. Lester, the dancing dandies, Miss Sadie Seymour, comedienne, and the Palace Pictures.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Will Sley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Mr. Jas. Mooney and Miss Ida Holbein top the bill, and this clever comedy duo have been very successful. The Bros. O'Brien execute some smart feats on the triple bars; Mr. Ford Williams's fine voice has been heard to the greatest advantage; the Les Montaldos, equilibrists on the slack wire, introduce their highly-trained parrots and cockatoos; Fred and Maude Vypond appear with success in their comedy act; the clever Albano Troupe play a number of musical instruments perfectly; Fyne and Hurley are a most entertaining duo; and other attractions are Harry Russon, The Coon's Revelry, by Barnard's Mannikins, Satsuma, Japanese conjuror, and the new pictures on the Hipposcope.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The leading attraction here is provided by Mr. George Kirk and Co., who present, with every degree of success, their sensational sketch, entitled Grip, or the Fatal Hand; Mendel, the wonderful pianist, returns with his entertaining performance at the piano; the Sisters Jonghmans delight all with their vocalism; Miss Gladys Mavius, assisted by Dot, appears to advantage in her song scena, "Rosie is waiting"; a capital reception has been extended to Mr. Chas. Norton, mimic; Messrs. J. Alexander and Co., create laughter with their merry sketch, Brown in Paris; and the bill is completed by Miss Maude Jester, balladist, and Mr. H. E. High.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sinclair Neill.—The attraction here this week is the fine drama, East Lynne, presented by the Alhambra Dramatic company. The rôle of Lady Isabel is sustained by that charming actress, Miss Nina Blake Adams, with great success; the part of Lord Mountsevern is presented by Mr. Elmore Frith is a dignified manner; Mr. Horace Denton acquits himself admirably as Archibald Carlyle; Miss Kathleen Magee appears to advantage as Barbara; and a humorous interpretation of Dill is submitted by Mr. Tom H. Solly. Francis Levison is realistically portrayed by Mr. Edward M. Heanley; Mr. Cyril Grier as the Policeman could not easily be surpassed; Miss Alice Clarke distinguishes herself as Cornelia Carlyle; Miss Nattie Crawford sustains the double rôle of Joyce and Susanne creditably; and Master Cedric is clever as Willie.

BILSTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Battersby.—Mr. Dicky Clare, who is the comical Silas Slim in Lucky 'Liza, made his welcome appearance here to a big house on Monday, and caused much hilarity. He was supported by Messrs. J. W. Forrest, T. W. Benson, W. Merry, and S. Hynd. As Eliza Bird Miss Madge Brownie was prominent in song and dance; whilst Miss Vesta Brownie and Miss Bella Russell added to the success of the piece, which was appropriately interpolated with special dancing by the Verona Poppies Troupe.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—Mr. Frank Ayrton's company opened here on Whit Monday in The Power of Gold, a piece which appeals strongly to the susceptibilities of the popular parts of the house. Mr. George Lyttleton is conspicuous with a powerful performance of Hadgi Zambra; Mr. R. F. Stacy appears to advanatge as Paul Judson; Mr. Richard Harris gives a vivid picture of the rascalities of Mark Harley; Miss Amy McNeill submits a fine rendering of Lady Brandon; and Miss Hettie Laytine is commendable as Sister Marie.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D J. Clarke.—Mr. George Lashwood, the popular comedian, heads an excellent company, and is renewing previous successes; Mr. Carl Hertz, in his popular illusionary entertainment, is also a prominent feature, and Binns and Binns, clever musical comedians, are in great demand; Mr. Walter Stanley, comedian; Mlle. Alcide Capitaine, gymnast; Mr. Joe Humphries, topical vocalist; Miss Mamie Iris, comedienne; and Brown's Royal Bioscope are also attractive turns.

THE TOWER, NEW BRIGHTON.—Manager, Mr. William Holland.—John Tiller's company of comedians, vocalists, and dancers are here, and present a series of terpsichorean extravaganzas, vocal ballets, and spectacular productions. The performances are given twice daily, at 3.30 and 8 p.m., and the first piece to be staged is Harvest Home, a pastoral vocal spectacular ballet by J. H. Hickory Wood and John Tiller. Several well-known artists take part in this, the company numbering nearly 100 performers.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company in A Royal Divorce is here. Miss Edith Cole's impersonation of the hapless Josephine holds the audience rapt as ever; Mr. Frederick Victor gives the Napoleonic lines and gestures with splendid effect; Miss Agnes Imlay assumes the repellant character of Marie Louise with conspicuous success; Miss Helen Richmond acts with pretty effect as Stephanie de Beauharnais; Mr. Graham Woods delivers himself in a distinguished manner as the Marquis de Beaumont; and Mr. Alfred Grenville acts in a very fitting style as General Augereau. Mr. William Dexter as Talleyrand, Mr. St. George Frere as Murat, Mr. Geo. Hudson as Grimaud, Miss Helen Meadows as Mother Lomas, and Miss Maggie Cardiff as the little King of Rome act in good style.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—San Toy is the attraction presented by Mr. John Hart's company, chief among which is Mr. Horace Mills with his excruciatingly funny and successful portrayal of Li. Mr. Colin Coop purveys the humours of Yen-How to the utmost advantage; Mr. J. W. Manning acts with due "fire" as Sir Bingo Preston; Miss Gertrude Gilliam acts with artless humour and sings with delightful charm and vivacity as San Toy; Miss Lulu Valli comes in for much applause as Dudley; Miss Sylvia May proves a prepossessing Poppy; Mr. Edmund Sherras is a manly and tuneful lover as Captain Bobby Preston; and complete success attends the efforts of Mr. Alfred Clark as the Emperor. Mr. Alfred Majilton as Lieut. Harvey Tucker, Mr. Frederick Hobbs as Fo Hop, Miss May Gould as Rose Tucker, and Mis Madge Quest as Lucy Stanhope. The pas seul in Act II. by Miss Gould is much admired, and the orchestra, under Mr. Harry Rushforth, does excellently well.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—This week we have Mr. Frank M. Thorne's production of Napoleon the Great. The titular rôle is invested with striking dignity and ability by Mr. Hugh Montgomery; Mr. Oliver Birrell lacks nothing as Colonel Lavarennes; Mr. Phil Harper comes out finely as Colonel Meuron; Mr. Frank M. Thorne fills the rôle of Pierre Pompennet to satisfaction; Miss Leslie Warner gives an able and glowing portrayal of Marie Walewska; Miss Maud Russell acts with charm and distinction as Mlle. Leonic Marbœuf; Miss Marie Harcourt appears with exhilarating effect as Marcelle; Mr. Albert Sinclair imbues the Sergeant's rôle with an agreeably robust and humorous spirit; and the other characters are cleverly acted.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Andrew Melville; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hindle Taylor.—Her Luck in London displays Miss Mary Neil in her superlatively clever and pathetic presentment of the wayward heroine, Nell Harborne, supported by Mr. George Kirk's company. Miss Florrie Groves repeats her deliciously humorous impersonation of Maud Gladys, aided by Mr. J. Terry Dillson's comicalities as Jerry; Angelina is well presented by Miss Pamela Hodson; Miss Marie Clavering pictures gaiety and remorse successfully as Mme. Gabriel; Miss Frances Bruce realises the prim, unbending character of Lilian admirably; Mr. Bruce Clapham is successful as the dude, Algie; Mr. Tyrone Power acts with rugged force as the unyielding father, Stephen Harborne; Mr. George Heath draws much opprobrium on the rôle of Lenowen by his clever acting; and Mr. Douglas Tremayne now scores with his manly attitude as the hero, O'Connor.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Mr. F. B. Woulfe and Miss Ethel Griffies and company opened here on Monday with a fine répertoire programme, consisting of Lady Godiva, Nell Gwynne, Claud Duval, Robin Hood, and Jane Shore. In the principal parts Miss Griffies and Mr. Woulfe have been well appreciated, and excellent support has been forthcoming from Mr. Clifford Rean (a well-known favourite in these parts), Mr. Bob Anderson, Mr. Claud Aymond, Mr. Henry Ernestine, Mr. E. Holland Day, and the Misses Victoria Douglas, Gertrude Lucas, and Edith Lorraine.

Theatre Royal, Aston.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles. — Uncle Tom's Cabin is performed here by Mr. Charles Harrington's combination. The Plantation Festival scene gives a splendid variety of turns, including Row and Holden, the Tennesseans, Rich and Moore, Ben Rowe, and Sylvia Stella (Topsy). Mr. J. Carr impersonates the trusty and trustful Tom with all fidelity; and Mr. Chas. Harrington is responsible for a clever and true embodiment of St. Clair. Mr. Leslie Beaufort gives a manly impersonation of George Harris; Mr. J. H. Rogers assumes the brutal character of Legree with considerable success; Mr. Walton Langford is successful as Marks; Miss Hero Hathaway invests the rôle of Eliza with womanly tenderness; and Miss Holly Hazlewood is pathetic and withal fascinating as Eva.

Empire Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Fred Kitchen, better known as Sergeant Lightning, is at his best in Fred Karnos' new sketch, The Bailiff, and in this rôle is literally in possession of all the fun. George Formby, "the odd fellow from Lancashire," is very funny; the Brothers Egbert, in their clever and amusing farce, The Happy Dustmen, provoke roars of laughter; the Brothers Lang also provide much amusement. The humorous Fred Keeton, D'Arc's Marionettes, and the Howards in a comedy-melody are exceedingly clever. Luia Verdie and Edie King command the comedienne and dancing turns respectively.

Gaiety.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Cruickshank, "the fool of the family," easily leads the programme at this house, although he has a strong opposition in a totally different entertainment provided by the Six Yiulians, who, as acrobats are scarcely to be equalled, while the former may appropriately be named "Chirgwin the Second." Geoffreys and Benson, in the sketch Spoofed, give a capital entertainment; while the Ten Dixie Girls give a good show of singing and dancing. Schek Bros., Mill May and Theresa, Fred Land, Cull-Pitt, Two St. Johns, and Beatrice Willey complete a good all-round programme.

Hippodrome. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The world's champion wrestler, Hackenschmidt, tops the bill. Sammy Shields appeals strongly to the football enthusiast with his representations of the excited spectator; Rose and Calvert, in their sketch, are extremely funny; the Sisters Warwick are remarkable trick cyclists; and the Kays present a very pretty scena, entitled The Nightingale. Bertha Lander, in illustrated songs, reveals a sweet and expressive voice; Harry Taft is a splendid natural whistler; and the Jollions, Dolly Golden, Bonmeister, and Goodfellow and Gregson complete a fine programme.

Bordesley Palace.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Herbert Terry's company present a dramatic Russian playlet, entitled Retribution; Mr. Herbert Terry as Prince Ordinoff, and Mr. James Peters and Miss Jessie Danvers as Richard Kirby and his wife respectively, are distinctly good. Chris Richards, who "keeps on moving," creates a good impression; the American Comedy Four are clever vocalists; Ruth Lytton is an excellent Scotch comedienne; Graham, the human marionette; the Twin Sisters Anderson, duettists and dancers, and Astill, the farmyard mimic, are also responsible for capital turns.

BLACKPOOL.—Her Majesty's Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's company is paying another welcome visit here this week with The Belle of New York. Mr. Frank Lawton again presents his quaint impersonation of Blinkey Bill, and Miss Empsie Bowman scores a great success in the part of Violet Grey. Ichabod Bronson finds a capable representative in Mr. Paddy Dupres; Harry Bronson is well sustained by Mr. John Doran; Karl Von Pimpernick is ably accounted for by Mr. Joseph R. Tate; and Mr. Alfred Sandoe has a part that suits him completely in Doc Snifkins. Miss Lily Maxwell as Fifi, Miss Florence Hersee as Kissie Fitzgarter, and Miss Winnie Brown as Cora Angelique also act, sing, and dance in a manner that gives the utmost satisfaction.

Grand Theatre.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mme. Jane Hading appeared here at a matinée on Saturday last in Frou-Frou, and aroused the enthusiasm of a large audience to a remarkable extent, the gifted actress being recalled half a dozen times at the close. The Whitsun attraction is Peter's Mother, played by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company. Miss Lilias Earle makes an ideal Lady Mary Crewys, and Mr. E. F. Meads has caught the right spirit in his assumption of the selfish Peter. Mr. Henry Renouf contributes a powerful reading of John Crewys, Q.C., and Mr. Ernest Ruston makes an admirable Sir Timothy. The Canon Birch of Mr. William Mallalieu and the Dr. Blundell of Mr. Drew Mackintosh are also very capable character sketches; and Miss Hilda Sims as Sarah Hewell, Miss Evelyn Shelley as Lady Belstone, and Miss Mallalieu as Miss Crewys likewise merit high commendation. Chalk and Cheese is the curtain-raiser.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The holiday-makers are assembling here in full force twice daily this week, and at every performance they show warm appreciation of the excellent programme provided. The three important places on the bill are respectively occupied by Mlle. Irma Casen's company in an exhibition of living art bronzes, Joe Boganny's Lunatic Bakers in an immensely entertaining comedy risley act, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Lucas in Scenes from Dickens. Other clever turns are contributed by Alexandre and Hughes, musical comedians; Tom Stuart, in character-sketches from famous plays and novels; Flockton-Foster's comedy company in a sketch; Venie Clements, comedienne; Little Cluley, minature comedian; Lily Black, comedienne; and Ida Kathrena, in a pleasing scena. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope continues to interest and entertain.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. T. P. Duigan.—A capital holiday bill is set forth here, the place of honour being held by Austin Rudd in his latest successes; the Howards, mental telepathists, are also a favourite turn. Norah Desmond sings old Irish ballads very tunefully; Ruth Dorris dances gracefully; Ada Twibell is a favourite comedienne; Dale and Vale appear in their artistic dancing turn with quick changes; Sylvo plays musical glasses; and Ted Young is a clever comedian.

Winter Gardens Pavilion.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The week's attraction here consists of a grand ballet divertissement, entitled At the Ball, together with a capital variety entertainment supplied by Imro Fox, the comic conjuror; Margaret Bell, ballad vocalist; the Four Magnanis, in an eccentric musical act; Prece and Riwost, in a tumbling performance; the Idanis Family, gymnasts; the Palace Girls, in their latest creation, entitled The Parisian Lady Cabbies; and Scener and Fridkins' Imperial Russian Troupe of singers and dancers, in their national costume.

Tower Circus.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop.—"House Full" has been the notice posted up here at almost every performance during the holidays. Some excellent talent has been engaged, including George Bonhair's troupe of risley acrobats; Claude Ohmy, the daring jockey; the Three Orros, in feats of strength and skill; Lotto, Lilo, and Otto, cycle experts; the Sisters Deering, acrobatic equestriennes; the Egertons, in a trapeze act; Herr Addison's troupe of performing fox-terriers; Jim and Jenny Lee, wire walkers; the Warsaw Bros., musical comedians; August and September, aptly described as laughter-raisers; and the Piccolinis, liliputian wonders, in acrobatic and cycle feats.

North Pier.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. James Walker.—An excellent entertainment is provided here this week by Mr. Sydney James's Royal Strolling Players. Their répertoire consists of songs, dances, and sketches, and is contributed to by Misses Madeline Rossiter, Seymour James, and Clarice May, and Messrs. Victor Wallace, G. W. Desmond, and Sydney James. Their efforts have met with the most cordial reception at every performance.

Victoria Pier.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Geo. Roberts.—The artists engaged here this week are Mme. Annie Walker, soprano vocalist; Teddy Whittle, humorist; and George Rozle's troubadours. Herr Blome's orchestra concerts are given twice daily.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. A. C. Moody.—The engagement of Mr. Wm. Mollison and company in Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush has proved a great success. Mr. Mollison, in his powerful impersonation of Lachlan Campbell, had an enthusiastic reception on Monday; Mr. W. A. Mackeray sustained the part of William MacClure in a commendable manner; the Wee Postie of Mr. Alec F. Thompson won favour; and Miss Evelyn McNay made a charming Flora Campbell.

Gaiety.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. G. E. Good.—Appearing here with success are the Frohmans, patterers and dancers; J. H. Heffron, character comedian; and Leslie Bennett in Living Characters from Dickens. The Bioscope is also an attraction.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. William Tudor.—A capital holiday programme is submitted here, consisting of pictures and good variety turns.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—Terry and Lambert submit a clever turn with their imitations of different street characters; Arthur Reece is successful with his latest songs; the Melroses, old pantomime favourites, gain much applause for their humorous turn; the Athlones, Sandow's models, submit some classical poses and feats of strength; the ponies and dogs of Rochez' Circus give evidence of careful training; Flo Cecil and Amy Sullivan are dainty comediennes. The Hippodrome Pictures conclude a good holiday bill.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—a crowded audience on Monday night greeted, with much enthusiasm, Mr. H. B. Irving and company in The Bells. Mr. Irving as Mathias held his audience spellbound in a performance which was powerful and striking. He was finely supported by Mr. E. Harcourt Williams as Christian, Mr. Charles Dodsworth as Father Walter, and Mr. Tom Reynolds as Hans. Miss Ada Mellon was admirable as Catherine, and Miss May Holland gracefully filled the part of Annette. At the termination of the piece Mr. Irving was called again and again before the curtain. In the charmingly-staged one-act play, King René's Daughter, which preceded the drama, Mr. Harcourt Williams as Count Tristram and Miss Madge McIntosh as Iolanthe earned distinction. The Lyons Mail and Charles the First are billed for representation during Mr. Irving's stay here.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Mr. Harry Roxburgh's company is here with Messrs. Fred Moule and E. W. Avery's stirring drama, A Little Vagrant, as the holiday attraction. Mr. Cecil A. Collins gives a capital character-study of the brutal Jim Harris; Poll, "the daughter of sorrow," affords Miss Vashti Wynne fine scope, and she makes the most of her opportunities; in the title-rôle Miss Alice Bowes is effective; Mr. Stanley Redcliffe plays the villain, Eric Arden, with force; and Mr. J. N. Gallacher as Slideaway Bates and Miss Bella Moody as the servant bring out the comic relief well.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—The charming comedienne, Lil Hawthorne, is the bright particular star here this week, graceful and captivating as ever. The Neilson Sisters submit a good turn as duettists and dancers; in a comedy act on the triple-bar Mezzetti and Mora are smart and entertaining; Will English is a quaint comedian of pleasing originality; Charles Kitts and Rhoda Windrum submit a most effective sketch; Ray Wallace, the charming mimic, is on a return visit; the Lupino Bros. are again diverting the audience with capital pantomime and comedy; there is some excellent vocalism by the Four Royal Welshmen; Nora Emerald, comedienne, submits an acceptable turn; and Donaldson Bros. and Ardel, the clever pantomimists, are responsible for roars of laughter with their "Zoological Comedy."

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten, Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Ralli.—Florrie Forde, comedienne, of recent pantomime fame here, is very popular this week. A clever comedy juggling turn by Bonnetti and Corri finds much favour; Leo King, baritone, submits songs in good style; with their wonderfully-trained dogs and ponies and a revolving table Ardy and Bushman entertain largely; Bell and Butt are diverting comedians; Gold and Sterling are highly amusing with a musical comedy scena, The Welsh Girl and the Artist; Bertha Winder is a charming and clever dancer; Marvelle and May's wonderfully-trained birds are entertaining; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux show some fine pictures.

BRIDLINGTON. — Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—The vocalist this week is Miss Violet Ludlow. In the Grand Pavilion Mr. Flockton-Foster's "Costume Entertainers" are a great attraction, the various members of the company being warmly applauded for their various songs and concerted pieces.

New Spa and Gardens.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr. Harry Hague.—Herr Simon Wurm and his Imperial Viennese Band have caught on at the Spa, and their performances have drawn crowded audiences. Special programmes were provided for the Whitsuntide holidays, the programmes on Sunday and Monday being especially attractive. The vocalist for the week is Miss Mary Fielding, a very pleasing soprano, whose singing is highly appreciated Mr. Sydney James's "Rustic Scholars" have been delighting the Spa patrons with their capital programmes, the charmingly rendered duets and dances of the Misses Aileen and Doris Woods, the New Zealand Twins, being a source of great delight; Mr. Alfred Wooton and Mr. Harker Nicholls are capital entertainers, and Mr. Gilbert Fernie is highly amusing.

The Palace.—Managers, Messrs. J. W. and W. H. Delmar.—The company this week includes the Dewars, comedy sketch artists; J. C. Oliver, illusionist; Wallace Whitney, eccentric comedian; Miss Beatie Foster, comedienne; and Gus Fowler, society entertainer. The Parisian Animated Picture Company shows some fine pictures.

Summer Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Beanland.—That popular combination, the Waterloo Pierrots, opened their season on Monday, when they delighted large crowds. The lessees, who are great favourites with the visitors, have secured some new talent, in addition to the old and well-tried hands, and the programme submitted was evidently to the liking of the patrons of the Gardens.

BRIGHTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company is here this week with The White Chrysanthemum. Miss Muriel George gives a charming enactment of the title-rôle; Mr. Langdon Bruce is highly successful as Lieut. Reginald Armitage; Mr. H. E. Garden acquits himself admirably as Chippy; Mr. St. John Hamund sustains the part of the Admiral in good style; Mr. Richard Telford is very amusing as Sin-Chong; Mr. Harry Paulton, jun., makes an entertaining Private Perks; Miss Wilmot Karkeek is vivacious as an American heiress; and Miss Dorothy Sephton is a winsome young widow. The choruses are well sung, and the duties of conductor are in the able hands of Mr. J. M. Hutchison. At Thursday's special London matinée Mr. Cyril Maude and his entire Playhouse company gave a performance of Toddles.

Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Messrs. Ernest Carpenter and Cooper's company opened here on Monday with The Spider and the Fly. Mr. Ellis J. Preston gave a powerful impersonation of Welby Girdlestone; Mr. Benson North achieved great success as Cyril Girdlestone; Miss Amy Venimore submitted an artistic portrayal of Stella Grey; Miss Nina Vaughton made an excellent Edith McAlister; Mr. H. C. Lanceley as the Rev. Mr. McAlister presented a fine character-study; Mr. Charles A. Preece as Remus Roe and Mr. Charles Russell as Romulus Roe were entertaining; Mr. Arthur H. Hill's David Strong was a capital enactment; and Miss Lucy Murray's Molly Blake and Mr. Robert Castle's Jack Naylor were well played.

Alhambra.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—An excellent bill of fare is provided here this week. The Davis and Gledhill Trio are highly successful in their latest sensation, Man v. Motor; James Eadie and Cissie Ramsden win hearty applause in their comedy duo, Charlie's Visit; the Brothers Poluski evoke much laughter and enthusiasm by their drolleries in The Prevaricator; the Three Amaranths are clever acrobatic dancers; Bernard and Weston, comedians, are cordially received; Sid Bandon gives his songs in capital style; Frances Manners is an accomplished ballad vocalist; Edith Sylvesto is a clever contortionist; Lottie Govell is a neat comedienne and dancer; and the Alhambrascope pictures are amusing.

Hippodrome Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is a capital company here this week. Fred Karno's company, including Mr. Rolando Martin, achieve distinct success in the musical pantomimical extravaganza, Saturday to Monday; Edwin Boyde, comedian, keeps the house rippling with laughter; Lillie Soutter, character comedienne, is also highly amusing; the San Remo Girls are charming singers and graceful dancers; the Five Vernons are accomplished xylophonists; C. Rozel, speciality gymnast, is well received; Nellie Chandos, comedienne, is very effective; Cherry Lass is a dainty comedienne and dancer; and the Barrascope pictures are interesting and amusing.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Norman Macowan's company opened here on Monday with Monsieur Beaucaire. Mr. Norman Macowan in the title-rôle displayed easy and convincing acting; Miss Violet Sterne gave a charming portrayal of Lady Mary Carlisle; Mr. Murray Hathorn was highly successful as the Duke of Winterset; Mr. P. Ramsey Forman submitted an admirable impersonation of Captain Badger; and the remaining characters were ably sustained. The programme for the week also includes A Marriage of Convenience. The band of the Hon. Artillery Company gives morning, afternoon, and evening performances on the pier, which prove very attractive.

Palace Pier Theatre.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company is here this week with The Gay Parisienne. Miss Alice Nixon is a pleasing and vivacious Mlle. Julie Bon-Bon; Mr. Clifford Seyler is well suited as M. Pompier; Mr. William Harman's Ebenezer Honeycombe is a droll enactment; Miss Madge Soutter makes a quaint Ruth; Mr. Squire Day is capital as the peppery Major Forsdyke; and the minor characters are satisfactorily represented. The Imperial Glee Singers add to the enjoyment of the audience.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. William Maclaren and Miss Lily C. Bandmann's company is here in a revival of Claudian. Mr. Maclaren presents a fine exposition of Claudian, playing the part with power and dignity; Miss Bandmann is in every way admirable as Almida; Miss Rosa Webster is pleasing as Serena; Mr. Edmund Grogan does full justice to Theorus; Mr. Ulik Burke displays elocutionary ability as the Hermit; Belos and Edessa are capitally taken by Mr. C. T. Chaloner and Miss Maud Garth; Mr. Owen Chambers is sufficiently powerful as the Tetrarch; and Mr. Douglas Earle does well as Agazel. The remaining parts are all carefully played, and Miss Amy Hardcastle introduces a skilful dance.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—Hearts Adrift is being performed here by Mr. Frank Bertram's company. Mr. Henry Bedford presents a telling impersonation of Captain Teddy; Mr. Fred Terriss makes a good part of Edmund Gerne; Mr. Gwyn-Richardson makes the most of John Lane; Mr. Cecil Klein acts well as Robert Darney; Mr. S. Feversham is effective as Pidgeon; Miss Gertrude Harrison displays considerable power as Julia Lane; Miss Nellie Clyde and Miss Irene Ross are pleasing as Rosie and Little Tim; Miss Kitty Kirwan acts capitally as Peggy McGuire, scoring also in song and dance; and Miss Beatrice A. Bell and Mr. Bryan Daly are amusing as Energy Mugs and Simeon Green, their burlesque boxing match causing hilarity.

Palace Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Gunner Moir is giving successful exhibitions of boxing here; Harry Mansfield, a local boxer, tried conclusions with him on Monday evening, and the bout between Moir and Tiger Smith is shown by the Bioscope. Others meeting with success are Herbert Clifton, who successfully mimics well-known lady vocalists; Gertrella, soubrette and gymnast, in her scena, Near the Zuyder Zee; Ernest Montefiore and company in the dramatic and musical sketch, The Little Colonel; Harry and Lucy Wilton, duettists and dancers; Hetty Chattell, character burlesque artist; Billy Hobbs, coon comedian; and the Three Clarions, in a musical absurdity, The Would-be Tenor. The performance concludes with amusing animated pictures.

Empire.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Hymack, quick-change comedian, submits an attractive turn. Other appreciated items are those of Les Molasses, Continental cyclonic dancers; Frederick Maxwell and company in the sporting episode, Lord Harkaway; Fred Cary, comedian; the Firmans, in their speciality, The Fire Station; Madge Osmond, male impersonator; Joe Archer, comedian; Nellie Lewis, comedienne; and a new series of animated pictures.

Zoological Gardens. — Superintendent, Captain E. W. B. Villiers.—Mr. Tom Wood, of Whitehall-road, Bristol, provided the variety entertainment for the Whitsun holiday fête, the artists being the Ashley Team of American Pantomime skaters; Marie Tilley, coster comedienne and top-boot dancer; Dave Wallace, comedian; Sylvene, in a strong show; Brothers Selbo, comedy acrobats; Pattie Brooks, serio and dancer; France and Francis, comedians; and Richard Evans and company in the sketch, A Fight for a Fiver. Mr. Tom Weymouth's excellent band played selections.

Colston Hall.—The St. Louis Animated Pictures are here for a short season with a highly satisfactory holiday programme, including films of the visit of the Colonial Premiers to Bristol, and a large selection of interesting subjects.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Miss Violet Osmond's company in The New Barmaid is here. Miss Maisie Gay is delightful in the title-rôle; Miss Violet Osmond as Dora Heather sings and dances well; Mr. Alex. Loftus as Bertie White is capital, and with Mr. James Grant as William White and Mr. Charles Adeson as Mons. Bonsor much laughter is evoked; a fine old colonel is portrayed by Mr. Frank Collins; and Mr. James Hawkes is a good Captain Lovebury; Miss Graham as Brenda and Miss Mabel Harrison as Lady Moulton are seen to advantage.

BURNLEY. — Victoria Opera House. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The Corsican Brothers is being capitally performed here this week by Messrs George T. Metcalf and Sidney Bland's company. The dual rôle of Fabien and Louis Franchi is in the capable hands of Mr. Sydney Bland. The villainous character of Chateau Renaud is well brought out by Mr. Leonard Cheetham; and Mr. Robert Pittard is excellent as Baron Montgiron; Miss Katherine Herbert is praiseworthy as Mme. Franchi; and Miss More Dunphi gives a clever performance as Emilie Lesparre; Mr. Ashmore Vincent does well as Alfred Meynard; and Mr. Arthur W. Jones makes the most of his opportunities as Baron Martelli. The play is preceded by a clever one-act comedy, A Young Man, which is greatly appreciated.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—A brilliant programme is submitted here this week. The Royal Banzai Family give an exciting display of balancing; the Leslie Bros. keep the house in roars of laughter with their gags and grotesque antics; and Emma Don, on a return visit, produces some charming melody; Talberto and Douglas are a funny couple in a ball walking act; and Farr and Farland are a smart pair of humorists; the Three Rubys give a pleasing acrobatic turn; Gladys and Alber are clever tumblers; Winnie Scotts provides an acceptable turn; and the Empire Theatrescope, with the Cape to Cairo Railway, is greatly appreciated.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — New Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. H. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—The Fitzroys are extremely clever trapeze artists; Welda and Wynne, in their threefold capacity of jugglers, dancers, and tumblers, are well received; the amusing patter of Frank Zara comes in for a large share of applause; Los Rupertos are responsible for some wonderful feats of balancing; Katie Eplett sings and dances well; the conjuring tricks of Professor Earle are skilful and interesting; the miniature circus of The Spangeletti is greatly enjoyed; capital pictures are produced by the Operascope.

BURY (Lancs.). — Theatre Royal and Opera House, Ltd.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—Mr. Jack Haddon's company is playing the drama Under the Russian Flag here this week. Mr. Haddon is capital as Michael Romanoff, and is well assisted by Miss Marie Rayner as Luka Marischla. Mr. Charles Stafford as Ivan Romanoff, Mr. Sydney Arnold as Captain Demetrius, and Miss Violet Lytton as Vera Vasiloff are all well placed. Good fun is provided by Miss Molly Hackett as Ogarita, Mr. Templer Ellis as Alexis, and Mr. Hal Forde as Peter Pouski.

The Circus.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Walter Mould.—The Ottograph display of pictures is being continued again this week. Variety turns are given by Flo Chevalier, vocalist, and Master May, vocalist.

The Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. H. Broadhead, jun.—A good programme here includes Squire Wyndham and Tom Waters, in an amusing act, entitled The Professor and His Pupil; J. H. Darnley and Company in a farcical play, What a Night; Mlle. Collard and her wonderful dog; Wilfrid Gregory, contortionist; Greener, singing pit lad; Ella Beaumont, singer and dancer; Adams and Rouse, in a vocal playlet; and the Edwards Trio of vocalists, who sing charmingly.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Eade Montefiore.—The famous native choir from Jamaica forms the holiday attraction here. On Monday an excellent programme, consisting of humorous and sentimental songs, choruses, &c., were presented to an appreciative audience.

BUXTON.—Opera House.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—For Whit week we have Mr. Harold V. Neilson and company in The Perfect Lover and The Glass of Fashion. On Bank Holiday there was a full house to witness Mr. Sutro's clever play, and it was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Harold V. Neilson's Joseph Tremblett is a clever study; and Mr. W. Lemmon Warde was admirably suited as William Tremblett. A perfectly natural Lord Cardew came from Mr. Bernard Limpus; and Mr. H. Gomer May gave a well-studied rendition of John Collis. Miss Edith Dent acted in talented fashion as Mrs. Joseph Tremblett; and Miss May de Launey plays sympathetically as May. A really capital picture of the ready-tongued Hon. Susan Lesson is submitted by Miss Lucy Sibley; and Miss Amy Sangster plays with commendable restraint the character of Lilian Tremblett.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company opened here on the Bank Holiday with Dr. Wake's Patient, and it proved a very interesting play. Mr. Arthur Burne as Dr. Forrester Wake gave a capital study of the part; and Miss Fyfe Alexander fairly captivated the audience as Lady Gerania. Mr. Alfred Ibberson was also very good as Andrew Wake; whose wife was finely given by Miss Kate Osborne. Mr. Tom Macfarlane as Duff rendered the part quite satisfactorily; the Earl of St. Olbyn (Mr. George Newton) and the Countess (Miss Georgie Trewman) played naturally; and Miss Beatrice Fitzgerald made a charming Harriet Bronson.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Mr. Lewis Waller's company, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Whittaker, is here in Robin Hood. Mr. Robert Minster fills the title-rôle with much vigour, and makes a commanding impersonation; and Miss Marie Polini as Lady Marian de Vaux presents a charming and thoroughly convincing delineation. The hearty Little John is enacted with much skill by Mr. Leslie Rea; Mr. Augustus Wheatman's Friar Tuck is a rendition brimful of genuine mirth; while clever representations are most correctly filled by Mr. E. C. Vaughan (King Richard), Mr. Bellenden Clarke (Prince John), Mr. Arthur Willerby (Fitz-Alwynne), and Mr. H. Elliott Ball (Hugo de Longespee). As Adela, Miss D. Moore Lane is quite at her ease with the difficulties of the part; Miss Mabel Young acts Queen Eleanor with considerable power; while other parts which deserve special mention are Sir Aymer le Boteller by Mr. Val Glynn, the Abbot of Mr. C. Bruce Winston, the Will Scarlet of Mr. Laurance Tessier, the Miller by Mr. Ben Lewin, and the Aleson Much of Miss Lilyan Lait.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—On Monday and Tuesday A Modern Adventuress was presented by the author, Mr. Lingford Carson. Mr. Charles Draycott as Pietro Donelli gives a capital delineation; while Miss Muriel Thompson as Violet Meredith enacts the trying part of the adventuress with undoubted ability and skill. Miss Marie Robson makes a charming heroine as Yivette Delby; and Mr. Will White as John Crompton is responsible for some clever acting. On Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday The Ticket-of-Leave Man, The Octoroon, and The Shaughraun were respectively performed, while for the remaining night A Modern Adventuress was again billed.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. W. Lea; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—The famous Tyrolean giantess, Mariedl, is delighting the hugh audiences. Neil Kenyon, Scotch comedian, is being accorded a hearty reception, his wit and patter being decidedly fresh. Another pleasing turn is Billy McClain and company, including Mlle. Cordella, in a Southern scena, The Hottest Coon from Dixie. Ross and Grayson, a quaint couple, in a musical, singing, and dancing act, are very good; Gintaro is a clever Japanese equilibrist and top-spinner; while Lindon's vaudeville entertainers in a comedy mélange, Monks at Play, are extremely pleasing. Browning and Wally give a refined acrobatic and dental act; Marzella's troupe of wonderfully-trained birds are astonishing to behold; Frank Cumminger is a splendid sand dancer; and Horace White is certainly a novel and clever ventriloquist.

CARLISLE.—H. M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—Trilby is being played by the new stock Company. Mr. William J. Miller depicts Svengali in a manner worthy of high praise; his make-up and business were cleverly effective, and evoked genuine appreciation. Miss Mabel Rose in the title-rôle also contributes a performance full of dramatic power; Mr. Gerald Byrne is popular as Taffy, and Mr. Edward Beecher makes an amusing Sandy. Little Billie is nicely played by Mr. Harry Douglas; and Zou-Zou has a capable representative in Captain A. E. Winnington-Barnes. Miss Emma Rainbow, Miss Georgie Whyte, Mr. Frank Fuller, and Mr. Phil Davis, make the most of smaller parts.

The Palace.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Ltd; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—One of the most interesting items is C. Emlyn Jones and his quartette of lady international singers, who appear in a vocal scena which is exceptionally well staged, beautifully dressed, and sung in a manner which provoked the utmost enthusiasm. A clever cycling act is that provided by the Villions, their acrobatic work being neat, daring, and original. Mr. Harry Claff sings a capital song with a rousing chorus in first-rate style; a few minutes of singing, comedy, and dancing accurately describes a smart and well-worked act by Allis and Cassati; Lieut. Albini performs some amazing feats in the way of illusions, which are warmly received; the Sisters Darnton, duettists, and Dot Hardy, character comedienne, give pleasing turns, and some capital new pictures by the Pepiscope conclude.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; Business-Manager, Mr. W. H. Emerson.—The current programme here offers excellent entertainment, the bill being headed by the Venturinis in their illusion of "Creating Two Women Out of Nothing," and the audience are truly mystified. Miss May Zant and her Royal Juveniles sing and dance in sprightly style; Winckler, Continental conjurer, is well received; Le Warren is an accomplished ventriloquist; the Danas work well, and thoroughly deserve the applause accorded them; and Mr. Harry Hayton's abilities as a humorist are fully recognised. New series of films by the Loyal Dominion Co. meet with a hearty reception.

CHATHAM. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Mr. Edmund Tearle's company opened here on Monday with The Octoroon, Mr. Tearle giving a powerful and popular impersonation of Salem Scudder. Mr. A. D. Adams made a capital Jacob M'Closky; Mr. R. H. Lace was a pleasant Mr. Sunnyside; and one of the hits of the piece was Mr. J. A. Keogh's amusing antics as Pete. Other appreciated performances were Paul (Miss Ellen Armor), Wah-no-Tee (Mr. Ernest Lodge), Zoe (Miss Esther Tearle), Dora Sunnyside (Miss Mary Campbell), and George Peyton (Mr. Bernhardt Turner). The programme for the remainder of the week includes It's Never Too Late to Mend, The Three Musketeers, and Othello.

Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Harry Luck, comic vocalist; the Elvio Trio, in a funny knock-about absurdity; Edie Anderson, whose songs are principally of the coon order; Windermere and Manifield, in a neat duologue; Little Tich Bourne, a diminutive singer and dancer, who displays much ability; the Six Lancashire Lasses, all smart dancers; Walker and Lake, quaint patter comedians; and Max Waldon, a brilliant female impersonator. Lacey's Erascope has a good film in "The Squatter's Daughter."

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Frank J. Dorme—Captain Davis's holiday bill of fare includes Little Dando; Jolly Crissie Cross, singer of smart songs; Marco, illusionist and conjurer; May Henderson, who, as usual, scores a brilliant success; Will Lynn, vocalist; Probyn and Bates, who cause plenty of fun; Park's Eton Boys, who are prime favourites, and pictures by the Edisonograph.

CHELTENHAM.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. Oswald Redford.—Raffles, the Amateur Cracksman, is meeting with enthusiastic appreciation here this week. Mr. Leonard Boyne as Raffles simply revels in his work, and drew forth unstinted praise from a large and enthusiastic audience. Curtis Bedford, the detective, is powerfully represented by Mr. E. W. Thomas; Harry Manders ("Bunny"), as played by Mr. Lewis Edgard is a fine study; Mr. Arthur Willoughby well fills the part of the Earl of Amersteth, as does Mr. Edmund Breon that of Viscount Crowley. The burglar of the "Bill Sikes" type is artistically played by Mr. Dalziel Heron; Miss Jane Savile gives us a pretty and charming impersonation of Gwendoline Conran; Miss Elaine Inescourt admirably sustains the part of Mrs. Vidal; Miss Alys Rees and Miss Jean Morrison both play neatly the parts of Lady Melrose, and her daughter, Lady Ethel respectively. Miss Jean Harkness does well as Marie; and other characters are ably filled by Messrs. Charles Kean, W. Henty, and Arthur Fitzgerald.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The chief item on this week's programme is May Lillian Levey, comedienne, who meets with a great reception. Phil Bransby, coster comedian, is highly successful; Tate and Tate, in a comedy acrobatic act, are responsible for much merriment; Eustace and Eyre submit a novel ventriloquial act; the Currie trio appear in song and dance; W. L. Murry, the Roman gladiator, astonishes everyone with his skill; Rawson and Bertram present the skit, The Would-be Actors, with success; Dolly Denver gains favour as a buck and wing dancer; and Vernon's Bioscope, with "The False Coiners" and "The stormy winds do blow," completes a capital bill.

CHORLEY (Lancs). — Grand

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. P. W. Willard.—The Palace opened its doors for one week over the holidays, and has been doing big business. Lilith, the aerial mystery, tops the bill, and makes a great impression. The rest of the company is made up of the Brothers Allison, a couple of cross-talk comedians; Edwards and Dacre, in a comic sketch; Miss F. Preis, contralto; Mr. Edgar Berte, comedian; Miss Katie Marsh, comedienne and mimic; the Danbrooks, who give a smart musical turn; Probyn and Bates, singers and dancers; and Miss Lillian Warren, who sings to some pretty pictures. Happy Attwood, comedian; Miss Peggy Fame, comedienne and dancer; Carden and Hayes, society entertainers; Miss Nellie Gannon, descriptive vocalist; and Harry Wright, extempore singer, also entertain. The Lunar Quintette, consisting of Misses Blanche Woodford, Adelaide Chadwick, and Florence Forester and Messrs. Norton Greenop and Eustace Cleeve, give al fresco entertainments in the grounds.

OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Bertram C. Ross; Manager, Mr. A. Sargant.—Mr. Ross, from the Duchess, Balham, has taken this place for the season. Redecorated and with the electric light it is now a thoroughly smart little place. Variety entertainments are to be given, and this week the following company have been playing to good houses: Bosanquet, with his Bosanquephone; Ernest Bull, a smart actor-vocalist; Fred Bishop, siffleur and bird mimic; Sisters St. Clair, duettists and dancers; Edgar Budden, a clever roller skate dancer; Mme. Di Cashello, an operatic singer with a fine voice; Geo. Lennard, comedian; Miss Cissie Avondale and Miss Ena May, in a song-scena, The Garden of Roses; and Jury's Bioscope.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Harold Montague; Manager, Mr. E. J. Barrett.—Mr. Montague, with his troupe of "Vagabonds," has opened here, and smart shows are given by the following: Mesdames Olive Spark, Leslie Lulu, Marie Longmore, Messrs. Leslie Burgiss, Claude Montague, and the Chief Vagabond himself.

WESTCLIFF GARDENS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Graham, Russell, and Bentley.—This ever-popular place of entertainment opened last Saturday. Several good alterations have been made, and record business has been done over the holidays. The three proprietors are practically their own star artists, each of them being an excellent comedian. This week they have had the assistance of Miss Amy Snow-Page, a sweet singer; Mr. Owen Clark, a clever conjurer, and Mr. Hubert Baker, a fine baritone. Mr. Jefferson is an accomplished pianist.

AL FRESCO entertainments on the beach are those of Claud North, near the pier, and a new show this year—Harry Frewin's White Coons—on the west beach near the jetty. The Volunteer band played when they could on the Council's bandstand.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—A packed house assembled on Monday to witness the farcical comedy, In the Soup, by Mr. Leigh Lovell's company, with Mr. Lovell himself in the rôle of Horace Gillibrand. Miss Octavia Kenmore was eminently successful as Judith Gillibrand; and the parts of Mme. Moppert and her step-daughter were nicely taken by Miss Kate Maynard and Miss Dora Levis respectively. Mr. Arthur McCulloch made an ideally irate Anglo-Indian, Judge Ruppershaw; and the peculiarities usually associated with excitable Frenchmen were admirably depicted by Mr. Calvert Haws. Mr. Laurie Hunter was well placed as the butler; and the part of Paul Hemming was taken by Mr. G. Saville. The latter portion of the week was allotted to Mr. Charles Macdona's company in the comedy Dr. Wake's Patient.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The chief turn here is that amusing up-to-date absurdity, Motoring, enacted by Mr. Harry Tate's competent company. Mahatma pleased and mystified everyone; Mr. J. Wright, Aitken, and company, in the playlet, The Devil's Hand, proved an attractive turn; Gwennie Gwynne, chic comedienne, was much admired; and the eccentricities of Mark Lane caused screams of laughter. Harry Cotton scored as a comedian; Bessie Travis proved a very entertaining young ventriloquist; and Vesta Fay did well as a male impersonator.

CONSETT.—NEW THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance.—Messrs. A. Hamilton Warden and Charles V. Sandford's company, with A Woman's Past, is here this week. Mr. Horace E. Herbert is successful as David Heath; and as Frank Dellamy Mr. Charles V. Sandford is highly amusing. Mr. Hamilton Warden is an able Clement Harper; and as Uriah Craven Mr. G. Moreton Williams is sufficiently villainous to merit the disapprobation of the audience. Miss Maisie Hanbury soon wins the favour of the house by her careful acting of Bessie; and as Clare Darrell Miss Eva Bertram is well placed. Miss Mary Mallalieu is very pleasing as Dorothy Heath; and the remaining characters are well filled by the other members of the company. The drama is excellently staged.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Rollo Balmain and Miss Sara Mignon opened a week's engagement here on Monday in Our Flat. It was well received and caused genuine amusement. Miss Sara Mignon as Margery Sylvester gave an interesting rendering; Miss Miriam Holt as Lucy McCullum acted with much grace; and the part of Bella was humorously taken by Miss Louie West. Miss May York as Madam Volant was successful. Mr. Rollo Balmain in the rôle of Nathaniel Glover gave a capital reading; as Reginald Sylvester, Mr. Sydney Leyton acted with great skill; Mr. Langford Reed as Clarence Vane also acquitted himself well; and Mr. J. W. Braithwaite as Mr. McCullum fitted the part admirably. East Lynne is also in the répertoire. At the close a capital cinematograph exhibition was given.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—There is a capital bill of fare provided here this week. Harry Maynard, character comedian, renders his songs in good style; Letta and Minnie introduce a novel hand-jumping and musical act; Madge Daly, comedienne, pleases; Kahn and Kahn quite mystify the audience; Johnny Worman, comedian, sings catchy songs; the Brooklands perform pretty dances; Frank Newbury pleases with his whistling selections; Stanley and Vandyke, in a sketch, entitled A Broken Promise, cause much laughter; R. Dunning, in a laughable ventriloquial performance, uses five figures, and the cinematograph shows the latest pictures.

COVENTRY.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance.—Mike S. Whallin, who was to have appeared here, was prevented by a serious accident, and his place was ably filled by Will Rogers, lasso expert, with his cowboys and ponies; Wilson and Waring are successful as comedy artists; Oswald Williams gives some clever sleight-of-hand tricks; Leo Stormont gives a clever recitation; Little Zola creates roars of laughter; Frank Maura, the Mexican equilibrist, is expert as a table balancer; and Jimmy Shields is successful as the one-legged comedian.

THE OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Large houses are being attracted by a visit of The Village Blacksmith, which is presented by Messrs. Dottridge, Longden, and Livesey's company. The piece contains many thrilling episodes, including the great wrestling match. As the title-rôle Mr. Sam Livesey gives a clever piece of acting; Miss Maggie Edwards as Kate Strong being very successful. Mr. Joseph Carter gives a good representation of Captain Leo; Miss Cassie le Grand is successful as Bertha Hanbury; and Mr. George V. Cramp does well as Billy Twigg.

HIPPODROME.—The chief turn this week is the performance of the Sylvester Kremo family, whose clever feats receive rapturous applause. Bell and Bowden, juvenile comedians, contribute eccentric dances; a humorous sketch is given by Bromley and Fontein; Spencer and Marks as the "Stage-struck Waifs" are funny; and other artists are Frank Cass, actor vocalist; Charles Uherick as the barrel King; and Harry Zetter.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—A special holiday attraction is provided by Power and Kirby's company with Man's Enemy. Mr. Norman A. Overton as Harry Stanton gives a finished piece of acting; Mr. Fred Owen as Isaac Barnett is very funny; Mr. William Jeans throws much energy into his impersonation of General Sir Arthur Stanton; Mr. T. Arthur Ellis deserves special mention for his Fred Lisle; Mr. Chas. E. Johnson makes a capital Bill Saunders; Mr. Hartwell J. Kirby is responsible for a first-class Count Lanski; Mr. Jno. Power shows talent as Tom Drake; Miss Constance Medwyn scores as Sarah Drake; Miss Evelyn Geldard as Mrs. Saunders acts with grace and feeling; and Miss May Grayce as Grace Leslie wins the sympathies of the audience.

CREWE.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor, J.P.—Mr. Gilbert Payne's company opened on Monday in The Honeymoon. Mr. Payne gave a highly humorous rendering of Nathaniel Noodle, and was ably assisted by Mr. Fred Fulton as Archie Mashington. Mr. Leslie Erle capably sustained the rôle of Jack Armstrong; Mr. Alvin Sawyer was suitably placed as Colonel Vandyke Brown; and Mr. Harry Hoyland appeared successfully as Victor L'Estrange. Miss Lilian Ramsdale was irresistibly funny in the character of Emeretta Noodle; Miss Patty Fairley was delightful as Madge Armstrong, her vocal numbers being excellently rendered; and Miss Nellie Dyson charmed everyone with her captivating manner as Stella Le Brunn. Some clever dancing was executed by the Four Sisters Godfrey.

CROYDON.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Lambert.—The Whitsun attraction at the Grand is Sporting Life, played by Mr. R. A. Beaton's company. Miss Constance Elgin makes much capital out of the rôle of Olive de Carteret; Miss Veronica Brady is quite suited to the part of Clara; Miss Nellie Lucas wins sympathy as Kitty; and Miss Ida Phillips gains all hearts in the rôle of Norah. Mr. Henry Doughty gives an admirable rendering of the Earl of Woodstock; Mr. Wentworth Fane is excellent as Sir Charles Braybourne; Mr. Rowland Hope is commendable as the Hon. Dudley Stanhope; Mr. H. J. Barrett submits a capital portrayal of General Reginald Molyneaux; Mr. H. C. Cooper acts with effect as Isidore Andread; Mr. Bert Morley is humorous as Sergeant Dan Doxey; Mr. Raymond Dudley is well placed in the character of Malet de Carteret; Mr. H. H. Barrington displays excellent judgment as Miles Cavanagh; Mr. Edwin Fergusson is good as Phillip; and a word of praise is due to Messrs. J. P. Dryden, Edward Chester, Frank Woodville, and G. Robinson in minor parts.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Astley's American Circus heads the list here this week, and meets with great applause; Nellie Montague is a fine vocalist; Kemp and Harris score a success; Miss Ruby Norton's songs are well rendered; Wake and Dean are talented comedians; the Brothers Mills give an excellent gymnastic display; Wal Robins is a good vocalist and instrumentalist; and some pleasing pictures are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay. — Hardeen, the handcuff king, is causing quite a sensation; Dora Lyric is an enchanting comedienne; the Stavordale Quintette, vocalists and instrumentalists, are deservedly given an ovation; the Sisters Bartholomew are neat duettists and dancers; William Gourlay is interesting in "a new version of Hamlet"; Hector and Paulus are clever comedy acrobats; Syd May, mimic, is applauded; Harry Conlin is an entertaining comedian; and Sid Cotterell is well received in his comedy production, The Substitute.

DARWEN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. A. M Loader; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Robinson.—Appearing here this week are Mr. T. R. Nugent and his company in The Little Earl. As Billy Barton Mr. Nugent provides much amusement; Mr. H. Compton acquits himself well in the villainous part of King Ashton; as Harry Dare Mr. W. Dewhurst shows considerable ability; Mr. A. Martin gives a clever study of Reggie Clavering; and Master Sydney as Little Victor is a favourite. Miss Gladys Greet gives a careful rendering of Claire Sydney; Miss Maggie Gardiner is capable in the heavy rôle of Belle Langrist; and as Elsie Woodford Miss Myra Lois sings and dances nicely.

DERBY.—GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes.—The top-line turn this week is provided by Eugene Stratton, whose popular numbers are highly appreciated. Weiland fully maintains his reputation as a comedy juggler; the Raymond Trio of instrumentalists and dancers are very entertaining; as also is Madge Northcote, a charming soprano vocalist. Brady and Johnson cause great amusement in their farcical sketch My Uncle; Walter Wallis scores well as a comedian; the Four Matullas submit a smart conjuring act; and J. S. James, banjo soloist, renders some pleasing selections. The Bioscope concludes a well-arranged holiday programme. Florence Deighton, whose name is shown on the bills and programmes, is not appearing, owing to indisposition, and at the last moment the services of Madge Northcote were secured. Crowded houses are the rule.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—Molesworth's and Blow's company with Cripple Creek are here. Mr. Stanley Bedwell is manly and accomplished as Joe Mayfield; and Miss Agnes Verity gives a creditable rendering of Dynamite Ann; Mr. Will Hook is entrusted with the comic business, and fully justifies the trust bestowed; and Mr. Eric Hudson acts well as the villain.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Grand Theatre Company, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Hemming.—Mr. Hemming inaugurated his season on Monday evening, when Mr. Lionel Glenister and Mr. Wood Ingram's company presented All-of-a-Sudden Peggy, which was received by a large audience with discriminating applause. Miss Decima Moore is charming in the name-part. The house laughs heartily at her delivery of the many witty lines entrusted to her, and in the stronger situations of the piece she is equally successful. The Hon. Jimmy Keppel affords Mr. Glenister endless opportunities for distinction, of which he takes full advantage. Lord Crackenthorpe is amusingly portrayed by Mr. Alfred S. Barber; Mr. Henderson Bland is quite in his element as Major Archie Phipps; and Mr. J. Edgar Stephenson is a dashing Jack Menzies. The two servants are capably enacted by Messrs. Phillips and Fitzgerald. Miss Naomi Neilson is bright and vivacious as Mrs. O'Mara; Miss Kate Wingfield is a dignified grand dame as Lord Crackenthorpe's mother; and Miss Eva Lonsdale and Miss Estelle Despa play with sincerity in less important parts. The scenery and appointments are all that can be desired.

THE GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—Mr. Herbert Ralland produced The Liars, which is received with much laughter and applause by representative houses. Mr. Charles Boult, a sterling and versatile artist, is the Sir Christopher Deering, and plays with elegant bonhomie. Mr. F. Pennington Gush works gallantly to make a passable hero out of the character of Edward Faulkner; Mr. Arthur Gibbons' Gilbert Nepean is a strong characterisation; and Mr. W. Barnett Parker does all that is possible as George Nepean. The Freddy Tatton of Mr. Leon Simkin is a quaint performance, which never lapses into caricature; and Mr. Dennis is clever as Archibald Coke. The waiter of Mr. Bertie Ralland is a little study. Miss Kitty Cavendish presents the many-sided Lady Jessica with gaiety, and scores a great success; Miss Chrissie Ralland plays well up to her as Lady Rosamund Tatton; Miss Irene Vivian is bright and amusing as Dolly Coke, and Miss Victoria makes the most of her one emotional moment as Mrs. Ebernor. Miss Avis Graham is well suited as Mrs. Crispin. The mounting and appointments of the production fully justified Mr. Ralland's reputation.

THE PALACE.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—This place of amusement opened on Saturday night and secured its full share of patronage. The chief attraction is, of course, dancing to the witching strains of Mr. Harry Woods' orchestra. In the Opera House the bright particular star is Miss Hetty King, and her songs have been strenuously encored. Other excellent turns are C. F. Best, comedian; Minotti, the cycling wonder; the Rivialdo Trio, comedy acrobats; Edwards and Espinosa, instrumentalists and dancers. Vernon's Bioscope is to the fore with up-to-date animated pictures. A special and popular feature is the singing of the Manx Male Choir.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—The ever-popular Fatal Wedding is here this week. A highly emotional rendering of the unfortunate Mabel Wilson is given by Miss Katherine Clark, and both she and Mr. Ernest Owttrim as Howard Wilson score a big success in the leading rôles. Miss Marie Wilson as the Little Mother entirely captivates her audience. Miss Leah Marlborough assumes with apparent ease the characteristics of the villainous Cora Williams; Mr. Guy Hastings' portrayal of Robert Curtis is powerful and convincing; and Mr. Cyril Melton is a satisfactory Schwartz. The really excellent comedy introduced by Mr. C. H. Hughes as Toto and Miss Julie Temple as Bridget is deserving of all praise; and Mr. Arthur Law Raynor is noteworthy for his distinctive and impressive acting in the small part of the Rev. Dr. Lanceford.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Holt; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Chas. R. Standfield.—The magnificent staging of Horace and Olga's miniature dog circus lends much attractiveness to a turn of exceptional merit. The Sisters Lunelle, charming vocalists and smart dancers, meet with a hearty reception. The Two Sprees in Twickenham Ferry prove their cleverness; and Saxo makes music from many instruments; Bert and Dora's comedy is good; the Sisters Allen sing excellent duets and dance skilfully; T. C. Callaghan, character-comedian, scores well; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux complete the programme.

PIER PAVILION, DOVER PROMENADE PIER.—Lessees, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Miss Adela Crispin is a singer and dancer of much cleverness; Miss Lilian Crispin gives a decided touch of individuality to her character-impersonations and quaint stories; and Miss Vera Neville, a brilliant pianist, also sings in a most pleasing manner. An interesting performance is given by Miss Dorothy and Mr. Howard Crispin, who introduce a series of experiments in mental telepathy, the gentleman also winning much applause for his capable and amusing sketches at the piano. Mr. George Neilson's cultured bass voice is heard in a fine selection of songs; and Signor Isidore Corelli gains unanimous approval for his clever spectacular conjuring.

MISS AGNES BECKWITH and her troupe of lady swimmers give exhibitions of fancy and ornamental swimming in the sea daily, and also in the Crystal Aquarium on the Promenade Pier.

DUBLIN. — GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Directress, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—By arrangement with Mr. William Greet, The Shulamite is being presented here. Mr. Algernon J. Hicks appears as the Boer farmer, Simeon Krillett, and gives a most powerful and dramatic reading; and as his wife, Deborah Krillett, Miss Ruth Shepherd enacts the part in a pathetic and effective manner. Mr. Charles Fancourt displays his abilities cleverly as Robert Waring; a capital performance of the Kaffir servant, Klass, is given by Mr. Albert Rogers; Miss Emily Levettez submits a very good portrayal of Tanta Anna Vanderberg, and Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff as Memke and Mr. George Rammell as Ian Vanderberg acquit themselves creditably.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—Herbert Shelley in the sketch, Dan, the Outlaw, wins hearty and unstinted applause; Lily Foy, comedienne, contributes a capital song in good style; Rumbo Austin, with his acrobatic navvies, is highly amusing; a clever turn is presented by the Gems, in mirth, play, and song; Drew and Alders win approbation for a smart comedy act; Daisy Mayer is warmly applauded for her coon stories; Charles Chard is a droll comedian; Carl Howard, in a grotesque conjuring act, causes much laughter; and Annie Casey, comedienne and dancer, scores successfully. The Empire pictures are also interesting.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—Mr. Lionel Rignold's company opened here on Monday in What the Butler Saw. In the amusing character of the Butler (Pink) Mr. Lionel Rignold proves most successful, and keeps the audience in the best of spirits with his clever and humorous conception. Miss Ada Blanche submits a most effective and charming portrayal of Mrs. Barrington; Mr. Charles Fawcett acts the part of Jack Barrington splendidly; and as Sir Charles Fowden Mr. Louis Lingard is very good. A capital representation of General Dunlop is given by Mr. Victor Widdicombe; Miss Clara Russell acts delightfully as Miss Foden, as does Miss Yenie Wigney as Nora. Mr. Roy Byford furnishes a very successful reading of Prof. Shale; and as the child Sophonisba Hake, Miss May Hart is excellent. For Friday a special matinée is announced, when Mme. Jane Hading and her Parisian company will appear in Frou-Frou.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Nat Clifford, in song and story, meets with a cordial reception; Vittorio and Giorgetto submit with success a clever Continental comedy act; the Soho Trio are refined vocalists and pleasing dancers; the Sisters Urma perform cleverly on the triple trapeze; Leo Tell is entertaining as a mimic; Stidder and Dunbar are seen to advantage in The Sport and the Gipsy Girl; Maude Kay is an excellent comedienne and dancer; the Grays are accomplished vocalists; and the Bioscope is also an attraction.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The programme includes Harry Boland, comedian; Florence Moore, serio and dancer; Frank Vallance, entertaining magician; Rose Cameron, ballad vocalist; and the new Cinematograph.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—This week we have Allen and Hall, sketch artists; Harry Powell, descriptive vocalist; the Sisters Rose, international dancers; W. C. McPherson, Scotch comedian; and the Alliance Musical Team.

IRISH INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION (Balls Bridge).—Secretary, Mr. James Shanks.—The attractions for the week are Herr Moritz Wurm and his Viennese Blue Band and the band of the Royal Engineers. Mr. Neville Flux, the bandmaster, arranges selections which are greatly enjoyed. Organ recitals by Mr. Brandon J. Rogers are also well patronised. The amusements comprise the Indian Theatre, Eastern juggling performances, the native Africans in their Somali village, the Canadian water-chute, switchback railway, helter-skelter, and the Cinematograph.

PAVILION (Kingstown).—Manager, Mr. Fred R. Heley.—This pleasant resort opened for the season on Monday with the John Riding Opera Company, when the operetta, Old Knockles, was produced at the mid-day performance. In the evening Maritana was presented to a full house, and was well received. Miss Kitty Brownless was charming in the title-rôle; the part of Alcade was well sustained by Mr. Arthur Hyde; Miss Jessie Dennis was capital as Lazarillo; Mr. Arthur Fisher was good as the Captain of the Guard; Don Jose was in the capital hands of Mr. John Riding; and the rôles of Charles II. and Don Cæsar de Bazan were well filled by Messrs. Frederick Clendon and Charles Le Suer respectively. The Bioscope concluded the entertainment.

DUDLEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. Maurice Clement; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. Tilley.—Miss Go-Won-Go-Mohawk, the American Indian actress, and her company, in her drama, Wep-Ton-No-Mah, are paying a return visit here this week.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. B. Peberdy.—The brilliant talent provided here includes the following:—The Brothers St. Clair, in a comedy cycle act; the Four Figaros, international vocalists and dancers; Helm and Cozens, in The Doctor and the Patient; the Rochesters, society entertainers; Fancourt and Ruby, in Nipper, the Messenger Boy; the Sisters Clifton, comediennes and dancers; Stuart and Evans, swell comedians; Little Hatch, comedian and dancer; Edith Manley, extempore vocalist; Nellie Nora, with an instrumental act; and Daisy Dashwood, comedienne.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—Jack Whiteford tops this week's bill, and acquits himself admirably as a Scotch comedian. Clark and Hayden contributes some excellent singing, and are also exceedingly good as trick pianists; a clever juggling turn is given by Charles Lestree; and an equally entertaining acrobatic and posturing performance is contributed by Ryde and Beeman. Amina Rinder has a flattering reception for her illustrated songs; Raie Walters, a dainty comedienne, likewise charms with a pleasing turn; Albert Windsor, comedian and dancer, scores a big success; and the patter and eccentric dancing of Kerr and Koe prove most exhilarating. The Bioscope, as usual, completes a good all-round bill.

GAIETY THEATRE — Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Top liners are the Narrow Brothers, whose trick comedy cycling is extremely clever; they are also capital comedians. Chorley and Connor pay a welcome return visit; Yettmah, Japanese magician, contributes a neat and clever act; and Bella Leaburn has had a capital reception. George Melvin, Scotch comedian, gets a good reception; Akbar, in a novel and clever turn; a Photo Competition, and the Electro Motorscope, with a capital selection of films, completes the bill.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—This is the last week of the animated photographs; but, judging by the huge houses on Monday, Mr. Percival's patrons have not tired of this class of entertainment. Among the many pictures shown this week is a very fine film, in twenty-five scenes, entitled "The Dumb Man of Manchester." A descriptive tour round London is a very popular item, Mr. Percival assuming the rôle of guide. Pleasant variety is supplied by Amy Bathurst, serio and dancer; Harry Lamb, quaint Scotch comedian; and Philip Sefton, baritone singer.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Devonshire Park and Baths Co.; Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company is attracting excellent houses. On Monday The Taming of the Shrew was well staged. The work of Miss Dorothy Green as Katherina was quite artistic; Miss Louise Graeme did very ably as Bianca; and Miss Mary Webb sang and acted satisfactorily as the Widow. A sound and interesting performance was that given by Mr. Henry Herbert as Petruchio; Mr. Gerald Ames made a handsome and distinguished Lucentio; Mr. E. Spencer Geach caused much fun as Tranio; Mr. Ross Shore, too, did excellently as Grumio, and the remaining characters were well represented.

THE PIER.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—On Monday afternoon before a crowded house Mr. George Robey appeared for the first time in Eastbourne. He had a gratifying reception. Mr. G. H. Snozelle, in his own inimitable manner, was another of the successes of the afternoon; Miss Winifred Thomas sang charmingly; Mr. Aubrey Standing possesses a capital voice; Miss Decima Brooke is a clever juvenile; and Mr. Harold Craxton was the skilful accompanist. The attraction for the current week is Three Little Maids, and Mr. Charles Macdona's company is an excellent one. Miss Vera Vallis, Miss Daisy Sylverton, and Miss Gertrude Melville are dainty maids; Miss Grace Desmond is a bright and appropriate Lady St. Malory, and Miss Laura Wright an amusing Gretchen. Mr. Victor Kerr is responsible for able work as Lord Cheyne; Mr. Eric Barrington is a delicate and artistic M. de L'Orme; and Mr. J. F. Bishop a funny Cupid.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; General-Manager, Mr. H. Day; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—Roland startles audiences here with his interesting illusions; Miss Nell Emerald delights as a singer and dancer; the Buchanan Brothers sing, patter, and box to the accompaniment of much laughter; Miss Ray Maskell brings down the house with her fine dancing; Mr. Will Lytton is a successful comedian; the Five Bombays are entertaining; Clifford and Monti do well; and new pictures complete the bill.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—Mme. Jane Hading appeared, with her full Parisian company, in Frou-Frou at a flying matinée on Monday. The play was superbly acted, alike in the comedy of its earlier scenes and in the pathos of its close; and all her associates shared with Mme. Hading the plaudits and recalls after every act. M. Hauterive was excellent as the Sartorys; M. Arnand made an admirable Valréas; M. and Mme. Alcime-Leblanc were quite typical as the Baron and Baronne De Cambri; Mme. Laure Surean ably portrayed the elder sister Louise; and M. Luguet was delightful in the part of the gay old butterfly Brigard. Mr. Brandon Thomas and company occupy the theatre with Charley's Aunt. Mr. Thomas, of course, is again at his best in his old part of Colonel Chesney; Mr. Walter Beaumont is an amusing Stephen Spettigue; Jack and Charlie are happily played by Mr. Hastings Lynn and Mr. Richard; Mr. M. A. Wetherell puts much humour into his acting as Brassett; and Mr. Spencer Trevor personates the leading "lady" with his well-known fun and exuberance. The feminine rôles are all in good hands, with Miss Lena MacNaughton a dignified Donna Lucia; Miss Amy Harpwaye and Miss Ida Vynall very bright and winsome as Kitty and Amy; and Miss Marjory Murray quite a sweet Ela. A one-act play, The Lancashire Sailor, also by Mr. Brandon Thomas, prove a very interesting curtain-raiser.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—The Courtiers, nine performers, sing with expression and vivacity, and their business is carried through with grace and dash. Hillman and Russell are successful in their sketch, in which the clever singing and playing of the lady are distinctly good; Miss Lily Flexmore, a remarkable acrobatic dancer, gains much applause for her turn; the Westwoods are daring and expert trick cyclists; Johnson and Pelham give a varied act, comprising singing, dancing, and ball-punching; and Susie and Protti are admirable "whirlwind" dancers, the Pirouttes of Protti being exceptionally smart; Miss May Newall sings with considerable culture; the Alaskarno Trio are brisk and entertaining acrobats; and the Bioscope portrays several recent films. The programme also includes the first appearance in Britain of "Captain" Niku, a diminutive performer with handcuffs and chains.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—This week we have Mr. Fred Bowyer's miniature drama, The Little Stowaway. Miss Eva Lumley, in the name-part, makes good use of the opportunities for pathetic acting which the rôle affords. The New Macs are smart in their patter, and smarter still in their step-dancing; while another clever terpsichorean display is given by Spry and Monti, in their diverting comedy act, The Dandy Guardsman. Mr. Frame, as popular as ever, contributes one of his characteristic turns; Mr. Jock Mills sings several amusing songs in a most entertaining style; and Miss Nellie Wallace imparts much vigour and individuality to her uncommon impersonations as a burlesque artist. Songs are effectively rendered by Miss Amy Russell, a pleasing vocalist; by Mr. Bert Byrne, a lively comedian; and by Mr. Arthur Gill, the man of many voices, each of which he uses to good advantage; and the Dorrell Sisters, with duets and dances, complete a good bill.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Ventom Swith.—A popular turn here is that of the Days, in a clever thought-reading performance. Horgadon and company present a sketch, entitled A Lucky Mistake, in which some capital singing is given. Amongst other artists of merit are Mr. Charles Leighton, pianist; Titan, a strong man; Miss Janette Alexander, a child vocalist and dancer; Mlle. Thekla, vocalist; and Wyllie, "the musical tramp."

EXETER. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory presents this week the German military play, Lights Out, with a powerful company. Miss Francis Davie as Klara Volkhardt is excellent; Mr. Charles Esdale in the part of Lieut. von Lauffen is decidedly good; Mr. Wilton Reed as Sergt. Volkhardt is the old veteran of the regiment to the life; while Mr. Richard Fielding as Corporal Helbig secures the sympathies of the audience. The fantastic one-act play, A Hundred Years Hence, is a smart curtain-raiser.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace W. Ebbutt.—The Anglo-American Bioscope still forms one of the chief attractions at this place of entertainment. In addition thereto there are very clever turns by Ted Curtis and his celebrated piccaninnies, a trio of dancers and singers, Mena Brae (comedienne and dancer), Clarke's Nippers in their acts of ball-punching, club juggling, &c., Downes and Langford (burlesque artists, vocalists, and dancers), and G. W. Walker (the popular Scottish vocalist).

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—The holiday attraction was Mrs. Patrick Campbell in Magda and Hedda Gabler. Large houses assembled at each performance. Mrs. Patrick Campbell, Miss Stella Patrick Campbell, and Mr. Laurence Irving played their respective parts with their customary finish. On Thursday Mr. W. Penrhyn Forster's company was announced in The Officers' Mess.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—An attractive programme is submitted here this week by "The Gipsies and their Jester." Mr. Robert Tattersall, in sleight-of-hand and ventriloquism, is immensely popular; the Misses Muriel Fane and Florence Croft have a capital reception; Mr. Eric Davidson is recalled several times for his excellent baritone songs; and Mr. Will Gane (the jester) is responsible for drollery.

VICTORIA PIER.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Forsyth; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Forsyth.—This favourite place of entertainment reopened on Monday for the season. The bill is headed by Bert H. Delmar, and the Comets, who prove most diverting. Mr. Charles Cardle is received with enthusiasm; Miss Ethel Lonsdale is a smart comedienne; Mr. Hayden Parker gives some excellent musical sketches; Miss Florence Elliott is a pleasing soprano; Mr. Harvey Rayne and Mr. Edward

LITTLE TICH TAKES OFF HIS HAT TO ODOL.

"You'll perceive," said the great little comedian, "that I have acquired what the girls call 'the Odol smile.' I've sometimes been 'sold' with things I've bought, but in this case I got all I bargained for—and more. Instead of a bottle of simple, playful smiles such as you make love with, I found I'd struck a bottle of laughs that will do for any time, and it struck back at me, in the most agreeable manner possible. That's why I take my hat off to it."

"Things in bottles have always had a peculiar sort of fascination for me, and when this bottle of Odol loomed upon my sight my mouth began to water at once. I felt a decided leaning towards that bottle. Instinctively, as they say, I wanted to get some of its contents into my mouth. Generally, my friends tell me, I put my foot into my mouth when I open it, but this time, in went Odol."

"I felt a decided leaning towards that bottle."

"Oh, what jolly times my teeth have had since I first surprised them with Odol! They've been laughing ever since. My teeth are worth something now. Odol has cleaned out the basilisks—I mean bacilli—and put health and sweet breathing in their place. I owe much—much more than I am ever likely to pay—to Odol for what it has done for me. Observe my expression—Odol. Note the fluency of my speech—Odol. And you should mark my appetite—Odol again. You never know the lusciousness of a beefsteak until your teeth have been odolised."

"Some friends asked me what was the matter with me the other day, I was looking so pleased with myself. I said 'Odol.' And we all laughed the Odol laugh. Yes, although I don't swear as a rule, I'm prepared to swear by Odol all the time."

Headlam provide capital turns; and Miss Rose Telfer's Rosabel Ladies' Quintette is a great attraction.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Lottie Lennox proves quite worthy of the top place on the "bill" submitted here this week; the Bensons are also here with a fund of real comedy and new songs and dances; Sinclair and Parr are a pair of polished comedians and excellent singers; Brull and Hemsley, in an excellent comedy act, named Fun in a Music Shop, are highly successful; the Brontes have a capital comedy duologue, entitled Saucy Maud; the Zampas, duettists, speciality dancers, and bâton manipulators, make a deep impression; Charles Gardner, an eccentric comedian, scores; Rappo and Ella, gymnasts, and pictures by Vernon's Bioscope, complete the show.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—The Face at the Window, by Messrs. Armadale and Warren's company, is here. Le Loup has an accomplished representative in Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe plays Gouffet in a perfectly easy and natural manner; Mr. Gilbert Hall fills with credit the part of Lucian Cortier; Mr. C. Alan Hineson brings to the part of Peter a deal of quaintness; Marie de Brisson is ably represented by Miss Marie Barrett; and Miss Gladys Newcombe is excellently placed as Babette.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company is presenting A Wrecker of Men. Mr. Eric Campbell, in the rôle of Jim Murley, does the part full justice; and Miss Ruth Zillwood displays much talent in the exacting part of Risca Mallison.

GLASGOW. — KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. Hugh Macfarlane.—After an absence of some years, Miss Annie Hughes was accorded a hearty welcome here when she opened on Monday, with Mr. Jerome K. Jerome's play, Tommy. As the light-hearted young lady journalist of the earlier scenes, Miss Hughes was excellent, and imparted a depth of pathos to the touching scene which concludes the play. Mr. Rupert Lister acted with much ability the part of Dick Danvers; Mr. Evelyn Vernon gave a quiet study of the old editor, Peter Hope; and in striking contrast was the bustling manager, Clodd, particularly well played by Mr. Willie Hartill; Mr. Reginald F. Beach imparted a humorous touch to the rôle of the office boy, Flipp; Miss Winifred Pearson in the character of the adventuress, "Mr. Morrison," expressed the worldly and vindictive feeling suitable to the part; Miss Ida Richardson was well placed as the young girl, Honour. Buckstone's old play, Good-for-Nothing Nan, was given in front, in which Miss Annie Hughes submitted a humorous portrayal of the title-part. On Tuesday Madame Jane Hading gave a matinée performance of MM. Meilhac and Halevy's Frou-Frou, ably supported by her French company.

PRINCESS'S. — Sole Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Hugh Murdoch.—Messrs. Pitt and Sandy are pleasing South-side patrons with their stock productions. This week they present a very satisfactory revival of the popular drama, The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Mr. Felix Pitt gives an admirable reading as Bob Brierley; and as Hawkshaw Mr. Frederick Sandy is reliable and convincing, both being able actors. Mr. C. Craig as James Dalton makes a strong and resourceful villain; Mr. D. Phillips as Melter Moss, a typical Jew money-lender; and Bill Broker Gibson is in suitable keeping with Mr. Philip Darien. Miss Jenny Macintyre is once more the Mrs. Willoughby, and very acceptable is she in the part, and undoubtedly good as Sam is Miss Enid Wilde. In Miss Maud Linden is seen a fine May Edwards, sympathetically acted; Miss Doris Lorraine and Mr. Herbert Young are good as Emily and Green Jones; while the Maltby and Sharpe of Messrs. Barry and Austin complete a capital cast.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—Wilkie Collins's interesting play, The New Magdalen, is well staged here this week by Mr. Edward Sorley's company. Miss Yvonne Orchardson gives an exquisite rendering of the part of Mercy Merrick; and Miss Rachel Donne is strongly impressive as Grace Roseberry. A finely-portrayed character is that of the young clergyman, Julian Grey, by W. S. Hartford; Mr. Horace Logan gives a satisfactory interpretation of the rival, Horace Helmcraft; Miss Bartle Frere as Lady Janet Roy impersonates the old lady charmingly. Other parts are well filled by Mr. W. Simpson as a German Army surgeon, Mr. H. Ainley as a French officer, Mr. Charles Edwards as a French Army doctor, Mr. Arthur Tarris as a detective, with Messrs. Frank Harper and James Black as servants.

LYCEUM.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Oakden.—Variety business still holds the boards here, this week's company including Ray and Calden, in their humorous and clever turn; James Brady, the vocal joker, is another strong favourite; Alice Golding is a serio with a taking style and good songs; J. A. Cassels, Scotch comedian, is accorded a hearty reception; Signor Bandoni gives his "one-man band" speciality; Cleland contributes a novel turn; and the latest films are shown on the Bioscope.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. S. Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Manners.—Jake Friedman and his company top the bill here in Happy Holland. John Humphreys and company are very amusing in Ancient Britons; Esta Stella, always a strong local favourite, wins fresh laurels this week; Herbert Darnley's Dots give an attractive item; and Ryder Slone is a clever vocalist; Claire Romaine is worthy of praise for her songs; the Jackley Trio do well in their acrobatic absurdities; Boy Glenn, juvenile raconteur, and Minna Merry, "the female Robey," also contribute to a good programme.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Freddie French and company present an amusing sketch, entitled The Suffragettes. Freddie French is very humorous as the leader of the suffragettes; Lily Langtry sings her songs in a sprightly manner, and is well applauded; the Musical Jees are funny in their musical speciality, The Scarecrow; the Trapnell Family are a combination of graceful and talented acrobats; the De Wyne Bros go through some startling head and hand balancing work without the least apparent effort; Gertrude Bradshaw sings her songs in a very pleasing manner; Ian Colquhoun, baritone, and Frank Darwin, actor-vocalist, complete a successful programme.

PAVILION, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Excellent houses are again rewarding the management for their enterprise in securing Marie Lloyd for the top of their bill, and the popular comedienne is in the best of spirits and good humour. Her Spanish song and the old favourite, "The coster's wedding," go well. Marie Kendal is another prime favourite here, and her latest songs are as catchy as ever; Barney Armstrong gets a hearty welcome; and the step-dancing of Frank Leon is wonderfully neat; Astarte, the aerial nymph, is an interesting revival of a clever feat. Steve Macarthy is an expert dancer, Lizzie Kirk is a young comedienne of ability, Will Driscoll's songs are up-to-date, and Ella Lane contributes a smart medley.

COLISEUM. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Tom Costello and Lady Fauntleroy unfortunately could not appear here on Monday, owing to indisposition. However, very capable substitutes were found in Ethel Arden and George Abel's company in the amusing farce, Three of a Kind, and the popular negro comedian Will Candlish. Marie Kendall's catchy chorus songs pleased the audience greatly; and Edwin Barwick's life-like imitations of theatrical stars were also much appreciated; the laughable sketch, The Lady Doctor, was cleverly presented by Stanley Cooke and Amy Francis; Mons. Slippère, the blind pianist and singer, gave a refined performance; the acrobatic act of the Trentanovi Sisters was exceedingly smart; Bud Snyder's cycle feats were neat and dexterous; while step-dancing had a nimble exponent in Steve McCarthy.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—An attractive programme is submitted here this week, and includes Rachel Lowe, comedienne, whose success was assured. The audience also derived much enjoyment from Horace Wheatley's turn; Harry Thorpe and Zoo Coe are highly successful in their amusing sketch, The Burglar. The Sisters Coolville, duettists and dancers; Wright and Elton, comedy artists; Howe and Ardic, acrobats and gymnasts; the Three Sisters Grosvenor, harmony vocalists; Dave O'Toole, comedian; and the Bioscope, with a new set of pictures, are also in the bill.

GAIETY, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—Maxford and O'Neill, Irish comedians, top the bill here; a capital comedy sketch is given by the Monckton, entitled Are Wives Dummies? Bessie Stratton is a fascinating comedienne; the efforts of Nellie Hughes as a top-boot dancer are far above the average. Other turns include Keane Harker, comedian, Winnie Wentworth, dainty comedienne, Ted Waite, character comedian, Mark Mooney, the "loonie" comedian, and the Gaiety Bioscope.

BRITANNIA.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—The company here includes the following artists:—W. H. Smart, Irish comedian; Kitty Larigne, comedienne; Neil Gow, Scotch comedian; Lillie Benson, artistic dancer; Minnie Osborne, coon vocalist. Mention should also be made of a capital selection of new films on the Bioscope, concluding with the Chronophone new singing and talking pictures.

GLOSSOP. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—Miss Bessie Elma's company in The Power and the Glory is here this week. Mr. Geo. Edwin Clive is seen to great advantage as Harry Goodluck; Mr. D. Howard submits a good reading as Harold Hartree; Mr. Ernest Chesney stands out prominently as Ferdinand Crayle; and Mr. Douglas Hutchins is well placed as Johnny Dyce Marris. Mr. Arthur Lindley is conspicuous as Forward; Miss Elma gives a finished performance of the character of Kate Goodluck; Miss Olive Fulton as Lizzie Medwin wins the sympathies of the audience; Miss Fanny Olive as Mar Goodluck is diverting; whilst Miss Violet Chamier is good as Lady Gwendoline Dyce Morris; Miss Flo Florence shows histrionic ability as Linda, a blind girl; Mr. Dan Agar (Tommy Jinks), Mr. William J. Gould (Jacob Hardbake), and Miss Maud Le Ray (Bessie Goodluck) supply the comedy relief of the drama.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE.—Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—The holiday bill has for the top line that clever troupe of risley acrobats, the Lorch Family, who are cordially received. Living statuary makes its initial appearance here in the person of Venus, the late Lord Leighton's model. The Collar Stud is well rendered by the Edith Muir and Bartlett company; Miss Chummie La Mara sings in taking style; and Mr. George Menva is an efficient sleight-of-hand expert. The Four Jumels are good in their musical act, and a duologue, entitled The Lady and the Lunatic, is an entertaining item. Will Sergeant, comedian, also appears with good results, and the Bioscope proves as amusing as ever.

GRAVESEND.—NEW PUBLIC HALL AND THEATRE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. R. Feaver Clarke.—Messrs. H. and F. Poole's Myriorama occupies this place of entertainment this week, and has been doing good business. Among the variety turns are Houston, a clever magician and illusionist; the Snow Family, a troupe of expert acrobatic cyclists; Miss Florence Hamilton, a cultured soprano, and Learto, with his marvellous dog Babs, all of whom come in for a fair share of applause.

GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. David Hart.—The special engagement of that bright and vivacious comedian has been attracting large audiences this week; and Mathews and Cowper, in the sketch When the Clock Went Wrong, have been decidedly popular; Minnie D'Aubyn has done well as a burlesque artist, and as an original quick-change character musician Burnetti is a good turn. The well-known comedian, Charles Lilburn; the South American vocalist, Sylvia Du Barry, and the original comedian, Harry Sims, all contribute to a good programme.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Mouillot's principal company is here with The Geisha. In the title-rôle Miss Louie Collier gives a very artistic interpretation, and wins many encores for her expressively-sung songs. Mr. Cyril Thompson is admirable as Reginald Fairfax, the patriotic number, "Jack's the boy," gaining unstinted applause. Miss Florrie Saunders is a lively and enchanting Molly Seymour; Miss Violet Kenyon is excellent as O Juliette Diamente; Lady Constance Wynn is admirably portrayed by Miss Aubrey Ashton; Captain Katana is ably played by Mr. J. Masel Stringer; Mr. Lionel Braham is pompously humorous as the Marquis Imari; and the oddities and eccentricities of Wun Hi are depicted with extraordinary success by Mr. Edward Carlton.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert.—A capital programme has been provided for Whitweek, including Zenora, an expert hand equilibrist and jumper; the Princess Fazette, in a pretty driving act; Ray and Miles, in a diverting juggling turn; Wishart, the marvellous handcuff expert; Mons. Caban, with his clever troupe of ponies; Craig, Rose, and Craig, a wonderful trio of gymnasts; Stelling's dog Kiswaskhi, in a novel act; Little Jim, a clever child mimic; the Proveanies, exceptionally daring cyclists; Wee McGregor and his troupe of performing animals, and Doodles to help the fun-making.

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mlle. Rosina's miniature managerie gives an exceptionally interesting show; the Strassburger Lilliputians appear in singing, dancing, conjuring, athletic, and wrestling acts; songs are provided by Miss Nora Beverley, and comedy by Mr. Steve Cook, Miss Rae Rosenthal, and Little Don.

WELLINGTON PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The Gaieties provide a capital programme here, and the songs, music, and comedy provided by the members of the company—Miss Beatrice Jeffreys, Miss Ruby Wilson, Miss Lois Barker, Mr. Wilson James, Mr. Conyers, and Mr. Percy Watson—are much appreciated, and win hearty recognition.

GREENOCK.—EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington.—Mr. J. Cumming's animated pictures continue to attract large audiences here. Variety turns are provided by A. J. Gamble, comedian, who meets with a most cordial reception; the Brothers Hannaway, comedians, who patter strongly and dance well; Leslie Lynn, a clever ventriloquist; Annette Gray, comedienne and vocalist; and Douglas Thorn, a pleasing baritone.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—A crowded house on Monday manifested their approval of the favourite comedian Will Godwin, who received an ovation; Harvey and Holt, in a comedy act, are entertaining; Jack Easy, Scotch comedian, is also popular; Doreen Day is to be congratulated on her efforts as a comedienne and mimic; and the graceful dancing of Little Norah Bremner is much admired. The Paviscope pictures are entertaining.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—Mr. Walter Howard's romantic military drama A Midnight Wedding is admirably sustaining the author's reputation as a writer of popular plays. It is played by a company under Mr. Alfred Paumier and Miss Annie Saker, who themselves take prominent parts. Mr. Paumier admirably realises the chivalrous swordmaster, Paul Valmar, and Miss Saker invests the part of the Princess Astrea with charming dignity; whilst the remaining numerous important characters are all excellently acted.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. H. J. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—The national songs and dances of the Szarvasi Ferenz troupe of Hungarians are greatly pleasing, but it is their wonderfully clever acrobatic work which forms the main feature of their performance. Addie Dorina, a smart protean actress, appears in a new sketch, Dr. Spot's Patients; Russell Wallett, as the lady in black, is a capital female impersonator; the Paolias present an excellent combination of athletic feats and artistic poses; Fatmah Diard accomplishes good vocal work; whilst others appearing are Andy Fagan, comedian; Harry Marlow and May Manton, in Other People's Babies, and Austin Lenton and company, in The Bigamist.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. C. Shread.—An especially attractive entertainment is provided by Bert Coote's Kiddies, a smart and well-trained troupe of juvenile artists. The Sisters Geretti give an acrobatic performance remarkable for the rapidity with which the feats are accomplished; another capital gymnastic turn is given by the Du Gros Trio; Roma and Romani contribute a refined musical entertainment; Oliver Conroy is a popular comedian; the Three Coopers are pleasing vocalists; Le Diable Rouge has a novel ventriloquial act; and the Sages present good burlesque.

THE EMPIRE, CLEETHORPES. — Proprietor, Mr. J. Carter White.—This popular house reopened on Whit Monday, the programme being headed by Georgina Leonard, burlesque actress; whilst others appearing are Pertram's Marionettes; Frank Clarke, tenor vocalist; Francis O'Flynn, banjo soloist; Fred Hadley, comedian; Amy Elcock, comedienne; the Brothers Ralston, character duettists; and Flo St. Roy, acrobatic dancer.

PIER PAVILION, CLEETHORPES.—Manager, Mr. W. T. Bolland.—The holiday programme is being provided by Mr. Charles Parker's Æolian Opera Singers. The party includes Miss Rose Alderman, soprano; Miss Lilian Payne, contralto; Mr. Will Fern, baritone; Miss Doris Langdon, soubrette; Mr. Hubert Connorton, society entertainer; and Mr. Charles E. Browne, humorist and instrumentalist.

GUERNSEY.—THEATRE ST. JULIAN.—Lessee, Mr. Ed. Marris.—On Monday Miss Lena Stanton and Mr. Harry Josephs' company opened a week's engagement in The Blue-Coat Boy. As Dame Dickory, Mr. Bruce Green sings well, and is irresistibly amusing; Mr. Harry Josephs is a dashing Squire; and Mr. Will Terry causes much merriment as Lawyer Copale. Miss Nora Neville, a pretty and charming Dolly, is also a skilled dancer; and a sprightly Billy is Miss Lena Stanton. A hit is made by Little Keeno; and the Orient troupe of lady dancers foot it with much grace.

HALIFAX. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—On Monday the Northern Theatres, Ltd., stock company opened their season with The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Foremost in an exceptionally strong cast was Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee, who gave a consummate interpretation of the much-wronged Robert Brierley; a plausible Dalton was found in Mr. Bernard Mervyn, his acting throughout being sound and convincing; it would be difficult to find a more worthy exponent of Hawkshaw than Mr. J. Cook Hinton, who brought out the salient points of the detective's methods with fidelity; Mr. John Hames cannot be too highly commended as Melter Moss; Miss Winnie Tempest was successful in the rôle of May Edwards; and Miss Mabel S. Carr never failed to win approval as Sam Willoughby; while Miss Jessie Belmore was conspicuous as Emily.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—Ernest Shand has a splendid répertoire of quaint songs, and keeps his audience in exuberant spirits; another queer comedian, with a good style of his own, is Whimsical Walker, whose gags are both original and contagious; Will Johnson is as lively as ever, and a welcome visitor; Maudie Ford sings well and dances vivaciously; as does Daisy Martell, who has a very exhilarating song; Brayne and Eland, in The Tree of Truth, meet with approval; while Les Zelovas, in a continental equilibrium act, give a sensational pyramid performance.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—The Mahomed Ben Mohamed Troupe of eight Sousa Arabs present a startling somersault act, for which they are vociferously applauded; a neat sketch is given by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard entitled Coming Home, the fun going merrily while these artists occupy the boards; one of the finest sopranos heard here is undoubtedly Ghita Corri, her magnificent singing earning prolonged applause; Harry Wenburn is more than a little humorous; while Ripshaw's ball bouncing act is quite a novelty. Mabel Bright and company, in an immensely popular scena, Girls Will be Girls; Alexander Prince, a unique concertina soloist, and Libby Blundelle and her Johnnies all meet with approbation.

HANLEY. — ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Douglas Elphinstone.—Mr. C. St. John Denton's company opened here on Monday in that popular musical comedy, Kitty Grey. The company consists of practically the same principals as upon its previous visit. Miss Hilda Guiver is once more seen as Kitty Grey, and her performance, if possible, is better than ever. Miss Elly Helene, the Lady Binfield, is all that can be desired, her conception of the part being admirable and her singing capital. Mr. Leslie Harris causes much merriment as Lord Plantagenet; Miss Lena Denton scores as Kitty's dresser; Mr. York Hatton makes a capital Sir John Binfield; Mr. Robert Whyte as the King of Illyria is, as of yore, decidedly successful.

GRAND.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. James Wynes.—A packed house greeted Chung-Ling-Soo on Monday in his wonderful conjuring performance, which is much appreciated. Mr. Chas. Diamond and Miss Beatrice, in their musical turn, are accorded a hearty welcome; J. W. Hall returns, and scores his usual success; the Bros. Redmond are clever and amusing acrobats; Martine and Son in their illustrated songs are well received; Miss Marion Scott is a dainty comedienne; Baroni and Kemp, character quick-change artists, are capital; Jack Lane, the Yorkshire rustic, does well; and the pictures are, as usual, excellent.

HARROGATE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Smith. — This week we have a two-houses-a-night show, and on Monday night the theatre was filled in all parts. Morimura is a good Japanese conjurer; Sandes and Vincent are very funny in a comedy act; and Donna's Trio are remarkably clever balancers. The top of the bill was supplied by High Jinks, John Tiller's company, which occupies the major part of the programme. Bob Selvidge as Geo. Jesmond Dene is very good and creates much laughter; he has great support from Messrs. Teddy Gibbs and Barney Dixon. Miss Jessie Templeton is well placed as Mrs. Dene; and Miss Hay proves herself an excellent dancer in the part of Mary Ann. The Tiller Troupe are distinguishing themselves as dancers.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. C. Ferrier.—Belrose and De Velin, in excellent operatic duets; Conan and Doyle, comedians and dancers; the Juggling Geraldos, in some clever specialities; and Mabel Le Blanche a sprightly comedienne, are favourites who attract as well as ever. A sketch, Brought to Her Senses, affords those clever artists the Forestiers an opportunity of exhibiting some smart protean work; Lydney Lee's conjuring is cleverly done; Hall and Earle in eccentric comedy gain great laughter; and the Bioscope concludes an excellent programme.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—After a long interval, a welcome return visit is paid here this week by Messrs. C. and F. Renad's famous pantomimical comedy The Swiss Express. Excellent fooling is displayed by Messrs. Charles and Frederick Renad as Dr. Gull's eccentric servants; and Mr. Basil Reynolds as Bob Rollingstone, Mr. Harry H. Vernon as Rhino, Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon as the quack doctor, and Messrs. A. E. Cooke and G. Mason as the guests at the inn also assist the scheme of rollicking fun. Miss Celestine Brandon as Virginia is a dainty bride; and Miss Lottie Stone's "Palace" Quartet dance well.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—On Whit-Tuesday a flying matinée visit was paid here by Mr. Harry Fragson, who gave a selection from his French and English songs. The clever artist received abundant applause. As to the ordinary programme, Miss Jessica Brooke is a dainty little comedienne and dancer; Mr. Charles Clifford is very skilful on the harp; some remarkable feats of illusion and magic are shown by Prince Ishmael and Mlle. Valeria; Nelson Hardy's ventriloquial performances are singularly original. A very laughable sketch, The Belle of the Kitchen, is introduced by Mr. J. D. Hunter's comedy company. The part of the Belle is delightfully played by Miss Blanche Bayley; Miss Eva Bayley gives a touch of distinction as the mistress; while Mr. J. D. Hunter (in the police force) creates great laughter by his incomparable gift of humour. The Army is well represented by Mr. Howell Sequin and the milkman by Mr. Charles Hawker. Miss Lalie Brooke sings some pleasing songs. Some quiet and superior acrobation is shown by the Bros. Bright, and some new and novel pictures are seen on the Bioscope.

HASTINGS HIPPODROME AND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—With the garb and antics of the monkey, Mr. Aldro Lukos exhibits some original gymnastic feats; Farrell and Miller are droll in dialogue and entertaining in song and dance; Beau and Belle, in A Pierrot's Serenade, score a complete success; an attractive comedienne is seen in Miss Violet Stockelle; and some special films by the Hippodrome Bioscope make a welcome variation. A new farcical comedy sketch, My Braces, is well acted by Messrs. Leonard Robson, Alec Chrichton, and Miss Eileen Concanon. Later on these clever artists are associated in another similar entertaining sketch. The Paulo Brothers gain much applause for their acrobatic antics; the impersonations given by Mr. Richard Teinberg are remarkable for their vital realisation; and Miss Lily Eyton charms all by her pleasing manner and style of singing.

ST. LEONARDS PAVILION THEATRE. — Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Messrs. Clark and Gallimore's San Francisco Coloured Minstrels are giving great delight here this week. They are artists of great ability, and in their dancing and singing, in their part-songs, and humorous ditties they quite excel. A selection of ballads and comic songs comprises the first part of their entertainment; this is followed by miscellaneous items—quartettes, trios, and sketches. Their interlocutor is Mr. Lawrence, and besides the proprietors the company include the Great-Little Thomas and Messrs. Alma Priestley, Steve Louch, G. Richins, the Two Chandons, Sadie Gold, and Edward Camplin.

HORWICH.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Oliver Wade; Manager, Mr. Alec. Harcourt.—This week the Imperial Electric Animated Picture Company provide the entertainment, and exhibit some very fine pictures. Varieties are introduced by Miss Marie Rivers, a very pleasing serio; Mr. Frank Dandy, an excellent comedian; the Dunlops, comedy cyclist and roller skaters; Miss Sivado, lady gymnast; Mr. H. Watson, swell comedian; and M. Sardou, in an exciting illusion entertainment.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—That good old drama The Streets of London is proving a satisfactory attraction for the holiday crowds. A clever cast includes Mr. William Rokeby as Badger, Mr. Gerald Kennedy as Bloodgood, and Mr. Charles O'Connor as young Fairweather, Miss Dorothy Mayhew is the banker's haughty daughter Alida and Miss Violet Hammersley a sympathetic Lucy. Mr. Joe Bracewell, a sterling comedian, appears as Puffy, Miss Helena Rigby as his better half, and Miss Florence Moore as Puffy Junior. The evergreen play is well mounted and staged.

HIPPODROME, LTD. — Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—A well-varied bill is headed by Radford and Valentine in their clever and humorous medley of juggling and burlesque. Other turns are by Charles Russell, character vocalist; Winona, an expert handler of the rifle; Rossi Ashton, a clever caricaturist; Howard and St. Clair in their smart medley; Judge's well-trained troupe of cockatoos; Alf Hurley and Maud Cole, duettists; La Berat, in a brilliant and richly coloured series of illuminated dances; and an interesting film on the Bioscope.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—It is a pleasant change which brings into our midst Mr. Albert Chevalier, no longer as the singer of those ballads with which his name is ever associated, but as an actor. His programme consists of a triple bill. Two of the plays are products of his own pen—Atonement, a powerful one-act drama, the second, The Dream of His Life. The third item, a beautiful Barryesque little play, Pantaloon; in the title-rôle Mr. Chevalier portrays the old man to perfection. In this little play he has excellent support from Miss Mabel Garden and that clever actor, Julian Cross. A notable performance is that of Little Dorrit, the clown. Remarkably fine is Mr. Chevalier's picture of the Rev. Philip Cartwright in Atonement.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The summer season has opened this week, carrying with it the right to smoke, which is much appreciated. The play selected is Sapho, in which Miss Annie Bell takes the name-part. Mr. Otto Minster gives a fair representation of Jean Gausin. The company loyally supports Miss Bell.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.—The Tyrant, a strong Venetian drama, is a play just suited to the tastes of a Bank Holiday audience. Miss Marie Dagmar gave a clever reading of the rôle of Thisbé, and added by her conception of the part a new claim to recognition as an actress of much talent. As the hero, Mr. John Cecil was an effective representative; Mr. Percy Brown is an excellent comedian, and in developing the humorous side was assisted by Mr. Willie Barrett and Miss Olive Lloyd.

HYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. R. Feather.—Mr. Lingford Carson's drama, Defending His Honour, is appealing to holiday-makers this week. Mr. John Davidson makes an excellent Douglas Bryce, and the numberless disguises he adopts demonstrates his versatility; Mr. C. Earle plays the difficult part of Stephen Graid with much discretion; and as George Duncan, alias Cyrus Wentworth, Mr. J. D. Geddes is most effective. Mr. Evan Roland in his original part of Jack Damish displays histrionic powers of a high order; Mr. Fred L. Arthur as Richard Verison, and Mr. Haughton Macaulay as Dick Verison, keep the house in a roar of laughter; and they are ably assisted in their efforts by Mr. Edmund Lyons as Mrs. Theresa Verison (her original part) and Miss Sybil Haughton as Trixie Lucien. Miss F Melrose Millett is a statuesque Ethel Bryce, and plays a highly-emotional part with much distinction; the two boys, Harry and Jack Bryce, are depicted with real feeling and sympathy by Miss Massie Angus and Miss Dorothy Vaughan. Other parts are capably interpreted by Mr. Fred Carroll (David Pellar), Mr. G. F. Roberts (Captain Hampton), Mr. T. W. Russell (Henri Vidame), Mr. Sam Hoggarth (P.C. Emerson), Mr. H. Melville (Jean Baptiste), Miss Norah Egerton (Nurse Sugden), and Miss Agnes Norton (Jane).

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Under the Czar, by Mr. Fred Jarman's company, is the attraction for the holiday week. In the rôle of Nicholas Yeroslaff, Mr. Wilson Howard displays ability; Sonia Gregorovitch is ably portrayed by Miss Caroletta Anson; Mr. George H. Doyle figures well as Count Nesseldorf; Mr. Fred M. Best does capable work as Nikon; Egor Gregorovitch and Michael Granoviski are well sustained by Messrs. J. Leicester and R. Merring; Mr. Carl Vallender presents a quaint interpretation of Alexis Petroff; and Mr. Arthur Weston makes an amusing Paul Ignat.

QUEEN'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. James Morley.—The Le Grays head the bill; and other artists are Victor, refined entertainer; Flo Grant, balladist; Little Jacko, eccentric patter comedian; May Mills, comedienne and dancer; and Ted Evans, eccentric comedian.

IPSWICH.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Leonard Grey.—When We were Twenty-one is being played here by a good all-round company, under the management of Miss Dorothy Cacey. Mr. Riddell Robinson enacts Richard Carew in a forcible and sympathetic manner; Mr. Edgar J. Coyne is capable as Sir Horace Plumely; Mr. George Henson is quite at home as the Imp; and Miss Dorothy Cacey in the part of the Firefly is quite successful. Miss Mildred Hodson also scores as Phyllis.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Miss Alexandra Dagmar, who is heading the bill here, has been received with enthusiasm by crowded audiences. Another effective turn is that of the Three Bounding Pattersons, American acrobats, with wonderful somersaults and feats on the triple bar. Other items include Bert Williams, ventriloquist; Tony Iveson, vocalist and pianist; Tom E. Hughes, with amusing songs; Gus W. Blake and Maude Granby, clever duologue artists, who appear in a sketch, entitled The Man in Possession; Kitty Clover and company in an interlude, Mr. There's Heir; and Minnie Mace, a graceful dancer.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—Mr. E. Hill Mitchelson's company is here with When the Lights Are Low. Mr. George Daiper gives a manly portrayal of Guy Goldsworthy; Mr. S. E. Scanlon plays with force as Roland Goldsworthy; Ikey Isaacson is ably looked after by Mr. Lance Usher; Mr. Francis Serle, Mr. James E. Abbott, and Mr. Russel Bogue are highly amusing as Willie Wilkins, Tim Wilkins, and Donald Macpherson, and they are well supported by Miss Cissie Podmore as Kathleen Kerry; Miss May Ediss is a capable Stella; Nancy Christie is carefully presented by Miss Violet Carlyle; and Miss Amy Elham does full justice to the part of Violet Christie.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Marris.—Are You a Mason? is the holiday attraction here. Mr. Tom Payne is a mirth-provoking George Fisher; Mr. George Blunt an excellent Amos Bloodgood; Mr. Walter B. Nugent a particularly good Frank Perry; the North-country accent of John Halton is excellently rendered by Mr. Robert Barton; Mr. C. B. Williams does well as Hamilton Travers, and Mr. Arthur Ingle is well placed as Ernest Morrison. Miss Emily Stevens gives an especially graphic presentation of the suspicious and jealous Caroline; Miss Ethel Ward is a charmingly attractive Eva; whilst Annie and Lulu are prettily represented by Miss Josephine Preece and Miss Norah Melton, and Lottie is amusingly played by Miss Beaumont Collins.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall.—Mr. Lingford Carson's company in The Power of the Cross has drawn crowded audiences nightly. The play was first produced here, and several of the artists are local favourites. Mr. George A. De Gray (the author) is seen in the principal character, Baron Curzola, and displays marked ability. Gerald Fairfax, in the hands of Mr. Charles E. Linney, receives admirable treatment; Mr. Alexander J. Haviland does full justice to the part of Dr. Leslie Fairfax; Mr. Richard E. Nugent brings plenty of humour to bear on the part of Timothy O'Dowd; Miss Cicely Desmonde's capabilities are shown in the handling of the part of Rita Lascelles; Miss Marie Menzies displays much ability as Margaret Seaton; Miss Phyllis Vaughan is a successful Blanche Kingsley.

KETTERING.—AVENUE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Payne.—The attraction this week is a variety entertainment, to which excellent turns are contributed by Ruth Cattello and Fritz Reiff, the Tkatchas, Li Chang Hi, the conjurer; the Four Sisters Sligo, musical entertainers; the Camerons, Warden Reed and Miss Stevens, Staffo, and the Sisters Carlton.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—A. G. Spry is responsible for some excellent songs, and is enthusiastically received; Ruby and Laws give a superior vocal and humorous act, In Old Madrid; and Miss Kate Avey is a fascinating vocalist and dancer. Newham and Latimer give a farcical turn; the Musical Keiths are clever; and some good pictures by Jury complete an excellent programme.

LANCASTER.—ATHENÆUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. Rogers; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alfred Hook.—The present week brings the season to a close, and Mr.

is a marvel. He is ably assisted by Miss May with some smart patter and dancing. The Martulla Troupe win hearty applause; as also do Hyde and Cody, eccentrics. George Bendon, the white coon; Nancy Renshaw, comedienne and bone soloist; George Edney, character vocalist; and the Hippograph, complete the bill.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. Harry Hunter.—Holiday-makers are well provided for at Leamington. Messrs. Ediscope and Barnum's animated picture and variety company being the attraction at the theatre. The pictures include some excellent films of a pathetic and amusing character. A very good variety company includes the Cedrics, speciality artists; Mr. Loder Lyons, ventriloquist; Lulu, lady musician; and Vela, an expert wire walker.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—A crowded and enthusiastic house gathered here on Monday to welcome that brilliant young couple, Mr. Seymour Hicks and Miss Ellaline Terriss, in their new play, The Beauty of Bath. Beautifully dressed and lavishly mounted, the piece was an instant success. Briskness and vivacity is the keynote of Mr. Seymour Hicks's performance of Lieut. Alington, and his dashing presence and effective by-play proved most entertaining. Miss Terriss delighted all by her artistic portrayal of Lady Betty; the company contains a juvenile comedian of great ability in Master Valchera, who is provocative of much merriment at every appearance; Miss Sydney Fairbrother is also very successful with the low-comedy part of Mrs. Goodge; Mr. Lawrence Caird is effective as Lord Quorn; Mr. Stanley Brett acts well as Mr. Beverley, Alington's double; Miss Florence Lloyd is seen in a charming portrayal of Alington's mother; and Miss Nell Carter and Miss Maudi Darrell also acquit themselves well. The remaining parts are all in good hands.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—Two Little Vagabonds is once again filling this theatre to overflowing, being excellently presented by Hardie and Von Leer's company. The juveniles, Dick and Wally, are very cleverly played by Miss Edie Martin and Miss Josie Beltram; and Mr. Lionel Ellis also finds favour for a powerful conception of Gaffer Bill Mullins. The cast includes Mr. Arthur Melborne and Miss Grace Heywood, in leading parts; whilst Mr. Sidney Voiture and Miss Rosslyn Vane are also prominent.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—That popular idol, Vesta Tilley, is once again in evidence here, and the warmest and most demonstrative welcome is her nightly portion. Tina Clementa introduces a most interesting animal show, both horse and dogs displaying rare intelligence; the Strads are warmly applauded for their musical act; the Northern Troupe of dancers are very expert in their exhibition of various styles; Victor Newman impersonates leading actors with rare fidelity; Alice May and company hit the public taste with a clever protean sketch; and of the rest, Kitty Wager, comedienne; Fred Poplar, an old favourite; and Allan Hanbury, comedian, acquit themselves specially well.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece.—Marie Loftus tops the bill at the popular Palace, and the clever lady gets a big reception nightly; Charles Deane is a big favourite, his smart songs being received with acclamation; Ingram and Irving are doing well with their comedy act; the popular coloured vocalist, W. H. Downs, again comes in for a hearty reception; Charles Clark is a comedian of merit; and interesting turns are also done by Rosie Reval, comedienne, and Sisters Belmont, duettists.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Harry Ford is at the head of a strong holiday bill, and his items are much to the liking of crowded houses. Other popular comedians appearing are Harry Brown and Fred Hastings. Percival and Morley do an enjoyable comedy sketch with success; Jimsons' uproarious sketch, Burglar's Surprise, is well to the liking of the audience; whilst Fulbrook and company are no less successful in their mirthful Astronomy burlesque. The Brothers Lavelle are very entertaining with comedy acrobatics; Frank and Alice Lurin contribute an acceptable comedy act; and Ben Hur, renowned athlete; Flo Warner, vocalist; and Lottie D'Abbey, comedienne, complete an attractive programme.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—The Six Æolians head the list here with a capital vocal and dancing act; Tennyson and Wallis, the favourite comedians, are doing well at the bottom of the bill; Recco, burlesque acrobat, is vastly amusing; Winifred Ward scores a good success as male impersonator; and the Sisters Hall, duettists; G. W. Foster, comedian; Mozzetto, juggler; H. Pawson, in pot-pourri act; and the Wilfords, equilibrists, are also popular entertainers.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton.—The holiday attraction here consists of a special production of the evergreen East Lynne, adapted by Mr. Herbert Shelley, in which the late Mr. Henry Dundas was to have appeared as Archibald Carlyle. An excellent representative company have been engaged, who are to be commended for a good all-round performance. Mr. G. P. Polson as Archibald Carlyle maintains his reputation as a sound actor; and as Lady Isabel, Miss Louise Peach plays convincingly. Mr. E. W. Maule Cole as Captain Francis Levison does well; and Mr. W. J. Mitchell makes a capital Inspector Johnson. Both Miss Marie Scharning as Barbara Hare and Miss Esther Carthew as Miss Corny Carlyle give portrayals of much merit. The other characters are in safe hands, and the play is staged in good style.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont. — Mr. Leonard Dalrymple's company is presenting the sensational drama, As Midnight Chimes, to crowded houses. Mr. Leonard Dalrymple makes an excellent impression as Dave Stannard; and as the evil genius, Luke Dezzard, Mr. Herbert Belmore plays well. Miss Maud Hastings is very good as Mary Stannard; and as the Hindu girl, Zamora, Miss Mary Swires is capital. Both Miss Madge Beresford as Suzette, the French maid, and Mr. James Salter, as Pat Spavvin, give popular and amusing portrayals. Miss Marion Ryder as Little Davy is deserving of much praise; and Mr. Herbert Pearce as Ezra Gamble is commendable.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bertram G. Iles.—Record holiday audiences are kept in a continual ripple of merriment by Mr. Lew Lake and company, in the petite comedy-drama, My Pal Jerry, which forms the principal attraction here. Mr. Lew Lake as Nobbler Nolan and Mr. Bob Morris as Jerry Jackson are particularly good; and are aided in excellent style by Mr. Harry Lavers as Justice Downs and Mr. Charles Graydon as K.C. Curtis. Marie Santoi presents a delightful vocal novelty scena, entitled A Japanese Tea Garden, which receives a good reception; Sylvesta, assisted by Miss Vera De Courtenay, scores a well-deserved success as a magician; one, Billy Farrell, maintains his popularity as a clever coon artist; Anna Hope, who possesses a good contralto voice, is warmly welcomed for her illustrated song, "My ain folk"; David Poole is a capable and amusing ventriloquist; Collins and Rice, the gagging rhymesters, create hearty laughter; and the American Bioscope is also a feature of the programme.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—A crowded house and a warm welcome awaited Carlotta de Yonson and her popular sketch company here on Monday, when they presented Crime and the Criminal, the leading parts being well played by Mr. Charles A. Carlile, Mr. C. Douglas Carlile, and Carlotta de Yonson. The Pichel Troupe of Risley acrobats are making a deservedly big hit with a performance of exceptional smartness; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is still a very popular feature; and other capital turns are contributed by Rhoda Burnhill, speciality dancer; Frankie Newcombe, vocalist; Lil Harpley, comedienne; and Jock Mackoy, Scotch comedian.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Rousby.—Mrs. S. Duckworth's company is appearing here this week in the stirring drama, Her Nameless Child. Mr. J. W. Evelyn's impersonation of Anthony Ford is one of great excellence; Mr. Eilerslie Pyne wins execration as the unscrupulous Lord Henry Woodville; Mongrove is ably represented by Mr. Fred Griffiths; and as Arthur, Mr. Herbert Evelyn gives a successful rendering. Miss Pattie Hastings is entirely in sympathy with the character of the unfortunate Phyllis Ford; Miss Grace Jones acts with distinction as Lady Sibil Woodville; and Mr. Fred Danvers as Tom Rivers and Miss Florence Hall as Bessie Brooks ably represent the humour of the piece.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—Mr. Frank Lindo's drama, Home, Sweet Home, has a theme always sure to enlist sympathy, and the interest is well maintained. The author himself appears to advantage in the rôle of Steve Armitage, ably supported by a good company, including Miss Marion Wakeford, who brings both charm and talent to her impersonation of Joan. The Duke of Ancaster finds a dignified representative in Captain Gerald Gambier; Lucas Lyle, the evil genius of the play, is well acted by Mr. F. Miles Hodgson; David Armitage is consistently portrayed by Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle; and the smaller parts of Dick Redmayne and Solomon Kerry are effectively rendered by Mr. George Overs and Mr. T. Lewis. The comedy element, not unduly predominant, is mainly in the hands of Mr. Jack Patrick as the Hon. Percy, Miss May Rochefort as Sybil Fay, and Mr. Lionel Ray as an old Rustic; while Mr. Ernest E. Owens and Miss Cecil Ward, as aristocratic types, provide further amusement. Mr. Danvers gives a pleasingly natural sketch of a village doctor; and more than a word of praise is due to a very juvenile actress, Miss Daisy Rochefort, for her acting in the child's part of Dora

LINCOLN.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank King.—The Soldier of Fortune is being presented by a company under the direction of Mr. Haldane Crichton, in which Mr. Godfrey Tearle and Miss Molly Malone cleverly take the leading parts. Mr. Alfred Gray as Stephen Cunningham, Mr. William Lowe as Dr. Thorn, Mr. Cyril Este as Colonel Ferrars, and Mr. E. T. Sayers as a jovial innkeeper, add to the effect of the play.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—Always welcome to Lincoln is Maidie Scott, who is accorded a flattering reception nightly. There is no warmer favourite at this hall, and her demure "Amen" song, and her newest success, "Carrots," create a furore. Oakdene has a smart ventriloquial act; Fasola's illusions are astounding; and the Maples present a very entertaining duologue. The Leotard Brothers have lost none of their dexterity; and Adey Spencer, Kisbey, and Raymond's Bioscope, complete the bill.

LIVERPOOL.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Lawrence.—On Monday the new musical play, My Darling, made its first appearance in Liverpool, and to Miss Marie Studholme, the principal in the really charming work, was accorded a most hearty welcome. As Joy Blossom she sang and danced with her well-known grace and sprightliness, receiving encores for her songs, "The glow-worm," and "Flirting." Mr. J. F. McArdle stood out prominently as the humorous Sir Henry Heldon, arousing much enthusiasm with his song, "Nobody"; Mr. Henry A. Lytton afforded great support as the military Hon. Jack Hylton, scoring in the duet, "Do you follow me?"; Mr. Armand Kalisy's vocalism in the rôle of Maurice Le Blanc earned for that artist general appreciation; Miss Barbara Deane was a charming Daphne Bell, her singing calling forth loud applause; as Gabriel Renee, Miss Alice Hollander earned considerable appreciation; Miss Alice Barth made an admirable Lady Heldon; the rôle of Mrs. Pomeroy P. Green was most amusingly presented by Miss Helen Kinnaird; in the character of Sir James Jagg Mr. Will Bishop introduced with effect two unique dances; Mr. Tom Graves proved exceedingly funny as Oddy; Miss Marguerite Leslie was a sweet Sylvaine; and Mr. Archie McCraig did his best as the page boy. After this week the theatre closes for the summer season.

SHAKESPEARE THEATRE. — Managing-Directors, Messrs. E. Stevens and R. C. Buchanan; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—The Christian paid a return visit here this week, with Mr. Wentworth Croke's No. 1 Company. Mr. E. Howard Templeton played with considerable effect the part of John Storm; Miss Grace Chalmers earned the affections of her audience by her fine portrait of Glory Quayle; Mr. F. Scarth did his utmost with the rôle of Lord Robert Ure; Mr. Frank Beresford capably interpreted the character of Horatio Drake; and other strong supporters were Messrs. Edwin Ling (Father Lamplugh), Charles Hill (Parson Quayle), Wilfred Noy (Brother Paul), Mr. Charles E. Dering (Archdeacon Wealthy), Miss Vashti Wellborne (Polly Love), and Miss Molly Hayden (Mrs. Callander). On Thursday afternoon Madame Jane Hading and company paid a flying visit with Frou-Frou.

ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—The public have not been slow to appreciate the excellent fare offered at the north-end theatre this week, with the result that Leah Kleschna has done good business. The company sent by Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh is the best that has been seen here for years, including as it does Mr. William Clayton (who assumes the late Mr. Paul Belmore's part of Kleschna), Mr. William F. Grant (a capital Sylvaine), Mr. Hamilton Deane (Raoul), Campbell Goldsmid (a powerful Schram), Miss Ethel Russell (Madame Berton), and Miss Haidee Wright (whose rendering of Leah was watched with breathless interest). Messrs. Ronald Daniel (Valentine), Frederick Bauerman (Baptiste), and Miss Violet Thorrold (Sophie) afford worthy support.

LYRIC — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The popular Florrie Gallimore heads the bill here this week, and, being a favourite, has a hearty reception for her taking songs; Chanti, as a protean artist, affords the utmost satisfaction; Ike Scott and Son present two neat scenas, The Blind Coster and The Military; Adams and Ward are a particularly funny couple; the singing of the Steinway Glee Party is listened to with evident pleasure; Josie Delaine has some artistic songs and dances; McDonald and Huntington raise laughter; and Canard, contortionist, also appears.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg. — Walter Howard's stirring drama Man and Wife has proved a strong attraction here during the week, the company presenting it being that of Mr. T. Edward Ward. Mr. John F. Traynor affords the utmost satisfaction as Paul Revere; Miss Kate Hallam presents a most sympathetic Marcelle; Mr. Wilson Coleman gives a telling representation of the villainous Captain D'Esparre; Messrs. Edward Van Biene and Ambrose Horton acquit themselves well as Latour and Jacques; great laughter follows the work of Messrs. Sidney Bryant and Van Gully as the twins; and Miss Pollie Denville as Rosette, Miss Ethel F. Greene in the character of Jean, and Miss Violet Temple as Ruth are excellent.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—The Ministrel Maids, a number of good-looking girls, make their first appearance in this country. They provide the old-time nigger show, with nice songs, choruses, and smart jokes. A harp solo by Mr. Harry Chapman adds to the enjoyment; a much appreciated turn is the marvellous juggling of the Morris Cronin Troupe; the Dillons executed difficult and amusing feats as gymnasts; the Carina Sisters have a refined and pleasing musical mélange; Helen Charles has a pretty drawing-room entertainment; much laughter is aroused by Keith and Merson, with their hunting absurdity, The Meet; Dan Thomas is as funny as ever; a clever show is given by Wylies's dogs; and also in the list are Stan. Aubrey, eccentric legmania comedian, and Tod Lowen, comedian.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Queen of the Night is being played here by the "Royal" stock company. Mr. Percy Boucher makes a humorous Adolphus Briskett; Mr. Harry Tresham is a manly Frank Featherstone; Mr. Sydney Grant plays powerfully as Philip Stoneleigh; and Mr. Robert Wilton handles the part of David Pentreath with effect. Miss Nellie Bonser distinguishes herself as Maude Sylvester; and Miss Beryl Ravenswood in the name-part does excellently.

HAYMARKET.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—Harry Calden and company still head the bill here, giving this week The Harvest; or, Back to Dear Old Erin. The Hallwood Four, gentlemen athletes, provide an interesting gymnastic scena; little Marie Dane pleases with her songs and dances; Jake Euston, coon vocalist and dancer, is a good turn; and some capital pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

WESTMINSTER.—Lessee, Mr. Fred B. Welsker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Regan and Ryan are at the head of the programme here this week, keeping their audiences in the best of humours; Russell Carr gives a novel ventriloquial turn; as a comedienne and acrobatic dancer Edie Endon is most acceptable; Brennan and Dewey are a couple of lively rag-time singers and dancers; some remarkable conjuring and illusions are performed by the youthful Val Vair; and Patty Yole, comedienne and dancer, also appears.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Mr. Bransby Williams tops the bill here this week, and is working hard by presenting a different set of characters at each performance throughout the week; The Punch Bowl, an old English musical scena, presented by F. Wood, G. Ide, Sidney Eracey, Robert Selby, Millroy Cooper, and Ralph Nairn, affords much pleasure; the Five Eugenes perform some marvellous acts on the flying trapeze; the trick violin playing of Carlos Menard showed a deal of skill; a pretty musical, military scena, Back to Barracks, comes from Dennis Drew; a deal of merriment is occasioned by Fred Cullane's Comedy Four; and also in the list are Fanny Erris, character comedienne, Charles Kay, with plenty of excellent patter and songs, and Gwennie Hasto, chic comedienne and fancy dancer.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—A capital all-round programme is provided here this week, at the top of it being the name of R. A. Roberts, the wonderful protean actor, who has been delighting large audiences with his Ringing the Changes; Pat Rafferty has a hearty reception for his Irish songs; the Delevines bring their latest mélange Flipp and Flopp, which is particularly funny; Fred and Pauly go through some astonishing head-and-hand balancing; Nellie Coleman, the "female comedian," pleases immensely; Bonnie Goodwin's Apollo Piccaninnies earn loud applause for their smart dancing; the Cronophone is witnessed with deep interest; the Eisteddfod Vocal Sextette bring down the house with their charming singing; and others who appear include Les Uniques, ladder balancers, and Dome, comedy clay modeller.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Liverpool Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. James Marks.—Heading the bill this week is the successful sketch, Sally in Our Alley. Walter George's smart set of entertainers are loudly applauded for their work; Albert Le Fre renders several very taking songs; Cribb and Cribb raise much laughter; Les Voces sing tastefully several operatic selections; Nellie Dunbar proves popular as a comedienne and dancer; and others who appear are Arthur Croxon, mimetic comedian, Sydney and Maud, duettists and dancers, and Jeanie Hartley, a popular juvenile comedienne and dancer.

LLANDUDNO. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company is here this week in Sunday. In the title-rôle, Miss Margaret Fareleigh is seen to great advantage; Mr. Leonard Pagden as Colonel Brinthorpe acts with telling effect throughout; Tom Oxley is in the capable hands of Mr. Ernest A. Douglas; and Towser (Mr. Wm. Lockhart), Davey (Mr. Sidney Rennef), and Lively (Mr. Cecil Yapp) all do exceedingly well, a special word being due to Mr. Cecil Yapp. Mr. Arthur Vezin as Jacky is excellent; and Miss Rosalind Ross as Mrs. Naseby and Miss Maude Ashley as a nun, are well placed.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Vaughan; Manager, Mr. J. Ritson.—Mr. Jerrard Grant Allen's company occupied the boards of the above theatre on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday with The New Boy. As Archibald Rennick, Mr. Leon M. Lion created fun throughout; Mr. Harry Ashford as Dr. Candy was good; Mr. George De Lara did well as Felix Roach; Mr. Wm. J. Rae did justice to the part of Theodore de Brizac; and Bullock Major was well played by Mr. Stanley Logan. Mrs. Rennick was in the capable hands of Miss Gertrude Bibby; and Miss Nellie Redwood as Nancy Roach was all that could be desired. The New Boy is preceded by a dramatic incident in one act, entitled Meg the Mobswoman, in which Misses Gertrude Bibby and Beatrice Manning, and Messrs. Stanley Logan and Harry Ashford, are conspicuous. On Thursday The Idler was played.

LOWESTOFT. — HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—The holiday programme here has proved highly attractive. An excellent series of pictures is supplemented by a variety combination of unusual merit. Harry Tomps is a capital comedian, and his quaint humour and patter established him at once as a favourite; the Alberto Troupe of acrobats are in great favour; and Miss Childie Stuart is highly successful.

MARINA.—Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—For the Whitsun holidays we have a welcome return visit of The Toreador, presented by a capable company under Mr. Charles Macdona. Mr. Richard Adams does well as Pettifer; and Messrs. Fred Thompson (Sir Archibald) and J. H. Willis (Augustus Trail) are both admirably placed. Mr. Sydney Granville appears to advantage as Carajola; and Mr. Hy. Arthur is praiseworthy as the Governor of Villaya. Mr. Robt. Rous provides a genuine fund of humour as Sammy Gigg; and Miss Leah Howard appears successfully as Susan. Dora Selby and Nancy Staunton find charming representatives in the Misses Florence Ward and Mabel Gregory; Miss Gwen Clifford is suitably placed as Mrs. Malton Hoppings; and Miss Nina Carlton as Donna Teresa finds plenty of admirers.

MAIDENHEAD.—PAVILION PLEASURE GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—Although an immense marquee is erected, Mr. Gude's resources were taxed to their utmost limits to accommodate his patrons on Whit Monday. The entertainment is of the usual high order, and the individual efforts of the troupe of cadets are enthusiastically applauded.

NORTHWICK HOUSE GROUNDS. — Messrs. Redfern and Richards have opened here for the season with their pierrot concert party. Numbers were turned away on Bank Holiday. Their programme is smart and varied, and they have every prospect of doing good business.

MAIDSTONE.—CORN EXCHANGE.—Manager, Mr. J. W. Beslee.—On Monday Mr. Frank Morrison's company opened in Dandy Dick. The piece was excellently staged, and well acted, those deserving of special mention being Mr. Philip Swinnerton as the Dean of St. Marvells, and Miss Florence Crundall as Georgina Tidman. These two characters were excellently played.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. S. Baskerville.—The principal items on a good holiday programme are Vengeance, a well-written dramatic sketch, excellently played by the Deane-Jennings company; Charles Coverdale, a very popular comedian and raconteur; Goggin and Davis, smart comedy acrobats; the Lennons excel as pedestal dancers; the Sisters Russell, duettists and dancers, are popular.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra.—A second week of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company includes the attractive répertoire of The Yeomen of the Guard, Iolanthe, The Gondoliers, Patience, and The Pirates of Penzance and Trial by Jury. These popular pieces are presented in thoroughly entertaining style, the company being excellent and the staging equally fine. Good houses have distinguished the fortnight's stay.

PRINCE'S THEATRE, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. George Lee.—A visit of Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton to Manchester was welcomed with marked enthusiasm by a capital house here on Monday. The play presented was The Taming of the Shrew, and, in addition to Mr. Asche's powerful, easy depiction of Petruchio, a delightfully intelligent rendering of Katharina—a rendering which amounted to inspiration, and communicated a genuine thrill to the house at the last critical moment of her conversion—compelled the admiration of the audience for the bold, yet delicate, art of Miss Lily Brayton in this exacting character-part. The company supporting these two distinguished players is well chosen and highly capable, and includes Mr. Alfred Brydone, Mr. H. R. Hignett, Mr. G. Kay Souper, Miss Leila Norris, Miss Elsie Chester, and Miss Agnes Brayton among others who have occasional opportunities to shine. On Thursday Othello was presented with remarkable success, and on Friday Rudolf Besier's play, The Virgin Goddess. Manchester hopes for more frequent visits of the company.

GAIETY THEATRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn. — An interesting répertoire, including David Garrick, David Copperfield, and The Coping Stone, is offered here this week by a smart combination of players, headed by Mr. Chas. Cartwright, Mr. Gerald Lawrence, Mr. A. B. Tapping, and Mr. Charles Collette. Monday's matinée of David Garrick, with Mr. Gerald Lawrence in the title-part and Miss Fay Davis as Ada, was well received; and in the evening a good interpretation was given of David Copperfield, in which Mr. Charles Cartwright played Peggotty in consistent fashion; Mr. Lionel Belmore was excellent as Ham; Mr. A. B. Tapping made a life-like Uriah Heep; and Mr. Charles Collette presented an unctuous and finished comedy impersonation of Micawber; Mr. Gerald Lawrence being seen to good effect as Steerforth, and Miss Lorna Lawrence figuring satisfactorily as Little Em'ly. Other characters were well played, notably the Mrs. Gummidge of Miss Ethel Sarjient. Among the scenery, the home of the Peggottys—The Ark—is well put on, and the Dickens atmosphere is appreciable throughout. The Coping Stone, played on Thursday, is by Mr. Gerald Lawrence.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—The programme here this week comprises Montague Beaudyn's company, in a highly dramatic episode called Jealousy; Gus Harris, the Hebrew delineator (also figuring prominently at the King's, Longsight); Marie Blythe, a popular contralto vocalist; J. H. Dundas, actor-vocalist; the Olympian Lady Ju-jitsu Troupe, demonstrating the Japanese art of self-defence; Baker and Lindsay, in a bijou musical comedy; the Four Sisters Victoria, instrumentalists and dancers; and a series of amusing pictures.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Manager, Mr. P. Ryan Smith. — An interesting domestic drama, For Her Husband's Sake, is offered here this week by Mr. Millar Anderson's company. The principal parts are played by Mr. Ernest G. Batley as Jack Seymour, Miss Gladys Lloyd as Maria, Mr. Charles Burdon as the licentious Herbert Grey, and Miss Ethyle Murray as Estelle Beaudit, a demi-mondaine, and the clever work of this essential quartette is neatly supplemented by the efforts of the remainder of a wholly capable cast.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—Mr. Robert Perris's company is presenting here the American drama A Fight for Millions. A well-staged and exciting play, the chief honours of its interpretation are earned by Mr. William Macready as Tom Manley, the inventor; Miss Winifred Symons, as Pearl Rivers, a true-hearted girl; Mr. Monson Thorpe, as the determined Richard Dudley, who is fighting for millions; and Miss Elma C. Turner as Helen Dudley, the deserted wife; while among other incidental characters, more or less interesting and amusing, some capital fun is contributed by Mr. Tom Jones, a Welsh comedian, as Clara-ap-Morgan, and Mr. Karl H. Edwards as Willie Neverwork, a tramp. Miss Dorothy Kent acts nicely as Little Madge.

QUEEN'S THEATRE. — Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry. — This week sees the revival of Joan of Arc, a play originally produced here by Mr. Flanagan. It is elaborately staged, and made interesting by the clever acting of Mr. William Calvert as the Bishop, Mr. A. Clifton Alderson as Beauvais, Miss Ruby Loncraine as the Maid of Orleans (a very fine impersonation), Miss Clara Cowper as the Countess of Torrento, and Mr. J. H. Atkinson as Valianto. It is intended to run the play for a month or more, but its chances would be better were its three acts compressed into fewer scenes than fourteen. The staging, however, is fine.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Full houses appreciate an excellent programme here this week. Alfred Agoust, in his juggling act, is exceedingly clever and amusing; Theo Bouwmeester is very smart in his portrayal of seven characters in his protean act, Who is Guilty? Miss Fenwick, who presents a novelty entitled The Girl with the Golden Hair, is gifted with an excellent voice; and the stage effects are impressive; strikingly effective is the military spectacle, Egypt, produced by Wallace Selkirk, and introducing a number of local children; Daley Cooper and company present a very human act, Only a Clown; William Lee and Helen Bentley are very amusing in their sketch, A Friend in Need; as also is Rosa Loader, aptly described as the happy slavey at the piano; while Robb Gilmore, a quaint comedian; Hinton and Wooton, in a football match on cycles; and the American Bioscope complete a capital entertainment.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Tally Ho! remains here another week, to the delight of large audiences; Miss Amy Augarde and company present in fine style a Spanish episode, entitled La Carmencita; and Miss Lucie introduces Pavan, the mysterious gymnast, a turn novel and clever. Another notable turn is that of Kioto, the Japanese equilibrist; C. Randolph King is vastly entertaining in a protean act; Tom Owen, a capital Welsh comedian, makes a hit; the Mayvilles, in their Lilliputian act, are exceedingly good; and Johnson and Wells are smart vocalists and dancers. "Strike the lyre" is nicely rendered by the choir; and "Costumes of the Different Centuries" is a delightful film shown on the Bioscope.

KING'S (Longsight).—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. B. Taylor.—Gus Harris, the popular Hebrew delineator, is here this week in his new scena, 'Tis Primrose Day, after a most successful week at the Hulme Hippodrome; Haley's delightful scena, The Garden of Girls, is greatly enjoyed; Duncan and Brasque present with success a playlet, entitled A Society Butterfly; and the Brothers Lillian go through a neat performance on the silver chain. Entertaining turns are provided also by Douglas and Gordon, the Scottish comedy couple; Simbri, the Burmese magician; Guy Ryder, an excellent siffleur; May De Rowse, comedienne and dancer; and Fred Dornon, actor-vocalist. The animated pictures are very amusing.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tealor Wade.—A Trip to Coontown is the top star attraction here this week. It is an American musical mélange, played in characteristic style by a smart company of eighteen genuine coloured artists, and is greatly appreciated. Sam Elton is also to the front, and his clever business in the kitchen with tarts, eggs, and plates is productive of much laughter; Galetti's monkey comedians are almost human in intelligence; Bliss and Bliss prove very popular comedians; Mack Ollive whistles in a pleasing manner; the eccentric dancing of Mignonette Kokin is followed with interest; and Georgette Thierry and company are seen to advantage in an episode from "Oliver Twist," entitled Nancy Sykes. Other smart turns are those of Billy Williams, comedian; Dolly Denton, comedienne; and George Antill, "the shadow." Pictures complete.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Messrs. Hjorvard and Cantley's Bijou Opera Company top the bill here this week in The Fatal Cup, a dramatic operetta of merit, in which Mlle. Esse Viden and Messrs. Eos Clwyd and Charles Cantley are heard to advantage. Another excellent turn is that of Julie Kent and Alex Keith, in an exceedingly smart protean act, A Village for Sale; Hal Forde, the well-known comedian, makes a decided hit with his new "Doomsday Book" song; and Minnie Fenton, Scotch comedienne, is deservedly well received. Florence Leonard sings "I can see red roses blooming" in a pleasing style; Margarette Radcliffe is a burlesque artist with a fine presence, which is enhanced by the smart costumes she wears. Miss Radcliffe is well-known in Manchester, having taken a prominent part in local pantomime successes. She gives her songs with much spirit, and deservedly obtains a most cordial reception nightly. Capital items are also contributed by Ernest Fuller, a neat sleight of hand artist; Kloof and Ramsey, in a delightful comedy musical act; Sewell, the human marionette; and Harry Morgan, coon singer and dancer.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Here this week Messrs. Sidney Dooley and Charles Seymour and company are to be seen in that capital musical comedy A King for a Day. It is ably played by Messrs. Will Letters, Harry Buss, Fred Brampton, and the Misses Edith Barwell and Elsa Brittingham. The dresses, scenery, and electrical effects are excellent. Robbins and Collier are exceedingly smart in their scena, The Lady and the Porter; and in a successful sketch, The Peacemaker, Mr. W. T. Ellwanger, Mr. Alfred Wellesley, and Miss Beatrice Webb, gain great applause. Shavo is an expert juggler with comic business; May and Ruby are sweet juvenile singers; the Brothers Robson sing and dance in a pleasing manner; Harry Lee sings in good style; the Landon Brothers are original contortionists; and the pictures, "Sports in Galway," are interesting.

HIPPODROME (Hulme).—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Kay.—Gay Ostend is a farcical musical extravaganza, presented with considerable success by Ernest Adrim (a wonderful knockabout) and company of comedians; Wee Mona Vivian, an exceedingly smart juvenile, makes a decided hit; and the Lombards, up-to-date speciality acrobats, go through a surprising performance. Mme. Sims Reeves sings well; Mayme Cannon, a novel trick pianist and comedienne, is good; and enjoyable turns are also offered by Doyle and Gibson, comedians and dancers; Olms and Carbeth, juggling comedians; Kendrick and Laura, a capital duo; and Payne Clarke, the well-known tenor. "Rescued in Mid-Air" is the subject of the bioscope, and is followed with interest.

MANSFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Herbert Darnley; Resident-Director, Mr. Tom Jennings; Acting-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—The boards are occupied this week by Messrs. Elliman's company, in A Heart's Desire, and great crowds have attended each evening. Mr. Frank V. Fenn in the rôle of Lord St. Ives, alias Beautiful Jim, displays marked ability; Mr. Walter Kenion enacts the part of Luke Forrest in a very powerful manner; Mr. Roy Gordon is an acceptable Eric May; David McCullock is capably enacted by Mr. Charles King; in the part of Coombes, the butler, Mr. Eddie Vane causes great amusement; and the comedy of Mr. Sydney Claydon and Miss Ida Irving, in the respective parts of the Hon. Bertie Beresford and Gwendolen Ross, cause roars of laughter. Miss Enid Edoni plays with great pathos as Oiya; as Elsie Beresford, Miss Amy Dalby gives a very artistic rendering; and the part of Julie, the maid, is in the capable hands of Miss Emaline Resselle. The scenery is excellent and the staging praiseworthy.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Cecil Clayton.—An al fresco theatre was provided at the rear of the building, and it was proposed to commence open-air variety performances on Whit Monday evening; but the weather prevented this, and the show took place inside. Harry Josephs' Pagoda Pierrots were entertaining, and much appreciated. Among other successful turns was that of Mr. Charles Coborn, who received great applause; the performance of Lenton and Bertram was clever and mystifying; Prof. Lenton gave a skilful conjuring entertainment. Other good turns were provided by Marie Duncan, comedienne; Herbert Rogers and Arthur Burgoyne, comedians; and others. Good pictures were depicted on the theatre Bioscope. Excellent houses are the rule.

BUCHANAN'S

"BLACK & WHITE"

THE WHISKY OF WORLD WIDE REPUTE

MARGATE.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Edward Michael; Stage and Business Manager, Mr. A. Austin-Leigh.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell and company paid a flying matinée visit here on Saturday, and gave two performances to crowded houses. At the afternoon performance Magda was played, and in the evening Hedda Gabler was performed. The holiday attraction has been the appearance of Mr. Harry Paulton and Miss Annie Esmond, supported by the Margate stock company, under the direction of Mr. Austin-Leigh, in the comedy, Niobe. The part of Peter Amos Dunn has been, during the week, amusingly sustained by Mr. Harry Paulton, Miss Annie Esmond taking the rôle of Niobe charmingly. Capable support has been given by Mr. Robert Grey as Cornelius Griffin, Mr. Wallis Clark as Hamilton Tompkins, Miss Emmie O'Reilly as Helen Griffin, Miss Inez Bensusan as Caroline Dunn, Miss Belle Travers as Hattie Griffin, and other members of the company.

The Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—Heading the bill here is Clown Zertho, with his wonderful performing dogs; Mlle. Haydee's Mannikins, a novel entertainment, is cordially received. Evie Hamilton, comedienne and dancer; Forest and King, in their clever speciality act; Mabel Thorne, comedienne; Harry Carsdale, the farmyard mimic; and the Five Casino Girls, a clever troupe of instrumentalists, all add to the enjoyment of the entertainment. The pictures again provide interest and amusement.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—The Sledge Hammer is being presented by Mr. George Henry's company. Mr. Alfred Burrows effectively undertakes the part of Everard Derrick; whilst Mr. A. B. Croucher and Mr. Hardy Maros are good as Jacob Derrick and Simon Derrick respectively; Mr. David Hamilton is excellent as Matthew Derrick; Miss Jessie Hope is natural and sympathetic as Rose Maywell; and Miss Ethel Stuart ably sustains the part of Maria Derrick.

Temperance Hall.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—This week we have Helene and Emilon, clever Continental gymnasts; an amusing pot-pourri act by Will and Rose; the Lovelaces, song illustrators; Mabel Kessler, musician; Borie, comedy juggler; and Alvar, and a new series of interesting pictures.

MEXBOROUGH.—Prince of Wales' Theatre—Manager, Mr. W. H. Melton.—A variety company provides the Whitsuntide attraction here. A capital programme is provided by Mr. Retsil, the excollier, and his child, thought-readers; the Boultons, speciality artists; Miss Ivy Gallard, comedienne; Professor Hulbert, ventriloquist; E. W. Selman, comedian; Mlle. Bartenelli, lady bender and gymnast, in her contortion act; Mons. De Lil, conjuror and illusionist; the Sisters Ely, duettists; Sam Shipley, comedian; and Crosby and Walker, comedians, patterers, &c.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—Miss Lancashire, Ltd., is the holiday attraction here. On Monday night Miss Florence Baines was unfortunately prevented through indisposition from taking the rôle of Mary Ellen Thompson, but a most capable substitute was found in Miss Kitty Jones. Mr. Burt Burton was amusing as Isadore Moses; and Mr. David Donalson was all that could be desired as John Higgins. Miss Gertie Douglas made a winsome Eva Lancashire; and Miss Nellie Birchenough was pleasing as Bridget Thompson. William Thompson had a clever representative in Mr. Hall Menzies; Mr. Patrick Evans as Harry Higgins and Miss Muriel Johnston as Bertha Higgins did full justice to their respective rôles; and Mr. Richard C. Hicks scored as Herbert Fox. Mr. Walter Hicks (Grant), Mr. Robert Turley (Smithson), and Mr. Charles Reeves (Morgan), also did well.

Opera House.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. Charles F. Cooke's company, in The Trumpet Call, occupies the boards here this week. In the leading rôle of Sergeant-Major Milligan Mr. Charles F. Cooke is very good; and as Cuthbert Cuthbertson Mr. Leonard Yorke shows himself to be possessed of considerable dramatic ability. Miss Doris Gilham as Astrea plays a part full of fine emotional effort; and Miss Helena Millais is a clever representative of the part of Constance. Mr. J. B. Selby does full justice to the character of Flash Bob, his whistling solo in the third act being well received; Miss May Foster is good as Lavina Ginnifer; and Mr. Freddie Bentley is amusing as Tommy Dutton. Mr. David Beattie as Prof. Ginnifer is all that can be desired; while the parts of Richard Featherstone, Sir William Barton, and Mrs. Wicklow are well portrayed by Mr. John Dennys, Mr. J. Betterton, and Miss Amy Wood.

Empire Palace.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles Rembges.—An excellent holiday programme is presented here this week. Hayman and Franklin provide the star turn, and create roars of laughter with their smart conversational turn; Dene and Dawson present a very funny sketch, entitled Stage Aspirants; and Webb and Branston are good as operatic duettists. Ina Lorimer, the juvenile Scotch comedienne and dancer, obtains a great reception; and the Selwyns contribute some pretty songs and dances. A clever exhibition of athletics is given by the Lafaille Troupe; and Sibb and Sibb perform some smart tricks on the trapeze. Other turns are provided by Marie Neilson and the Empire pictures.

Oxford Palace.—Proprietor, Mr. Alf. Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—Harry Grey, the Australian nugget, delights crowded houses here this week, and his comical and original style causes much merriment. Wallan is an exceedingly clever juggler; and Montague Biggs is an excellent female impersonator. Charles Faning, assisted by Miss Lottie Charles, presents a quaint and mirth-provoking turn; and Percy Ferrimond, the famous singing collier, does well. Other artists who add to the attractiveness are Little Cliff, the boy wonder, and Olive Arundale, dainty comedienne.

MORECAMBE. — Royalty Theatre and Opera House.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Julian.—Mr. Alfred B. Cross and company have been giving a fine interpretation of Hall Caine's story The Manxman. Mr. Cross is excellent as the fisherman Pete; Miss Minnie Watersford (Mrs. Cross) makes a charming Kate Cregreen; Mr. Sydney C. Kearns plays Philip Christian with much taste; and Mr. Frank Etheridge's Cæsar is sufficiently hard and un-Christian. On Friday evening the emotional play Divorced was given.

Winter Gardens.—Manager, Mr. Tom Atkinson.—The Marvellous Howards have been topping the bill here, and mystifying thousands with their silent thought transmission. The original Six Brothers Luck, in The Hotel Grande, have caused roars of laughter; comedy acrobatic business extraordinary is a term which might well be applied to the Cattaneos; and the eccentricities of those whirlwind dancers, Les Sousloffs, are away from all ordinary things. The Four Maisanos are smart musical clowns; Bob Hamilton is an amusing Scotch comedian; Dan Robans sings good songs; Florrie Conolly's Irish ballads are taking; Johnson and Bert have some novel things in their act, A Queer Customer; and the Sisters Marion are clever little duettists.

Central Pier. — Manager, Mr. E. Hill.—The Dandies, as presented by H. J. Corner, have met with a big success in their musical mélange; the Hulo Hodgson and Harry Lowther company, in the farcical episode Barmaids have caused great amusement; Wild, Willie, and West, in their trampoline and trap business, are excellent; Jules Kiaro holds his own against all hand-jumpers and pyramidists; Mme. Annie Grew has sung with much charm favourite songs; Simosa San is seen in a pretty juggling and balancing act; Mlle. Renee plays various instruments with equal ability; and Julian Mack is always an amusing dame.

Alhambra Palace. — Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—That wonderful trick and acrobatic cyclist, A. D. Robbins, has topped the bill here, and won golden opinions from all who have seen him during the week. The original Schiavonis have given a remarkable comedy acrobatic show; and Miss Olla is paticularly good. Carpet spinning, with electrical effects, has been specialised by the Spanish Goldinis. The other items have included Gillin, ventriloquial humorist; Zanfretta and Napio, musical eccentrics; Johnny Walker and Arthur Woodville, comedians; Kelby's Comedy Company, in an absurdity, Midnight Visitors; the Belmore Sisters, comediennes and dancers; and Arthur Goodman, tramp juggler.

West End Pier.—Secretary, Mr. Bastow.—Dale's Opera Company has met with a big reception here, as well as Ricardo and Salving, the unique acrobats.

NEATH.—Castle Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Hagger, jun. — The pantomime Aladdin is the attraction here. Miss Giddings is a charming Princess; Miss Jenny Lindon makes a capital Aladdin; Mr. Will Haggar is a stately Emperor; and Mr. Jack Desmond is good as Abanazar. The comic element is well supplied by Messrs. A. Stanley and E. Meadows as P.C's. Te-to-Tum and Te-to-Tim; Mr. G. Stanley as the Vizier is also good; Widow Twankey is in the capable hands of Mr. Fred Haggar. The pictures shown each night on the American Bioscope are well received.

NELSON.—Grand Theatre.—Proprietress, Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft; Business-Manager, Mr. Geo. E. Mudd.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company have occupied the boards here during Whit week with A Sister's Sin. A charming presentation of Winnie Hastings is given by Miss Violet Addison; Charzel, the revengeful gipsy, is capitally portrayed by Miss Augusta Franks; and the part of Redempta, the fallen gipsy, is entrusted to Miss Violet Langley. Mr. Edward Warden makes an impressive villain; and Mr. Arnold Allen acts well the rôle of Harold Raymond. As the rival lovers, Miss Edie Macklen and Miss Effie Mackintosh create plenty of amusement; Mr. McGowers as the happy Irishman being exceedingly funny.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. Teale Lingham.—The farcical comedy, Tom, Dick, and Harry, played by an excellent company, is proving a great attraction here this week. Mr. George Unwin is a decided success as General Stanhope, a part he has now played over five hundred times, and Miss Violet Ellicott gives a very clever impersonation of Daisy Armitage. Other parts are capably taken by Mr. Fred Conyers, Mr. T. Brown-Elliott, Mr. John P. Jordan, Mr. Fred Manners, Mr. Paige Lawrence, Mr. Charles Ashby, Mr. William S. Foley, Miss Maud Arnold, Miss Dorothy Lambert, and Miss Evelyn Marrable.

Tyne Theatre and Opera House.—Lessees, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred C. Sutcliffe.—Mr. Arthur Hardy's company occupies the boards here in Beauty and the Barge. The general lover and romancist, Captain Barley, is given an impersonation by Mr. Blake Adams convincing and complete in every detail. The company supporting is equal to all demands, and especial mention should be made of Mr. Fred Knight as Tom Codd, Miss Dido Drake as Ethel, Miss Mary Pemberton as Lucy, Miss Ruby Wyndham as Mrs. Baldwin, Mr. Edward A. Coventry as Lieutenant Boyne, and Mr. Aubrey Mallalieu as Herbert Manners.

Palace Theatre.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—Instead of the usual drama, a vaudeville company provides the programme at the Palace this week. Chief on the bill is Dr. Walford Bodie, whose exhibition of his much-discussed bloodless surgery, hypnotism, the magic electric-chair, and other electrical apparatus form so remarkable and enjoyable an entertainment. A capital variety company includes Bella Skerne, burlesque actress and vocalist; Little Dolly Robson, one of Dr. Bodie's cures; Belford and Mars, comedy singers and dancers; Tom M. Mills, actor-vocalist; T. Durlah, comedian; the Musical Acmes; and Russell and Reed's company in a farcical sketch, entitled Binks' Blunder.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—The Russian drama, The Price of Her Soul, is being played here this week by Messrs. Shinton and Greenwood's company. The leading parts are taken by Mr. J. B. Shinton and Miss Ada M. Ryder. An attraction also is an entertainment entitled "Codology," in which the "Great Hughes" claims to expose all the tests, tricks, methods, and business of the hypnotists, and manages in the process to evoke a good deal of laughter.

Empire Theatre.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Mrs. John Lawson and company in the Tirade, The Devil's Sunday, provide one of the best turns at the Empire Theatre this week. A funny pair are Stelling and Revell, and Frank Seely, the popular eccentric comedian, wins hearty applause. Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden present an exceedingly humorous duologue, Two to One; and other turns are the Boccaccio Minstrels, including Signor Francia; J. W. Rickaby, burlesque character comedian; the New York Nippers, in their scena, Bed-Time; and Percy Honri, the joking wind-jammer.

Pavilion Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—A bold bid is made for favour this week by the management of this popular hall. Mr. Arthur Roberts and Miss Ruby Celeste appear in their well-known sketch, The Woman Who Was, in which the famous comedian has full scope for displaying his comic powers, both in respect to facial expression and power. Old favourites at the Pavilion in Hill and Whitaker give an excellent musical turn, and Miss Carlotta Levey proves as popular a serio as ever. Quaint comic songs are contributed by Mr. George Gilbey, and as great a turn as ever is the billiard-table act of Messrs. Kelly and Gillette. Others appearing are Mr. Pat Carey, Miss Maude Vera, the Elgars, and Mr. Harry Vardon.

NEWPORT.—Lyceum.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Charles Macdona's company, in Mr. Popple (of Ippleton), made its first appearance here on Monday, and throughout the holidays commanded big houses. Miss Millie Hylton, a star on the variety stage, is even more attractive in musical comedy. She has humour, personal charm, and acts admirably, singing her songs with point and daintiness; Mr. Arthur Longley, who appears as Freddy Popple, is an actor of exceptional cleverness, and kept the house in a roar with his quiet humour; Mr. J. S. Durrant scores as Norman Popple; and Mr. Robt. MacLachlan sang well as Jacques Kenyou. Mr. Tom May is humorous in the part of Platt; Miss Nellie Hodson makes a bright Louise; and Miss Cora Lingard is an excellent Violet Brinton.

Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Major Gallaghar; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Page.—A capital holiday bill is provided here. The Kellinos perform some clever acrobatic feats; Boswell's Circus introduce well trained ponies, dogs, and a donkey; and Walter King (the doleful one) displays much humour in his patter; Daisy Jerome, in song and dance, has had a cordial reception; Woodhouse and Wills create a good deal of amusement; and Genaro and Theol, the india-rubber pair, evoke hearty applause; while Star and Leslie provide a speciality turn with novel effects. The Bioscope, showing some interesting pictures, completes the bill.

NORTHAMPTON.—Opera House.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon.—Her Love Against the World is being presented here. Mr. Walter Howard, the author, plays the part of Eric, Earl of Strathmere, splendidly, while sincerity and power are always prominent; Mr. W. H. Hallatt puts in some capital work as Prince Othmar; Mr. Mayor-Cooke gives a forcible reading of the part of Ulric, Prince of Ravensberg, and brings out the evil traits with due significance; Mr. Alec Alexander is a manly and vigorous Prince Maurice; Miss Ellen Snow portrays the rôle of Iris, Princess of Idalia, with artistic success; Nello is admirably played by Miss Rossie St. John; Miss Blanche Steele is good as Shulah, as is Miss Julie de Esco as Corona; Fritz, Henrick, Katinka, and Gretchen (representing the lighter side of the drama) have able exponents in Messrs. Herbert Passmore, H. B. Lewis, Misses Lizzie Lennon, and Hettie Fergusson. Mr. Arthur Groves (Surgeon Capt. Helgar), Mr. Arthur J. Moss (Sergt. Kasper), and Mr. Richard Webb (General Gessler) give capital assumptions. The remainder of the long cast do well. The drama is produced by the author, and Mr. Richard Webb is the stage-manager.

Palace of Varieties.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—A capital programme of excellent variety is provided here this week. Les Valdos, in their absurdity, The Eccentric Motor 'Bus Men, and Hyram Travers (the "Pearly King") are at the head of affairs, and both score heavily. Other attractive items in the interesting holiday programme are supplied by the Florrias, the Custances, Milsted and Bell, Billy French, Fields and Lewis, Cosgrove and Burns, and the Sisters Melba, each being received with deserved applause. The Palace Pictures are of especial interest this week.

NORTH SHIELDS. — Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—On Monday evening Mr. Samuel James presented Miss Helen Vigor's company in As Good as Gold. Mr. Clinton Baddeley gave a capital renedering of Mark Williams; Mr. Jackson Hayes scored a success as Sir Richard Wharncliffe; and Mr. Fred Lloyd was much appreciated as Lieut. Jack Stanton. As Captain D'Arcy James Mr. Victor Rowlands made a decided hit; Mr. Herbert Fuller was well placed as Horatio Spanks; and Mr. Joseph Rowlands made the most of Timothy Nias. As Norah Williams, Miss Isla Garnet Vane won high praise; Miss Agnes Collier did well as Kate D'Arvile; Miss Bertha Baker made a satisfactory Kipper; and Miss Gertie Reid was a pleasing Madge Merry.

Central Palace.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—The Three Sisters' Troovies, acrobats, perform some very smart feats; Babs Lloyd, juvenile vocalist and dancer, is a great favourite; and Miss Daisy Morell, comedienne, has had a hearty reception; Mr. Charlie Vosper, mimic, has many admirers; the Harveys, comedy artists, go well; Messrs. Conway and Garland, entertainers, gain much approval; Mr. Bert Lytton, swell comic, has made a hit; the Bio-Photoscope shows interesting pictures.

NORTHWICH. — The Pavilion. — Proprietor, Mr. Glanmore Jones; Manager, Mr. Lindon Wyatt.—Walter Sutton in his laughing songs keeps the audiences in a continual roar of laughter; Mr. Rob Graham and Miss Millicent Davis are well received, both in song and humorous sketch, My Husband; Mr. Glanmore Jones and Mr. Fred Temple are again to the fore; the Raymond Biotableaux conclude a fine entertainment.

NORWICH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Manager, Mr. Fred Morgan.—Messrs. Matthew Glenville and Fred Osmond's company, in The Still Alarm, opened here on Bank Holiday for the week. Mr. Glenville was excellent as Jack Manby; and Mr. George Arthur equally good as John Bird. Mr. Tom Bensley scored as Willie Manby; and Mr. Fred Osmond was amusing as Dr. Wilber. Mr. Lewis Gordon gave a powerful rendering of the part of Franklyn Fordham; and Mr. Joe Jones was successfully portrayed by Mr. J. Sutton Pateman. Miss Maud Warburton was charming as Elinor Fordham; and Miss Hettie Zilwood was an attractive Carrie Wilber, her song receiving a hearty encore. Miss Mabel Veriton deserves praise as Mrs. Manley. The fire scene, in which the trained horses appear, caused hearty applause. The dresses and scenery are very effective.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—A good programme is presented this week and appreciated by large audiences twice nightly. Lockhart's Elephants, under Captain Taylor, are prime favourites here, and exhibit remarkable training; Tom Davis's Trio, in their turn, "whirling the whirl," create much excitement in their hazardous performance; Clemart proves a clever ventriloquist; and Stephens and Rennior, comedians and sand-dancers, are well received. Frank Coyle is a good comedian; and Harry Friskey is also successful. The Driscoll and Beattie Sketch Company is appreciated; and Onida Macdermott receives applause for her singing and dancing. The Hippo. Bioscope is most interesting.

NOTTINGHAM.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—The Compton Comedy Company pay a welcome return visit this week with a répertoire of plays, which includes She Stoops to Conquer, Edmund Kean, The School for Scandal, The Gentleman in Grey, and David Garrick. The last-named was staged on Monday night, when Mr. Compton again delighted the house with his fine impersonation of the title-rôle. Miss Mackenzie made a good impression as Violet, being both earnest and vivacious as required; the gruffness and asperity of Alderman Gresham were well depicted by Mr. Henry Crocker; and Mr. Dennis Cleugh made an amusing Tom Tallyhaut. The audience thoroughly enjoyed the humour of Misses M. Hassell and Barbara Pigott, and Messrs. Philip Gordon and G. W. Johnston. She Stoops to Conquer on Tuesday brought out the comedy talent of Mr. Compton, who created the greatest diversion in the rôle of Tony Lumpkin; Miss Phyllis Relp played Miss Neville in commendable style; Miss Mackenzie charmingly interpreted Miss Hardcastle; and Miss Marie Hassell was a diverting exponent of Mrs. Hardcastle.

Grand Theatre.—Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke.—A Wife's Triumph filled the house to overflowing on Monday night, and Mr. E. R. Abbott's company had a rousing reception. Mr. Abbott gave a fine example of the erring, but repentant, husband, Frank Wilton, eliciting much sympathy. As the loving and faithful wife, Bessie, Miss Ada Abbott called forth the heartiest appreciation; Mr. W. H. Garbois was excellent as the knavish Ellis Jordan, receiving capable assistance from Mr. Weedon Ross as Julius Hartman. The genial nature of Robert Dewhurst was well portrayed by Mr. Douglas Phelps; and Mr. T. Wilson made the most of his small part as the Family Lawyer. Miss Doris Drew (Alice Wilton), Miss Hetty Jones (Frank), and Miss Marjorie Tennant (Margery Crib), supplied acceptable interpretations; and other parts were capitally filled by Messrs. Edwin Keene, D. Pentland, and P. C. Douglas.

Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles H. Bowmaker.—Paul Cinquevalli's wonderful tricks prove as exciting and attractive as ever, and the comedy element also is capitally worked in by his smart assistant; an excellent farcical skit is introduced by Carter Livesey and Lilian Roseberry, to the accompaniment of hilarious laughter; a really graceful and artistic exhibition of wire-walking is provided by the Macarte Sisters; and a popular item is that of Kate Trail, who accompanies her catchy songs in inimitable style. The terpsichorean art is well illustrated by a troupe of girls headed by Little Marjorie Lawrence; the Sprightly Sisters gain applause for their comedy work as dancing dolls; and Thomas E. Finglas gives a quaint delineation of negro life. Dion Wade proves an excellent mimic and comedian; and Frank Leslie is duly rewarded for his song. The Bioscope interests with some new films.

NUNEATON.—Prince of Wales Theatre and Entertainments Co., Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company is paying a return visit with A Beautiful Fiend. Miss Sydney Crowe again wins distinction as Wanda Lubinoff; Mr. Herbert Skearsdon is a good Ivan Paulovitch; Mr. M. Russell makes a capable Sergius Strogoff; while a capital Count Karatoff is found in Mr. C. Hardy. Deserving of praise are Miss Violet Ingram (Nadine), Miss Marie Fontaine (Patty Woodlands), and Messrs. P. Quin and Dick Sidden as Christopher Crackles and Malachi.

OLDHAM.—Empire Theatre.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—A capital holiday programme is provided by Miss Mary Austin and company. For the first three nights Shall We Forgive Her? was selected, under the direction of Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds. Miss Austin as Grace West was highly successful; and Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds was excellent as Paul Elsworth; Mr. Fred W. Goddard as Oliver West gave a painstaking rendering of his part; Mr. J. Milne Tyalor made a capital Neil Garth; Mr. George P. Lester creditably filled the part of James Stapleton; Mr. Harrop Harrop as Reggie Walton left nothing to be desired; and Mr. John S. Haydon as Dr. M. Kerrow gave a successful portrayal; Miss May Grimshaw as Joanna Lightfoot acted in a capable manner; and Miss Ethel Vinroy as Nellie West and Miss Anna Beaumont as the outspoken Aunt Martha were quite successful; Mr. Albert Franks made a good Jerry Blake. The Cotton Spinner and Passion's Power were also staged during the week.

Colosseum Theatre.—Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company opened here on Monday in A Broken Heart. Mr. John Clyde gave a creditable impersonation of John Barnard; Miss Lillian Harrios as Mary quickly won sympathy; Stephen Rayiton was well presented by Mr. Scott Leighton; and Gast Gills was ably played by Mr. Chas. Vivian. Mrs. Harry Foxwell capably doubled the parts of Miss Grace Fanshame and Mrs. Kellett; Miss Florrie Sorsby was successful as little May Barnard; and Miss Helen Grahame made a capital Mrs. Barnard. Miss Nancy Mitchell as Sally Tavner, and Mr. Will Lindsay as Tony Tibbits were responsible for the humour.

Royal Theatre of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—Walter Bellonini heads the bill in his fine juggling act; Stewart and Morgan sing exceedingly well; the Merrions are a capital trio of entertainers; the Sisters Cora, duettists and dancers, in their latest success, "Sweethearts," are excellent; Sam Redfern causes hearty laughter; Miss Violet Ray is heard to advantage in 'cello solos and songs; Miss May Fallowfield is a dainty soubrette; and C. Tamamoto is a clever Japanese rope performer. The Dottoscope concludes.

Hippodrome.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge, Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—Silbon's Miniature Circus tops the bill; Max Duffek is an original musical contortionist; J. G. Aitken, Scotch comedian, has some funny songs; and the Bros. Curran present a good boxing act. Miss Florence Wood is a smart comedienne; and the Three Behans are capital quick-change comedy artists; Cordite and Buffalo are neat rope spinners; and some capital films are shown by the Dottoscope.

OXFORD.—New Theatre. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company opened here on Bank Holiday with Peter's Mother, which met with the most decided approval from a packed house. Mr. Charles Harley has never been seen to better advantage than as Sir Timothy Crewys; Mr. Percy Hutchison is wonderfully good as Peter; Mr. Stanley Pringle contributes a capital representation of the successful barrister, John Crewys; while Canon Birch and Dr. Blundell find excellent exponents in Messrs. F. G. Thurstans and T. Whitling; Miss Ruth Mackay scores a big success in the title-rôle; Sir Timothy's sisters find amusing representatives in the Misses Mary Griffiths and Florence Harwood; and Miss Hilda Honiss is an attractive Sarah. Peter's Mother was preceded by a curtain-raiser, Her Dearest Friend, admirably performed by the Misses Violet Ley and Florence Harwood, and Mr. T. Whitling.

East Oxford Theatre. — Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Travis Green and Mr. Arthur Hinton's company opened here on Whit Monday to a crowded house with Home, Sweet Home. Mr. Arthur Hinton acts the principal rôle of Stephen Armitage with considerable power and pathos; while Mr. Travis Green, as the villain, Lucas Lyle, is a great success; Mr. Frank Hudspeth deserves high praise for his very natural rendering of David Armitage; Mr. Arthur Lowrey is effective as the Duke of Ancaster; and Mr. Victor Millard does good work as Dick Redmayne; Mr. Wilton Drury is humorous as Hon. Percy Ashfield; as Sybil Fay Miss Jennie Clare is simply delightful; while Miss Constance Cluer is convincing as Sal; Miss Leila Zillwood sustains Joan with commendable effect; and Miss Dolly Turner is well placed as Dora.

PAISLEY.—Paisley Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—The Price of Pleasure is being staged here this week by Miss Emily Huby's company. Mr. Albert Guyon plays Gilbert D'Armand admirably; as Sir James Featherstone Mr. Howell Webb is to be complimented on a sound performance; Mr. Charles E. Howell essays, with considerable success, the part of Charles Mordaunt; a capital impersonation of Sidney Roberts is furnished by Mr. J. P. Marsden; Mr Newton Pearce is very funny as Tatters; and capital are the assumptions submitted by Mr. Ben Fletcher as John Blake, Mr. Arthur Manville as Inspector of Police, and Mr. J. Williams as P.C. X49. Miss Magdalen Moore as Lilian plays with conspicuous ability as Alice River; Miss Nana St. George acts in an intelligent and powerful manner; Miss Caroline Desborough makes a most amusing Polly Wilson; and Little Mabel Rose enacts Claire in capital style.

Hippodrome.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Douglas F. Bostock.—A strong attraction here this week is provided by Mr. George Gray and company, in The Fighting Parson, which is enthusiastically received. The excellent company also includes Rale Walters, comedienne; Bob Pueblo and Katie Cropp, versatile artists; W. B. Raby, comedian; Shirley and Ransome, in a coster comedy episode entitled 'Arf a Quid; Will Cornish, instrumentalist; and the Hippodrome Bioscope.

PERTH.—Theatre Royal.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. H Savile; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Aldridge.—The twice-nightly performances are being continued this week with much acceptance. Henriette and Selina, society entertainers, are favourably received; the Three Moxons, acrobatic comedians, in their latest production, Fun with the Tourist, also obtain a warm reception. Other notable turns are Harry Leaton, vocal comedian; Carlotta Lunn, descriptive vocalist; Harry Bent, mimic; Mi Narom, in character comedy; and the Orchida (Violet and Harry). The Theatrescope, with an entirely new set of films, is also much appreciated.

PLYMOUTH. — Theatre Royal. — Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The Russell Rose Répertoire company opened on Monday with Captain Swift. Mr. J. E. Fraser undertakes the title-rôle with creditable ease and ability; Mr. Charles Kenny is genuinely humorous as an eccentric elderly gentleman, by name Mr. Seabrook; Mr. W. P. Lipsombe furnishes a realistic study of a Queensland farmer; and Mr. G. Mudie, jun., is a youngster of promise to whom is entrusted the part of the boy, Harry; Miss Nolan O'Connor is powerful as Mrs. Seabrook; and Miss R. De Travis deserves commendation for her representation of Lady Staunton. Confusion, The Guv'nor, and Caste are also being staged.

Grand Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. P. Williams.—The Road to Fortune is played this week, and includes two very popular Plymouth favourites in the caste, Victor Vernon and Greene Taylor, to whom much of the success on Monday may be attributed. Other noticeable members of a well-balanced company are Mr. Cecil A. Melton (Jack Clinton), Mr. Gerald Spencer (Morris Chanter), Miss Elaine Vanbrugh (Edith Breezley), and Miss Ada Waugh (Jerry Weasel).

Palace of Varieties.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Some clever exhibition ju-jitsu forms the leading attraction, and is well carried out by Mr. Frank Long and his pupil, Ajax; a clever item is furnished by the Stein-Eretti Troupe, who perform some astonishing acrobatic feats; Edie Grey has some attractive coon songs; Hector is an experienced wire-walker; and Alix Lukos furnishes a welcome contribution. Other turns are Albert Wyndham and Co., Bert Danson, and Vernon's Pictures.

PONTYPRIDD.—Royal Clarence Theatre.—Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager, Mr. Charles Trenchard.—The Whit week attraction is Mr. Sidney Dench's company in The Rich and Poor of London. Chief interest is centred in Miss Dora Dench's capable portrayal of May Braithwaite; the Earl of Ravenswood is well sustained by Mr. F. Danner; Mr. Fred Beckett scores as Mark Stanley; Mr. Grayham Arthurs shines as Dr. Leonard Morton; Mr. Arthur Gilbert could not be improved upon as the rascally lawyer; Mr. Sidney Dench is a host in himself as Spider Jack; Miss Ethel Denville is successful as Seadrift; Master Bert Dench ably impersonates Dixie; and Miss Emily Wood, Miss Violet Layton, and Miss Sybie Vane are worthy of high praise in their respective rôles.

PORTH.—The Palace (late Opera House).—General-Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; ActingManager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—Topping the bill is Horace Jones, the Welsh comedian, in song and story. Others are Sisters Hula, vocalists and smart dancers; Fred Alberto, quaint character comedian; Frank and Violet Payne, in their successful racing duologue, Also Ran; the Mays, burlesque artists, vocalists, and dancers; Orrell Park, in songs with sweet refrain; Hughes and Elliott, in singing, dancing, and comedy; Amy Bellwood, comedienne and dancer; Gulliver and the Liliputians; and the celebrated Albert and Edmunds' comedy troupe, in their absurdity, Two Up a Tree. The Palace Electric Bioscope shows new pictures.

PORTSMOUTH. — Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Louie Calvert's excellent company is here for Whitsun with the comic opera Amasis, and meeting with well deserved success. Mr. Rutland Barrington, playing Pharaoh in his intensely humorous manner, quite convulses the audience with laughter; Mr. Roland Cunningham as Prince Anhotep sings well and plays in most effective style; Mr. Whitworth Mitton scores as Cheiro, his singing being much admired; Mr. Reginald White is a capable and amusing Ptolemy; Mr. Lauri De Frece is exceptionally quaint and diverting as Sebak; Mr. Norman Salmond is a dignified High Priest; Miss Constance Drever as the Princess Amasis is very charming and graceful, singing her numbers in delightful fashion; and Miss Madge Vincent is a dainty and vivacious Natis. The chorus and instrumentalists, under the direction of Mr. J. Van Heubel, are highly appreciated.

Prince's Theatre. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—For the holidays Messrs. Garside and Knowles, with a good company, are presenting the popular drama, The London Fireman. The leading rôles are taken by Mr. J. Forbes Knowles as Colonel Fleming, afterwards Hal Curtis, a young fireman, and Mr. Edward L. Garside, as Hal Curtis, alias "Ratty," who give eminently successful and characteristic impersonations. Mr. Herbert S. Humber acts the part of Viscount Fleming most creditably; Mr. Lionel Thompson as Abel Fortnum acts consistently and well; Nixey Stinger is ably taken by Mr. Fowler Thatcher; Miss Nellie Garside as Polly Bramble is excellent; Miss Nellie Waddington makes the best use of her opportunities as Countess Fleming; Miss Beatrice Sinclair in the part of Grace Curtis plays with judgment; and Miss Nellie Shirley as Ida Curtis, the fireman's wife, shows great histrionic ability.

Empire Palace.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A long and varied programme was submitted to the Whitsun holiday folk here. Harry Tate's No. 1 company, in the piscatorial pleasantry, Fishing, was responsible for some boisterous fun; Vasey and Ramsey, speciality artists, are good patterers and capital dancers; King's College Boys, in harmony and song acquitted themselves to the satisfaction of the audience; Branda Leslie, in classical and refined poses, meets with success; Emmie Ames, comedienne, has a charming manner, and scores well; Morten and Martell do amusing work in the comedy sketch, Miss Bunn of Bath; Harry Bancroft, actor-vocalist, sings songs with good rousing choruses; the Two Madges, juvenile duettists and dancers, do well; Bertha Norwood, a pleasing and painstaking soubrette, scores; Chas. R. Whittle, comedian, is a capable artist; and Payne's Bioscope pictures, Alburtus and Millar, juggling eccentrics and lady cornetist, are highly diverting; Miss May Mars presents a vocal scena, "In the Shadow of the Pyramids," with great effect; and Jack and Evelyn meet with success. The Hippodrome pictures finish a highly meritorious programme.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late Mr. W. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—Mr. Walter Maxwell's company is appearing here this week in The Lion and the Mouse, which meets with an enthusiastic reception nightly. Mr. Leslie Carter is thoroughly effective in the rôle of John Burkett Ryder; and Miss Nita Faydon gives a natural and charming portrayal of Shirley Rossmore. Jefferson Ryder is admirably impersonated by Mr. Martin Roland; Mr. Herbert Chown is quite successful as the Hon. Fitzroy Bagley; Mr. Douglas West capably depicts James Rossmore; Alfred Stott has an excellent representative in Mr. Geoffrey Hall; Mr. John Wheatman is well placed as J. Whitmore Roberts, M.P.; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon's embodiment of Mrs. Ryder is very clever and entertaining; and Miss Margaret Nybloc is seen to advantage as Kate Roberts.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—The chief attraction here is an admirable exhibition of tableaux vivants and statuary by Henriette de Serris and company. Edwin Garth and company present an amusing vaudeville, entitled The Moated Grange; the Four Netherlands appear in a beautiful song-scena, called "Dutch Pastimes"; Martin Conway scores a great success with his humorous songs and patter; the Gentrys give a clever comedy and acrobatic display; Alf. Ripon submits a smart ventriloquial sketch; and successful turns by Victor Courtney, in "The Boot's Lament," and J. C. Scatter, Tyneside comedian and dancer, complete a first-rate programme.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Sawyer and Woodruff. — Mr. J. Morton Powell's company occupies the boards here in the popular drama, Honour Thy Father.

FREEMAN'S OLYMPIA.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Clement Freeman.—A capital variety entertainment is presented here twice daily.

RADCLIFFE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jas. Boothman.—This theatre was reopened last Saturday night, and the installation of the electric light throughout the house is a great improvement. The genial and popular owner held his eighth annual benefit, and Mr. Santé's success can be well judged by the host of friends who came to patronise him. The programme was of an excellent and varied character, including Spangelettis, with dogs and pony; Ben Goldberg, baritone; Brown and Spink, eccentric comedians; Zoven, equilibrist; George and Edwards, clever comedians; M. Hamilton's statuary, and the Santégraph electric pictures, together with other interesting items. Mr. W. Graham Arthur's company is here this week with When a Man Hates. Mr. W. Graham Arthur is strong as Pietro Danelli; and Mr. Arthur Jarvis good as the Curate. Mr. Herbert M. King displays ability as Paul, the half-witted; Mr. Ernest Turner as Peter Simple and Miss Jennie Hallworth as Dolly Dimple both work hard in the comedy parts; and Mr. Fred A. Lewis is creditable as Detective Smart. Miss Maud Burleigh is excellent as Olga, and Miss Mabel Liston winsome as Letty.

RAMSGATE. — AMPHITHEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. Bowman. — Mr. Gerald Hunt makes a welcome re-appearance with the Biograph, splendid films being exhibited; and the variety turns include a most popular performance by Andie Bing, comedian, vocalist, and dancer; and the Courtney family, a clever quartette, who appear with marked success in the scena, Our Brother.

ROYAL VICTORIA PAVILION.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—The "PAV." has re-opened with Messrs. Charles Carey and Fred Wantage's company, in The Pick of the Bunch. Mr. A. W. Lee, as the chief figure in the plot, acts and sings in good style; and Mr. Percy Baverstock gives a clever impersonation of a fire-eating old Colonel; Miss Eva Ellis is charming as Ruth Gey; and Miss M. Sadie scores in a rôle suggestive of Louie Freear. Others who contribute to the success of the production are Miss Nellie James, Mr. Will Evans, and Mr. Harold Wantage.

MARINA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Albert Levy. — The new lessee of the Marina has put on during the week a popular variety programme.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Milton Bode; Lessee, Mr. Geo. Dance; Manager, Mr. E. J. Macdermott.—The house was crowded at both performances on Monday, a first-class programme being presented. Miss Lilian Dundas, ably supported by Mr. Harry Kendal nd Mr. Lawrence Leyton, appears very successfully in the dramatic episode, The Doom of Delilah. The Crown Trio of speciality vocalists gave some very tuneful part-songs, and Mabel Sinclair, lady ventriloquist, gives a clever performance. Rosina Castelli's performing dogs display marvellous intelligence; the Bohemians (Will and Madge) give an excellent musical turn; the Scotch nigger, Charlie Williams, shows ability as a big-boot dancer; and some new living pictures are presented on Vernon's Bioscope.

A GRAND FETE was given on Whit-Monday in aid of the Reading Football Club's funds. In the course of a good stage performance, Ali Ben Hassen showed great dexterity in juggling and balancing feats; and Will Belmont (trick cyclist), Reklaw (the tramp on the slack wire), the Arnold Renays in a capital gymnastic and acrobatic show, La Belle Violette and D'Henri on the double trapeze and flying rings, and Raven Cloud, the champion lasso-thrower from the Wild West Show, were also in the bill.

THE PIERROT PAVILION.—Mr. Hamilton Baines has commenced his second season here in the Pavilion, near Caversham Bridge. Mr. J. H. Weeks (humorist), Mr. Harry Reynolds (basso), Miss Elsie Earl (vocalist), and Mr. J. Jelf (comedian) all appear to great advantage.

RHYL.—PALACE THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Will Smith.—This week Pepper's Ghost and Spectral Opera Company have been presented by Mr. Fred Smith. Selections from Faust are given with special spectral effects. The company consists of Miss Nina Leslie, who as Marguerite sings and acts with expression; Mme. Constance Bellamy, as Siebel, proves eminently satisfactory; as Mephistopheles Mr. Arthur Segeley's basso voice is heard to advantage; and Mr. Albert Felton as Faust and Mr. A. German as Valentine acquit themselves creditably.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott. — Fred Walmsley, comedian, makes his first appearance here, and is accorded a hearty reception; Billy Stephens is popular with his funny songs; Mildred Bryan, whose delightful rendering of several songs has been successful; Jack Macdermott retains all his former popularity, and his tuneful songs greatly delight the audiences; Byden Currie, ventriloquist; Forshaw Kershaw provides attractive items with his pianoforte solos and musical monologues.

ROCHDALE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hogue.—The Worst Woman in London occupies the boards here this week. The play is finely staged, and finds great favour with the popular parts of the house. Mr. George Gaisford is powerful in his impersonation of Jock Felton; Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers does well as Vincent Lyle, Mr. F. Vernon Travers makes a dignified and imposing James Milford, Mr. H. W. Monte as Hugh Drayton leaves nothing to be desired, and Mr. Leonard Booker is effective as Philip Armstrong. Much amusement is created by Mr. Willie Garvey as Bob Goldfinch, and Miss Mysie Monte as Jane Nogood. Miss Elizabeth Watkins enlists sympathy in the part of Ruth Milford, and Miss Olga Audre in the central figure acts with telling effect as Francis Vere.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Haley's Juveniles top the bill here this week; prettily attired, the youngsters execute some stately and spirited dances. Graham and Harrington act with realistic force A Daughter of Pleasure; George M. Schilling gives an interesting sketch of his walk round the world; Snowball and Miss Dolia, American comedy artists; Ruby Bijou, in a series of dances; Joe Conway, pocket comedian; and the Empire Bioscope complete a capital entertainment.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Smith and Co.—Pringle's North American Animated Picture Co. continues a second week's engagement with a set of new and interesting films. Variety turns are given at intervals by Tom White's Arabs and Allen MacAskell.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Mr. Fred Ginnett's company is here for the holiday week with Dick Turpin's Ride to York, Mr. Ginnett appearing in the title-rôle, and exhibiting the excellent qualities of the highly-trained Black Bess. A number of up-to-date films are exhibited by the Peters Premier Co., other specialities being Mr. J. H. Hawtrey, a pleasing actor-vocalist, and Mlle. De Rose, an accomplished lady baritone vocalist. The programme is completed with the amusing skit, Rejected Remounts, which is responsible for much fun and amusement.

RUGBY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geoffrey Fulton.—Mr. Harry Rogerson and company are here with Jacko. Mr. Harry Rogerson as Dozey, the tired page, is an unqualified success, and his sleepy dance is exceedingly clever. Mr. J. H. Booth as Professor Zerio is very amusing; and as Fred Fitzgerald Mr. Charles Leverton works hard, and contributes materially to the success of the piece. Mr. W. G. Wesley, as the Policeman, is very smart; and Mr. Anthony Gordon as Dr. Samuel Smith does well. Miss Bessie Herbert as Ada Zerio is very well placed, and has a charming presence, great ability, and a good voice; Miss Jessie St. Clare is good as Mrs. Zerio; and other characters are ably played by Mr. Mark Lupino (James Jimson), Mr. George Ely (Dick Dot), Mr. Jack Allen (Robert Ray), Mr. John Ossif (Ben Benson), Mr. Aubrey C. Cheshire (Tom Titas), Mr. Fred Hall (Pete Palmer), Mr. H. Reeves (Soloman Cyphon), the Brothers Norris as the elephant; Miss Alice Thornton (Mary Martin), and Miss Hilda Gordon (Jane Jones). Jacko is preceded by the burlesque Herne the Hunter.

RYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Arkwright; Manager, Mr. F. B. Farrant.—The visit of Mr. Charles Constant's company opened here on Monday evening for three days, with Blue Beard the Bold. Miss Iso Bowman gave a particularly dashing display as Selim, and used her splendid voice to fine effect; Mr. Gus Danby's clever and amusing efforts received their full measure of appreciation; Miss Dorothy Dempster's charming display in the part of Fatima was one of the successes of the evening, her bright singing being very popular; Messrs. Charles Lake, Morrice Holmes, MacStuart, and William Collard admirably sustained the comic element of the piece; and the dancing of the Two Stuarts was excellently accomplished. The remaining characters were filled with distinct credit, and the finished character of the musical part of the entertainment contributed largely to its success.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. J. Herbert Jay; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. L. Furst.—The Scotch Boys' Highland Band has proved itself a first-class combination. The company includes juvenile instrumentalists, dancers, and comedians of remarkable ability, and it is excellently conducted. The Brodie Troupe of Scotch dancers are a speciality.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Kimberley's company on Monday opened with Two Little Drummer Boys, under the general-management of Mr. E. Bikker, who makes an excellent General Kingsley, V.C.; Mr. A. Knight gives a manly performance as Captain Frank Carsdale; Mr. H. Harleigh forcibly portrays the villainy of Captain George Darrell; Eric Carsdale is well played by Miss M. English; and Miss M. Douglas ably represents Jack Smith. Mr. Michael Madden as Quincy O'Quirk, Mr. C. Locke as Timothy Trimmer, and Miss Lizzie Chambers as Molly Meadows, are very comical, and contribute a large amount of amusement. Margaret Rivers is a good study by Miss M. Eversleigh; and Miss B. Shirley is a charming Alma Kingsley. Mr. G. Sutherland is good as Lieut. Allen Kingsley; and Mr. P. Redgrave as Major Kilkereen, and Mr. Frank Hoyd as Jim Barker, are well placed.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Harriett Vernon's "When we are saying good-bye" and "Sunshine and shadow" are very enjoyable songs; the Waldrons, in their absurdity, The Silly Burglar, are excrutiatingly funny; Percival, in "All through the christening," is very clever, and gets much applause; Jack Pleasants keeps the house in roars with his comic songs; a most laughable act is presented by Burns and Burns, American comedians; other smart turns are given by Mlle. Pollo, a charming lady gymnast; Macdonald Trio, in their musical garden; Vi Carlyle, in her scena, My Mountain Maid; Hallam and Stanton, in A Broken Journey; and Leslie Race, actor-vocalist.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—This week's programme is headed by the Brothers Luck's company, in their pantomime, Hotel Grande; Fame and Fortune, in singing, acrobating, and comic boxing, do well; the sensational act, Indians of the Past, is a very interesting series of tableaux by the Deer Family; smart work is done by Roy Bevis, the merry magician; Lily Gaston, male impersonator and clever dancer; Will Doran and company, in absurdity, The Inventors; Three Lancashire Harmony Boys, in vocal scena, Home for the Holidays; and Mlle. Renne, girl juggler, also gave smart turns.

STRETFORD PAVILION. — Proprietor, Mr. Sidney Weatherilt; Manager, Mr. Fred Erick.—This week we have Nellie Mascott, a dainty comedienne; Bert Holmes, instrumentalist; Fred Erick, comedian; Sidney Parker and Frank Parry, Welsh vocalists and duettists; Ethel Dunville, comedienne; and Carrie Wallace, comedienne.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Waddington and Son; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—Mr. Ian Maclaren and his Shakespearean and Old English Comedy Company is here this week. On Monday evening David Garrick was given, Mr. Maclaren taking the title-rôle with his well-known ability, and winning enthusiasm. Mr. Arthur Fayne as Alderman Brackson acted with great precision; Miss Edith Coleman acted very capably as Mabel; Mr. Frank Royde as the Hon. Bob Fairby had a part that fitted him exactly, and he put plenty of life into it. The play was preceded by the curtain-raiser Delicate Ground. During the week Othello, Hamlet, Twelfth Night, The Merchant of Venice, Macbeth, and As You Like It were billed.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—The twelve hours' continuous programme commenced this week. Mme. Marie Levante's Ladies' Orchestra is a combination of instrumentalists that is well known and appreciated here; Levy and Cardwell's Juvenile Musical company produce a sketch, entitled Little Paul Pry, the chief part of which is sustained by Wee George Wood, who is a most remarkable comedian and mimic, and is attracting crowded houses. The sketch was produced for the first time on Monday, and the manner in which it was performed was highly satisfactory, and showed that care had been bestowed on its preparation. The company includes a chorus and ballet, and some excellent singers; but the whole sketch is nicely woven round Wee George Wood, who sings his songs to perfection, and receives innumerable encores. The other artists include Henry Foden, who is well-trained in hand-jumping; J. H. McCann is a dexterous roller skate dancer; the Saletos' turn is a pleasing one; the Calcots are clever instrumentalists and dancers; Cara Magda, lady gymnast, executes her tricks with great ability; Renson and Waite sing comic duets, and Fenton Cross is pleasing as a speciality entertainer. The side-shows include Vernon's Bioscope and Jennion's Electric Fantoches. Miss Ada Webb and her troupe of ladies also give exhibition swims during the day.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Mrs. Henry Mayhew; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—Mr. Will White's strong company in The New World is here this week. Miss Beatrice Moor as Jenny is excellent; Mr. Victor Ray admirably sustains the part of Jack; Mr. Fred Guiness as Sam Smart is pleasing, and Mr. Will Bass as Brutus Brown supplies plenty of fun. As Pete, Mr. Wm. Hicks pleased everybody. Mr. Will White as Colonel Clayton has a part that suits him admirably; Mr. W. S. Stephenson is effective as the villain, and Mr. Albert Carlton as the Mexican adds to the success of the play.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Zalva.—Ford and Hanson, musical specialists, are the special attraction here this week, and are very popular. Belle Ray, with illustrated songs, is well received; Sheila and McNeil are entertaining as comedy artists; the Seves are a great attraction in their thought-reading; the Metropole animated pictures are as entertaining as ever.

NORTH SIDE KIOSK.—Mr. Will Catlin's second troupe of pierrots gave their first performance on Saturday night to a large audience. The troupe is a strong one, and each individual member has his own speciality. Mr. H. Lowell is in charge, and is assisted by Mr. Harold Franklin, Mr. Geo. Castrey, Mr. Leslie Furness, Mr. Bert Freer, Mr. Jackson Brown, Mr. Eddie Forden, and Mr. Harrison as pianist. Mr. Catlin has also his troupe on the South Sands.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Messrs. Chas. H. Phelps and Harry Tilbury's company opened here on Whit Monday with the comedy-drama The Blind Foundling. Gerald Dalton was strongly played by Mr. Chas. Phelps, and Parson Ray received adequate treatment from Mr. Frank Hervey. Mr. A. George Fry did well as Mark Redman and Mr. Bernard Webb gave a good sketch of Jasper Waterford. Miss Trixie Toole caused plenty of fun by her rendering of Winnie Dobbins, and Mr. Harry Tilbury presented a drily humorous Dick Bobbins; Miss Aline T. George made a sympathetic Viola and Miss Mabel Hall was nicely fitted in the title-rôle; Miss Belle Tilbury played the unenviable part of Isabel with commendable skill.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—There was a full house on Whit-Monday to witness the entertainment provided by a strong company of variety artists, prominent among whom were Harry Burns' Juveniles, who were warmly applauded for their performance of the scena, The Waif. The Brothers Corcoran, musicians, scored heavily; George Westland gave some humorous Scotch songs in pleasing style; Halma contributed a smart juggling turn; Cavalli gave a successful ventriloquial performance, and some first-class pictures were shown by the Bioscope.

SHEERNESS.—PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Phil Reymond.—Miss Nellie Lomas is a pleasing balladist; and The Lady Suffragette is a very popular act. Mr. Phil Reymond, vocal comedian, is exceedingly clever in his characters from "Everyday life"; Miss Topsy Levane continues to score as a first-rate burlesque actress and dancer; Miss Lillie Thomas is a capital serio and ballad vocalist; and a laughable sketch, In Black and White, by the Crown Sketch company, concludes a good show.

THE HIPPODROME. — General-Manager, Mr. F. Leighton. — A capital holiday programme comprises the Seven Wulfrunas, comedy acrobats, who gain hearty applause for their skilful and daring performances; Dusty Rhodes, aptly described as the comedy merchant; Talbot and Pearce, in a pleasing duologue; Kathleen Radford, comedienne and dancer, with a pleasing style; Daisy Reed, comedienne and speciality dancer; Harry Mayville, tenor vocalist; and Carrie Victoria, comedienne.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A Message from Mars is being acted to a large and appreciative audience. Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore as Horace Parker repeats an impersonation marked by ease and finish; Mr. William H. Brougham as the Messenger acts with his wonted earnestness and dignity; a good character-study is Mr. Bruce Lindsay's old tramp; Miss Joan Ellis makes a charming picture of sweet young womanhood as Minnie Templar; and Miss F. Hastings as Miss Parker and Mr. Thomas Holding as Arthur Picey are first-rate. All the other characters are cleverly represented, and the scenery and electrical effects are admirable. The curtain-raiser was The Fatal Stocking, which was received with hearty applause.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The original adaptation of Marie Corelli's Sorrows of Satan, introducing the thrilling yacht scene, was performed to a good house on Monday by Miss Loie Esmond's company, Miss Esmond herself appearing as the beautiful Diana Chesney. Mr. Edward Neville made an impressive Prince Lucio; Miss Cecilia Dare was a graceful and alluring Lady Sybil; and a contrast to the selfish "smart" characters was the Mavis Clare of Miss Rose Neville. Mr. Coleman Davis was good as Lord Lynton; and other characters were well played by Messrs. J. McCaigh, Fred Cherry, Fred White, G. H. Nisbett, J. le Fleming, and Miss Cecil Byrne.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—£1,000 Reward drew a house packed from floor to ceiling on Monday, and cheered Messrs. F. M. Pitt and C. Halling's company to the echo. Miss Daisy Halling was welcomed with enthusiastic applause on making her entrance as the handsome adventuress, Mme. Sansom. Mr. Frank M. Pitt was successful as Fred Ingleford; and other clever impersonations were Miss Darlington's Meg, Mr. George Scully's Dick, and Mr. Chas. Halling's detective. Mr. Frank Dallas caused much amusement as a detective of the old school, and the rest of the cast were in competent hands.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The spacious auditorium of the Empire was totally inadequate for the crowds that struggled for admittance on Whit-Monday. The principal contributors to the present programme are Milo, the animated statue, in classical studies and poses from the antique; Cruikshank, a clever lightning cartoonist; Mr. Harry Freeman, an old-established Sheffield favourite; Ginnett's Boy Army, in military exercises; the McConnells; the Bioscope, with capital films; Miss Eily Adair, a pleasing artist; Miss Margaret Ashton, an accomplished vocalist; the talented Wartenburg Brothers in a novel and popular act; Mr. Frank Crouch, variety entertainer; the McConnell Trio, sketch artists; and Mr. F. W. Purcell's comedy company in a diverting farce, entitled That Brute Simmons.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietors, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Manager, Mr. David Warwick.—Mr. Leoni Clarke's wonderfully-trained cats, rabbits, &c., are causing much amusement to the many patrons of this cosy theatre; and other artists appearing for the holiday week are Miss Edna Latonne, Mr. Ted Wootten, Miss Clara Victor, and Mr. Letine, in addition to the Grand Animated Pictures.

FITZALAN THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Edward Ranier.—Mr. Edward Ranier opened here with a well-selected stock company on Monday, and there were crowded houses. The place has been "done up," and under the new regime the "little playhouse in the Square" should continue its prosperous career.

SHREWSBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Raffles is being played here this week by a thoroughly capable company, under the management of Mr. Reginald Dance, who himself undertakes the title-rôle with conspicuous success. Mr. Edward Irwin is a clever Mr. Curtis Bedford; Mr. Briscoe Owen makes a smart Harry Manders; Mr. C. Rivers Bertram as Crayshay is a picturesque and formidable-looking cracksman; and other male parts are in capable hands. Miss May Brooke plays the part of Mrs. Vidal in a talented fashion; Miss Kate Yates is competent and effective as Gwendoline Conran; the Misses Mildred Orme and Constance Hamilton are alike capable in the respective parts of Lady Melrose and Lady Ethel; and Miss Rita Ward acts with ability as Marie. The comedietta, Jerry and a Sunbeam, is the pleasing curtain-raiser.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mr. Robert Courtneidge's excellent company is this week proving highly attractive with The Dairymaids. It is seldom that two such clever comedians as Mr. Harry Dent (Joe Mivens) and Mr. E. Statham Staples (Sam Brudenell) are seen together. Both of them keep the fun going fast and furious. Miss Violet Lloyd is a fascinating Peggy; Miss Rhoda Gordon a charming Winifred; Miss Edith Blanche a delightful Lady Brudenell; and Lieut. Brudenell, R.N., is capitally acted by Mr. George Desmond. Miss Madge Avery gives an excellent portrait of the austere Miss Penelope Pychase, and Miss Beryl Vaudrey is attractive as Helene. The chorus is good, and the staging gorgeous.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. William Trussell. —Typical Bank Holiday audiences have assembled here during the week, the principal attraction being the Ten-Ji Troupe of Japanese magicians, who submit a really wonderful show. Ben Albert and Johnny Dwyer are a couple of droll comedians; Billy Howard and Kathryn Harris are successful in The Adventures of a Happy Tramp; and Frank Elliston and company create roars of laughter with their sketch, Aunt Matilda. Tiny Arnold, the diminutive comedienne and dancer; Joe Dale, chorus vocalist; and Friscari, hat manipulator and juggler, also do well.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howell.—Fred Karno's Mumming Birds is creating hearty laughter; Kartelli is a truly wonderful wire-walker; Honvarr and Anna Lee do well with their speciality, The Golfer and the Maid; and others who agreeably entertain are Alec Kendall, a smart patter comedian; Osborne and Brooks, musical comedy duo; Fred Lincoln, comedian; Ailsa Douglas, ballad vocalist; and Frobel and Ruge, with "fun on a pole."

PIER PAVILION.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Sait. —The holiday attraction has been provided by The Scarlet Mr. E.'s and Their Jester, which has attracted good houses here. Mr. Walter Dowling is responsible for the fun, and his humour is always refined.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Owners, The Southend Theatre Company; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest. — Mr. Fred Karno's company is paying a return visit with His Majesty's Guests. Many new dances and songs have been introduced, and the farce maintains its enviable reputation.

THE KURSAAL. — Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. G. Bacon.—The holiday attractions commenced on Whitsun Eve, when a programme of a popular character met with unbounded success. The chief interest is centred in the theatre, where a capital diversified programme is heartily received; Mlle. Nina Terri pleases immensely as a vocalist and danseuse, and also appears with the ballet of Six Coventry Girls; a table act and jumping feats by Cosselly are smart; and Zaro and Amo are exceedingly clever acrobats. The Cosmans are comic vocalists, whose patter and quaint dancing meets with favour; and Herry Martell is equally success as a comedian and expert dancer. Miss Mamie Finbow contributes in a delightful manner; Blondin's great act creates quite a sensation when Herman and his lady assistant give a graceful and daring wire-walking turn. Capital pictures are furnished by the Bioscope. A full complement of artists appear in the Cafe Chantant, where yet another successful programme is contributed by Frank and Alice Basso, with a comedy creation entitled Medley; Frank Lamont, quaint descriptive vocalist and dancer; Will Belasco, Spanish bandola and tubaphonist; and Semmel, champion czimbolum soloist. Ariston and Groves' grand circus and vaudeville company entertain in style in the Hippodrome, where the performing cats, and Jacko, the man-monkey, prove distinct features. Mme. Thelma, clay modeller, and Grovini and Groves, clever and humorous artists, also prove popular. Wrestling matches find most enthusiastic followers.

PIER PAVILION.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.— The return visit of Mr. Harry Liston and his talented company is a most welcome one for the holiday week. Mr. Liston keeps the audience thoroughly enraptured by his quaint and humorous methods, his impersonation of a Lancashire lad proving an intensely interesting item, and all his contributions are effusively applauded; Mr. Jack Vincent has to respond to quite an ovation for his concertina selections; Miss Lord Lumley is a charming young actress, and appears to great advantage in sketches with the proprietor; Miss Marie D'Alcourt and Mr. Jack Vincent appeared in their operatic costume sketch, Il Trovatore, their singing being a notable feature.—Miss Phyllis Dare and party drew exceptionally large audiences to the Pavilion on Whit-Sunday, when two concerts were given under Mr. H. Bernhardt's Philharmonic Concert direction, and the popular lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless, is to be complimented on providing such an attraction. The evening performance proved even more successful than that of the afternoon. Miss Dare had a rousing reception on each appearance; J. Dorasmi, Indian violinist, gained coveted honours for his unique and really clever renderings; Miss Kathleen N. Jones, in her contralto songs, was heard to advantage; as also was Mr. Festyn Davies, a Welsh tenor of good repute; Miss Frances Kapstowne thoroughly delighted with songs at the piano; Mr. Charles Pond entertained in first-class style in "Glimpses of life"; Miss Ethel Robinson accompanied with commendable skill.

PIER HILL BANDSTAND.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless. —The season opened on Saturday, when the popular lessee presented Mr. Ballard Brown and his talented entertainers. The programmes are of a refined and first-class character, and well maintain last season's reputation.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS, LTD.—Secretary, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. J. Bannister Howard's No. 1 company in the popular musical comedy, Florodora, provides an attractive entertainment for the Whitsuntide holiday week. The part of Anthony Tweedlepunch is capitally portrayed by Mr. Alf E. Passmore; Miss Daisy Lake plays Dolores with charming abandon, her vocal numbers being tastefully rendered; Angela Gilfain has a dainty and clever representative in Miss Lily Gullick; Miss Kate Leicester depicts the part of Lady Holyrood very artistically; Mr. Stanley White is an admirable exponent of Cyrus Gilfain; Mr. H. V. Cropton is distinctly successful in every way as Frank Abercoed; Mr. H. Perry is a commendable impersonator of Captain Arthur Donegal; Leandro is well played by Mr. Edwin Oxlee; and Miss Eleanor Barnwell scores as Valleda. The favourite songs are all excellently rendered, and the staging and dresses much admired.

ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee, Mrs. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz. —Capital business is being done at this popular variety hall, which is being run on the two-shows-a-night principle during the holiday week. The bill is headed by Mr. George Leyton, comedian, in the dramatic episode, entitled The Wreck of the Birkenhead. Other prominent items are supplied by Max Gruber, with his elephant, horse, and pony; Berenda and Green, the creative juggling comedians; the Burnells, in their amusing sketch, On the Links; Mollie Doon, dainty comedienne; the Brothers Obo, laughing comedians and duettists; Nellie Merton and George Rydon, vocal comedy duo; and the Bioscope, with the latest films.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—Crowded houses are welcoming Mr. C. Watson Mill's company, in the romantic Irish drama, A Warning to Women. Mr. Mill makes the part of Skaun stand out convincingly; the Dr. Marcus Dread of Mr. Richard Vane is a powerful performance; Moira Kennion is gracefully portrayed by Miss Rosalind Tate; Fergus McNaughten and Sheila Kennion receive justice at the hands of Mr. Wm. Vane and Miss Grace Barton; Squire Kennion is well represented by Mr. Henry Rutland; and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter is an amusing Lord Eversleigh. Miss Edith Rutland as Mike O'Moore and Miss Ellen Beverley as Molly O'Moore are both excellent.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—The Lukushima Troupe of Japanese Risley performers and acrobats delight enthusiastic audiences by their daring feats; Ruby Dahl and her merry life-sized mannikins are another sound attraction; Frank Bertram and company, in a comedy sketch, The Chaperon, are very entertaining; a pantomime sketch is presented to great advantage by the Karno Four; Harry Bedford, comedian, is a popular favourite; and Maudie Macdonald, ballad vocalist, renders her numbers pleasingly. Other strong attractions include Stave, the original electric musical comedian; Herbert Rube, quaint comedian; and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. K. Hall and Joseph Sweeney; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—An excellent impression is created by the Fergana Troupe of lady and gentlemen society acrobats; Vowles and Bryan, in song and story, receive hearty applause; Read and Wright, comedy duettists and dancers, make a decided hit; a clever ventriloquial entertainment is contributed by Hilton; Sadler and Ross, Irish comedians and dancers, are laughable; and the remaining popular items are Master Smith, boy vocalist; and the Tivoli Bioscope.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Mr. Fred. J. Webb's company is here in Mr. William Hibbert's play, The Hour of Her Triumph. Each part is filled with the greatest success. Miss Barbara Gott as Zeila Claremont, Miss M. Danvers Smith as Nellie Clavering, and Miss Mamie Stanton as Linda Denton, each submit sound and attractive impersonations. Messrs. Webb, Leslie Hawkins, and T. O. Stephenson fill the rôles of Eugene Harbury, Harold Clavering, and Jack Vernon with conspicuous success. Mr. Louis Nanton as Ben Brodie is a prime favourite, with droll patter and smart dancing; Miss Lallah Price as Martha Winks renders her part in a delicious brogue; and Miss Hetty Gale is piquant as Jennie Jinks. Mr. James Stuart causes much fun as Rosenis Montmorency.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, entitled
"TOMMY ATKINS."

Mr. J. M. East's company forms the attraction for the holiday week in the above drama, its enduring popularity being proven by the large and enthusiastic audiences that have greeted it nightly. Mr. Albert Ward, who is starring, finds the rôle of Harold Wilson entirely to his liking, and the part being entrusted to so accomplished an actor an eminently sound and interesting performance was assured, his success never being for a moment in doubt. Mr. Paul Peters is responsible for a clever portrayal of Colonel Hardwicke. As Stephen Raymond Mr. Maurice Drew acts with discretion and effect. Mr. Fred Morgan as Captain Maitland contrives to make the character as repulsive as possible, and gives a strong and virile reading. Mr. Harry Bristowe as Sir Simon is always in the picture, and is to be commended. Mr. Charles Cecil as Perkins does very well; as does Mr. Paige Laurence as Captain Sparrow. Mr. H. Robertson as Ahmed is satisfactory, and looks well. Mr. Keino Johnston as Molloy is mirth provoking, and finds allies in Mr. W. P. Sheen and Miss Agnes Paulton, who both work very hard, and with success. Miss Ruby Edgerton as Rose Selwyn acts pleasantly; and Miss Marjorie Murray as Elsie submits a good performance. As the unfortunate Margaret Maitland Miss Lena Flowerdew acts with great power and conviction, her portrayal of the rôle being very good. Miss Teresa Osborne as Ruth also gains a cordial reception for a well-conceived study of the rôle. Miss Florrie Green as Jacks acts with ability and intelligence; and the remaining smaller parts are satisfactorily embodied by the remainder of the company. The scenery and mounting leave nothing to be desired, the last set being very good.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, May 20, the Comedy, entitled
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."

Mr. Robert Arthur could not have found any play more to the liking of the holiday audiences which filled the Camden Theatre than Mr. Michael Morton's amusing play, The Little Stranger, for it kept everybody in continual laughter and gave immense pleasure to all the holiday-makers. This is not the first visit of this mirth-provoking play here, and Master Edward Garratt is again to be found in his dual rôle of the Baby and Tom Pennyman, and the various exploits of Tom, when he assumes the character of the Baby, are as funny as ever, and the clever little actor received a hearty welcome. Mr. Charles Stewart, under whose direction the company is being toured, appears as Captain Allenby, and plays in his usual easy and finished manner. Mrs. Allenby is delightfully impersonated by Miss Frances Dillon, and her various encounters with the Baby are capitally played. Mr. E. H. Wynne is excellent as the fiery old General Allenby; while Miss Mary Stuart is seen to advantage as the General's wife. Sir George Peacock is portrayed in a very diverting manner by Mr. Hubert Druce; and Lady Peacock finds a charming representative in Miss A. C. Greene. Mr. Murri Moncrieff gives a clever impersonation of Paul Vronsky, the spiritualist; Mr. H. Asheton Tonge is excellent as Alec Howard; Miss Christine Rayner is very charming as Effie; and Miss Louie Tinsley again displays her powers as a comedienne as the Nurse. Eames, the butler, is very neatly presented by Mr. Fred Epitaux. There is also being presented a new and original one-act play, entitled Citizen Morot, which is from the pen of Miss Alice Clayton Greene, who appears in the play which it precedes. The story deals with an episode of the French Revolution, and the tale of revenge is well told and with much dramatic force. Mr. G. E. Bellamy appears as Morot, and he fills the character admirably; while Miss Frances Dillon gives a particularly clever rendering of Michelle de Cresney. It is a very fine piece of emotional acting, and splendidly played. The Marquis de Cresney is portrayed in a skilful manner by Mr. H. A. Tonge; and Mr. Fred Epitaux as Lucien and Mr. E. H. Wynne as the Governor, also lend valuable assistance. The play was accorded a very hearty reception, and the authoress is to be complimented on the success it achieved.

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, May 20,
"THE MORALS OF MARCUS."

During this Bank Holiday week The Morals of Marcus have supplied food for reflection to the frequenters of the pretty Notting Hill Gate theatre, so admirably managed by Mr. Edward Lytton for Mr. Robert Arthur. Mr. W. J. Locke's clever and original play proves very interesting indeed as expounded by Mr. M. V. Leveaux's well-chosen company. Mr. H. Nye Chart's easy polished manner is eminently suited to the part of the self-absorbed historian who finds himself suddenly confronted with a strange and difficult problem, which is further complicated by the dawn of love on the horizon of a hitherto tranquil and philosophic nature. He enacts the part with earnestness and sincerity. Miss Hilda Antony fills the part of Carlotta, the child of impulse, in a most convincing fashion, and with a pretty and picturesque appreciation of the character. The somewhat thankless and unpleasant part of Mrs. Mainwaring is admirably limned by Mrs. Nye Chart, and she imparts to it just the delicate air and deft handling which are necessary to prevent the character from being altogether unsympathetic. Mr. David Domville acts with a nice sense of humour as the unscrupulous adventurer Sebastian Pasquale, who acts as the evil genius of the Marcus ménage, and he keeps the saturnine scheming of his mind most acceptably veiled. Miss Mary Weigall as Mrs. Ordeyne is appropriately severe; and Dora Ordeyne, her slangy, good-natured daughter, is prettily played by Miss Gladys Purnell. The part of the excitable, garrulous, and good-hearted French housekeeper Antoinette is cleverly portrayed by Miss Eleanor Gilbart; and Mr. Cecil Brooking gives a clever and concise character-sketch of the butler Stenson, a life-like and vastly-amusing silhouette, illustrative of the author's wit and observation. Mr. A. H. Leveaux, who acts as stage-manager, contents himself with the small part of Hamdi Effendi; Mr. W. Swinburne is good as Bobby Tremlett; Miss C. Radcliffe is well in the picture as Mrs. McMurray; and a capital performance is given by Miss Mary O'Neill as Lady Elmira Wynn. Miss E. Summers and Miss Hilda Lane, who are quite satisfactory in the parts of Miss Lestrange and the Maid, complete the cast. Mr. Henry Howard is acting-manager for the company.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama,
by Arthur Shirley, entitled
"THE GRIP OF IRON."

The sensational, but really interesting drama, The Grip of Iron, is once more at the Dalston Theatre, where it is quite taking the fancy of holiday audiences. Mr. Fred Powell still appears as Jagon, alias Simmonet (the strangler), and the way in which he depicts the startling events in his double life, culminating in the dispatch of the murderer of his daughter, Lorentz de Ribas, holds onlookers spellbound at different periods of the story. Mr. Powell has lost none of his old power, notwithstanding the fact that he now impersonated the strangler some 5000 times. Mr. Wallace Curnock, as Paul Blanchard, a gardener, who becomes falsely accused of a murder committed by Jagon, effectively enlists the sympathy of the audience. Lorentz de Ribas, a courtly Spanish adventurer, who marries Jagon's daughter, has a most effective representative in Mr. A. G. Polson-Turner. Mr. W. T. Riley and Mr. John Brittain, as detectives of the new and the old school, are distinctly amusing. Mr. George Denham undertakes two parts, appearing alternately as M. de Beaudin and Loustalot, the Smiler, the latter being a really mirth-provoking impersonation. Cora Simmonet is played by Miss Rosabel Dodd with commendable effect; Miss Florence Trevoir is Sophie Blanchard; and other ladies in the cast include Miss Maggie Stewart, Miss Cissie Hayes, and Miss Pope Royal.

CRYSTAL PALACE THEATRE.

On Monday, May 20, the Pantomime, entitled
"THE FORTÉ THIEVES."

A unique attraction has been secured by Mr. Bannister Howard for the final week of his present season at the Palace in the company of children from Drury Lane, in their own pantomime, The Forté Thieves (Played Piano), written by Bruce Smith, and arranged by Mr. Ernest D'Auban. It has long been the custom of the juveniles engaged at the National theatre to give a production for the amusement of their friends, but this year they have emerged into publicity. On the invitation of Mr. J. M. Glover, the musical director at the Lane, under whose management the troupe is travelling, they went recently to Bexhill-on-Sea, of which Mr. Glover is Mayor, and gave a series of performances, which were so successful that arrangements were made to extend the field of their operations. The reception of the clever band at the Crystal Palace has been a most flattering one, and the excellence of the performance has been heartily recognised. The leading spirit of the pantomime, in which the adventures of the famed Forty are brought up to date, is Master Jack Frost, whose talents as a comedian are made evident in the rôle of Abdallah, the Captain and Chairman of the Forté Thieves, Limited, purveyors of every household requisite. Abdullah is a tireless punster, and his efforts in that direction are very effective. He is seen and heard at his best in "Let's sing a song, boys," with a clever dance, in which he is supported by the band. In his capacity of traveller for the firm, Abdallah has also a humorous selection, with the refrain, "For orders I will call another day," which goes well. Ali Baba has a merry exponent in Master W. Bishop, who shares with Master Frost the success of a duet on "Nothing," supplemented by a dance of great comicality. Master Bishop is also responsible for "It's only a question of time," a topical song which is repeatedly encored. A winsome Morgiana is found in the dainty person of Miss Florrie Clarke, who made a hit in singing, acting, and dancing. Her rendering of "I don't want to be a lady" was thoroughly enjoyed, and applause in abundance were showered upon the clever little lady. Miss Vickie Hogben is to be complimented on her efforts as principal dancer. Her song and dance, in which she was assisted by a couple of coons, was among the most highly approved items of the evening. Hassarac, the trusty lieutenant of the Forty, is well presented by Miss A. Macdonald, whose version of "Hello, hello, a different girl again," is one of the smartest of many smart selections. The character of Ganem is entrusted to Miss Jessie Evans, who joins with Morgiana in a diverting parody on "Zuyder Zee." Master Teddy Gordon makes the most of Cassim Baba; and his wife, Cogia, is vivaciously represented by Miss L. Randall, whose singing of "How would you like to spoon with me?" gains cordial approbation. The responsibilities of the donkey are undertaken with credit by Master Middleditch and Master Burton, the ramping of the quadruped causing great laughter. Miss Gertie Britton is a commendable Fairy of the Cave. The scenery, of which there are six sets, is on an elaborate scale, a transformation being provided in The Coming of Spring, in which the resources of the scene-painter's art are agreeably revealed. A shadow pantomime gives an appreciable finish to the production.

THE STANDARD.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, in prologue and four acts, by Arthur Jefferson, entitled
"LONDON BY DAY AND NIGHT."

A powerful holiday attraction is being placed before the patrons of the Standard this week. London by Day and Night is a play full of interest and excitement, and on Monday a crowded house showed its appreciation of the good work done. The piece is presented by a most capable body of players, and the scenery and minor effects are all of the best. The Standard favourite, Mr. Ashley Page, is seen to great advantage as Richard Thorneycroft. He plays throughout with power and skill, and his style of acting is, as usual, very convincing. Much praise is due to him for his splendid performance. Mr. Tom Taylor ably enacts the rôle of Edgar Thorneycroft, a sea captain. His embodiment is both interesting and impressive. Miss Ida Taylor proves herself to be possessed of much ability, and plays with great taste and decided success as Richard Edgar Thorneycroft, alias Dick, a waif. Little Miss Elsie Jezzard as Sybil Langton does all that is required of her exceedingly well. A very satisfactory portrayal of Jack Hainsworth is supplied by Mr. Fred Ellerton; and Mr. John Sargent scores a success as Major Godfrey Snake. Mr. Weldon Atherstone is worthy of special commendation for his fine impersonation of Gideon Snake. He carefully depicts the callous nature of an ex-solicitor of shady reputation, and his performance meets with due appreciation. The part of George Flemming is safely entrusted to Mr. Wilson Gunning, who performs with a fine display of decided histrionic talent. Much fun is created by Mr. Johnny Chippendale as Nicodemus Sneezer. He effectively seizes every opportunity to raise a hearty laugh, and is substantially assisted by Miss Maggie Lindsay as Emily Ann Sneezer. Miss East Robertson plays with considerable force as Olga Snake, and is to be congratulated on her fine embodiment; whilst Miss Mattie Everett is well placed as Maria Pink, and proves of much value. Miss Marion Denvil carefully and cleverly enacts the rôle of Beatrice Thorneycroft, and plays throughout with sincerity and feeling. The minor characters receive adequate attention at the hands of other members of the company.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

A triple bill was presented to the patrons of the Royal County Theatre on Monday, the principal item of the programme being H. T. Craven's two-act drama Milky White. Mr. Arthur Williams gives one of the finest bits of character-acting as the cowkeeper, Daniel White, that have been witnessed in Kingston for some time. It quite captured the audience, who were not slow to appreciate Mr. Williams's fine picture of an old curmudgeon familiar in life. Another success was that of Mr. Fred Emney, who appeared as the cowboy, Dick Duggs, with a stolid, bucolic vacuity that was almost real; Miss Emily Taylor made a charming Annie White; and a meritorious effort was that of Mr. Franklyn Graham as Archibald Good. Miss Emily Spiller gave a good account of herself as Mrs. Saddrip. The artists had to make reappearances at the end of each act in response to the applause evoked. Mr. Arthur Williams was seen in the title-rôle of his own comedietta Funnibone's Fix, the other parts being taken by Mr. Lytton Grey, Mr. Fred Emney, Mr. Charles Clarke, Mr. Franklyn Graham, Miss Blanche Doris, and Miss Sylvia Morris. The programme also contained a one-act drama, with music, written and composed by Leslie Stiles, entitled

"A BURMESE IDOL."

Kishnatu ..... MISS SYLVIA MORRIS
Putra ..... MR. FRANKLYN GRAHAM
Tom Bowline ..... MR. LYTTON GREY

The scene of this morceau, which was produced at Kingston as a curtain-raiser, is laid on the seashore in sunny Burmah. A young and pretty peasant woman, Kishnatu, is married to a by no means prepossessing snake-charmer called Putra, who is a good man, and loves his wife dearly. In this place, far from home and friends, Tom Bowline, a British tar, finds himself stranded and in bad health. Kishnatu and her husband give him an asylum, and the former nurses him back to health and strength. In time she comes to love him, and when the tar has completely recovered, never loses an opportunity of declaring her passion, much to Tom's embarrassment, who, though he is not averse from a mild flirtation, by no means encourages the girl. Matters get serious, however, when Kishnatu announces her resolve to leave her husband and child and to fly with him over the sea. Tom therefore decides to end the painful situation, and he is strengthened in his intention by witnessing, when he was supposed to be asleep, a stormy scene between the woman and her husband, who had not been oblivious of what was going on. The end of this matrimonial quarrel is that Putra leaves his wife and takes the baby with him. Tom decides to slip away, and writes a note saying farewell. Kishnatu sees the note, which she is allowed to think is a love-letter, and Tom, not wishing to witness her grief, sends her off to the bazaar to have it translated, and then, leaving all the money he has in the empty cradle, quietly quits the scene. Kishnatu's grief is very great when she discovers the contents of the note, and it is intensified when she hurries back to find not only the sailor, but her husband and child, gone. Alone in the world, she thinks only of death. Before her stands a box containing a cobra capella, which her husband could charm, but whose sting was death. She flies to the box to take the deadly reptile to her breast, and is about to remove the lid, when Putra returns with the child in his arms. Then follow penitence and reconciliation.

Too much praise cannot be bestowed on Miss Sylvia Morris for the fine impersonation she gave of the impulsive Kishnatu. It was a masterly performance, especially touching being the picture of her grief at the close of the play. Mr. Lytton Grey made a breezy Jack Tar; and the sombre part of the snake-charmer was ably filled by Mr. Franklyn Graham. The play received a sympathetic reception.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, the Drama, by Walter Howard, entitled
"A LIFE'S REVENGE."

Large audiences have this week been interested by Mr. Howard's story of Russian life. The beautiful Princess Vanda Idyala has her portrait painted by Paul Storovitch, an artist. They fall in love, and are married secretly in order to thwart the designs of the villainous Prince Boris Strogoroff, who is anxious that the Princess shall become his wife. The Prince hears of their attachment, but does not know of the marriage, and seeks a means whereby he may get his rival into his power. Storovitch is betrayed by Michael Orloff (who afterwards turns out to be his father) to the Prince as a serf, and, according to the laws of the land, he is, therefore, the servant of the Prince, and all his belongings are the Prince's property. The play follows out the torture undergone by this Paul Storovitch at the hands of the callous and revengeful Prince, who hopes to bring about the Princess's submission if her lover's life be the penalty of her refusal. As the cowardly Prince Boris Strogoroff Mr. Chas. A. East does his best, and works extremely hard. Mr. Rawson Buckley as Paul Storovitch, the artist hero, is earnest throughout, portraying this trying character with much effect. The part of Maurice Trevor, his friend, is successfully undertaken by Mr. Herbert Hewetson, who has some pretty speeches to make, and who takes advantage of his opportunities. Michael Orloff finds an able exponent in Mr. Algernon Syms; and Mr. Frank Harrison causes much amusement in the character of Colonel Tumbleoff. Mr. Bertie Wright is really funny as Nicholas Bobolinskroff, and proves himself a clever comedian. The character of General Micklioff is played by Mr. T. J. Waller, and Mr. H. Royce is a capable Lieutenant Semoloff. Miss Lindsay Fincham acts realistically in the part of Marcia Vittoria, an adventuress; and Miss Kathleen Russell looks and plays the characters of the noble-minded Princess Vanda Idyala to perfection. Miss May Audrie is a pleasing Aconlina, and Miss Florence Harcourt contributes towards the humour of the play as Daphne Dashaway.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, entitled
"THE GIRL WHO TOOK THE WRONG TURNING."

For the holiday attraction at this theatre the management have selected this latest production from Mr. Walter Melville's pen, and this being the first visit to this theatre, audiences that packed every part of the theatre assembled on the holiday to make its acquaintance. Mr. Melville preaches his old sermon of human frailty, and makes his points with ease and force, and a capital company is responsible for the performance. Mr. Roy Redgrave as Willie Mason gives an admirable portrayal of the much-tried sailor, and speedily enlists the sympathy of the audience. Mr. Sidney Sail as Bill Slater is to be commended for a well-balanced performance. Mr. Frank Robertson as Jack Fenton submits a pleasant and attractive impersonation and makes himself popular. Mr. Willie Reid as Walker is an entertaining comedian who can be relied on to make the most of his opportunities, and the audience enjoyed to the utmost his whimsical enactment of the rôle. Mr. Kenneth Black as Richard Fenton is to be commended for a thoroughly sound piece of acting. Mr. Walter Thornton as James Harcourt succeeds in making that unpleasant gentleman as repulsive as possible. Miss Nannie Meade as Vesta le Clerc plays the heavy rôle with skill and effect, and looks very well. As Poppy Slater, Miss Marie Kildare acts with great spirit, and supports Mr. Reid capitally. Miss Hilda Baynton as Lucy Coventry acts sympathetically, and proves an admirable foil to Miss Ruttledge. As the more foolish sister, Sophie, Miss Frances Ruttledge is quite excellent, all phases of a very difficult character being artistically delineated, and she scored a great personal success. Numerous other smaller parts all found capable exponents among the remaining members of the company. The scenery, by Messrs. Melville Brothers, is very elaborate, and excellent examples of their skill; and Mr. Edward Reeves's incidental music is appropriate. The whole has been produced by Mr. Walter Melville himself, and there can be no doubt but that a prosperous career awaits it in the provinces.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, May 20, the Play, in Four Acts, by Walter Melville, entitled
"THE SOLDIER'S WEDDING."

Walter Melville's recent production is the Bank Holiday week attraction at Fulham, and has been received with the customary favour by pit and gallery. The British Army on its best behaviour looms large in the play, and its representatives get the best of things generally. Mr. Wingold Lawrence made an admirable hero, acting his part in a bold and frank manner as becomes the wearer of the King's uniform. Mr. Beresford Whitcomb was forceful and dignified as the Colonel; and Mr. Frederick Biron showed power as David Munro. Mr. Raymond Wood (as Charles Courtenay) is an able and businesslike villain, and carried through his schemes with such naturalness and energy as to provoke the high compliment of hisses from the gallery. Little Albert is responsible for a great deal of fun by his quaint rendering of the part of Teddy Munro, and scores a decided success; while the humorous element is also kept well to the fore by Mr. A. Gambier Melford as Tommy Spratt. Mr. James Fielding shows both humour and tenderness as the old man Nathaniel Lee. Of the ladies, Miss Marie McAuley plays with considerable power as Julie de Beauvrais, the adventuress; and Miss Georgie de Lara's rendering of the part of Peggy Munro is full of womanly feeling and tenderness. The responsible rôle of Nancy Lee devolves upon Miss Jessie Winter, who acquits herself exceedingly well therein; she possesses the charm of good looks as well as the gift of dramatic power, and her bright and winning manner helped much to ensure the success of the play. The scenery is quite up to the mark. In addition to some handsome interiors, there are some particularly pretty country sets in the neighbourhood of King's Langley, and the farmyard scene, with pigeons and poultry, is a good piece of stage realism.

LYRIC OPERA HOUSE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, entitled
"A WOMAN'S REVENGE."

This week a very capable stock company is giving an excellent presentation of this well-known drama. Miss Florence Dalton submits an admirable interpretation of the part of Mabel Wentworth, the adventuress. Mr. C. F. Collins as Frank Drummond, the young barrister, is good; and Mr. H. H. Barrington presents one of his usual finished performances as John Overston, a merchant. Mr. Percy C. Lodge makes Robert Overston appear a sufficiently villainous character. Mr. A. P. Kaye gives a satisfactory rendering of Dick Chilton. Miss Winnie White is a graceful and attractive heroine, Mary Lonsdale, whose companion, Lottie Bromley, is played with plenty of life by Miss Lucy Beaumont. Miss Winnie Webster, a clever little girl, is good as Mary, Drummond's child. Other parts are well filled by Mr. Ashton Wilson as Sir J. Blacklock, K.C.; Mr. E. Malone, the Judge; Mr. James Culver, Mr. F. Maple, and Mr. E. Johnston, and Miss Agnes May. The play is ably staged, Mr. Harry Drury being responsible for some excellent special scenery.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, May 20, the Comedy Drama, entitled
"THE BROKEN MELODY."

Judging by the large audiences that have assembled at the Shakespeare Theatre this week, and the enthusiastic reception accorded Mr. Auguste Van Biene's company, in The Broken Melody, it is very evident, notwithstanding the many years it has been before the public, that this comedy-drama is as popular as ever, and is a sure draw. Mr. Van Biene, in the rôle of Paul Borinski, the musical composer, is given the opportunity of displaying his skill on the 'cello, and his solos are listened to with rapt attention. His acting, too, is excellent, and he fully deserves the applause which greets him at the final fall of the curtain. Mr. Henry Ludlow gives a capital portrayal of the Russian police spy, General Ivanoff, and acts with commendable restraint. Mr. Henry Bute is eminently satisfactory as Dickson, the lodging-house keeper, who proves such a faithful friend in adversity; and Mr. Herbert Colley, as Mortimer, causes considerable amusement by his delineation of the energetic theatrical agent. Mr. Dudley Stuart capably sustains the part of Beaujour, a concert impresario; Mr. W. Thomson is satisfactory as Dr. Magrath; and Mr. Archie Selwyn, who is also stage-manager, makes the most of his opportunities as the Hon. Richard Spinnaker. Miss Lena Burnleigh as Mabel contributes a sterling performance, and acts throughout with feeling and pathos; Miss Rosemary Rees is to be congratulated on a powerful delineation of the scheming Duchess de Verviers, in which rôle she scores a distinct success; and Miss Kate Robberds as Mrs. Dickson and Miss R. Pulleyne as the Hon. Mrs. Spinnaker render good support. Mr. Gilbert Heron is business-manager and Mr. Percival Goffin musical-director for Mr. Auguste Van Biene.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama,
by Walter Melville, entitled
"THE FEMALE SWINDLER."

No better fare for holiday makers could be provided than Mr. Walter Melville's exciting and exhilarating play, The Female Swindler, and therefore it was not surprsing that the Crown, Peckham, was crammed to overflowing at both performances last Monday, many persons having to be turned away. Mr. Tom H. Taylor's company worked their hardest to gain applause, and were abundantly successful. Miss Grace E. Leslie makes a striking figure of Lu Valroy, and is warmly cheered for her fine impersonation of the woman in whom all good is not yet dead. Mr. Joseph Millane scores well as the detective, Jack Coulson; Mr. Henry Wright is funny as the ubiquitous and ambitious Billy Binks, whose various strange disguises evoke much merriment; Mr. D. Winstow does all that is possible with the character of Dixon; and Mr. A. Kenyon Gray is excellent as James Oliver. Mr. J. Knox-Orde brings out the rascality of Geoffrey Warden; and Mr. Gup P. Ellis plays well as Harold Travers. May Andrews is capably enacted by Miss Florrie Kelsey; and Miss Mary Dawson is amusing as Mary Ann Mee. Mr. John Belton contributes a good character-sketch of Abraham Mikestein; and the remaining parts are in good hands.

THE PRINCE'S, POPLAR.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, entitled
"THE LOVE THAT WOMEN DESIRE."

The Whitsuntide attraction at the Prince's, Poplar, is G. Carlton Wallace's drama, The Love that Women Desire, which was presented on Monday to a house packed in every part. The play had the advantages of the services of a company capable in every respect, together with first-class scenery and mounting. Mr. J. O. Stewart works with great energy as Squire Abingdon, and Mr. Alfred Brandon submits an admirable interpretation of Richard Abingdon; while Mr. Bonhote Wilson enters thoroughly into the part of Philip Carnaby, the result being a praiseworthy performance. The Rev. Arnold Cathorne is represented by Mr. Hugh Wallace with an outspoken earnestness; and the outcast, Frank Hardy, receives an impressive rendering from Mr. Graham Winsford. Miss Lalla Stanhope impersonates Sybil Thorburn, playing the character with power and eloquent pathos. Madge Abingdon is acted with great spirit and determination by Miss Gladys Murray; and Miss Emmie Litchfield displays aptitude as Pattie Swift. Mr. J. W. Wilkinson is amusing as P.C. Sowerburry, which he enacts in good-tempered and jaunty style, keeping the audience in the best of humours; and Mr. S. P. Clewton is convincing as Dr. Brandeth. Mr. Charles Franklin is acceptable as Adam Frere; and Mr. B. Morris is well fitted as the bailiff Amos Gibson. Mr. Bert Butler and Mr. S. Bale are duly truculent as the Brazilian desperadoes, Miguel and Pedrille; while the Indian brave, Arango, is made the most of by Mr. Stephen Willis. Mr. John Hignett is funny as Dennis O'Rourke; and efficient work is contributed by Mr. Oliver Turnbull as Samuel Hogg, Mr. James Heath as a Postman, Miss Violet Haye as Molly, and Miss N. Griffiths as Mariquinha. The comfort of the patrons is well looked after by the genial and courteous business-manager, Mr. C. Melville Lurring. After this week the theatre closes for the summer vacation, re-opening in August.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 22,
"THE GIRL BEHIND THE COUNTER."

Overflowing houses have been receiving The Girl Behind the Counter, played by Mr. Mouillot's strong company with much enthusiasm here this week. Mr. Arthur Cartwright as Charles Chetwyn acts and sings in a finished manner; Miss Nora Brocklebank as Winnie Willoughby wins golden opinions by her delightful rendition of the songs allotted her and by her easy, graceful action; Mr. Ellis Holland as the frivolous Gerald Willoughby is entirely successful, his "Sir Walter Raleigh" song, with much patter, being a great favourite; his wife, Lady Willoughby, is carefully played by Miss M. Bartlett; Mr. Howard Cridland gives a richly humorous portraiture of the easy-going, lackadaisical Viscount Gushington; M. Jules Charmettes is excellent as the excitable Mons. Duval, introducing a clever pot-pourri of English popular songs, which is much applauded. Mr. Fred Park works indefatigably as Adolphus Dudd, the office boy, and with Miss Rose Helene, who plays Susie very daintily, scores a great success in the "Kate Greenaway" duet. Miss Florence Lee as Millie Mostyn is a vivacious manageress of the Maison Duval, singing with great effect the pretty ditty, "The Vicar's eldest daughter." As a very fascinating Ninette Miss Jessie Lonnen, with a delightful French accent, dances and sings well; a clever character-study is that of Mr. A. M. More's as the supercilious waiter; and Mr. William Amery as the silent waiter, Joseph, evokes much merriment. Mr. Geoffrey Allsopp gives a forcible and clever rendering of the Commissionaire Rudolph, and he is also responsible for the production and stage-management of the piece. Mr. George M. Saker has under his direction the well-trained chorus and the very efficient augmented orchestra.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, entitled
"THE LIGHTS O' LONDON."

Mr. Robert Arthur presented as his Whitsun attraction here Mr. Herbert Hollister's powerful dramatic company, in George R. Sims's popular drama, The Lights o' London. That this play still retains a strong hold upon the theatre-going public was amply manifested, inasmuch as it was received with great enthusiasm by crowded houses. Harold Armytage was most admirably portrayed by Mr. C. G. Calvert; as was also the part of Bess by Miss Kate Randolph, Miss Jeanne Burgoyne having met with an accident shortly previous to the performance. These two deserved the highest praise for their clever acting. Mr. Maurice Hoffmann made a great hit as Clifford Armytage, the villain of the piece. Mr. Herbert Hollister was seen to great advantage as Seth Preene; as was also Miss Renee Douglas as Hetty Preene. Jarvis (Mr. Maitland Marler), Mrs. Jarvis (Mrs. Edwin Palmer), and their son, Shakespeare Jarvis (Miss Rita Wallis), added a quaint touch of humour to the play, which gained for them well-deserved applause. Among the others in a wonderfully strong cast may be mentioned Mr. Sydney N. Hallows (Squire Armitage), Mr. F. V. Lloyd (Marks, lodge-keeper at Armytage Hall), Mr. H. W. Forster (a solicitor), Mr. H. Gray Dolby and Mr. John Willis (detectives), Mr. George Wallace (Philosopher Jack), Mr. F. H. Waters (Percy Vere de Vere, Esq.), Mr. E. H. Dolby (Trotters), Mr E. M. Wells (Superintendent of Police), Messrs. Waghorn and Elliston (constables), all of whom gave excellent interpretations of their various parts. The staging was excellent.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, May 20, was Presented the Play, in Two Parts, by Barry Williams, entitled
"THE RED-COAT."

This interesting Georgian play was a judicious selection as a holiday attraction. The plot is not too intricate to be grasped thoroughly in the course of the two hours allotted to it at each performance, under the new system of two houses nightly, and the audience applauded enthusiastically each of the exciting situations. The play is beautifully staged, each scene being worthy of a West-end house, and the costumes are rich and appropriate, while the stage-management is excellent. Mrs. William Giffard presents an admirable study of the gentle, loving, womanly Violet Darnley. Miss Rose Faith gives excellent support as Harriet Marl; and a very pretty and natural Edith is that of Little Josephine. Miss Helen Edwins is an amusing Popsey; and Miss Kate Bratby as Miriam and Miss Russell as Clotilde are both good. Mr. Henry Watson is a manly and earnest Guise Darnley; Mr. Frank Dalton gives a fine representation of Lord Ledbury; Mr. Henry Danson as Clifford Marl is a most unscrupulous villain; Mr. Harry Belford is very good indeed as Gibson; Mr. E. C. Lilly is a capable and convincing Finch Fernleigh; and Mr. C. Ommanney contributes a clever little sketch of Digston Bull. The remaining male parts are in the capable hands of Messrs. Cecil Barclay, Walter Dexter, Arthur Riley, and George Dark.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, May 20, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Arthur Shirley and Ben Landeck, entitled "SAVED FROM THE SEA."

For his Whitsuntide attraction Mr. William Bailey staged that powerful drama Saved from the Sea, with the result that the discerning Marylebone playgoers have attended in full strength all the week to show their appreciation of the fine work done by the members of Miss Helen Vigors' excellent company. As Dan Ellington, Mr. Douglas Vigors plays in a thoroughly convincing fashion, his conception of the part being admirable and never in the least overdrawn. Mr. Percy E. Lodge is most realistic as the scheming rascal Richard Fenton; whilst Mr. Edward Chester deserves every credit for his discerning portrayal of Peter Scalcher. Mr. William Skelton provides plenty of merriment with his lively impersonation of Billy Snooks; and good assistance is given him by Miss May Seton as the blithe and lively Polly Blake. Miss Maude Harris is pleasingly intelligent as Jack Ellington; Miss Florence Lovell is sympathetic as the lodging-house keeper, Mrs. Blake; and Miss Marie Auckland makes a deep impression with her fine handling of the trying rôle of Nancy Ellington. The piece is mounted and staged in irreproachable style, reflecting the greatest credit on Mr. Samuel James, whose general-manager is Mr. F. H. Waters.

THE LATE CHARLES A. LEICESTER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—As an impression seems to have gained ground that the late Mr. Charles A. Leicester was a member of the Actors' Union, and therefore entitled to a death levy on all the members, I beg to state that this impression is quite incorrect. Mr. Leicester had signed at one of the meetings, expressing his desire to become a member, but had not paid his entrance fee.—Yours faithfully,

ROBSON PAIGE.

10, Ospringe-road, N.W., May 23.

OWING to the sudden illness of Mr. Charles Fawcett during the performance on Monday evening at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, the part of Jack Barrington, the genial Irishman in What the Butler Saw, was played by Mr. Alec Alves, who immediately established himself a favourite with the audience and won the congratulations of the management.

THE ACTORS' UNION.

LONDON.

MISS GLADYS FFOLLIOTT presided at Tuesday's meeting of the Actors' Union, held at the Bedford Head Hotel, Maiden-lane, and amongst others present were Mr. Arthur Bawtree, Mr. W. Farren, Mr. Chas. Sugden, Mrs. Sugden, Mr. Robson Paige, Mr. Fred Dent, Mr. Fred Wright, sen., Mrs. F. Wright, Miss A. Gracey, Miss Maud Stoner, Miss Mapleson, Mr. Wilfred Shine, Miss Denison, Miss A. Bain, Miss A. Lester, Miss Conrade, Miss Beatrice Lloyd, Miss Syringa, Mr. E. Collins, Mr. H. Naylor Grimson, Miss Magda Wildenburg, Miss Lena Penrose, Miss Daisy England, Miss Lena Delphine, Miss Dorcas Digby, Miss Grace Lester, Miss Constance Groves, Mr. W. H. G. Wynne, Mr. Ruddle Brown, Miss Marion J. Bird, Mr. Alfred Bennett, Mr. F. Cline, Mr. Oswald Marshall, Miss Lily Crammonde, Mr. Frank Dalton, Mr. Cyril Barclay, Mr. Harry Townley, Mr. H. Carlyle Pritchard, Miss Patterson, Miss Stanley Burt, Mr. J. W. Ryder, Mr. Du Cane, Mr. Robert M. Taylor, Mr. Harry Scott, Miss Belle Douglas, Miss Rene Douglas, Mr. J. Newburn, and Mr. Edwyn Wolseley.

MISS FFOLLIOTT said that the work of the Union was going on in the provinces with as much success as in London. Many new members were joining. She thought that the best thing everyone could do was to stick to the original intention to join, get as many recruits as possible, and argue afterwards. The more who became members the sooner would come the consummation of their old age fund and the ousting of that plague-spot, the paying or unremunerated amateur. A very bad case of the latter had recently been brought to her notice. A girl had worked very hard indeed in a London theatre, playing a small part and understudying a big one, and she had been promised the important part when the piece went on tour. The piece did go on tour, and the part was given to a girl in the chorus, who had paid something like £100, but who was totally unfitted for the work. The money was not paid to the manager, but to his representative, and she (Miss Ffolliott) did not think that the manager was aware of the incident. With a strong union such a thing as that would not have happened. It was advisable that artists should inform the executive committee of the Actors' Union whenever they heard of similar circumstances, as in such a case as this not only would the actress lose her work but also her artistic reputation. It was advisable, too, that every member of the Union should attend the meetings while on tour. It was nonsense for anybody to suggest that they should not go into public-houses to buy their stamps. Had they not rehearsed in public-houses at the wish of managers? The committee were going to keep on the little rooms in Bedford-street in order to save money for the benefit of the members. It would be an excellent thing if every unionist were to send to the Union week by week a small sum, even 2d. or 3d., so that they might rapidly have in hand the nucleus of an old age pension fund. A very small percentage of their salaries was all that was required to effect this object, and the money thus collected would be a valuable adjunct to Mr. Raleigh's scheme. It would, too, make them all feel that they had a right to claim some of the money not as charity, not as a privilege, but as money they had themselves assisted to amass. It was also within the bounds of possibility that they would eventually form a sick fund. She was glad that only men were to act on the committee, as that was an assurance that the affairs of the Union would be conducted on business-like lines, although there might be a sub-committee of ladies to deal specially with feminine matters.

MR. ROBSON PAIGE expressed the opinion that meetings should be held on the stage of the theatres all over the country. This week meetings would be held on the stages of Liverpool, Manchester, and Birmingham, and they hoped to benefit to the extent of eighty or one hundred additional members. Some managers seemed to think that ladies ought to be paid smaller salaries than men; but they seemed to overlook the expenses a woman had to meet in the way of dresses, &c. It was the intention of the Union to right woman's wrongs.

MR. RUDDLE BROWN said he was glad that the question of the £2 minimum salary had been dropped. He thought that it was a reasonable sum to suggest as a minimum; but the fact was they wanted better salaries all round. Salaries to-day were much lower than they were six or eight years ago. It was high time that they had better pieces and better companies on the road.

MR. ARTHUR BAWTREE stated that the present provisional committee was about to issue a balance-sheet, and it was desirable that they should get in as many subscriptions as early as they possibly could.

MR. OSWALD MARSHALL said that every member of the Union should send in his or her name and permanent address, together with a description of the individual line of business, so that applications from managers for artists could be dealt with.

MR. FARREN and MR. ROBERT M. TAYLOR also spoke very briefly, and MISS FFOLLIOTT concluded by suggesting that the Union should inaugurate a "self-denial day" for the benefit of their funds. She understood that a performance was already arranged as a means of getting money.

NEWCASTLE.

A meeting in connection with the Actors' Union was held on Tuesday, the 14th inst., in the club-room of the Bridge Hotel, Newcastle. Amongst those present were Miss Florence Creagh, Miss Rosie Kearns, Miss Gwendolen Thorpe, Miss Winifred Symonds, Messrs. William Macready, Monson Thorpe, Kendrew Milson, Geo. H. Organ, and Frederick Loyd.

The chair was occupied by Mr. LOYD, who, after referring to the rapid growth of the Union during the past few weeks, stated it had been formed, not in any antagonistic spirit towards the touring manager, but with the idea of improving the condition of the actor, and in the belief that the actor who helped himself would be helping his manager. Several managers had expressed themselves heart and soul with the movement, and he was sure all whom he might term "white managers" would support it. It had been said "actors would never organise." He thought that had already been proved to be an old-fashioned untruth. They had organised, and were grateful to the Variety Artists' Federation for having shown them the way. After stating the suggested minimum wage of £2 could not be enforced until the bulk of the profession were members, Mr. Loyd asked all present who had not already done so to send in their names for membership at once, in order that they might be entitled to vote at the forthcoming election of the first council. He referred to the death levy, which could not fail to abolish the regrettable appeals for charity which we saw only too frequently in theatrical organs. How often did we read of a widow and children totally unprovided for. He concluded by saying:—"Ladies and Gentlemen,—We are going to change all that, and I ask you, if for this alone, not to hesitate, not to deliberate, not to delay, but to join the Union to-day."

The clauses were then taken one by one. On clause 2 Mr. MACREADY asked if carpenters playing parts were eligible for membership.

The CHAIRMAN replied the question had been put at another meeting, and would have to be decided by the council. He should say anyone speaking lines on the stage would consider himself an actor.

On clause 5 Mr. MONSON THORPE, seconded by Mr. MACREADY, carried a motion that a member should be allowed a month's grace for arrears, before being put out of benefit.

Nos. 6, 7, and 8 having been carried unanimously, a question was asked on clause 9, as to whether it was necessary for anyone joining now to pay from the commencement of the financial year.

The CHAIRMAN replied that members could begin their payments from time of joining, but no one would be in full benefit until he had paid for six months. They would no doubt see the advantage of making payments in advance.

Objects 1, 2, and 3 were carried unanimously. Some discussion followed on Nos. 4, 5, and 6. After explanations from the chairman re the provident fund and legal protection, these were carried, as were Nos. 7 and 8.

Mr. MONSON THORPE said it would be an excellent idea if the Union could in time to come obtain the three-quarter fare for those members travelling to and from engagements.

A further suggestion was made by Miss GWENDOLEN THORPE that this might be arranged in a similar way to that employed by commercial travellers, viz., the name and small photograph attached to the back of membership card, for purposes of identification.

The CHAIRMAN said he would mention the suggestion to the provisional committee.

Mr. MACREADY said it had been explained this Union had been formed with no animosity towards touring managers. This was a point on which he would like to drive a few nails home. Ten years made a great difference in this profession. An actor was an actor to-day and a manager to-morrow, and vice versa. Managers had their own Association. The time had now come for actors to unite and become strong enough to manage their own affairs. It was not the touring manager the Union would fight, but the syndicate, who, being able to possess themselves of a number of theatres, could thus force the touring manager to accept unfair percentages. If we fought them, we should assist the touring manager to obtain better terms. After a reference to the suggested £2 minimum wage as being rough on the small manager, Mr. Macready concluded by saying: "Put down your names to-day, pay in your subscriptions at once, and vote for your representative council." To paraphrase Shakespeare, he would say in conclusion:—

"Come all the troubles in the world in arms,
And we will shock them. Naught shall make us rue,
If actors to their Union rest but true."

After the usual votes of thanks, the meeting terminated, all present who had not already done so signing to join the Union.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

SIR,—I have carefully read most of the reports concerning the Actors' Union, and I gather that no one except actors are to have anything to do with it. This being so, one naturally wants to know when Mr. Cecil Raleigh became an actor. We know him as an author and an agitator, but hardly as an actor. Does the Union realise the absurdity of proposing that managers should give a percentage of receipts from non-copyright plays in order to form a provident fund for actors? This seems the idea of Mr. Raleigh. As to the minimum wage of £2, the idea is right enough if it could be carried out; but I wonder if these actors realise the hundreds who get employment for the greater part of the year from managers who run small dramas, and who can only pay their way by giving small salaries? If only the Union would realise that it is the local manager who is the cause of these small salaries, they would be on the right track. Till the travelling manager can get equitable terms, he cannot pay good salaries; and every year his expenses increase. Items which, in all fairness, are local items, he is forced to pay, and before long the ordinary travelling manager must be swept off the road. This having been accomplished, will the Actors' Union send out companies; and, if so, will it then become a Managers' Union. While the supply is double the demand, as it is in the case of professional actors and actresses, no "strike" could ever be of effect. It seems to me that the Reform Party and the Actors' Union are merely breaking up the A.A., which, in spite of many mistakes, has done much good, more than it has ever got credit for.—Yours faithfully,

A. GIFFORD STACEY.

New Theatre, Cardiff, May 20, 1907.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Many of the members of the above Union are kind enough to say that the founders and Provisional Committee have done excellent work. May I say we shall be amply rewarded if they will pay their subscriptions in advance as far as lies in their power, and so enable us to hand over a good banking account to the Executive Committee on our retirement.—Yours faithfully,

ROBSON PAIGE.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC

On Friday evening, May 17, a performance was given by the students of the Royal Academy of Mozart's Cosi Fan Tutte. It was a happy idea, as the opera does not require a large stage, nor is the music beyond the reach of a clever student. Cosi Fan Tutte, Ossia la Scuola Degli Amanti, to give the full title, was composed in January, 1790, to the libretto of Da Ponte, and although written at perhaps the most unhappy period of Mozart's career, the lively music shows no trace of sadness. The scene of the opera, which is in two acts, is laid at Naples. Ferrando and Gratiano offer to lay a wager with Don Alfonso, a confirmed doubter of woman's fidelity, that their mistresses will stand any test of constancy. Don Alfonso agrees, and after informing the ladies that their lovers are ordered off to the war, afterwards, with the help of Despina, the waiting-maid, introduces the officers, disguised as foreigners, to Isidora and Dorabella. The supposed strangers make violent love to the two ladies, and on being rejected pretend to take poison. When they seem on the point of death Despina, disguised as a doctor, restores them by mesmerism. In the second act they continue their efforts, and the ladies at last yield, Dorabella first and then Isidora, and a notary is sent for to draw up a marriage contract, the notary, of course, personated by Despina. At the wedding banquet Alfonso gives the alarm that the true lovers are coming, the false ones depart, and the real ones enter, see the marriage contract, and unmask the pretended notary. The mystery is cleared up. Alfonso reconciles the lovers, and wins his wager. The little opera was brightly acted, and Mozart's charming music cleverly sung, the quintette in the first act and the duet between Isidora and Dorabella being remarkably well rendered. Miss Mary J. Fielding made an attractive Isidora, singing her long solo in the second act with considerable fluency of execution; while Miss Josephine Ottlee acted and sang gracefully in the character of Dorabella. Miss Isabel H. Rawlins acted in a most sprightly fashion as the artful and intriguing maid Despina; and Mr. Cecil Pearson deserves hearty praise for his acting in the part of the cynical old bachelor, Don Alfonso. Mr. F. Percival Driver and Mr. Thomas Gibbs appeared with success as Gratiano and Fernando. Miss Dorothy E. Ivens, Miss Gertrude E. Newson, Miss Margaret Ismay, and Miss Elaine Von Pirch made graceful pages; while the chorus of servants sang with intelligence. The performance was under the direction of Mr. Edgardo Lévi, who conducted; and Mr. Richard Temple admirably performed the duties of stage-management. Miss Mary Burgess at the pianoforte and Mr. Redgewell Dansie at the organ both deserve praise; and the costumes and properties lent by the Royal Opera Syndicate proved attractive and picturesque. Mention must also be made of the dialogue, cleverly adapted from the Italian by Mr. Henry S. Sanders.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Señor Carlos Sobrino gave his third pianoforte recital in the concert room of the Guildhall School on Tuesday afternoon before a large audience. The first part of his programme was devoted to Schumann's "Arabeske," Op. 18; "Romanza," No. 2, Op. 28; and "Papillons," Op. 2. In these Señor Sobrino greatly pleased the audience by his playing of the clever "Arabeske" and graceful "Romanza"; while the talented professor's treatment of the delightful "Papillons" was particularly happy. Schubert's "Impromptu," Op. 142, No. 2, and "Moment Musical," No. 3, also proved very attractive features of the recital; and Señor Sobrino's brilliant execution was admirably displayed in Weber's lively Rondo ("Perpetuo Mobile"), from Op. 24. Mendelssohn's "Songs Without Words," No. 18 (duetto), No. 30 ("Spring Song"), and No. 34 ("Spinning Song"), received expressive treatment, and the audience were greatly pleased with the pianist's rendering of the same composer's Presto, "Leicht und Luftig," Op. 7, No. 7, and his popular "Rondo Capriccioso." At the close of the recital Señor Sobrino was warmly applauded, and recalled several times to the platform.

Instrumental music formed the chief feature in the concert given by the students of the Guildhall School on Wednesday evening, the first item in the programme being Miss Winifred Percy's neatly-executed piano solos, "Tarantelle" (Julian Clifford) and Döhler's "Etude in D minor." Master Leonard A. Connabeer was much applauded, and deserved great praise for his intelligent and careful playing of Mendelssohn's violin solo, "Andante from Concerto in E minor"; and Miss Ethel Wynne's piano solo of Schumann's "Novelette in E" may also be heartily commended. Miss Violet Cobb gave a painstaking rendering of Chopin's "Scherzo in B flat minor," but the music is at present somewhat too difficult for the young performer. Bach's "Concerto" for two violins, played by Mr. A. Tschaikov and Miss Yathe Mandiebom, was on the whole a success. The youthful executants were at first somewhat uncertain in their attack, but they quickly recovered, and gave a careful and finished performance of the fine slow movement and lively finale, the pianoforte accompaniment being well played by Mr. Mischa Levin. In the pianoforte solos of "Auf Flügeln des Gesanges" (Mendelssohn-Heller) and Chopin's "Valse in E minor" Miss Dorothy Holden was eminently successful. The vocal items included Handel's duet, "The Lord is a Man of War" ("Israel"), well sung by Mr. William Lee and Mr. A. Chappell-Haverson. In two old English folk-songs, "Early one morning" and "Cupid's Garden," Miss Gladys Gilderoy Scott was particularly happy in her singing of the quaint old-world melodies; while Mr. Edwin Lewis sang "The Sailor's Grave," by Sullivan, with capital intonation and real artistic feeling. Two uninteresting songs, "A Lyke-wake Dirge" and "Fear no more the heat o' the sun," by H. Walford Davies, did not display Miss Bertha Lansdell's pleasing voice to the most advantage; and the difficult florid music in Proch's "Thema und Variazionen," "Woher dieses Sehnen," although sung with intelligence, proved too exacting a task for Miss Hilda Morris. A clever recitation of "The music in our street," by R. C. Lehmann, was given by Miss L. S. Cruden, who, in the flower-girl's dialect, with expressive action and the little touch of sentiment introduced, showed the true instincts of a born actress, and did the greatest credit to her experienced teacher, Mr. L. Cairns James. The sketch was given in costume, which added greatly to the effect. The success of the concert owed not a little to the clever accompanist, Miss Jenny Hyman.

On Wednesday afternoon an organ recital was given in the concert-room of the Guildhall School by Mr. H. Weatherly, F.R.C.O. The programme commenced with Faulkes' "Concert Overture in E flat," followed by Lemare's pleasing "Romance in D." The organist also was much applauded for his playing of Bach's famous "Prelude and Fugue in D major" and Bossi's quaint and original "Scherzo in G minor." A showy "Fantasia in E major," by Wolstenholme, Hollins' "Intermezzo," and Widor's "Toccata" from his "Fifth Symphony," completed the recital, Mr. Weatherly being at the close warmly greeted. One noticeable feature at these organ recitals has been the great preponderance of the sterner sex among the audience.

MISS ELLEN TERRY

WHOSE AUTOBIOGRAPHY COMMENCES IN NEXT WEEK'S "M.A.P."

EVERYBODY will be delighted to hear that Miss Ellen Terry has just completed her autobiography, and that its publication in serial form commences in next week's M.A.P.

"The Story of My Life," as her reminiscences are entitled, is a story of absorbing interest. It will rank as one of the most important biographical works of recent years. It is at once the story of the astonishing career of the greatest of actresses, the story of the stage for the last fifty years, and the story of a woman whose friends are as the stars in number, who has held enthralled the hearts of all who have known or seen her by her beauty and by her charm.

"The actress is great, but the woman is greater than the actress," a famous critic once wrote, "and in the final analysis of Miss Terry's acting it will be found that her enchantment is that of a unique personality."

And this personality breathes through every line of the autobiography. "To read it is to hear her speak and see her smile," said a friend who has been privileged to see the manuscript. Just as she charms when she appears in public or in private, so does she charm through her pen. As a brilliant writer, an incomparable story-teller, Ellen Terry is now to shine in a new part.

"For years," she confesses, "I have contemplated telling this story, and for years I have put off telling it. When it was suggested to me that I ought to write down my recollections in the year of my Jubilee, all the difficulties of the undertaking began to frighten me. I could not deny that I had had an eventful life, packed full of incident, and that by the road I had met many distinguished and interesting men and women. I could not deny that I had been fifty years on the stage, and that this meant enough material for fifty books."

So, appalled at the task, but inspired by the knowledge that her story would be warmly welcomed by the great public that had proved so loyal to her through fifty years, she began to write of her eventful life.

"What is the first thing I remember?" she asked herself, and began with that—a picture of herself as a baby in a Glasgow attic asleep on the floor, clinging all night to her father's hand. And then the rest of the story flowed from her pen: the recollection of her first appearance on the stage as a little girl of eight, in the year 1856—the history of her famous brother and sisters, Kate, Marion, and Fred—of her associations with the Keans and Henry Irving—and of those parts with which her name will ever be associated—her triumphs as Ophelia, as Portia, as Beatrice, and as the Margaret of Goethe's "Faust." . . .

Our readers will be well advised on no account to miss the opening chapters of Ellen Terry's "Story of My Life," appearing in next week's M.A.P.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MR. E. S. WILLARD was unable to attend the dinner of the Olympian Dramatic Club of the Oxford University on Monday, and his place was taken by Mr. Alfred Sutro, who responded to the toast of "The Drama." Mr. Willard, it may be added, has accepted the invitation of the City of London College to be the Honorary Examiner in Elocution at the annual examination on June 20.

THE sixty-second anniversary dinner in aid of the Royal General Theatrical Fund will take place at the Whitehall Rooms, Hôtel Métropole, on Thursday. The Lord Mayor will preside, and it is hoped that an earnest effort will be made on behalf of so beneficent an institution. The musical entertainment, which will be under the direction of Chevalier Wilhelm Ganz, will be contributed to by Mme. Alice Esty, Miss Florence Monteith, Miss Suzanne Morival, Miss Edith Clegg, Mr. Hamilton Earle, and Mr. Gregory Hast.

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER will revive The Walls of Jericho at the Garrick in the first week in June. Many of the original cast are fortunately available, and the special engagement has been made of Mr. Eric Lewis to play the part of the decadent Marquis of Steventon. Owing to the success achieved by Mr. Alfred Sutro's fine play on tour last year, it will be taken out again this autumn, with Mr. Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh again in the chief rôles. As Mr. Bourchier will be playing more than one week in some of the large towns, he will include in his répertoire Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice, The Duel, The Bishop's Move, and The Arm of the Law, some of which, it is hoped, will be given at the Garrick before the end of the London season.

MR. CYRIL MAUDE, having carried Toddles prosperously along to its 300th night, has chosen a successor in The Earl of Pawtucket, a piece written by Augustus Thomas, which has been a great hit in America. The chief part is that of a certain Lord, who, wishing to conceal his identity, takes the name of his friend, the Earl of Pawtucket. He goes to New York, and falls in love with his friend's divorced wife, and from that situation arises many amusing complications. When the comedy is produced at the Playhouse, in the course of a few weeks, another novelty will be found in a one-act play, entitled The Changeling, adapted from one of Mr. W. W. Jacobs' short stories by the author and Mr. Herbert Sargent.

THE Actors' Church Union is to benefit by an entertainment, to be given in the afternoon of Tuesday, June 4, in the picture gallery of Bridgewater House, by permission of the Earl and Countess of Ellesmere. An extensive programme, in which many popular artists will take part, has been arranged. The hon. sec. is Mrs. Edward Compton, 1, Nevern-square, S.W., from whom all particulars can be had.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY'S four weeks' répertoire season at the Adelphi will begin on June 3 with The Breed of the Treshams, which will on that occasion register its 425th performance. The cast will consist of Mr. Harvey and Miss N. de Silva in their original parts, and of Messrs. Charles J. Cameron, Charles Glenney, Albert E. Raynor, Fred Wright, sen., Philip Hewland, Alfred Mansfield, Denholm Muir, Leonard Craske, Vincent Sternroyd, George Cooke, Leslie Palmer, P. Alexander, H. Graves, and Misses Bessie Elder, Coleridge, Maud Milton, and Maud Rivers.

THE second week of the season will witness the production of Great Possessions, which bids fair to be Mr. Harvey's most ambitious work since he has been in management. The scenery has been painted by Telbin, and the piece will be embellished by novel lighting effects. Miss Suzanne Sheldon has been specially engaged to augment Mr. Harvey's already strong cast for this production. The third week will be devoted to The Corsican Brothers, and for the fourth and last week The Only Way, which will reach its thousandth performance on June 29, will fill the bill.

MR. HARVEY has accepted an invitation to deliver a lecture to the members of the Cork Literary and Scientific Society, entitled "Some Reflections on the Art of Acting," during his forthcoming visit to Cork in the autumn.

MISS EDNA MAY'S wedding is fixed for Tuesday, June 4, before a registrar. In view of the important event, Messrs. H. and M. Rayne, the well-known theatrical and fancy shoemakers of Waterloo and Charing Cross-roads, are busy on Miss May's trousseau boots and shoes, which aggregate about fifty pairs. There are dainty evening shoes in all the popular actress's favourite colours; boots of Parisienne cut and style (but wearable), and all of gossamer weight, just suited for the fairy feet they are made to encase.

MISS JEANNIE BURGOYNE was the victim of a serious trap accident on the 8th inst. She was driving through the picturesque village of Colne Engaine, Essex, when the horse, a very spirited animal, took fright at a traction engine, and, swerving on one side, upset the trap, the occupants of which were thrown out. Miss Burgoyne sustained a fractured wrist and contusion of the ribs; but medical attendance was soon procured, and the injured lady, who bore the intense pain with the utmost fortitude, is now approaching convalescence. Miss Burgoyne was unable to fulfil her engagement to play her old part of Bess in The Lights of London at the Kennington Theatre this week, but we trust her reappearance will not be long deferred.

To the number of interesting weddings recently recorded has to be added that of Miss Nancy Price and Mr. Charles Maude, who tied the silken knot on Friday, last week. The marriage was a very quiet one, only about ten people being present at the ceremony. Mr. Maude is a first cousin of Mr. Cyril Maude, whom he is understudying in Toddles at the Playhouse as well as sustaining the part of the journalist, Freddy Gunner. Miss Price created the charming and resourceful Mrs. Bowler of Toddles, and it was the association of the happy couple in the successful comedy that led to the felicitous result that we record.

THE influence of the feminine pen in the dramatic world is evident in the number of plays which have recently enjoyed, or are still enjoying, popularity in the West-end. The Scarlet Pimpernel, which has served Miss Julia Neilson and Mr. Fred Terry so well, is by Baroness Orczy; Peter's Mother, an equally successful piece, is the work of Mrs. Henry de la Pasture; Mr. Sheridan was written by Miss Gladys Unger; When Knights were Bold, one of the hits of the present season, came from the pen of Miss Harriet Jay; and Votes for Women was supplied by Miss Elizabeth Robins. Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley, who adapted M. Pierre Berton's The Great Conspiracy at the Duke of York's, is well known as a writer of original plays; and the charming little curtain-raiser, The Peacemaker, played before The Stronger Sex, was also the work of a lady—Miss E. M. Bryant.

THE Royalty will be reoccupied by the Follies on Monday, June 3, when the first part of the programme will consist of a new vaudeville entertainment. In the second section will be found the amusing skit, Baffles; a Peter Pantomime, and the excruciatingly funny music-hall travesty, into which several fresh items are to be introduced, will form the third part.

A GENERAL meeting of members of the Actors' Union will be held on June 14 for the purpose of handing over affairs to the new Executive Committee. Meetings are being arranged for next week in Manchester and Liverpool. Miss Daisy Halling is organising the meeting in the former town, and the one in Liverpool is being arranged by Mr. Fredk. Lloyd.

"THE LADY DANDIES" bade farewell to Daly's on Saturday, and the occasion was enlivened by a good deal of additional fun on the part of the principals, upon whom floral offerings were lavished. The Merry Widow, the new musical play from Vienna, may be expected in about a fortnight. Mr. George Edwardes is getting together a superb cast, which will include Messrs. George Graves, Louis Bradfield, W. H. Berry, Fred Kaye, Lennox Pawle, and Joseph Coyne, and Misses Maggie May, Lily Elsie, and Elizabeth Firth.

MR. EDWARD COMPTON concludes to-night at the Theatre Royal, Nottingham, another long and consistently successful tour. All the old plays have been rapturously received, Davy Garrick (which Mr. Compton plays to-night for the 1373rd time) being exceptionally honoured; while the revival of Edmund Kean, Tragedian, has been a marked success. The great triumph of the tour, however, has been Mr. Compton's presentation of his elder son, Mr. Montague Compton's, comedy, The Gentleman in Grey, which has scored heavily in every town. Mr. Compton, who wittily describes himself as "the author of the author," does not intend to open with this play at the St. James's Theatre in August, though it is quite probable that he may present it to Londoners further on. Meantime, the friends of both father and son will be glad to hear that Mr. Montague Compton is now convalescent from his attack of scarlet fever, and is already busy over his next play for his father.

THE annual meeting of the Green Room Lodge of Freemasons, held at the Imperial Restaurant, was well attended. Mr. Akerman May was installed Master of the Lodge, the ceremony being undertaken by Mr. Harry Nicholls, P.G. Standard-Bearer, first Master of the lodge, Mr. Herbert Leonard, the Master of the past year, being prevented by professional duties from attending. Mr. H. Nye Chart and Mr. E. H. Bull were placed in the minor chairs; Mr. W. S. Penley, P.G. Treasurer, was invested as Treasurer, and Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, P.A.G., Director of Ceremonies, as Secretary. Other offices were conferred upon Messrs. Charles Macdona, Hubert Willis, J. H. Ryley, J. W. Mathews, P.M., Stanley Pringle, Blake Adams, E. Vivian Reynolds, Frank Vernon, and C. Patrick (Tyler).

THE Incorporated Stage Society's next productions will be those of David Ballard, a play, in three acts, by Charles McEvoy, and a translation of Wedekinds Der Kammersanger, which will both be given at the Imperial on June 9 and 10.

THE Pavilion Theatre will close after Saturday night until August. Jacob Gordin's drama, Alfonso the Noble, with its real water scenes, was the Whitsuntide attraction at the popular East End house, Mr. and Mme. Charles Natansohn repeating their successful impersonations. As this week the present season of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company terminates, the management have been putting forward some of the principal plays with which the Yiddish tragedian and dramatist, Mr. Sigmund Feinman, is associated, such as Solomon Scharlatan, The Jews in Morocco, Woman Against Woman, and Holy Sabbath. Other pieces presented have been The Oath in the Temple, The Witch, and The Wild Man.

MESSRS. VEDRENNE AND BARKER will revive Man and Superman at the Court Theatre on Monday. In the cast of Mr. Bernard Shaw's play will be Messrs. James Hearn, Lewis Casson, Robert Loraine, Edmund Gwenn, Dennis Eadie, and Edmund Gurney, and Misses Lillah McCarthy, Florence Haydon, Agnes Thomas, Sarah Brooke, and Mary Hamilton. When the Don Juan in Hell scene is produced at the Tuesday and Friday matinées, commencing on Tuesday, June 4, the revival of Man and Superman in the evening will give playgoers an opportunity of seeing the complete work.

"THE SPORTING KING," a new drama by Charles Whitlock, will be produced for the first time at the Metropole Theatre, Gateshead-on-Tyne, on Monday, by Messrs. Whitlock and Rutter. The cast will include the North Country heavy-weight, Tom Lancaster, who has met and defeated some of England's best pugilists.

MR. CHARLES GOOLD, we regret to learn, is lying ill with heart trouble at his residence, 64, Harpenden-road, Manor Park, E., and his medical attendant says he must not work for six months. Mr. Goold would be pleased to see or hear from old friends.

THE cast of A Knight of the Road, the four-act romantic play by Ina Leon Cassilis, which will be produced at Kingston by Gordon Bailey on Monday, June 3, is completed, and will include Gordon Bailey, Arthur Goodsall, Frederick Morland, Tom Shelford, Reginald Rivington, Edward Landor, Robert Bottomley, Miss Violet Cecil, Miss Lola Duncan, and Miss Lucy Wilson.

MR. GEORGE DICKINSON, the general-manager of the Grand Theatre, Rawtenstall, took his benefit on Saturday, when a crowded house gave him a hearty reception on his appearance to return thanks for the patronage accorded him. Mr. Dickinson, who has made himself very popular in Rawtenstall, is now, we understand, leaving for the close season.

A FUND is being organised for the purpose of perpetuating the memory of the late Mrs. Craigie ("John Oliver Hobbes"), and among the sums already received are £15 from Miss Ellen Terry, and £10 from Mr. George Alexander. Sir Squire Bancroft is also included in an imposing subscription list. It is proposed to erect a memorial plaque in University College, London, with a replica in the United States, and to institute scholarships for the study of modern English literature, to be given annually in Great Britain and America.

MR. ROBERT CROSSMAN has entered into an agreement with Mr. H. Cecil Beryl to arrange and conduct his tours, two of which, The Lady Slavey and Sergeant Brue, will start this autumn. Many old favourites will be included in the casts of both plays.

IN the absence of Mr. Arthur Bourchier, who was lecturing at the Royal Institution on "The Drama," the part of Father Daniel in The Duel, at the Garrick Theatre, was taken at Saturday's matinée by Mr. C. B. France. This was the first occasion on which Mr. France had appeared for Mr. Bourchier in this character, but he gave a finished study of the rôle, and was enthusiastically brought before the curtain at the end of the second act.

THE Lyceum pantomime is to be Robinson Crusoe, with Miss Dorothy Craske as principal boy. Meanwhile, the autumn season is to begin with a revival in August of Mr. Hall Caine's The Christian, to be followed by Mispah, a lyric-drama founded on the book of Esther, by Ella Wheeler Wilcox and Luscombe Searelle, which has already enjoyed great popularity in America.

MR. WILLIAM HAVILAND, despite his popularity on the stage, has evidently found the diggings quite as profitable as the drama. Interviewed at Cape Town recently Mr. Haviland related that at the end of his season in Johannesburg he was presented with some shares in a diamond company, and he and his wife, requiring a change, resolved to work the claims. They lived in tents at the diggings, which were 22 miles from Kimberley, from January to April, and found their new life both profitable and enjoyable. Mr. Haviland showed a packet of diamonds worth £125, which represented a fortnight's work.

MR. LEWIS WALLER as Coriolanus and Miss Genevieve Ward as Volumnia will head the cast of a dramatic reading of Coriolanus, to be given under the auspices of the British Empire Shakespeare Society at the Lyric Theatre in the afternoon of Tuesday, June 11. Half prices will be charged for the occasion.

MR. WILLIAM LOCKHART is evidently a firm believer in the strenuous life. After playing a special week in Llandudno with Sunday, he is devoting the next three weeks to Jim the Penman in Manchester, Bradford, and Sheffield. After a week's rest in town Mr. Lockhart tours in The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, prior to commencing rehearsals for the autumn tour of When Knights Were Bold.

MISS MARIE STUDHOLME, who recently played to an enormous week's business at the Cork Opera House, wrote a most complimentary letter to Mr. John Horgan, the courteous manager, expressing her satisfaction with all the arrangements, and saying that she would be only too pleased to pay a return visit. Miss Studholme, by the way, has ordered an Irish jaunting car from a Cork firm, and is having it painted green in commemoration of her visit to the city by the Lee.

MR. T. EDWARD WARD'S preliminary spring tour from Easter to Whitsun of Walter Howard's latest play, Second to None, has surpassed the highest hopes entertained for its success, proving itself to be a big artistic triumph and a strong financial draw. A gratifying feature of the tour is the fact that return dates have been offered all along the route without one exception.

MISS LUCY SIBLEY returns to town on Monday, having concluded six weeks' special engagement with Mr. H. V. Neilson, with whom she has been playing Lady Marchant in A Bunch of Violets, Hon. Susan Lesson in The Perfect Lover, and Mrs. Stockmann in The Enemy of the People. On her return Miss Sibley will resume her duties as Hon. Secretary of the Social Committee of the Actors' Association.

MR. SEYMOUR HICKS' production My Darling will be at the Kennington Theatre next week, with Miss Marie Studholme in the title-rôle of Joy Blossom. Included in the cast are Messrs. J. F. McArdle, Henry A. Lytton, Armand Kalisz, Tom Graves, and Will Bishop, and Misses Barbara Deane, Helen Kinnaird, Alice Barth, Marguerite Leslie, and Alice Hollander. The entire production is being transferred from the Hicks Theatre, and should prove a powerful attraction.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM MACLAREN finish to-night at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, a most successful tour of thirty-six weeks with the late Wilson Barrett's Claudian. After a three months' rest they start out again with the same play, the bookings running far into next year.

MISS DORIS GILHAM, who concludes to-night at the Opera House, Middlesbrough, her second tour as Astrea in The Trumpet Call, has been engaged by Mr. John Darlison for the stock season at Leith, commencing on June 3.

MISS LULU EVANS, who is appearing in the principal parts of the D'Oyly Carte Opera Company on tour, met with a painful accident during the performance of Iolanthe, at the Theatre Royal, Manchester, on Tuesday night. Miss Evans in the title-rôle makes her first appearance through a trap-door in the stage, and was just visible above the stage, when one of the pulley ropes carrying the door gave way. Fortunately the stage hands prevented Miss Evans sustaining a serious fall, but, though she struggled through the first act bravely, a substitute had to take the rôle during the second.

MR. CHARLES FRY will start his thirteenth Shakespearean season at the Great Queen-street Theatre on Saturday afternoon with Troilus and Cressida. The play will be given, as usual, in costume on a draped stage. During the following week A Comedy of Errors, Winter's Tale, As You Like It, The Merchant of Venice, Much Ado About Nothing, and King Henry VIII. will be given respectively on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings and Wednesday and Saturday matinées.

MR. PERCY PERCIVAL, who has for the last six years been manager of the Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton, concluded his engagement there last week, and was the recipient of many tokens of goodwill. Before the performance on the Saturday Mr. Percival was presented with an 18ct. gold watch, bearing a monogram inscription, subscribed for by thirty-four ladies of Wolverhampton, and at the conclusion of the business of the night the members of the orchestra and the employees in front of the house and on the stage gave the retiring manager, as a mark of their regard, a handsome smokers' cabinet, bearing a silver plate suitably inscribed and the recipient's initials. The day previous Mr. Percival was the object of another testimony to his popularity from the members of the Wolverhampton police force, who presented him with a silver cigarette-case as "a token of esteem." Mr. Percival now enters upon a fresh sphere of activities, and has taken up the position of manager at the Hackney Empire.

TWO new one-act pieces will be in the programme of a matinée to be given at the Royalty on Monday, June 10, in aid of the funds of the Ladies' Work Association. One is The Extra Shilling, a comedy by J. Francis Toye, and the other The Daughter of Herodias, a dance drama, words by Brinsley Treham and music by Granville Bantock. François Coppée's Le Passant, played by Miss Rita Jolivet and Miss Aimée Lowther, will constitute the third item of the entertainment.

MR. J. BANNISTER HOWARD'S second spring season at the Crystal Palace terminating to-night, the theatre will remain closed until the beginning of September. A very strong list of attractions have been arranged for the autumn. Mr. Howard commences his second Café Chantant season at the Crystal Palace on Monday, and performances will be given every afternoon and evening right through the season. The café chantant will be held in the North Tower Gardens as soon as the weather permits, but meantime the performances will be given in the concert hall at the Crystal Palace.

MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN will shortly commence his season of pastorals, in the course of which he will produce two new plays. Several important engagements have been made for the series.

MR. AND MRS. FORBES ROBERTSON, with their company, including Mr. Ian Robertson, arrived at Liverpool on Wednesday on the Majestic. By the same liner Mr. James Blakeley and Miss Carlotta Neilson also returned.

DISTINGUISHED American visitors will bid London good-bye within the next fortnight. Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe close their season at the Waldorf Theatre on the last day of the month with a farewell performance of Twelfth Night, and the following day the entire company sail for New York to fill their farewell Shakespearean engagement together at the Academy of Music. Strongheart will terminate at the Aldwych on June 7, Mr. Robert Edeson having to return to America to appear in a new play at the Hudson Theatre.

MEMBERS of the Savage Club will combine in the composition of a new revue which will form an important feature of a matinée organised by members of the Club in aid of the Lord Mayor's Cripples' Fund, which will take place at His Majesty's Theatre on June 4. The revue, which is called Hands Up, is written by Messrs. Fred Bowyer, Mostyn T. Pigott, and Adrian Ross, the music being by Messrs. A. H. Behrend, Seymour Dicker, Albert Fox, Walter Hedgcock, John W. Ivimey, and Leslie Stuart. The programme will also include Mr. Steinmann's Corner, by Alfred Sutro; The Marchioness—an episode founded on Dickens's "Old Curiosity Shop"—by B. W. Findon; and Mr. Robert Ganthony's Dessins Humoresques. Many well-known actors, actresses, and singers will take part in the matinée, which is under Royal patronage.

MR. CHARLES FROHMAN has made an offer to purchase the Joan of Arc house at Orleans, which is about to be pulled down. If his offer is accepted, Mr. Frohman will give the building to London in the name of Miss Pauline Chase, and erect it, if he is allowed to do so, at his own expense in Kensington Gardens. "I take a sentimental interest in the gardens," says Mr. Frohman, "because Mr. J. M. Barrie tells us that Peter Pan lived there. Well, I take an interest in Joan of Arc also, and I would like, if I can, to have her house there."

MESSRS. FELIX PITT AND FREDERICK SANDY bring to a conclusion to-night a most successful five weeks' stock season at the Princess's Theatre, Glasgow. Mr. Pitt returns to Mr. Andrew Melville for the autumn.

A PLEASING little ceremony took place on Monday evening at Mr. Robert Arthur's theatre in Dundee, when the pretty and talented actress, Miss Lydia Donovan, who is this week visiting Her Majesty's Theatre with her company, was, at the fall of the curtain, presented with a magnificent bouquet of flowers by the officers, non-commissioned officers, and men of the Edinburgh University Volunteer Artillery Corps, who filled the boxes and stalls. In a neat little speech Mr. Spence, who was specially chosen as being the youngest recruit, asked Miss Donovan to accept the bouquet as "a small token of our affection."

MR. WILLIAM J. MILLER has just concluded his first tour of seventy-six weeks with The Throne of Terror. Mr. Miller will now play "lead" for the summer stock season at Her Majesty's, Carlisle, resuming his tour in the autumn.

A NEW domestic drama, entitled Love Rules the World, by Sydney Rennef, will be produced at the Star Theatre, Liverpool, on July 1.

MR. KENNETH BLACK, who is engaged by Mr. Martin Harvey for his new play at the Adelphi, will be well remembered as a member of Sir Henry Irving's company for some years at the Lyceum. He has previously appeared, under Mr. Harvey's management, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre as Don Diego Tenorio in Don Juan's Last Wager, and as Dr. Manette in the last revival of The Only Way at that theatre.

MR. CHARLES CAREY will shortly produce the musical comedy, The Girl Next Door, the mounting of which will be on a lavish scale. Mr. Carey is also sending out a répertoire company, which will play two musical comedies, two farcical comedies, and two more serious plays. The Pick of the Bunch, which terminates a successful spring tour to-night, reopens on Monday under the sole control of Mr. Harold Wantage, with Mr. Wilfred Chilton as his manager.

BARON HARRISS'S Prince of Pilsen company's cricket team, of which Miss Sophie Harriss is patroness, has been giving an excellent account of itself since the start of the season. Last week the secretary, Mr. Frank Crimp, in a contest with a local team, was top scorer with 35, whilst the previous week Mr. Albert Vernon, musical-director of the company, who is captain, made 46. Miss Harriss was the donor of a magnificent cup at the opening match.

MR. CECIL KLEIN concludes to-night, at Bristol, his second tour of Hearts Adrift, playing Bob Barney, the juvenile lead, a part which he created two years ago at the Grand, Birmingham. This makes Mr. Klein's fourth engagement under Mr. Frank Bertram's management, two tours being with The Breed of the Treshams, in which he played the part of Tresham no fewer than 447 times.

"A ROYAL FAMILY" will give place, at the Duke of York's, to a new version of Sardou's comedy, Divorçons, which will be produced on June 10. The company playing the piece will be that of Miss Grace George, and will include Mr. Frank Worthing and Mr. Richard Bennett, now appearing in Strongheart. A Royal Family will be played up to June 7.

THE National Theatre Society of the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, are again coming to London, and will give a week of performances at the Great Queen-street Theatre, commencing on June 10. The works to be performed are J. M. Synge's The Playboy of the Western World and Riders to the Sea, Mr. W. B. Yeats' The Shadowy Waters, On Baile's Strand, and Kathleen ni Houlihan, Lady Gregory's Spreading the News, The Jackdaw, Hyacinth Halvey, and The Rising of the Moon, many of which have already been seen in London.

AN orchestral concert is to be given in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union, at the Queen's Hall, on Sunday evening, when 200 instrumentalists will give their services, in order that the fee which the National Sunday League, under whose auspices the entertainment is to be given, are paying for the orchestra may be devoted to the Fund. Among the conductors on this occasion will be Mr. Hamilton Harty, Mr. J. M. Glover, Mr. J. Skuse (leader of the Royal Opera Orchestra), Mr. H. Godfrey, Mr. L. Chalk, and Mr. Arthur Wood.

THE results of the elections of the Executive Committee of the Actors' Union are now made known. There were thirty-six candidates, and a selection of twenty-four had to be made. We give the names of the gentlemen elected, along with the number of votes given to them, as follows:—Arthur Bawtree, 160; Robson Paige, 158; Hamilton Deane, 156; Oswald Marshall, 155; Rawson Buckley, 153; W. Ruddle Brown, 150; Harry Paulton, jun., 148; Wm. Farren, jun., 146; Harry Paulton, sen., 143; W. Tripp Edgar, 142; E. Howard Templeton, 140; E. Y. Rae, 128; Edward Petley, 126; J. C. Taylor, 122; Francis Chamier, 121; Chas. Allan, 105; J. L. Shine, 100; Fred Bentley, 98; Frank Lacy, 91; Cecil Calvert, 90; Campbell Goldsmid, 87; Wm. Clayton, 84; Edward Chester, 75; and Bruce Lindley, 68. The honorary scrutineers were Mr. Fred Jacques and Fred Prior.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Short Speeches.

"I AM strongly of opinion," says Mr. Tree to a Daily News interviewer, "that A Woman of No Importance shows its age less than any play of which I know. It seems to me to have been written before its time. I consider it more modern, more in touch with the actual spirit of the age, than it was when I first produced it in 1893. Why, even the suffrage question is touched on." Miss Marion Terry, however, said: "I think it will appear a little old-fashioned. The speeches are longer than an audience to-day is accustomed to. I don't think they will bore one for a single moment; the only thing is that the present-day dramatist has trained his audience to short speeches." Miss Terry believes the present-day audiences are intellectually an improvement on those who flocked to see A Woman of No Importance in the early nineties.

A Standard Oil Drama.

"MY hero," writes Mr. C. M. S. McLellan, of his new play, Judith Zaraine, "may be said to typify the Standard Oil Company in his capacity of financial wizard magnified to superhuman dimensions. On the other hand, my military monster, a character tremendously important in the piece, is more European than American. The purely personal part of my drama lies in the fact that Judith, believing that the military monster is her enemy and the persecutor of her beloved people, gradually discovers that he is only a figure-head of infamy. This is the personal and theatrical part of the play, and does not seem to me so interesting or important as the spiritual idea that something so fiendishly unromantic as the Standard Oil Company may be prompted to self-renunciation by religious suggestion."

Too Æsthetic for Hamlet.

"IT is utterly untrue," writes Mr. G. K. Chesterton, in the Daily News, "that the people do not like Shakespeare. That part of the people that does not like Shakespeare is simply that part of the people that is depopularised. If a certain crowd of cockneys is bored with Hamlet, the cockneys are not bored because they are too simple or stupid for Hamlet. The cockneys are bored because they are too complex and ingenious for Hamlet. They feel that the excitement of the saloon bar, of the betting ring, of the halfpenny paper, is more complex and ingenious than Hamlet; and so it is. In the absolutely strict sense of the word, the cockneys are too æsthetic to enjoy Hamlet. They have goaded and jaded their artistic feelings too much to enjoy anything simply beautiful. They are æsthetes; and the definition of an æsthete is a man who is experienced enough to admire a good picture, but not inexperienced enough to see it. But if you really took simple people, honourable peasants, kind old servants, dreamy tramps, genial thieves, and brigands to see Hamlet, they would simply be sorry for Hamlet. That is to say, they would simply appreciate the fact that it was a great tragedy."

Free Rides to Theatres.

Dr. E. Distin-Maddick writes:—"May I trespass upon your space with a small contribution to the very interesting question of free rides to theatres? If they are to come at all, I would suggest that they should be called 'co-operative' rides. But really does not a free ride look very much like a present given away with half a pound of tea? The principle of making visits to theatres cheaper is one which I have for a long time been strongly in favour of; in fact, I have already put it into force at the Scala, only in a different way—viz., by reducing the ten-and-sixpenny stalls to seven shillings and the other seats in proportion. The difference enables our patrons to hire their own conveyances, which, in my opinion, is much more dignified both to the profession and to the public. Mr. Beerbohm Tree has already pronounced himself in favour of reduction, and I am delighted to see no less a theatrical authority than Mr. Frohman himself admitting the necessity of reducing the expense of visits to the theatre."

Oscar and the Aspirants.

MR. OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN, says the Tribune, has had a busy time on his visit to London, seeing—and hearing—aspirants. "I have been here three days, and of would-be operatic stars," he says, "I must say their name is legion. I have had little peace since I came to London. I have had to say 'No' to hundreds since I arrived in England. It may seem humorous, but really it is pathetic to see young ladies who have learned to sing with a piano, who have been applauded by their teachers and probably at home by their aunts, inspired by the thought that they have qualified for grand opera."

The Shakespeare-Rutland Theory.

HERR CARL BLEIBTREU is still of opinion that Rutland wrote Shakespeare's plays. "In 1564," he says, "the year when Shakespeare was born, a Gyldenstjerne went to England as Ambassador of Erich XIV., King of Sweden (not Denmark), to propose a matrimonial union with Elizabeth Tudor. And this Gyldenstjerne studied notoriously at Wittenberg, quite an unusual occurrence, because all the other 'Rosenkranzs and Guildensternes' studied at Padua, where Rutland also studied. But we come even nearer to the mark when we find that a Holger Rosenkrands, born 1586—quite a young man, like the courtier in the play—went to England as ambassador of Denmark at the coronation of James I. This nobleman was married to Lena Gyldenstjerne, born 1588. The poet's idea, to combine 'Rosencranz and Guildenstern,' was evidently suggested by his knowledge of the above-mentioned facts.

"The poet must have been a man of the highest circles, unusually versed in all matters of Court life and politics. The Stratfordian being out of the question, there is not the slightest evidence of any connection Bacon might have had with Scandinavian nobility and political life. It is only concerning Rutland that we have such evidence. Since he was chosen ambassador to Helsingör (Elsinore), this task was evidently given to him because he had personal connections with the Danish nobility, most probably becoming acquainted at Padua with his fellow students Rosencranz and Gyldensterne. Why did the poet choose the uncommon name Polonius? A statesman named Plönnies lived at the time of Gustav Wasa, and Polonius is purely the Latinised version of this name. We may ask again how a simple actor could have got such a knowledge of Scandinavian history?"

Patti not Fatty.

MADAME PATTI has been telling the Echo de Paris how she manages to keep from corpulency. "Up to forty," she says, "I stinted myself in nothing, and ate and lived as I chose. After forty, however, I took to a comparatively strict way of living. Since then I have eaten no red meat, and have drunk only white wine and soda. When I feel weak a glass of champagne picks me up. I never touch spirits or liqueurs. My diet consists of light food and white meat, chiefly sweetbreads, sheeps' brains, fowl, and vegetables. I always sleep with the window wide open in summer, and partly open in winter, so as not to get the cold air straight on my face. I never get to bed early, hardly ever before half-past twelve or one. A severe hygiene and an elaborate toilet before bed are absolutely necessary to any woman who does not want to get fat."

Revivals are always interesting. Every theatrical entertainment more or less "dates"; and it is curious to note how Time tries dramatic work, as it tries all art products. The fourteen years or so which have elapsed since A Woman of No Importance was produced at the Haymarket Theatre have put the author's talent through a sieve, and separated the wheat from the chaff. The really brilliant wit, the happy and genuine humour of the play are as effective as ever; the parts of it which were merely transient affectations—the mechanical paradoxes, the assumption of superior wickedness, and the audacious sillinesses, are instinctively rejected by audiences who are not influenced by a vanished "vogue." It says a great deal for the real merits of the piece that, now that the fashion of which it was an example has passed away, it stands so well the test of reproduction.

The illegitimate son, his position, rights, and duties, constitute the theme of the piece. Lord Illingworth, a blasé roué with a fine flow of epigram, has seduced, in time past, a certain Mrs. Arbuthnot, and Gerald Arbuthnot is the result of the liaison. Gerald, who has a place in a bank, is staying with his mother at Hunstanton Chase, the country seat of Lady Hunstanton, an amiable Dowager. Mrs. Arbuthnot is opposed to any friendship between her son and Illington; but the latter has taken a fancy to the young man, and attempts to "form" him on his—Illingworth's—own model. A lively married woman, Mrs Allonby, has "dared" Illingworth to kiss Miss Hester Worsley, a young American girl of pure instincts, with whom Gerald is in love. When Illingworth, in defiance of Mrs. Allonby's opinion, embraces the young lady against her will, she screams out. Gerald comes to her assistance, and is about to attack Illingworth when Mrs. Arbuthnot interposes with the cry, "He is your father!"

The question is discussed in the last act, "Ought a seduced woman, years after her fall, to obtain or accept an offer of marriage from her betrayer?" Gerald is of opinion that his father should be forced to marry his mother; but Mrs. Arbuthnot takes a less conventional and more elevated view of the matter, and refuses to become the wife of the man she now utterly detests and despises. Having convinced her son by her arguments, she dismisses him to pursue his love-making with Miss Worsley, and joins issue, alone, with the dissolute peer, who is now anxious that Gerald shall become his private secretary. Mrs. Arbuthnot so enrages Illingworth by her opposition to this project, and by her scornful refusal of his offer of marriage, that he alludes to her as "his cast-off mistress." Mrs. Arbuthnot strikes him across the mouth, and he goes out, abashed, if not ashamed. The epigrams with which the piece is garnished became so famous at the time of its production that some of them—notably the definition of a fox hunt as the "unspeakable riding after the uneatable"—are still remembered; and the pleasant characteristics of the personages—Lady Hunstanton, with her habitual vagueness of reminiscence, Lady Caroline, with her stern, old-fashioned, reprobatory spirit, and her loving tyranny over her meek husband, Hester Worsley with her generous enthusiasm and Quixotic attempts to reform English society, Mr. Kelvil, the self-important M.P., and the Venerable James Daubeny, unctuous, mild, and always amenable, make A Woman of No Importance a most agreeable entertainment, apart from its dramatic and ethical interest. The piece, in its fine comedy and knowledge of the society depicted, is superior to anything of its kind which has been produced in London for years past.

Most interesting memories of the acting in the original performance were evoked by the revival. Only two members of the Haymarket cast were available, Mr. Tree and Mr. Charles Allan. At the Haymarket in 1893 Mr. Fred Terry was the Gerald Arbuthnot, Mrs. Bernard Beere the Mrs. Arbuthnot, Miss Rose Leclerq the Lady Hunstanton, Miss Le Thiere the Lady Caroline Pontefract, and Miss Julia Neilson the Hester Worsley. Mr. Tree's style has ripened and matured since A Woman of No Importance was produced, and the air of leisured ease and cynical calmness with which he played Lord Illingworth in 1893 is even more perfectly polished and perfected. From first to last, he presents a finished picture of the luxurious libertine, the easy, indifferent observer, the ready wit, and the imperturbable man of the world. It is hardly necessary to say that in the stronger passages of the part Mr. Tree is absolutely and entirely convincing and impressive. Miss Marion Terry is not only intensely dramatic and deeply expressive as Mrs. Arbuthnot; her irresistible charm, her bewitching sweetness and delicate sincerity, win warm sympathy for the unfortunate woman, the pathos of whose position Miss Terry fully emphasises. Miss Viola Tree is a delightful representative of Hester Worsley as far as appearance and personal gifts go, and does full justice to the young American's spirited attacks on English immorality. Mrs. Charles Calvert gives quite an original reading of the rôle of Lady Hunstanton, endowing the character with a flavour of quaint individuality and making all the points of the part with accomplished skill. Miss Ellis Jeffreys is the acme of attractiveness as Mrs. Allonby and gives a performance of the part which is sparkling, vivacious, and archly humorous. That excellent actress, Miss Kate Bishop, is quite at ease in the rôle of the severely sententious Lady Caroline Pontefract, and delivers that lady's authoritative utterances with admirable repose. Mr. J. Fisher White supplies a neat little character-sketch as Sir John Pontefract; Mr. Langhorne Burton displays decided talent in a quietly clever impersonation of Lord Alfred Rufford, and Mr. Charles Allan's Mr. Kelvil is as comical and natural as ever. Mr. Edmund Maurice is unimpeachable in every way as the Ven. James Daubeny, the part originally sustained by Mr. Kemble. Mr. Clive Currie is thoroughly efficient as Farquhar; and Mr. F. Cowley Wright is careful and commendable as Francis. Miss Kate Cutler contributes a deliciously ingenuous performance as the "sweet simpleton," Lady Stutfield, and Miss Hilda Moore does useful work well as the maid Alice. The play is mounted in the splendid style which we always expect at His Majesty's. Mr. Tree, on the original production of the piece, said at the end of the evening, "I am proud of being connected with this work of art." At the close of the revival on Wednesday, being summoned before the curtain, he briefly expressed his gratitude for the favourable reception given to the play.

Mr. Arthur Collins has made quite a new departure at Drury Lane. Instead of the excellent dramas of Mr. Hall Caine, the scenes of which are generally laid in Iceland or the Isle of Man, he now presents to his patrons a play dealing with the life of the Red Indian in the palmy days of his prosperity, before railways and civilisation had driven him into reservations, and made him a degenerate being, dependent upon the "Pale-faces" for supplies of beef and blankets. There is a sombre dignity, a picturesque romance about the piece which Mr. Donald MacLaren has written and Mr. Collins has produced with so much liberality and taste. The Last of His Race, which was first performed at the Theatre Royal, Glasgow, on April 8, is conceived in a purely poetical spirit. From the time when the curtain rises on the tribe of the Ockotchees in council, with their stern and silent chieftain sitting motionless in the firelight, to the last act, which is almost entirely pictorial, we are in an atmosphere of melancholy dignity, earnest passion, and deep, primitive sentiment. Let it be said at once that this "atmosphere" would have been entirely destroyed by any treatment less complete and adequate than that given to the play at Drury Lane on Saturday. The step from the sublime to the ridiculous might easily have been taken but for the intense carefulness and conviction of all concerned, for the exquisitely-beautiful scenery, and for the attention given to every detail of the costumes and "business." As it was, The Last of His Race held the attention of the audience from beginning to end; and the applause which greeted the author at the conclusion was as unmistakably genuine as it was enthusiastic.

Mr. Collins had thoughtfully provided his patrons with a resumé of the play on the programmes, and also with some interesting observations on the piece itself. Lonawonda, great chief of the Ockotchees, feeling blindness coming upon him, decides to abdicate in favour of the warrior whom his fair-skinned daughter, Adulola, shall choose for a husband. After announcing this decision to his council, Lonawonda is taunted by Matawagnon, a crippled warrior, who casts reflections upon the parentage of Adulola on account of her fair complexion. Enraged, the old chief kills his tormentor and hides the body. The warriors appear before Adulola, but she refuses all of them. She loves the son of the murdered Matawagnon, Niatawa, a huntsman. Lashota, the faithless squaw of Sheanagua, chief counsellor, loves Niatawa, who is discovered with her in the Great Cave of Many Spirits. He is about to be burnt at the stake, but Adulola saves his life, and the old chief confesses to the murder of Matawagnon. Sheanagua, infuriated at the disclosures regarding his squaw, insists on taking the place of the chief in the single combat decreed by the laws of the Ockotchees. Niatawa, foreseeing perpetual unrest with the woman he loves, the daughter of his father's murderer, allows himself to be killed, but prevents Adulola from following him by suicide, as the soul of a life self-taken can never reach the Happy Hunting Ground. Then follow three scene-pictures showing the death of Adulola and her meeting with Niatawa. As the Indian maiden dies, a canoe slowly drifts down stream. She stretches out her arms and calls upon her lover, whereupon a mystic light appears in the canoe, beckoning her to the land of the Great Spirit.

The important part of Lonawonda was played by Mr. Reeves-Smith with a stern, emphatic dignity, a sonorous and impressive grandeur, and a nobility of port and presence which were admirably effective. Clad in a most picturesque garb, fringed with fine eagle feathers, Mr. Reeves-Smith's aquiline features and piercing gaze magnetised the audience when he was upon the stage, and gave weight and reality to all the situations in which he was concerned. Mr. Lyn Harding played the stern warrior, Sheanagua, very strongly and steadily, and entirely without exaggeration. The vigour of his share of the knife duel, and the gloomy intensity of his acting throughout, did him very great credit. A better reading of the rôle could not have been desired. Mr. Basil Gill made a manly, interesting, and winning Niatawa, putting an immense amount of earnestness and expression into his delivery of the lines of the part, his conception of which was imaginative, poetic, and full of strenuous energy and artistic freedom. Mr. Austin Melford's Matawagnon was such a fine and forcible bit of character that his early exit from the play was regrettable. Like all that this finely experienced actor does, it was sharp, graphic, and original. Mr. Arthur Poole contributed a quaint embodiment of the conceited Cagawicka; and the other chiefs of the Ockotchees had able and intelligent representatives in Mr. Richard Norton and Mr. L. Ashton-Jarry. Mr. Alec. Davidson was the ideal of solemn mystery as the Medicine Man; Mr. Gregory Clark was good as Toscamela; and Mr. Henry White did careful work as Kolonek. Miss Constance Collier made a beautiful picture in the costume of the Indian maiden, Adulola, and acted with a naturalness, animation, and graceful tenderness, which charmed the audience from the first. Her triumph was completed by the dramatic power which she put into her delivery of the more serious passages of the part. Miss Esmé Beringer gave a bold and spirited performance of the rôle of Lashota, her acting in the cave scene being very vivid and intense. Miss Robertha Erskine made the most of her brief opportunity as the old squaw, Tana-Mongosh; and Miss Winifred Ingham was duly pert and playful as Fawn. The two Indian maidens who bathed in a pool amongst the rushes were archly and amiably embodied by Miss Minnie Terry and Miss Beatrice Hodson. We have already paid tribute to the beauty of the scenery. The second scene of the first act, The Lily Pool of Namabin, was a marvel of picturesqueness; and the last of the "scene-pictures," a forest with moonlit lake in the distance, was lovely in the extreme. Mr. Arthur Farwell's incidental music was delightfully appropriate; and the attentive stage-management of Mr. Ernest d'Auban secured the perfect smoothness of the production.

DEATH OF MR. GEORGE LEITCH.

With regret we record the sudden death of Mr. George Leitch, actor and playwright. He passed away in his sleep in the small hours of Saturday morning last from syncope.

It was in 1868 that Mr. George Leitch, abandoning the profession of civil engineer, adopted the stage, and within a year he occupied the position of prompter and eccentric character-actor at the Theatre Royal, Plymouth, in company with E. D. Beveridge, George Rignold, Edward Terry, Nelly Rollaston, Bessie Foote, Sully Turner, and others. From Plymouth he travelled Devon and Cornwall with Mr. Edward Terry, enduring many vicissitudes. A brief association with Chas. Rice at Oldham was followed by a long engagement with Chas. Calvert at the Prince's, Bristol. After short seasons with Chas. Rice, John Coleman, and H. J. Byron, Mr. Leitch again met Mr. Calvert at the Alexandra, Liverpool, and toured Scotland with him. A season at the new Londesborough Theatre, Scarborough, followed; and then for several seasons Mr. Leitch was at Brighton, playing the principal comedy rôles with most of the eminent actors and actresses of the period. Leaving Brighton, he toured with the Chippendales in leading old comedy characters.

His first appearance on the London stage was at the Standard Theatre as Pierre in The Two Orphans, with William Rignold and the Olympic company. After a series of engagements at the Crystal Palace with Chas. Wyndham the comedian's services were secured by Mr. Chatterton for the Adelphi, where he appeared as Conn the Shaughraun. Next he was seen at the Strand Theatre as the Judge in Trial by Jury, with Lottie Venne, M. Marius, W. S. Penley, Harry Cox, &c. Then in the comic opera The Lancashire Witches, produced at Manchester, he created the part of Hopkins the Witchfinder. Later Mr. Leitch accepted a company at the Cape. The small-pox was raging when the company reached Cape Town, and the management had many difficulties to face. From South Africa Mr. Leitch sailed for Australia, under contract with Messrs. Williamson, Garner, and Musgrove. He made his first colonial managerial venture at Hobart, Tasmania, converting the old theatre into one of the most charming in the colonies, and, in partnership with Jas. M'Mahon, ran a long and brilliant season. The partners next visited New Zealand with The Silver King, The Lights o' London, and The Librarian, a free adaptation of Von Moser's Der Bibliothekar, from which Mr. Hawtrey adapted The Private Secretary. While on tour Mr. Leitch met with a serious accident on the stage through the carelessness of an employee. Against medical advice, and often in great pain, he continued to play in The Harbour Lights and Human Nature, the strain resulting in a necessary operation, which incapacitated him for eighteen months. His next appearance was in the opera of Paul Jones, which ran for many months in Melbourne and Sydney. After fulfilling other successful engagements in Australia, Mr. Leitch returned to England, but played only occasional engagements, chiefly with Mr. Edward Terry, whom he represented in London during the latter's absence on tour. Later, Mr. Leitch's valuable services were secured by Mr. W. S. Penley as his general representative.

As a dramatist Mr. Leitch produced his first play, Coming Home; or, Scithors to Grind, at the Theatre Royal, Edinburgh, Mr. Pinero appearing in one of the principal characters. It was afterwards staged at the Globe Theatre, London, with great success. At the same house he produced Twine the Plaiden, a romantic drama, and in the provinces during a long tour Uncle Zac, The Madman (afterwards called A Touch of the Sun), Money Down, The Coming D—, &c. He was also author of The Pearl Divers, a sensational drama produced at Auckland with most elaborate effects, and several other successful plays.

The interment will take place on Monday. The cortège will start from the Necropolis Station, Westminster Bridge-road, at 11.50 for the "Actors' Acre," at Brookwood.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

Two strikingly handsome dresses are worn by Miss Claudia Lasell, the heroine of Lady Tatters, at the Shaftesbury. The more elaborate gown has a petticoat of rich ivory-white satin, embroidered with a scroll-work of leaves, worked in shades of green, and in a conventional design. The upper part of the skirt, which is draped high on the hips in panier fashion, is of green shot satin with a broad border of green embroidery, while the close-fitting bodice, which comes to a long point in front, is made entirely of lace, and arranged with lace basques, a draped fichu of lisse, and a number of bows of soft satin ribbon. The sleeves are of white lisse, finished with pearl tassels, and in the hair a drapery of green satin is worn, with pearl drops and a little cap of lisse and lace. The other costume is a harmony in white and gold. It is carried out in white soft silk, embroidered with a handsome design in gold tissue, which appears upon the petticoat, as well as upon the fully-draped over-skirt. The upper part of the bodice is prettily filled in with white lisse, while the short sleeves are also of lisse, caught with bands of gold tissue and finished with gold tassels. A quaint little head-dress of white satin embroidered with gold is worn with this gown, finished at the back with a drapery of lisse and lace.

THE King, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught, Princess Victoria Patricia of Connaught, the Duchess of Albany, and Princess of Bentheim Steinfurt were present at the performance of Die Meistersinger at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Wednesday night.

THE Theatre Royal, Hyde, closes this week-end for the summer recess, and will reopen in August.

MR. BOURCHIER ON DRAMATIC ART.

Members of the Royal Institution were interested on Saturday afternoon last in following a lecture by Mr. Arthur Bourchier on the subject of "The Limits of the Dramatic Art." This was the first of a series of two addresses, the second of which is to be delivered this afternoon. Mr. Bourchier began by explaining that by the word "limits" he did not mean limitations, though the latter would prove a very interesting and entertaining subject. But it would take too long to try to determine the limitations of so vast a subject, of so great an art as the drama. It should not be the part of the busy actor to pretend to discourse upon the limitations and shortcomings of the drama, but to try and discuss, however inadequately, that which lay within its scope. What would be the most correct definition of the word drama? Did it need to be defined? It was a waste of time and labour to define a thing that one knew and understood, and without any learned definition they knew what the drama was. It began in prehistoric times, and had its inspiration where every art had its inspiration—in religion. It was probably the first of the arts to be practised. Before his tongue had much speech or his hand much cunning, man wished to give formal expression to the feeling within him that he and the world about him were governed by a Deity, and he found this expression in dance. He no doubt from the very first felt unworthy of his Creator, and wished in his worship to get out of himself. This dancing, which was at once man's first impulse towards worship and his first feeling of the dramatic art, survived in the ritual of the Church and the ballets of the stage. Soon the dancing became pantomimic, he gave a meaning to each of the actions in his dance, expressing by gesture what he could not express by language. Later, words came, and literature was called in to help man raise himself, in worship if not in everyday life, nearer to his Deity. Music came, and songs accompanied the actions of the dancers. The power to carve out of stone representations of ideals followed, and altars and temples were built to the glory of the Deity, and sculpture adorned them. Then, last of all, came painting, and the religious man found the fullest expression of the beauty with which worship inspired him. The history of the drama began with the time of the Greeks, early Greek drama being a dance in honour of one or other of the forms which the Deity took in the Greek mythology. The dancers spoke or sang as they moved, to make the acted story intelligible, and there was to be found the beginning of the chorus. A leader of the chorus was necessary, and later the leader had independent lines to speak. In that way dialogue and character found a place in the drama. Gradually it ceased to be a religious ceremony, but until the Reformation it remained under the patronage of religion. All mediæval drama, one might say, was given to us by the Church, which told its stories and pointed its morals in this way. It spoke much for the simple strength of some of those mediæval plays that they were still able to appeal to playgoers in a time when the most popular form of dramatic art seemed to be the mechanical musical comedy. In England, the divorce of the drama from the Church was almost immediately followed by the period during which the greatest of all dramatists, William Shakespeare, lived and worked, and it seemed as if the drama had gained by its emancipation; but a little later, when religion and the play got at loggerheads, the drama fell on evil days again. Little by little during the eighteenth century Shakespeare came into his own, and gradually the idea grew of once more representing the decent side of life, more or less faithfully, upon the stage. The first plays in England were little more than dramatic touches introduced at such times as Easter or Christmas into the celebration of the Mass. Soon the little plays became so elaborate that they had to be transferred to the churchyard, and, some of the parts being acted by laymen, the spirit of fun was introduced. The churchyard plays developed into pageants, acted in the streets on movable wooden structures, the authors still being the clergy, but the actors were drawn from the various trade guilds. It was in vain that an effort was made to keep out any comic relief, and it was allowed that humorous scenes and characters had their value. The demons, and such persons as Cain's ploughboy, Noah's wife, and the Shepherds, nearly always supplied the comic business. Noah's wife would not see the necessity for the Ark, and, wanting to remain with her friends on land, would not go aboard till her husband and sons carried her away by main force, while the poor old patriarch lamented that the building of the Ark was but a trifle compared with the task of getting her inside. The earliest form of drama with which all were familiar was the old friend, "Punch and Judy." Italy was undoubtedly the land of its birth; but its origin was uncertain, and the earliest notice of its appearance in England occurred in the overseers' books of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields in 1666 and 1667, which contained entries of the receipt of moneys for erecting the booths. Light and ephemeral as a single play might seem, the drama as a whole gave history, for plays reflected the age in which they were written, and from them, perhaps better than from anything else, could be learnt the manners and customs of a period. The play of Henry V. was full of the patriotism that was roused in every English heart at the time of the Armada. Than it there was no finer lesson in patriotism, and Mr. Bourchier wished that it were read and reread in all English schools. In Shakespeare's days one did not have to be anti-English to be respectable; it was still permissible to love one's own country better than other countries, to love one's own race better than other races; and the play throughout boasted of this love. Yet there was not a line in it that need offend a foreigner. It was surely better that a man should write such words as those of John of Gaunt in Richard II.: "This precious stone set in the silver sea," and "This blessed plot, this earth, this realm, this England," than that he should abuse his country as so many writers did to-day. After reading the libels party men now wrote of poor old England it was a relief to turn to Henry V., and in the reading of it learn with what modesty, as well as pride, England bore herself in the hour of a great victory. The Elizabethan dramatists were frankly rivals, and to that rivalry much of the greatness of the Elizabethan drama was due. There was everything to spur on the genius of Shakespeare, and he probably did better work in that time of great men than he would have done in an age of less brilliant writers. One might say that the modern drama was realistic; but by that he did not mean that it was coarse and brutal, for surely life was not so bad that realism on the stage must be offensive. It was sometimes forgotten that realism must have the support of art. Ophelia must be shown as a woman driven mad by grief and not as a village idiot. Realism without taste was almost worse than artificiality, and the man who wished to present real life on the stage should be very careful what subjects he chose. That realism had a bad name was because the realist had an idea that he did best when treating unpleasant subjects. In that he was mistaken. Above all things the realist should remember that it was not the absence of clothes but the presence of innocence that gave its charm to the Garden of Eden. To actors it hardly mattered that the past 300 years had not produced one great play; Shakespeare wrote for all time, and in him was a drama that was inexhaustible.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association took place on Tuesday, when there were present Mr. H. Athol Forde (in the chair), Mesdames Clare Greet, E. Wynne Matthison, and Messrs. Cecil Brooking, C. F. Collings, Fredk. Moriand, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The chairman read a letter from Mr. Henry W. Mote (May 17, 1907), and the secretary was directed to have 100 copies of the special resolutions printed and a short advertisement inserted, as he suggested, in The Era.

A report on the subject of Hon. Medical Officers was given by Mr. Cecil Brooking, and on his proposition, seconded by Mr. C. F. Collings, it was agreed that Dr. H. J. Walker, of The Priory, Springfield-road, Brighton, be elected an Hon. Medical Officer to the Actors' Association.

The secretary reported that Mr. D'Arcy Hamilton, L.A.H., of 239, Fawcett-road, Southsea, applied for appointment as an Hon. Medical Officer to the Actors' Association in succession to Mr. Edwin J. Norris, M.R.C.S., &c., deceased, and was duly elected at the last meeting, and upon the secretary informing him of his appointment he replied that he was much obliged, but had he known or understood the position was so purely an honorary one he would not have made application for it, and he asked that his appointment might be cancelled. It was agreed that the appointment of Dr. D'Arcy Hamilton as an Hon. Medical Officer to the Actors' Association be cancelled.

A member disputed her liability to pay a fee upon her engagement. The secretary was directed to reply to the lady by sending her the agency clerk's report on the case. A letter from the Rev. T. G. Crosse, Vicar of Faversham, was read, in which it appeared that the reverend gentleman had lent £2 to an actor to help him out of the town, and the money had not been repaid. The secretary was directed to reply that the actor in question was not a member of the Association, and that the Council were unable to do anything in the matter.

Questions were raised as to the financial condition of the A.A., and the secretary was asked whether he could furnish particulars. He stated that all moneys received had been paid in and no payments were made except by cheques or under the head of petty cash, and therefore it was easy to furnish particulars. The statement laid by him before the Finance and General Purposes Committee always showed the balance at the bank. There were no liabilities beyond debentures and the running accounts with the printers and stationers, rent, wages, &c. He was asked whether he could estimate the expenses to the end of the year and show the assets and liabilities, and replied that roughly they could be ascertained.

The secretary of the A.A. read the report of the Social Committee, and was requested to ask its secretary for further information.

Mr. Henry Ainley tendered the resignation of his seat on the Council. The resignation was accepted with regret. Miss Hilda Hatton (a manageress) tendered her resignation. The secretary was directed to reply pointing out that the articles regarding managers remain unchanged, and there was no obligation upon her to resign, and asking her to reconsider the matter. Six former members were reinstated.

The Council then proceeded to deal with matters in which the Finance and General Purposes Committee were concerned, inasmuch as there was no likelihood of there being a quorum owing to the recent resignations of members of the Council.

A letter from Miss Rose Mathews to the Finance and General Purposes Committee was read by the Chairman of the Council, and it was agreed that a copy of the letter be sent to the Social Committee.

The matter of repairs was also considered, and it was agreed that the specification made out by Messrs. Drinkwater and Casson, together with three estimates obtained thereon, should be sent to the Hon. Consulting Architect, asking him to prepare a specification of the work which he deemed absolutely necessary to be done, at the same time pointing out to him the fact that the Association were desirous of incurring as little expense as possible.

"THE MISER'S LEGACY."

Play, in four acts, by H. F. Maltby, produced for the first time at the Royalty Theatre, Llanelly, on Monday, May 20.

Maud Forrest .....MISS JANET HODGSON
Amy Forrest .....MISS MARA MALTBY
Sarah .....MISS DOROTHY COUSIN
Scraggy .....MISS GRACE RICHARDSON
Henry Forrest .....MR. F. STUART WILLSON
Andrew Wimpole, M.D. MR. W. REGINALD FAVELL
William Hoskyn .....MR. WYN WEAVER
Yarrow .....MR. HUGH LESLIE DOBREE
Stingy Simon .....MR. R. SCATH INNES
Alfred Kendal .....MR. CHARLES HOYLAND
Toby Parker .....MR. H. F. MALTBY

Mr. Maltby's new drama, which was well received on its production at Llanelly on Monday last, is well written, and abundantly provided with exciting incidents, and it possesses besides a vein of broad humour. Having discovered the hiding-place of a miser's gold, two coiners enter the hut, gag the occupant, and substitute their counterfeit gold for his hoard. Six years after an inventor, whose family, owing to the failure of his inventions, are starving, goes to the miser's hut to make an end of his troubles by committing suicide; but, overcome by mental anguish, falls against the wall, and thus discovers the counterfeit money. Thinking the money is good he uses it to relieve his own necessities, and is subsequently arrested and imprisoned for passing bad money. The coiners by this time have become prosperous, one buying up a quantity of houses, and the other acting as his rent collector. Amongst the property owned by the precious pair is a slum called Plantagenet-street, where the inventor's wife and family now reside. Turned out of there, the family seek shelter in the old miser's hut. To this wretched abode the two coiners repair to get back the metal they had deposited there, and are startled by the ghost of the miser, which so terrifies one of them that he confesses his guilt. The confession is heard by the inventor's family and a Dr. Wimpole, with the result that the coiners are arrested, and the inventor released to perfect his inventions and to enjoy his just reward.

In Toby Parker, the counterfeiter, Mr. Maltby supplies a really original character, to which he did full justice. An equally good impersonation is that of William Hoskyn (Parker's pal), which was played with much cleverness by Mr. Wyn Weaver. Andrew Wimpole, M.D., the brusque, kind-hearted doctor, was well impersonated by Mr. W. Reginald Favell. Mr. F. Stuart Willson has a good conception of the part of Henry Forrest, the inventor, which he played with distinction. Much amusement was caused by Mr. Hugh Leslie Dobree as Yarrow, Parker's butler. Stingy Simon (the miser) and Alfred Kendal (of Scotland Yard) lost nothing in the hands of Messrs. R. Scath Innes and Charles Hoyland; whilst the way in which the onerous duties of policemen were carried out by Messrs. Tod Mawden, C. Onsett, S. Pennymoor, and C. Radley Heath was lifelike. Miss Mara Maltby as Amy Forrest, the inventor's daughter, has a part admirably suited to her, which she played with her accustomed grace, and was one of the greatest successes of the play. As Maud Forrest (Henry Forrest's wife) Miss Janet Hodgson acted in finished style; Sarah (Forrest's servant) and Scraggy ("a child of the slums") received careful treatment at the hands of Miss Dorothy Cousin and Miss Grace Richardson.

STAFFORD.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—For Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of last week this theatre was occupied by Mr. Julian Graham's company, in the musical play, Juno. Mr. Harry Walsh was a versatile and mirth-provoking Timothy; Miss Florence Wood an effective and dainty Priscilla; a good study was submitted by Mr. F. Carrington as Samuel Strong; and as Juno, the acting and singing of Miss K. Graham Beck was in every way a success. This week the attraction is The Sorrows of Satan. As Prince Lucio, Mr. Francis Everard portrays the part in his usual capable and impressive manner; the rôle of Geoffrey Tempest is well sustained by Mr. Cecil Grey; Mr. Edwin Turner makes the most of the part of Amiel; excellent comedy is supplied by Mr. Arthur Ferris as Morris; Miss Edith Leslie makes a vivacious Diana Chesney; and a charming Mavis Clare is found in Miss Isabel Marte. Miss Ethel May is well cast as Susan; Miss Vera Fordyce gives a telling impersonation of Lady Sybil; and Mr. Morley Canal as Lord Linton and Mr. Tom Handley as Lord Elton provide good studies.

STALYBRIDGE.—Grand Theatre and Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Fiori; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson. — Maggie Walsh, the original singing mill girl, tops the bill this week, and is well received; the Sisters Poole are very clever duettists and dancers; the Hartley Wonders, barrel jumpers, are loudly applauded; Lord, Murray, and Lord, in a comedy gymnastic mélange; Barney Vox, the Irish ventriloquist; Hughes and May, speciality artists; Lilian Victoria, male impersonator; the Edlins, in a comedy duologue; and the Bioscope, complete a very effective programme.

ST. ANNE'S-ON-SEA.—Pier Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Leslie.—The season proper was started at St. Anne's with the appearance of Mr. Lawrence Brough and company, in The Saucy Sally and The Lady of Ostend. The company was a good all-round one, and highly pleased good audiences. For this week Mr. Leslie has the Comedy Cadets, a troupe of talented artists, consisting of Jack Lennel, Dick Tubb, Jim Pullin, J. V. Noble, Miss Ethelle Shapley, Fred Shepherd, Miss Jessie Buckle, George Curzon, and Master Joe Smith.

ST. HELENS.—Theatre and Opera House.—General-Manager, Mr. A. McLeod Loader.—For the Whitsuntide attraction at the theatre we have Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company in East Lynne. Miss Julie Kennard, who plays the rôle of Lady Isabel, gives one of the most effective representations ever submitted to local audiences; Mr. Frederick Harker submits a polished study of Captain Levison; Archibald Carlyle is in the safe hands of Mr. Alfred Beaumont; Lord and Lady Mountsevern are well represented by Mr. S. Goodwin and Miss H. Lowther; Mr. Alfred Tate as P.C. Bullock brings out all the humorous points with telling effect; and Miss Jessie Bayes makes a pathetic picture as Little Willie.

Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic Carnell.—Large audiences are assembling at the Hippodrome, where a programme of all-round excellence is submitted. The chief attraction is Mr. Frank Lister, in a new American episode, entitled No. 99; this stirring sketch is greatly appreciated. An original and clever act is that of the Four Kurios; the Kimberley Boys prove a great attraction with their eccentricities; Smith and Johnson, the coloured duo, are exceedingly popular. Other enjoyable items are submitted with success by Arthur Slater, Queenie May, and Ethel Dove.

STOCKPORT.—Theatre Royal and Opera House.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—The Whitsuntide attraction here is the Frank Bateman's company, under the direction of Mr. Stuart Lomath, appearing in No Wedding Bells for Her. Mr. Stuart Lomath capably impersonates the character of Frank Hatherleigh; Mr. Percy Shaw displays his versatility as Dick Delver, a detective; Abney Stone is effectively portrayed by Mr. Charles Liddon; Mr. P. Beresford is admirable as Harold Trevelyn; and Mr. Frederick Garton satisfactorily fills the part of Montague Blair. A comedian of undoubted talent is Mr. Barry Lupino, who, as Simkins, causes genuine and hearty laughter; Miss Lizzie Montague as Lola Delaspierre acts with much feeling and power; and Marie Flail is excellently presented by Miss Ellen Owen.

Empire, Ltd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Black.—A capital holiday programme is provided here for the entertainment of the numerous patrons of this establishment, a pleasing spectacle in Maurin's marvellous fountains being the chief attraction. Others engaged include the Norman and Leonard Trio, who are accomplished musicians; E. R. Daincz's admirably trained animals give a clever performance; Pete and Minnie Lee, in a sketch, The Scotchman's Visit to London, provoke plenty of laughter; Ada Parker sings and dances in able style; Nash and Noel are amusing patterers; George Prince is a comical comedian; and A. E. Clifford is a successful vocalist.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—Hippodrome Theatre.—General-Manager, Mr. Robt. A. Nicholson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. G. Stainton.—Fred Storey and company, in Rip Van Winkle, head the bill this week, and give an effective display of dramatic skill; Janet Hall, female baritone vocalist, is greatly appreciated; Phil Rees gives some delightful impersonations of well-known artists; Bennett and Martell, "the shipwrecked mariners," cause great amusement in their comedy act; Copeland and Son, champion clog-dancers, are well received; and the Danbys are very funny in their patter. The Pictoscope completes the bill.

Grand Theatre.—Proprietor, Councillor J. Batty; Manager, Mr. W. Batty.—Albert Whelan heads the bill here, giving skilful impersonations of popular artists; the Eight Lancashire Lads are very clever in their dancing act; Sterling and Love are entertaining with their musical comedy; and Ed. Ford, the Australian sundowner, is very amusing as well as skilful. Eldra and his dog present a refined show, and are well received; and Ryan and Hall, comedy acrobats, cause great amusement. Miss Maud Mortimer sings sensible songs in good style; and the pictures, as usual, are interesting.

STOKE.—Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwardes; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—The Maritana Opera Company heads the bill here. On Monday two scenes from Maritana were presented. The company includes Miss Norah Roy, Mr. Saxon Granville, Mlle. Adele Prescott, and Mr. Albert Chapman. Miss Marie Berresford is a male impersonator of much ability; Johnny Holland and company are seen in a very funny sketch, New Milk for Breakfast; Curwen and Belle, in a clever sketch, provide a smart turn; the Four Louberts are acrobats who are irresistibly funny; the Franko Midgets are seen in a smart conjuring turn; and Lade Henderson and Albert Saxon are both excellent character vocalists. The pictures are good.

SUNDERLAND.—King's Theatre.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Ernest Stevens and R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry L. Carlo.—Messrs. C. Hamilton Baines and H. Keates Hales' company is appearing here this week in The Pet of the Embassy. Hilda Graham finds an apt exponent in Miss Ethel Dunford, a vocalist of considerable ability; Miss Florence Watson is a bright and charming Dorothy Stanley, and Miss Julia Bassett causes much mirth by her clever impersonation of Mrs. Pamela Bung; Mr. Witty Watty Walton as John William Bung keeps the audience in good humour; as the Hon. Percy Brassington Mr. G. Sinclair Holden is most amusing; Mr. Robert Hyett is a pleasing Eric Brown, and scores by his vocal efforts; and Mr. Harry Fischer is a capital Palatine Brown.

Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatre Co.; Manager, Mr. Jas. Hemingway.—Ethie Van Praagh and J. Edward Whitty's company, with An Unwedded Wife, is drawing crowded houses here.

Palace Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.—Acting-Managers, Messrs. Alfred Browne and Syd. B. Stringer.—The Modern Venus, in a living statuary act, heads the bill this week, and gives some artistic reproductions of classical statuary; the Three Demons, in a sensational cycle race in mid-air, provide another excellent turn; the Eight Palace Girls are singers and dancers of considerable ability; Duncan and Godfrey score in the coster comedy, entitled Me and 'Er; the Maitland Trio, in a naval absurdity, are heartily appreciated; George Bernard, actor-vocalist; Walter Munroe, Irish comedian; and Ambrose Thorne, comedian, also contribute to the programme. There is, in addition, an admirable show of pictures by the Palace Bioscope.

SUTTON-IN-ASHFIELD.—King's Theatre.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and Districts Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Captain Clayton; Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—For the holiday week a capital variety programme is being submitted. Abex, in his feats of strength, fully sustains his reputation as the miniature Hercules; Mlle. Florence on the rolling globe wins much applause; and among other turns are Fred Ace (instrumentalist), Alton and Lois (comedy jugglers), Maud Clifton, and Marie Leston.

SWANSEA. — The Grand.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Brooks and Woodbridge; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Dean.—The Lady of Ostend is here this week. As the amorous Baron Mr. Laurence Brough is at his best; Mr. Harry Hampson utilises his opportunities as the luckless Dick Whortles in excellent style; Joseph Carbury, Dick's father-in-law, is cleverly impersonated by Mr. Percy Marshall; Toby Kroskutt could scarcely be in better hands than those of Mr. Watkin Wynne; the Lady of Ostend is cleverly taken by Miss Roberta Svendson; as Dorothy Whortles, the humiliated wife, Miss Kate Milford is all that could be desired; as is also Miss Bessie Harrison as Dick Whortles' mother-in-law.

The Star.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts.—Miss Grace Warner and company, in a répertoire consisting of The Scarlet Clue, East Lynne, and Lady Audley's Secret, are drawing big houses to the Star this week. In the former piece, as Scarlet Sal, Miss Warner's work must rank with the best seen at the theatre. Another excellent impersonation is that of Mr. George Gordon as Flash Mick; Mr. Arthur Page as Crazy Jim is in every way excellent; and in the dual rôle of Jack and H. Esmond Mr. J. Armitage is equally successful. Miss Doris Graham as Little Polly is one of the successes of the evening; Messrs. R. Boyd, Jack Clarence, F. Heywood and Misses Phyllis Massey, K. Stewart, Kathleen Cranston, Annie Corri, and Esther Dean give excellent support.

The Empire, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. A. Mitchell; Assistant-Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe.—The chief attraction this week is the historical sketch, A Drummer of the 76th, played by Matthew Brodie and company. As Napoleon Mr. Brodie gives a fine character-study; and Miss Dorothea Vivian as the Drummer plays very effectively. Paul Conchas goes through his performance in a way that easily explains his title of "The Kaiser Wilhelm's Military Hercules"; Mlle. Von Etta gives a first-class illusionary and quick-change turn; Tom and Marie Motramo are musical comedy artists of far above the ordinary; Jennie Johns is as talented as she is pleasing; J. A. Wilson is very successful in his sketch, in which he is ably assisted by his dog "Towser"; a turn out of the common is provided by Bert Woodward, the steeplechasing cyclist; Ellis Barriston has good songs, which he renders with great effect; and the song and dance of Beattie and Blanch are also much appreciated.

TON-Y-PANDY. — Theatre Royal. — Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—Mr. Stanley Carlton's company, in A Marriage of Vengeance, is here. Mr. Stanley Carlton gives an excellent performance of Geoffrey Vannock; the part of Paul Earnscliffe is in the safe hands of Mr. Arthur Dudley; Mr. Marshall Meade is well placed as Max Rheinhardt; the part of Glynne Earnscliffe is excellently played by Mr. Edwin Beverley; Mr. Edward Garth makes a powerful Hans Ponpole; Miss Rubie Maude is captivating as the Parisian adventuress, Stella.

Hippodrome. — This week the Joseph Poole's latest myriorama pays its welcome annual visit. The pictures are well up to date, and the strong variety company adds brilliancy to the entertainment. The Pantasto Troupe are justly given first place on the variety programme. Mlle. Juanita, M. Di, Olivera's cockatoos are well trained, and Collin and Irene, the illusionists, are very smart. Felix Somers, the facial king, is well received.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.—Opera House.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Welton Dale.—A crowded Bank Holiday audience gave Mr. Welton Dale a cordial welcome back to the resident-management on Whit Monday, when Mr. Macdona's company presented A Country Girl. Miss Ellaline Thorne gave a charming interpretation of the title-rôle; Miss Violet Leslie was excellent as Marjorie Joy; and Miss Desborough as the dusky Princess proved a sprightly exponent. Mr. Roy Sidney was in excellent voice as Geoffrey Chaloner; Mr. Mansel Fane gave a very humorous study of the Rajah of Bhong; and Mr. Arthur Staples gave a capital impersonation of Barry. Mr. Billington as Sir Joseph Verity, Mr. Besley Beltran as Douglas Verity, and Mr. Willis as Lord Anchester, all contributed their share to a good all-round performance. It may be added that for the concluding performance of the Renads, Mr. Welton Dale kindly entertained a number of old Army veterans. The theatre closes for the season after this week.

TYNEMOUTH.—Palace and Winter Gardens.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—This favourite resort of entertainment is now open for the season, and, judging by the performance on Monday night, the management are sparing neither trouble nor expense in providing first-class attractions. The place of honour is this week held by Ara, Zebra, and Vora, who please by their novel act, entitled Indian Pastimes; the Four Royal Magnets, vocalists, dancers, &c., prove a most acceptable turn; Lloyd Morgan proves himself to be a vocal comedian of more than usual ability; Sandy and Carl, burlesque comedians, are paying a welcome return visit; Baker and Balfe, Xylophonists, and M. Lockyer, mimic, also contribute to the programme. The evening's entertainment winds up with an admirable show of up-to-date animated pictures.

WAKEFIELD.—Royal Opera House.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co.—Messrs. Fred Acton and H. C. Nash's company opened here on Monday with Between the Lights. Mr. Bartram H Ross makes a fearless and manly Captain Hinton; Miss Eileen Bamford is a sympathetic Violet Warren; Mr. Fred Acton a comical Jimmy Tickle; Miss Milly Doris a droll Kitty; Mr. William R. Winning is seen to advantage as Stanley Crofton; and Mr. Frank Orchard is capable in the dual rôles of Oswald Warren and Ben Armley. Miss Fanny Williams fills with charm the part of Madge Armley.

Hippodrome. — Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The programme here this week comprises the Brothers Onda, in a smart triple bar act; Mlle. Du Ruche, a charming ballad vocalist; Mr. Will McIvor, vocalist, who proves popular; Mlle. Violi, lady instrumentalist; Stanley's Urchins, who contribute a capital vocal and dancing turn; Atroy, a clever juggler and hoop manipulator; and Will Onda's comedians, in an amusing sketch, entitled Hotel Comfort.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—Grand.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert E. Feather.—The engagement of Mr. Junius Booth and company in Monte Cristo is resulting in satisfactory business. Mr. Booth endows the rôle of Edmond Dantes with consideable dramatic intensity; and a capital delineation of the character of Mercedes is that given by Miss B. Doyle. Others who creditably portray their respective rôles are Mr. Beckett Bould as M. Nortier, Mr. Augustin Bowerman as Fernaud Mondego, Mr. Walter Huron as Villefort, Miss M. Elles as Sophie Danglers, and Miss Alice West as La Carconte.

Palace. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—The holiday list is proving an attractive one. Bob Hutt and his company, in an absurdity, Welcome Home, keeps the fun going fast and furious, their performance being greeted with one continuous scream of laughter. The dancing by the Brothers Dean is done with remarkable precision; a pleasing ventriloquial exhibition is contributed by Richardson Taylor; the Sisters Bronson are smart comediennes; the juggling by Mike Cray is well done, his clever dog "Dooley" shows evidence of careful training; and some smart tumbling and leaping by the Three Brothers Huxter, and interesting films are acceptable items.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—Knightstone Pavilion and Opera House.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Allan Wilkie's Shakespearean company is paying another return visit here this week. On Monday The Bells was presented. Mr. Wilkie gave an intensely tragic interpretation of Mathias; Mr. Paul Lovett was decidedly good as Christian; that talented and experienced actor, Mr. John Paley, gave a very fine impersonation of Hans; Mr. Gordon Phillott was excellent as Walker; so was Mr. G. Alexander Marsh as the Judge. Mr. Ernest Digges did well as Dr. Zimmer; and Mr. Ian Fleming's Mesmerist is entitled to praise. Miss Carrie Baillie looked very handsome as Annette, and acted with distinction; Miss E. O'Dempsey made the most of Catherine; and Miss F. Hunter Watts was good as Lozel. The week's programme includes The Merchant of Venice, As You Like It, She Stoops to Conquer, The School for Scandal, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man.

Grand Pier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Middies and Maids opened here on Monday to a crowded and enthusiastic audience. Miss Mabel Ashton sang "Arrah Wanna" artistically; and Miss Nellie Taner's song, "Within your heart," was loudly applauded. Mr. D. Marrs sang with effect, "When the birds go North again"; Mr. Bert Williams gave a humorous rendering of "My time is all my own"; Mr. Walter Forder was excellent in his comic sketch, Pops; and Mr. Arthur Randall proved himself a good comedian in his humorous interlude. Herr Kändt's Austrian Blue Band has commenced the fourth year of their engagement; and some excellent pictures are shown on the Lens Bioscope.

WIGAN. — Royal Court Theatre.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Andrew Melville's drama, Driven from Home, has been presented by a strong company.

The Hippodrome.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Juanitos prove themselves marvellously clever acrobats; and Verno and Voyce, in character songs, are also most popular. Marie Jones, quick change artist; Floretti and Elly, in a jumping performance; and the Durants, contortionists, are all well received; and good comedy is provided by Adey North, the Bros Ashley, Terry and Bentley (including a sensational rope ascent), Lily Vane, and Paddy Boston.

WORTHING.—Theatre Royal.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Mr W. Penrhyn Forster's company is here for the first three nights, presenting The Officers' Mess. Mr. L. Cadwalader does excellently as Major-General Sir A. de Beaune; Mr. George Ellis is seen and heard to advantage as Captain the Hon. Claude Melville; Mr. Charles D. Cleveland and Mr. H. Vyvian are both well placed as Antonio Wilkins and Rienzi Poorpoori; the Rose Smith of Miss Nellie Sheffield is beautifully enacted; the remaining characters are in highly capable hands. The chorus is good and well balanced, while the dancing, ably arranged by Miss Ina Alston, leaves nothing to be desired.

WREXHAM.—Empire Music Hall.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. C. W. Collings.—This popular place of amusement was reopened on Monday evening, after being closed for extensive alterations and re-decorating. The greatest improvement is a commodious dress circle, fitted with richly-upholstered tip-up chairs, and this part of the house is sure to be well patronised. There were two crowded houses on the opening night, and business has been good during the week. That great Wrexham favourite, Miss Ella Dean, made a welcome reappearance, and was as enthusiastically applauded as ever. She sang several new songs, as well as some of the old favourites. Mr. J. W. Rowley, who is one of the most popular of the better-known comedians now on the boards, also renewed his acquaintance with Wrexham audiences, and had a right royal reception; the Two Jays, clever patter comedians, made a first appearance here, and were well received; as were also Queenie West, a songstress of considerable merit; and Miss Hilda Wilson, an entertaining male impersonator.

YORK.—Theatre Royal.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Prince of Pilsen, presented this week by Baron H. Harriss's company, has proved a great attraction. On Monday this fine theatre was crowded in every part, and the greatest enthusiasm prevailed. Miss Sophie Harriss as Mrs. Maddison Crocker was in every way a success; as Hans Wagner, Mr. Harry Kilburn was intensely funny, and his energies never seemed to flag; as the real Prince, Mr. Frank Crimp created a most favourable impression, his easy, natural style and excellent vocalisation were much enjoyed; Mr. Bernard Russell caused much amusement as the Earl of Shrimpton; and Mr. Linden Lancy was satisfactory as Tom Wagner. Mr. Ernest Gifford was lively in the extreme as François; as Sidonie, Miss Connie Leon was at once a favourite, her Dutch song and dance being heartily encored; Miss Ada Watson as Edith Adams contributed in no small degree to the success of the play; and a delightful impersonation of Nellie Wagner was seen in Miss May Yates, an actress who sings very sweetly.

Opera House and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Fred Earle heads the bill here this week; Gerhardi Mohr is an agile jumper who is much applauded; and the Emmel Comedy Company gives a sketch brimful of humour. Burton and Trent cause amusement; L. B. Athol is a refined vocalist; and Lola Patey, a Dutch comedienne of more than average merit. R. A. Speedwell is a portrait painter of pronounced ability; and Mr. Picton Roxborough and Miss Fanny Wright, in a neat little sketch, render a good account of themselves.

Makes the Skin as Soft as Velvet.—Beetham's "Larola" preserves the Skin from the effects of the sun, winds, and hard water. Entirely removes and prevents all roughness, redness, irritation, tan, &c., and Keeps the Skin Soft, Smooth, and White at all Seasons. Invaluable for the Complexion, Delightfully Soothing and Refreshing after walking, golfing, cycling, motoring, dancing, &c. Gentlemen will find it wonderfully soothing if applied after shaving. Bottles, 1s., 1s. 9d., and 2s. 6d. each, of all Chemists and Stores. M. Beetham and Son, Cheltenham.—[Advt.]

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

A meeting of the Theatrical Sports Committee was held at 29, Wellington-street, Strand, on Tuesday last. There were present Mr. J. Cullen, St. James's Theatre, presiding; Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, hon. treasurer; Mr. W. Barbour, St. James's; Mr. A. Palmer, Comedy; Mr. P. Sheridan, Crown; Mr. Wilton, Vaudeville; Mr. Stow, Savoy; and the hon. secretary, Mr. William Johnson.

A letter was read from Mr. C. Aubrey Smith accepting the invitation of the committee to act as the chairman of the Sports Committee. It was decided that the sports should take place on Tuesday, July 9, and the secretary was instructed to engage the Stamford Bridge Sports Ground. The secretary read a letter from Mr. White, of Dublin, in which it was stated that the Dublin Empire tug-of-war team would not compete at the sports this year.

The list of events was considered, and the final decision thereon deferred to next meeting. It was decided to invite the patronage of all theatrical and dramatic clubs and associations. The secretary was instructed to make arrangements for the services of a band on similar terms as last year. It was arranged the next meeting should be held to-day (Saturday) at 5.30.

The concert in aid of the Musicians' Union Benevolent Fund will be given to-morrow (Sunday) evening in the Queen's Hall. There will be an orchestra of 200 instrumentalists provided by the Union. Tickets, 2s., 1s. 6d., and 1s., may be obtained at the doors, from the A.M.U., or from the Sunday League, in co-operation with whom the concert is being given.

At the last meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Theatrical Employees it was decided to recommend the branches to agree to being represented at the Annual Trade Union Congress, to be held in Bath in September, and to affiliate with the General Federation of Trade Unions.

On Friday, the 17th, the staff of the Theatre Royal, Rotherham, held their annual benefit performance, when Black-Eyed Susan was staged, together with a number of interesting items, a special sketch being presented by members of the staff.

The staff of the Opera House, St. Helens, held their fourteenth annual outing on Whit Sunday. The party, numbering thirty-six, journeyed by special saloon to Blackpool, arriving there at 11.45 a.m. Dinner was served at the Winter Gardens, and after the loyal toasts, the St. Helens Theatre, coupled with the name of Mr. McLeod Loader, was proposed and drunk with enthusiasm. In the absence of Mr. Loader Mr. Jack Bradley, stage-manager, responded in suitable terms. Sailing, driving, &c., were then the order of the day. The return journey was commenced at 8.45, and home was reached at midnight after a most enjoyable day. The whole arrangements were carried out by Mr. Jack Bradley, to whom a hearty vote of thanks was accorded.

MISS NANCY PRICE'S MARRIAGE.

"It is the best contract I ever had, or ever shall have."

The speaker was Miss Nancy Price, and the joyful animation with which she uttered the words at once repulsed the ordinary reasonable assumption that the lady referred to a contract in which a theatrical manager figured and in which certain terms were mentioned. There could be nothing so commonplace, in the business sense, as a theatrical manager, nor so prosaic as a mere money calculation in this contract! For, surely, as Antony whispered in the ear of his Eastern enchantress, "There's beggary in the love that can be reckoned!" Of course, it was a marriage contract, the high contracting parties being Miss Nancy Price and Mr. Charles Raymond Maude.

The ceremony took place before the Registrar, at Broad-street, New Oxford-street, at 9.45 a.m. on Friday, 17th inst. Only personal friends were present, and after the signing of the registers a party of ten adjourned to the Russell Hotel for breakfast.

Miss Price commenced her theatrical career some eight years ago with Mr. F. R. Benson, and she made her first appearance on the London stage in the early part of 1900 in Henry V. at the Lyceum Theatre. While at the Lyceum she played her first important part—that of Olivia in Twelfth Night. Subsequently she was seen in the parts of Calypso and Athene in Ulysses at His Majesty's Theatre, the former rôle bringing her into prominence. Also under Mr. Tree's management she enacted the rôle of Olivia in Twelfth Night and Princess Bellini in The Eternal City. These engagements were followed by leading parts in A Snug Little Kingdom and The Road to Honour at the Adelphi, as Rosa Dartle in Em'ly, as Hilda Gunning in Letty, at the Garrick; as the heroine in The Lady of Leeds, at Wyndham's; as Helga in The Prodigal Son, at Drury Lane; Mrs. Bowler in Toddles, at the Duke of York's; and Kitty Montmorency in Mr. Sheridan, at the Garrick. Miss Price spends her leisure in painting, music, writing, and collecting old weapons and curios. Her great ambition now is to play a good part in a piece in which her husband also has a good part.

Mr. Charles Raymond Maude is a cousin of Mr. Cyril Maude and a grandson of Jenny Lind. He is a graduate of Oxford, and has been on the stage for the past two and a half years. His first stage experience was "walking on" in The Walls of Jericho at the Garrick Theatre, and later he appeared in Lady Ben at the Comedy and Little Billee in Trilby with Mr. Tree at His Majesty's. He also played in An Angel Unawares and The Alabaster Staircase, following which he joined Mr. Cyril Maude in The Heir-at-Law, a revival of The Second in Command, and Toddles, in which Mr. Charles Maude is still appearing. He is extremely fond of ballooning, and has experienced some very interesting descents.

It was while playing in Toddles, by the way, that Miss Price and Mr. Charles Maude first met each other. That was only ten months ago, and it was a case of love at first sight.

"Freddie" Carlton has again got together a capital company at his popular corner at St. Anne's-on-Sea. Reg. Bolton is back again, and along with Tommy Nelldon and Dick Thomas looks well after the comedy of the programme. Lincoln Taylor, humorist; John A. Austin, tenor; H. V. Morgan, baritone; Will Bailey, pianist; and Freddie Carlton, who is as entertaining and popular as ever, make up a show that bids fair to be as big a success as the previous ones.

Miss Gertie Gitana concludes to-night a two months' season in London, where she is booked for six months next year. She has been favoured with offers for America and the Continent at a phenomenal salary. This clever lady has become a great favourite at the Tivoli, and is undoubtedly making rapid strides.

At the Star Theatre, Liverpool, on July 1, Mr. Sidney Rennef will produce a new drama, Egypt. Eight special scenes have been painted for the production.

"Lynch Law," a dramatic sketch, in three scenes, by Sara B. Von Leer and E. P. Clift, was produced for copyright purposes at the Theatre Royal, Leeds, on Wednesday.

THE AMERICAN ACTORS' FUND.

The Actors' Fund Fair, recently held at the Metropolitan Opera House, New York, was formally opened by Mark Twain, after President Roosevelt (in Washington) had given the signal by pressing a golden button. The actors held their last fair fifteen years ago, and took about $200,000. This year, it was announced, they wanted to raise $250,000. Messrs. Marc Klaw and A. L. Erlanger purchased the first tickets of admission at $750 each. "A fool and his money is the root of much laughter" was the motto of the fair, and everyone was eager to be a "fool," remembering the main object of the Fund and the words of its founder, who said to the actor incapacitated by age or misfortune: "You shall not become a penniless wanderer or the inmate of an almshouse; but we invite you to be an honoured guest in our charming home on Staten Island, where you may preserve your dignity and self-respect, and composedly await your final curtain-call amid peace and comfort and congenial companionship." Leading players unable to be present sent messages of goodwill, accompanied by liberal contributions. Other donations, none less than $50, came from devotees of the drama and favourites of the stage. But the management looked to the "booths" and the "gate receipts" for the profits, and the pocket-books of the public were considerably depleted after a stroll through the mimic village of Stratford-on-Avon, where the Professional Woman's League stood guard at the entrance, and a voting contest for the most popular actress, actor, and non-professional lady caught the last remaining penny at the exit. Prominent society people presided at the flower and candy stands, and did a "roaring trade." Matinée "idols" and dignified leading men were willing to do anything in the cause of charity. Mr. Wilton Lackaye undertook to trim a hat, and turned out a "creation" which, according to an expert in such matters, "looked like an animated hawk's nest." An eloquent refutation of the charge that stage people are deficient in the culinary art was contained in the "All-star Cook Book," of which there was only one copy in existence, and the price of that was $1,254. This unique publication was compiled by Miss Alice Fischer, a number of notable players having each contributed a page of parchment on which was written the recipe of their favourite dish. A "chance" for the book cost anything from $1 to $100, and there were plenty of "takers." At the booth of the Twelfth Night Club the crowd gazed at a dagger used by a popular tragedian, and there were buckles and ornaments which had once graced such illustrious players as Fanny Kemble, Laura Keene, and Charlotte Cushman. The Professional Woman's League conducted a doll bazaar, and favourite actresses in wax fetched fabulous figures. The Green-Room Club had a "side show," with Walter Jones as the fat boy, Jules Garrison as the human glass-eater, Tod Sloan as the giant, Gene Hughes as the rubber-faced man, and Neil MacNeil as the bearded lady. Mr. William A. Brady gave another exhibition of his remarkable versatility by acting as one of the "barkers." One of the most interesting features of the Fair was a daily newspaper, of which a second edition frequently had to be published to meet the demand.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA.

Owing to pressure on our space, we have been compelled to hold over the weekly instalment of the above. The series will be continued next week.

The clever little comedian attached to the Three Danbrooks, in their musical comedy act, is the only brother to Geo. Mozart. The trio made a hit at the entertainment given on Saturday at the Palace, Clacton-on-Sea.

Mr. Ernie Myers and Miss Lily Lonsdale have been making a big success in London for the last six weeks at the Syndicate halls with new songs, dresses, and business, and were immediately rebooked at each hall they appeared.

Owing to his enormous success at the Alhambra, Carl Lynn is engaged for two weeks longer. The weeks are June 17 and 24.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

ANNIE WILSON.—The two letters O.P. signify opposite prompt—that is, opposite that side of the stage where the prompter, according to custom, always stands.

C. G. JOHNSTONE.—We should think it highly improbable, as such high salaries were not paid at the time the late George Leybourne was in his prime.

BUXTONIAN.—Miss Marie Lloyd visited America in 1894, appearing on Oct. 15 of that year at Koster and Bial's, New York. She has also been to Africa and Australia.

HELEN CHARLES.—The date you require is Nov. 11, 1895, and the article appeared in The Era of Nov. 16. With the exception of the file copy we have no Era of that date.

W. T.—Miss Marie Tempest was the original San Toy on the production at Daly's, Oct. 21, 1899.

G F. L.—The comedy entitled The Undercurrent was produced at the Criterion Theatre on Sept. 14, 1901. Miss Violet Vanbrugh played the part of Lady Shelmerdine.

RIP.—Rip Van Winkle, romantic opera, libretto by William Akerman, music by Franco Leoni, was produced at Her Majesty's, Sept. 4, 1897.

J. F.—A very complicated matter. See a solicitor.

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

At all holiday times the thoughts of Londoners turn towards the palatial edifice at Sydenham, where, at whatever season of the year, and under any conditions of weather, they can find pleasure in abundance. It formed a haven of refuge on Monday for many thousands, who took full advantage of the opportunities for enjoyment. A vast aggregation of attractions had been secured, the Ostrich Farm, where the habits and customs of the species are displayed, and the champion lady rider bestrides the ungainly bird, creating especial interest. In the theatre was the Drury Lane children's pantomime, The Forte Thieves, to which detailed allusion is made in another column, and a variety performance, given three times daily, included the famous Bob Hanlon Troupe, the Brothers Phillipi, the Brothers Webb, Marjutti, and Lavater Lee. The Australian giant, Darril, and Colibri, "the smallest man on earth," became the centre of admiring assemblies, and large crowds of the curious went to look at a "man in a trance," who having been thrown into the hypnotic state on Monday by Morritt, does not wake again until to-day.

In the evening there was a performance by massed bands, including those of the Coldstream Guards, 1st Suffolk Regiment, 2nd Northumberland Fusiliers, drums and fifes of the 1st Coldstream Guards, drums and fifes of the 1st Scots Guards, and the 4th V.B. West Surrey Regiment. The programme included Tschaikowsky's "1812," and a composition by Jullien, portraying a day in the soldier's life. The camp at daybreak, the réveillé, the morning parade, the march of infantry, the trot, canter, and charge of cavalry; then tattoo and lights out, the false alarm, the call to arms, and troops advancing from a distance were all realistically suggested.

The fun of the Old English Fair was maintained throughout the day, the water chute and switchback had many patrons, and all the other attractions were liberally appreciated. A balloon ascent and a horse show and parade figured among the excitements, and a grand display of fireworks brought an eventful day to a close.

The general management of the Crystal Palace is now in the hands of Mr. George O. Starr, whose extensive experience includes several years with the Barnum and Bailey show. Mr. Starr has many schemes for restoring prosperity to the Palace, and will introduce the latest novelties and attractions from America, Paris, and Berlin. It is satisfactory to learn that festivals and high-class concerts will be ever foremost in the programme, and at the "Elijah" concert, shortly to be held, 3500 voices will take part.

MISS KATIE MARSH was specially engaged for the opening of the Palace, Clacton-on-Sea, last Saturday night, but owing to her great success she was engaged by the directors for the full Whit-week.

MR. FRANCES O'FLYNN, the well-known banjoist, who is now touring the provinces, is considering an offer from America.

AMERICAN DRAMAS.

Mr. WILLIAM ARCHER has come back from America full of information concerning the condition of the drama there, and has commenced a series of articles on the subject in the Tribune. We are not altogether without knowledge on the subject already, as the London stage of late has been pretty well supplied with samples of the work of American playwrights—good, bad, and indifferent. Of course, a distinctively American drama does not have quite a fair chance when presented to an English audience. In order to appreciate a picture, one must have seen the objects it represents; and the realism which commends certain Transatlantic dramas to New Yorkers cannot possibly appeal with equal strength to the "Britishers." How can we wax enthusiastic over the accuracy of the representation of a famous restaurant if we has never been inside that establishment? How can we appreciate the dramatic depiction of a character the original of which does not exist in this country? A really excellent play like The Lion and the Mouse fails on "this side" because it deals with a society which is strange to us, while to Americans it is vitally interesting. Unfortunately, in most of the American plays which have been produced in London of late the conception and the craftsmanship have been inferior; and, without the "local colour" to buoy them up, they could not keep their heads above water on their intrinsic merits alone.

Mr. ARCHER is inclined, we think, to take too rosy a view of the American stage. He is somewhat inclined—on the principle, perhaps, that "any stick will do to beat a dog with"—to hold it up as an "object-lesson" to the naughty British public that does not properly appreciate IBSEN and Mr. BERNARD SHAW. Now the essence of the American public, as far as art is concerned, is its superficiality. The first impression created in an Englishman by the Americans is one of wonder at the number of educated people he meets in America. The American seems to know something about everything. The newcomer to the States feels something of the surprise which thrilled the Japanese gentleman who was a guest at one of the late Mr. GLADSTONE'S famous breakfasts. Mr. GLADSTONE had been holding forth, uncriticised and uncontradicted, of course, on various subjects, including the great Oriental nation which has lately made such an advance in importance. "Wonderful man, Mr. GLADSTONE," said the Japanese to a friend afterwards; "he knows something about everything—except Japan." After a longer residence in America, the immigrant realises that much of this American omniscience is the result of rapid surface-cramming, of skimming articles which themselves only skim subjects, and of the American genius for the retention of convenient phrases. The superficial interest which the Americans give to everything except business makes them appear extremely broad-minded and hospitable to ideas; but with regard to the latter their cordiality rather resembles the hearty welcome given to a guest who, one knows, is to leave us next morning. The American manager and the American dramatist have, however, one great advantage: they are not society-ridden. Of course, in New York, as in London, there is an idle class, and an aristocracy—of sorts; but they are a feeble folk, and most of the rich and well-to-do people are still too little removed from the soil, the office, and the "store" to have acquired the "fine old crusted" conceit and the imperturbable self-assertion which make the upper class in England so formidable and so influential, even in its decline. The Americans have not had time to be de-humanised by centuries of established title-worship. "That's what I call a lord!" said the "common man" in DU MAURIER'S Punch picture to his companion, pointing to a nobleman riding past in Rotten Row. "He would think no more of you and me than dirt under his feet!" It is this extraordinary acquiescence of the middle and working classes in the estimate of their inferiority which makes it so difficult for the English manager and the English dramatist to escape from certain bounds. As Mr. PINERO once remarked in an interview, "You find, if you try to write drama, not only that wealth and leisure are more productive of dramatic complications than poverty and hard work, but that if you want to get a certain order of ideas expressed or questions discussed you must go pretty well up in the social scale. I have often tried to keep my characters down, as it were, and found I could not. They forced me, in spite of myself, to lift them up in the world."

There is evidence, however, that things are taking a different turn. The height of the society cult had reached its climax in 1895, when The Princess and the Butterfly was produced at the St. James's. Mr. PINERO was then fooling his public to the top of their bent. Not only were we allowed to associate with a princess; we were actually permitted to see her in bed. The piece, for the most part, consisted of aristocratic atmosphere, and the sorrowfulness of being past forty. Would it "revive" well now? We doubt it. Another example of "attitude" was supplied in the dialogue of many of the OSCAR WILDE plays. The languid affectations which the author used, to apologise, as it were, for his possession of very real dramatic genius, were the theme of almost fulsome admiration. Indeed, so thoroughly was theatrical success thought to depend on the favour of "smart" society that when Mr. ARTHUR BOURCHIER brought out Mr. SUTRO'S denunciation of its foibles in The Walls of Jericho, it was feared that he might not be able to fill his stalls and dress-circle for long. The success of that piece, and of His House in Order at the St. James's, seems to show that the tide is on the turn, and that we are "in" for a return to elemental comedy and drama—which are the most democratic art-products on earth.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, May 23.—We have had a quiet week, and the Théâtre de l'Œuvre took advantage of this to launch its novelties. The first was a French adaptation of Oscar Wilde's A Florentine Tragedy, a cruel but cleverly written one-act. I noticed that the adapter has slightly altered it. Simon, a grey-haired merchant, is married to the lovely Bianca. One night, returning home, he finds there the young nobleman Guido Bardi making love to Bianca. Simon, concealing his jealousy, offers Guido some of his expensive wares, and Guido proposes to pay him a large sum of money in exchange for Bianca. "She is not for sale, my lord," replies Simon; "she's only a humble tradesman's wife!" But he knows that the only way to save his honour is to kill Guido, and, in a clever, subtle way, challenges him to fight. Bianca is delighted, for Guido is young and her elderly husband is no match for him. "Kill him!" she whispers to the youth as the two stand sword in hand. But it is Guido who is killed. And Bianca stands by and watches the boy's death struggle with a smile, looking admiringly at her husband. "Why did you not tell me you were so strong?" she asks her husband. "Why did you not tell me you were so beautiful?" he answers. And they fall into one another's arms. The difficult rôle of Simon was superbly played by M. Jehan Adès.

NEXT came a two-act play by MM. Camille Lemonnier and Pierre Soulaine. It is called Le Droit au Bonheur, and the scene is laid in a small Norwegian town. Annah, a pretty young woman, is married to Dideri Gerpach, a feeble, inoffensive creature. His father was a rich shipowner, but by his indolence and laziness Dideri has lost his fortune. His days are passed in smoking and idling the time away between his wife and his friend Jorg Sange. The latter is the reverse of Dideri. Intelligent and active, he has a bold scheme, which is to build dwelling-houses for the poor where at a low price they can be comfortably lodged. Annah is filled with admiration for him, and has become his mistress. Dideri does not know this, but when he attempts to kiss her she repels him. Dideri cries and moans, and asks his friend Peetersen for advice, for Peetersen's matrimonial life has not been a happy one, and he has some knowledge of women. The fact is that Peetersen's first wife betrayed him shamefully, whereupon he divorced her and married again. Since then the woman has gone from bad to worse, and Peetersen never leaves off thinking of her, and accusing himself with being the indirect cause of her ruin, because he, too, was not blameless. Peetersen has no advice to offer to Dideri, and both men look at one another with pitiful eyes. But Jorg Sange, a straightforward man, will not deceive Dideri any longer, and tells him bluntly that he loves Annah and that she is his mistress. Dideri staggers. He suffers cruelly, and for a moment thinks of putting an end to his life. But he has not the courage to do so. Fate is against him, and he bows his head before the inevitable. The interpretation was excellent in every way.

THE Comédie-Française made a decided hit with the revival of Marion Delorme, which brings in every night the maximum, i.e., £360, and seats are booked three weeks in advance. The rehearsals are in full swing of Henry Kistemacker's four-act play La Rivale, likely to be produced towards the 10th of next month. The strong cast will include Mlle. Piérat, Mlle. Berthe Cerny, Mlle. Mitzy-Dalti, and MM. Grand, Delaunay, Siblot, Numa, and Croué.

MME. DUDLAY and M. Baillet will leave the house of Molière at the end of the year with the pension to which they are entitled. They asked the committee whether, after January 15, they might accept engagements at other Paris theatres, and obtained the necessary consent.

AN interesting novelty at the Opéra-Comique next month will be Le Chandelier, founded on Alfred de Musset's famous comedy. The libretto is by MM. de Caillavet and R. de Flers, for which M. André Messager has written the music. There will be five tableaux: the promenade in a small provincial town, Jacqueline's room, the garden of the notary André, a supper at André's, and Jacqueline's room. MM. Fugère, Dufranne, Jean Périer, Francelle, and Mme. Marguerite Carré will appear in the principal rôles.

THE Théâtre de la Gaîté management has given us a revival of La Fille de Madame Angot. Despite the new dresses and elaborate mounting, it appeared woefully old-fashioned, and although in the French provinces the operette still retains its hold upon the public, here in Paris it is not likely to have a very long run, unless the strangers—of whom the city is very full—come to the rescue.

Now that so many of Alexandre Dumas fils' old works are revived, it seems strange that his heirs do not allow his Route de Thèbes to be produced. It was almost finished when the author died; in fact, there are only a few scenes wanting, which M. Paul Hervieu has kindly offered to add. The play contains a violent attack on journalism. Dumas, who liked good Press notices, was not over-anxious to have it produced, and, probably for that reason, did not finish it.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Messrs. Clive and Grant's play, The Woman From Scotland Yard, which was introduced to the public for the first time at the Royal Osborne Theatre, Manchester, on Monday last, is compounded of the usual elements which go to the making of conventional melodrama. It purports to confound vice and exalt virtue, after a series of more or less strenuous encounters of the one against the other. Like most dramas, it is not overburdened with probability as a working condition, or it could not exist; but its sensations are at least as acceptable as those of a large number of current plays of its kind. To begin with, there is a murder in a storm at night on the Devon cliffs, the victim being the father of Harry Stanhope, the absentee son, who is thus to be robbed of his inheritance, and who subsequently moves through the story in the rôle of hero. The culprits are Paul Obanoff and—by implication—Lady Mary Stanhope, the latter being, in fact, a spurious wife of the dead Sir James, and in reality a very questionable personage known elsewhere as Marie La Rouge. Her real husband is in evidence, a stupid dude named Algernon Fitzmaurice, "whom all the girls call Goo-Goo"; but his doings have no influence in affairs until, nearly at the end, he lets out the secret of his relationship to Lady Mary Stanhope, and afterwards, when villainy is confounded, announces Harry Stanhope's right to the family wealth. The function of "the Woman from Scotland Yard" is to attempt to do, by means conveniently slow, what a man from Scotland Yard would have done at the end of the first act—namely, arrest Paul Obanoff on suspicion of having murdered Sir James Stanhope. In the course of the play she makes one bold attempt to do this, and actually handcuffs Paul, but he easily gets the best of it, and is only prevented from doing away with the lady by the lucky but inexplicable appearance of Harry Stanhope on the scene. In short, the lady is more useful in the "curtains" and the rather slender love interest than formidable on behalf of Scotland Yard. She is, neverless, a vital figure by reason of the expectation that waits upon her movements; and, besides, she is very well impersonated by Miss Chrissie Dunbar, who makes the most of the lines and business with which the part provides her. As Harry Stanhope Mr. George Edwin Clive has the right tone and attitude; but it is not easy to understand why he should connive at a meeting of Nihilists in his rooms, unless it be to suit the authors' purpose of making him contribute to the heroic climax, in which the woman-detective saves him from the shooting of the unmasked Obanoff, who has penetrated the Nihilists' haunt in disguise. Later, he is chloroformed by Obanoff's creatures, and conveyed to a crypt, where he is chained up and ill-used by means of the Russian knout. From this terrible plight Lady Stanhope would save him, she having the key of his chains; but the condition is that he shall return her love for him, which he cannot do; he knows, moreover, that Edith Mayne, the ubiquitous woman-detective, is concealed behind a pillar at his elbow, and that she—or the police who are somewhere at hand—will get him out of it. A fight for the key ensues between the two women. It is not a graceful struggle, but virtue triumphs; and the upshot is the union of the lovers in the presence of the defeated and handcuffed Obanoff. The latter has a big share of the sinister work to do; in appearance he is extremely villainous (in a handsome and gentlemanly way); and his foreign accent is quietly and well conveyed. As Lady Mary Stanhope Miss Emilie Money shows herself possessed of dramatic power; and in addition to the follies of Algernon Fitzmaurice, portrayed effectively by Mr. Walter Clarke, light interest is contributed very smartly by Mr. Robert Cromwell as Jack Brown, and cleverly enhanced by Mrs. Sidney Barrisford as Mary White. The remaining parts are small, but adequately done; and the play, on the whole, seems likely to have a vogue.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

An interesting performance of Puccini's pathetic opera, Madama Butterfly, was given on Friday, May 17, with the same cast as on its first production at Covent Garden in July, 1905. Mlle. Destinn again gave a striking and artistic impersonation of the unhappy Japanese girl; while Signor Caruso as Pinkerton sang with his wonted charm, giving a most impressive and beautiful rendering of the great love duet with Mlle. Destinn in the first act, and singing with passionate fervour in the tragic closing scene of the opera. The part of Sharpless, the kind-hearted Consul, was admirably undertaken by that clever artist, Signor Scotti; and Mme. Lejeune, as the devoted attendant Suzuki, deserved the warmest praise. In the unthankful part of Pinkerton's wife Mme. Paulin did all that was possible; and the minor parts of Goro, Il Principe, Yamadori, Lo Zio Bonzo, and Yukusidé were cleverly sustained by Signor Zucchi, Signor Gianoli, Signor Marcoux, and Signor Galetti. The scenery and stage effects were excellent, and Signor Campanini secured a capital interpretation of the charming orchestral numbers in Puccini's delightful score.

On Monday Wagner's opera, Tannhäuser, was given for the first time this season, and great interest was manifested in the production, as the invaluable services of Dr. Richter had been secured as conductor, and a fine performance of the opera was given. Frau Fleischer-Edel proved a dramatic and vocally interesting Elisabeth, singing beautifully the invocation to the Hall of Song, and acting with considerable power and expression in the great scene of the second act, where Elisabeth intercedes for Tannhäuser. Herr Knote's Tannhäuser was acted with conviction, but vocally the artist was somewhat disappointing. The Wolfram of Mr. Whitehill was superbly sung and acted; and Herr Knüpfer made a dignified and picturesque figure of Hermann. Herr Neetan, Mr. John Harrison, Mr. Frederic Austin, and Herr Raboth were entirely successful in the parts of Walther, Heinrich, Biterolf, and Reinmar; while Mme. Agnes Nicholls sang the music of the Shepherd charmingly. The opera was handsomely mounted, and the orchestra, under the famous conductor, gave a fine performance of the great overture. Mlle. Destinn appeared as Venus and sang most artistically, and mention must also be made of the intelligent acting and singing of the chorus.

On Tuesday night Mme. Melba made her first appearance this season in the part of Mimi in Puccini's La Bohème, and received a most enthusiastic welcome from a brilliant house. The great prima donna sang with her accustomed charm, although evidently sparing herself owing to her recent indisposition. Signor Caruso repeated his splendid performance in the character of Rodolfo, and the rest of the cast was the same as on a former occasion, Signor Campanini again conducting.

Mr. Frederick Melville's latest production met with the unqualified approval on Monday evening of a Bank Holiday audience. Her Road to Ruin is a play in which there is a wealth of incidents, tragic and comic, and the scenes are adequately staged and lavishly mounted. The play opens in a scene entitled "The Bishop's Palace." The Bishop has a ward, May Willoughby, whose sister Jess is acting as a secretary in the palace. May Willoughby marries Frank Temple, the curate of Brandon, and as to Jess—well, there seems some little uncertainty about her love affairs. Phillip Hardy, a nephew of the Bishop, is supposed to be her lover, but his love is of the kind that requires financial encouragement to keep it warm. He induces the girl to commit an act of dishonesty, by way of interference with a cheque book, which gets her dismissed. In the meantime a local girl named Mary Dawson has been taken advantage of by Phillip Hardy, and there is a child. Mary Dawson disappears, and Phillip attempts—and succeeds for the time being—to throw the blame upon the curate. The Bishop believes the false story, and orders Frank Temple to leave Brandon for ever. May refuses to believe that her husband is guilty of the charge laid at his door, and she asserts her intention of accompanying him wheresoever he goes. We are next taken to London, where Jess Willoughby has a flat. She is interviewing an elderly gentleman and she arranges to meet him later on the Embankment. And here it can be mentioned that she is merely the decoy of a party of thieves and forgers, of whom Philip Hardy is the head. As the old gentleman leaves her, Jess is visited by Tom Wells, who, we are told, is a poor journalist, and who, it must be admitted, cuts a rather dismal figure in the play. He is heart and soul in love with Jess, and he is anxious that she should give up her wicked life. However, as might be expected, his well-meant warnings only meet with scorn from the girl, who, after his departure, disguises herself with the aid of a mask and man's cloak, and ventures forth in search of her victim, whom she meets under the shadow of the Sphinx, and dispossesses him of his wife's jewels and his money by threatening to shoot him. Immediately afterwards Phillip comes upon the scene, assists her to change her disguise, and together they adjourn to the Savoy Hotel for supper. In the restaurant are the curate's wife and Tom Wells, who are joined by Frank Temple. Frank is on the point of giving Phillip Hardy a thrashing when the latter calls for the protection of the police, and two constables and an inspector enter. The appeal to the law proves to be the undoing of Jess, and of at least one of Phillip's schemes, for the stolen jewels are discovered in the girl's possession, and she is promptly placed under arrest. Questioned by the police, Phillip renounces the girl, escaping justice in that way. May pleads for her sister, but it is, of course, hopeless. The following scene is given up to hearty, boisterous comedy. One Billy Boots, who is in love with a pretty chambermaid, is putting the damsel through a rehearsal of a part he has secured for her in a sketch, and the efforts of the couple are intensely funny. We are now shown the cold, grim gateway of Holloway Prison. It is the day for Jess's release on ticket-of-leave. Tom Wells is here, so is Charles Cholmondeley, acting on behalf of Phillip Hardy. The girl has to choose with whom she will go, and she elects to go with Tom. Unfortunately, however, Jess returns to her old life, and we see her in Piccadilly Circus, where she meets with another of Phillip's victims—Mary Dawson, now a human wreck. Mary warns her of the life she is leading, and attempts to dissuade her from pursuing it. The scene ends with the death of Mary Dawson, surrounded by the Bishop, the curate, and May. Before the poor girl dies she exonerates Frank Temple from the charge which had been made against him, and inmplicates Phillip Hardy. In the last act retribution comes to the guilty parties, and reparation and reward to the innocent.

Mr. Ernest E. Norris, as the curate, typifies the manliness and the bravery of a man passing under the shadow of another's crime in an interesting and thoroughly capable manner; and Mr. A. B. Imeson enacts the rôle of the poor journalist with an intelligent realisation of the author's ideas. We have seen a few journalists in our time, but we do not recollect having met with one quite so humble, so meek of spirit, and so miserable as this Tom Wells. Miss Eva Moss distinguishes herself in the tragic rôle of Jess Willoughby, and acts with an intensity that gives to her impersonation a convincing realism. Miss Grace Lester also does much good work in the pathetic rôle of Mary Dawson, and her death scene is particularly affecting. Mr. J. C. Aubrey is a vigorous Phillip Hardy, and imparts the necessary brutality of speech and manner to the part; and Mr. Dane Clarke is dignified and reserved as the Bishop. Miss Maude Stewart Drewry charms everyone with her engaging characterisation of the part of May Willoughby, the curate's wife, and she is sweet, pretty, and sympathetic throughout. Mr. Fred Ingram is extremely amusing as Billy Boots; and Miss May Mordaunt as Sal Briggs and Miss Marie Wright as Jennie Crackling also work hard and successfully in their respective rôles. Mention should likewise be made of the able performances of Mr. Jack Denton as Charles Cholmondeley, Mr. William Dempsey as Sir John Lewis, Mr. William Lynton as the lawyer, and Mr. F. C. Brooke as Dicky Gerald.

CASTLE THEATRE, RICHMOND.

Under the direction of Mr. Eric Lane, a clever company of lyric entertainers have held the boards here this week with gratifying results. The programme offered is one of sterling excellence. Special mention may be made of Miss Beatrice Wellings, a delightful soprano; of Mr. Harry Bennett, a humorist of no mean ability; of Mr. St. Clair Edwards, a distinctly talented baritone. Miss Adie Lewis adds considerably to the success of the evening; as does also Mr. Will Mayne, a comedian of refined order, whose contributions are keenly appreciated. In addition to the onerous duties of manager, Mr. Eric Lane is a host in himself, and does much to enhance the excellence of a really admirable programme. His song, "Good-night, No. 1," with a chorus of the company in night attire, quite tickles the risible faculties of the audience.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

"THE YOUNG LIEUTENANT."

A Comic Opera, in Two Acts, written by Herbert Dawson and A. F. Allen Towers; music by E. A. Smith; lyrics by Herbert Dawson; produced at the Royal Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, by Mrs. Ann Hughes' company on Monday, May 20.

This pretty little theatre—the gunners' playhouse—under the able management of Mr. Henry Swinerd, was filled on Monday evening last by an appreciative throng desirous of making the acquaintance of The Young Lieutenant, and wish him success on his first cruise, and we may here state that the harbour-bar was crossed not only in perfect safety, but with much éclat. The play, which is of a nautical type and well written, brings us back to the time of "Nelson's glorious days," when the wooden walls of Old England were the pride of the nation. It deals with the two forcible human arguments—love and duty. The plot, as is customary in plays of this description, is of slender design, but of sufficient strength to carry the interest of the audience to the happy finale. The music is lively and well suited to the theme, particularly the songs "Love or duty," "The beautiful, beautiful sea," "Tell me, oh, tell me," and "Nelson's glorious days." Several of the choruses were also most effective.

In the first scene, "Outside the Mermaid's Tavern, Portsmouth," we are introduced to 3rd Lieut. Harry Summers (the Young Lieutenant), whose ship is on the eve of sailing, but whose mind is much perturbed at the thought of leaving his lady-love, Marjorie Playfair, who has been affianced to a nobleman against her wish. Harry utters the thought that Friday is an unlucky day to sail, and is overheard by Dick Bouncer, the rat-catcher and landlubber. Dick has refused to join either the army or the navy, although his pretty Polly Price "has a decided leaning towards a man in uniform," but he is eventually taken—much against his will—by the press gang. Thereupon he attempts to delay the departure of the ship by getting the men to mutiny, telling them the remarks of his officer which he had overheard.

In the second scene—the quarter-deck of H.M.S. Britannia—we find that Harry has been accused of raising the mutiny, and is sentenced by Admiral Sir Stoke Newington to be court-martialed. Marjorie intercedes for him, but to no purpose; but Polly insists on Dick confessing his hand in the affair, which he does reluctantly. A signal being received that Trafalgar has been won, there is no need for the ship to weigh anchor, so all ends happily.

Mr. Douglas Philips as the Young Lieutenant has a part which suits him particularly well, and the songs, "Love or Duty" and "Queen of my dreams," are well rendered. Mr. Fred Payne as Dick Bouncer provides the merriment of the evening, being a comedian of high merit. He makes the most of his opportunities, his song, "Work, work, work," being sung in a very droll manner. Mr. Campbell Bishop as the light-hearted Admiral sustained his rôle with distinction, and was particularly amusing in his love-making scene with Lady Harlington. Mr. L. C. Hughes was well fitted with the part of the Duke of Bowminster, his song, "The foibles of Society," being well received. Bill Barnacle was well portrayed by Mr. Richard Cummings, his rendering of the robust song, "In Nelson's glorious days," meeting with hearty approval. Mr. Wilfred Norman and Mr. E. B. Davis as 1st and 2nd Lieutenants respectively sustained their parts admirably. Miss Nellie Wigley made a charming Polly Price, and scored greatly in both acts, her rendering of the songs, "The beautiful, beautiful sea," and the duet with Dick, "The cult of jealousy" (by A. F. A. Towers), being received with well-merited applause. Miss Kathleen Emmitt represented Marjorie Playfair with much dramatic skill, and was delightful in her songs, "Tell me, oh, tell me," and in the duet with Harry, "If admirers thou hast many." Miss Maud Esdaile made an excellent Mother Price, her efforts affording much amusement. The part of the Dowager Lady Harlington was in the capable hands of Miss Madeline Stone, her song of "Love matured" giving her an opportunity for the display of her fine contralto voice. Miss Madge Davies as Lady Winifred Archer and Miss Madge Ferwin as Lady Evelyn Archer gave great assistance; as did Miss Violet Campbell and Miss Violet Braham. Miss Dorothy Shaw in a pas seul danced herself into favour. Mr. George Robertson, Mr. Bert Burton, and Mr. A. E. Drinkwater, jun., gave great assistance in their respective parts. The powerful chorus and orchestra were under the direction of Mr. Alex Humphreys. A word of praise must be given to Mr. A. F. Allen Towers, the producer and stage-manager.

ALEXANDRA PALACE.

The usual Bank Holiday amusements attracted large numbers to the People's Palace on Muswell Hill. Notwithstanding the unsettled state of the weather, a successful hot-air balloon ascent and parachute descent were undertaken, followed later by a right-away balloon ascent, M. Auguste Gaudron, the aeronaut, being responsible for the arrangements. In the Central Hall, three variety entertainments were given. In the Bijou Theatre, Mr. Athelstane Lee's Pall Mall Entertainers submitted humorous and refined performances. The zoological section in the Conservatory had fresh additions, and visitors were constant throughout the day. Side-shows in the Corridor Hall and Industrial Hall apparently were all doing good business. Messrs. James Pain and Sons gave a firework display on the lake island, and the brilliancy of the rockets, which introduced every known colour in pyrotechny, evoked general admiration. In the theatre, Mr. Charles W. Poole's myriorama and variety entertainment, with animated pictures, were very welcome. Miss Daisy Graham, with her collection of trained birds and her pretty little baby dog Nap, won much favour. The Almo Trio, including Miss Myria Almo, introduced a clever comedy bar act. Leonard and Mac kept everyone in good humour by their witticisms. Mr. Harry Stewart did well as a protean artist. Little Doretta, acrobatic dancer, proved to be delightfully entertaining. Massona, the comedy juggler, showed originality. Kitty Woodford's dog circus and orchestra provoked much mirth; and the sketches and scenes introduced by the myriorama were of the greatest excellence. It remains throughout the week.

AT the annual meeting of the Touring Managers' Association, held on March 27 at their club premises, at Savoy Mansions, Strand, the subject of certain resident managers' contracts was fully discussed, and it was decided to call a meeting of the touring managers running dramas for Friday next at 12.30. The Association has offered the use of their offices, and all touring managers, whether members or non-members, are invited to attend the meeting.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

THE widow and the family of the late Mr. G. Adney Payne ask us to express their thanks for the kind sympathy which has been shown to them in their recent sad bereavement, and regret that the large number of letters and telegrams they have received prevents them from acknowledging each individually.

A LADIES' committee is being formed to support Miss Marie Lloyd at the Benevolent Fund dinner at the Trocadero, on Sunday, June 9. The novelty of a lady chairman is regarded with much favour by the profession, and the absolute necessity of immediate help should add immense force to the special pleading of so popular a queen of variety. We may call attention to Mr. Horace Marriott's letter in another column.

MESSRS. FRED AND M. ABRAHAMS, the proprietors of the Queen's Palace, Poplar, are giving the proceeds of the two performances on Friday evening, May 31st, in aid of the exchequer of that most deserving institution, the Poplar Hospital, which is much in need of funds. Mr. Jack Woolf, who is taking great interest in the matter, will be glad to hear from artists disposed to offer their services in this good cause.

THE annual concert in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union will take place on Sunday at the Queen's Hall, commencing at 7 p.m. A picked orchestra of about 200 performers will play a selected programme, under the directorship of Mr. J. M. Glover, L.P., Mayor of Bexhill, and musical director Drury-lane Theatre; Mr. Frank Tours, late conductor, Prince of Wales's Theatre; and others.

SWIMMING will form part of the entertainment at the Crystal Palace in connection with the V.A.F. Sports on June 27. There will be a 100yds. championship, the entrance fee to which will be 2s. 6d. Also a 50yds. handicap, entrance fee 1s. An exhibition of high diving has also been arranged. It is proposed to give a six-guinea silver cup for the championship and three gold medals for the handicap. The second and third are being presented by Miss Agness Hazel and Mr. Michael Nolan.

FURTHER donations towards the prizes have Mildare, 10s.; Tom Woottwell, 10s.; Orpheus, 2s.; G. Collins, 2s. The swimming is being organised by Chas. Mildare, and owing to the fact that Tom Woottwell will be in Hull, and therefore unable to compete, he has been appointed handicapper. Entries will close on Monday, June 17, and should be sent to the Handicapper, Mr. Tom Woottwell, 63, Claremont-road, Highgate, London, N.

THE appointment of Mr. George O. Starr as general-manager of the Crystal Palace shows that the directors of the establishment on the Sydenham slopes are alive to the necessity of securing a man of vast experience in the acquisition of novelties. Mr. Starr, who is an American, was originally in the medical profession, and in his early life made a study of insanity. This led him to recognise the important part played in the life of the worker by public amusements, and his experiences therewith brought him into contact with Phineas T. Barnum. Eventually he became attached to "the greatest show on earth," succeeding in time to the active-management of the business. Mr. J. H. Cozens, late general-manager, has been appointed business-manager and secretary.

MR. GEORGE ROBEY, in introducing the Sheffield Wednesday Football team to the audience at the Canterbury on Thursday evening, said, in winning the English Cup—which the audience could see was not a very large or imposing article—only those who competed for the possession of this coveted prize had any idea of the hard work it entailed. By the side of the English Cup was the Robey Challenge Cup, which was only competed for "for sweet charity's sake." It was at present held by the Aston Villa team. He was proud to say that the Robey Cup had already won the modest sum of £3000 for charities, and he hoped it would long continue the good work—a sentiment that was heartily endorsed by a packed house.

A STARTLING incident happened during the performance by Mr. Conquest and company of The Freak's Revenge at the Metropolitan on Saturday night. In the scene a kitchen table is thrown across the stage. On Saturday night the table rebounded into the orchestra, alighting full on the head of a member of the band, and then falling into the stalls. The musician fortunately was not severely hurt, as, after an interval, he pluckily resumed his duty; but the blow must have been a severe one.

ON another page will be found a full account of the Installation Banquet of the Chelsea Lodge, 3098, which has quickly become one of the most important Masonic Lodges connected with the profession. American Masons are accorded a cordial welcome at the monthly meetings of this Lodge.

THE prohibition of the Lord Chamberlain of variety business at the Britannia, Hoxton, to which we referred last week, placed Mr. F. Baugh in a momentary dilemma, from which, however, he extricated himself by putting on three sketches all of which are stage plays duly licensed by the Lord Chamberlain. They are Arthur Watson's Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, Frank Hardie's For the Honour of the Regiment, and G. M. Marriott's Oliver Twist. Arthur Watson's Cruise of H.M.S. Victory proved such a success that Mr. Baugh at once offered to engage him for the two following weeks, but owing to previous bookings he was unable to accept.

CHIEF CONSTABLES throughout the country are, so Mr. Herbert Gladstone says, to draw the attention of managers of places of entertainment to the undesirability of permitting anything on the stage that may conduce to casting ridicule on the wearers of His Majesty's uniform, or which may have a tendency to interfering with recruiting. The comic policeman, we hope, is not threatened.

MESSRS. TOM BURROWS (the club-swinger) and Henry Burton, both of whom are Australians, have accepted the challenge thrown out by Messrs. Jackson and McLaren, the Australian tree-fellers, now appearing at the London Hippodrome. The contest, which is for £100, will be decided at the Hippodrome during the evening performance on June 7.

MR. ALFRED LESTER, the Lost Policeman of The New Aladdin, who has finished his engagement in A Restaurant Episode at the Palace Theatre, commences a twenty weeks' tour of the principal provincial variety houses on June 3. He has just received an offer for the leading comedy part in a new musical comedy to be produced under a well-known management in London next Easter, but his engagement to Mr. George Edwardes, to whom he returns in the autumn, has prevented his acceptance.

WHILE lowering the fireproof curtain of the London Pavilion recently, a scene-shifter unfortunately came into collision with the counter-weight. This started swinging from side to side, and finally struck a fire tap, deluging the stage and flooding the orchestra. Musicians stood knee deep in the impromptu pond, and Whit Cunliffe had to make his stage entry through a box, singing in front of the fireproof curtain.

THE new Grand Pier, Weston-super-Mare, was opened there on Thursday, the 16th. Entertainments commenced on Whit-Monday, when the popular festival was kept up by crowded audiences of trippers enjoying music, fun, and gaiety.

THE New Hippodrome, Portsmouth, an important addition to South Coast variety theatres, was opened on Monday on the twice-nightly system, with Mr. Nelson Barry as resident-manager for the company. Miss Alice Esty sang the Miserere scene from Il Trovatore, under the conductorship of Mr. Sydney Payne; and other turns included the Brothers Griffiths, Miss May Moore Duprez, Mr. Jan Rudenyi, Mr. Henry A. Moore, Alburtus and Millar, Miss May Mars, Mr. Charles J. Johnson, and Jack and Evelyn.

MISS MARIE TEMPEST received the heartiest of welcomes from her Portsmouth admirers when she went to the famous naval port on Friday, the 17th, to lay the commemoration stone of the New Hippodrome for Mr. Walter de Frece. That gentleman met her at the Town Station, and presented her with a lovely bouquet of pink carnations and white roses. Miss Tempest's appearance on the stage of the new house on the arm of Mr. Walter de Frece was the signal for an outburst of hearty applause. She was accompanied by her mother. Also of the party were Mr. Jack de Frece (chairman of directors) and Mrs. de Frece, Mr. de Frece, sen., and Mr. Mouillot (directors), and Mr. Bertie Crewe (the architect) and Mrs. Crewe.

ADDRESSING the audience, Mr. Walter de Frece, after speaking of the house and its entertainments, said he was in great hopes at one time or another of welcoming Miss Tempest there in a more artistic capacity. He then presented a silver trowel to Miss Tempest, on behalf of Mr. Bertie Crewe, the architect, and an ivory mallet from the contractors, and expressed his extreme appreciation of her kindness in coming down from London to perform that ceremony.

WHEN the applause had subsided, Miss Tempest stepped smilingly forward and delivered herself of a pretty little speech. She could not tell them, she said, the pleasure it gave her to come down for that ceremony, and she thanked them from the bottom of her heart for the very royal reception they had given her. She hoped that before long she would be able to appear in that theatre. She could not promise them, but sincerely hoped that in the future she might be able to. The speech-making over, Miss Tempest proceeded to the foyer, and, with the presentation implements, duly declared the suitably-inscribed stone well and truly laid, adding her best wishes for the success of the undertaking.

AT Glasgow on Monday Moss's Empires, Ltd., applied to the Sheriff for an interdict to prevent Miss Marie Lloyd from appearing at the Pavilion, their contention being that she was under contract not to appear at a rival establishment in any town where Moss's possessed a hall. The case was continued till Wednesday, when, after a discussion on its pros and cons it was intimated that it was likely to appear in another form in a higher Court, and on this understanding Moss's Empires withdrew their petition for interdict, and the case was thus taken out of Court. Miss Marie Lloyd has duly appeared at the Pavilion each evening during this week.

WE are informed by Moss' Empires, Limited, that they have issued a writ in the High Court of Justice, claiming an injunction to restrain Miss Marie Lloyd from committing breaches of her contract with them, and also for damages.

MISS MARIE KENDALL is appearing at two halls in Glasgow this week, as owing to some confusion of dates, she had been booked for both the Pavilion and the Moss-Stoll Coliseum.

MR. HENRY KEMBLE, manager of the Palace Theatre, Cork, takes his farewell benefit there for a whole week from Monday next to June 1st, by kind permission of the proprietors. He is leaving after three years of solid work, during which he has introduced to Cork exceptionally good programmes. A committee of leading residents are anxious to make the presentation as handsome and as representative as possible, and many of the artists who have appeared under Mr. Kemble's management have responded right royally. There is every probability that the Right Hon. the Lord Mayor, the ex-Mayor, and the Parliamentary representatives will lend their valuable co-operation to the project of doing honour to Mr. Kemble. Mr. Wm. Frank Allen, the hon. secretary of the Testimonial Fund, will be pleased to receive donations.

A MOST interesting foursome was played on Friday, the 17th, at Watford on the West Herts Golf Club's beautiful links. The players were C. Ralph Smith (West Middlesex Golf Club) and A. Tingey (West Herts), winners of the John Dewar Challenge Shield, and Dusty Rhodes and Frank Lynne. Lynne and Ralph Smith played against Rhodes and Tingey. After a well-fought game, Lynne and Smith were "one up" when the last green was reached, but Dusty Rhodes cleverly managed to hole a 12-foot put, thus winning the hole and making "all square." Both sides used the new "H.O." ball, which gave every satisfaction.

DESPITE the cold weather and the showers at the commencement of the proceedings, there were 5000 persons present on Tuesday at the Aston Villa grounds to testify to the success of the organisation of the Birmingham Theatrical and Music Hall Sports. A good deal of interest was shown in the procession, and one of the most effective tableaux was "A Peace Conference," picturing the disastrous results of a Saturday night's argument at home. At the sports the Brothers Egbert—always conspicuous in their comic exertions for the sake of sweet charity—created great amusement on the field. They competed in the Hundred Yards' Costume Race, getting into second and fourth places. The Hundred Yards' Theatrical Managers' Race was won by Mr. Philip Rodway, acting-manager of the Theatre Royal. Mr. Edward Foster, of the Bordesley Palace, was second; and third place was secured by Mr. A. W. Matcham, resident-manager of the Empire.

ON Thursday, when the curtain was rung down for the night at the Hackney Empire, the whole of the staff and some privileged visitors assembled on the stage to do honour to Mr. J. Christie, who, after five years' service at that hall, has obtained a well-deserved promotion at Mr. Stoll's hands. Mr. W. Earle Charles, the assistant-manager, in very well-chosen phrases, commented on the good feeling of the staff towards Mr. Christie, and their regret on the one hand that he was leaving them and their delight that his undoubted abilities had been recognised by Mr. Stoll in a substantial way. In asking Mr. Christie's acceptance of a case of cutlery and silver and an illuminated address, he wished both that gentleman and his wife every happiness and prosperity in the future. Mr. Christie's reply was possibly the briefest on record, as his emotion merely enabled him to thank those present for their kindness. Mr. Johnson, the musical-director, next commented on the happy relations that had always existed between Mr. Christie and his staff, and how pleasant a task it had been to work for him and the success of the theatre. He called upon the staff to extend the same loyalty to the in-coming manager, Mr. Percy Percival, late of the Grand, Wolverhampton.

MISS DOROTHY CHASER, who has played courtly gallants to Miss Adeline Genée's heroines at the Empire for so long, has been secured as principal boy at the Lyceum, and will play the title-rôle in Robinson Crusoe at Christmas. An excellent choice indeed!

THE adventures of a ten-pound note was the subject of one of Mr. Tom Costello's most original songs, and scarcely less extraordinary is the story of the loss and recovery by Mr. Sam Poluski of two "flimsies." He had a breakdown recently in his motor-car opposite Portland-road Station, and while remedying matters he guesses that he must have accidentally pulled two "fivers" from his pocket and dropped them. He found out his loss at Camberwell, and, returning to the spot, found the missing notes in the gutter—a wonderful piece of luck indeed!

THE Wanderers, an operatic trio, composed of principals from the Grand Opera, Covent Garden, join the Tivoli programme on Monday. All three have fine voices and a good appearance. They prefer, however, not to disclose their names or identities to the public, so will sing masked. The numbers are to be presented in quite a novel manner, and with something new as regards lighting and effects.

MR. FRED NIBLO, the American raconteur, so popular at the Palace, was on Sunday evening initiated into the Grand Order of Water Rats, King Rat, Mr. James Allison, performing the ceremony. There was a large gathering of the fraternity at the initiation. Mr. Niblo, like Mr. George Golden, belongs to the White Rats of America, who have a new club-house, 1553, Broadway.

MISS EVIE GREENE, who made her variety début at the Palace Theatre on Whit-Monday afternoon, has been chatting with a press representative on her experiences. "I shall never forget my first journey to America, two years ago last December," Miss Greene said; "I found it was extremely cold at night, and somehow, in selecting my wardrobe, I hardly guessed the elements correctly, so I borrowed my brother Frank's pyjamas and a very thick dressing-gown, and one morning I went to my bath in these clothes. When my sister-in-law, Mrs. Frank, came to look for me, she found an array of bath stewards complaining that one of the lads had dared to take a bath in the ladies' bath-rooms. Of course, it was a great joke round the ship, and I was called 'The Laddie' long after we arrived at New York."

MR. WILL OLIVER was at one time a well-known figure on the cinder path, and has several records. Some years ago at Stamford Bridge he walked in a mile handicap for the late Sir Henry Irving's bag, and the late Gus Leach, Will himself, and another competitor breasted the tape together. They all appealed to Bob Watson (referee) for the victory, but to their dismay were informed that the winner (the late Herbert Campbell) who started a few yards from the tape, had already been in and dressed. During a recent visit to Carlisle "Spot" combined business with pleasure, accepting the invitation of the hospitable Signor Pepi for a day's shooting at the popular proprietor's place situated a few miles from Carlisle. Here Oliver and two of his clients—Fred Elton and Frank Leon—had capital sport, over 200 birds falling to their guns the first day. Much surprise was caused by the way the rejuvenated William toppled them over.

AS a writer of popular songs in the early days of the music halls the late Mr. G. W. Hunt became famous, and his friends Mr. Harry Rickards, Miss Fanny Leslie, Mr. Harry Randall, Mr. Felix McGlennon, and Mr. Charles Wilmott have subscribed the necessary sum for erecting a monument to his memory. The following words, which emanate from the Nibs, will be inscribed on the obelisk:—

"IN MEMORY OF G. W. HUNT.

"He wrote many of the People's Songs, and one that during the Russo-Turkish War of 1878 so stirred public enthusiasm as to greatly strengthen the policy of the British Government of the day, and may, therefore, justly claim some influence on the disposal of power in Eastern Europe.

"Not always Kings and Cabinets
Shall guide a people's fate;
A rhyme may wreck an Empire—
A song may save a State."

MR. GEORGE LASHWOOD, the Beau Brummel of the variety stage, who comes to the Hackney Empire next week, is generally endowed with a good chorus song, and one of them, "Don't be shy, girls," nearly converted George into a matrimonial agent. In one of the verses he invites all young girls and fellows who would like introductions to others to confide their difficulties to "Uncle Jarge." In one of the larger towns this had quite an unexpected result. Many letters were received asking for introductions to a "nice young man" or "a dear girl." This correspondence greatly embarrassed Mr. Lashwood, and his first thought was to cut the verse out. Then the idea occurred to him to see the young people one by one. This was done, and in no less than five cases couples were brought together and marriages resulted. "I gave 'em each a wedding present," says he, "and in three cases the grateful couples have named the first arrival after Uncle George, and my latest little 'niece' is called Georgina."

MR. MAC COLLINSON, author of many of the successes played by the Collinson Combination, is engaged on a sketch which should prove of absorbing interest, dealing as it does with the present panic in the wheat pit. The subject is not a new one dramatically, as a drama in four acts entitled The Wheat King, produced at the Apollo on April 16, 1904, had for its chief situation a panic in the "pit"—a very fine scene in which Mr. Murray Carson added much to his reputation as an actor.

"MY STATUE OF GRACE," described as a mythical muddle, written and produced by Mr. Alfred M. Loader, introduces once more Miss Adèle Levey to variety audiences. She is supported by Miss Jeannie Weston and Mr. Fred Haming. The sketch made an instantaneous success at Leeds and York, and comes to London in the autumn.

THE Empire Theatre includes in its programme just now one of the most remarkable athletic turns that have ever come to us from America. This is the jumping act of the "Le Pages," in which the gentleman cuts an apple in half on the head of a lady, rings a bell with his feet while leaping over her, and does other things which are equally startling. Miss Ada Reeve concludes her engagement at the Empire this week, but may be confidently looked for again here at no distant date. It should be added that the beautiful opening scene of The Débutante, the Empire's recent ballet, has been incorporated in the programme, which includes, of course, the new ballet, Sir Roger de Coverley.

JEN LATONA, who was a child wonder as a trick pianist playing under the name of Jennie Gabrielle, is now the wife of the American musical humorist, Frank Latona. They have circumnavigated the globe three times, have played in the Antipodes, in Egypt, in South Africa, all through the British Isles, on the Continent, in Russia, and through the Asiatic countries. Mrs. Latona was born in Birmingham, her home being but two or three houses distant from that of Joseph Chamberlain, and her family frequently attended the garden parties which the Chamberlains gave at Highbury.

MISS CLARA VANCE will, at the Palace Theatre on June 3, give Londoners an opportunity of hearing how the nigger, or coon, of the Southern States of America really talks and acts. Miss Vance hails from Kentucky, the country of "blue grass, horses, pretty women, and moonshine whisky." She is a complete mistress of the buck-step, and has known the characteristics of the coon from her childhood. Her numbers will include "Nothing from nothing leaves you" and "Mariar," but her principal song is likely to be "He is a cousin of mine," by Cecil Mack, of "Teasing" fame, the music being by Chris Smith and Silvio Hein, who has been responsible for many popular Trans-atlantic ditties. Messrs. Francis and Day are publishing this last number.

MR. GUS ELEN appeared with his own company at the Royal Victoria Hall on Saturday evening. Since the strike, he states, there has been a change in the attitude of certain managers towards him, and it is for this reason that he has decided to fill the gaps between his still numerous engagements by running his own companies at halls in different parts of the country.

MR. BERT H. DELMAR and the Comets have scored a success at the Victoria Pier, Folkestone, this week. The local Press, speaking of Mr. Delmar's original programmes, pronounced them to be the best in their line seen on the pier for many seasons past. Mr. Robert Forsyth is to be congratulated on his smart re-booking of the combination for June 17.

ERNESTO, the well-known equilibrist, has left for Australia to fulfil an engagement made by Tom Pacey with Mr. Harry Rickards. Miss Annie Laurie, through her great success in Australia, has been re-engaged through Tom Pacey by Mr. Harry Rickards for a further eight weeks, making a twenty-four weeks' engagement.

MR. JAMES W. GLOVER, the Worshipful Mayor of Bexhill-on-Sea and the popular conductor of Drury Lane Theatre, is the managing-director of the new Winter Gardens, which are to be a centre of musical effort as they are at Bournemouth. A freehold site at Brockley-road, overlooking Egerton Park, has been secured on favourable terms. The capital of the company is to be £10,000.

JAMES E. HARDY, the well-known high-rope performer, appears to be making a "go" of it on the other side of the Atlantic, and has proved that it is not always safe to assert that "a prophet is never honoured in his own country." His act proved so attractive last summer, both in Canada and the States, that his date-book for the coming season was filled long before the snow was off the ground. He will appear again this year at several of the most important amusement parks and exhibitions.

THE search for a real Welsh comedian goes on apace. The Harry Lauder of the Principality has yet to arrive, though unless some excellent judges are mistaken, he is on his way. Tom Jones—no relation to Fielding's hero—who appears at the Camden Theatre next week, has all the Welsh quaintness of character, a fine voice, and—most important thing of all—English audiences can understand what he says.

MISS VIRGINIA FRANCES (Maxwell and Frances) is getting better, but she is still confined to her bed, suffering from a very serious attack of ptomaine poisoning, caused by something she ate on her journey from Belfast to London on Sunday, May 12.

THE amateur competition at the Palace of Varieties, Hammersmith, was concluded on Saturday night last. The competition has brought forward some clever turns. The winner of the first prize was Mr. Murray Moore, a comedian, who gave an excellent original comic song. The second prize was won by the Starlings—a male whistler and a lady barefoot dancer; the third by a clever child, Little Sunbeam; and the fourth by Wm. Terry, a swell comedian. A consolation prize and a pair of boots were given to Billy Hobbs, a street singer, who proved a great favourite with the gallery, but, having been in a theatrical troupe at one time, was not considered an amateur, and therefore not eligible.

MR. DAN HENDY, eccentric acrobatic comedian, is now the professional title of Harold, late of the Henderson and Stanley quartette. He is the son of the late Frank Henderson, and has considerable hereditary talent. He opens at the Queen's, Poplar, on Monday.

PERMISSION has been given to Mr. Mendel, the blind pianist, by Messrs. Schott and Co., of Regent-street, W., to have their "Coquetuela," by J. Larregla, arranged as a pianoforte solo with orchestra. The arrangement of it was placed in the capable hands of Mr. W. B. Moore, of the Empire, Glasgow, and produced by Mr. Mendel for the first time at the Empire, Belfast, on Monday with pronounced success.

THE 512th meeting of the Executive Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held on Wednesday afternoon, when the following were present: Messrs. J. W. Cragg, C. C. Bartram, Jeff Vendome, Bernard Stavordale, Fred Neiman, Harry Tate, F. Slingsby, Harry Blake, Frank Gerald, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). The minutes having been read and confirmed, questions of refunds were dealt with. Mr. F. Massey, of the Cestrian Hotel, Chester, was appointed agent in that town. The weekly statement showed that the amount received was £53 3s., and the number of new members was 54. On the proposition of Mr. Fred Neiman, seconded by Mr. Frank Gerald, it was unanimously decided that the Association give the sum of £60—at the rate of £15 per week for one month—to the Music Hall Benevolent Fund, for the immediate purpose of paying the pensioners of that fund.

THE latest quotations for music-hall shares are as follow: Alhambra, 1½; Canterbury, ½; Empire (15s. paid) 1⅛, ditto (10s. paid) 1⅛; London Pavilion Ordinary 4⅜, ditto Preference 5; London Coliseum, ½; Metropolitan, ⅜; Moss Empire 4⅞, ditto 5 per cent. Preference 4½; Oxford, 6¾; Palace, 12s. 6d.; Tivoli, 6s.; Variety Consolidated Theatres, 13s.

THE flags which decorated the exterior of the Euston on the evening of the 17th inst. were an outward and visible sign that the sixth anniversary of the opening of this popular place of amusement was being celebrated within. The entertainment started at seven o'clock, and it was close on the midnight hour ere the curtain finally fell; so that the closely-packed audience could not complain that they did not get their money's worth as regards quantity. And the quality of the entertainment was equally satisfactory, as the following list of artists who appeared conclusively proves:—T. E. Dunville, Laurie's Juveniles, Hardeen, Wilson Hallett, H. Scott-Leslie, Queenie Essex, Celest, Isabelle Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. Royston-Dene, Frank Harwood, Dorothy Drew, the Brothers Brooks, May Mars, Frank Wood, Kitty Malone, Jennie Alexander, the Ten Loonies, Gertie Gitana, Syd May, G. W. Hunter, the Sisters Anderson, the Stella Troupe, Katie Butler, Jessie Preston, Ernest Montefiore and company, Walter Purvis and company, and Lotto, Lilo, and Otto. The programme concluded with an exhibition of pictures by Ruffell's Bioscope. The arrangements in front of the house received the careful supervision of Mr. Fred McAvoy, the manager, and Mr. E. Rendle, acting-manager.

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

MISS EVIE GREENE has scored an unmistakable hit at the Palace Theatre with Paul Rubens's charming song, "The Queen of the Philippine Islands," from Florodora. Mr. David Day's firm publish this choice number.

MISS MAY BELFORT, fresh from her American triumphs, has been delighting Chelsea and Metropolitan audiences with her vivacious rendering of Cobb and Edward's march-song, "When Tommy Atkins marries Dolly Gray." Mr. David Day's house has the number in the press.

OTHER songs just acquired by Messrs. Francis and Day include "The dear little lady I took for a walk" (sung by J. W. Ellison), by Chas. Collins and Chas. Ridgewell; "When the orange-blossoms bloom once more," by George Arthurs and C. W. Murphy; "Pretty maid of the Pyrenees," by J. F. Lambe and T. W. Thurban; "Sweet Mary from Dublin," by Felix McGlennon; "I'd be happy in a wigwam with you," by Harry and Fred Godfrey; and "There's a dear little place called England" (Frank Harwood), by H. F. Greenfield.

MISS MABEL GREEN, at the Holborn Empire, has scored a great success with two new songs, published by Messrs. Francis and Day, and the denizens of Olympus take up both choruses heartily. One is C. Wilmott and H. E. Darewski, jun.'s, "Lavender," the other, "When you know you're not forgotten by the girl you can't forget," by Cobb and Edwards.

MR. HARRY LAUDER, who has been an absentee from the Tivoli owing to throat trouble, has published two more songs with Messrs. Francis and Day, the joint productions of Gerald Grafton and himself. They are entitled, "Mrs. Jean McFarlane" and "Is that you, McCallister?" In the current issue of London Opinion the eminent comedian has an amusing article on Scotsmen and their appreciation of humour.

AT the Oxford Miss Isabel Dillon is adding further laurels to her already good record with her two dainty songs, "I'll be your Golliwog," by Kennedy Russell, and "Pansy," by Charles Wilmott and Herman E. Darewski, jun., who have just published with Messrs. Francis and Day yet another song of great promise, entitled, "In the valleys of Switzerland."

THE "Sixpenny Pops" issued from Messrs. Francis and Day's Denmark-street branch are steadily progressing towards the four hundredth item, the two new numbers which Manager John Smith is just issuing being Mr. Tom Costello's "Poor old clown" and "When the mocking-bird is singing in the wildwood," a charming song, hailing, we believe, from across the Pond.

MISS FLORRIE FORDE'S latest success is entitled "My silver sunbeam," written and composed by Fred Vypond, which Miss Forde produced this week at the Palace, Bradford. This song proved a very big hit with Bradford audiences on Monday, and will be published by the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Co.

ANOTHER number which will shortly be published by the same firm is entitled "Your number's up" (Godfrey and Lyle), which Miss Esta Stella is scoring heavily with.

MISS ANNIE PURCELL will produce at the Tivoli next Monday a new song by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, entitled "Way down the old canal." This is a novelty number, and is certain to prove an instantaneous hit with this popular artist. The publishing rights have been secured by the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Co.

WHAT is likely to be one of the biggest march songs of the year is "Adieu, little girl," which is being sung all round Hastings and Eastbourne, where it has been introduced by Miss Bessie Butt. The music, by John Neat, is most easily acquired, and the words, by A. E. Sidney Davis, appeal to the sentimental. Feldman and Co., the publishers, have great faith in this number.

THE Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Co., Ltd., have supplied Miss Jennie Johns with a delightful new song, entitled "In my home among the snow," which Miss Johns intends to produce shortly.

A BROADLY humorous duet of a domestic nature, in which the wife is tenderly and sentimentally reminiscent and the husband is brutally sarcastic, has been acquired by Mr. Wallis Arthur, and it will be worked by prominent members of the companies with which he is associated during the seaside season, notably at Mr. Paul Mill's select concerts at Lowestoft. It is called "Do you remember?—Can I e'er forget?" is by H. F. Greenfield, and will suit equally well a drawing-room audience or low comedian and dame in the Christmas season.

LITTLE TICH will open at the Tivoli and Euston on Monday next in a specially-written new "Serpentine" song, entitled "Little Miss Turpentine," by Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate, who have also equipped the same talented artist with two other comedy numbers, entitled "The General" and "The girl got off at Clapham."

MR. GEORGE LEYTON purposes producing at the Empire, Liverpool, on Monday next Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate's new military sketch in two scenes, entitled Lucknow, which will be produced on a scale of great magnificence, and will shortly be seen at a leading West End music hall.

THAT charming "principal girl," Miss Phyllis Yorke, and Mr. A. Weston will shortly produce a new musical comedy sketch, written and composed by Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate, entitled The Dairymaid. Truly, Messrs. Harrington and Tate seem to be kept remarkably busy with sketch-writing just now.

THAT charming young comedienne, Miss Jose Collins, has been the recipient of much applause from Bank Holiday audiences at the London Pavilion, for her dainty rendering of Messrs. Harrington and Tate's tuneful song-scena, My Cuban Girl, which the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. have in the press, and also scored heavily with her successful song, "My tiny firefly," published by the same firm.

THE success achieved by Mr. Wallace Selkirk's naval and military spectacle, Egypt, by Messrs. Harrington and Tate, on its original production at the Empire, Sheffield, has been duplicated during the present week at the Ardwick Empire, Manchester, where it has been nightly received with intense enthusiasm by crowded houses.

BOTH Miss Barbara Babbington and Miss Kathleen Gray have been singularly successful at all their London turns during the holiday week with Messrs. Mellor, Laurance, and Gifford's "taking" Dutch song, "I'm going back to the Fatherland," which successful Monte Carlo Company's publication is standing charming Miss Lena Verdi in good stead in the provinces on the Stoll tour.

"IONA," Bert H. Delmar's catchy composition, is becoming popular all round the seaside resorts. This week, at the Pavilion, Folkestone, Mr. Chas. Cardle is being encored nightly for the number. Music-hall permissions may be had from the original singer. The publishers are Price and Reynolds, 41, Berners-street, London, W.

THE "BARRING" CLAUSE.

A stranger visiting the County Buildings, Glasgow, on Tuesday, might have supposed he had inadvertently stepped into a meeting of the members of the music hall profession. Stage celebrities were present in large numbers, several "star" artists being included. That the business on hand was of considerable importance was apparent from the serious manner in which the parties were discussing some points of dispute. Prominent among the foot-light favourites was the well-known comedienne Miss Marie Lloyd, who was accompanied by Mr. Sam Lloyd, manager of the Pavilion Theatre. Sheriff Boyd's chambers were the rendezvous, and there proceedings were resumed in an application at the instance of Moss' Empires, Ltd., against Miss Marie Lloyd, to interdict her from appearing in the Pavilion Music Hall, Glasgow, this week.

Petitioners were represented by Mr. Angus Campbell, who stated to his Lordship that Marie Lloyd had signed a contract in favour of Moss' Empires, Ltd., at a salary of £130 per week, to appear in Glasgow in April, 1908, with the proviso that she would not enter into another engagement within a radius of ten miles up to that date. Notwithstanding the princely salary and the prestige which attached to her, respondent had deliberately entered into another contract with the Pavilion to appear this week. He therefore asked his Lordship for interdict.

Mr. Connell, for the respondent, contended that in the petition there was no reference to any specific loss sustained by the complainers in respect of the engagement by that artist.

The Sheriff: I suppose the loss they apprehend is simply that the public who wish to see this lady will go to the Pavilion and not to their theatre?

Mr. Campbell: That is so.

Mr. Connell (proceeding) said that his point was that this contract with Moss' Empires was not to be implemented until October 13, 1908—or eighteen months hence. He held that the whole contention was most unreasonable, as there could be no loss or injury for such a prospective engagement. There might be a breach of contract, but that was a different matter. What was the artist to do in the interval of the eighteen months? She must get some other engagement or starve. The lady, it was alleged, had signed the contract in September, 1906, but the contract was not to be implemented until October, 1908. There surely could be no loss sustained with such an interval.

The Sheriff: This may be a very harsh condition indeed, but has that condition not been subscribed to by this lady with open eyes?

Mr. Connell replied that that might be, but his Lordship's colleagues had decided against that clause, upon the ground of its unreasonableness.

The Sheriff said he could fancy an artist objecting to sign a document of that sort that contained a clause in those terms, because prima facie it sounded unjust and unreasonable; but if the lady did sign, how could she escape?

Mr. Connell admitted that the profession was notoriously lax in business matters.

Mr. Campbell pointed out that Harry Lauder was bound until 1914.

Mr. Connell pointed out further that the Pavilion Theatre had a prior contract with Marie Lloyd, which was not implemented owing to illness. Her present engagement was in fulfilment of that contract.

In pronouncing judgment, Sheriff Boyd said there was quite a sharp point which he could deal with. The desire of the petitioners was to stop a week's engagement actually progressing at the Pavilion because of the week's engagement for next year by Moss' Empires. He was asked for interdict, which was a strong proceeding; but the question for him was quite proper—whether or not that was a reasonable request. Looking at the circumstances broadly and plainly, he did not think it was. He thought the arrangement which was said to have been made was so one-sided as to amount to positive injustice, and was so unreasonable as to make it unlikely that the full effect of that clause was apprehended by this lady when she signed the agreement. Accordingly he did not think that it would be a safe proceeding to grant interdict at this stage. He came all the more readily to the conclusion because he had been told by Mr. Campbell that there was now an instant intention of having the rights of parties tried in an action which might be much more carefully and thoroughly considered than in that day's proceedings.

In view of his Lordship's statement, Mr. Campbell then withdrew his application for the interdict, to which the Sheriff remarked that he thought that was the simplest way, as there was a very large question behind it all.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

An immense crowd filled every inch of the auditorium on Monday evening, and lustily joined in the airs they knew comprised in that tuneful overture, "Holiday Echoes," written by Mr. H. Petersen, and swingingly played by the orchestra under his direction. A fine beginning of the stage entertainment was made by Prof. McCann's performing dogs. These intelligent and splendidly-trained bow-wows have been seen here before, and on Monday were received with deafening applause. Mr. Percy Hannan, a young American baritone with an excellent voice, at once made himself popular. The young gentleman has a highly-cultivated vocal organ and an easy and agreeable manner. Much approval attended the efforts of the Eight Stella Girls, whose dancing is most attractive, and their rendering of the "Yankee Doodle Girls" most fetching. Miss Jessie Preston long ago made herself a big favourite with Walthamstow audiences, but it is questionable if the accomplished comedienne ever made a bigger success than she is doing this week. Her first song, "Be advised by your dear old father," is rendered in her best style; but she fairly brings down the house with "I love a laddie," a most amusing reply to Harry Lauder's famous "I love a lassie," which, strange to say, that comedian gave on the same boards only last week. The audience seemed reluctant to let Miss Preston off, and she was recalled at least three times. Our old friends, Brown and Le Clerq, once more keep their admirers in a riot of laughter with wildly funny Black Justice, which seems to go better, if possible, every time it is witnessed. Mr. Ernie Myers is a comedian who, making his first appearance here, at once establishes himself in popular favour. His "Go away" song is brimful of amusing properties. A couple of artists of whom the Palace audience never tire are Clark and Hamilton, and a perfect roar of applause went up when their number was displayed. They are both in excellent form this week, and their acting in their well-known scena shows no deterioration by frequent repetition; it is as artistic and as laughable as ever. The couple afterwards renew our acquaintance with the graceful melody and dainty dancing of "My Yokohama Queen," which possesses the power of perfect pleasing. The merry, bright, and mirth-provoking sketch, The Belle of the Orient, makes a fine wind-up to a good programme. Mr. Joe Peterman repeats his capital impersonation of that amusing Hebrew, Ike Novinski; and is well supported by Messrs. Robert Comber, James Learmouth, Charles Hylton, Joe Beull, and Alex. Chentra—a young actor with a very agreeable singing voice—Miss Dora Langham, and Miss M. Webster. The piece is brightly staged and handsomely dressed, and is received with every mark of satisfaction. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope show some excellent films.

THE great fête organised by Messrs. J. Wells and Son, of London, on Whit-Monday, at the Castle Grounds, Berkhampsted, proved an immense success. It was well organised, a continuous round of amusements running from two o'clock till past ten at night. The selections of the Band of the 2nd Herts V.B. Bedfordshire Regiment, under the direction of Mr. J. Hager, were much appreciated, and to the two variety performances at 3 and 6 o'clock, under the direction of Mr. George Manning, the following performers contributed:—The Two Weimars, on the elevated wire; Charles Grey, in his high pedestal act and hoop manipulating; the Bennetts (Walter and Tom), eccentric dancers and jugglers; Harry Cardoe, the acrobatic marvel; the Franklins, comedy juggling, tumbling, and knockabout artists; also Frank Lane, comedian, whose name did not appear on the programme. A new innovation, and one very popular, was a large enclosed dancing space. Brightly decorated with Venetian masts and flags at dusk, it was illuminated with a canopy and festoons of Chinese lanterns and large powerful limelights, and was quite a feature.

THE Gordons produced a new farcical sketch, written by J. H. Brownson, entitled Feathers to Fly With, on Thursday, at the Empire, Birmingham. The sketch provides fifteen minutes' genuine fun, and should prove a draw. A well-known agent immediately undertook bookings.

MASONS AT WORK.

THE CHELSEA LODGE, No. 3098.

Chelsea Lodge, No. 3098, held its annual meeting on Friday afternoon at Frascati's, Oxford-street, when Mr. Theodore Schreiber (Serpentello) was installed Master for the ensuing year by Mr. Albert Le Fre, who retired from the governorship of the Lodge. The ceremony, which was witnessed by a large gathering of the members and visitors, was most impressively performed by the retiring Master. The Master then appointed and invested his officers, to support him during the forthcoming year, as follows: Mr. G. H. Cobley (Baroni), S.W.; Mr. Walter H. Hitch, J.W.; Rev. H. Heriot Hill, chaplain; Mr. W. S. Lyon, P.M., Treasurer; Mr. C. J. Doughty, secretary; Mr. Harry Bawn, S.D.; Mr. W. F. K. Walton, J.D.; Mr. J. W. Mathews, P.M., D.C.; Mr. Angelo Asher, organist; Mr. G. H. Dyball, I.C.; and Messrs. Clay, Bigny, Sharp, and Lester, stewards; and Mr. J. H. McNaughton, Tyler. At the subsequent banquet, after the usual loyal and Masonic toasts had been duly honoured, Mr. Albert Le Fre, the I.P.M., proposed the health of the worshipful Master, a toast which was rapturously received by all present. Serpentello was received with great cheering. In the course of his reply, he stated that, although, like Othello, he was rude in speech, his heart was in his work, and assured those present that nothing should be wanted on his part to maintain the reputation and usefulness of the lodge. He then retired from the festive board for a short period, during which time Mr. J. W. Mathews occupied the chair, and in proposing the health of the immediate Past Master, took the opportunity of enlightening those assembled on the remarkable growth of the lodge during the short time it had been in existence, showing that it must have been needed by the members of the profession, who had taken advantage of its existence by becoming members, and mentioned that it must be a very proud day for Mr. Lyon, from whose idea the lodge emanated. Amongst statistics, he stated that the lodge had paid away in two years no less a sum than fifty guineas to the Masonic charities, forty odd guineas to its own benevolent fund, and still had a balance, after paying all expenses of every description, of sixty odd pounds. He concluded his remarks by calling upon those present to drink to the health of the I.P.M., wishing him long life and a successful career, and took the opportunity of presenting him with a very massive and handsome silver-gilt cup, emblazoned with the arms of the lodge and suitably inscribed.

Mr. Albert Le Fre expressed his gratitude to the brethren for the handsome cup and jewel which had been presented to him, and assured them that he had only one regret connected with his year of office, and that was that distance had prevented him attending his duties once or twice during the time. The toast of the Visitors was proposed by the W.M., and responded to by the Rev. C. E. I. Wright, P.G.D., Mr. Harry Nicholls, P.G.S.B., and Mr. W. Lestocq, P.M., of the Asaph Lodge. The artists, who appeared under the direction of Messrs. F. Neiman and G. H. Dyball, were Miss Julia Leslie, Miss Linda Dale, Miss Agnes Hansom, Miss Alma Murray, Messrs. Albert Christian, Jimmy Prior, Leo Tell, Tom Mellor, Charles Penrose, E. Leathley, and Miss Viola Russell at the piano. The following members were present: Mr. Albert Le Fre, Mr. T. Schreiber (Serpentello), Mr. G. H. Cobley (Baroni), Rev. H. Heriot Hill, Mr. W. S. Lyon, Mr. C. J. Doughty, Mr. Walter H. Hitch, Mr. Harry Bawn, Mr. A. A. Asher, Mr. G. H. Dyball, Mr. B. A. Bigny, Mr. L. G. Sharpe, Mr. Fred Clay, Mr. James W. Mathews, Mr. J. H. McNaughton, Mr. G. H. Hill, Mr. W. Permané, Mr. T. H. Parker, Mr. Leo Tell, Mr. Fred Neiman, Mr. R. W. Duce, Mr. W. Atlas, Mr. Edwin Brett, Mr. R. E. Wilding, Mr. Frank Hardie, Mr. W. Collinson, Mr. Dan Lipton, Mr. T. S. Burnett, Mr. A. E. Nicklin, Mr. Douglas White, Mr. James Prior, Mr. H. T. Bingham, Mr. Albert Christian, Mr. Hal Chapter, Mr. Fred Farren, Mr. H. K. Ramsden, Mr. Herbert Austin. The visitors were Rev. C. E. L. Wright, P.D.G., Mr. Harry Nicholls, P.G. Std.; Bro. Chas. Cruickshank, A.P.G. Std.; Mr. W. Lestocq, Asaph; J. J. Kern Mozaré, 1929; J. J. Orr, Earl's Court 2765; H. Chenery, Knightsbridge 2978; H. Lindsay, St. Andrew 110; W. H. Wolsey, Kennington 1381; T. Davis, London Welsh 2867; Mr. L. Carson, Savage Club 2190; J. M. Fortune, Sir Walter Raleigh 2432; T. W. Rumble, Caledonian 134; W. H. Goy, Bolingbrook 2417; J. H. Smith, Earl's Court 2765; N. S. Lyon, Joppa 188; G. W. Peachey, Fulham 2512; M. H. McDowell, Skelmersdale 1658.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE PALACE.

Miss Evie Greene, whose delightful personality has for so long lent lustre to the musical-comedy stage, has followed the example of Mr. Hayden Coffin, Miss Marie Tempest, and other theatrical celebrities, and is just now winning immense popularity at the Palace Theatre. From the night in April, 1899, when she appeared at the Lyric as Prince Carlo in L'Amour Mouillé—one of the finest impersonations of manly youth that has been contributed to the London stage since the early days of Nellie Farren—until she showed us the gaucherie of Sans-Gêne in The Duchess of Dantzig, Miss Greene has been the heroine of many histrionic triumphs; and the freedom of her engaging style, her artistic perception, her native wit are all qualities that have contributed thereto. In her new environment she is merely a vocalist, richly gifted, and cultured in the highest degree of a certainty, but without the glamour of a luxurious stage entourage, without the interest imparted by character, dialogue, and plot. And yet how charmingly distinguée she is! How sweet are her renderings of simple songs! And what a pretty brogue she has in "The Ninepenny Fidil," a quaint little ditty, in which she assures her audience that "my father and mother were Irish, and I am Irish, too." To "I think," from the graceful pen of the lady who elects to call herself "Guy d'Hardelot," the actress gives a particularly attractive interpretation; and as a reminiscence of one of her most engaging characters—that of Dolores in Florodora—she introduces "The Queen of the Philippine Islands," written by Mr. Paul Rubens. In this number her mezza voce effects are beautiful. Miss Greene will be singing several of Moore's Irish melodies, not only because she loves them, but because she considers it her duty as an Irish girl. Some of her most prominent numbers in comedy opera and musical play are listed in her vocal répertoire by permission of Mr. George Edwardes. Of "The Ninepenny Fidil," to which we have referred, Miss Greene has tender recollections. It was one of her earliest efforts as a tiny child, when her father, who fostered his daughter's musical tastes, taught her her songs and accompanied her on the flute.

Acrobatism, if it is to be popular nowadays, must be made funny. The Leopolds recognised this truism when they adapted their tumbling activities and somersaulting proclivities to the exigencies of Frivolity. Later came the Craggs, with Laughter Land; and we might quote the Hanlon-Voltas, the Renads, and the Lauris in further support of our argument. Spissel Brothers and Mack, whose original fun is based on acrobatic tricks, have labelled their act Scene in a Café, in which, in its earlier phase, a stage fowl and a collapsible table and various properties, cleverly manipulated, contribute largely to the fun. Then come table feats of great ingenuity, and the comic antics and expression of cool unconcern on the part of the waiter are only equalled by the anxiety and surprise so clearly shown by his companion. We are convulsed by the unexpected in acrobatic tricks of surprising smartness and skill, and it is rare to find such genuine comedy gifts in an acrobatic performance, which, besides eliciting our astonishment, provokes our hearty laughter.

Early in the bill Mr. R. H. Douglass keeps the audience intensely amused by a most interesting and cleverly presented monologue; Miss Daisy Dormer has the quality of indefinable charm in her coon song and dance; and other Palace favourites are Chirgwin, Jack Lorimer, the Dumonds, Miss Margaret Cooper, Mr. Horace Goldin, and Les Trombetta. Mr. Frank and Miss Jen Latona are newcomers to the Palace, and their immediate success testifies to the astuteness of Mr. Alfred Butt in engaging them.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

A well diversified programme is submitted this week for the delectation of the patrons of this hall, and packed and enthusiastic audiences are enjoying to the full the attractive fare provided. Francis, the cannon-ball king, opens the programme and proves himself to be a juggler of more than ordinary ability, a very great deal of humour being extracted from the turn, for which his assistant Alfred is principally responsible. Fielding and Hull, in a medley, make a favourable impression, the lady having a good voice. Lonnen Meadows and Company present what is billed as a farcical tabloid comedy, entitled Kiss Your Father. The plot, which is slight, centres round the assumption of the rôle of a doctor by an Irishman, who is called in to render professional aid to a supposed invalid. The trifle affords Mr. Meadows abundant opportunity of proving his capabilities as a comedian, and he receives adequate support from the Misses Ada Tilley and L. Leslie, and Messrs. F. Fenton, J. Joyce, and W. Dunlop, who all do very well. Miss Ella Retford, a comedienne in both Dutch and coon songs, scores a great success. Her dancing is quite excellent, and three calls were accorded her by an audience anxious for an encore. The Mezzettis, in a comedy act on the triple bars, are responsible for a smart performance. Their business is remarkably skilful, and the comedian of the pair manages to extract a considerable amount of humour during his display. Mark Sheridan is one of the star artists on the bill, and he gives two songs with all his usual success. His second, "The good time coming by and by," affords him abundant opportunity for amusing patter, and his dancing displays all his well-known ability. His success is emphatic and complete. Spry and Austin, in a turn that includes patter, singing, and dancing, are well received. Another item that commands immediate interest is Harry Tate and Company in Motoring. As soon as his number went up it was warmly greeted, and the whole of the mirthful incidents gained their customary accompaniment of hearty laughter. Mr. Tate himself works hard, and with the greatest success, in depicting the trials of the unhappy amateur motorist, and not a little praise is due to the members of his company for their admirable support. Another act that appeals to the audience is De Gracia's Elephants, who, in the course of a lengthy act, prove the patience and skill that has been expended on their tuition, a very cordial welcome being accorded their performance, which fully deserved it. The American Bioscope is, as usual, very entertaining; and Mr. Walter Johnston's fine orchestra are heard to great advantage in a spirited overture. Mr. John Christie, the acting-manager, and Mr. D. Earle Charles, his assistant, are courtesy itself in the discharge of their duties in front of the house.

THE GRANVILLE.

The latest addition to Mr. Harry Cadle's "Casey Court" series of productions is entitled Mick Whittingtun, and is described as "a street urchin's idea of producing a pantomime." Staged here for the first time on Monday, a holiday audience gave the novelty a very cordial welcome, and it has been successfully repeated every evening since. Mrs. Casey (Mr. Bob King) is induced not only to lend the clothes, &c., that will be required in the performance of the "gorjus pantermime," but also to appear as the Good Fairy. The scenery suggests a period in the history of the stage when the various scenes were indicated by written inscriptions, such as, for instance, "This is a castle"; and the "dresses kindly lent by Mrs. Casey from her wardrobe shop," are equally primitive. The part of the hero is played by a youth with legs of abnormal size, but who shows plenty of energy; while the heroine, for the most part, takes a back seat and looks on, only emerging from her obscure position to join in a duet. The famous Cat has its representative, but is a very sedate and silent feline. However, a good deal of fun and frolic is introduced, and in the last scene—supposed to represent the Palace—the usual procession of illustrious personages and the ballet are amusingly burlesqued. The new production serves its purpose of making the audience laugh heartily, and acting as the director of the revels is Mr. Bob King, who, as of yore, makes a comical Mrs. Casey, a very small comedian appearing as Mr. Casey. Some of the youthful company engaged sing well, but a little more dancing might with advantage be introduced.

Doody and Wright, described as the Australian comedy couple, are appearing here with success this week. The male member of the firm, who in appearance and style is not unlike the late Dan Leno, is brisk and humorous, while the lady ably supports him, vivacity being her distinguishing quality. They conclude with a smart dance. A cordial welcome awaits Mr. Joe Elvin and company, who are appearing in that favourite old sketch, Touched. It is sufficient to record that Mr. Elvin is just as funny as ever in the character of Billy Bangem, the new attendant at the asylum, and his encounters with the several patients evoke some of the heartiest merriment heard during the whole evening. All the other characters are in good hands. Mr. G. W. Hunter has a capital budget of songs, and his patter is as amusing as ever; Mr. Arthur Rigby scores with "Things I shall never see again" and another ditty; Miss Flo Somers is a dainty comedienne, and her songs, "The sunshade girl" and "My cherry-blossom," are charmingly rendered; the Royal Sovereign Quartette appear in the guise of sailormen, and their excellent singing of a number of popular sea-songs is greeted with much applause; Rich and Rich are comedians whose cross-talk is very smart and effective; Mr. Harry Champion rattles through his ditties at his usual rapid rate, and with the usual successful results; Mr. Leo Dryden, the well-known actor-vocalist, continues to make a highly favourable impression; the Two Bostons, as the humorous showmen, are most favourably received; Bert Brantford, comedian, is an old favourite; Little Dott Moss, child comedienne, deserves a word of encouragement; and the contributions of Mr. Victor Travers, the new coon, and Miss Grace Langley, comedienne, are also commendable. It is worthy of note that the selection played by the orchestra under the direction of Mr. R. E. Wilding is from that much-discussed comic opera, The Mikado. Mr. William H. Lennon is the capable acting-manager at this hall.

LONDON PAVILION.

Mr. Frank Glenister has "listed" an excellent company for the Whitsuntide holidays, and audiences taxing the capacity of the house have been hearing his artistic corps at its full strength. The names of old favourites loom largely in the bill; but among the new candidates for variety fame we find the dainty Kitty Gordon, a comedienne of supreme distinction—an élégante of the musical comedy stage, who brings with her a cleverly-written number by Ivan Caryll, entitled "Cigarette," which was such a success during the run at the Aldwych Theatre of Nelly Neil, in which Miss Gordon played the part of the adventuress. She imparts to its interpretation considerable fascination and undeniable charm. She is perfectly gowned in evening dress—in a confection far too beautiful for the writer to attempt any description in black and white.

Early in the bill is presented a singing and dancing sketch, entitled Willie Off His Yacht. Willie is apparently a gay sort of a husband, who has uttered vows of a kind to Marie and Jane. They quarrel about getting him tea, and his arrival is a prelude to Marie singing a serenade to the moon. Willie himself puts plenty of expression into a love lilt; and Jane poses very prettily as a Gibson girl. The musical mélange—as it is correctly termed—has been arranged by Stanley Adams, and it is brightly played by Mr. Lionel Vaughan, who has a good voice and an engaging style, Miss Cora Williams, a fascinating soubrette, and Miss Hylda Lyss, who figures to advantage as a Gibson girl. Mr. Austin Boyd and Miss Trixy Gilfain appear to advantage in a duo, in which the gift of humour and considerable musical talent are exhibited. It is entitled Sunny Spain, and possessing as it does all the gaiety and sparkle suggested by the title, it should prove a most successful number everywhere. A genuine hit is made by Vesta and Minnie Pine, who appear in an amusing duologue between a slavey and a smart parlourmaid. Each gives off sentences from a story, and the "interruptions," if we may call them so, are fitted in with a good deal of humour. The young people, who evidently possess the hereditary gift of comedy, make a genuine hit. They are the daughters of the popular couple, Bob and Jennie Leonard. The Glenroy troupe of dancers put much neat and clever work into their scena, The Lads of the New Brigade, bearing themselves smartly in a number of evolutions, and delighting everyone by their Highland and Hibernian dances. Mr. George Mozart is still here with his absurdity, "The Mudlark Village Band"; Rich and Rich give the audience a hilarious time by their cross-talk and patter; Mr. Malcolm Scott's observations as "the woman who knows" betray a considerable sense of humour; Mr. T. E. Dunville bravely risks the wrath of the Home Secretary by his "policeman" song; Miss José Collins, the pretty daughter of Lottie Collins, renews the very favourable impression she created on her début at this house; Miss May Rawlinson sings "Daddie" with no little charm; and other turns in the bill are Arthur Aldridge, Seldoms' Venus, Whit Cunliffe, the Four Regals, Pasquali Brothers, Miss Alice Lawton, Mr. Tom Leamore, and Miss Florence Somers.

THE BEDFORD.

Mr. B. Pearce Lucas has provided a capital programme for the holiday week, and he is being well repaid for his efforts, for this comfortable and well-managed hall of amusement is being filled to the utmost twice nightly. One of the leading attractions is a romantic and sensational episode, entitled The Knights of Hampstead Heath, which title of course adds to the interest in the neighbourhood of Camden Town. It is a very exciting little play told in three scenes, and the story is of some highwaymen who endeavour to rob a young bridegroom, but their scheme is thwarted by the bride, who dons male attire and secures the freedom of her husband and the capture of the robbers. Mr. G. M. Marriott and Mr. F. Conyers acquit themselves well as the highwaymen; while Mr. Eardley Howard is good as the bridegroom. As the young bride, Miss Edith Finlay is most successful, and when she masquerades as a man she plays in capital style; and the scene in which she holds up the knights of the heath with their own weapons is excellently played, and there is a deal of humour in the situation. The play is well received, and those appearing in it receive a flattering reception. Among the comedians, Mr. Jack Lorrimer undoubtedly stands out most prominently. He is a Scotch comedian with a distinctive style of his own, and his methods are not so slow as some we have seen in that line, which is a great advantage. He has two very catchy songs, while he finishes up with a very quaint dance which brings down the house, and the audience are loth to part with him. That very popular favourite, Miss Katie Laurence, is here this week, and, as usual, she is well supplied with songs which have catchy chorus refrains that are soon taken up. Her first, entitled "Arthur," is a decidedly fetching song, while her second contribution is in a more serious vein, but is none the less successful. Luis Hardt, billed as the Boy Samson, gives a wonderfully clever exhibition of muscular development, while his feat of lifting five men caused great enthusiasm. Mr. R. C. Matthews and Miss Maggie Byron appear in a very amusing sketch, The Honeymoon Baby, which causes screams of laughter. Mr. Harry Walker is a comedian of much merit, and makes a hit with his clever and amusing patter. Some clever and very neat acrobatic dancing is provided by a quartette of charming young ladies called Les Belles Americaines, who are also very well received for their song, "My Little Esquimaux." Rene Ring is a smart comedienne; and Casselli is a first-class musician who is a master of the banjo, which he handles with great dexterity, and his playing of the overture to Suppe's "Poet and Peasant" was greatly appreciated. An eccentric acrobatic turn is that given by the Brothers Smarte. The Two Bees—Harry and Flora Blake—also hold a good position on the bill, and appear in a new scena, entitled The Man in the Moon, which serves as an opening for Harry Blake to work off endless topical jokes which are most amusing, and he keeps his hearers in a perpetual state of hilarity, for his witticisms are quite up to date and to the point. The programme is brought to a conclusion by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, which, as ever, is up to date. During the evening the orchestra do splendid service under the bâton of Mr. G. R. Hatley, the musical director. Mr. A. F. Lovesey is ever to the fore in discharging his duties as manager, and is indefatigable in his endeavours to look after the comfort of his patrons and the welfare of this deservedly-popular resort.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

THE MIDDLESEX.

The race for popularity is well run this week at Mr. J. L. Graydon's prosperous hall in Drury-lane, and no small share of the laurels are taken by the Daunton-Shaw Troupe, whose daring exploits on the bicycle elicit enthusiastic cheers. One intrepid rider is able to bestride two machines at once, and afterwards he is seen mounted on a huge unicycle some 10ft. in height, which he propels rapidly round the stage. The feats on the wheel include the changing from saddle to saddle by a couple of riders, and the various tricks, which are shared by a trio of prepossessing young ladies, are lavishly applauded. Miss Sable Fern is heartily greeted when she appears in a scarlet suit to sing a series of topical rhymes, which bid the hearer to "read between the lines," and her tuneful voice is also heard in an "Echo of an old, old tale," a ballad of sentiment which rings true. The titles of two popular West-End successes furnish Mr. Leo Dryden with the bases for a couple of effective songs. The first relates to "His House in Order," and has up-to-date references, which the vocalist renders in striking style. A still greater impression is exercised by Mr. Dryden's appearance as "The Prodigal Son," which opens with a recitative. Acting as well as singing are required for the proper rendering of the selection, and the cheers that greet the song are thoroughly deserved.

The progress of Claude Ginnett's Remounts is followed by loud peals of laughter, and a hilarious time is also passed in the company of Coram, the exceptionally clever ventriloquist, who is able to make his lay figure smoke and shed tears during their droll interview. Mirth also arises in abundance during the presence of Dale and O'Malley, who have developed the art of cross-talk to its most diverting limits. The comedy man has an ingenious smile which is irresistible, and the dignity, so frequently outraged, of the "straight" performer, is artistically assumed. Dale and O'Malley enjoy a vast amount of popularity. Miss Rose Harvey sings the praises of "Ballooning" in fascinating style, and is the centre of admiration; Nat Watkins's droll methods in dancing and delivery exert a comic influence; and Mr. Ted Saunders mimics popular artists with cleverness, Mr. George Lashwood, in his "Key" song, being presented with great fidelity.

Pictures on the New Bioscope hold the audience engrossed; Tennis and Laune have an interesting vocal scena in "Chapters from life"; Nathella's pot-pourri act includes the lifting of heavy weights with his hair; and the programme, which numbers Mr. Percy Johnson and Mr. Harry Willats, comedians, Cliff and Kean, comedy artists, Frank and Free, diverting duettists, and Queenie Dell, comedienne, is brought to an exciting conclusion by the sketch, played by Miss Jane Moore and company, entitled White Slavery, the feature of which is a fight between a man and woman, in the course of which the combatants roll from top to bottom of a staircase.

EALING HIPPODROME.

Mr. George Mozart and a wintry Whitsuntide formed a dual-alliance on Monday evening to attract a huge holiday crowd to the beautiful house over which Mr. E. W. James so ably presides. Mr. Mozart's melodrama, with five hundred supers, is one of those "side-splitters" which he knows so well how to exploit. With the aid of a hat, a beer-can, and a policeman's helmet, he is in possession of all the "properties" he needs to make his scena a triumph of fooling. The "20th Century Comedy Cycling Act" of the Three Merrills proves the clever performers to be not only wonderful wheelmen, but also marvellous and fearless acrobats. The humour of the turn is also agreeably apparent. Clifton and Gibson's cross-talk is of the merriest, and the quaint couple keep the house in a continuous roar of laughter. A happy notion of the well-associated pair is the introduction of a short seance, à la Zanczig. From gay to grave is but a step, and Mr. Tom Lloyd in his "Gravedigger" takes it. Both in his first number and in his second, "When wintry winds blow," the artist contrives to mingle more than a grain of pathos with his humour, and he is successful in obtaining a flattering reception.

Rauschle, in his character impersonations of the great men of history is most happy, and his realisation of Mr. John Burns is startlingly lifelike. Brett and Orford have a sparkling vaudeville in their scena, The Love Birds. Princess Pauline, winsome of figure and exquisitely costumed, trills melodiously of "Alice, where art thou going?"; while in her second number, "The Union Jack," her appeal for love for the old flag is irresistible, and a triple outburst of cheering salutes the "Jack" as it is lowered upon the stage. Miss Ida Brophy, comedienne and dancer, is fortunate in the possession of two popular numbers, "When father was out of work" and "I wish I were you"; she is, besides, a remarkably expert quick-step dancer. The Imperial Bioscope presents a most attractive film, entitled "Moving Day." Mr. E. W. James and his invaluable "aide," Mr. Westcott Hicks, have their hands full this week in marshalling the holiday crowds.

"MY BRACES."

A farcical comedy sketch by Leonard Robson, produced at the Hastings Hippodrome on Monday, May 20, 1907.

Geoffrey Canning ..... MR. LEONARD ROBSON
Edwards (butler) ..... MR. ALEC CRICHTON
Mrs. Canning ..... MISS EILEEN CONCANON

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This is a light-hearted trifle, but it serves to show the good dramatic abilities of Mr. Leonard Robson, the author, the intelligent acting of Mr. Alec Crichton and the sweet artistic gifts of Miss Eileen Concanon. The curtain rises upon a pretty drawing room, where the young and fond wife is anxiously awaiting the return of her husband, who has been away three days on a visit to an aunt in Somersetshire. In the meantime a parcel arrives, and is brought in by the manservant. Her womanly curiosity is aroused, and still more excited by the servant directing her attention to something which is seen from the torn corner. Their interest and inquisitiveness is arrested by a letter for her husband from the Bristol Hotel, Paris. Burning with curiosity, she opens it. It refers to the contents of the little package, a pair of braces, which had been left by her husband during a few days' stay at the hotel. Mrs. Canning, expecting he had been to see the aunt, feels somewhat upset, and treats him on his return with coldness and disdain. There is a great deal of prevarication on his part in his attempt to prevent her gaining knowledge as to his visit to Paris. She is apparently appeased, and requests him to change his coat and don his dressing gown and slippers. By the assistance of the butler and his wife he is reluctantly compelled to divest himself of his coat. Upon his wife's inquiry as to his braces (a birthday gift from her) he affirms that he left them at Aunt Margaret's. After a time the mystery is cleared up. He explains that just on the point of starting for Somersetshire his firm wished him to go to Paris on important business. His wife is angry, will not be pacified, and declares her intention of returning to her mother. At this moment a letter arrives from his firm enclosing a cheque for a considerable sum, with thanks for the ability he had just displayed in transacting their business in Paris

A MOST successful entente cordiale concours musical has been held in Jersey this week. Fifty-six French bands took part in the contests, and the visitors, who numbered about 4000 persons, had a most enjoyable time. The hotels were naturally packed, the principal French one putting up 500. On Monday evening there was a battle of confetti, and on Tuesday night a military tattoo with a torch-light procession.

"AN ACTOR'S ART."

A Sketch, by J. L. Shine, presented at the Euston Theatre of Varieties on Wednesday, May 22.

J. L. Shine (an actor) ..... BY HIMSELF
A Lancashire Farmer ...
Gerald Guinness .....
An Irish Apple-woman .
A Scots Elder .....
George Grant .....
A Coster ..... } MR. J. L. SHINE
Gerald Guinness ..... MR. RICHARD PURDON
George Grant ..... MR. J. F. SHINE
M. Gustave ..... MR. ERIC ALBURY
Mary Russell ..... MISS BLANCHE COLMER

Mr. J. L. Shine's amusing sketch is rightly named, for in it we realise what a wonderful thing an actor's art really is, and by it, too, we realise Mr. Shine's transcendental versatility. The story the playlet tells may be briefly recapitulated. J. L. Shine, the actor, visits two old schoolfellows, Gerald Guinness (a solicitor and an Irishman) and George Grant (a barrister and a Scotsman), who have started an inquiry office in the Strand. They are not, perhaps, as successful as they anticipated, and in one case they have in hand it is found that their own detective, who has risen from the rank of police-constable, has not the ability to effectually disguise himself for the keen intelligence necessary to the successful handling of delicate matters such as private inquiry men are so often called upon to deal with. The actor urges all these considerations upon the minds of Messrs. Guinness and Grant, and points out that in so far as the disguises and the simulation of different characters are concerned the work could be best done by an actor. Very daringly he offers to back up his assertion by undertaking to lose £500 if he does not call upon them that very day and they fail to recognise him. The offer is accepted, and Shine leaves them. A few seconds elapse, and there enters the inquiry office a sturdy Lancashire farmer, who desires that a search shall be made for his daughter, who has run away with a parson. He is prepared to spend any sum of money for the purpose of tracing the fair delinquent, and pays £50 on account. He goes, and Gerald Guinness temporarily leaves the office to make a call on the telephone. But Guinness, seemingly, and to the surprise of his partner, returns almost immediately with the tale that he has settled everything satisfactorily. Exit Guinness, but re-enter Guinness with a story which is sadly at variance with that just told. His telephone inquiry has proved unsuccessful, and his Scottish partner is not unnaturally annoyed at the contradistinctive statements. In fact, this shocking inconsistency gives rise to what is commonly known as a row, and when a Scotsman and an Irishman have a row the turmoil is generally sufficient to abash even a loud-lunged bull of Bashan. The contretemps is—excuse the paradox—momentarily disturbed by the appearance of a voluble old Irish apple-woman, who has come upon an absurd quest. They have hardly got rid of her than in there steps an elder of the kirk. His parishioners have entrusted him with some money for a scheme in connection with the church, and he now contemplates going away to "furrin parts"—with the cash, of course. Some of his trusting flock have been so abominably uncomplimentary to their meenister as to publicly evince anxiety as to what has become of their donations. That would not matter so much were it not for the unhappy fact that a few of the "sheep" had been so absurdly cautious as to cross their cheques, and on this head a touching appeal is made to Grant. Will a brither Scot come to the aid of the elder by cashing the cheques? Exit elder unceremoniously. Exit George Grant. Enter "George Grant." More complications. Reverse stage directions. Partners together. Enter coster. Blimey, he can tell them how they have been duped. A pal of his does jobs for M. Gustave, the costumier, and Shine, the bloomin' hactor, has bin made up by the pal's guv'nor. 'Arf a quid's dirt cheap for the information. Exit coster. Enter M. Gustave. No "hank" this time. The partners are up to the dodge. It is Shine, the actor! M. Gustave is indignant. Is this the way foreigners are treated in perfidious Albion? Enter Shine, the actor, to the astonishment of Messrs. Grant and Guinness, who admit the clever deceptions of the actor's art.

Even the audience is for a time completely "taken in" by Mr. J. L. Shine's varied impersonations of the seven different characters. The changes in dress and make-up are effected with surprising rapidity. Mr. Shine seems to have at command unusual talents in the direction of voice dissimulation, for he speaks the Lancashire, Scottish, and coster dialects and Irish brogue with the greatest ease and fluency. It is a series of impersonations we shall be most happy to see again. Mr. Richard Purdon, a sound and experienced actor, enacts the rôle of the real Gerald Guinness with all the necessary Irish touch and it is a capital piece of work, as is also the George Grant of Mr. J. F. Shine. Miss Blanche Colmer gives a pleasing study of the part of Mary Russell, and Mr. Eric Albury enters into the spirit of the part of Gustave.

EAST HAM PALACE.

The Paragon Trio have the honour of starting the entertainment. Their singing is greatly admired, especially their excellent rendering of the Soldiers' Chorus from Faust, which resulted in the clever trio receiving a well-earned round of applause. Miss May Marton, a dainty comedienne, who possesses a pleasing figure and an admirable voice, which she knows how to use, has a very good number in "You never know," following which she sings in a most pleasing and effective style the popular song, "I want no other little girl but you," the chorus of which the audience take up with great gusto. W. Purvis and Co. present a pleasing trifle in Cauliflower Joe. As there are no names given on the programme, no special mention can be made, but all work well together, with the result that the house is kept in a very merry mood. Little Tich's first number, "He's only just found it out," in which there is much funny business, keeps the house in a merry mood. His second number, "The park-keeper," wins even greater applause, so much so that he gave yet another, in which, appearing in flowing draperies, he sang of the vagaries of a sweetheart, who had been "in the sun." Miss Lily Shaplin gives us some capital imitations of popular music-hall artists, of which her best is without a doubt that of Miss Vesta Victoria, in her famous song, "Waiting at the church." The Sisters Reno greatly enhance their reputation with their very clever Continental dances and high kicking.

Gus Hindell receives his full share of the honours of the evening, his first number, "Dear old pals," being a capital song, and sung with that feeling which fetches the audience from the start. His second item is an amusing monologue, in which some very clever imitations are given. Dudman Bromwich and Co. find a place in the bill with a very powerful sketch, entitled In Old Madrid. Owing to the fact that no cast is given, personal praise must be lacking. However, all worked hard, and gained the unstinted plaudits of a very satisfied audience. Ruffell's Bioscope brings the entertainment to a close, with some very clear and instructive pictures, depicting the French Army airship, "La Petrie." Mr. W. S. Bassett continues to conduct an orchestra which performs its duties admirably. A special word of thanks is justly due to Mr. Albert E. Hill for his kind, untiring efforts for the benefit for those friends in front, whilst the ever-increasing number of patrons is the best and strongest proof of the popularity of both Mr. Arthur J. Barclay and the East Ham Palace.

FUNERAL OF MR. ADNEY PAYNE.

The simple dignity of the Church of England burial service was never more touchingly or beautifully expressed than at the obsequies of Mr. George Adney Payne, whose tragic death last week sent a thrill of sorrow through the music hall world, both before and behind the footlights; and the universal esteem in which the deceased director was held was strikingly illustrated by the crowded state on Saturday morning of Christ Church, Woburn-square, where the first part of the service was conducted by the vicar, the Rev. Prebendary Glendinning Nash. While the congregation was waiting for the coming of the casket, the organist played one of Mendelssohn's most plaintive lieder, following it with a beautiful rendering of that most affecting sacred solo by the same composer, "O, rest in the Lord," from Elijah. After the opening sentences and prayers, "Thy will be done" was sung by the choir, and at the conclusion of the prayers came the well-known hymn, "Now the labourer's task is o'er," very sweetly rendered by the boys. While the casket was being borne from the centre aisle, the solemn harmonies of Handel's "Dead March" in Saul rang through the church. Outside the sacred building, a reverent crowd of sympathisers gazed with admiration at the immense number of floral trophies of rare beauty, which filled the first five carriages preceding the hearse (itself filled with lovely blooms), in its progress through the northern suburbs of Highgate and Muswell Hill, to St. Pancras Cemetery, East Finchley.

The service at Christ Church was attended by Mrs. Adney Payne (widow), Mrs. Walter Gibbons (daughter), Mrs. Jewell (daughter), and Miss Ida Payne. Immediately following the casket as it was taken up the aisle were Mr. Walter Payne (the deceased's only son), Mr. Walter Gibbons (his son-in-law), Mr. Tebbutt (his brother-in-law), and Mr. Henri Gros (his fellow managing-director). These, besides the ladies mentioned and Mr. Horace Marriott, the deceased gentleman's brother-in-law, were the chief mourners. The deceased gentleman's associates on the directorate of the Syndicate and the Variety Theatres Consolidated were represented by Messrs. Henry Tozer, Henry Sutton, H. H. Wells, and Joseph Davis. Among others who were in the sacred building were Messrs. Horace Marriott, St. John Brenon, Willie Clarkson, Major Spencer Tyler, Oswald C. Wylson, J. A. Harrison (representing the Eccentric Club), E. A. Pickering, Ben Nathan, Hugh J. Didcott, Philip J. Rutland, J.P., John Hart, W. J. Grimes, B. P. Lucas, Harry Day, George Ridout, J. L. Graydon, Nelson Francis, Laurie Graydon, Paul Martinetti, Harry Masters, Tom Claxton, Fred Miller, Charles Beecham, Joe O'Gorman, Fred McAvoy, W. D. Courtney (Westminster City Council), Leon Zeitlin, Jack Somers, D. M. Trytel, William Law.

Round the grave listening to the impressive committal sentences were a large number of those who had attended the church. In addition were Messrs. W. H. Burney (of the L.C.C. halls), T. S. Dickie (Standard, Pimlico), J. C. Coe (Hammersmith Palace), George Scott (Alhambra), Joseph Wilson (Tivoli), Hugh Astley (London Pavilion), Charles Blyth-Pratt (the Oxford), Charles Relf, Henry Hart (late of Raglan and Bedford Music Halls), Tom Shaw, Fred Higham, Harry Bawn, H. W. Wieland, George Mozart, Louis Reeder, Angelo Asher, Harry Fragson, Arthur J. Barclay, Mackett (Herne Bay), W. F. Brushfield, Charles Chapman, Tom Pacey (representing the Music Hall Benevolent Fund), and H. A. Wilkes. The Rats were represented by Messrs. Paul and Alfred Martinetti, James Allison, Lee, and J. W. Cragg; the Variety Artists' Federation by Messrs. Frank Gerald, Joe O'Gorman, Wal Pink, and W. H. Clemart; the Terriers by Messrs. C. Russell and T. E. Cliffe; and the International Artists League by Messrs. Schafer and Max Rose. Prominent in the congregation and at the graveside were the scarlet uniforms of four members of the Herts Yeomanry, with which the deceased gentleman was connected for seventeen years. They were Quarter-Master Buck, Sergeant Sanderson (A Troop), and Sergeants Scott and Reed (B troop).

Mr. George Adney Payne's remains were laid to rest in a large grave, where repose his first wife, who died on Aug. 17, 1897, aged forty-seven; his two infant children, who died in 1882 and 1883, aged two and five respectively; and his grandchild, Ida Mary Gibbons, who was born on May 7, 1903, and died on Dec. 30, 1904. Taken with the present year, the frequency of the figure seven, in dates, perhaps attracts the attention as coincidence. At the head of the grave stands a handsome red granite monument, about 10ft. in height from the level of the soil to the summit of the cross, and the red granite border bears the inscription:—"The family grave of George Adney Payne, of Forest Lodge, Tulse-hill, and St. Malo, Herne Bay."

Among the floral offerings was a lovely cross of scarlet geraniums with a centre cross of blue violas, sent by Mr. Payne's co-directors, together with crosses from the Entertainments Protection Association (of which the deceased was vice president), and from Mr. Walter Gibbons, whose beautiful floral trophy, over six feet in length, was composed of cattleya and odontoglossum orchids and lily of the valley. It came from the well-known Phil Garcia, of Central-avenue, Covent Garden, a personal friend of the deceased. Mrs. Payne's tribute was in the form of a bleeding heart, the card attached bearing the words, "From his sorrowful wife, Ethel." The Variety Artists' Federation sent a floral harp, actual size; and noticeable for its remarkable beauty was a pillow of orchids from Mr. Walter Payne. Miss Ida Payne sent a harp of cattleya and odontoglossum with forget-me-not strings. Wreaths were sent by Messrs. Bass, Ratcliffe, and Gretton (Ltd.), Mr. Henri Gros, Mr. H. Wells, Mrs. Payne, Mrs. Jewell, Mrs. Walter Gibbons, Miss Payne, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Marriott and Miss Marriott, Mr. and Mrs. Wal Pink, Mr. and Mrs. Tich, Marie, Alice, and Rosie Lloyd severally, Tom Dunville, Oswald Stoll, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tozer, Sir Edward and Lady Moss, Mr. and Mrs. H. Sutton, Alec Hurley, the M'Naughtons, Tom Granville, Phil Ray, Harry Lauder, W. H. Clemart, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Martinetti, Joe O'Gorman, Harry Fragson, Carl Hertz, Arthur Roberts, Joe Elvin, George Robey, Ernest Edelsten, Tom Shaw, John Tiller, Will Evans, Maud Courtney, the Alhambra, the Oxford, the Metropolitan, the London Pavilion, the Canterbury, the Chelsea Palace, Tivoli, the Newcastle-on-Tyne Pavilion, Palace Theatre directors, Eccentric Club, Boys' Club, Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, Chelsea Palace, Grand, Clapham, the South London, Holborn Empire, Paragon, Variety Agents' Association, East Ham Palace, Ealing Hippodrome, Walthamstow Palace, Grand Order of Water Rats, The Era staff, Birmingham Gaiety, Stratford Empire, the Euston, the Herts Yeomanry, the Palace Theatre directors, and others. The Rev. Prebendary Glendinning Nash conducted the proceedings at the grave.

MISS FLORRIE BRAY, the singer of chorus songs, has in preparation a new song, entitled "Poor man," which has been especially written for her. This number is likely to excel her great chorus song, "Mary on the pier at Blackpool," which was written for her by Messrs. Keith and Merson.

MR. B. KENNEDY, of Ediscope and Barnum's Pictures, is running a short variety season twice nightly, at the Empire, Doncaster, on June 24.

Fairs Ahead.

THE fairs ahead for the remainder of the present month are Bidford-on-Avon on the East and West Junction; Ossett on the Great Northern; Crowle on the Great Central; Hounslow on the London and South-Western; Millom on the Furness; Pool on the Great Western; Southwold on the Great Eastern; Bridgenorth on the Great Western; Beeston on the Midland and Great Northern; Fiskerton on the Midland; Ironbridge on the Great Western; Thorpe (Surrey) on the London and South-Western; Alston (Cumbs.) on the North-Eastern; Ely on the Great Eastern; Airdrie on the North British and Caledonian; Berwick-on-Tweed on the North British; Messingham on the Great Central; Penzance on the Great Western Railway.

York Whitsuntide Fair.

ASPLAND'S new bioscope show is a great feature here. The splendid front and grand organ are a theme of general admiration; whilst the interior puts many of our local halls into the shade. The same firm's motors, Shipley's horses, Fisher's swing-boats, and a host of minor attractions have drawn together large numbers of holiday-makers.

Redruth Fair.

IN glorious weather the annual Whitsuntide pleasure fair was held at Redruth on Saturday and Whit-Monday, thousands of people visiting the show grounds and enjoying the bill of fare provided. In the fair meadow stood Anderton's and Rowling's exhibition of pictures, gondolas, Brewer's horses, stalls, &c.; whilst in Moore's fields were Hancock's pictures, hobby horses, motor-cars, helter-skelter, Lawrence's marionettes, fat lady, boxing saloons, with the usual number of swings, shies, stalls, &c. R. Fossett's circus occupied the recreation ground, and gave two performances to large audiences, the horsemanship giving especial satisfaction.

Carlisle Hirings.

THIS Whitsuntide fair had many show novelties for its crowds of eager patrons. Amongst the attractions were Manders's waxwork exhibition, A. Biddall's cinématograph, Prof. Ruby's occult mysteries, Westray's freak exhibits, Bounds's novelty show, and Prof. Wood's athletes and boxers. The riding machines were James Wilmot's racing motors, Relph and Pedley's wheeling the whirl, J. Wingate's air ship, T. Day's steam horses and big boats, M. Mitchell's steam roundabouts and big boats, and similar concerns by Palmer, Biddall, Keys, Broughton, and J. Wilmot. The shooting novelties, always a big attraction at this fair, included the well-known concerns of Messrs. Strand, Black, Dawson, M. Mitchell, J. Day, J. Hughes, A. Palmer, S. Biddall, W. Slater, and A. Broughton. A great aggregation of throwing games and varieties were provided by Messrs. J. Macintosh, W. Strand, G. Black, Foster, Gibson, Dandy, Slater, Irvin and Sons, Palmer Bros., and other caterers. The weather was good, and everyone did good business.

Maryport Hirings.

THE exhibitions and machines at this fair included the cinématograph shows of Messrs. Relph and Pedley, Cotterell, and S. Biddall, and the riding machines of Messrs. Cariss, Relph and Pedley, and Cross; Lawrence's shooting concerns, and minor amusements by various caterers.

Cockermouth Fair.

THIS Cumberland hiring fair had for its entertainment Cotterell's cinématograph theatre, Relph and Pedley's Coliseum, Prof. Ruby's X-ray exhibition, and side shows by Biddall, Collens, and Ruby; Relph and Pedley's motor cars and wheeling the whirl, Cariss's switchback, Keys' roundabout, Cross's steam horses, and park swings by Cross and Lowther; shooting saloons by Irvin, Lawrence, Slater Bros., Merritt, Morris, and Leavson.

Penrith Fair.

A MORE than usually attractive crowd of fairground novelties were at this fair, and included George Biddall's cinématograph theatre, Wilmot's motor cars, Day's steam horses, Broughton's big boats, and park swings by Sam Biddall and Mrs. Palmer; Winchester ranges and rifle saloons by Day, Hughes, Broughton, and Biddall; Emma sheets, cokers, and roll-up boards by Hiscoe, Macintosh, Broughton, the Palmer Family, Ganzy, and Kelly; striking machines by Messrs. Palmer and Day Bros.

Kirkby Stephen.

THIS fair was well maintained by Manders, with cinématograph theatre and novelty booth; Carr, with steam horses; George Newsome, with bottle smasher, park swings, and coker sheets; Tim Newsome, with swings and Emma sheets.

Wigtown Hiring Fair.

AT this Cumberland fixture were Manders's waxwork exhibition, Mitchell's steam horses and swings, and Black's varieties and fair-ground amusements.

Cleethorpes Fair.

FOR the Whitsuntide crowds at Cleethorpes splendid entertainment was provided upon the fair-ground by Tuby and Sons' Coliseum and Henderson's cinématograph theatre, Squire's fine art exhibition, Dowey's whale show, the Cleethorpes Co., Ltd., switchback, Beel's bicycle track, Lock's steam horses and high-fliers, Warwick's slipping the slip, and juvenile horses by Taylor and Wilkes; park swings and variety games by Barwick, Winchester range by Westley, throwing games and varieties by Willis, Hawkley, Cooke, Simpson, Webb, Clayton, and Levi.

Caistor Fair.

THE local showmen, Messrs. Smith and Warren, and with them Mr. W. Duck, provided the fair-ground novelties of this Lincolnshire fair. These included galloping horses, Winchester range, rifle saloons, Emma sheets, and roll-up boards.

City of Coventry.

THIS ancient fair is now carried out under most up-to-date and modern conditions by the City Corporation, the fair-ground being set out in splendid style by the courteous superintendent of fairs, Mr. A. E. Stuart. Chief amongst the shows and machine novelties were Manders's menagerie, H. Thurston and Sons' cinématograph theatre, S. Braham's performing birds and Miss Braham in feats of magic mirth and mystery; P. Collins, with three first-class machines—motor cars, steam yachts, and big boats; H. Thurston and Sons, with gallopers; A. Twigdon, with switchback and motors; and steam horse sets by Messrs. Lowe, Neal, and Ford; swings by J. Lowe; shooting concerns by Parkin, Ford, Lowe, Shaw, Neal, and H. Parkin; variety games, Emma sheets, stalls, &c., by Messrs. W. Houldsworth, Campfield, Walser, Lowe, Parkin, Powell Bros., and other caterers.

Dorking Fair.

QUITE a representative crowd of Metropolitan showmen attended this fair, the principal show being Biddall's Royal bioscope; and the minor exhibitions were Hussey's boxing booth, novelty show, and Biddall's side show. The machine list included T. Harniess's switchback gondolas, W. Wilson's Venetian gondolas, C. Odam's steam horse set, and the juvenile roundabouts of Messrs. Pickard, Skelton, Laing, and Wilson, with park swings by W. Stenning, Winchester ranges and rifle saloons by Matthews and Odam, and throwing games and varieties by Ayrs, W. Davies, Stenning, Knighton, and Marney.

Looe (Cornwall).

THIS fair, under the control of Messrs. Hancock (Plymouth), had for its entertainers Hancock's cinématograph company, their well-known up-to-date machines, and crowd of minor varieties and side shows.

Birmingham Fair.

THE Rev. T. Horne, organiser and chaplain of the Showmen's Guild, will address two meetings at Birmingham Fair on Sunday next, the first meeting at 3.30 in the afternoon, and the second at 8 o'clock. Both gatherings will take place in Collins's Coliseum, on the fair-ground.

Clun (Shropshire).

THE chief attraction at this fair was R. Fossett's circus. The other show novelties were Charles Farrell's two sets of galloping horses, and one set each of big boats and swings. The rifle saloons, bottle smashers, and minor novelties were provided by Messrs. Wright, Turner, and Farrell.

President Kemp.

OWING to the success of last week the above well-known showman, who is deservedly held in great respect at Leicester, of which town he is a native, is staying over Wednesday in Whit-week. The entertainment provided at the Temperance Hall has received unstinted praise, consisting of the chronomegaphone (Gaumont's patent) singing and talking machine, and a really first-class series of humorous, dramatic, and coloured pictures, which are lucidly displayed by the proprietor. The Excelsior Prize Band also give selections.

Llanelly Fair.

AT the Llanelly fair-field, Messrs. Studt are still holding high revels, and Mr. Wm. Haggar with his magnificent bioscope show is doing well. Without the slightest doubt, Mr. Haggar's show is the very finest of its kind travelling Wales. The veteran proprietor is backed up in keeping the show right in front by his energetic sons and daughters, to say nothing of his good wife, who is always hard at work raking in the shekels.

Todmorden.

LORD JOHN SANGER AND SONS' Hippodrome company gave two fine performances here last Thursday in the Holme Field. The representation of Dick Turpin's Ride to York was most realistic, every detail having been carefully thought out. A unique feature of the show was Cyclo, the modern Hercules, who with the greatest ease bore the weight of a heavy motor-car, which he allowed to ride over him whilst stretched at full length on the floor of the ring.

Mansfield Whitsun Holidays.

ON Whit Monday in the Mansfield Market-place Messrs. Hazard, with swing-boats, and Bishop, with rifle saloon, catered for the crowds of outsiders who came to the Mansfield Agricultural Show. A good business was done.

Longton Borough Fête.

THE annual Borough Fêtes were held in the Queen's Park, Longton, on Whit Monday and Tuesday, nearly 80,000 people attending. The programme included the Japanese Ando troupe of acrobats in their sensational performance; Mr. Percy Victor's exceedingly clever dog minstrels; the Lizzette troupe of lady acrobats, in a charming turn; the Seddons, grotesque jugglers, who caused great laughter with their funniosities; Miss Elsie Rubina showed wonderful agility as a wire-dancer; the Swift trio of cyclists were attractive; La Belle Lily and Albert gave a finished performance on the aerial trapeze; and the Leros, the Sefton Bros., and the Wambas also ably contributed to the programme. Messrs. W. and J. Wilder, of Birmingham, the well-known pyrotechnists, provided the magnificent display of fireworks, which included many attractive novelties, notably "The Avalanche of Snow," which had a most beautiful and dazzling effect, "The Grove of Silver Palms," the amusing cock fight, and the concluding devices of the Russian bombardment and the eruption of Mount Etna. The daylight fireworks were productive of great amusement and many scrambles for the prizes dropped from the skies.

Lichfield Greenhill Bower

was celebrated on Whit-Monday with the usual old-day honours. Fortunately, the day, although cold, was fine, consequently the attendance was very large. The Old English fair element was catered for by Mr. C. Farrell, Mrs. Shepherd, Mrs. Weir, and others. The Bower procession was on a very elaborate scale, containing excellent military bands, tableaux, trades and civic items, Court of Array, including the men in armour, and a very picturesque presentation of the visit of Queen Elizabeth to the ancient city of Lichfield. The management are to be congratulated on a very successful festival.

York Whitsun Fair.

THE great event of this fair was the magnificent cinématograph theatre of Aspland Howden, the very last and greatest thing in grand organ-front, and the most up-to-date display of films. Ben Howden and Sons' (Aspland's) motor switchback also headed the list of machines, the other machine novelties being roundabout sets by Shipley, Warrington, small over-boats by Culine, and park swings by Fisher and Sons. Shooting concerns, football frames, varieties and throwing games, were provided by Gallaghar, Fisher, Watcon, Kelly, Baynes, Coline, Mrs. Johnson, and local caterers.

Whitsun Holidays at Middlesbrough.

THE amusement on the market ground was provided by Mr. A. Crow, who exhibited cinématograph theatre, galloping horses, and rifle saloons. Big boats were provided by Turton; swings and high-fliers by Rich and Twilley; Winchester ranges, rifle galleries, bottle batteries, throwing games, and varieties by Messrs. H. O'Brien, Harker, Twilley, Barugh, Watkins, W. Watkins, Nicholls, Rowley, and Rich.

News from Wales.

BOSTOCK AND WOMBWELL'S menagerie did excellent business at Mumbles Head; Wadbrooke's electrograph is taking private business at Abergavenny; Stone's cinématograph exhibition is at the Public Hall, Pembroke Dock; and at Haverford West are Taylor Bros'. boxing saloon, Danter's galloping horses, swings, shooters, and throwing games; T. Hill's steam horses, swings, Winchester range, bottle battery, and emma sheets, and North's Winchester range.

Horbury Feast.

THIS Whitsun Week fair was, as usual, attended by the immensely popular Yorkshire showman, Harry Ashington, whose cinématograph theatre is so great a favourite in the towns and villages of the county. Harry Ashington's entertainments, always up to date, met with a most well-deserved success. The other novelties included H. Waddington's gondolas, Thomas's motor car set and park swings, Barker's big boats, Proctor's high-fliers, Blake's swings and bottle battery, Houldsworth's rifle saloon, and shooting concerns by Barker and Rhodes. The principal providers of throwing games and varieties were Lorenzo, Bassett, Gladstone, and Tomlinson.

Castleford Fair.

ANOTHER capital fixture on the Yorkshire round is Castleford. The showmen and fun-makers at this fixture included Testo, with living picture show, Crighton with cinématograph, Gal Hague's black and white boxers, Prof. Gibson with temple of mystery, Tower's freak show and novelty booth, J. W. Waddington's gondolas, Goldthorpe Marshall's motor switchback, Crampton's galloping horses, Harniess's steam horses, Burrell's steam yachts, Morley's steam swings, Corragan's flying steam boats, and Richards's steam boats, Houldsworth's Alpine glissade, manual swings by Hyde and Hayes, Winchester ranges, shooting saloons, and bottle batteries by Jameson, Goodall, and Thomas, throwing games and varieties by Brogden, Doubtfire, Cookshaw, Turner Joy, Jones, Morley, Riley, Walker, Rhodes, and Lloyd.

Trade Defence Work.

AN important meeting of the Roundabout Proprietors and Showmen's Union is convened for next Tuesday at Bolton. Matters of urgent importance to the members of this Union and the interests of the showman world in general, will be discussed, and all necessary action taken. For place of meeting see our advertisement columns.

The White City.

THE old Botanical Gardens, at Old Trafford, Manchester, has been the site of many shows, of both national and local importance. The Art Treasures Exhibition of the early sixties, and the Great Jubilee Exhibition of the later nineties, will be well remembered by old showmen. Yet another change, and this time one of a possible permanent character. The White City, although it takes its name and a certain amount of its inception from the enterprise of American showmen, is quite distinctly a Manchester, and an entirely British, concern. Whilst the splendid grounds of the gardens have been clothed entirely in white, and most beautiful and original architectural novelties have changed the appearance of the place, it is gratifying to know that all that is worth preserving of the old ground still remains, such as the greenhouses, palm-houses, camellia house, and beautiful flower-beds.

THE outside appearance from the main entrances have been entirely repainted and decorated. The central arch is ornamented with a colossal figure of Britannia, and the side arches surmounted with statuary. It is truly a white city, for white paint artistically relieved with green paint and gold is all over the buildings. As we enter the gardens we find a broad promenade circling the grounds, and on the outer edge of this great circle are the variety shows, side shows, and entresol novelties. The fine old avenue of hawthorns has been preserved, and forms a portion of this magnificent promenade. There is, however, a large lake, and in this lake most charming fairy fountain effects are produced. The banks of the lake are bright with rich rhododendrons and other flowering shrubs; indeed, the flowers, shrubbery, and trees, as might be expected, in the metamorphosis of the Botanical Gardens, forms a most beautiful and abiding attraction.

Shows at the White City.

THAT enterprising British showman, Captain Tom Payne, has opened most interesting side shows. These include his unique collection of artistic pottery, and the ever-certain "draw," the midget pony. There is the Maxim airship, and another big show, entitled Fighting the Flames, a realistic representation of a burning street and the attack upon the fire by the gallant fire brigade, with dramatic rescues from burning houses, and other startling pyrotechnic effects. There is a helter-skelter, constructed to represent the fiery dragon rampant; an American box-ball show, and a distorting mirror exhibition, known as the "fun factory"; Hales's cinématograph, "Tours of the World"; a novel switchback, running on a track in the form of a figure eight; a watershoot, a subterranean river with grottos, caves and mazes, and the usual attendant novelties, varieties, and stalls.

FROM all that we have been able to learn, the White City has had a most successful opening week, and bids fair to take a distinguished place in the permanent attractions of the great cotton city.

Walsall Fair.

The principal attractions at this fair were—Sagar's palace of delight, with animated pictures; Proctor's circus; Holloway's ghost illusion; Warwick's living-picture show; Leonard Harris's novelty booth; P. Collins's motor-cars; T. Jervis's steam yachts; Mrs. Hayes's overboats and big swings; Caddick's park swings; S. Dobson's juvenile motor-cars, midget boats, shooting saloon, and throwing games; J. Caddick's juvenile horses; Montgomery's juvenile horses and motor-cars; shooting-ranges, throwing games, and minor amusements by Stokes, Cooper, Beach, Humphries, J. Humphries, Hughes, Walton, Groome, Turner, and Wright,—altogether making a splendid aggregation of fairground attractions, and resulting in good business to all concerned in the enterprise.

SUBSCRIPTION Guild Fund:—Per Mr. Shuttleworth, J. Smith, 5s.

THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD AT PRESTON FAIR.

As announced in The Era last week, the Honorary Chaplain, the Rev. T. Horne, conducted a Guild service for the showpeople on the fairground in Colonel Clarke's cinematograph theatre (kindly lent for the occasion by the proprietor). The beautifully-decorated and comfortably-seated pavilion was well filled, not only by showmen, but by their friends and neighbours, who gladly availed themselves of the opportunity of joining in Christian fellowship with the men and women of the fairground. The singing was led by junior members of the Parish Church choir, whose rich treble voices greatly assisted the singing of the popular hymns from the Guild service book. The Honorary Chaplain was assisted by the Rev. H. S. Butler, Vicar of Preston, and for many years past one of the honorary local chaplains of the Guild. The Chaplain read the service, and the lesson from Holy Scripture was read by the Vicar.

The Rev. T. Horne preached a sermon on the theme of the Church Festival of Whitsun, during which he explained the object of the Showmen's Guild services. It was an effort to bring the Church to the people of the fairground. The difficulties of the showman's life, on its mental and spiritual side, could only be properly met and sustained by the spiritual force that his business in life necessitated being brought to his very door. In the ordered and stately services of the Church of God they were attempting to bring to the needs of the showman the means of spiritual grace. The Showmen's Guild did not attempt either extraordinary mission work nor did they avail themselves of revivalistic methods—it was the quiet and sober worship of the Church of God on the fairground, within ready reach of the people to whom the Church, through the Showmen's Guild, desired to minister. The theme of the day—the Church's lesson for the high festival of Whit-Sunday—was the birthday of the Church, and the coming down in all fullness of spiritual power of the Holy Ghost, to abide in the Church for all time, to illuminate the intelligence, to give energy and power to all good and holy movements, and to raise the world into closer communion with God Eternal. Those of his hearers who had been with him at the Parish Church that day must have noticed that the Altar of God was vested in red—red, the symbol of the Holy Ghost.

Therefore it was a beautiful thought of the early church that interpreted the word "Whitsun" as signifying "tongues or darts of flame." When upon the first Whit Sunday the Holy Ghost bestowed upon the infant church the gift of tongues, the symbol of that gift was a little dart or flame of fire that rested upon the head of every member of the Church gathered in the upper chamber at Jerusalem. Every one in that congregation, he said, has this gift from God—a tongue, the power of speech; that sometimes unruly member could be used to bring either laughter or misery, to speak blessings or curses, to lead to peace, or exhort to war, such was the power of human language. Showmen made use of the gift of tongues to entertain the people. Showmen as a class should be thankful to God for the gift of tongues, the ability so to use that gift that they not only earn a livelihood, but also help to brighten and sweeten life for the toilers and the brain-workers who came to them for entertainment.

The afternoon meeting and conference did not take place as announced, owing to the unfortunate clash of dates with a prearranged visit of a number of the showpeople to breezy Blackpool. Many of these visitors, however, were back in time for the service, which was not held until after Festal Evensong at the Parish Church, at which the Rev. T. Horne was the preacher.

FILM GOSSIP.

ONE of Mr. Robt. W. Paul's latest productions is that of the misadventures of a broker's man, who endeavours to carry out his duties in a cottage, the occupant of which is a poor, but muscular, woman. The resourceful lady covers the interloper with dust, smothers him with flour, drenches him with water, and empties a pail of whitewash over his head. Finally, with the assistance of the husband, the unfortunate man is ducked in a neighbouring pond, with the whitewash pail still clinging round his neck. As a piece of ludicrous portraiture the film would be hard to beat.

AN amusing study of facial expressions is provided in "The Bookmaker," in which the "sport" is depicted following the race through his field glasses with mingled feelings of hope and despair, which turn to chagrin and disgust when, after paying out all his money, he is subjected to a severe mauling at the hands of his unpaid clients. The operations of a burglar at work are also represented in another of Mr. Paul's pictures. Interrupted in his work, the thief fortifies himself with a drink, and resumes business, but is disturbed, and eventually arrested by two policemen. The film is short (98ft.), but very dramatic.

ANSWERS TO SHOWMEN.

W.S.—Since our answer to your inquiries last week we have been able to get more definite information. We have been in communication with a travelling showman who exhibits penalty football games and variety frames at our principal fairs. He gives cigarettes as prizes, but in order to do this he has to hold a regular tobacconist's licence, and in addition to this yearly licence he is compelled to take out a temporary seven days' licence for every fair he attends. The material point of the additional information is that you cannot get a temporary licence without producing your yearly licence, so that for the purposes of your business you must take out a full licence and also obtain a temporary one for every separate place you attend.

G. W. (Leighton Buzzard).—We have not the address you ask for, but advise you to try a letter addressed to the person you desire to find, care of THE ERA letterbox.

J. Jennings (Battersea).—We are much interested in your letter concerning the increase of tolls for stalls in the streets at Maidstone Fair. We shall make full inquiries and do all that is possible to safeguard the stallholders' interests in this matter. Could you tell us if there is a properly-published schedule of tolls for Maidstone Fair?

Ashford Hill, Berks.

ASHFORD HILL Club and Fete was held on Wednesday, and a host of travellers were in attendance, amongst whom were—Baker's motors and gallopers; Samuel Stoke's gallopers; swings by Baker and Stokes; cocoanut shies by Stokes, Baker, Hicks, Piper, and Williams; globe and bottle shooters by Tathler, Baker, Piper, Stokes, and Webb; sporting games by Marco, Hicks, O'Brien, Allen, Piper, and Stokes; doll frames by Marco, O'Brien, G. Webb, Stokes, and Baker; and cake stalls, welks, and confetti by others too numerous to mention. Walter Payne's new show, "Dreamland by Bioscope," was also in attendance.

MR. LEWIS WILLOUGHBY is producing at the Palace, Greenwich, a farcical absurdity, entitled An Artist's Dilemma, on June 3.

MRS. BENNETT has been specially engaged by Mr. Harry Rickards for Australia to play lead in Mr. Edward Cranston's sketches. The popular actress will leave England on June 28.

BRITAIN'S HISTORIC FAIRS.

BY THE REV. T. HORNE.
(Copyright.)

PRESTON FAIR.

Historically, Preston rose up on the ruins of Ribchester, a Roman station farther up the river Ribble, upon which Preston is situated. It derives its name, Pres-ton, from "Priests' Town," because of the large number of religious houses that obtain in mediæval times, and are still perpetuated in its large number of churches. There are very few towns in Lancashire with so interesting a record and so important a part in the development of the great staple industry—cotton-spinning. Sir Richard Arkwright, the inventor of the spinning machine, was a native of Preston, and in the year 1777 the first cotton mills were set up in Preston, and gradually superseded the manufacture of linen which had been its principal product. Cotton-spinning, particularly the finer qualities, still remains its chief industry, although there are iron and brass foundries and steam boiler and engineering works. Quite recently it has developed a very large electrical engineering and tramcar building industry. There is also a considerable sea-going trade, and its facilities as a port have been greatly developed by the building of docks and deepening of the bed of the river at a cost of over £1,000,000.

Preston has no less than fourteen charters, and prior to the Corporation Acts enjoyed many valuable and peculiar privileges. Arising out of these charters was the world-famous "Guild Merchants," with its historical pageant, "The Preston Guild," celebrated every twenty years. There are a number of fairs for trading purposes; but the principal pleasure fair is held every Whitsun-week. This fair is one of the very best in Lancashire, and its great popularity is owing to the fact that every Whitsun-Monday the streets of Preston are given over to a series of most delightful street pageants. Lancashire, like Yorkshire, is famous for its Sunday schools. Some of these schools in Preston have a member roll of over a thousand scholars, and so great is the number of children and adults walking in procession that it takes between two and three hours for each procession to pass any given point. In the morning the Roman Catholic schools and guilds, with hundreds of banners and religious emblems, and thousands of scholars and guild members, taking part in the procession, pass along the streets, affording a sight to the tens of thousands of people who journey from all parts of the country to witness it. In the afternoon the Church of England schools, with their banners and school regalia, also perambulate the thronged streets, many thousand strong. The clergy and the choir of the Preston Parish Church head the procession, and at appointed places in the line of route the other church schools join the procession. There are, of course, with both the processions (the Roman Catholic and the Church of England schools) bands of music at proper intervals, and the general effect—the banners waving, the bands playing, the bonny children marching—is one that fixes itself upon the mind and carries home the conviction that English men and women have not lost either the joy of life or the love of colour and music that so many would have us believe.

The Fun of the Fair.

After the processions comes the abundant joy and life of the fair. It is, indeed, a fair, both as regards the number and the high-class quality of the entertainments provided, and also the excellent arrangement and order of the fair-ground. Great credit is due to the market superintendent, Mr. John Hardman, for the admirable plan of displaying the various novelties at Preston Fair. The big shows are arranged under the glass roof of the covered market, with the outside parades and fronts to the central and side avenues of the Market-square. Amongst these big concerns were President George Kemp's Dreamland, Capt. Tom Payne's bioscope, George Green's coliseum of varieties, and Colonel Clark's cinematograph theatre; Chipperfield's French menagerie, Le Neve and Norah Sullivan's physical culture show, E. Ball's midgets, Senator James Leo's willow plate illusion and fairy head, T. Wortley's ground booth, with Eagle Davies' knife-throwing entertainment, Charles Relph's freak show, Walter Shaw's fine art exhibition, and Wortley's novelty booth.

Machine Novelties at the Fair.

Upon the large Market-square were seen George Green's electric motors and Scotch roly-poly, John Green's electric motors and jungle gallopers, Wm. Mitchell's electric motors, B. Mitchell's electric motors, H. J. Wallis's electric over-head jumpers, E. Holland's razzle-dazzle, J. Hibbert's original hobby-horses, R. H. Williams's tunnel railway, East's overhead jumpers, Mitchell's steamboats, Harrison's helter-skelter, Mrs. John Cornwell's overboats; juvenile and gem horses by Messrs. Wilson, Humphrey, John Sharpe, Peter Parr, and Joseph Brierley; juvenile swings by Sharpe and Brierley, and park swings by Harrison.

Shooting Concerns.

Winchester ranges, egg and bottle shooters, and rifle saloons by George Cornwall, John Sharpe, J. D. Humphrey, R. H. Williams, W. A. Harrison, W. H. Taylor East, and Mesdames John Cornwell and A. Jewell. There were pannum stalls and refreshment booths by the following caterers; Butterworth, Jennings, Harrison, Ingham, Hunter, Ormrod, and other caterers.

Throwing Games and Varieties.

There were avenues and streets of fair-ground games, variety stalls, football penalty frames, cokernut sheets, ring and dart boards, and other games of skill. These were provided by the following caterers and stall-holders: J. Richmond, Lorenzo Crick, J. Taylor, the Garlick Family, John Ingham, Wm. Grant, jun., W. H. Jennings, T. Taylor, T. Forshaw, John Wilson, Walter Hoyle, J. Mitchell, R. Richmond, Herbert Johnson, J. D. Humphrey, Isaac Harrison, Wm. and Charles Wright, C. Malone, W. Dearden, John Boss, Joe Leonard, J. Freer, G. Chadwick, and Mrs. Lorenzo.

Preston, as the home of street pageant and merchant guilds, has a warm heart for the travelling showman, and the Corporation gives every facility at the time of the fair for the showman to exercise his historic craft. It is no wonder, therefore, that Preston has produced many notable showmen. Amongst these, Messrs. George and John Green and the Forshaw family take high rank. Mr. John Hardman, the courteous and obliging market superintendent, takes an especial interest in the well-being of the show tenants of the fair-ground, and is an honorary member of the Showmen's Guild.

Crickhowell.

THE entertainers at this fair were the local showmen, Evans and Sons, with galloping horses and shooting concerns. Side shows and varieties by Messrs. Gaze, Clarke, and Cloger.

Sir Robert Fossett at Penzance.

This celebrated circus and hippodrome, after performing to crowded houses throughout Cornwall, has been at Penzance during Wednesday and Thursday of this week. The popularity of this show is well evident by the enthusiastic patronage it has received at Penzance, every item of the programme being attended by well-deserved applause. Amongst the artists were the well-known members of the Fossett family—Miss Fossett, Robert Fossett, jun., and Thomas Fossett; the Two Rennys; Miss Hilda; Mlle. Emmie; Ida Evile; Master Thomas; Miss Masie; Comic Alfo; Jacky O'Clown; and, of course, the trained horses and elephants. An interesting item in the programme was the introduction of Gaumont's latest Bioscope.

THE HIPPODROME.

The uncommon attractions of the Whitsun Hippodrome programme to which we drew our readers' attention last week have secured large holiday houses at the fine building in Leicester-square. It is, indeed, an embarras de richesses that Mr. Fred Trussell is presenting in a show that is both instructive and amusing. The best educational authorities insist that the youth of the country should be trained to think imperially, and surely Mr. Albert Toft's series of representations, entitled "The Makers of History," should be instrumental in accomplishing something towards this most desirable consummation. Historical episodes in the lives of soldiers, sailors, statesmen, politicians, and actors are shown by means of statuary, which has the sense of real art, as posed by the famous sculptor, whose chosen models are admirably trained. There is nothing commonplace; every group shown is dignified, impressive. The personalities of Imperial history date from Lord Clive, the conqueror of India, to whose memory an ungrateful country has hitherto denied a statue. He is seen at the Hippodrome posed in a beautiful vista of the nave of Westminster Abbey. Politics might have been a drawback to these groups; but the audience recognise just as cheerfully John Burns in his bowler as they do Lord Charles Beresford, who is credited with saying that "battleships are cheaper than battles." William Ewart Gladstone, the enthusiastic friend of Bulgaria, is represented in a characteristic attitude; and Lord Beaconsfield figures in a very interesting way, his famous phrase "Peace with Honour" being dealt with in an original manner by the sculptor. The popular Joe Chamberlain may be said to excite the enthusiasm of "party" exceedingly well. Sir William Treloar, the genial Lord Mayor, is also a much-applauded figure. Sir Henry Irving and his art rise above the shibboleth of political strife, and the "chief" has been treated with a profound dignity and reverence that do honour both to the imagination and the heart. "Makers of History" is altogether a delightful entertainment, and the introductory matter has been well written by Mr. Fred Bowyer.

Cracking a whip may appear comparatively simple to the uninitiated, but when the thong is over 24ft. in length, and the stock 18in., precision of eye, the greatest delicacy of wrist play, and muscular strength are required to, say, take a bullock out of a mob of wild cattle on the left side of the horse without touching his ears or injuring him. With his whip at 25ft. distance, Mr. Lindsay, an Australian, cuts a cigarette in half, held in the mouth of an attendant. He extinguishes a lighted candle at a similar range, and then with a different crack cuts the candle in half. He takes the ash off a cigar whilst it is being smoked, with his deadly lash, which is, nevertheless, quite harmless when he wishes to make it so. For instance, he seemingly flogs a man with terrific force without hurting him, and ties his whip in a knot round the man's arm without raising the slightest mark. The whip wielded by Mr. Lindsay smashes an ordinary wine bottle, and with the thong he can disarm a man. Perhaps his most effective display is when he brings down the whip with full force upon a lady's bare arm, and she skips in the coils of the whip with him.

Another Australian turn of surpassing interest is that of the tree-fellers, Henry Horrocks Jackson and Peter McLaren, who are presented in a very fine scene of an Antipodean forest, with pioneers or axemen at work. In these cases axes are ground for Imperial aims, and the music of the woodmen is an agreeable prelude to the strenuous contest between the two men, each of whom hack in most skilful fashion at a log measuring 60in. in circumference. Enthusiasm is displayed at the conclusion of the contest, which is exceedingly close. Other turns on a bill of surpassing interest are the Martinecks, in a wonderful human doll show, the Columbias, the Auroras, Li and Lou, Orford's elephants, the Jackson Family, Rapoli, Speedy, and The Typhoon.

DUCHESS PALACE.

Many changes have taken place at this popular hall. Mr. L. Westcott Hicks, who was acting-manager here for some time, before he went to Ealing, has returned in the capacity of manager, in place of Mr. Bertram C. Ross, who has taken over the Operetta House, at Clacton-on-Sea. Mr. Blight, the late acting-manager, has gone to Ealing to fill the position lately occupied by Mr. Hicks, and in his place we have Mr. Arthur F. Vernall. Then we have a new chef d'orchestre in place of Mr. Hulley. This week a most interesting programme has been arranged, and is being witnessed twice nightly by delighted houses, the holding capacity of the hall being taxed to its very utmost. A prominent place in this week's bill is occupied by Whit Cunliffe, who sings a couple of songs in his usual exhilarating manner. How he has won the hearts of Balhamites is proved by the hurricane of applause that greets the signalling of his appearance. He is exploiting, with every sign of success, a new ditty, entitled, "As soon as she gets home," and it is most favourably received. This has a most taking chorus, and bids fair to take rank with his many other successes. Afterwards he sings "Poor old father." In response to an undeniable demand, he gives "Hello, hello, hello." An interesting number is supplied by Les Fleurs d'Orange, a troupe of Dutch singers and dancers. Their turn consists principally of singing and dancing. Afterwards they sing in English "The Zuyder Zee," and do a sabot dance, which proves most acceptable. Rosie Archer, a clever mimic, is giving imitations of Harry Lauder, Kate Carney, Vesta Victoria, Daisy James, and Connie Ediss, all of whom are faithfully impersonated. Rastus and Banks, two Darktown entertainers, are well to the fore. They introduce into their turn some exceptionally clever dancing, the male member especially proving himself a wonderful exponent of this art. Frank Sylvo, comedy juggler, is doing a number of original tricks, and shows himself to be a thorough master of his work. Gertie Gitana, a sweet-voiced comedienne, is heard to advantage in the tuneful ditty, entitled "Nellie dear." She brings her turn to a conclusion with some capital dancing, and is rewarded with hearty and prolonged applause. Oakley and James are presenting what is described on the programme as a "tit-bit of everything." Whatever they do, be it singing or tumbling, is performed in a finished manner. John F. Preston, supported by a capable company is here again with the racing episode, entitled Rogues of the Turf. They have a most flattering reception. A most enjoyable evening is brought to a conclusion by some interesting pictures shown by the Bioscope. They are viewed with every sign of interest and approval. The orchestra is excellent, and by its performance of the incidental music, considerably adds to the enjoyment of the evening. Mr. Westcott L. Hicks does not allow himself to be worried by the tremendous business he is doing, and smilingly greets his friends and patrons.

RICHMOND THEATRE.

The wretched weather which prevailed on Monday had a favourable effect on the treasury here, and long before the curtain rose the house was packed to its utmost capacity. The Claymores display wonderful skill with their clubs, and dance with conspicuous ability. The Treshams vocalise cleverly in a comedy act, entitled Roads Up; this mainly is a display of the antics indulged in by a band of youthful hooligans. Very talented, too, are these lads of the pavement, and one of their number brought down the house with the ever-popular air, "Sally in our alley." Miss Bessie Butt charms the audience with a dainty nautical ballad, "Adieu, little girl"; her methods will improve with experience. Her second contribution, "Rosie," is admirable, and thoroughly satisfied the audience; not only did she succeed vocally, but danced a coon ditty with much grace. Mr. Frank Bernard's company, in a telephonic skit, entitled Hello, do well. The plot turns on the ruse adopted by an impecunious lawyer, who "raises the wind" by means of a mock public telephone. Roars of merriment greeted the cleverly-sustained sketch, and everyone in the company worked loyally to win the success achieved. Mr. Max Guy's always-capable orchestra delight the audience with a selection from Florodora, after which Mr. Hal Hughman, who hails from the other side, proves himself a mimic of no inconsiderable ability; his imitations are simply wonderful. Especially may this be said of the youthful tyro on the jew's harp; nor should his mimicry of chanticleer pass unnoticed. Mysteria, introduced by Lazerne, the mystic, is an exceptionally interesting turn. In proof that Lazerne has not assumed a fictitious appellation, it may be said he produces from apparently nowhere watches, flags, handkerchiefs, and innumerable other items A quick change from a drawing-room to a tastefully-decorated garden is one of the hits of the evening. Miss May MacCrystal adds to the success of Mysteria by her tasteful piano solo. Mr. Charlie Carr is a young comedian who sings of the trials of Cupid, and has an affaire with a fickle maiden known as his "Jersey Lily," after which comes a coon song. The Cumberlands, quite a clever troupe of trick cyclists, evidence their ability and amazing dexterity in some really wonderful feats; the midget of the company deserves special mention. Vernon's Bioscope finishes an excellent show with an amusing episode, "Baby's First Outing." The première is not a success—so far as baby is concerned.

HOLBORN EMPIRE.

Mr. John Lawson's new sensational sketch, entitled The Unwritten Law, which we fully noticed when it was produced here three weeks ago, still retains its position in the programme. Quite a triumph of stage realism is the scene which comes last—the desperate fight between Shepston, the unscrupulous betrayer of young girls, and Evelyn's husband, who finally produces a revolver and shoots the villain. The careful attention to matters of detail as well as to general effect, so characteristic of all Mr. Lawson's productions, is again discernable in the new sketch. The acting is also on a high level of excellence. Mr. Lawson displays the requisite earnestness and determination in his embodiment of the young millionaire who rescues Evelyn Norman, and so eloquently denounces that particular form of vice, the victims of which are young girls, who in many cases have no one to take their part or avenge their wrongs. Miss Buena Bent plays exceedingly well the part of Evelyn, and Miss Barbara Babington and others give adequate support.

A valuable recruit from the theatres appears in the person of Miss Mabel Green, who, after appearing in small parts in The Cherry Girl and The Cingalee, displayed so much charm and vivacity that Mr. George Edwardes decided to give her a chance, and she appeared with Miss Adrienne Augarde as one of the little Michus, scoring a notable success. She subsequently played the part on tour with equal acceptance. Her engagement at the Holborn Empire adds considerably to the strength of the bill. Easy and graceful in every movement, she sings a song of no great distinction with a charm of manner that renders it most acceptable. According to the programme, Little Victoria is "making her first appearance in the West End." She is a pretty little girl, of about eight years of age, and she comes on in the character of an Irish lass, bearing a tray containing bunches of shamrock. She sings in pleasing style, and finishes with an Irish jig which evokes loud applause. Mr. Harry Leybourne, announced on the bills as a comedian and double-voiced vocalist, scores an undoubted success, opening with a clever imitation of the rendering by several voices of "Hail, smiling morn." Next he gives a duet, as sung by an old man and his wife; and finally, by a startlingly rapid change of dress, done in full view of the audience, he appears as a nervous young lady, in full evening costume, who sings a popular ballad, her effort being marred by laughable awkwardness in the management of her arms. The Ongars are a couple who work hard as quick change dancers. They give various national dances, concluding with a cleverly done Russian one. The Tally Ho Trio appear in an act in which one of them disguises himself as a waiter, and so plays a trick upon his companions. They possess good voices, and know how to use them to the best advantage. Jordan and Harvey, Hebrew comedians, with their ditties and very amusing patter, obtain a good reception, which they certainly deserve. The Selbinis are in the front rank as trick cyclists, and their clever performance is watched with the closest interest. All the members of the troupe are experts in their business. The three Sisters Lee distinguish themselves as vocalists, dancers, and acrobats. Mr. Phil Ray, comedian, continues not only to sustain his popularity, but to increase at every appearance the number of his admirers. Miss Ruby Emmerson sings in winsome style, and is rewarded by loud applause. Mr. Mark Leslie is a coon vocalist who makes a hit by his smart dancing; and Mr. Tom Collins, comedian, is also well received. The Imperial Bioscope, with new films, remains an attraction. The excellent orchestra, under the direction of Mr. James Sale, deserves mention, as also do the services rendered by Mr. Claude Marner, as manager, and Mr. William A. Salmond as acting-manager.

THE M.H.B.F. DINNER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The fact that Miss Marie Lloyd has graciously consented to preside at the annual dinner at the Trocadero on Sunday, June 9, in aid of our funds is proof enough that she at least takes the high position of advocating the claims of the poor above all commercial questions which for some time past have agitated the professional world, during which the income of this fund has been disastrously affected. Indeed, we are at such a low ebb that it has been necessary for us to appeal for immediate assistance to other music hall associations, to which it is to be trusted they will not lend a deaf ear.

Miss Marie Lloyd has been for years one of our most sympathetic supporters, and has not only given us generous help herself, but his induced her friends to do the same.

It behoves every artist, both lady and gentleman, to rally round their chairman on such an occasion, and show that although vital questions are at issue they can bury all feelings of animosity and discord in their desire to help their poorer brother and sister artists. I feel confident that proprietors, managers, agents, and all interested in the music hall world will only be too glad of the occasion to spend a pleasant evening where all other thoughts may be forgotten in their mutual desire to look after the poorer members of their large and growing family. Artists especially should make a point of being present, even if they have to come from the country, to show they are not unmindful of the call of Charity. We have had many splendid gatherings with leading and well-known gentlemen presiding, but I trust the departure we have made in inviting a lady to preside will make the occasion not only unique in that respect, but also in the financial announcement at the dinner, when in the interest of the "Pensioners" and the "Weekly Relief Fund," I may be able to announce a record of both attendance and donation list.

To those who cannot possibly come, let me say that the spirit of their goodwill shall be in attendance if they send me a donation in advance.

Faithfully yours,
HORACE MARRIOTT.
Secretary, Music Hall Benevolent Fund.

We have great pleasure to inform all Showmen of the letter received from Mr. P. Collins since the reception of his new large Organ (new system, with expression) that we have just supplied him with, and of which we are the manufacturers.

Walsall, April 25, 1907. Messrs. Charles Marenghi et Cie, Avenue de Taillebourg, Paris. Gentlemen,—A line to say I am delighted with the new organ you sent me to Wrexham for my show front. I think you have excelled all others. I consider it the finest orchestra that has ever been built; both for the music and the tone it is perfect. The workmanship is thoroughly well done, and the artistic work and decorations are magnificent. I may say that when we opened it, thousands stood around it daily to hear it, and it was the admiration of everyone, and brought people from miles around to hear it. It was the talk of everyone in the district. Thanking you for your prompt and safe delivery of the same, yours truly, P. COLLINS.

We hope this letter will be understood by all interested persons, and that it will defy all great talkers. All transactions for Great Britain to be done through our General Representative, J. WENTWORTH, 29, Gibson-square, Islington, London, N. We remain, yours truly, CH. MARENGHI ET CIE, Paris.

INVALUABLE TO ALL WHO FOLLOW THE FAIR

SOLD AT "THE ERA" BUILDINGS, 5, TAVISTOCK-STREET, LONDON, W.C.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907. "The Era" Annual for 1907 is out, published from the offices of "The Era," 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. It is the usual complete record of doings in theatreland during the past year, and possesses a live interest in the number of excellent personal contributions by well-known managers, authors, actors, and actresses of the day.—Sportsman, Jan. 22, 1907.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907. A compendium of great value to all interested, professionally or otherwise, in music and the drama is "The Era" Dramatic and Musical Annual, the issue for 1907 of which has just been issued (London: 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, 1s.). Especially attractive are the stories told by some twenty artists, whose photographs and autographs are included.—Glasgow Herald, Jan. 31.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907. Another book which calls for attention is that excellent and almost indispensable work of reference, "The Era" Almanack and Annual. In this handy shillingsworth one has a complete record of the past dramatic year, and the arrangement is so admirable that no time is lost in finding the desired subject, title of play, revival, or new production, and all that appertains to the drama of the year. The same remark applies to the information concerning the stages of Paris and Berlin; and I should like to see next year the American stage included, because it is becoming so intimately allied with our own, by reason of the production of plays, the interchange of actors, and the comprehensive interests of managers. In addition to the solid pages of facts, there are included short tales and stories by well-known actors and actresses, and altogether the book is one which should find its way into the hands of all genuine lovers of the drama.—Morning Advertiser, Feb. 23, '07.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow:—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

Pioneers of the 4 D. per foot, nett.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

THE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.
Code Word, CIGOGNE,

A most exciting story, which grows in interest at every scene and incident. A man is refused work, and utterly broken-hearted tramps on. On the way he sees a scarecrow, divests it of its clothing, puts it on to cover his own threadbare garments. He arrives at a big city; sleeps on the Embankment. Gets his first job running after a cab laden with luggage. Then buys papers; sells them; makes a living; finds a purse containing value; takes it to its owner, who gives him work in his office. He rises to a good position. There is a fire at his employer's house; he saves his daughter, and is finally rewarded with her hand. The story is perfectly carried through. Every episode is more enthralling than the last.

990ft. The Subject, £16 10s. Colouring extra.

THE POLICE DOGS OF PARIS.
Code Word, CLEMENCE.

A wonderful picture showing the dogs at work tracking criminals. Through streets, country, over the river, they go, finally bringing down their prey in a garret. A remarkable exhibition of what training and a natural instinct for hunting can do.

824ft. The Subject, £13 14s. 8d.

POOR DOLLY.
Code Word, CIGALE.

A charming picture of children's simplicity. Father brings them some toys. The little boy cuts off the head of a dolly. There is a funeral, to which the other children are invited to witness the obsequies and burial of the doll. Very beautiful quality, and its tender home touch will appeal to all.

248ft. The Subject, £4 2s. 8d.

CHARLEY PAINTS.
Code Word, CITRON.

Imagine a small boy with a pot of paint left alone, and you will not find it difficult to believe the things that take place in this film. Charming pictures.

382ft. The Subject, £6 0s. 8d.

TRAGIC MOMENT.
Code Word, CHIFFRE.

"Snap" is ill, he neither eats nor drinks. His mistress is alarmed, and orders a man to carry him away and bury him. Grave indeed are the consequences when he is followed by police. Very amusing.

330ft. The Subject, £5 10s. Tinting, 8s.

COSTUMES OF ALL AGES.
Code Word, CANIVEAU.

The historic interest and charm with which these costumes are portrayed make it a very interesting subject. Roman, Marie Stuart, Louis XIV., the Lady Dandies, The Crinoline, &c., &c.

396ft. The Subject, £6 12s. Colouring, £3 12s.

THE MOTHER-IN-LAW RACE.
Code Word, CAPORAL.

In the presence of his Worship the Mayor and other local dignitaries, the above race takes place, the prize to be a handsome son-in-law. Away they go, some pushing, some pulling, up and down, until they fall in a solid mass. Screamingly funny.

314ft. The Subject, £5 4s. 8d.

CLOWN DOCTOR.
Code Word, CHIGNON.

Little Gwen is taken to a circus, and is much in love with the clown. She is taken ill, and nothing will do but she must have the clown. The doctor comes, mother does everything, but finally the clown has to be fetched. He comes and nurses her back to health. Sweetly pretty.

428ft. The Subject, £7 2s. 8d. Tinting, 10s.

PALMISTRY.
Code Word, CHIMIE.

The following pictures will present, as seen by a witch, the future of the gambler, the drunkard, the financier, the worldling, the work-girl, etc., etc., which it is absolutely impossible to alter. Some smile, but some go away feeling anything but happy.

478ft. The Subject, £7 19s. 4d. Tinting and Painting, 10s. 6d.

ATTACK ON A CARMAN.
Code Word, CAMBOUIX.

A carman is attacked, turned out of the cart, and robbed. The horse returns home with the empty cart. The wife, the farm hands, and the faithful farm dog "Floss" all set out to trace their master, the dog leading and barking all the while. The carman is saved, and the thieves are caught and punished. Splendid film.

412ft. The Subject, £6 17s. 4d.

CRIME IN THE MOUNTAINS.
Code Word, CHOMAGE.

As often happens, two men are in love with the same fair lady, and the despised lover in this case follows the two into a mountain, and kills the fortunate one. Remorse, however, gets too much for him, he cannot rest, and finally dies on the spot where the crime took place. Most lovely scenery.

643ft. The Subject, £10 14s. 4d. Tinting, 2s. 6d.

BYKER DOES THE IMPOSSIBLE.
Code Word, CANNIBALE.

This cyclist is really a marvel. He and his machine work as one. Up and down stairs, overcoming every obstacle, and always followed by a crowd of onlookers. Finally he gets mixed up with a small carriage, lets go his own machine, and rides on the wheel of the carriage. Wonderful film.

330ft. The Subject, £5 10s.

REDSKINS AND COWBOYS.
Code Word, BURIN.

The cowboy chief's wife and daughter are kidnapped by redskins. Owing to the intelligence of the cowboy's dog they are able to trace them, however, and after exciting and varied scenes the prisoners are restored.

545ft. The Subject, £9 1s. 8d. Tinting, 12s.

THE BOOKMAKER.

An amusing study in facial expressions of a typical bookie accepting bets. His marvellous range of expressions as he follows the race through his field glasses clearly indicates his anxiety as to the result of the race, which ends in his having to pay out till all his money is gone, when he is subjected to a severe mauling at the hands of the unpaid backers.

Code word, "BOOKIE." Length 140ft.

THE BROKER'S MAN.

Trials and troubles of a broker's man who takes possession of a house occupied by an athletic woman.

Code word, "UNWELCOME." Length 305ft.

THE UNNATURAL FATHER.

Man deserts his wife and child, but is followed to the mansion of his lady love, where an angry altercation with his wife ensues, during which their child is thrown into an adjoining lake by husband. His lady love, sculling on the lake, pluckily plunges into the water and rescues the child, to the surprise of the faithless husband.

Explanation demanded by lady, who removes the ring he gave her, and places it on the finger of his wife.

THE FEMALE HIGHWAYMAN.

Code Word, HIGHWAYMAN.

For thrilling excitement and dare-devil adventure this picture is hard to beat. Novel effects and astounding situations abound throughout. The audience, no matter where they sit—gallery or box—will be wrapt in interest watching the escapades of this young girl.

Briefly—She steals valuable diamonds from a jeweller by means of a dual disguise—from woman to man—and in which chewing-gum plays an important part. Holds up a motor-car party, and finally attempts to rid a bank messenger of his valise. This proves her undoing, and she poisons herself on the verge of arrest. Perfect photographic quality.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—This week Mice and Men is well played by an exceptionally good company. Mr. W. H. Rotheram shows much reserved power as Mark Embury; and Miss Helena Parsons acts piquantly and vivaciously as Peggy. Other parts most capably filled are those of Roger Goodlake by Mr. Edmund Lee; Captain Lovell by Mr. Keene Orde; Mrs. Goodlake by Miss Mabel Ormonde; and Mrs. Deborah by Miss Amy Fanchette.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The Modern Venus, statuary display, which is extremely artistic, is followed with the keenest interest; Mr. George Rae, Scottish comedian, contributes a delightful turn; and Mr. Will Cornish scores a big success with his musical bell act. The Florias excel as equilibrists, their performance on the slack wire being remarkably graceful as well as dexterous; and among other successful artists are Miss Nellie Vance, a vivacious comedienne and dancer, Mr. Charles Lestrec, a clever juggler, Miss Amina Kinder, a charming vocalist, the Brothers Lawrence, exceedingly smart dancers, and Miss Babs Lloyd, a piquante exponent of coon dancing.

ABERTILLERY.—THEATRE METROPOLE.—Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. W. Ventom; Stage-Manager, Mr. Fred Thomas.—Fred Karno's company is causing much merriment this week in the sketches, Mumming Birds and Early Birds. Messrs. Lincoln and Warren provide an amusing and clever cyclist turn; Mr. Geo. Mackintosh and Miss Tina Royal give an admirable exhibition of clog dancing; and the Sisters Lavender and Mr. Charles Denton are good in songs.

ACCRINGTON.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. B. Ormerod; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. E. Barnes.—The Elliotts top the bill here with their musical act (as the Savonas), which the house applauds to the echo. A society episode, presented by Mr. L. Bell and Miss L. Pearl and company, is well received; Oliver Conway is good; and The Jollions are pleasing operatic vocalists; Senorita Eloina is a graceful Spanish gymnast; H. C. Bori does a clever juggling act; and the Bioscope, with the latest pictures, is interesting.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Vandy, Potter, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Frank Parsons.—An excellent bill is provided here this week. Jack Collinson's company of juveniles presents an amusing turn, in The Topsy-Turvy School; Jack Rae, "the man with the hat," must be complimented; Ada Spencer is clever; Harrigan and Holt keep the house in a good humour; Alf Slater is well received; Queenie May is a refined vocalist; the Vekes are smart musical experts; and Kisbey is also here. The Hippodrome Pictures conclude.

ALDERSHOT.—ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—The Gamester of Metz is being played here this week by Mr. Chas. March's company. Mr. March takes the rôle of Paul, and goes through a series of quick changes. He is supported by a capable company.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Mr. Percy Norman's company is presenting A Woman Worth Winning, a story founded on Russian military officialdom, here this week. Mr. Percy Norman as a cruel Governor of a Muscovite province, makes the character sufficiently hateful by his display of vindictive energy; the chief foil to the military scoundrel is the daughter of a well-to-do Russian, and of this character Miss Cissie Bellamy gives a fine and regal interpretation. Messrs. A. B. Mackay, Gilbert Standing, Sidney Barton, Carthage Balbolbugh, Jack Coriass, Wynne Davies, Hall Eldon, Edwards, and Misses Trixie Leighton and Ida Mackie lend able support.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The chief feature of the "bill" here this week is the living art masterpieces of Henriette De Serris, with nine different tableaux in groups; the Deer Family, genuine North-American Indians, appear in sensational tableaux, Princess White Deer's songs and war dance being greatly applauded; Lily Gaston, male impersonator, introduces her speciality, top-boot dancing, in which she has held the championship of the world; Robins and Collier appear in a musical comedy scena, The Lady and the Porter; the tenor vocalism of Mr. Payne Clarke is a rich treat; the contortions of Wilfrid Gregory, the flexible marvel, are astounding; Jealousy, played by Mr. Montague Beaudyn and his company, forms a powerful dramatic episode; and the Bioscope pictures are greatly admired.

ATTERCLIFFE.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. E. Owen.—A special feature of this week's programme is the engagement of the Maritana Operatic Company, under the direction of Mr. Ernest C. Gittins. The principals are Mlle. Adele Prescott (soprano), Miss Norah Roy (contralto), Mr. Saxton Granville (tenor), and Mr. Albert Chapman (baritone). Their efforts are enthusiastically received; Burg, Haud, and Wise are responsible for a laughable acrobatic act; Mr. J. P. Carroll is a clever and versatile tambourinist; a smart display of conjuring is furnished by Adams and Ward (lady and gentleman); Mr. E. C. Clayton's Attergraph pictures include an interesting series, "Life on the Stage"; and other attractive turns are given by Mr. Albert Saxton in character songs; Miss Ada Parker, coon songstress and dancer; and Mr. A. E. Clifford, vocalist.

CENTRAL HALL.—Lessees, Jasper Redfern, Ltd.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick W. Holmes.—A bright and attractive bill is presented here this week. There is a varied and interesting series of pictures, including "A Naval Attack on Portsmouth" and "South African Gold Mines." Variety turns are furnished by Retsell, the Yorkshire collier, and his daughter, in a display of thought reading; Kavados, in a good juggling act; Miss Flo Melville, a pleasing comedienne, and Mr. Phil Rees, double-voiced vocalist.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company, in A Broken Heart, is here this week. The dual parts of Miss Grace Fanshawe and Mrs. Kellet are ably sustained by Mrs. Harry Foxwell; Mr. John Clyde is conspicuous with an interesting performance of John Barnard (a master blacksmith); and the part of Mary Barnard (John's wife) is sympathetically portrayed by Miss Marguerite Trevosper. Mr. Will Lindsay is an amusing Tony Tibbets; the villainous part of Stephen Roylton is forcibly enacted by Mr. Tom Leighton; and as his accomplice, Gash Gills, Mr. Charles Vivian is to be complimented. Miss Florrie Lorsby is a very clever child actress.

BARNSTAPLE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Bridge Trustees; Manager, Mr. Harry Ashton.—Mr. Fraser Brunner's company gave The Superior Miss Pellender on Monday. Miss Queenie Fraser Brunner excelled as the supercilious Miss Pellender; Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh richly deserved the praise bestowed on her portrayal of Mrs. Pellender; unctuous humour pervaded Mr. W. Fraser Brunner's Mr. Lister; and Mr. Ellis D. Carlyle as Noel, and the Misses Marie Ault and May Staples as Edith and Nancy respectively, worthily upheld the high character of the acting.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Mr. Harry Roxbury's company, in A Little Vagrant, is here. Mr. Cecil A. Collins is a capable Jim Harris, and Mr. Stanley Radcliffe is a sufficiently villainous Eric Arden. In the title-rôle, Miss Alice Bowes is a picturesque figure; and Miss Vashti Wynne makes a great success of Poll. Mr. Richard Bosco is a polished Thomas Whitworth. Mr. Brian Henry a smart Amos Browning, and Mr. J. W. Gallagher, Miss Bella Moody and Miss Caroline Fenton are effective comedians in the parts of Slideaway Bates, Hannah Smithers, and Julia Pilbeam respectively.

TIVOLI.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Edgar Laban.—C. Emlyn Jones' ladies' quartette of singers are the top of the bill here this week, and give some very effective numbers; Peggy Pride, the dainty comedienne, makes a welcome return visit, and is exceedingly well received; Pete and Juno are very smart dancing comedians, and Harry Cloff's descriptive vocal numbers quite take the popular ear; Will May and Theresa are remarkably clever in a Japanese quick-change scena, and Ruby Bijou, barefoot dancer, gives a novel and clever turn. Some excellent pictures by Vernon's Bioscope conclude.

HIPPODROME, ABBEY-ROAD.—The British Empire Picture and Variety Company are at this house under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Routledge. They are receiving excellent houses, and the entertainment is much enjoyed.

BATH.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—For race week the management have provided an unusually bright programme, in which the turn given by the Mapies is an excellent example, and their reception is cordial in the extreme. The Heures are very smart juvenile club performers; Oakdene, in his nautical ventriloquial scena, supplies a capital entertainment; A. P. Boswell continues to present his furniture-shifting act with all his former precision and success; Daisy Weston and her quartet of lady dancers, display flexibility of limb as high kickers; Le Cren Trio give a grotesque speciality which secures them hearty applause; Lily Stewart, comedienne and dancer, meets with favour. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are excellent.

ASSEMBLY ROOMS.—Manager, Mr. Lawson Howes.—On Monday and Tuesday the celebrated comedienne Miss Louie Freear was announced to appear here, assisted by a party of excellent artists, including Mr. Stephen Bond, raconteur; Mr. H. A. Gribbon, vocal comedian; Mr. Vivian Foster, comedian; Mr. Edwin Bennett, character-actor; Miss Bessie Coleman, serio; and Mr. Nelson Jackson, humourist. Miss Freear sang a couple of songs at the matinée on Monday, but did not appear at either the evening performance or on Tuesday. On Wednesday the National Animated Pictures commenced a season, introducing all the latest triumphs in animated photography.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—The new musical comedy, Cupid's Market, was presented for the first time in Bedford on Monday night. The piece was produced by Mr. Gray Murray, and the company was an excellent one in every respect. Delightful numbers abound in the play, which is most amusing, the antics of Mr. Mark Lester as the editor's clerk adding greatly to its success. The editor was cleverly impersonated by Mr. E. Sefton; and Mr. J. M. Hay was a capital Lord Soppington. Isabel Dash, an heiress, was charmingly presented by Miss Iris Hoey; and the part of the widow (Mrs. Arundale) was in the capable hands of Miss Nancy Hearne; Miss May Stevenson was good as Olive, and Miss Maude Stead as Miss Ethel de Vere impressed one with the fact that the part had been well studied. The clients of Wilesworth were numerous, and included both sexes, who took up the choruses briskly and brightly. The musical director was Mr. Ernest Hartmann.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—The Shulamite is presented here this week. The rôle of Simeon Krillett, the Boer farmer, has been done full justice to by Mr. Algernon J. Hicks, his acting throughout being quite convincing; nothing but praise must be accorded Miss Ruth Shepherd for her remarkably clever delineation of Deborah Krillett; and Miss Emily Levettez is well placed as Tante Anna Vanderberg, acquitting herself with the highest possible distinction. For his fine manly impersonation of Robert Waring, an English overseer, Mr. Charles Fancourt deserves every credit; and it would certainly be difficult to surpass Mr. George Rammell's admirable impersonation of Jan Vanderberg. Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff furnishes an effective impersonation of Memke, a Kaffir slave-girl; and Mr. Albert Rogers is certainly very humorous as the Kaffir servant. The staging, for which Mr. Albert Rogers is responsible, is highly effective.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Messrs. Clark and Hamilton opened here on Monday, and met with an unqualified success; the thrilling sketch, Sally in Our Alley, has been accorded a terrific reception; Mr. Walter George's light opera company, known as Smart Set, appear in their vocal scena, which is quite a feature of the bill; Mr. Billy Williams is a really funny comedian, with good songs; and the Alaskarno Trio are certainly first-class acrobatic comedians; Miss Gertie Gitana is a charming comedienne and fine dancer; and also appearing are Sydney and Maud, duettists and dancers; Moon and Morris, comedians and dancers; Mr. Will Driscoll, comedian and dancer; and the Palace Pictures.

ROYAL HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Will Sley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Minstrel Maids (twelve in number) have been most successful. The Cheers appear to the greatest possible advantage in the scena, Dick Whittington, and introduce some marvellous performing cats. The Three Sisters Urma display exceptional skill in their triple bar performance; and the extraordinary mimicry of animals which is so realistic of Mr. Leo Tell has aroused intense enthusiasm. A comedy act of much brilliance and exceeding merit has been provided by Stidder and Dunbar, a clever duo; and the splendid vocalism of the Greys has been appreciated as it deserves; Nash and Noel, comedians and dancers, take well; Mr. Arthur Goodman, tramp juggler; the new Hipposcope Pictures; and Satsuma, conjuror, are also included in the programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Mr. Tom Costello heads the bill, and this clever comedian has been most successful with his song, "The Suffragettes." The extraordinary acrobatic feats of the Trapnells have created much enthusiasm; and a big hit has been made by Mr. Edwin Barwick, the famous mimic and actor-vocalist; Mr. Bates Maddison's comedy company have created merriment with their farcical sketch, entitled Charley's Uncle. Miss Lillie Langtry is an accomplished and exceedingly vivacious comedienne; and Rumbo Austin, with his troupe, has been accorded a capital reception. The Jackley Trio appear in their acrobatic speciality; and the bill is completed by Miss Maude Laverne, comedienne.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sinclair Neill.—The Alhambra Dramatic Company, under the personal direction of Mr. M. Montgomery, is here this week with The New World, by Fred Darcy. Mr. Horace Denton appears with the greatest possible success in the rôle of Jack Hawley; and Miss Nina Blake Adams could not easily be surpassed as May Walton, her acting being decidedly clever. Miss Kathleen Magee furnished a capable impersonation of Samantha Clayton, and rarely has this capital actress appeared to greater advantage. Mr. Edward M. Heanley appears with much success as Jim Rawlins; and the humour of the piece is in the safe hands of Mr. Tom H. Jolly, who was fairly irresistible as Brutus Brown. Mr. Cyril Grier acquits himself with distinction as Jose Alvarez, his acting being quite irreproachable; and Mr. Elmore Frith was as usual excellent as Joe Williams. Miss Mattie Crawford furnished an exceedingly charming impersonation of Jennie Williams; and Mr. J. E. Davies was admirable as Col. Bijah Clayton. Mr. Ed. Smythe rendered a good account of himself as Pete Sweet. The stage arrangements were in the excellent hands of Mr. Tom H. Solly, stage-manager. The Alhambra Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. W. E. Newlove, exhibits a splendid picture this week, entitled "A Mother-in-law's Race for a Son-in-law."

BILSTON.—AL-FRESCO PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Battersby.—The Imperial Pierrots opened their summer season again on Monday. A long programme included Miss May Hankinson, vocalist, Miss Brenda Leslie, vocalist, Mr. T. Griffiths, descriptive vocalist, Mr. Charles Bradford, comic singer, Mr. Syd Bazley, comic singer, Masters Frank and Harold Birkenhead, and Mr. J. E. Machin, who opened with a pianoforte selection. The indispensable Bioscope exhibits a change of pictures nightly.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—Mr. J. M. Glover's Juvenile Pantomime Company in The Forte Thieves forms an interesting entertainment. The various parts are filled by children from Drury Lane Theatre, and special mention is due of Master Jack Frost's spirited and clever rendering of Abdalla. Leading rôles are also admirably played by Masters W. Bishop, Teddy Gordon, and Misses Jessie Evans, L. Randall, A. McDonald, and Florrie Clarke.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mrs. John Lawson appears as May Faber in an effective sketch entitled The Devil's Sunday. Miss Florrie Gallimore, the popular comedienne, is on a welcome return visit; Miss Marie Blythe, an exceptionally talented contralto and descriptive vocalist, is a great favourite. The programme also includes Mr. Fred Elton, comedian; the Four Athos, in a smart acrobatic display; Miss Maude Mortimer, comedienne; Atlas and Casatti, variety artists; Miss Josie Delaine, vocalist and dancer; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr. Philip Rodway.—The annual promenade concerts instituted here two seasons ago recommenced last Monday, and will continue until June 15. Mr. Landon Ronald is again retained, and has under his bâton a full concert orchestra of seventy performers, while a rich array of solo instrumentalists and vocalists are engaged. Several new works are being produced, and the entire scheme appears to give the liveliest satisfaction. The concerts are held under the direction of Mr. Max Mossel.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—The Lady of Ostend figures here, and, to the common gratification, introduces that general favourite, Mr. Lawrence Brough. As the Baron Mr. Brough fills his followers with glee, appearing at his very best, while his support is excellent. Mr. Harry Hampson is invaluable and truly amusing as Dick Whortles; Mr. Percy Marshall is to the fore with a clever impersonation of Joseph Carbury; Mr. Watkin Wynne adopts the characteristics of Toby Krockitt with eminent success; Miss Roberta Svendson scores with her vivacious acting in the title-rôle; Miss Kate Milford is successful as Dorothy Whortles; Miss Bessie Harrison acts smartly as Matilda Carbury; other rôles being filed by the Misses Evelyn Ormonde and Eva Boyne and Messrs. Reginald A. Hunt, H. Douglas, and Hewson Elliott. To-day (Saturday) The Lady of Ostend gives place to Mme. Jane Hading, who is to appear in Frou-Frou and La Châtelaine.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—A Beautiful Fiend preserves its popularity in the fullest degree, its engagement here with Mr. Montague Beaudyn's company proving eminently successful. Miss Sidney Crowe displays all the powers and fascinations ascribed to the titular rôle, Wanda Lubinoff; Mr. Herbert Skardon stirs up much enthusiasm with his vigorous acting as Ivan Paulovitch; Mr. Harry C. Robinson makes a thoroughly capable Fedor Karateff; Mr. Matt Russell proves his general utility as acting-manager and Sergius Strogoff; Miss Violet Ingram presents a clever portrayal of Nadine Karateff; Miss Marie Fontaine makes a prominent rôle of the maid, Patty; Mr. Dick Seddon acts in cleverly humorous style as Crackles; Mr. Pat Quin is all that is wanted as Malachi; and Mr. Julian Mitchell fills the rôle of Troiski admirably.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—The Sorrows of Satan is well presented here by Miss Loie Esmond's company, under the capable direction of Mr. Edward Neville, who also assumes the rôle of Prince Lucio Rimanez with the utmost distinction. Miss Esmond is responsible for much of the success as Diana Chesney; Miss Rosie Neville gives a pleasing portrayal of Mavis Clare; Miss Cecilia Dare acts with eminently successful results as Lady Sybil Elton; Mr. J. McCaigh is admired for his finished style as Geoffrey Tempest; Mr. Coleman Davis scores as Lord Lynton; and the servant, Morris, is well represented by Mr. Fred Cherry. An entertaining comedietta, played by Miss Rosie Neville and Mr. Coleman Davis, entitled Two Soft, precedes the play.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittle.—The Sin of Her Childhood is represented here by Mr. J. A. Campbell's company. Miss Effie Bartlett as the grown-up heroine, Mary Haysel, secures much sympathy with her well-conceived efforts; Little Dorothy as Mary in the prologue and Eric in the play, is both natural and pleasing; Miss Clara Santley as the dipsomaniac, Maria Haysel, contributes a clever piece of realism; Mr. Wilson Summers emphasises the evil traits of Stephen Haysel with every success; Mr. Jas. Duncan acts in a desirable manner, and wins much respect as the Rev. Alan Grey; Mr. Frank Liston is well suited and clever as Capt. John Thornton; Mr. Hugh Brady is admirable in his assumption of the rollicking, good-hearted Irishman, O'Reilly; and the Misses Katie Lever and Lissa Young are very good as Eliza Muggins and Hannah Spry respectively.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Lew Lake and company met with appreciation for their sketch, My Pal Jerry; the performance of Bonnie Goodwin's Piccaninnies is exceedingly interesting; Tom E. Hughes, the comedian, is as entertaining as ever; Leo Stormont, the popular baritone, meets with well-deserved success; while Meuzetti and Mora, triple bar performers, are very clever. Kitto and Windrum have a pleasing military sketch in The Cuckoo; Lieut. Travis is an excellent ventriloquist; and Marie Empress is a dainty comedienne.

GAIETY.—General Manager, Mr. Albert T. Bushell.—Hayman and Franklin figure in a sketch entitled A Matrimonial Agency, and keep the audience thoroughly amused; another laughable sketch is presented by Austin Lenton and company, who appear in The Bigamist; mystery enshrouds the performance of Prof. Fuller, with his aerial nymph Astarte. Other excellent turns are provided by Stanley and Greenop, expert banjoists; Sisters Hall, vocalists; Arthur Croxon, comedian; Ben Albert, and the Zampas, speciality dancers.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—Morris Cronin and troupe are clever jugglers; Cullen and Carthy, aided by that drollest little comedian Little Cluley, make the audiences rock with laughter; the Westwoods are wonderfully smart trick cyclists; Pat Lynch is an eccentric dancer from America with entirely new business; the Dillons, comedy gymnasts, are as popular as ever; and Wylie's dogs, Arthur Woodville, Bell and Butt, Percival and Morley, Wright and Elton, and Lottie D'Abbey contribute pleasing turns to a delightful programme.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—A street urchin's idea of producing a pantomime, Mick Whittintun, forms the principal feature this week. It is the latest of Mr. Harry Cadle's "Casey Court" series, and with Bob King as Mrs. Casey, in the part of the good fairy, proves most enjoyable. Herbert Shelley presents Dan the Outlaw in a manner worthy of the highest praise; Maggie Boman and Tom J. Morton are seen to advantage in She Loved a Policeman, a scena which creates plenty of mirth; Aida Martine is a very dainty comedienne and dancer; Victor Travers and Kioto are also responsible for excellent turns.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. Albert Chevalier is paying a very welcome visit here this week. Besides contributing several songs in his own inimitable manner, he appears with equal success in Barrie's clever play, The Pantaloon, and also in The Dream of His Life, a quaint sketch written by himself. He is supported by a capable company, which includes Mr. Julian Cross.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—A company of artists selected by Mr. Herbert Ralland and Mr. T. Sergenson is playing The Liars here this week. Mr. Charles Boult gives an intelligent rendering of Sir Christopher Dering; Mr. F. Pennington Gush earnestly plays Edward Falkner, and Mr. Leon Simkin brings out the idiosyncrasies of Freddie Tatton; Messrs. Arthur Gibbons and W. Barnett Parker as Gilbert Nepean and George Nepean respectively act their parts in the right spirit, and Mr. Arthur Dennis portrays Archibald Coke. Lady Jessica Nepean is charmingly presented by Miss Kitty Cavendish, and Lady Rosamund Tatton has a capable representative in Miss Chrissie Ralland; Miss Irene Vivian as Dolly Coke, and Miss Victoria Wray as Beatrice Ebernoe, are also painstaking actresses. Jerry and a Sunbeam is played as a curtain-raiser.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—The programme submitted here this week is more than usually attractive. The place of honour is occupied by Haley's Juveniles, who appear with very great success in their carnival scena. A no less popular turn is supplied by Kitchen and Lister's company in a dramatic sketch, entitled No. 99, which holds the audience spellbound. Besides these are Dale and O'Malley, clever comedians; Cline and Clark, in comedy and dance; Macdonald Trio, in their musical garden scena; Rossi Ashton, with his song-sketches; Sisters Caselli, duettists, and Alec Kendal, comedian.

NORTH PIER.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. James Walker.—A perennial favourite here is Harry Liston, the world-renowned entertainer, and his reappearance this week, along with his capable coadjutor, Miss Lora Lumley, has given the utmost delight to his numerous admirers.

VICTORIA PIER.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Geo. Roberts.—Mlle. Nellie Teggin, soprano vocalist; Mr. Geo. W. Nicholson, humorist; and Mr. George Royle's Troubadours are responsible for the entertainments here this week.

BOLTON.—THEATRE ROYAL (Ltd.)—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Ettiston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Melvin.—Mr. Fred Jarman's company, under the direction of Mr. Wilson Howard, is here with Under the Czar. The part of Nicholas Yero-slack is in the able hands of Mr. Wilson Howard, whilst Miss Carlotta Anson gives a sympathetic rendering of the part of Sonia Gregorovitch. Other characters are in capable hands.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon. Kartelli gives a marvellous performance on the slack wire, and other artists are Mollie Doon, a dainty soubrette; Maston, mimic; Tom Fancourt and Jennie Rubie, in comedy act, Nipper, the Messenger Boy; the Wakeman Quartette in a musical comedy sketch, with Miss Nancy Bruce as soloist; Miss Marie Jones, in her quick-change duologue, "The Way to Win a Bet," assisted by Mr. Ernest Munroe; Charles Lilburn, comedian; Agnes McKellar, a charming operatic vocalist; Henri Bekker, illusionist, assisted by Mlle. Mail; the Coolvilles, smart vocalists and dancers; Binns and Binns, in a comical musical act; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE.—MUNCASTER THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young.—Mr. W. Graham Arthur's company is here in When a Man Hates. Mr. F. A. Lester in the rôle of Sir Rupert Treherne displays marked ability, and Mr. F. A. Lewis enacts the part of Detective Smart in a powerful manner; Miss M. Liston plays with great pathos as Letty, and Olga Gwynne is capably represented by Miss M. Burleigh; Mr. A. Jarvis is acceptable as Lawrence Hastings; As Pietro Donelli Mr. W. G. Arthurs gives a finished performance; Miss J. Hallworth plays with great dash as Dolly Dimple, while praise is due to Mr. H. M. King for his capable rendering of Paul, the half-witted.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Ball.—Lennie and Hast present a charming phantasy, entitled The Sea Nymph; Hanvarr and Lee are clever and amusing in their juggling speciality, The Golfer and Maid; Frobell and Ruge, aerial comedians, create roars of laughter with Fun on a Pole; a pleasing turn is submitted by Haydee's marionettes, imitating variety artists; Forest and King are a pair of particularly clever and agile dancers; Lilian Elfreda scores as a mimic; Fred Lincoln is a diverting comedian; Billy Burford, comedienne, sings good songs; and entertaining pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—Mr. George Mudie's company in The Amateur Socialist is paying a first visit here, and is proving a distinct success. As Sir Hubert, Mr. George Mudie keeps the audience convulsed with laughter. Among other performers who stand out prominently are Mr. E. V. Rae as the Sergeant, Mr. Bruno Holmes as the Inspector, Miss Marie Hudspoth as Lady Pennefather, Mr. J. W. Deverell as Spencer, Miss Edith Deverell as Evelyn Rivers, Mr. Percy Carlton as Philip Wykeham, Mr. James Martin as Mr. Moberley, and Miss Ada Gordon as Lady Mabel. This theatre closes at the end of the week for extensive alterations.

BRADFORD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—Mr. Thomas Sidney and his excellent company are this week responsible for much hearty laughter with Mrs. Musgrave's farcical comedy, Our Flat. Mr. Edgar Kent as the impecunious Reginald Sylvester, and Miss Kathleen Russell as Margery, his resourceful wife, making the most of their many opportunities. Mr. Sidney gives an excellent performance of the part of the exuberant manager of the Star Theatre, Nathaniel Glover; as the choleric Mr. MacCullum, Mr. H. J. Hooker is very diverting; and Miss Ada Clarke as Lucy MacCullum is charming. The other parts are in capable hands. John Aylmer's Dream, an excellent little one-act play, which precedes the comedy, is well represented.

PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Mr. C. Watson Mill presents for the first time here this week his very successful and powerfully emotional drama, A Warning to Women. The part of Shaun, a wandering minstrel, is filled with much excellence by Mr. Mills himself. In her impersonation of the trying part of Moira Kennion, around whom the interesting plot is woven, Miss Rosalind Tate displays great power and dramatic skill; the villain, Dr. Marcus Dread, is effectively represented by Mr. Richard Vane; Molly O'Moore, "the wise woman," has an able exponent in Miss Ellen Beverley; Miss Grace Barton is good as Sheila Kennion; Squire Kennion is well represented by Mr. Henry Rutland; Mr. Norman B. Cannon's Fergus McNaughton is an able effort; there is much humour in Mr. N. Carter Slaughter's acting as Lord Eversleigh, the sprig of nobility; and general excellence marks the efforts of the rest of the company.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—In her ideal male impersonations Miss Vesta Tilley is again, this week, proving a powerful magnet, and great applause greets the popular artist; the smart and clever musical and dancing sketch, Flipp and Flopp, by the Delevines is again much relished by the audience; Kitty Wager, comedienne, submits a very acceptable turn; Tom Owen's Welsh humour is entertaining; double foot manipulation of a globe, and other balancing feats by the Wurtenberg Bros. are cleverly executed; D'Arc's Marionettes is a skilful and most amusing entertainment; a turn by Fred Poplar, comedian, finds favour; there is some charming and graceful dancing by Gwennie Hasto; Rosa Loader, as a "slavey at the piano," is responsible for a good deal of mirth; and the American Bioscope shows some fine pictures.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Ralli.—Jack Lane, "the Yorkshire rustic," provides a humorous comedy turn here this week; and Mabel and Winnie Brooke find favour with acceptable vocalism and dancing; in an acrobatic and leaping act the Three Bros. Huxter are distinctly clever; Walter Stanley's comedy is good; a trio of artists, including Arnold Richardson, are responsible for much laughter with a smartly written sketch, Ferdie's Ma-in-law; and an excellent programme also includes the Players, dancers, the Three Sisters Kilner, speciality artists, Sidney Dolf, in a vocal speciality, and Raymond's Bio-tableaux, showing excellent pictures.

BRIDLINGTON. — ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. Joseph Sainton's magnificent municipal orchestra has been enlarged, and the talented conductor is placing some charming programmes before the frequenters of the Floral Pavilion. On Tuesday and Wednesday the Parade was the rendezvous of the officers and men of H.M. flotilla destroyer fleet, which is this week lying in the bay. Mr. Palmer, the popular manager for the Corporation, worked hard to secure the great success which was achieved both by Mr. Sainton's concerts and Mr. Flockton Foster's costume entertainers in the Grand Pavilion. Mr. Fowler Burton, the melodious baritone, is paying a welcome return visit, and his songs at the Promenade concerts evoke great enthusiasm.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Henry Hague.—Special programmes have been given by Herr Simon Wurms' Imperial Viennese Band in honour of the visit of H.M. torpedo destroyer flotilla. Mr. Sydney James's Rustic Scholars continue to give their refined entertainments, to the delight of large audiences.

THE PALACE.—Managers, Messrs. W. H. and J. W. Delmar.—The company here this week includes the Leopold Legiere troupe, in their clever acrobatic act, and the Alveys, in an amusing musical absurdity entitled Bertie's Birthday; the Parisian Animated Pictures are a never-failing source of enjoyment; Sacco, the fasting man, emerged from his "hunger house" on Thursday last, after his twenty-five days' fast, and was given a hearty reception by a large audience. He was very pale and weak, but seemed to recover very quickly after a meal of veal and potatoes.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. C. Danton.—In addition to the usual entertainment, the company are this week appearing in an amusing farce entitled Our Alley, in which they are assisted by a troupe of children. Messrs. Geo. Hyam, H. B. Coda, J. Bath, and other members of the company are very amusing in their parts, and the inimitable "Sammy" (Mr. C. Beanland) keeps the audience in a constant state of merriment.

BRIGHTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl. — A powerful company opened here on Monday with David Copperfield. As Dan'l Peggotty Mr. Charles Cartwright submitted a masterly impersonation; Mr. Lionel Belmore gave a capital rendering of Ham; Mr. Gerald Lawrence handled the part of Steerforth with artistic skill; Mr. Stanley Harrison was admirably suited as David Copperfield; Mr. Charles Collette was delightfully entertaining as Mr. Micawber; and Mr. A. B. Tapping was distinctly effective as the unctuous Uriah Heep. Miss Lorna Lawrence imparted great charm and sympathy to her enactment of Little Em'ly; Miss Lillie Cavanagh's Martha was well played; Miss Beatrice Kelston made a graceful Agnes Wickfield; Miss Clarissa Selwynne's Rosa Dartle was a fine piece of acting; and able support was given by Mr. J. Wemyss (Mr. Wickfield), Miss Helen Vicary (Aunt Betsy), Miss Ethel Sarjient (Mrs. Gummidge), and Mr. D. Bryan (Littimer). The programme for the week also included David Garrick and The Coping Stone, in both of which Miss Fay Davis appeared with great success.

GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Shadows of a Great City is being performed here this week, and is the first of a series of revivals of well-known dramas which Mr. Carpenter has announced for the next few weeks. Mr. Roy Redgrave as Tom Cooper makes an ideal hero; Miss Daisy Scudamore is bright and charming as the heroine, Nellie Standish; Mr. E. J. Preston as the villainous George Benson is powerfully effective; Mr. Charles Russell's Abe Nathan and Mr. Charles Preece's Jim Farren are capitally enacted; Miss Lucy Murray makes a very entertaining Biddy Roonan; Miss Amy Venimore is a pleasing Annie Standish; and other parts are satisfactorily sustained by Miss Marie Tremayne, Mr. H. C. Lanceley, Mr. George Thomas, and Mr. Arthur H. Hill. The drama is finely staged.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is a capital company here this week. Arthur Lennard is enthusiastically applauded for his songs; Master Ernie Scovell is a pleasing vocalist; May Henderson, "the dusky comedy queen," is warmly received; Abel and Welsh are funny grotesque eccentrics; J. Dorasami, the Indian violinist, submits an excellent turn; the Kirbys, comedy and burlesque entertainers, achieve great success; Lizzie Fletcher is a charming comedienne; the Ellimans (Alice and Van) are refined musical entertainers; Carney and Armstrong, comedians, whistle and sing in good style; and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting and amusing.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—An attractive programme is submitted here this week. May Edouin wins hearty applause for her charmingly rendered songs; the Brothers Griffith convulse the audience with laughter in their motor-car and wrestling scene; Fred Edwards and company provide plenty of fun in the sketch, Kleptomaniacs, Mr. Fred Edwards as Jack Hollister and Miss Bertha Northam as Dora Thorne meriting especial praise; Fred Cary is a quaint comedian; Radford and Valentine, "the jolly, juggling jesters," give a capital turn; May Mars makes a great hit in the scena, "In the Shadow of the Pyramids"; Geoffreys and Benson are amusing in the comedy-sketch, Spoofed; the Society Quartet, vocalists and dancers, are highly successful; Effie White's original kaleidoscope dance is warmly appreciated; Joe Chevers, "the lady cook," is cordially received; and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company opened here on Monday with Nell Gwyn of Drury Lane, and achieved great success. Mr. Norman V. Norman, a great favourite with Brighton audiences, gave a sterling impersonation of Charles II.; Miss Beatrice Wilson made a charming and winsome Nell Gwyn; Mr. Francis Hope as Adam Bareacres submitted a capital character sketch; Miss B. Stannard was highly effective as Rose; Mr. Kenneth Bruce's Lord Rochester, Mr. Norman Leslie's Lord Dellans, and Mr. Sam Wilkinson's Col. Blood were well played, and the remaining characters were ably represented. The programme for the week included Robin Hood.

PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Mr. Charles La Trobe's company is here this week with Jedbury Junior. Mr. A. W. Tyrer acquits himself admirably in the title-rôle; Miss Victoria Addison gives an excellent enactment of Dora Hedway; Mr. Geo. Percy as Mr. Simpson, and Richard Neville as Tom Bellerby are well suited; and Mr. Reginald Craven is very entertaining as Mr. Glibb.

CINEMATOGRAPH THEATRE, MELLISON'S SKATING RINK, WEST-STREET.—Afternoon and evening cinematograph exhibitions are given here daily. The films are up to-date, and prove very attractive.

BRISTOL.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory's company is here with the German military play, Lights Out, the staging and military uniforms being conspicuously good. Miss Frances Dare plays, with much grace and power, the difficult part of Klara Volkhardt; Mr. Charles Esdale acts excellently as Lieut. Von Lauffen; Mr. Kenneth Brampton does well as Lieut. Von Howen; Mr. Wilton Reed acts with much power as Sergeant Volkhardt, looking the part admirably; Mr. Richard Fielding is highly effective as Corporal Helbig; and the parts of Private Speiss, Corporal Queiss, and Captain Lebdenburg are capitally taken by Mr. F. Higton, Mr. Francis J. Bithell, and Mr. Lambert Plummer. The remaining characters are all in good hands, and the special German uniforms are by Messrs. Nathan, from Berlin. The performance commences with an amusing one-act play, A Hundred Years Hence, in which the parts of Astrea Dacre and Billy Windermere are cleverly taken by Miss Belle Donaldson and Mr. Lambert Plummer.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. H. Alty.—The Woman Who Gambles is the attraction here, the drama being adequately staged, and well played by Mr. T. Morton Powell's company. Miss Lillian Herries acts with much power as the Countess Natalie Steinbach; Count Otto Steinbach has a very effective exponent in Mr. George Steele; Mr. Percy Ballard acts well and consistently as Baron Cratzlaw; Miss Dorothy Haigh is pleasing as Cora Gouldhart; Miss Lily Malvern does excellently as Stella Malakoff; and other parts are carefully taken by Mr. Reginald Fox, Mr. Ernest H. Clarke, and Mr. Gibson.

PALACE THEATRE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman. — The Brothers Horne head the bill with their amusing comedy sketch, The Biter Bit; Dusty Rhodes, comedian, obtains considerable applause; Albert Wyndham and company are successful in their latest Shakespearean sketch, Othello; the Davis and Gledhill Trio score with their cycle and motor racing exhibition on their own patent track; Eadie and Ramsden (James and Cissy) have a smart comedy duologue, Charley's Visit; Alix Lukos is a successful vocalist; and James and Lucy Allison are pleasing comedy duettists and dancers. The performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures, projected by Vernon's Bioscope.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Kate Carney is here with her famous coster scena, 'Liza Johnson, and is very popular with all parts of the house. In connection with Miss Carney's visit, there are competitions for valuable prizes, for the best rendering of any of her songs. Ida Katherina, the Dolly Girl, presents a clever speciality, in which she scores both in song and dance; Mabel Le Roy is a pleasing comedienne; the Sivronis amuse with a burlesque scena, the lady being an acceptable vocalist; Cranston and Bennett have an amusing comedy duologue, A Model Wife; and Harry Walker, comedian, obtains considerable applause. The entertainment closes with interesting animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Jack Haddon's company is here with Under the Russian Flag. Miss Marie Rayner makes a great impression as Luka Marischka; General Romanoff is finely played by Mr. George Cecil Murray; Mr. Sidney Arnold and Mr. Charles Stafford as Michael and Ivan make the most of their parts; Mr. Jack Haddon ably presents Captain Demetrius, and Mr. Templar Ellis as Alexis Skopolopski, Mr. Hal Forde as Peter, and Miss Molly Hackett as Ogarita contribute the comedy business; Mr. W. Wilson leaves nothing to be desired in the study of Colonel Souvaroff, and a charming Vera Vassiloff is enacted by Miss Violet Lytton.

BURNLEY.—VICTORIA OPERA HOUSE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—A bright and sparkling entertainment is provided here in Mr. Charles Carcy's musical comedy, The Pick of the Bunch. Mr. Harold Wantage is very amusing in the rôle of Dick Seymore; Mr. Algernon W. Lee sings most acceptably as Halliwell Menit, and Mr. Percy Baverstock as Colonel Menit is admirable. Miss Eva Ellis is a charming Ruth Gay; Miss Elna C. Hilton is pretty, and sings well as Nellie Mather. The fun is kept going by the clever efforts of Miss M. Sadie as Nancy, her funny singing being heartily encored.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—The head of the programme is occupied here this week by Sam Elton, whose grotesque antics and marvellous tumbling call forth much laughter and applause. Les Rallis, in The Artist and His Monkey, are very clever, and are highly appreciated. The Cromwells perform a series of smart juggling feats; and Baroni and Kemp do some startling quick changes. Verno and Voyce are tuneful and pleasing in a duet, "The Butcher and the Baker"; Carney Brothers are received with applause for their comedy duets; J. H. Greener, singing collier, is good, and "The Haunted Hotel" is a clever fake by the Empire Theatroscope.

BURTON-ON-TRENT. — NEW HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. H. Dudley Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Some good variety turns are given here this week. The Sousa Arabs, eight in number, give a really astonishing acrobatic performance, and easily gain premier honours; Mlle. Ada Gatley is an extremely clever wire artist and juggler; Mabelle May excels as a singer and dancer; Palette produces some skilful artistic sketches, and includes in his turn Max, a statue dog; a musical monologue by Leo King is much enjoyed; Songs by Winnie Stanhope and Ted Clifton, with living pictures by the Operascope, conclude a capital programme.

BURY ST. EDMUNDS.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Eade Montefiore.—The strong bill here is headed by A. G. Spry, whose songs bring down the house; Miss Kate Avey is a pleasing vocalist of dainty appearance; the Keiths give a most enjoyable musical act; Ruby and Laws are favourites in their smart sketch, In Old Madrid; Newham and Latimar create much merriment; and Jury's pictures complete the programme.

BUXTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton, with their admirable company, were enthusiastically welcomed for the first three nights of this week. On Tuesday evening Mr. Asche delighted the audience with his famous study of Othello, and Miss Lily Brayton was a delightfully sweet Desdemona. Mr. Alfred Brydone played Iago excellently; and Mr. H. R. Higgett was sound and efficient as Cassio. Mr. G. Kay-Soupe made Roderigo a rather amusing lover; and Mr. Reginald Ian Penny was dignified as Montano. Miss Constance Robertson as Emilia played with rare dramatic force; and the minor parts were filled admirably. On Monday and Wednesday Taming of the Shrew was played. The pieces are beautifully staged.

CAMBRIDGE. — NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—The Belle of New York was played on Monday night by Mr. J. Bannister Howard and Mr. George Musgrove's company. Miss Empsie Bowman in the title-rôle was a very sweet and dainty Salvation Army lassie. Mr. Frank Lawton in his original part of Blinky Bill gave some remarkable whistling; Mr. Paddy Dupres as Ichabod Bronson worked hard and successfully; Harry Bronson was well played by Mr. John Doran; and Mr. Joseph R. Tate as the polite lunatic, Mr. Alfred Sandoe as Doc Snifkins, and Mr. Walter Uridge as Kenneth Mugg were all exceedingly good. Miss Lily Maxwell made a charming Fifi; Miss Winnie Browne was a remarkably fine-looking Cora, and Miss Florence Hessee put in some very dainty dancing.

CARDIFF.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—The Scarlet Clue was played here on Monday and Tuesday. Miss Grace Warner presents a striking delineation of Sal Scarlet, and the audience do not fail to show their appreciation. Mr. George Gordon is also responsible for a clever rendering of Michael Stanton; and as his accomplice in villainy, Edward Croker, Mr. L. Boyds is seen to great advantage; Mr. Charles Pitt in the dual rôle of Jack and Harry Esmond is very good; and the part of Sir Desmond Lisle could not be in more capable hands than those of Mr. Jack Armitage. Mr. F. Heywood as Billy, the burglar, is entertaining with his songs and comedy. Special mention should be made of Little Doris Graham, who as Little Polly gives a capital embodiment. On Wednesday and Thursday The Little Widow was staged, and East Lynne was presented on Friday.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. W. Lea; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—Rowland and Kitty Howes are mystifying crowded houses at this popular house with their mental telepathy. The Boisset troupe are welcomed on a return visit with their funny sketch, The Bricklayers; Marguerite Broadfoote is a charming and refined comedienne. Others in the programme are Ross and Lewis, in their humorous dancing idiosyncrasy; the Phydoras, in an eccentric musical act; Powell's marionettes; Frank Couch, a popular patter comedian; Grace Merton, the original street-singer; the three Sisters Chester, dancers and instrumentalists; and a series of pictures on the bioscope depicting a boar hunt.

CARLISLE.—H. M. THEATRE.—Lessees, Mr Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager Mr. Thos. Courtice.—On Monday the stock company appeared in The Corsican Brothers. Mr. William J. Miller in the interesting dual rôle gives a highly creditable performance; the Chateau Renaud of Mr. Edward Beecher is excellent; Captain A. E. Winnington-Barnes sustains the part of Montgiron carefully; Mr. Gerald Byrne makes Maynard as prominent as possible; and Mr. Chas. Stone, Mr. Harry Douglas, and Mr. Phil Davis make the most of their comedy scenes; Emilie de Lesparre is cleverly depicted by Miss Ethel Bracewell; and a word of praise is justly due to the scenic artist, Mr. Phil Davis, his forest scenery being beautifully painted.

THE PALACE.—Proprietors, the Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Ltd.; Managing-Directors, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—The first visit of George Gray and company in the well-known dramatic sketch, The Fighting Parson, has proved a huge success; Ryan and Hall give a particularly smart acrobatic act; the Gladenbecks are on a return visit with their feats of strength; Eldra and his smart little dog, Prince, contribute quite a sensational juggling act; the Sisters Grosvenor harmonise popular melodies with good effect; and the Pepiscope, with new pictures is a popular item.

CARMARTHEN. — ASSEMBLY ROOMS. — Public Rooms Co.; Secretary, Mr. Edward Baldwin.—This week Mr. Lawrence Brough and company (who were on a visit to Swansea for the week at the Grand Theatre) motored to Carmarthen—a distance of thirty miles—and gave a matinée performance at 2.30, of the Lady of Ostend. Mr. Lawrence Brough took the part of the amorous Baron with his usual conspicuous ability; Mr. Henry Hampson, as the luckless Dick Whortles, was exceptionally good; Mr. Percy Marshall portrayed the part of Joseph Carbury (the father-in-law) admirably; Mr. Watkin Wynne as Toby Krockitt, the prize-fighter, made all he could out of the character; as did also Mr. Reginald A. Hunt as the cinematograph manager, Mr. H. Douglas as Thompson, the clerk, and Mr. Hewson Elliott as James, the butler. The title-rôle was excellently impersonated by Miss Roberta Svendson; Miss Kate Milford cleverly portrayed the part of the humiliated wife, Dorothy Whortles; Miss Bessie Harrison as Dick's mother-in-law was really good; Miss Evelyn Armonde as Millie Grace was equally successful; and the same may be said of Miss Eva Boyne as Jane.

CASTLEFORD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and W. H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson.—An immense audience welcomed the advent of Mr. T. W. Rawson and Lily Bertram's sketch, The Would-be Actors, which causes much laughter; another smart turn is the Japanese juggling of Morimura, assisted by Miako; Miss Olga Fane, with a pleasant manner and telling voice, is loudly applauded; Mlle. Bartenelli is a clever bender gymnast, and comes in for her full share of applause; the Boultons (Fred and Ivy), as speciality artists appear with much success; Magna, in classic and artistic poses, proves a powerful attraction; Stephen Blythe, an actor-vocalist, has a well-trained voice; and Rodin exhibits much skill as a comedy knockabout cyclist. A new series of animated pictures by the Loyal Dominion Company are still an interesting feature.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton, in conjunction with Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond, are this week presenting A Soldier of France. Mr. Arthur Hinton gives a powerful impersonation of Father Jean; Mr. Travis Green is seen to advantage as Judas Delara; Mr. Arthur Lowry does well as Duke D'Laval; Mr. Wilton Drury creates laughter as Pollyput Jollyboy; Mr. Victor Millard makes a popular Louis; Miss Jennie Clare is a vivacious Margot; Miss Lydia Andre a pleasing Rita; while Miss Leila Zillwood's Pauline is a very praiseworthy performance.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. B. B. Barnard.—The great Roland is topping the bill and mystifying the audience nightly with some neat illusions; Hettie Chattell's male impersonations are greatly appreciated; the Sisters Allen sing a lively ditty and indulge in a spirited tambourine dance; Will Polusk'i's comic songs are quite to the taste of Barnard's patrons; Devereux's dogs perform some clever feats, and wind up with the canine drama, The Streets of London; the dancing of Ellis and Watts wins admiration; Alex and Lilly, youthful comedians, and Violet Desmond, comedienne, complete the variety part of the programme, while Lacey's Erascope continues to provide fresh subjects.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—Fred Ginnett's Boy Army form the leading attraction here, and for their smart military evolutions gain well-deserved applause; Burnetti scores in a quick-change musical act; the Schenck Brothers are very successful equilibrists; Ray and Calder's act, Peculiarities, goes well; Miss Sylvia Du Barry pleases with "Sing me to sleep"; Bertha Norwood, serio and dancer, and Happy Attwood, comedian, do well in their respective lines, while the Edisonograph has a fine film in "The Wreck of the Mary Jane."

CHELTENHAM. — OPERA HOUSE. — General Manager, Mr. H. Oswald Redford.—An excellent wind-up of a good season is provided this week by Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean company. On Tuesday night Don Quixote was staged for the first time here. Mr. Benson in the title-role scored one of his greatest successes; Mr. Geo. R. Weir revels in the part of Sancho Panza, being at his best; Miss Gwladys Wynne is a tender and charming Antonia; Mr. Clarence Derwent is excellent as the Duke; Mr. George Buchanan as Nicholas the barber is very effective; Miss Leah Hanman as Maraquita is good. Garrick's version of Wycherley's Country Girl is down for Friday night.

MONTPELLIER PAVILION.—Manager, for the Cheltenham Corporation, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—This week Cardow's Cadets are paying their first visit to Cheltenham. Messrs. Charles Cardow, Kenneth Scott, Colin Clough, J. T. Wilcox; J. L. Sutton, and Percy Stanhope (ventriloquist), form a remarkable sextet of talented performers, in whose entertainment humour reigns supreme. An excellent list of engagements has been arranged, and a particularly successful season seems assured.

CHESTER.—ROYALTY THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The Edgertons, who hold premier position here, give a sensational exhibition on the flying trapeze; C. H. Charlton mystifies with a clever sleight-of-hand performance; Cosgrove and Burns are well received in a bright vaudeville act; the Tenessee Guards go through some smart military manœuvres; Ben Jackson is a clever trick banjoist; Harewood's Juveniles, in song and dance meet with success in scena, A Children's Christmas Eve; and up-to-date pictures are projected by Vernon's Bioscope. G. P. Newall, vocal comedian, and Lola Patey, the Dutch colleen, also appear.

CHORLEY (Lancs.). — GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Hemingway.—This week, which is the last of the season, the bill is "topped" by that fine artist, Chevalier Cliquot, sword swallower, who is capitally received; a clever item is furnished by the Four Eugenes, who perform astonishing gymnastic feats; the Sisters Ford win high praise; while Ellis and Dale, expert chain leapers; the Mays, eccentric dancers; Howard and Corelli, in a novel musical act; Mr. G. Grenville, comedian; Mr. Johnny Thompson, comedian; and Miss Maude Thelda, vocalist and dancer, are very successful in their respective performances.

CLACTON-ON-SEA.—OPERETTA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Bertram C. Ross; Manager, Mr. Wm. A. Sargant.—The variety company here this week includes Ford and Barris, a couple of lads who dance well and are good bone players; Daisy Silcott, comedienne; Jack Heath, a good eccentric comedian; Bicknelle, comedy clay modeller; Ch. Butler, in song-scena, The Bushranger, in which he has the assistance of Miss Millicent Prince; Mme. De Castello, operatic singer; the Misses Cissie Avondale and Ena May, from last week; and Fred Land, comedian. Jury's Bioscope shows some good pictures.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Harold Montague; Manager, Mr. E. J. Barrett. — The vaudeville troupe, The Vagabonds, are still here, and get a good share of the business being done. The troupe is made up of Mesdames Olive Spark, Leslie Lulu, Marie Longmore, and Ethel Mayaffré, and Messrs. Leslie Burgess, Claude Russell, and H. Montague.

WEST CLIFF GARDENS. — Proprietors, Messrs. Graham Russell and Bentley.—Mr. Owen Clark, conjurer, and Mr. Hubert Baker, tenor, are still here, and the bill has been further strengthened by the addition of Miss Emelie Hayes, a young lady with a beautiful voice.

COLCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Macdona; Resident-Manager, Mr. F. C. Upton.—Mr. James Hare and company in the Servian drama, A Destroyer of Men, opened a week's engagement here on Monday. Mr. Hare himself essayed the exacting rôle of Karl Mischla, his magnificent physique, coupled with his undoubted ability as an actor, making his effort highly successful. Miss Irene Clifford played the part of Olga; whilst the popular rôle of Vida Ravel was nicely taken by Miss Jessie Yatman. Mr. Ross Warren as Coco and Miss Alice Buckland as Nina attended to the lighter side; whilst the respective parts of Count Starevitch, Paul (his son), and Michael Mischla were in the hands of Mr. C. P. Wentworth, Mr. Hill Cremer, and Mr. Charles Bickell.

HIPPODROME. — Joint Proprietors, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—Alfred Lester tops the bills this week with his humorous episode, entitled The Scene-Shifter's Lament. Miss Leah Adell, a lady possessing a highly-cultivated soprano voice of great compass, scores most decisively in a charmingly-arranged song-scena. Carl Rosine is well received as a magician; and Ted E. Box is a gigantic success as a comedian and bird imitator; Cribb and Cribb are very amusing on the Benches in the Park; Doris Lilian sings and dances in taking style, and Flo Wood is successful as a vocalist. A distinct feature of the programme is the excellent music provided under the bâton of Mr. James Hargreaves, who is this week severing his connection with this hall.

COLWYN BAY.—PROMENADE STAGE.—Proprietor, Mr. Charles Dare; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Bickley.—Chas. Dare has built a miniature stage on the promenade for his minstrel performances, and a most pleasing effect is obtained. George Leslie Buxton's character sketches from Dickens are exceptionally well received; George Snow, Dan O'Connor, and Harry Bickley are all clever comedians; the Musical Carlos give several imitations with great skill. Fred Esdale's whistling solos are well executed; whilst Wm. Llewelyn uses his baritone voice to good effect. Sam Morrison, female impersonator, is good; whilst James Carr, interlocutor and bass vocalist, gives a praiseworthy performance.

CATLIN'S PIERROTS.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Frere.—Sydney Frere is a comedian of the first water, whilst Chas. E. Lewis has proved himself to be a ventriloquist thoroughly up to his work. Chas. E. Lee, James Craig, and Donald Gilbert are all good comedians; whilst Chas. Marston is the possessor of a rich baritone voice which he uses to great advantage.

VICTORIA PIER PAVILION.—Secretary, Mr. W. H. Pryce Davis.—On Saturday Arthur Rix, entertainer, gave two musical sketches, which were well received; Miss Winifred Marwood was the vocalist, and was given a grand reception. She continues here during the week.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Lionel Rignold, Miss Ada Blanche, and company are playing here in What the Butler Saw. Miss Ada Blanche, a clever actress, submits a delightful study of Mrs. Barrington; Mr. Lionel Rignold as the Butler extracts a large amount of humour from the part; and Mr. Charles Fawcett makes a capital John Barrington.

PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Henry Kemble.—The programme here this week is given as a complimentary benefit to Mr. Henry Kemble, the courteous manager, on his retirement. Among other items, John Warren, illusionist, presents "The Magic Carpet," a military musical mystery, also a number of sleight-of-hand tricks; Beatrice Denvil, juvenile character vocalist, pleases the audience by her delightful singing; Joe O'Donnell is heard with pleasure in character songs; Rozene and Robini are an amusing pair of gymnasts; Hill and Long give a clever step-dancing turn; Fay and Fay cause great mirth as comedy boxers; the Bros. O'Brien are clever bar performers; Frank Newbury is capital in his whistling selections; John Warren gives an amusing ventriloquial turn; the Three Transfields submit a pretty musical turn; Bertha Stuart, Scotch character vocalist, sings with much feeling and expression; and the cinematograph shows some capital pictures.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—A powerful domestic drama, by the late Wilson Barrett, entitled The Sledge Hammer, is winning considerable attention at this house of amusement. The hero, Everard Derrick, is ably represented by Mr. Alfred Burrows; the Brothers Jacob and Simon Derrick are well impersonated by Messrs. A. Bertram Croucher and Hardy Maros respectively; Miss Jessie Hope gracefully portrays the character of Rose Maywell; Miss Ethel Stuart creditably enacts the part of Maria Derrick; considerable humour is successfully introduced by Mr. Fred Best (Tom Walker), Mr. Victor C. Rolfe (Sammy Shaw), Harry Daniels (Ezra Walker), and Miss May Douglas (Catherine Hearis).

HIPPODROME THEATRE.—An enjoyable programme is provided here. The Claymores are novelty club jugglers of a high class; Great Scott provides a good turn in ladder balancing; Speedwell paints rapid portraits of famous men; Harry Ford pleases with his smart songs; and Arthur Reece is also a very lively comedian. Other artists that give excellent turns are Helm and Cozens, Amy Sullivan, and David Toole. There is also a capital set of pictures shown this week.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance.—The chief attraction here is the Kellinos, Risley artists; Fred Cullane's Comedy Four give a musical and mirthful turn; Barrett and Knowles are clever dancers; Pearce and Ward, comedy acrobats, get a warm welcome; company opened on Monday in the late Frank Harvey's popular play Shall We Forgive Her? It attracted a large and well-pleased audience. Miss Ada Marius made quite a hit as Joanna Lightfoot; Miss Edith Anton Laing was pathetic and convincing as the much-wronged heroine, Grace West; Miss Ida Chapman played the ingénue part with sincerity and charm; Miss Nina Zambray was well placed as the old Aunt; Mr. T. Herbert Beaumont made a sympathetic Paul Illsworthy; Mr. Frank Bradley, who produced the drama, made the villain, Neil Garth, convincing; Mr. Charles B. Vaughan worked hard as Oliver West. Other rôles were well sustained by Messrs. A. C. Thornhill, Robert Averill, Charles F. Lloyd, and Frank Carlton.

DOVER. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and company are meeting with a great reception on the occasion of their first visit to this town. Ingomar, Never Too Late to Mend, The Octoroon, Cramond Brig, and The Three Musketeers comprise the répertoire. As D'Artagnan in The Three Musketeers Mr. Tearle gives a performance both artistic and powerful. The dignity necessary to the rôle of King Louis is effectively assumed by Mr. G. T. Greig; Mr. Bernhardt Turner's subtle and expressive bye-play as Cardinal Richelieu is worthy of all praise; Mr. Clifford Marle makes a picturesque Duke of Buckingham; and the Three Musketeers are successfully played by Mr. R. H. Lace, Mr. Ernest Lodge, and Mr. A. D. Admas. Miss Kate Clinton makes a handsome Miladi; and Miss Mary Campbell contributes an excellent portrayal of Ann of Austria. Miss Esther Tearle acts with skill as Constance.

THE PALACE AND HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Holt.—At the top of an excellent bill are the Seven Wulfrunas, in acrobatic antics; Molly Seymour is an expert violinist; Tom Bass causes much hilarity by his well-rendered songs and patter; Mr. Harry Sims is an effective light comedian; Ida Brophy sings exceptionally well; and Wilton, Heriot, and company, in An Anglo-American Alliance, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux complete the programme.

DUBLIN.—GAIETY THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—Mr. Eugène C. Stafford's company is paying a return visit here this week with The Private Secretary. Mr. Donald Price-Evans gives an extremely laughable impersonation of the Rev. Robert Spalding; Miss Dora Grey acts the rôle of Edith Marsland in a clever and pleasing manner; Mr. W. Hargreaves is exceedingly droll as Mr. Cattermole; and Mrs. Alfred Davis makes the most of the part of Miss Ashford. Mr. H. Sinclair distinguishes himself as Mr. Marsland, and Miss Cecily Wade is an entertaining Mrs. Stead. The part of Mr. Gibson is in the capable hands of Mr. Vivian Gilbert, and Miss Mary E. Deverell is admirable in the rôle of Eva Webster. Douglas Cattermole has an able exponent in Mr. Randolfe Reade, and the part of Harry Marsland is well sustained by Mr. James Hussey. The farce, My American Admirer, capitally played by Mr. H. Sinclair, Miss Cecily Wade, Mr. James Hussey, and Miss Mary E. Deverell, precedes.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—A varied and interesting programme is submitted here this week. George Kirk and company are responsible for an important item, a dramatic sketch, entitled Grip; or, The Fatal Hand, which is produced in a highly artistic manner. Mendel displays extraordinary powers as a pianist, and is deservedly applauded; S. Alexander and company in their sketch, Brown in Paris, evokes roars of laughter; Billy Farrell is an exceedingly clever coloured artist, whose songs and dances are particularly well done; Gladys Mavius, assisted by Dot in a song-scena, entitled Rosie Is Waiting, is nightly recalled; the Sisters Jonghmanna are great favourites and are accorded a hearty reception; Charles Norton scores successfully in a series of clever imitations; H. E. High, the "swank comedian," has caught on; and Maud Lester with a sweet voice renders her numbers tastefully. The Empire pictures are up to the usual standard.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The fare submitted here is again of a first-class character. Occupying the top line are Lanos and Monteo, Continental eccentrics, who are greeted nightly with continuous laughter and applause. The Coons' Revelry, by Barnard's Mannikins, is decidedly clever and interesting; Mack Ollive, assisted by Miss Daisy Baldry, in his whistling scena, The Candy Store, makes a decided hit; the Vyponds, society entertainers, are cordially received; Martine and Son, song illustrators, are well appreciated; Fyne and Hurley are an amusing pair of comedians; Sim Maree, Oriental wonder, contributes some smart work; Ford Williams is a good baritone vocalist whose songs prove popular; Harry Russon is a versatile artist; and the latest pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The following artists are appearing here:—The Cashlings, duettists and dancers; Teddy Lennon, comedian; Rose Cameron, ballad vocalist; and Joe Cash, eccentric comedian. The new cinematograph is also in the bill.

ROUND ROOM ROTUNDA.—The Zancigs commenced a short season here on Monday. The Viceregal party and a large and fashionable audience were present at the afternoon performance. The tests, which were certainly bewildering and numerous, were gone through in a manner which won for M. and Mme. Zancig the hearty encomiums of the house. The programme was also contributed to by Miss Ethel Grimes, Mr. Sydney Jarvis, Miss Katie Moss, Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge, Miss Clara Alexander, Mr. David Brazell, and Mr. Harold Scott.

PAVILION (KINGSTOWN).—Manager, Mr. Fred R. Heley.—Sidney James' Strolling Players opened for a short season here on Monday. The company, which is an excellent one, and is well patronised by large audiences daily, includes Miss Madeline Bonstter, whose admirable dancing evokes hearty applause; Mr. Sydney James, in song and story, keeps the audience highly amused. Other turns which deserve mention are Mr. Victor Wallace, Miss Seymour James, Mr. G. W. Desmond, and Miss Clarence May. The Bioscope completes an enjoyable programme.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—Topping the bill this week are the Warsaw Brothers, who get a very enthusiastic welcome; Otto and Olga appear with immense success in their clever mock operatic act, and R. C. Note sings some good songs in capital style. That very dainty comedienne, Rais Walters, scores a terrific hit with her delightful "Fishing" song, and the equally popular "Camera" song; while Evie Hamilton, soubrette and dancer, likewise meets with well-merited success. The Two Cliffs are responsible for an exceedingly neat and clever equilibristic act; while Daisy Devonport, a sweet singer and accomplished dancer, and the Three Florodora Girls, in their new act, Rival Sweethearts, come in for a big share of applause. Vernon's Imperial Bioscope completes.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. Williams.—In place of the usual variety show, The Master Criminal is staged here by Miss Winifred Chalmers' company. Mr. Henry L. Osmond sustains the title-rôle in a masterly manner; as the hero, Philip Manners, Mr. Harold C. Macartney plays in an intelligent fashion; the Scotland Yard detective finds a good interpreter in Mr. John C. Carlyle; Miss Kate Somerville gives a good study of the part of Mabel Manners; Miss Alice Lloyd as Mrs. Manners is thoroughly successful, and the Cecile of Miss Winifred Chalmers is very effective.

HIPPIN THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Minnie Osborne, a very clever coon singer and dancer, fairly captivates with her charming contributions, and has to respond to repeated encores. Walter Ross, an amusing eccentric comedian, has a capital budget of quaint ditties which he warbles in his own inimitable style; Philip Sefton displays his elocutionary ability in effective fashion. Several of the very latest pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Devonshire Park and Baths Co.; Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clarke.—Mr. Murray King and company are amusing large audiences with Jane, to the success of which the comedy work of Mr. Murray King as William Tipkins is a great contributing factor. Charles Charleston is played by Mr. Charles Crawford in brisk and natural style; Mr. Ardene Linden is an amusing Mr. Kershaw; Mr. Edmund Bercesford, a satisfactory Pinion; and good help is given by Mr. Wilfrid Rocke as Claude. Miss Tessa Myers is a bright and attractive Jane; Mrs. Stanislaus Calhaem and Miss Sophie Jullans are suitable representatives of Mrs. Chadwick and Lucy; and Miss Pauline Straus is a very good Mrs. Pixton. The American Widow precedes, and in this Miss Lilias Waldegrave is a handsome and captivating Mrs. Vanbright; Mr. B. Beresford ably doing duty as the Earl of Somerville.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Miss Dorothy Cacey and company are appearing here in When We Were Twenty-one. As Kara Glenesk, Miss Cacey is a marked success; as Phyllis, Miss Mildred Hodson is full of brightness and charm; Miss Susie Oak is a pert and chic Babette; and Miss Flo Preddy does very well as Miss Ericson. A conspicuous triumph is achieved by Mr. Riddell Robinson as Richard Carewe; Mr. Edgar J. Coyne is an excellent Sir Horace Plumely; Mr. Gerald Henson as the Imp displays clever work in a difficult part; and Mr. Frank Powell and Mr. L. Routledge are capable as Colonel Grahame and Dr. McGrath.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; General-Manager, Mr. H. Day; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—At the head of a varied and interesting bill is Mr. Charles Austin, who keeps the audience in roars of laughter; the Four Olympian Stars are charming dancers; Mr. Luis Hardt serves up a strong man turn in a novel, attractive manner; Beau and Belle sing pleasing songs; Miss Violet Stockelle again scores as a comedienne; Mr. Richard Fineberg proves himself a capable actor; Grant and Allen are a couple of funny comedians; and new pictures are shown.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Carpenter.—Miss Annie Hughes and company are here this week in the comedy Tommy. In the title-part, Miss Hughes plays with humour, simplicity, tenderness, and power; a capital study of the optimistic old editor, Peter Hope, is given by Mr. Evelyn Vernon; Mr. William Hartill displays valuable comedy gifts as William Clodd; and Mr. Reginald F. Beach is good as Flipp, the office-boy. Miss Winifred Pearson is well fitted with the part of Mr. Morrison; Mr. Rupert Lister's fine presence, graceful gestures, and resonant voice enable him to completely realise the character of Dick Danvers; and Miss Ida Richardson acts with pathos and charm the part of the young girl Honour. The play is preceded by the old farce Good for Nothing, in which Miss Annie Hughes acts with much cleverness as the tomboy Nan. She is admirably supported by Mr. Hartill, Mr. Vernon, Mr. T. A. Braidon, and Miss Vera Pole.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—Galletti's monkey comedians are prominent in this week's bill, with their wonderful display of almost human intelligence; and, oddly enough, their amusing antics find an echo in the clever duologue turn of Athas and Collins. Mr. Herbert Adams introduces with great effect his illuminated cycling novelty, Cyclumina; and the dancing of the Brothers Lester, as well as that of Mignonette Kokin, is a remarkable performance. Miss Winifred Ward's male character impersonations find great favour with the house; Farr and Farrland afford considerable entertainment with their somewhat new style of patter conversation and skilful banjo playing; and the Tokio Troupe of "happy little Japs" appear in quite sensational acts of juggling, balancing, and wire-rope climbing. The Black Hussars make their first appearance in Edinburgh with their American novelty, The Bass Drum Trust. The company consists of fourteen coloured artists. Bioscope pictures complete the programme.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Mr. Neil Kenyon, the star announced for this week, has unfortunately been unable through sudden illness to fulfil his engagement. His place is taken by Miss Amy Augarde and company, with the Spanish episode, La Carmencita. The operetta receives a spirited rendering at the hands of Miss Augarde, Mr. Watson, Mr. Wilfred Howard, Mr. Jamie Dallas, and Mr. E. A. Hill-Mitchelson. The Lukushimas troupe of Japanese entertainers, including Otara San, a clever lady artist, appear in a series of marvellous and sensational feats, very dexterously performed; smart knockabout business is contributed by the Karno Four in their comedy pantomime, The Dinner Hour; and also by Stelling and Revel, on the horizontal bars. Frank Bertram and company submit an amusing comedy sketch of the Charley's Aunt type, entitled The Chaperon; quaint and eccentric comedian turns are given by Mr. Herbert Rule, Mr. Frank Seeley, and Mr. Jock Mills; Miss Claire Romaine pleases the audience by her success as a male impersonator; the Boccaccio Minstrels, with whom is Signor Francia, the famous mandoline soloist, give a most acceptable scena; and the speciality dances of Johnson and Wells, a smart coloured couple, are characterised by unlimited vigour with no little novelty.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Ventom Swift.—Mr. Duse Mahomed and company appear in a one-act tragedy, entitled The Jew's Revenge, in which Mr. Mahomed makes a picturesque figure as Josephus, a rich Jew; Clarke's Nippers present an exhilarating turn, consisting of graceful performances with Indian clubs, expert ball punching, and neat dancing; the youthful Sisters Lotus sing their duets with expression; Akbar, a gymnast of more than average merit, gives a skilful performance on silver rings; Mueller and Coyne submit a pleasing sketch, in which the clever acrobatic dancing of the gentleman is a feature; Miss Bella Leaburn, descriptive vocalist; and films of a humorous and pathetic kind, shown by the Alhambrascope, complete a capital bill.

EXETER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Jerrard Grant Allen's company is here with The New Boy. Mr. Leon M. Lion in the title-rôle scores the chief success, together with Miss Katherine Harrington as Martha, who also plays her part in a spirited manner. Mr. Harry Ashford is good as Donald Candy, LL.D., and Mr. Stanley Logan portrays the part of Bullock major ably. Miss Beatrice Manning is all that could be desired as Susan. Meg the Mobswoman proves a good curtain-raiser.

FALKIRK.—GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—This, the last week of the present season, proved a very successful one. The programme was of an exceedingly entertaining kind. Chorley and Connor provided some clever comedian work; and Corelli gave a most entertaining side-light on trickery, while J. K. Macfarlane, Scottish comedian, convulsed the house with his humorous Scotch songs. A funny sketch, entitled Three of a Kind, was given by a party engaged from the Coliseum, Glasgow. There were the usual instructive and laughable films from the Anglo-American Bioscope.

FLEETWOOD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Harry J. Snelson.—"Wonderland," under the personal management of Mr. Harry J. Snelson, is the attraction here this week. The programme includes the Animated Picture Company, with a series of pictures, and the Royal Court Pierrots, represented by Miss Florrie Coyne, whose violin playing causes much satisfaction; and Miss Violet Varcoe and Miss Rosie Coyne, whose singing and dancing also earn considerable applause. Mr. Jack Cardiff and Mr. Frank Shepherd supply the humour, and Mr. Stenson Liddard, baritone, is a great success. Miss Jessie Anderston is an accomplished musician, and her illustrated songs were well received.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mrs. B. M. Croker's new play, Terence, is the attraction here this week. Mr. C. B. Bedells' impersonation of Sir Greville Fanshawe is excellent; Mr. Hugh Ardale is well placed as Bertrand Lovell; Mr. Henry Austin capably interprets the part of Simon Foulcher; Mr. A. Austin-Leigh as Terence displays marked ability; Mrs. Culling gives an excellent portrayal of Lady Nita Fanshawe; Miss Nance Beresford does full justice to the part of Maureen D'Arcy. Other rôles are well filled by Miss Mabel Archdale as Mrs. Duckett, Miss Eugenie Vernie as Sally O'Hara, and Mr. Arthur Hane as the Judge.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Gipsies and their Jester are concluding a nine weeks' season here this week. This high-class comedy company has nightly attracted large and appreciative audiences; their entertainment is refined, clever, and sparkling. Their Japanese fêtes have proved a great attraction, many being unable to obtain admission on these special occasions.

VICTORIA PIER.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Forsyth; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Forsyth.—On Monday Miss Phyllis Dare, supported by Miss Nellie Barnes (soprano), Miss Blanche Holsham (violinist), Miss Belle Green, Mr. Wilfrid Virgo (tenor), Mr. W. A. Peterkin (basso), and Mr. Edward Brightwell were well received by an enthusiastic audience. On Tuesday and the remainder of the week the Dagonets occupied the boards.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—The Bob Hanlon troupe is here in a sensational throwing act; Smiler Lee, with a budget of new stories, pays a return visit; the Maitland Trio have an excellent comedy act, entitled The Picture; Harry Carmen, described as a "vocal polyglot comedian," is a great success; refinement is the chief characteristic of the vocal and instrumental act of the Solari Duo; the Sisters Selwin excel in song and dance; Alec Thomas, comedian; Charles Russell, vocalist; Daisy Lane, comedienne, and pictures by Vernon's Imperial Bioscope complete.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—The Sporting Ring, a new drama by Mr. Charles Whitlock, was produced here on Monday. A descriptive notice appears in another column.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—The New York Picture Co., with forty miles of films, provides the attraction at this house. Miss Nessie Nairne, a youthful comedienne, is also included in the programme.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Mr. H. B. Irving and his company are paying a return visit here this week, and on Monday the young actor-manager again received a very cordial welcome from his Glasgow friends. In The Lyons Mail Mr. Irving's impersonation of the rôles of Lesurques and Dubosc was a masterly performance; as the dandy robber Courriol, Mr. E. Harcourt Williams gave a careful study; the other members of the gang being amusingly represented by Mr. Charles Dodsworth and Mr. Tom Reynolds. The part of old Lesurques gave scope for the sterling qualities of Mr. Frank Tyars; Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn made a dignified Magistrate; the parts of Didier and Joliquet were capitally filled by Mr. Eric Maxon and Mr. Arthur Curtis; Miss Madge McIntosh's Janette was an exceedingly effective rendering of the part; and as Julie, Miss Sybil Noble was graceful and winning. King Réné's Daughter was played as a front piece, the part of Iolanthe being interpreted with great expression by Miss Madge McIntosh; Mr. Frank Tyars made an imposing King Réné; and fine romantic acting was seen in the Tristran of Mr. E. Harcourt Williams, and in the Sir Geoffrey of Mr. Arthur Curtis. The other plays billed for the week are The Bells and Charles the First.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Gordon Jefferson.—A good play, particularly well acted, was the verdict of the Metropole patrons on The Price of Her Soul, as presented by Messrs. Shinton and Greenwood's company. As the hero, Lord Mandeville, Mr. John B. Shinton acts with excellent effect; and a sweet and sympathetic heroine is the Countess Inez of Miss Ada M. Ryder. The villainy of the play is also in first-rate hands, Mr. Arthur E. Pringle as Major Skoboloff and Miss Maude Yorke as Olga Stanavitz being specially noteworthy. Humour is plentifully supplied by Mr. Larry Clements as Pat Murphy and Miss Ethel Rainforth as Polly; ably seconded by Mr. George Marriott, jun., as the Hon. Algy Fraser and Miss Grace Garside as his eccentric, but good-hearted, mother. Mr. Archie Gear as General Lanovitz, Mr. Ernest Regent as the vengeful Petruski, Miss Olive Chesman as the wronged Nadine, Little Mabel Ronald as Vera, and Mr. Maurice Lesage as Alphonse, all contributed to the success of the play, which was specially well staged.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Manners.—A good company is booked here this week, the chief attraction being the engagement of Nellie Wallace, burlesque artist, who has had a most flattering reception. An exceptionally clever sketch is submitted by C. W. Somerset and company, entitled The Great Poison Case; and the efforts of J. A. Cassells, Scotch comedian, are appreciated. Cruikshank, designated "the fool of the family," is extra clever; and the performance of ? Payen?, gymnast and autopierrot, is marvellous. Other good turns include Madge Grey, comedienne; Bishop and Vale, acrobatic dancers; Amy Russell, vocalist; Chas. Kaye, topical talker; and the American Bioscope, with interesting pictures.

ZOO-HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The pathetic sketch, The Little Stowaway, forms the principal item this week, and is well played, Miss Eva Lumley as the Stowaway, Mr. John K. Walton as the Captain, and Mr. Hugh Metcalfe in the singing part of the Bos'un taking chief honours. The Borghetti Troupe give some sensational displays of acrobatic work; Alf. Gibson proves as quaint as ever; Spry and Monti are particularly good in their clever turn, The Dandy Guardsman; the New Macs are neat dancers and smart patterers; the Woodwards give a striking ladder-balancing turn; Rita and Roma do well in a vocal and gymnastic act; the Sisters Darrell are clever duettists; and the illustrated songs of David Stewart catch on at once.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd. — John Tiller's company, in High Jinks, again provides a merry entertainment, and Messrs. Bob Selvedge, Teddy Gibbs, and Barney Dixon, and Misses Jessie Templeton, Nellie Rodney, and Lizzie Hay all distinguish themselves in the leading parts. The Cee-Mee Family contribute a clever and daring trapeze performance, which is heartily applauded; the Eight Lancashire Lads, in their smart step-dancing, prove strong favourites; Shirley and Ransome make a decided hit in a homely coster sketch; L. B. Athol gives a dream-song with dramatic effect; Tennyson and Wallis are smart talkers and neat dancers; Susie and Protti, acrobatic dancers; Harry Maynard, character vocalist; and Fred Hastings, comedian, complete a varied programme.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Alfred Agoust heads the programme this week in Jugglomania, a happy blend of fun and clever juggling; Kerr and Koe keep up a rattling salvo of amusing dialogue in Yards and Houses; Ruby Dahl manipulates the strings of her marionettes openly, and with good effect; William Lee and Helen Bantley enact a comedy, called A Friend in Need; The Punch Bowl is an amusingly clever bit of musical comedy, presented by a capable company; Sandy M'Nab, as The Egyptian Mummy, evokes roars of laughter; Arthur Gill is a singer with a remarkable compass of voice; Alec B. Thorne is a promising Scotch comedian; Jack Friedman's operetta company presents In Happy Holland with good solo and chorus effects; and the Bioscope pictures form a pleasing variety.

PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr Richard Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry M'Kelvie.—Mr. Arthur Roberts. Miss Ruby Celeste, and a smart company, are drawing large audiences at every performance of their breezy farce, The Woman Who Was; in songs and dances of the Spanish, Swiss, and Dutch order, the Four Figaros come next in favour; as a juggler, Cleland is clever, but it is in eccentric versatility he excels; a fine turn is given by Florence Schuberth, a vivacious comedienne; Rags and Tatters, a smart dancing and high class musical turn by the Calcotts, brings a recall nightly; Mons. De Lil gives an illusion display, clever and most mystifying; George Prince is aptly billed "the crazy comedian"; the Brothers Hannaway are good in song and patter, and are notably smart dancers; Eustace and Eyre do well in a ventriloquial absurdity, and the lady is neat and expert as a dancer; Harvey and Holt are speciality artists of ability.

GAIETY, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—The programme here is varied and interesting. Blanche and Diacoff, cyclists, are the principals, and their clever display is thoroughly appreciated; Vosper, facial mimic, makes a capital appearance; and Ada Twibell, burlesque actress, is also well received. The other members of the company include Harry Bentley, eccentric comedian; Dan and Max, dancing experts; Ted Young, vocal comedian; and Jack Easy, Scotch comedian. The Bioscope presents a novel series of pictures.

BRITANNIA.—Proprietor, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—Kitty Lavigne, comedienne and top-boot dancer, submits a pleasing turn; and Bandoni is a concertina player of exceptional merit. Flexo Beaufort, contortionist; W. H. Smart, comedian; and Nellie Stratton, comedienne, add to an excellent programme.

GLOSSOP.— THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Sydney Spenser.—For the first three nights this week we have had the Native Choir from Jamaica in songs, plantation choruses, and humorous quartettes, duets, and dances. The artists were as follows:—Conductor, Mr. T. Ellis Jackson; solo pianist, Mr. Henry Nation; tenor, Mr. Emanuel Blake; bassos, Mr. Carlton Bryan, Mr. Geo. Alex. McCormack, Mr. C. Lipscombe Barnes; dancer and coon delineator, Mr. Frank Weaver; contralto, Miss Beatrice Blackburn; sopranos, Miss Adeline McDermot, Mrs. Ambrosine Lawrence, Miss Hannah Welsh, Mrs. Florry McCormack. The theatre will be closed until the middle of August.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE.—Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—The Albert and Edmunds Troupe present a laughable sketch, Two Up a Tree. Miss Hetty Lee is a very dainty soubrette and graceful dancer; Mr. Horace Jones is the recipient of much applause for his "Welshman at the Football Match"; and the Falcons are quietly humorous, and clever acrobatic equilibrists; Frank and Violet Payte give a racing duologue, Also Ran; and Miss Orrell Park is a good vocalist; Mr. Harry Nation sings a laughing song excellently; and the Lovelaces introduce some very popular illustrated songs; Allsopp and Beckwith sing, patter, and dance; and the Bioscope provides the finale of a good programme.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM.—The engagement of the week at this popular house is Mr. T. Arthur Jones and his specially-selected No. 1 company in W. A. Brabner's drama, Life's Sweetest Sins. The leading parts are in the exceptionally able hands of Miss Marie Daventry as Doreen Rivers, and Mr. T. Arthur Jones as Captain Harold Marston. The strong rôle of Dr. Colebrooke is capably played by Mr. Oswald Douglas, who is well supported by Mr. Robert Sawin and Mr. Clem Horlock as the Confederates. Miss May Anslie is excellent as Fay Colebrooke; and Bessie Crayson is well taken by Miss Marion Armitage.

GREENOCK.—EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington.—There was a good house on Monday to welcome Mr. Charles Majilton and company in She Would Be a Widow; or, The Plumber. Mr. Majilton scores as the Doctor; Mr. Jim Bond as the plumber causes endless amusement; and Mr. J. Randle Wilson is a capital Willie; Miss Amy Majilton is successful as Ethel, and Miss Maddie Majilton does well as the slavey; Miss Christie is a charming Katie.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—Frank Leon, who tops the bill here, is a clever and accomplished clog dancer; Jack Neil, Scotch comedian, is as popular as ever; and other excellent turns include Harry Seaton, refined vocal comedian; Lizzie Kirk, comedienne and dancer; Doreen Day, who is retained from last week; and Yettmah, juggler. The Pavilion pictures complete.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—The Assassin is being presented. Mr. Augustine Knight appears in the sinister character of Prince Demetri, and invests it with sufficient grimness; Miss Ella Vane gives a very dramatic representation of the Countess Wanda; Mr. Edward E. Ashby is a satisfactory exponent of Ivanoff; whilst others taking prominent parts are Mr. Edwin Jenner as Captain O'Neil, Mr. Cecil Raymond as Baron Alphonse, Mr. Tom J. Taylor as Peter, Mr. George Kempt as Evangie, and Miss Hettie Senior as Conie Jonathan.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—A capital combination of cycling feats, acrobatics, and jugglery is given by the Selbinis; Charles R. Whittle's quaint songs greatly please the audience; a highly refined musical entertainment is contributed by Florence and Lilian; the Fimans introduce amusing business in a fire brigade burlesque; Helene and Emilon give a novel gymnastic performance; Cadogan and Wingrave appear in a laughable sketch; and others on the programme are Wisper, comedy juggler; Beattie Bloom, comedienne; and T. W. Barrett, comedian.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. C. Shread; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Houghton.—Eugene Stratton is attracting crowded houses at every performance, and is received most enthusiastically. The Steinway Quartette contribute an excellent vocal act, their speciality being a series of sea songs; the Franko Midgets are a couple of smart juvenile illusionists; the Brady and Johnson combination submit an amusing sketch; Elton and Elma accomplish a good triple bar performance; and others appearing are Snowball and Dolia, duettists and dancers; Blanche Marion, dancer; Phyllis Melville, vocalist; and Percy Curry, comedian.

GUERNSEY.—THEATRE ST. JULIAN.—Lessee, Mr. Edward Marris.—The Russell Rosse Répertoire Company is here this week. On Tuesday Our Boys was presented. Mr. George Mudie, jun., enacted Talbot Champneys with tact and skill; Mr. M. Russell Rosse creditably represented Sir Geoffrey; Mr. J. Edward Fraser successfully hit off the character of Charles Chiddlewick; and Mr. Norman Clarke was responsible for an effective portrait of Perkin Middlewick. Mary Melrose was brightly and engagingly played by Miss L. Kingston; in the hands of Miss E. N. O'Connor was an acceptable Violet; and as Belinda, Miss Ethel Hesketh was of signal service. Captain Swift, Confusion and Caste are also billed.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The Northern Theatres stock company entered upon a second week here on Monday, staging the late Mr. Frank Harvey's ever-popular play, The Wages of Sin, which met with an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee made an instantaneous success as Parson Brand, his fine stage presence and effective declamatory powers being of every assistance; a formidable Stephen Marler was Mr. Bernard Mervyn, whose vigorous style and acting was very effective; Mr. J. P. Lannen played with virility and refinement as Josiah Deane; and Mr. J. Cooke Hinton presented a spirited interpretation of Harry Wentworth. A capital conception of a ne'er-do-well emanated from Mr. Henry C. Gilpin as Ned Drummond; and Mr. Jack Hames was again to the front with a quaint simulation of a constable; a delightful study of the much-afflicted Ruth Hope was given by Miss Winnie Tempest; Miss Vera Meacham made the most of the part of Barbara Dale; and Miss Jessie Belmore gave a charming assumption of an actress.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Ed. Harrison.—An excellent vaudeville programme is again put on here this week. Bob Hutt and company furnishing the star turn with Welcome Home, which has met with phenomenal success; Larola, the clever man with funny ways, enhances his reputation; the Smythsons, in Love Germs, make a big hit; Addie Dorina, a protean artist, gives some very painstaking character-studies; and Rose Cabani displays much gaiety in well-rendered songs; a neat episode, entitled The Burglar's Surprise, is submitted by the Jimsons; the Sisters Edwards (comediennes), Bonnetti and Corri (comedy jugglers), together with an artistic selection of scenes finely presented on the Raymond Bio-tableaux, complete an excellent bill.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Sam Winks.—The original Leopolds are appearing here twice nightly in Frivolity with striking success. Oliver Buckwheat has a worthy representative in Mr. Watson Hume, whose delineation of the volatile stockbroker in search of life is irresistibly comical; a new Samuel is found in Mr. Willie Leopold, who gives a lively representation of the flighty Collegian, his dancing in particular being smart; Mr. Tom Leopold is as clever as ever in the rôle of the Professor; Miss Amy Hall is a winsome Lucy, and sings well; while Miss Cathleen Kavanagh makes a popular Madame Cobweb. The statuary and pyramid performances of the Bros. Leopold are startling and clever, and meet with well-earned plaudits.

HANLEY. — GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. James Wynes.—The Julians Family head the bill here in a wonderful risley acrobatic performance; Chanti, quick-change artist, dancer, &c., scores a brilliant success; Bert Williams is a clever and entertaining ventriloquist; Fields and Lewis, burlesque actors, contribute an excellent turn; Gladys and Alber are seen in a capital act, the tumbling of the male member being quite extraordinary; Charlie Jerome has a good voice, and sings his coon songs cleverly; Talberto and Douglas are a very amusing pair; Rose and Calvert, in a capital sketch, meet with success.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Smith.—On the first three nights of this week Mr. Godfrey Tearle and company appeared in A Soldier of Fortune. Mr. Tearle is a capable young actor, and has a fine presence and youth on his side, and his performance of Rupert Clive was excellent; Miss Malone was good as Lady Phyllis; Mr. A. W. Wynne made a dignified Earl of Anandale; and Mr. Alfred Grey scored as the treacherous Sir Stephen Cunningham. Mr. Lowe as Dr. Thorn made the most of meagre opportunities; Mr. Baliol Holloway was admirable as the Roundhead captain, Phineas Sturge; Mr. Edmond Sayers was amusing as the landlord, Jerry Dobbs, and had able assistance from Miss Barnett as Grace.

HARTLEPOOL. — EMPIRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—Jack Pleasants, the inimitable, has been enthusiastically welcomed this week; Earle and Melville, comedians and dancers, are also old favourites, as are Rappo and Ella, graceful gymnasts, and the Cattaneos troupe of smart comedy acrobats; Bob Pueblo and Katie Crop, in their latest success, The Swell and La Belle, are expert sand dancers; Allan Hanbury discourses most amusingly on "The Sorrows of a Spinster"; and some interesting pictures are shown.

PROMENADE.—The Pierrot season has commenced here. Mr. Horace East's Red Rose Entertainers are here. The troupe consists of Horace East, comedian; Frank Roy, baritone; Stanley Liston, light comedian; Robert Lord, humorist; Harry Talbot, comedian; and Gladys Clare, soubrette.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean Répertoire Company opened here on Monday in Twelfth Night. Miss Dorothy Green played charmingly as Viola; Mr. Henry Herbert was exceptionally good as Malvolio; Miss Louise Graeme's pleasing study of Olivia and Miss Rosa Burgess's bright and sparkling rendering of Maria captivated the audience; Mr. Gerald Ames' Orsino was a fine piece of acting; and much laughter was created by the amusing Sir Toby of Mr. Ross Shore and the Sir Andrew of Mr. Esme Filmer. On Tuesday Henry V. was presented.

PIER PAVILION.

ILKESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—The Good Samaritan and The Shaughraun are being played here this week by Mr. Butler Stanhope and company. In the former piece the rôle of Frank Wyndham received justice at the capable hands of Mr. Ed. Warden; whilst that of Margaret Wyndham was very effectively taken by Miss Lalla Stanhope. Mr. Stanhope himself was seen as Col. Granville, his efforts being duly appreciated; Mr. Sidney Wood gave a humorous impersonation of Tim Fowler, and the same remark applies to Miss Marie Douglas as Kitty Hart. The villain, Roderick Blackstone, had a good representative in Mr. V. C. Biscoe, and his accomplice, Helen Coventry, in Miss Helen Raymonde.

IPSWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock. — Lockhart's elephants is the big attraction here this week, and their marvellous docility and intelligence have created a great impression. Other attractive turns include Ouida Macdermott, a pleasing comedienne and dancer; Harry Frusker, an American juggler; Frank Coyle, a quaint singer and patterer; Stephens and Rennoin, clever dancers, the Driscoll Family, and the Five Bogannys.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—This week's attraction is Mr. F. Wybert Clive's company in The Branded Woman.—Miss Lilian Ross is an excellent Genevieve; Mr. H. Creagh Hunt a manly Philip Maurice; Mr. Cowell Clarke an excellent Zarka; Mr. Walter Steele a powerful Prince; and Mr. E. Lowrie an able Louis. Mr. F. Wybert Clive gives a clever portrayal of Paul Fleuret; Mr. Harry Liddle causes much amusement as Dick Brown, being well supported by Miss Isabel Hunt as Jacqueline; Rudolph is in the capable hands of Miss May Warden; and Miss A. Campbell is good as the Countess Daphne.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Marris.—The Blue Coat Boy is being played here. Mr. Bruce Green as Dame Dickory is very amusing; Miss Lena Stanton as Billy is exceedingly good, her fine voice being heard to advantage; and Miss Neville is a pretty Dolly Dickory. Little Keeno as Jack Lively is one of the features of the pantomime, and has numerous encores. Mr. Will Terry enacts the rôle of Lawyer Copall; and Mr. Harry Joseph appears as Squire Longacre.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—A full programme here this week includes Chyio in a clever slack-wire act, and the Five M.P.'s, whose musical speciality is well received. Florry Cooper has made a great impression as a vocalist ; Alfred E. Passmore makes a hit as an eccentric comedian; Haig and Russell keep the fun going very smartly in their duologue, "Aunt Amelia"; Fanny Robina as a vocalist is successful; C. Tamamoto displays much skill and agility in a perpendicular rope performance, and Daisy Palmer gave a smart dancing turn.

LEAMINGTON. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Manager, Mr. Harry Hunter.—Ediscope and Barnum's Animated Picture and Variety company still continue their run of success at the theatre. An entirely new programme of most interesting pictures is presented, and new turns by a very capable variety company includes the Cedrics, Continental comedy and speciality artists; Lode Lyons, ventriloquist; Vela, a clever wire walker; and Lulu, a lady instrumentalist, in her illuminated garden scene.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—A Message from Mars is warmly welcomed at the Grand this week. Mr. John Hart's company is an admirable one, and includes that fine actor, Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore, who repeats his masterly delineation of the self-satisfied and caustic Horace Parker; Mr. William H. Brougham is a powerful and convincing Messenger; the old tramp of Mr. Bruce Lindley is a fine bit of character acting; a sweet and charming Minnie Templar indeed is Miss Joan Ellis; and Miss F. Hastings is capital as Aunt Parker. The rôle of Arthur Dicey is a satisfactory effort by Mr. Thomas Holding; and the remaining characters are all effectively presented. The lighting and stage effects peculiar to the piece are admirable.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The Tyrant holds the stage here, and is proving a successful draw. Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield, whose company it is, are seen in the leading parts of Tisbe and Homodei, and their excellent acting wins much appreciation. The name part affords Mr. Roy Fortescue scope for some effective dramatic work, of which full advantage is taken; whilst the Tyrant's wife is a capital embodiment by Miss Margaret Frame; good assistance is also rendered by Mr. John Cecil, Mr. Alec Mayhue, Mr. Percy Brown, and Miss Lallah Shelton in leading parts.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—A novel and interesting turn is that of Mr. Hymack, described as the "chameleon" comedian, who during his discourse effects some marvellous changes of apparel. Charming Lil Hawthorne, with taking new songs, is as great a favourite as ever; the Borellis find appreciative acceptance of their musical burlesque specialities; Donaldson Brothers and Ardel are doing their screaming zoological speciality to the accompaniment of much mirth; and Sinclair and Whiteford score a big success with a comedy sketch; the Vasilescu troupe's acrobatics are both clever and amusing; Will English, the coloured entertainer, provides a mirthful ten minutes; whilst the Sisters Gasch, graceful expert acrobats. Leoni Dixon, soubrette and dancer, and Nora Emerald, comedienne, are very popular in their respective lines.

PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece.—Fred Earle, the clever comedian, is prominent on an attractive Palace bill; the ever-green Horace Wheatley is a great favourite; Burns and Bentley contribute an acceptable vocal and dancing speciality; Hillman and Russell are doing their screaming absurdity, The Somnambulist, with great success; Hurmann, a novelty juggler, makes a successful appearance; and Alf Davis, comedian, and Alice Ormonde, vocalist, are also well liked.

HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—That clever lady Rachel Lowe is achieving great success here this week; George Gilbey is a rare fun purveyor, and his reception is demonstrative and hearty; Bouwmeister gives a musical interlude which is enjoyable; the dancing of Enid Errol is the chief feature of a fantastic episode by her company; a fine electrical scena is shown with vocal and musical effects; that clever young juggler, Wallan, is again in the bill; Keith and Merson are vastly amusing in a comedy episode; Rosie Bartlett, comedienne. Harry Vardon, in ventriloquial speciality, and the Elgars, vocal entertainers, also contribute good things.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sam Jones.—Claude Feldman's Beau-Ideal Troupe of Juveniles prove a pleasing top of the bill turn this week, the youngsters being very clever in song and dance; Narow Bros. score a big success as comic cyclists; Sammy Shields is a comedian and raconteur of merit; Hallam and Stanton please with a neat comedy sketch; Mabel Sinclair is a clever and popular lady ventriloquist; the eccentricities of the Bros. Harrison are provocative of merriment; and Montague Biggs, comedian, and Kendrick and Laura, in their refined speciality, are also popular entertainers.

LEICESTER. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont. —The attraction is provided this week by Mr. Carr Loates' company, under the direction of Mr. Charles Hermann, in the musical comedy drama At the World's Mercy, in which Miss Cissie Milford, the Lancashire clog dancer and quick-change soubrette, scores a well-deserved success in the dual rôles of Skittles and Kitty Knott, a music-hall star. As the hero, Capt. Charles Manly, Mr. Carr Loates is also to be complimented on a very good portrayal. Miss Maud Devereux as Alice Lloyd is seen to advantage; and Mr. Jess Boxer as Charlie Smart is also a success. The other parts are in good hands, and the play is staged in commendable style.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, M. Bertram G. Isles.—Roars of laughter resound throughout the auditorium here at Mr. Fred Karno's latest production, The Bailiff, the efforts of Mr. Fred Kitchen as the man in possession being especially funny. The whole sketch, which is done in an elaborate manner, is a thorough success. Mr. Fred Kitchen is aided and abetted in a most praiseworthy manner by Miss Jessie Grammonde, Miss Aggie Morris, Mr. Albert Bruno, Mr. Herbert Landeck, Mr. Harry Lappo, and Mr. T. Ellis Buxton. A popular and delightful turn is given by Thomas E. Finglas, a smart coon vocalist and dancer, who has the assistance of a pretty young lady. The American Comedy Four of vocalists and humourists are making their usual big hit with a turn brimful of merriment. The Sisters Macarte, besides giving a skilful and clean display on the wire, are successful in their dancing and instrumental selections; Dion Wade shines as a mimic, and scores a well-deserved success; Frank Leslie renders a song in an acceptable style; Lina Verdi is a dainty and clever comedienne and mimic. The American Bioscope is throwing the usual entertaining films on the screen.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—The principal attraction here is Peter Gotz, the light-weight wrestler; Nat Watkins is an exceedingly funny comedian, who creates the heartiest laughter; Florrie Leonard is a charming vocalist; T. C. Callaghan repeats his usual success as a mirth-provoking comedian; Harry Morgan is a capital coon artist and dancer; Clara Victor is a vocalist with a good voice; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is retained, and is delighting all with the excellence of the pictures shown.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Rousby.—Variety again holds the boards here this week, and is supplied by Mr. Leo Dryden's company. Los Rupertos, equilibrists and jugglers, score a great success; Mme. Ada Colley sings three pretty songs with her wonted charm and refinement; Mr. Martin Conway, comedian, creates much laughter, as does also Comical Walker with his nippers. Globella is clever in his globe-walking entertainment; a really fine turn is given by Mr. Leo Dryden; Miss Mollie Nolan, comedian and dancer, is very neat; and a farce, entitled Charlie's Indian, is most amusing.

LIMERICK.—ATHENÆUM HALL.—Proprietors, the Corporation.—Excellent houses have patronised the Elster-Grime Grand Opera Company. On Monday night Maritana was produced, when Miss Elsie Lynham sustained the title-rôle with great vocal ability. Miss Olive Westwood, a clever contralto, sang sweetly the part of Lazarillo; and Miss Madge Quilliam was good as the Marchioness. Mr. Alfred Bowyer was in excellent voice as Don Cæsar; that excellent baritone, Mr. Frank Lande, appeared as Don José; Mr. Gilbert King was the King, and Messrs. Wheatley, Cook, and Partridge were clever in their respective rôles of Captain of Guard, Alcade, and Marquis.

LINCOLN.—ROYAL.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank King.—The London Comedy company are playing Sydney Grundy's comedy, A Fool's Paradise, this week. Miss Laura Hansen as Beatrice Selwyn grips her audience completely, and is very fine in the part; Sir Peter Lund, as represented by Mr. Cecil Wynne, is a very striking part; and Mr. J. H. Twyford does well as Selwyn; Mr. Wylie A. Thompson scores as young Verinder; Mr. A. Claremont is capital as Normantower; and Miss Margery Chard is seen to advantage as Kate Derwent. Miss Hilda Stericher is prettily effective as Mildred.

PALACE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Sydney Arthur.—Victoria Monks, in "Moving Day," is earning vociferous applause twice nightly; Harry Anderson is always a big favourite here, as is Will Johnson; and Gold and Sterling accomplish success in song and lightning painting. Winnie Derson, Daisy Martell, and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are very successful.

LIVERPOOL.—SHAKESPEARE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. E. Stevens and R. C. Buchanan; Manager and Secretary, Mr. John Gaffney.—A very fine production of Beauty and the Barge has been given here during the week by Mr. Arthur Hardy's company. As the frolicksome, good-hearted Captain Barley, Mr. Blake Adams richly deserved the hearty reception accorded him, the curtain having to be raised several times in each act. Miss Dido Drake presented the part of Ethel Smedley in a simple, bewitching manner, which met with approval; Mr. Walter Pemberton made an admirable Major Smedley; Mr. Edward A. Coventry acquitted himself creditably as Lieut. Boyne; Mr. Charles A. White in the rôle of John Dibbs provoked great laughter; Miss Ruby Wyndham adequately depicted the wretched Mrs. Baldwin; Mr. Ewart Drake as a busy and humorous publican's assistant caused much laughter; Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite was a perfect type of the indignant beerseller, and the rest of the company afforded excellent support. Jerry and a Sunbeam was the curtain-raiser. After this week the theatre closes for the summer season.

ROTUNDA THEATRE—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—Dan the Rake pays a first visit to this theatre. Mr. J. Rice Cassidy is seen to advantage in the title-part; Mrs. Cassidy makes a capital Madge; as Lieut. Kavanagh, Mr. Frank Copeland is eminently successful; Mr. Arthur Stratton fills the part of the athletic Captain Cooper with much satisfaction; every justice is done to the manly rôle of Colonel Flamer by Mr. Jerold E. Reed; Mr. J. Cuthbertson is well placed as Achille, the French cook; Miss Florence Creagh presents a sweet Helen Flamer; and Miss Alice Marsden does excellently as Dan's mother.

LYRIC.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The clever Geni Family (ten in number), with their three ponies, present an exceptionally good turn in the risley and acrobatic line; the smart songs and eccentric dancing of Edie Veno earn for that able artist much approval; great laughter follows the work of Frank Purcell's comedy company in the sketch, Three Husbands; some remarkable cycling feats are executed by Arthur Kenny; the Bros. Diamond, one-legged jumping experts, show wonderful agility; Merton and Rydon provide a neat turn as vocal and comedy speciality artists; and also in the list are Billy Burns, the singing pit lad, and Minnie Fenton, vocalist.

STAR THEATRE. Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Her Wedding Day is the big attraction here this week, a capital all-round company presenting it. Miss Ward gave a powerful and sympathetic rendering of the part of Madge Conway; Mr. John F. Traynor was a manly Harold Saxby, with a good delivery; as Weedon Kenyon, Mr. Wilson Coleman played with much effect; and Miss Violet Temple as Mrs. Caccles, Miss Pollie Denville as Dolly Klink, and Miss Kate Hallam in the rôle of Dora rendered valuable assistance.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan. —Allowing a motor-car, weighing two tons, and carrying six people, to run over his body is the principal feat undertaken by Apollo, the athlete, who is foremost in the bill presented here this week. Hal Ford, a comedian who has proved popular, meets with a most cordial reception; as trick cyclists, the Sisters Warwick display high accomplishments, and are deservedly applauded; Henri Abdy and his canine hippodrome, who show their careful training on a revolving table, are a good turn; the Lurins prove themselves diverting comedy duettists; several smart coon songs come from Maude Vera; as juvenile acrobats and equilibrists, the Nirdas acquit themselves with credit; Mlle. Marvelle presents a neat turn with her cockatoos and macaws; and Pat Carey, Edna Latonne (vocalist), and Chas. Faning (comedian) also appear.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole. —Here this week the Royal stock company are producing the drama, On the Stroke of Twelve, from the pen of Joseph Le Brandt. Among the principal artists are Messrs. Percy Boucher, Harry Tresham, Robert Wilton, Sydney Grant, Cecil Ravenswood, Miss Beryl Ravenswood, and Miss Nellie Bonser.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Edwards.—The stock company here is this week presenting the excellent drama, Queen of the Night. Included in the principal artists are Messrs. Wallace Campbell, H. Hesslegrave, H. G. Brandon, Francis E. Wybert, Miss G. H. Walton, Miss Sara Blumenthal, and Miss Lina Nazeby.

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, Lancashire Vaudeville Syndicate, Ltd.; General-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece.—The able stock company engaged here is doing capital business with the drama, Every Inch a Man. Mr. Walter Foster affords a fine portrait of Alderman Barnet; Mr. Albert Sember distinguishes himself as Dick Barnet; Miss Lilian Burns acquits herself well as Vera Maxwell; Miss Violet Barley-Clarke presents a pleasing Martha; Mr. Will Percy is humorous as Teddy Edwards; an admirably-drawn type of old soldier is shown by Mr. Hugh Carmichael as Ben Brown; and Mr. Archie Helsby affords satisfaction as Daniel Barnet. The Bioscope has some capital pictures.

HAYMARKET.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—The popular Harry Calden and company are this week giving The Deserter; or, the Gipsy's Warning. Joe Humphreys has a cordial reception for his popular songs; Lina and Wells are a smart pair of comedy artists; and Alice Mahew sings some acceptable pieces.

WESTMINSTER. — Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Principal here this week is Albini, an equilibrist, who performs some remarkable acts on the slack wire; Lilian Victoria, a talented young male impersonator, who has rapidly come to the front, meets with an ovation; Maimie Iris has some popular chorus-songs; as a comedian and dancer Arthur Croydon is a good line; Rozeltha provides some novel transformation dances; and the Bioscope shows the latest pictures.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—District-Manager, Mr. Albert Bulmer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Top of the bill here this week is Fred Storey and company, who present Rip Van Winkle, a well-arranged and capably-rendered sketch; the ever-popular Dutch Daly, with his concertina and funny stories, is immensely enjoyed; Russell Wallett, "the lady in black," proves as diverting as ever; Daisy Mayer, with her coon songs and patter, assisted by Paul Knox, pleases her audience; the merry entertainment of jokes and songs provided by the Gems is refreshing; a neat ventriloquial turn comes from David Poole; Drew and Alders have a new and very funny act, The Coastguards; and the remainder of the list includes Sydney Lee, comedian, and the Vetter Bros., with their vocal and equilibristic scena, The Page's Recreation.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—George Leyton is here this week with his well-presented naval scena, Nelson's Name, in which he is assisted by a chorus of local boys; some remarkable work is done by Will Rogers, the American cowboy lassoist; J. W. Rowley brings new songs; Libby Blondell has a smart singing speciality; Herbert Darnley's Dots in the pretty scena, Helping Mother, meet with general approval; endless laughter follows the antics of the Kroney Bros. the lazy coalmen; a novel sketch, The Girl in Grey, comes from Edith Reynolds and company; and the list also contains the names of the Trentanovi Sisters, with a capital gymnastic transformation act, and Lady Fauntleroy.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Liverpool Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. James Marks.—Top of a most attractive bill here this week are Les Piccolinos, whose really clever entertainment as rifle shots, cyclists, balancers, dancers, &c., is richly enjoyed; Edwin Boyde causes his audiences to hold their sides with laughter; the Jolly American-Dutch girl, May Moore Duprez, has some capital songs and business; J. T. McMillan is a comedian whose work is always appreciated; Blarney and Kennard, with their waltzing dogs, are extremely funny; Dolly Denton is a dainty comedienne; and others in the list are Godfrey James, the singing collier, and Sadie Seymour, comedienne and dancer.

LOWESTOFT. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. George Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—The success of this establishment is now assured, and big audiences assemble nightly to enjoy an entertainment always bright and up-to-date. "A Trip to the Land of the Midnight Sun" has been a great attraction during the week, and other subjects of equal charm and merit have sufficed to fill the house nightly. An original sketch by Mr. Nelson Hardy, entitled £1000 Reward, is well staged, and shows Mr. Hardy at his best in various characters; his versatility is certainly exceptional. Mr. Wilfred Heath's baritone singing is much admired, and the other turns are well received.

MAIDENHEAD.—NORTHWICK HOUSE GROUNDS. —Situated directly in the line of route from the railway station to the Royal Counties Agricultural Show, which is held here this week, the pierrot concert party are exceptionally well placed, and are consequently doing good business. Messrs. Redfern and Richards, the proprietors, not only are good themselves, but have been successful in gathering round them a talented troupe of artists. As pierrette, Miss May Davis, both in her appearance and in her work, is dainty and winsome; Mr. Redfern as Billy has a particularly droll way with him; and he is ably seconded by Mr. Fred Richards, who is well received. Mr. Wilfred Brydge is a careful accompanist, and sings in good style; Mr. Tom Ducen possesses a fine bass voice; Mr. Will Harris is always sure of an enthusiastic encore; and speciality turns include Miss May Davis (mandoline) and Mr. Bob Morgan (sand-dance).

PAVILION PLEASURE GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. G. Gude.—The entertainments here continue to be well patronised, the spacious marquee being particularly useful during the present cold weather. Mr. Wallace Bosco's baritone songs are well sung; Mr. Leo Fallowfield creates much merriment with his impersonations; and Mr. Phil Raby is successful with descriptive songs. Miss Gertie Lovedale dances delightfully; and Miss Adelaide Twort's ballads are much appreciated. Mr. Alec Tyson works hard and well at the piano.

MAIDSTONE.—CORN EXCHANGE.—Mr. F. R. Benson's Shakespearean Company (South) occupied the boards here on Saturday and Monday with Hamlet and The Taming of the Shrew. Mr. Arthur Phillips' Hamlet was a powerful piece of acting all through; Mr. Walter Bentley made a good King; Mr. Leo Briggs was successful as Lord Chamberlain and as the First Gravedigger; Mr. Frank Darch gave a spirited reading of Laertes; Mr. John Cairns' appearance and declamation as the ghost were impressive; Mr. C. Maunsell as Horatio was well placed, and Mr. Ed. Harrison did well as First Player. Ophelia was played with much skill by Miss Christie Laws, who did her exacting part well; Miss Lucy Hare as the Queen appeared to combine dignity with sorrowful abasement. Other members of the cast were Mr. Bernard Merefield as Rozencrantz, Mr. Ernest Bodkin as Guilderstern, Mr. Manning Sproston as Osric, Mr. H. Somerset as the Priest, Mr. Walter Plinge as Marcellus, Mr. William Krasm as Bernardo, Mr. Mount as Francisco, Mr. Otho Hazlewood as Second Gravedigger, Miss Kate Ogilvie as Prologue, and Miss Kathryn Stocks as Player Queen. Mr. Alban B. Limpus is the acting-manager, and Mr. Darch the stage-manager. In the comedy the company were equally successful. Mr. Walter Bentley as Petruchio was a host in himself, causing roars of laughter; Mr. F. Darch as Gremio was excellent, so was Mr. Leo. Briggs as Grumio. The Biondella of Mr. Arthur Phillips and Mr. C. Maunsell's Lucentio were distinctly praiseworthy; and Miss Christine Laws as Katharina and Miss Kathryn Stocks as Bianca were full of fun, the other members of the company ably assisting. The dances were much admired.

HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. S. Baskerville.—Harry Tate's company in Fishing is as popular as ever. Others are the Daunton Shaw troupe of expert trick cyclists; J. G. Aitken, Scotch comedian; Tony Iveson, the ragman at the piano; Bertha Duckett, male impersonator; Miss Nell Brough, siffleuse; and the Cardigans, duettists.

MANCHESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edmondstone Shirra. — On Monday and Tuesday Mme. Jane Hading appeared here in Frou-Frou and La Châtelaine. On Wednesday and the remainder of the week the stage was occupied by the Hoffe and Campbell Comedy company in a smart and entertaining performance of The Importance of Being Earnest.

GAIETY THEATRE. — Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—Jim the Penman was given here on Monday by Messrs. Leonard Pagden and G. M. Copping's company. Mr. Leonard Pagden's interpretation of James Ralston, the forger, was excellently and impressively done. Considerable skill and adaptability was manifest also in the Baron Hartfield of Mr. Orlando Barnett. As Mrs. Ralston Miss Alice Farleigh acted with sympathy and power, Miss Muriel Pope and Miss Rosalind Ross playing well as Agnes Ralston and Lady Dunscombe. Strong work was added by Mr. William Lockhart as Percival, Mr. Ernest A. Douglas as Capt. Redwood, and Mr. Arthur Vezin as Drelincourt.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—Messrs. O'Dell and Chabot's company, in His Sister's Honour, opened on Monday. Miss Ethel Ashley gives a clever and womanly portrayal of the cripple, Ivy Merton; Mr. Evelyn A'Dell deserves great praise for his manly impersonation of Frank Stanley; while Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe as the unscrupulous Redvers, the financier, acts with distinct power, and Miss Kathryne Eckart is excellently suited as Dora Stanley. Much amusement is caused by the comedy of Mr. Sydney Dean as Timothy Timid and Miss Bessie Dean as Maria, while Miss Winnie Kennedy gives a clever rendering of the Dutch girl Gretchen. Among the remainder of a good cast Mr. G. Brooke and Mr. Harry Mitchelson particularly distinguish themselves in useful parts.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—Two big turns here this week are the Brothers Luell in their brisk and amusing pantomime, The Hotel Grande; and Mr. Henry Herne and company in the romantic episode, The Colleen Bawn, a well-played little drama. Other clever business is supplied by J. C. Scatter, a smart dancing comedian; Les Yelovas, expert equilibrists; Mme. Sims Reeves, widow of the famous tenor, in a répertoire of old-time ballads; Dene and Dawson, smart burlesque artists, in Stage Aspirants; and Bert Danson, eccentric patter comedian.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Manager, Mr. R. Ryan Smith.—The Rich and Poor of London is being played by Mr. Sidney Dench's company. Miss Dora Dench plays conspicuously well as May Braithwaite, Mr. Sidney Dench contributes much to the total success as Spider Jack, the one-man band, and Mr. C. Laurence shines as Dr. Leonard Morton. Other interestng parts are cleverly handled by Miss Beatrice Annersley as Auntie Scrimp, Miss Lona Trehearne as Ruby Redgrave, Miss Ivy Rocheforte as Seadrift, and Mr. W. B. Sommerville as Mark Stanley. The smaller rôles are also well done, and the staging is highy effective.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—The stage here is occupied by The Woman from Scotland Yard, an effective drama produced last week at the Royal Osborne Theatre.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall. — Than R. A. Roberts in Ringing the Changes nothing smarter in the way of character-acting and protean dexterity could be imagined or desired. Next in point of prominence is W. F. Frame, the Scotch comedian, whose patter songs are diverting; while Nellie Coleman contributes some clever low-comedy male impersonations; Dome, the comedy clay-modeller, gives a good show; Stanley Cooke and Amy Francis are amusing in their sketch, The Lady Doctor; Geo. Belrose and Maud De Velin are excellent vocalists; Les Uniques are deservedly applauded for their skill and gracefulness in a ladder-balancing act; the Sisters Poole, society entertainers, dance well; and Fanny Erris, character comedienne, sings pleasingly. The Biograph, as usual, is up to date.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—There are two big magnets here this week, Bransby Williams and Paul Cinquevalli. The Lafaille Troupe go through a marvellous gymnastic and equilibristic act, and are well received; Ryder Slone scores in his latest vocal scena; Boy Glenn is a juvenile raconteur of merit, with a quiet and effective style; and Minna Merry, the female Robey, is amusing. "Angus Macdonald" (illustrated song) is rendered beautifully by Miss Gertrude Howarth of the Choir, who is warmly received; the Gaumonts' Chronophone is a wonderful machine; the Choir render Pinsuti's "The Silent Tide" well; and up-to-date pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, J. B. Taylor.—Messrs. E. Hill-Mitchelson's company are here in When the Lights are Low—two performances nightly. Mr. George Daiper is particularly good as Guy Goldsworthy, and Miss Cissie Podmore as Kathleen Kerry is decidedly effective. Excellent support is rendered by the Misses Amy Ellam, Violet Carylye, May Ediss, and Messrs. Stephen E. Scanlen, Lance Usher, F. Serle, Ernest Raymond, James E. Abbot, and A. Freeman. The scenery and dresses are satisfactory.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tealor Wade.—The Kremo Family are wonderfully smart Risleyists; the Three Demons are very daring and clever trick cyclists; and the Courtiers, under the direction of Paul Mill, are vastly entertaining in song and dance. Florence Yaymen, the well-known coon caricaturist, contributes two songs, and amuses in a style quite her own. Jan Rudenyi, the celebrated Hungarian violinist, supported by Dora de Winton and Joan Saunders, present in excellent style a musical romance, entitled The Power of Music; Henri Cazman, the One Man Music Hall, is a capital turn; the Sisters Belmont are graceful dancers; and excellent items are offered by Charles Deane, vocal comedian; Harry Carsdale, farmyard mimic; and the Soho Trio of Dancers.

TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes. — La Belle Aurora Castillo provides the top star attraction here this week, her dancing being something exceptional. Others are the Brothers Redmond, acrobatic comedians of "Willie, come here" fame; Nell Richardson, a delightful comedienne and sweet singer; George Barron, eccentric comedian; and Stan Aubrey, leg-mania comedian. Other enjoyable items are those of Kitty Malone, smart burlesque artist; Gertie Manson and Harold West, who "tell the tale"; Arthur Page, comedian; and Tom Leo, the lazy comedian. Raymond's Vivagraph pictures are good.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—Nancy Sikes, a dramatic episode from "Oliver Twist," is being played successfully here this week by Georgette Thierry, supported by Bernard Liell, Henry Deane, Willie Black, and Florrie Sorsby. The Royal Hungarian Szarvaci Ferencz troupe excel in acrobatic feats, and sing and dance well; Haley's latest production, The Garden of Girls, is an effective and pleasing scena; Duncan and Brasque are good in A Society Butterfly, a capital playlet on the "Smart Set"; the Jentry's do some clever tumbling, and amuse with smart patter; and the Musical Keiths display ability in an up-to-date speciality; Madge Allan is a charming comedienne and graceful dancer; and Olms and Garbeth are successful and amusing jugglers. "The Naval Attack on Portsmouth" is an interesting film on the Bioscope.

HIPPODROME (HULME).—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Kay. —Harriet Vernon is very successful in an effective scena, "Sunshine and Shadow." Her dresses are superb. Squire Wyndham and Tom Waters, comedy vocalists, give a laughable drawing-room act; So-da proves himself to be a most wonderful illusionist, his turn being exceptionally smart; and a good pot-pourri act, entitled There's Going to Be a Show, is offered by Gravetta and Parr. May Newall, a pleasing singer, has a sweet voice; Mlle. Rennie, the girl juggler, is clever; the Emmell Comedy company, including Adele Levey, Jeannie Weston, and Fred Haming, are excellent in a mythical muddle, entitled My Statue of Grace; and acceptable turns are also contributed by Leslie Race, swell comedian; and Roy Bevis, the merry magician. The pictures are amusing.

RUSHOLME PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Leslie; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles North.—A most delightful al-fresco performance, consisting of Dutch songs, dances, sketches, &c., in quaint Dutch costumes is the attraction here this week, given by the Hollanders, under the direction of Misses Leslie Gaze and Hayes, including Miss Mary Powell, Miss Muriel Lillington, Miss Isabel Powell, Mr. Dick Henty, Mr. Fred Lyne, and Mr. Leslie Gaze, all first-rate artists.

MANSFIELD.—GRAND THEATRE AND GARDENS.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Capt. Cecil Clayton.—Harry Joseph's Pierrot Troupe continue their successful visit here, and good houses have been the rule. An entirely new and up-to-date series of pictures is given on the theatre bioscope.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Herbert Darnley; Resident-Director, Mr. Tom Jennings; Acting-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—During this week Mr. Morton Powell's company, in Honour Thy Father, has occupied the boards here. In the rôle of Gabriel Garth, Mr. Walter M. Cameron is greatly appreciated; Mr. Robert Gilbert is well placed in the part of Jack Halyard; as Duncan Bly, Mr. Howell Travis scores; and in the dual rôles of Job Merry and George Bloggs, Mr. Claude Merton shows ability; Miss Mabel Coleman is an admirable Lilian Garth; Miss Winnie Donovan a capable Mercy Merry; and Miss Ada Salmon a satisfactory Poppy Cornleigh.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Michael; Stage and Business-Manager, Mr. A. Austin-Leigh.—The Margate stock company is to be congratulated on the successful production this week of Mr. Hopkinson. Mr. G. W. Elton is in his element in the title-rôle; Mr. Ernest Cossart makes a richly-humorous Earl; as the Duchess of Braceborough, Miss Edith Grenfell is amusingly impassive and placid; Miss Maud Saker plays Lady Tyra Egglesby with all the aplomb and savoir faire of the ultra-modern girl; as Eliza Dibbs, Miss Belle Travers makes the most of a small part; and Mr. H. G. Mason gives a careful representation of the Duke of Braceborough. Mr. Robert Grey does well in the thankless rôle of the Hon. Otho Dursingham; and Mr. Wallis Clark imparts a touch of colour and characterisation to the aristocratic roué, Lord Cawthorpe; Mr. W. P. Wells being effective as Mr. Smethurst.

HIPPODROME. — Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—Tom Birchmore's Californian Minstrels, even in number, combine harmony and comedy in their efforts; May Kent, comedienne; Dot Hardy, comedy artist; and Dave Laird, comedian, are each successful. Burley and Burley are clever comedy acrobats; and Chas. J. Johnson, the swell coon, is above the average. In the absence of Jock King, billed as "the refined speciality artist," Rudge Whitworth, society entertainer, has been filling in the blank.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Mr. Charles Maclonna's company is appearing here this week in The Gay Parisienne. As Ebenezer Honeycombe, Mr. Will Harman keeps the audience amused by his droll impersonation; Mr. Squire Day is the source of much merriment as Major Fossdyke; and Mr. T Kennard acted in good style as Tom Evereigh; and Mr. Clifford Seyler is in every way successful as Pompier. As Julie Bon Bon, Miss Alice Nixon is pleasing as a vocalist, and her acting is full of vivacity; Miss Madge Soutter an enjoyable Ruth; as Mrs. Honeycombe, Miss Holford Beringer gives a creditable display; and Miss Nance O'Neill is a bright and animated Norah. The Imperial Glee Singers are a great acquisition.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—At the head of this week's bill are Ari entertaining work, which goes far to ensure the complete success of the piece. Mr. Frank Dallas, the exponent of the "old school" of detective, is a fine contrast to Mr. Halling; Miss Daisy Halling plays the part of Mme. Sanson with delicacy and refinement; and other leading rôles are filled by Mr. Fred Wilberforce, Mr. J. Newton Cowling, and Mr. Arthur Merton.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—The stirring drama, An Unwedded Wife, is being staged here this week, the company being a well-balanced one, under the direction of Miss Ethel van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty. In the title-rôle, Miss Ethel van Praagh acts impressively and convincingly, and excellent support is given by Mr. J. Edward Whitty, Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes, Mr. Logan Darva, Mr. Wilton Bedford, Mr. Valentine Henry, Miss Elsie Walton; Miss Jessie Gilette, and Little Doris.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Audiences reaching a record in numbers assemble to bid welcome to Mr. Harry Lauder, who can make strong claim to be Newcastle's greatest present-day favourite. With an amusing song of a widow whose husband "was very kind to me," a droll sailor's song, and "I love a lassie," Mr. Lauder again scores heavily. Roma and Romani contribute a clever musical act; Miss Gracie Moore, with a ballad with pictorial accompaniment, proves popular; and other turns are the Hartley Wonders, in a jumping act; the Northern troupe of dancers; Fred and Pauly, acrobats; Harry Bedford, comedian; Maggie Walsh, the Lancashire singing mill-girl; the Brothers Dean, whistlers and dancers; and Livesey and Rosebery in a really funny "rehearsal sketch."

PAVILION THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Miss Marie Kendall wins rounds of applause in her latest success, "In Demerara," and other songs. Harry Brown, coloured comedian, in quaint songs and novel dances, is a real laughter-maker; and Stacey and Williams, in duet, amusing patter, and neat and comical dance, are very popular; Conway and Garland, both clever humorists, are seen to great advantage in a sketch, Left in Charge, their rehearsal business being grotesquely funny; and a capital sketch, too, is Cockie, as given by Roxborough and Wright; M. and Mme. Karsy present their great musical novelty, the giant myriophone; the Carina Sisters, good musicians, contribute a musical mélange; Miss Flo Warner is a sweet vocalist, and Steve McCarthy a clever dancer.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Chas. Draycott's company in The Stolen Birthright is fulfilling a week's engagement here. Mr. Chas. Draycott, as Count Marco Taddeo acts with great force; Mr. A. C. Holmes makes the most of the part of Prince Andrea Celsi, and in the difficult rôle of Stefano Mr. Harry Scratchard is seen to advantage. The humorous side of the piece is entrusted to Mr. Harry Harrop as Pedro and Miss Ethel Vinroy as Nita, who do well; while Miss Muriel Thompson as Princess Miranda is very powerful. Other minor parts are well sustained, and the play is capitally mounted.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Major Gallagher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Page.—The Drummer of the 76th, which heads the bill here, is a very interesting sketch, in which Mr. Matthew Brodie and Miss Dorothea Vivian are the principals. Paul Conchas gives a more than ordinary display of strength in his juggling; Bert Woodward performs some clever feats on his bicycle; and Tom and Marie Motramo are a smart pair of musical comedy artists; Jennie Johns sings a couple of songs in good style; Effie Stuart is popular in singing and dancing; and J. A. Williams and his trained poodle Towser provide a really smart turn. Ellis Barrieton, a fine vocalist, and Beattie and Blanche, duettists and dancers, complete a good all-round programme.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon.—A Royal Divorce is paying another visit, with its usual success. Miss Edith Cole continues her exceptionally fine performance of Josephine; Mr. Frederick Victor's Napoleon is again a praiseworthy portrayal; Mr. Wm. Dexter is good as the wily Talleyrand; and Mr. G. M. Montanini is excellent as De Beaumont; Mr. Alfred Grenville is well placed as Augereau; and Misses Helen Richmond, Agnes Imlay, and Gertrude Entwistle are well placed as Stephanie, Marie Louise, and Blanche. The remainder of the long cast lend adequate support.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—The Avrigny Trio, who head this week's bill, are clever jugglers and equilibrists; Bosanquet, on a very welcome return visit, entrances all by his brilliant violin solos; Daisy Cordelia (comedienne), Hans and Lux (comedians), the Four Olympian Stars (burlesque vocalists and dancers), Ted Cowan (comedian), and Emily Eyre (comedienne and dancer), are also among the contributors to this week's entertaining programme. The Palace pictures are as good as usual.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—Mr. Frank Lindo's company is here with Home, Sweet Home. As Stephen Armitage, Mr. Frank Lindo gives an admirable portrayal; and Captain Gerald Gambier displays much ability as the Duke of Ancaster; Mr. F. Miles Hodgson submits a capital impersonation of Lucas Lyle; Mr. D. Lawrence Doyle makes a satisfactory David Armitage; Mr. George Overs as Dick Redmayne is effective; Mr. Jack Patrick makes the most of the part of the Hon. Percy; and Mr. Ernest E. Owens is good as Lord Silvermore. As Joan, Miss Marion Wakeford gives an impressive rendering; Miss Cecil Ward cleverly typifies Lady Sommerton; Miss Ray Rochefort as Sybil Fay and Miss Daisy Rochefort as the child give praiseworthy performances.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—Ford and Hanson, American musical millionaires, present an enjoyable act; Messrs. Sandy and Carl, comedians, cause much hearty laughter; and Messrs. Sinclair and Parr, in Keeping an Appointment win favour. Miss Kitty Irvin, a local vocalist of some repute, makes a distinct hit; Miss Lala Vereker in pictorial songs is popular; Mr. George Kernard, actor-vocalist, renders his ditties in good style; and the Bio-photoscope shows interesting pictures.

NORTHWICH.—THE PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Glanmore Jones; Manager, Mr. Lindon Wyatt.—Miss Evans possesses a pure soprano voice, which she uses to great advantage in her several songs; Miss Nellie Mascot has, with her cleverly rendered and popular selections, gained enthusiastic and well-deserved encores nightly; Mr. Walter Sutton, now in his third week, is highly amusing in his laughing songs; and Mr. Glanmore Jones seems as welcome as ever; whilst Messrs. Parker and Parr's songs and patter are both clever and unique. The pictures still prove a most popular item.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. R. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—The principal attraction here is Arthur Watson, Flo Stanley, and company in The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory. George C. Doughty and company in their sketch, Captain Cupid, are also amusing; Ernie Mayne creates much laughter; Frances Lotty is a successful comedienne; Ray and Miles are clever comedy juggiers; Craig, Rose, and Craig are skilful acrobats; Hinton and Wooton as football bicyclists are great favourites; and the Hippo Bio has some interesting pictures.

NOTTINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robt. Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. Howard Finney.—Hardie and Von Leer's company in Two Little Vagabonds has had a gratifying reception here. Mr. Arthur E. Melborne is a forceful exponent of George Thornton, and is well supported by Miss Grace Heywood as Marion, her sweet manner and tender expressiveness being particularly suitable to the part; Mr. Sidney Vautier is responsible for the portrayal of the villainous Captain Darville, and acquits himself excellently; Miss Edie Martin as Dick and Miss Josie Bertram as Wally are exceedingly clever, and the necessary comparison between the two is well maintained; Mr. Lionel Ellis as Mullins and Miss Evelyn Shaw as Biddy contribute the comic relief in an able manner; and Messrs. Frank Gordon and Dick Winslow give an admirable realisation of the criminal confederate class; Miss Hilda Leslie, Miss Lena Vernon, and Miss Rosslyn Vayne do well in their respective parts, and a very clever company is completed by Messrs. Dunstan Hayé, Harry Wright, Moor, Blakeman, Holliman, and Buckland.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—Mr. C. Watson Mill's company gave a capital rendering on Monday of his melodrama, A Wrecker of Men, and the house was held spellbound by the stirring situations. Mr. Eric Campbell played the burglar, Jim Murley, with telling effect; Mr. Percy Horton acted the hero, Guise Strange in a thoroughly capable and manly way, and the mysterious Pharasophus was consistently portrayed by Mr. Milner Noble; Mr. Miller Anderson made a grim and determined Railton, and a light touch of comedy was introduced by Mr. Leslie Ross as Reggie Verincourt; Miss Ruth Zillwood impersonated Risca with a force and vigour that carried conviction; a charming and winsome Doris Melville was seen in Miss Gwendoline Talbot, and Miss Beatrice Reynolds evoked hearty laughter in her depiction of the untidy servant, Varasole Slopper. The troubles of Eric Melville were well sketched by Mr. Thompson Carruthers, and Mr Sydney Renouf made an excellent Jew.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. H. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—James Mooney and Ida Holbein are recalled several times after their smart turn; the Robertys Family balance various articles in clever style; Nellie Moore is a character impersonator of ability; Fred S. Peake and company appear with success in The Gambler; Maxford and O'Neil are heard in funny patter; George Antill, eccentric comedian, takes well; Francis O'Flynn plays banjo solos in clever style; and Harry Taylor, comedian, also sings well. Nuttall.—The Three Orros give a clever gymnastic exhibition on the silver chains; the Days present some very interesting tests in second sight; Sidney Dooley's Three Tivoli Girls sing and dance excellently; Ward and Davis are smart in their musical comedy duologue, Wanted, a Typist; Chas. Banks, comedian, with his clever dog, Woof, is good; Miss Gladys Williams is a smart comedienne; Fred Hallam, comedian, contributes funny songs; and the Dottoscope depicts humorous pictures.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—Mr. Baron H. Harriss's company is here with The Prince of Pilsen. Mr. Harry Kilburn earns many a hearty laugh with his clever and humorous performance of Hans Wagner; Mr. Frank Crimp sings agreeably and acts with spirit as Carl Otto; Mr. L. Lang is well suited as Lieut. Wagner; Mr. Bernard Russell makes an agreeable and polished Earl of Shrimpton; and Mr. E. Gifford works hard and successfully as François. Miss Ada Watson is a bright and pleasing Edith Adams; Miss May Yates captivates all hearts with her delicate and refined acting as Nellie Wagner; Miss Connie Leon acts with any amount of "go," and dances most exquisitely as Sidonie; and Miss Sophie Harriss makes a most imposing and handsome Mrs. Crocker. Both chorus and orchestra are admirably directed by Mr. A. Vernon. The latter half of this week Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton are appearing here in Othello, The Virgin Goddess, and Taming of the Shrew, and the seats for the first play are already all booked.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE.—Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Rollo Balmain and Miss Sara Mignon's company is here with Our Flat. As Reginald Sylvester, Mr. Sydney Leyton is easy and natural, while Mr. Langford Reed is bright and effective as Clarence Vane. Mr. Rollo Balmain gives a vivacious rendering of the part of Nathaniel Glover; and Mr. J. W. Braithwaite is also a success as Mr. McCullum; Mr. Wilfrid Compton makes the most of Pinchard; Miss Miriam Holt acts gracefully as Lucy McCullum; Miss May York is a good Madame Volant, and Miss Louie West is highly amusing as Bella; while Miss Sara Mignon shows ability and experience as Margery Sylvester.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here in An Abandoned Woman. Mr. Walli Spinner plays admirably as Capt. Herbert Seaton: as Sir Marmaduke Seaton Mr. George Gormley is capital; Mr. P. Morton Wright displays ability in the character of Robert Saunders; Philippe Malvoisin is powerfully portrayed by Mr. Richard Ferris; Mr. A. Abott does excellently as Pierre; mirth-provoking is the assumption of Paddy Boyle by Mr. Jim K. Woods; and Mr. Will Glaze is clever and entertaining in his portraiture of Sammy Sharp. Miss Edith Blande as Ninion Malvoisin plays with histrionic ability; Miss May Richardson furnishes an excellent embodiment of Eleanor Deane; and Miss Elsie Deane is amusing in the part of Sally Sloper.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. R. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Douglas F. Bostock.—Georg Hackenschmidt is displaying his powers in a convincing and scientific manner. Others of an exceptionally good bill are Daisy Morell, comedienne and versatile vocalist; Aladina and her wonderful troupe of performing cockatoos; Dan Noble, comedian and vocalist; Marie Yorke, comedienne and dancer; Mons. de Henan, lightning foot painter and manipulator; the Brontes, in an amusing comedy sketch, Saucy Maud; Rolland Hill, vocalist and comedian; and the Hippodrome Bioscope concludes.

PLYMOUTH. — GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams.—A comedy-drama of great local popularity, Shadows of a Great City, is being played here this week. Mr. Cecil A. Melton works hard as the much-persecuted hero, Tom Cooper; Mr. Victor Vernon makes an ideal villain as Abe Nathan, and receives material assistance from his second-in-command in the business, Mr. Gerald Spencer, as George Benson; Mr. Fred Hill is a characteristic detective; and Messrs. Greene Taylor (Jim Farren), Fred Baines (Hammond), and Bert Beswick (Crouch) capably fill smaller parts. Miss Elaine Vanbrugh displays commendable ability as the heroine, Nellie, and Miss Edith Stevenson is acceptable as Biddy.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—Marino is the leading attraction, and concludes a most exacting turn by permitting a 40 h.p. motor-car to be driven over him; Herbert Clifton has an attractive voice and admirably mimics many leading theatrical stars; Gertrella is a popular favourite, combining some nice singing with graceful trapeze work; John R. Coyle has a rousing reception for his comic contribution; and Ernest Montefiore and company appear successfully in a sketch entitled The Little Colonel. Other attractive numbers are Billy Hobbs, the Three Clarions, and Vernon's pictures.

PONTYPRIDD.—ROYAL CLARENCE THEATRE.—Owners and Proprietors, Mrs. Trenchard and Miss L. Jones; Manager Mr. Charles Trenchard.—A decided attraction here is the first visit of Mr. Ernest R. Abbott in a répertoire of popular plays. On Monday A Wife's Triumph was staged. Robert Dewhurst was admirably portrayed by Mr. Abbott; Mr. Frank Stephens capably assumed Frank Wilson; Ellis Jordan was in the able hands of Mr. W. H. Garbois; Mr. Weedon Ross left nothing to be desired as Julius Hartman; Ben Bradford was ably impersonated by Mr. Edwin Keene; Miss Ada Abbott scored a distinct success as Bessie Dewhurst; Miss Edith Knight very prettily played Alice Wilson; and Miss Marjorie Tennant was decidedly good as Margery. Lady Audley's Secret, Trilby, and East Lynne are also in the week's scheme of amusement.

PORTH.—THE PALACE (late Opera House).—General-Manager, Mr. C. W. Poole; Acting and Stage-Manager, Mr. Walter Bynorth.—The Lorch Family of risley acrobats give a performance which is thoroughly appreciated; Professor Thornbury, in a new painting act and a novel ventriloquial chalk talking act, displays much ability; Frank Elliston and Co., in Aunt Matilda, are responsible for roars of laughter; Dan Kino, a clever young versatile comedian, contributes some good songs; George Menva, sleight-of-hand expert, gives an excellent account of himself; Ella's lions furnish an attractive performance; the Palace pictures are a rare treat; Harry Nelson is a capital comedian.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Bell.—Mr. R. Crossman's No. 1 company in Sergeant Brue is here. Mr. Arthur Reynolds in the name part makes an excellent impression; Crookie Scrubbs as impersonated by Mr. T. A. Shale is a genuine piece of comedy acting; Mr. Goldsworthy as Michael Brue does capital work; Mr. Crank is well sustained by Mr. Chas. Sims; Lady Bickenhall is well portrayed by Miss Cissie Raymond; Aurora Brue is satisfactorily taken by Miss Mary Hay; Daisy is ably played by Miss Marion Hargrave. Mr. Cyril Maude and company travelled from London on Tuesday to give a special matinée of Toddles.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The powerful play When it was Dark is being presented here this week by Mrs. Morton Powell and her company. Mr. E. Stanton Sharp as the Rev. Basil Gortre is intense in his impersonation; Constantine Schuabe is played by Mr. W. J. Butler in a telling manner; Sir Robert Llewellyn is well sustained by Edward Valentine; and Mr. Ernest St. John ably fills the part of the Rev. Mr. Byas; Mrs. Morton Powell is pleasingly natural as Helena Byars; and Miss Hilda Beverley is a sympathetic Gertrude Hunt.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The Andos Troupe of Happy Japs, jugglers and equilibrists, are gaining much applause for their successful entertainment here. Dale and Vale, clever step dancers, score well; the Sisters Sprightly are a trio of brisk up-to-date comediennes; Blake and Granby, in a comedy duologue, The Man in Possession, are well received; Fred Herbert, topical vocalist, had a capital reception; Sid Bandon, character comedian, secures a warm greeting for his songs; Minnie D'Aubyn, burlesque artist, is successful; the Sisters Wingrove are a graceful pair of duettists and dancers; Jay W. Winton, Australian ventriloquist, presents McGinty to an appreciative house; Daisy Hicks is a smart comedienne; and Payne's pictures bring a bright programme to a close.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, The Portsmouth Hippodrome Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry. — The Athlones (Sandow's lecture models), with their graceful ring act, create lively satisfaction here. Mr. Johnny Fuller as the "cat on the wire" evokes applause; Osborne and Brooks are a pleasing musical duo; Walton and Lester, "the world's worst wizards," are responsible for much mirth; the George Bonhair-Gregory troupe of Risley acrobats are responsible for many clever tricks; Zertho's dogs are truly named "canine comedians"; and Fred Karno's company of comedians in Mumming Birds are the jolliest combination of farceurs that we have seen. Miss Beattie Benson, comedienne and dancer; Mr. Tom Collins, topical comedian, and the Hippodrome pictures are other attractions.

PRESTON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Executors of the late Mr. Wm. Johnson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Stephen Pritt.—The D'Oyly Carte principal répertoire company is here this week. On Monday The Gondoliers was presented with great success. The Yeomen of the Guard attracted a good house on Tuesday, and was accorded an enthusiastic reception. Sir Richard Cholmondeley had an excellent representative in Mr. Leicester Tunks; Colonel Fairfax was admirably impersonated by Mr. Paul Ripple; Mr. Albert Kavanagh ably sustained the part of Sergeant Meryll; Mr. Fred Billington displayed grim humour as Wilfred Shadbolt; Mr. Chas. R. Walenn gave a faultless portrayal of Jack Point; Miss Mabel Graham sang and acted excellently as Elsie Maynard; Miss Lulu Evans made a captivating Phœbe Meryll; Miss Theresa Rassam was seen to advantage as Dame Carruthers; and others who contributed to the success of the performance were Miss Marie Carveth as Kate and Mr. H. Blake Johnson as Leonard Meryll. The programme for the week also includes Patience, Iolanthe, and Princess Ida.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—The chief attraction here is La Troupe Espagnole Juanitas, who give a fine acrobatic performance. The Olympian Jiu-Jitsu Troupe ably demonstrate the Japanese art of self-defence; W. P. Ellwanger and company present an amusing sketch, entitled The Peacemaker; the Four Sisters Victoria are clever instrumentalists. Good turns are also supplied by the Brothers Robson, versatile comedians and eccentric dancers; May and Ruby, vocalists and dancers; Doyle and Gibson, comedians and dancers; Wee Mona Vivian, child vocalist, actress, and dancer; and Fred Dornan, characteristic actor-vocalist. Bioscope pictures complete an excellent entertainment.

RAMSGATE. — AMPHITHEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—On account of its popularity with holiday audiences last week, Mr. Gerald Hunt's exhibition of biograph pictures has been re-engaged this week, with a capital variety programme. The Nettas (Will and Dot) render admirable duets; the Sisters Valli give a much-appreciated musical and big-boot dance turn; and Wal Robbins is extremely popular.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—On the first three nights of the week here Mr. Edward Marriss's company gave excellent performances of Somebody's Sweetheart. The musical numbers with which the dramatic passages are interspersed, were admirably rendered, Miss Effie Vincent and Mr. Cecil W. Parke being in good form. Mr. Geo. Brentwood made a most amusing Valet; and the Misses Dolly Payne and Rose Chandler danced smartly. On Thursday, Mr. Leigh Lovell and Miss Octavia Kenmore's company commenced a three-nights engagement.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor Mr. Milton Bode.—Mr. George Dance's variety season.—Manager, Mr. E. J. Macdermott.—Another attractive programme is presented this week. WORLD'S FAIR.—Manager, Mr. Will Smith.—Adjoining the Palace is the World's Fair, which has proved a great attraction. The numerous entertainments provided consist of the Drolls and Demures, a concert party, under the direction of Mr. Arthur Davies and Mr. Derick Knowles; a Dahomey Village, a Wild Man from Borneo, and several interesting side shows.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—The current programme offers excellent entertainment, and includes Clifford Grey, patter comedian; Clarence Ibbotson, comedian; Mamie Gould, soprano; Percy James, baritone; Billy Stephens, comedian; Jack Macdermott; and Forshaw Kershaw.

Mr. A. Cheetham's animated pictures at the Central Hall continue popular, and at the Victoria Hall the Australian Bioscope Company also do good business. Mr. Gilbert Rogers and his jovial jesters perform three times daily on the sands.

ROCHDALE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—The Face at the Window is here once again, and continues to draw good houses. Mr. E. Hoggan Armadale as Le Loup submits a most striking impersonation; Mr. T. W. Dunscombe plays in able fashion as Paul Gouffet; Mr. Gilbert Hall is well placed as Lucian Corier, and Mr. George Phythian is effective as the mad doctor. The humorous element is in the safe hands of Mr. C. Alan Hiveson as Peter Pottleberry, and Miss Gladys Newcombe, who is bright and pleasing as Babette. Miss Marie Barrett acts with feeling and power the part of Marie de Brisson, and Miss Marie Tennant makes a favourable impression as La Pinou.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Leoni Clarke's numerous cats, rats, mice, rabbits, monkeys, canaries, &c., are really wonderful. Ike Scott and Son, comedians, kept the audience convulsed with laughter; and other turns are submitted by W. B. Raby, "Burlesque La Milo"; Smarte Bros., novel acrobat eccentrics; Harry Taft, comedian; Colpitt, in tricks, talk, and travesty; and the Empire Bioscope.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Smith and Co.—For the third week in succession Pringle's North American Animated Picture Company occupies the boards here. "Marked for Life," "The Blackmailer," "Willie's Dream," &c., are amongst the répertoire shown on the screen. Singing pictures, representing scenes from The Mikado, are faithfully produced; and variety turns by Walter Munro, Irish comedian; and Jessie Mooney, comedienne, complete a capital programme.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Miss Mary Austin and company are here with Shall We Forgive Her? The Cotton Spinner, and Passion's Power. Mr. E. Vivian Edmonds gives an excellent portrayal of the part of Paul Elworth; and Mr. Fred W. Goddard is highly successful as Oliver West. Mr. George P. Lester is seen to advantage as George Stapleton; and Mr. J. Milne Taylor scores as Neil Garth. Messrs. Harry Harrop as Reggie Walton and John S. Haydon as Dr. M'Kerrow, are also deserving of special mention. Miss Mary Austin as Grace Oliver gives a highly-finished and human rendition of the part; and Miss May Grimshaw is very successful in a most difficult part as Joanna Lightfoot. Miss Ethel Vinroy is a sprightly and pleasing Nellie West; and Miss Anna Beaumont gives a clever representation of the part of Aunt Martha.

RUGBY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geoffrey Fulton.—Mr. Francis Everard's company is presenting on Monday and Tuesday The Streets of London, and on Wednesday and Thursday The Sorrows of Satan, on Friday and Saturday The Shadows of a Great City. In the first-named, Mr. Francis Everard scored an unqualified success as Badger; Mr. Edwin Turner gave a very able rendering of Gideon Bloodgood; Mr. James Fox was manly and artistic as Paul Fairweather; and Mr. Ronald Douglas was good as Mark Livingstone; Mr. Arthur Ferris caused much amusement by his clever acting as Puffy. Miss Vera Fordyce was very good as Lucy Fairweather, and appealed strongly to the sympathy of the audience by her clever acting; Miss Isabel Marte as Alicia Bloodgood made a great success of a difficult part; Miss Ethel May does well as Mrs. Fairweather; Miss Edith Leslie was very natural and amusing as Mrs. Puffy. Mr. Morley Carroll as Captain Fairweather, Mr. F. D. Fane as Edwards, and Mr. Charles Ring as Daniells all did good work.

RYDE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. H. E. Arkwright; Manager, Mr. F. B. Tarrant.—A first-class variety company has drawn large audiences here this week. Miss Isa Bowman appears successfully, her "Jewel song" being perhaps her best number; Miss Dorothy Dempster sings "Bashful moon" with remarkable effect; Mr. Gus Danby presents a laughable sketch, entitled A Day at the Agents; Mr. Morrice Holmes' whistling solos are enthusiastically received; and Stuart and Stuart combine in their eccentric songs and dances with great effect.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan.—Dickie Clare's company of comedians provides an excellent entertainment here this week with the musical farcical comedy, Lucky 'Liza. Miss Madge Brownie presents a vivacious and clever interpretation of the title-rôle, and Mr. Dickie Clare does excellently in the triple rôle of Silas Slim, the judge, and the French waiter; Peter Pettitoe is smartly played by Mr. T. W. Benson, and his son Paul is well handled by Mr. Syd Hind; Mr. J. W. Forrest causes plenty of fun as William Bimns; and Mr. George Minto is decidedly comic as P.C. McGurke. Miss Vesta Brownie does well as Virginia Blathewick, her father Barnaby Blathewick being admirably depicted by Mr. A. W. Thompson; Miss Bella Russell is austerity itself as Marie Pettitoe; and the Verona Poppy Trio give some excellent examples of the terpsichorean art.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. A. C. Harrison.—Animated pictures are being shown by the King's Own Animated Picture Co., and are of a very good standard.

SHEERNESS. — THE PALACE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Phil Reymond.—An excellent company appears here this week, and includes Mr. Will Valson, comedian and mimic, who is also a clever instrumentalist; Miss Florrie Laurel, a smart and up-to-date comedienne; Mr. Phil Reymond, the ever-welcome comedian; The Sakerbonners, the popular entertainers, in a musical act; Miss Topsy Levano, the well-known burlesque actress; and the Crown Sketch company, with a screaming sketch, Spooks.

SHEFFIELD. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—The Three Musketeers, a new adaptation of Dumas the Elder's famous novel, was played here on Monday under the direction of the author, Mr. Ernest E. Morris, and kept the large audience thoroughly interested. Mr. Morris was first rate as the dashing, chivalrous D'Artagnan; and the three gallant swordsmen, Athos, Porthos, and Aramis, found trusty representatives in Messrs. Walter Gregory, A. Brown, and Harold Wagner. A characteristic portrait of Richelieu was submitted by Mr. E. S. Petley; the character of Louis XIII. was carefully impersonated by Mr. Fred Tyrrell; and Mr. Richard Noble as the Duke of Buckingham kept in the picture. The wit, cleverness, and fascinating qualities of Miladi were ably depicted by the popular and accomplished artist, Miss Vera Berenger; Miss Enid Rosa was a charming Constance; and Miss Dorothy Mackenzie's Kitty was a delightful sketch. The scenery was good, and the dresses correct.

THEATRE ROYAL. — Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—A well-constructed drama of Indian frontier life is The World's Great Snare, which is being played here by an excellent company under the management of Mr. Alexander Dallas.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike.—Two Little Drummer Boys was again acted to a large audience on Monday by Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Kimberley's company. The Misses M. English and Mr. Douglas were bright and sympathetic as the drummer-boys. Miss B. Shirley made a pretty and interesting Alma Kingsley; Miss Eversleigh was a graceful representative of Margaret Rivers; and the vivacity of Miss Lizzie Chambers was very welcome in the part of Molly Meadows. A careful make-up and excellent acting made Mr. Edward Bikker's General Kingsley, V.C., stand out prominently; and other well-considered character-studies were Mr. A. Knight's Frank Carsdale, Mr. M. Madden's O'Quirk, Mr. C. Locke's Tim Trimmer, and Mr. H. Harleigh's Captain Darrell. The minor parts were well filled, and the play was mounted in thoroughly artistic manner.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The bas-relief and statuary entertainment given by the Three Golden Graces proves attractive; those deservedly favourite artists, the Bros. Egbert, the "Happy Dustmen," are loudly applauded; Mr. George Formby proves that a distinctly original method, with humour behind it, is bound to bring success; the twin-sisters Anderson dance with great energy, and receive hearty applause; Dan Leno gives a clever imitation of his lamented father in "Mrs. Kelly." A refined and amusing couple of musical-comedy performers are Lee Strade; Miss Bessie Butt is a young, pretty, and engaging vocalist and dancer; Collins and Rice cause general laughter; Mr. Guy Ryder whistles cleverly; and the Bioscope, with humorous films, concludes.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Manager, Mr. David Warwick.—This favourite resort, which has recently been overhauled, and now presents a comfortable and bright appearance, is doing big business with Matt Wilkinson's company, in a comic sketch; Miss Nelly Nora, instrumentalist; Miss Violet Beatrice, comedienne; Miss Rhoda Burnhill, danseuse; Mr. Ormonde Penstone, entertainer; Pallister's Bioscope; the Leonards, sketch artists; and Mr. Will Bacchus, the popular coster comedian.

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—The Plucky Nipper is being played here by Miss Bonwin Carlton's company. Mr. William Heilbronn acts with ability the rôle of Richard Vanbrugh; Mr. H. J. Butler is good as Colonel Fenwick; Mr. Claud Kingston makes a successful Banker; Mr. Morris Maud acts spiritedly as Capt. Frank Leslie; Mr. Frank Dalem is capable as a Detective; Mr. Edward Surrey sustains in a praiseworthy manner the part of Bill Burgess; and Mr. Syd H. Morton is a capital Tommy Atkins, entertaining with songs and dances. Miss Bonwin Carlton is bright and smart in the title-rôle; Miss Esther Lamont merits encomiums as Ina Fenwick; and Miss Kitty Maynard acts with conscientious care the part of Daisy Paget.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton, in their play, entitled A Gambler's Daughter, provides an attraction of exceptional interest. In Mr. Robert Ayrton, the Irish emigrant (Desmond O'Dare) has an exponent of considerable skill, whose unassuming methods win him especial praise; Mr. Alfred Sanders is well suited as Solomon Solomons; Dick is ably sustained by Mr. Harry Barham; Mr. Charles Yorke gives the rôle of Stephen Brand, the villain, a masterly portrayal; Mr. George Vinning plays excellently the part of Jack Grant; Miss Lizzie Gordon scores as Carmen Sancho; Miss Harriett Loydall wins great favour as Auntie Zeb; Miss Adria Hill undertakes the dual rôles of Mildred and Miriam Grant, and her impersonations prove successful.

PIER PAVILION.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—A highly delightful programme is given by Mr. Charles Parker's Æolian Opera Singers, a company of talented artists. Mr. H. Connorton sings in a droll and pleasing manner, and Mr. C. E. Browne entertains most successfully with songs, mandoline solos, &c.; Miss Doris Langdon wins especial favour in her fascinating songs; Miss Rose Alderman also captivates with her singing; Miss Lilian Payne is an able accompanist, and contributes good songs. A smart juggling act by Mozzetto is an additional feature.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS, LTD.—Secretary, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. Lionel Glenister and Mr. Wood-Ingram's excellent company is this week presenting the amusing comedy All-of-a-Sudden Peggy. In the title-rôle Miss Decima Moore has ample scope for displaying her versatility, and depicts the wayward Peggy with charming piquancy; Mr. Lionel Glenister acts with earnestness, and is eminently successful in the character of Jimmy Keppel; Mr. Alfred S. Barber submits a diverting portraiture of Lord Crackenthorpe; Mr. Henderson Bland creates much merriment as Major Archie Phipps; Jack Menzies is capitally portrayed by Mr.

The top of the bill is occupied by the Great Hughes, who presents "Codology," a burlesque exposure of hypnotism; an excellent comedy act, The Amorous Lawyer, is introduced by Billy Bland and the Nono Girls; another good sketch, The Tramp in the Nursery is submitted by the Forsyths, humorists and comedy duettists; Little Rose Pink sings and dances charmingly; Will Mackay, versatile comedian and dancer, is also well received; and other excellent turns are Anna Hannah, characteristic comedienne; and the Tivoli Bioscope.

STALYBRIDGE.—GRAND HIPPODROME.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Fioni; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. A. Jackson.—The excellence of the entertainments is worthily maintained, this week's programme comprising the Bros. Obe, laughing comedians; Norah Desmond, pictorial songstress; Billy Richardson, the evergreen stump orator; Vera Mayne, comedienne; the Eltons, a trio of triple-bar comedians; Mlle. Sara's statuary tableaux; Julian Mack, female impersonator; Peter Bannan, champion middle-weight wrestler; and a couple of extra turns.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill, jun.—The Unseen Power, a musical drama, in which Mr. Harry Starr as Fred Granville displays his versatility to great advantage, has commanded the interest of large audiences here during the first three nights of this week. Among those supporting the popular comedian in principal characters are Mr. Wm. Miller, who is exceedingly good as Harold Granville; Mr. Edwin Firth, a thoroughly capable Antonio Romano, Mr. Will Hee effective as Geo. Granville, Miss Dolly Starr delightful as Chris Granville, Mr. F. W. Graham pleasing as Horatio Cracklesbury; with Miss Madge Blundell as Anita Romano, Miss Kate Norris as Lucretia Granville, and Miss Lye Jeffries as Lucy Romano, each filling their parts with much credit. Otto the Outcast formed the attraction for the remaining three nights of the engagement.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Black.—The first visit here of the popular comedienne, Miss Florrie Forde, has been an unmistakable success, her efforts giving immense pleasure to large audiences. Others appearing are the amusing Columbia Comedy Trio in their operatic and humorous absurdity; the Five Martellonis, smart lady acrobats; the Gregson Comedy Trio, who provide plenty of mirth in their sketch, The Dummy; Kitty Kearns, a pleasing vocalist; Bros. Barker, amusing patterers; and the Saletos, in a clever equilibristic act.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—HIPPODROME THEATRE.—General-Manager, Robt. A. Nicholson; Assistant Manager, Geo. Stainton.—Wilbur Hill and Whillet Whitaker head the bill here, with a high-class musical entertainment, which is greatly appreciated. Vance Harder sings her songs in capital style; and Allan McAskell provides great amusement as a talking conjurer. Chas. Ulrick, the barrel king, is greatly appreciated in his act. The Bensons are old favourites here, and are extremely humorous in their musical comedy act; Sadler and Ross are a funny pair of comedians and dancers; and Hector and Sultan cause great mirth as knockabout comedians. Ronald Bayne and Evelyn Hope are interesting in their scena, David Garrick. The pictures complete the programme.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Councillor J. Batty; Manager, Mr. W. Batty.—Bellonini, comedy juggler, is here this week, and is well received; Patti Yole is a smart comedienne and dancer; and Beatrice Willey is greatly appreciated in her flower songs; Regan and Ryan are a funny pair of comedians; and Hall and Earle cause great fun in their comedy act. Lilian Warren sings some delightful illustrated songs; The Mayvilles, Lilliputian actors, are very clever and amusing; and Lilith is very sensational in an aerial act. The pictures are very interesting.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Ernest Stevens and R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry L. Carlo.—Miss Violet Osmund's company, with The New Barmaid, is drawing crowded houses here this week. The cast, which is an exceptionally strong one, includes Mr. Alexander Loftus, whose humorous rendition of Bertie White could not well be improved upon. Mr. James Grant also causes much mirth by his clever impersonation of William White; Mons. Bonsor finds an apt exponent in Mr. Charles Adeson; while Mr. James Hawkes as Capt. Lovebury proves himself to be a vocalist of considerable ability. The title-rôle is in the able hands of Miss Maisie Gay, who does it ample justice, her vocal efforts being heartily appreciated. Miss Marian Vyner is a charming Dora Heather, and contributes some excellent dances; Mr. Frank Collins is well placed as Colonel Claymore, and the minor parts are all well filled.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Lessees, The United County Theatres, Ltd.; Acting-Managers, Messrs. Alfred Browne and Syd B. Stringer.—Dr. Carl Hermann, electrician, &c., heads the bill this week, and is accorded a flattering reception. Another capital turn is that of the Collinson combination, in The Club Raid; the Three Bostonians, vocalists and dancers; Harry Briggs, triple-voiced vocalist; Corman's Juveniles, in scena; Little Cliff, comedian and dancer; Sisters Marian, duettists; and the Palace Bioscope complete the programme.

SWANSEA.—THE GRAND.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Brooks and Woodbridge; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Dean.—Mr. Norman Macowan opened an eight weeks' engagement at Swansea on Monday with A Marriage of Convenience. Mr. Norman Macowan as the Comte de Candale fully came up to expectations, his handling of the part being masterly to a degree. Excellent support was given by Miss Violet Sterne, who as the fickle Comtesse de Candale acted with delightful piquancy and grace, being recalled again and again. A high degree of excellence was also reached by Mr. Arthur Somers as the amorous Chevalier de Valclos; a good impersonation of the General was given by Mr. Murray Hathorn; and the Marton of Miss Mary Masters called for the warmest praise. Mr. S. E. Palfrey, Mr. Arthur Linay, Mr. P. Ramsay Forman, and Mr. Erik Rorke contributed largely to the success of the production. The Screen Scene from The School for Scandal, which followed, was also excellently put on.

THE STAR.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts.—A fine performance of Mr. Fred Benton's A Life Story is given this week by Mr. Stanley Carlton's company. As Tom Berger, the leader of the League of Death, Mr. Carlton plays with his usual ability; and the Zieka of Miss Ruby Maude is very fine. A clever study is the Beatrice of Miss Marjory Armstrong; and Mr. Percy Darrell appeared successfully as Frank Clifford, the bank manager. Captain Jack Temple, Beatrice's lover, was in the capable hands of Mr. Arthur Dudley. Good impersonations of their various parts were also given by Messrs. Edwin Beverley, F. Bulmer Pitt, Fred Rose, Geoffrey Chate, Arthur Betts, Harry Vincent, Walter Capewell, and Fred Conway, Mrs. Edward Garth, and Miss Susie Beavan.

EMPIRE. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Manager, Mr. A. Mitchell; Assistant-Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe. — Mariedl, the Tyrolean giantess, made her initial appearance here this week; an excellent turn is contributed by Billy Maclean and company, including Mme. Cordelia, who introduce some original dancing; Ross and Grayson combine excellent humour with music, Ross's pianoforte playing being extraordinary; in Monks at Play Lindon's vaudeville entertainers provide a very pleasing turn; Marzella introduces a troupe of wonderfully-trained pigeons, &c., who give a good show; Horace White, in his ventriloquial turn, is very successful; Frank Cumminger's sand dancing is marvellous; a first-class acrobatic act is provided by Browning and May; and Gintoro fully justifies his claim to be one of the cleverest Japanese equilibrists and top spinners.

TON-Y-PANDY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth; General-Manager, Mr. Sam Duckworth.—This week the boards are occupied by Mr. Frank Ayrton's company in The Power of Gold. The part of Dr. Saunders is well placed in the hands of Mr. Frank Holyoake; Mr. R. F. Stacy is a capital exponent of Paul Judson; Mark Harley is ably played by Mr. Richard Harris; an excellent rendering of Hadji Zambra is given by Mr. George Lyttleton; Mr. Frank Ayrton is extremely funny as Sammy Smudge; Miss Lily Prescott is good as Meg Judson; Miss Madge Seymore as Norah Donelly adds to the comedy of the piece.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Mr. Allan Wilkie and company in a répertoire of Shakespeare's plays are here this week. As Hamlet, Mr. Allan Wilkie was excellent, his acting in every scene being quite in keeping with the part; as the Ghost, Mr. Paul Lovett was very good; and as Laertes, Mr. G. Alexander Marsh introduced much vigour and energy; Mr. John Paley as the King acted with regal dignity, and he was well supported by Mr. George Munro as the Lord Chamberlain; whilst Horatio was well taken by Mr. Ernest Digges. In the rôle of the Queen, Miss Carrie Baillie did extremely well, and won much appreciation; and Miss Ine Cameron also gave a successful representation of the somewhat trying part of Ophelia. The other plays to be given this week are The Merchant of Venice, The School for Scandal, Romeo and Juliet, She Stoops to Conquer, As You Like It, David Garrick, and The Bells.

TYNEMOUTH. — PALACE-BY-THE-SEA.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham;; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—Miss Dorothy Carlton, a sweet and cultured soprano, heads the bill here this week; Mr. Arthur Hill, living marionette entertainer, is paying a welcome return visit; Angeline, lady juggler, performs many clever feats; the Four Hearnes, acrobats; Zanfretti and Napio, musical eccentrics; and Fred Barnes, light comedian, all contribute acceptable turns. The Palace Orchestra please with their various well-rendered selections, and the evening's entertainment winds up with an admirable show of animated pictures.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co. — The attraction here this week is Monte Cristo, in which Mr. Junius Booth gives a realistic performance as Edmond Dantes; Mr. Beckett Bould is effective as M. Nortier; Mr. Augustin Bowerman does full justice to the part of Baron Danglers; Mr. C. W. Crowe scores as General Mondego; Mr. Walter Huron as M. Villefort, and Mr. Fina Doyle as Lieut. Morcef fill their respective rôles ably; and Mr. Percy Braithwaite is good as Caderousse; Miss B. Doyle as Mercedes creates a favourable impression; Miss Alice West does well as La Carconte; and Miss M. E. Ellis is pleasing as Sophie Danglers.

ARTHUR WOOD.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Ottawas, two cowboys, give a clever musical turn; Mlle. Florence performs notable feats on the rolling globe; Abex, the miniature Hercules, proves popular; Erom and Charlotte are mystifying in their cabinet mystery, She; Professor Wallace, ventriloquist, Miss Marie Liston, comedienne, J. F. Ellis, comedian, Fred Ace, comedian, and Miss Maude Clifton, vocalist, win appreciation.

AMALGAMATED MUSICIANS' CONCERT.

The members of the London Branch of the A.M.U. gave their annual concert in aid of their Benevolent Fund at the Queen's Hall on Sunday, under the auspices of the National Sunday League.

The following is taken from the programme of the concert:—

GRAND ORCHESTRAL CONCERT.
Sunday, May 26, 1907, at 7 p.m.
Specially Selected Orchestra (200 performers).
Conductors:—Mr. L. Chalk (Musical Director, Lyric Theatre, Shaftesbury-avenue), Mr. J. M. Glover, J.P. (Mayor of Bexhill, and Musical Director, Drury Lane Theatre), Mr. H. Godfrey (Conductor, Crystal Palace Band), Mr. Hamilton Harty (Conductor of the British Symphony Orchestra), Mr. J. Skuse (Leader Royal Italian Opera, and Sub-Conductor, Drury Lane Theatre); Mr. Arthur Wood (late Conductor, Apollo Theatre).

HAMILTON HARTY, Conductor.

Leader—Mr. George Leipold.

Vocalists—Miss Florence Collingbourne and Miss Clara Evelyn.

The orchestra for this evening's concert is supplied by the Amalgamated Musicians' Union (London Branch), in aid of its Benevolent Fund, and the musicians are giving their services entirely free. The Musicians' Union is an organisation of professional musicians, with branches in nearly every important centre in the United Kingdom.

One of the objects of this Society is to assist its members during sickness and in times of distress. The whole of the fees paid by the National Sunday League for the services of the orchestra this evening will be devoted to this fund.

The concert is under the patronage of Mr. Geo. Alexander, L.C.C., Mr. C. W. Bowerman, M.P., Mr. W. Crooks, M.P., L.C.C., Mr. J. A. Dawes, M.A., J.P., L.C.C., Mr. G. Dew, L.C.C., Mr. H. Gosling, L.C.C., Mr. J. Hodge, M.P., Mr. J. O'Grady, M.P., Mr. W. C. Steadman, M.P., Mr. H. R. Taylor, J.P., L.C.C., Dr. P. Vosper, L.C.C., and Mr. Lewis Waller.

The Committee desire to thank Mr. George Alexander for a gift of £5.

There was a crowded attendance, and it is anticipated the fund in question will materially benefit by the concert, which opened with Elgar's march, "Pomp and Circumstance," under the direction of Councillor J. M. Glover, J.P., who roused the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm by his conducting of this well-known march. At the conclusion, Mr. Glover had to bow his acknowledgments repeatedly of the continued applause. The demand for an encore was very wisely resisted, owing to the length of the programme. Mr. Glover then took the orchestra through the well-known "Zampa" overture. Here again he showed his remarkable skill. Mention must be made of the playing of the beautiful clarionet solo by Mr. J. Hughes, R.A.M.

After a song by Miss Florence Collinbourne, Mr. L. Chalk, the musical director of the Lyric Theatre, conducted Dvorak's graceful morceau, "Humoreske." Mr. Chalk brought out the grace and charm of this little work with great taste, and would undoubtedly have won an encore had it not been understood that time would not permit of repetitions. The next item was the introduction to the third act of Lohengrin, which gave the brass their first chance of the evening, to which they nobly responded under Mr. Chalk's inspiring bâton.

The next item was the first movement of Schubert's beautiful "Unfinished" symphony. With Mr. Hamilton Harty at the conductor's desk, an effective rendering was given. The quality of the strings was remarkable, and everyone seemed to realise the composer's mood. The delicate lights and shades, which Mr. Harty knows so well how to obtain from an orchestra under his control, were admirably marked.

Micäëla's song from Carmen was sung by Miss Clara Evelyn, after which came three movements from Massenet's suite, "Scenes Pittoresques," with Mr. J. Skuse as the conductor. Mr. Skuse is the leader at the Royal Opera, and Mr. J. M. Glover's right-hand man at Drury Lane. The three movements given were No. 1, "Marche," No. 3, "Angelus," and No. 4, "Fête Bohème." The orchestra was now in its best form, and Mr. Skuse, after the beautiful "Angelus," roused all to enthusiasm by his reading of the "Fête Bohème." Mr. Skuse next took the orchestra through the well-known "Salute d'Amour," by Elgar, which was beautifully played.

The Hungarian march from Berlioz's Faust served to introduce Mr. H. Godfrey, of the Crystal Palace Band, to the concert, and his piloting through this inspiriting march acted as an agreeable tonic.

The next orchestral item was the evergreen William Tell overture, with Mr. Arthur Wood as the conductor. "Mr. Wood is a born conductor" was the general comment. The points were admirably drawn out by Mr. Wood, who came in to conduct at very short notice, owing to the unavoidable absence of Mr. Frank Tours. Special mention must be made of the 'cello solo by Mr. Edgar Fawcett, the cor Anglais solo by Mr. W. S. Hinchcliffe, R.I.O., and the flute obbligato by Mr. S. Redfern, R.I.O. Then followed the Egyptien ballet music, by Luigini, in which the orchestra again demonstrated its remarkable efficiency, under Mr. Wood's control. Mr. Hamilton Harty concluded his share of the programme by conducting the march movement from Raff's "Leonora" symphony. The orchestra gave a fine rendering, much of which was due to Mr. Harty's personality, and the audience, judging by the applause at the conclusion, thoroughly enjoyed the performance.

The programme was brought to a conclusion with a fine rendering of the ever-popular 1812 overture, with Mr. H. Godfrey wielding the bâton. He marshalled his forces admirably.

Between the afternoon rehearsal and the evening performance the orchestra were entertained to tea at the Amalgamated Musicians' Club, in Great Newport-street. All the arrangements for the concert were under the direction of Councillor C. Jesson, L.C.C., the London secretary of the A.M.U., and Mr. A. Cotton, assistant secretary of the A.M.U. The following is a list of the orchestra:—

JOSEPH SKUSE.

THE PSYCHOLOGY OF THE ACTRESS.

A deep discourse on "The Actress: A Psychological and Æsthetic Study" was given by Dr. Angelo S. Rappoport on Wednesday at the headquarters of the Amateur Players' Association in Victoria-street. The lecturer, who admitted to having delivered the address to the Playgoers' Club a year ago, but urged that since then he had had occasion to study the actress more closely, gave expression to his opinions through the mouth of an actress he had seen adorning a picture-post-card on sale in a shop window in Fleet-street, who was suddenly endowed with speech. The actress claimed to be a "priestess of the modern world ministering in the Temple of Art." According to her, the priestesses of Dionysius or Bacchus, the bacchantes who did honour unto the ancient God, the God of joy and of rejuvenescence, were the first actresses of antiquity. In the early mediæval days actresses had no place in the mystery and miracle plays. But in the fifteenth century the spirit of the Renaissance began to move its wings. The rays of the Renaissance had tinted with Orient hues the sombre mediæval sky. Forth from Italy came the poetry of the Hellenic world, beginning its triumphant march over Europe. With the classic rejuvenescence and the cult of Dionysius the rule of the ancient priestesses came again into being, only in a different shape. Actresses appeared on the European stage. The priestesses of the Pagan world were the actresses of antiquity, the actresses of the Christian world are the priestesses of modernity; priestesses in the Temple of Art."

The suppositious speaker scorned the imputation that the art of the actor is nothing but the development and training of the faculty of imitation. "Histrionic art," she maintained, "is not the result of a conscious exercise of the power of imitation. Just as little as the priestesses of Bacchus, in their Dionysian exuberance—himmelhoch jauchzend—are we imitators or conscious performers. We are moved by the spring of intuition and emotion. What is required of us, what really is the sine qua non of our art is transfiguration. When we thrill the audiences, when we carry their sympathies with us and with our sufferings, or excite their anger at our wicked deeds, then we are no more playing, we are not acting, we are transfigured, we have become for the moment a different personality—our own has disappeared. This only few of us can achieve. We are not imitating the external peculiarities of the character we impersonate; no, like any other artist, we have grasped the very soul of the person we represent. The very passions that dictate the actions of the character we are acting are raging in us; for the time being we are actually capable of wicked deeds and of generous actions. The process of histrionic production is based upon suggestion and hypnotic power. Every artist works under the influence of suggestion, of auto-suggestion.

"In the case of the histrionic artist, it is the playwright who exercises the power of suggestion over the former. The dramatic character drawn by the playwright has the power to suggest and to hypnotise the artistic nature and nervous temperament of actor and actress, to make them relegate their own will-power into the background, and to assume a different personality. The day will come," added the actress, "when pleasures will be more refined and delicate, more æsthetic. Every pleasure will be beautiful and every agreeable action artistic. The æsthetic and the moral lives, so distinguished in the lower beings, will be one. The beautiful and the agreeable, Art and life and existence, will be merged into one. Then we shall again enjoy the veneration due to priestesses, whose work it is to stir the emotions and feelings of our audiences, to give pleasure to the many. But," she concluded, "even now there are many who know how to appreciate us and our work. Does not our great and noble doyenne—the venerable priestess Ellen Terry—enjoy the esteem of thousands? Thousands are eager to pay to her their tribute of appreciation and gratitude for the noble and æsthetic pleasure she has given them. She looks back upon her life's work, upon the work of half a century, and feels that her life has been well spent."

A critical analysis of the paper was given in the amusing discussion which followed.

A COPY of "THE ERA" will be forwarded to any address in the United Kingdom for six stamps.

"THE EVE OF HER WEDDING."

A Domestic Play, in Four Acts, by C. Watson Mill, produced for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Sunderland, on Monday, May 27.

George Tremaine .....MR. WILSON BENGE
Squire Leverton .....MR. ARTHUR KEAND
Dick Leverton .....MR. CHARLES H. GALLIER
Rudolph Earle .....MR. CHAS. DIGBY
Giovanni .....MR. DAVID BEATTIE
Dean Clifton .....MR. LOUIS HECTOR
Paul Cairshaw .....
Hyram P. Younger ..... MR. CHAS. GROVES, JUN.
Jack Herne .....MR. NORMAN B. CANNON
Bill Groggins .....MR. K. ARTHUR
Rev. A. Goodman .....MR. ALEXANDER GEORGE
P.C. Lockup .....MR. JOE ENGLAND
Renie de Telle .....MISS ADELINE RABY
Gwendoline Younger .....MISS SYBIL HARE
Mavis Leverton .....MISS SADIE SMITH

Founded on fairly conventional lines the above new play contains many fine situations and stirring incidents. The story opens at Treeton Towers, the residence of the Squire of Merton, a quaint old-fashioned village, hidden in a southern county. The squire's only daughter, Mavis, loves, and is beloved by one George Tremaine, an English gentleman, who is afterwards renowned as Nemo (the Hand that Helps the Poor), a young man of considerable wealth and affluence. The squire's land agent, Dean Clifton, who is also in love with Mavis, is an unprincipled scoundrel, and is in league with Paul Cairshaw (the Man with the Scar), who has stolen some Italian fortification plans, and is "wanted" by Giovanni, a Secret Service agent of the Italian Government. The precious pair of schemers plot to defame the character of the fair Mavis, with a view to the prevention of her marriage with young Tremaine, and on the eve of the wedding, owing to their well-laid scheme, strengthened by ocular demonstration, manage to convey to the mind of Tremaine that his fiancée is unfaithful to him. Tremaine, accepting the seeming overwhelming evidence brought under his notice regarding Mavis, vows revenge on the man and retribution on the woman, and on the wedding morn, when all are assembled outside the church, he declines to go on with the ceremony, denouncing his fiancée as a wanton. Mavis's brother Dick asks for satisfaction from Tremaine, and demands that her companion in vice be produced, when Cairshaw is thrust forward, and in the struggle which takes place discloses the scar on his breast, and is discovered by Giovanni as the man required for the theft of the Government plans. Mavis, taken ill after the foul charges levied at her at the church door, is carried to the village inn. George Tremaine, deciding to leave the village with its host of bitter memories, first has an interview with the squire, who calls upon him to substantiate his statements. The facts are repeated to the squire, who upholds Tremaine's actions, and both lover and father denounce Mavis. Mavis overhears the conversation, and decides to leave the village at once, and afterwards becomes a wanderer in London. Cairshaw manages to elude his captor; but soon after dies, leaving a full confession regarding Mavis's innocence. Then commences a long search for the wandering Mavis, who has now lost her reason. She is finally discovered by Nemo, and placed in the care of her brother Dick. The latter has become a victim to the wiles of Renie, an unscrupulous adventuress, and Clifton, to whose rooms Dick now takes his sister; but Nemesis, in the shape of Nemo, is on their track, and in the very "nick of time" Mavis is saved from Clifton's clutches, whereupon she regains her reason. The State papers are at the same time secured by Giovanni, and the recovery of Cairshaw's confession of the part he played to part the lovers leads to the total discomfiture of the schemers and to the ultimate reconciliation and the usual happy ending. The piece is adequately staged, and the audience closely followed the story from start to finish.

Mr. Wilson Benge's company submits a highly intelligent rendition of the absorbing play. Mr. Wilson Benge as George Tremaine plays throughout with well-sustained dignity and power, bringing out with emphasis the many fine points in the character of Nemo, the Good. Mr. Arthur Keand brings ability to bear on his portrayal of the rôle of Squire Leverton, leaving nothing to be desired. Mr. Charles H. Gallier gives an interesting interpretation of the part of Dick Leverton. Mr. Charles Digby is eminently successful, as well as amusing, as Rudolf Earle. Mr. David Beattie's impersonation of Giovanni is expressive of the fiery and ardent Italian nature. Mr. Louis Hector, in the disagreeable part of Dean Clifton, supplies a strong and incisive rendition of the scheming land agent. Mr. Charles Groves, jun., has an important rôle as Paul Cairshaw, and his assumption has some really fine characterisation, that stamps him as an artist who will go much farther in the histrionic profession. He is also responsible for the rôle of Hiram V. Younger, an American millionaire. Another sterling piece of work is submitted by Mr. Norman B. Cannon, who wins the plaudits of the house for the cripple, Jack Hearne. Mr. K. Arthur is fully adequate as Bill Groggins; and Mr. Alex. George and Mr. Joe England are respectively responsible for the Rev. A. Goodman and P.C. Lockup. Miss Sadie Smith has a difficult rôle in that of Mavis, the fiancée of Tremaine, but she manages to surmount the ordeal with credit. The charm of her earlier scenes is well contrasted by her pathetic portrayal of the later stages of the rôle, and she shows evidence of strong emotional power. Miss Sybil Hare is pleasingly refreshing as Gwendoline Younger (Kinkie). Playing with a strong American twang, she is full of vivacity and brightness, and adds in no small measure to the lighter side of the play. Miss Adeline Raby, in the less pleasing rôle of the adventuress, Renie de Telle, assumes with frank abandon the wily allurements of the clever accomplice of the male schemers, showing up the worst parts of an unscrupulous woman's character with great cleverness. The new piece will, without doubt, prove an acceptable addition to the list of domestic dramas, which always prove popular in the provinces.

THE Pavilion Theatre, which has latterly been devoted to performances by the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company, will in August next pass into the hands of Mr. S. Feinman, the leading actor of the company, he and a small syndicate having taken over a lease of the house, which will in future be carried on under Yiddish auspices. After the performance on Saturday, when the season ended, Mr. Cecil Paget addressed the audience in eloquent terms, thanking them for their unqualified support. Subsequently, Mr. Feinman presented Mr. Fred Brown—who, we understand, will continue in his position as acting-manager—with a solid gold watch and chain. Mr. Brown, in thanking the donors for their handsome gift, stated that this was the first occasion on which he had ever appeared before the footlights during his thirty years' work in that place, and that his one desire had been to do his duty to his directors, ensure comfort for the patrons, and give every attention to the requirements of the artists. Mrs. Fred Brown, on behalf of the "Pavilion boys," then gave Mr. Feinman (who had already been the recipient of many floral offerings) a laurel wreath, wishing him every success in his venture.

A NOVEL item in the programme of the matinée being given by the Savage Club at His Majesty's on June 4 in aid of the Lord Mayor's Cripples Fund, is a policemen's chorus (introduced into the original revue, entitled Hands Up), by a sextet of well-known black and white artists, viz., Douglas Almond, Tom Browne, J. Hassall, L. Raven-Hill, Penrhyn Stanlaws, and Lance Thackeray.

"THE STEPMOTHER."

Drama, in Four Acts, by Arthur Shirley, Produced at the Crown Theatre, Peckham, on Monday, May 27.

Bob Bristow .....MR. WILLIAM HOLLES
Amy Bristow .....MISS EDITH WALLIS
Johanna Jones .....MISS FLORENCE HARCOURT
David Blake .....MR. HENRY W. HATCHMAN
Timothy Yapp .....MR. CHARLES DANVERS
Abraham Wiggins .....MR. FRANK HARRISON
Luke Trixell .....MR. ALFRED HOLLES
Anna Vickers .....MISS MARGARET MURCH
Clara .....MISS FREDA GREEN
Zike .....MR. W. HAYES
Danny .....MISS NANNIE GOLDMAN

The deft hand of Mr. Arthur Shirley has again been at work, with the result that a music-hall sketch, produced some months back at Camberwell, now makes its appearance as a four-act play at Peckham. Strengthened by many extra touches of pathos, a liberal infusion of comedy, and a constant succession of thrills, the new drama made an irresistible appeal to the patrons of the Crown on Monday, and much cheering arose at frequent intervals. The main theme of the story has undergone but little change since we last sailed in company with Captain Bristow, who has to go on a long voyage, leaving behind him his sick wife and their boy Danny. The invalid is ministered to by Anna Vickers, a designing woman whose purpose is to expedite Mrs. Bristow's death in order that she may marry the Captain. The fact that she is already married to the dissolute Luke Trixell appears to be of little moment, until the husband himself appears and claims recognition in the shape of money. Bristow's departure is hindered by his arrest for having on board his ship a cargo of arms intended for Russian revolutionaries. The Captain declares that he was unaware of the nature of the cargo, which was shipped by a Mr. Abraham Wiggins; but that worthy, who is an accomplice of the artful Anna, denies all knowledge of the consignment, until Luke produces a paper he had extracted from Abraham's pocket, which convicts him on the spot.

A term of imprisonment is served by Abraham in the interval between the first and second acts, but he turns up again at Bob Bristow's cottage, where the wily Anna has not yet succeeded in disposing of Mrs. Bristow. The fell act is soon accomplished by Wiggins, who has become aware that Mrs. Bristow has inherited a fortune, and arranges that she shall be induced to sign a paper making over the money to Anna; but just as the invalid is about to put her name to the document Detective Blake makes his appearance, and Abraham snatches up the paper and tears it to pieces. Mrs. Bristow realises that she has inherited the fortune and collapses; and Abraham, borrowing Anna's handkerchief and saturating it with water, places it over the fainting woman's face until she breathes no more. On his return home Captain Bristow finds his wife dead, and is easily persuaded by Anna to make her his wife in order that the boy Danny may be taken care of. The wedding duly takes place, but the detective has his suspicions, and has an interview with Luke Trixell, who is about to reveal the fact that Anna is already his wife, when a pistol shot fired through the window lays him low. The detective takes the extraordinary proceeding of having himself arrested as the murderer in order that "all Scotland Yard" may be brought on the scene to discover the real perpetrator; but the ruse has no result. Subsequently Captain Bristow is called away to his ship, leaving his wife with strict injunctions to be a second mother to his boy. She acquits herself of her charge by cruelly ill-treating him, using a formidable whip to enforce obedience. When the Captain shortly after pays a flying visit to his cottage he finds his son weak and ill; but Anna declares that the boy is vicious and unruly, and the Captain, believing his wife, angrily returns to his ship. Broken-hearted, Danny makes his way to his mother's grave, and there meets an old pensioner, who takes him to the regimental doctor. Meanwhile, Anna has planned to get away to Canada with Abraham Wiggins, who has purloined the funds of a slate club. Bristow suddenly returns, and learns from Anna's little girl that she is going to have a new "dadda." He seats himself in an armchair, and Anna, thinking it is Abraham, makes known her duplicity. The pensioner, who turns out to be the detective, induces the woman to save herself by giving evidence against Abraham, who is arrested for the murder both of Mrs. Bristow and of Luke Trixell, and Anna departs in a rage, leaving Captain Bristow and his son reconciled.

A judicious selection of the cast has been made by Mr. William Holles, by whom the piece was produced. Mr. Holles himself was the jolly dog of a sea captain to the life, infusing all heartiness and joviality into the rôle, while his depiction of Bristow's just anger against his unfaithful wife was strong and impressive. Miss Nannie Goldman succeeded in moving the audience to complete sympathy as the lad Danny, her display of grief in the churchyard scene being very affecting. The malevolent Anna Vickers was sustained with artistic skill by Miss Margaret Murch, whose tigerish ferocity was well assumed, but kept within proper limits. The spoilt and ill-mannered Clara was thoroughly her mother's daughter, except when taking compassion on Danny she gave him a share of her cake; but her greatest claim to favour was made by the drollery attaching to some of the lines, which were delivered with a keen sense of humour by Miss Freda Green, who acquitted herself with conspicuous ability. Miss Edith Wallis's treatment of the disease-stricken Mrs. Bristow was thoroughly sympathetic, while her death scene was quite ghastly in its realism. The David Blake of Mr. Henry W. Hatchman had all the requisite smartness which properly belongs to the rôle of a detective, and his appearance as the old pensioner was a piece of rare dissimulation. Mr. Frank Harrison as the plausible villain, Abraham Wiggins, made the best of his opportunities, merriment as well as execration resulting from his efforts. Similar manifestations were aroused by Mr. Alfred Holles, who took a humorous view of the besotted Luke Trixell that was much to the taste of the audience. The comic episodes of the play were chiefly in the hands of Timothy Yapp, a policeman, constantly courted in vain by Johanna Jones, a prepossessing parlour-maid, who at length succeeds in capturing him by his own handcuffs. In the hands of Mr. Charles Danvers and Miss Florence Harcourt the parts exercise a hilarious influence, and roars of laughter rang through the house again and again. The piece, which is mounted effectively, was preceded by The Little Charwoman, a sketch which has for some time served Mr. William Holles and Miss Nannie Goldman with advantage in the music halls.

AT the Licensing Sessions at Edinburgh on the 24th ult. the licence for the Lyceum Theatre was renewed. It was officially reported that the conduct of the theatre was in every way satisfactory, but it was made a condition of the granting of the licence that the bars should close at ten o'clock. The licence of the Theatre Royal was renewed, with the same condition, and that for the King's Theatre was granted on the understanding that there should be no Sunday concerts.

THE cast of Don Juan in Hell, the Dream scene from Bernard Shaw's Man and Superman, which will begin a series of matinées at the Court on Tuesday, will consist of Mr. Robert Loraine, Miss Lillah McCarthy, Mr. Michael Sherbrooke, and Mr. Norman McKinnel. The Man of Destiny will be sustained by Mr. Dion Boucicault, Mr. Herman de Lange, Mr. Trevor Lowe, and Miss Irene Vanbrugh.

NEW ZEALAND MANAGER.

CHAT WITH MR. JOHN FULLER, JUN.

Mr. John Fuller, jun., of John Fuller and Sons, theatre proprietors and managers in New Zealand, is on a tour round the world, his object being to gather information as to the way in which theatres are conducted—the arrangements as to the stage and auditorium, mechanical contrivances, and general business principles — in the different countries. Mr. Fuller has just spent six weeks exploring the Continent, and is now in London, where he intends to remain about a month, and he has made The Era office his address for business communications. He will visit the provincial towns before proceeding to America, and thence home vid Japan and China. But let Mr. Fuller speak for himself.

"First let me explain," he says, "that New Zealand has a population of 900,000. The four principal towns are Auckland, Wellington, Christchurch, and Dunedin, all within twelve hours' journey of each other. Each has an average population of 60,000, equal to a town of 120,000 in England, as the spending power of the New Zealand people is much greater than in this country. We owe a great deal to our splendid labour laws, which cause a more even distribution of wealth. Well, each of the towns mentioned possesses two first-class theatres and a music hall. The firm of John Fuller and Sons own all the music halls as well as a first-class theatre in each town. We run vaudeville entertainments in the four centres of New Zealand all the year round, and although up to now we have never directly imported any talent from England, we intend to do so in the future. That accounts partly for my visit here at present. We are about to erect two first-class theatres on the site of our older houses. I have come to have a look round, so that the New Zealand people shall have theatres carried out in the very best style. We have engaged many notable artists at princely salaries, including Le Roy, Talma and Bosco, La Milo, the Uessems, Tom Nawn, and the Musical Johnstons (American act). If you ask them what New Zealand is like they will generally tell you it's 'Fuller's earth.' Theatrically speaking, that is exactly what it is. Somehow or other, in the case of every theatre we have gone into, we soon got tired of paying rents, and now we buy all the thatres that are purchasable. New Zealand has gone ahead with leaps and bounds during the last ten years, and, taking into consideration the increase in value of the properties we own, I am inclined to the opinion we have had all our theatres presented to us.

"Now just a few words as to the personnel of the firm of John Fuller and Sons. Mr. John Fuller, my father, was a tenor singer in London some years back, and practically started his stage career with his old chum, Mr. Harry Randall. For many years he appeared at the minor music halls, and afterwards was associated with the famous Mohawk Minstrels at Islington, and it was while there that he set London, or, for the matter of that, England, singing 'Wait till the clouds roll by, Jenny.' After my father's engagement terminated at the Agricultural Hall he appeared at the Oxford music hall for some six months. Subsequently he accepted an engagement to go to Australia with Jolly John Nash, and he has remained in the Antipodes ever since. Messrs. Ben and Walter Fuller were long associated in England with Joseph Poole's Myriorama. As to myself, let me show you a programme of an entertainment in which I appeared as a juvenile performer at the Holloway Hall on May 5, 1891, when such well-known artists as G. H. Chirgwin, Herbert Campbell, Austin Rudd, Harry Randall, and the original Leopolds appeared, so you can imagine with what pleasure I return to the land of my birth. My stay in London will last about four weeks, after which I shall 'do' the principal towns of the British Isles. I leave for New York during the first week of August, returning to New Zealand vid San Francisco, Japan, China, and Australia, and arriving home about the beginning of December."

It may be of interest to mention that Messrs. Fuller and Sons employ over 80 artists on their circuit. They own four variety theatres, each with a seating capacity of 1,300, and three legitimate theatres, which are taken by the first-class travelling companies. The head office is at the Theatre Royal, Wellington.

The subject of this sketch takes a great interest in municipal affairs in Dunedin, where he resides. He was responsible for the initial steps in founding in that city a Hospital Saturday Fund, which has proved of immense benefit. His wife, by the way, was for some time an actress under the name of Gertrude Fraser, and played juvenile parts with Charles Warner during that gentleman's first tour in Australia. Mrs. Fuller retired from the stage upon her marriage, five years ago. Mr. Fuller informs us that it is extremely probable that his father will visit London next year in connection with the business.

ALL the costumes, wigs, &c., for Mr. Gordon Bailey's production of A Knight of the Road were expressly supplied by Mr. W. Clarkson, the "Royal" costumier and perruquier.

AT the Royal Academy of Music the Charles Rube Prize (string quartet playing) has been awarded to Samuel Robinson (first violin), Eric Coates (viola), Raymond Jeremy (second violin), and Edgar Fawcett ('cello). Highly commended were: Henry C. Parsons (first violin), Thomas Morgan (viola), Jessie Bowater (second violin), and Edith J. Evans ('cello). The adjudicator was Mr. John Saunders.

THE Theatre Royal, Croydon, which was offered at auction at the Mart, Tokenhouse Yard, on Monday, was withdrawn at the sum of £8,000.

"THE SPORTING KING."

A Drama, by Charles Whitlock, Produced at the Metropole Theatre, Gateshead, on Monday, May 27.

Joe Brave .....MR. CHARLES WHITLOCK
Squire Stamford .....MR. HARRY RICHARDSON
David Stamford .....MR. ARTHUR CHISHOLM
Renard ....MR. LEONARD YORKE
Stephen Basilk .....MR. E. LOVELL
Bill Bruiser .....MR. FREDERICK BIRON

Jack Sharpe .....MR. ALFRED TERRIS
Governor of Dartmoor .....MR. BAY TELFORD
Little Harold .....MISS BABY BLYTHE
Tom Tyne .....MR. MIKE CRAWLEY
Joan Brave .....MISS GEORGINA V. FRANCE
Steena Basilk .....MISS LILLA WILDE
Jessie Lane .....MISS EVA REED

Mr. Whitlock's latest venture is a modern domestic drama. David Stamford, the squire's son, is enamoured of Joan, the prizefighter's daughter, and is successful in gaining her hand in marriage. The old squire is very much annoyed at this proceeding, and plainly tells Joe Brave that the latter's daughter is not a fit person to become his son's wife. Following the betrothal, the villain, in the person of Renard Stamford, appears. He, too, is a lover of Joan, and when he hears from her that she has given herself to David he swears revenge. On the other hand, Steena Basilk loves David Stamford. She accuses the latter of trifling with her affections, and when she learns of David's engagement to Joan she swears to be revenged upon Joan. Renard and Steena meet, and devise a plot to blind Joan as the latter is returning from the marriage ceremony. Steena hands to Joan a bouquet containing poison, and the curtain is rung down upon the first act with the villain and villainess content and the squire disowning his son. Three years elapse, and we learn that David has been killed whilst fighting for his country. He leaves a child, Harold. Renard, Steena, and her father are found plotting the child's destruction. Renard proposes marriage to the widow, but is rejected, an incident which is witnessed by Steena, who is the mother of an illegitimate child by Renard. Joan's child and Steena's are very much alike, and Steena conceives the notion of changing the children, intending that, should the squire repent and take his son's wife back to his heart, her (Steena's) child will be brought up in luxury as the heir to the estates. She reckons without Renard, who hires a ruffian (Bill Bruiser) to murder Joan's child. Bruiser murders Steena's offspring instead of Joan's. Jack Sharpe manages to regain possession of Joan's child. Poor Joan is tried for the murder of the child, and is remanded on bail. We next see her in Brave's cottage. At a crucial moment the Bruiser enters, and Joan recognises his voice as the one she heard in the room on the night of the tragedy. The law, however, refuses to notice her protestations of innocence and her accusation against Bruiser, and she is about to be retaken into custody when her father declares that he murdered the child. Six years intervene, and in Act 3 the squire is murdered by Bill Bruiser. Next, we see the inside of Dartmoor Prison, where a pathetic scene between Joe, his daughter, and the latter's child is enacted. Aided by Jack Sharpe, Joe makes his escape from the prison disguised as the Governor of the gaol. In the last act David Stamford returns to his native home, after having been announced dead nine years ago. The shock of his sudden reappearance restores the sight to the eyes of his wife, and all things come right at the final fall of the curtain.

Messrs. Whitlock and Rutter have got together an excellent company, which does full justice to the play. Mr. Whitlock himself fills the important rôle of Joe Brave. His work throughout was characterised with an attention to care and polish which we are wont to expect from an actor of his repute. He depicts with much cleverness the light-heartedness of the successful prizefighter, and also the dejection of a man condemned to prison for life. Mr. Leonard Yorke portrays vividly the scoundrel Renard, who, in his desire for wealth, stops at nothing. Mr. Harry Richardson ably fills the part of Squire Stamford, the overwhelming rage of the old man on learning that his son is about to marry the daughter of the prizefighter being depicted with excellent effect. Mr. E. Lovell as the mean and despicable Stephen Basilk is quite successful; Mr. Frederick Biron could not be improved upon for the part of Bill Bruiser, his brutal tone of voice being excellently suited to the almost animal appearance; Mr. Arthur Chisholm as David does justice to a small, but important, part; Jack Sharpe, a Cockney with a very primitive wit, is well embodied by Mr. Alfred Terris; Mr. Arthur Proctor makes the most of his opportunities as John Jones, the policeman and warder; and Mr. Ray Telford as the Governor does his little well. Miss Georgina V. France is admirable as Joan, her grief upon realising that her eyes are sightless being portrayed with a poignancy which stamps the lady as a gifted actress. Miss Lilla Wilde makes a capital picture of Steena, the accomplice and mistress of Renard; Miss Eva Reed is a highly diverting Jessie Lane; Miss Baby Blythe in the part of Harold gives evidence of much histrionic ability, and she was loudly praised for her efforts. Mr. Mike Crawley, the professional pugilist, appears with success as Tom Tyne.

THE dramatic season at the Prince's, Poplar, practically terminated on Saturday, but the management have decided to keep the theatre open for the present at reduced prices, and are giving a Bioscope entertainment, at which several excellent films have been exhibited. A good house witnessed the performance on Monday night, and the acting-manager, Mr. C. Melville Lurring, has every reason to be well pleased with the result.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This new musical comedy was produced by Mr. Victor Stevens, assisted by Mr. Alfred Beers, while Mr. Harry Rushworth has command of the full chorus of forty voices. The piece is staged in Cardiff for this week only, and was received on Monday by a critical audience most favourably. Next September it is to be produced at Manchester, and it should certainly achieve success. It is a decidedly pretty play, and it has a very strong vein of romance running through it. Dick Hastings, a gentleman by upbringing and instinct, is chauffeur to Sir John Warrington, and becomes enamoured of Sir John's charming daughter, Alys. The lady reciprocates. There is a scene when Sir John discovers chauffeur and daughter in the act of love-making, and Hastings is ordered from the house. He goes to America determined to win wealth, runs a farm, strikes oil, becomes a millionaire, returns to England just in time to save Sir John from financial ruin, and, of course, weds his daughter. The artist who made the greatest impression upon Monday's audience was Miss Lulu Valli, whose impersonation of Kitty was as captivating as could be desired. Miss Valli is a clever comedienne, and scored both with her singing and dancing. Mr. Horace Mills as the Hon. Dudley Newark made the most of his opportunities, and achieved merited success; as Dick Hastings, the gentleman chauffeur, Mr. Edmund Sherras was well placed, his good voice being much in evidence; Mr. Colin Coop acquitted himself with much credit as Sir John Warrington; Mr. W. J. Manning scored as Jack Bolter; Mr. Alfred Clark was well received as the butler, Wm. Binns; while Mr. George Carroll, who impersonated Percy Sly, proved to be a very amusing comedian. Miss Sylvia May represented the heroine, Alys Warrington, and the management have secured a very charming lady to undertake this part. Miss Hebe Bliss filled the rôle of Lady Newark with her usual ability; Miss Annie Ainslie submitted a good delineation of Martha Pottle; and other characters were capably filled by Miss Wynifred Morice as Mrs. Shepperton, and Miss Olive Crellin as Suzanne Shepperton. With regard to the music, the best numbers are "Busy little Lizzie," "Oh, those bells" (a duet), "Details" (sung by Mr. Mills), and the costume song of Miss Valli; Sir John's opening song is also good. The dresses and staging are all that could be wished. Mr. Harry Rushworth is the conductor of the augmented orchestra, and the scenery is by Mr. R. C. Oldham.

FUNERAL OF MR. GEORGE LEITCH.

The funeral of Mr. Geoge Leitch, the well-known actor and playwright, whose death we recorded last week, took place on Monday, the remains of the deceased gentleman being laid to rest in the Actors' Acre at Brookwood Cemetery.

The little party, who travelled by the Necropolis Company's special Monday train from Westminster Bridge-road to the beautiful "city of the dead" just beyond Woking, were Mr. J. S. C. Denton (nephew of the deceased), Mr. Edward Terry and Mr. Henry Charles (executors and old friends), Mr. Charles J. Tabor (also an old friend).

The service (Church of England) in the cemetery chapel as well as at the graveside was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kerswell. The coffin, which was of oak, with handsome brass fittings, bore the inscription :

GEORGE GOODYEAR
(George Leitch-Walker),
Died 18th May, 1907,
Aged 65.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. C. Denton and family sent a pretty bunch of arum lilies and white flowers, inscribed "From James, Sally, and their boys, in affectionate remembrance. 'And the weary are at rest.'" From Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terry came two beautiful wreaths, the one bearing the message, "In loving memory of my old friend George. —Edward Terry"; and the other, "In loving memory of an old friend, from E. Terry." Another handsome floral tribute was sent, "To the memory of an old friend, from Mr. and Mrs. H. Charles and family." Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Tabor sent a subscription to the Actors' Benevolent Fund in lieu of a wreath. It was owing to the thoughtfulness and instrumentality of Mr. Edward Terry that a final resting-place was found for George Leitch in the Actors' Acre at Brookwood. Mr. Terry had for a long time past taken a very close interest in the personal welfare of his old friend, and the arrangement of the funeral was the culmination of a long series of acts of kindness on the part of Mr. Terry.

Leitch is buried beside the graves of George Fisher (who died in 1864) and William Yardley, the author. Actors' Acre holds many who were once the public favourites, and among them may be mentioned the Renad family, the Cooke family, the Clarksons, Samuel May (the famous costumier), the Renwicks, Samuel Forster, and Samuel Johnson, Mrs. Jane Stephens—who reached eighty-three years and was affectionately nicknamed "Granny"—the Empson and Guyer families, Rebecca Francisco Isaachi, and John William Anson.

We have to confess, however, that Actors' Acre does not compare favourably with other portions of the cemetery set aside to other classes. All the graves of the players who have passed away bear the aspect of having been sadly neglected, and the ground itself, from the gardening point of view, needs as much attention as the graves. Up to a few years ago funds were found for this purpose, and Actors' Acre was then as pleasing to the eye as any other part of the cemetery. A sum of three guineas a year is all that is required to keep this plot of ground in decent order—to plant shrubs, trim the grass and foliage, &c. We commend what we have here set down to the consideration of members of the profession, in the hope that a sufficient amount will be collected to effect the desirable improvements, and to maintain them for at least a few years.

MR. ALFRED HOOK, acting-manager at the Athenæum Theatre, Lancaster, took his first annual benefit on Wednesday, the event proving highly successful. The Athenæum reopens on August Bank Holiday.

AN important engagement, for one night only, of the celebrated French actress, Mme. Jane Hading, and her Parisian company, in Frou Frou, is announced to take place at the Marlborough Theatre, Holloway, on Monday, June 10.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, May 27, the Play,
"TOMMY ATKINS."

A safe card to play is Tommy Atkins. It is the right kind of drama, with an inspiriting and quickly-moving story, which appeals directly to all classes of playgoers. Therefore, when Mr. J. M. East brought his well-selected company to the King's on Monday night he was assured of a hearty welcome, which was accorded in the shape of a crowded and enthusiastic audience, who followed with sympathy the trials of the cruelly-deceived heroine, Ruth Raymond, and the career of Harold Wilson, the heroic clergyman turned "ranker." For the part of Harold Wilson Mr. East had made a wise and excellent choice in Mr. Albert Ward. He gave a very spirited rendering of the Curate, and altogether created a most favourable impression on the audience, who vociferously cheered and recalled him at the end of each act. Mr. Maurice Drew played the stony-hearted father, Stephen Raymond, with much effect; and Mr. Page Laurence was a pleasant Capt. Bob Sparrow. A laughable performance was that of Mr. W. P. Sheen as Ebenezer Skindle, which served to keep the audience in good humour. The scoundrelly conduct of Capt. Richard Maitland was made sufficiently impressive by the cool and debonair acting of Mr. Fred Morgan; while that experienced actor Mr. Algernon Syms was completely successful in the important part of Private Mason. As Colour-Sergeant Paddy Malloy Mr. Keino Johnston was really funny, and his love-making scenes with Kate Perkins brought forth a goodly number of laughs. Very satisfactory was the Sexton of Mr. Charles Cecil; Mr. Harry Robertson made a dignified Arab chief; and Mr. Harry Bristowe was a capable Sir Simon Redgrave. Miss Florrie Green impersonated cleverly the little drummer-boy, Jack. Miss Theresa Osborne essayed the trying part of Ruth Raymond with every success, her earnestness gaining much favour; Margaret Maitland enabled that talented artist Miss East Robertson to again assert her undoubted superiority in the acting of such characters; a lively and fascinating Kate Perkins was Miss Agnes Paulton; and Miss Madeleine Birkbeck made an entertaining Elsie Wilson. The stage pictures were skilfully arranged, as would be expected under the guidance and stage-management of Mr. J. M. East, and the scenery was most appropriate.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, May 27, the Musical Comedy, entitled
"KITTY GREY."

For this week's attraction the management have secured Mr. C. St. John Denton's company in Kitty Grey. All the artists are thoroughly capable and well-chosen, and the production is staged in a lavish manner. The title-rôle is exceedingly well played by Miss Hilda Guiver, who sings the songs allotted to Kitty Grey in tuneful style. Mr. Yorke Hatton has few opportunities as Sir John Binfield, but he contrives to make the most of them. He plays the part in an easy and natural style that makes his rendering of the character very enjoyable. He has a capital voice, and is successful with the numbers allotted him, especially "Blue moon in the sky." Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., makes a hit in his delineation of the King of Illyria; in the part of Lord Plantaganet, Mr. Leslie Harris is quite equal to the demands made upon him, and he keeps the audience in a state of continual merriment; Miss Nellie Cozens also provokes much amusement by her humorous interpretation of Mrs. Bright. She scores well with her vocal contributions, too—"Zozo," "The feeling's just the same" (for which she is encored at least five or six times), and in a successful duet with Mr. Harris, "Will you come?" Miss Eily Helene charms everyone by her artistic acting as Lady Binfield. She both plays and sings well, her "Queen of Sahara" being a successful contribution for which an encore is insisted upon. Little is required of the part of Sadie de Poulson, but Miss Lena Denton does that little well. Mr. L. Winning (Comte de Trenitz), Mr. Leslie Steward (Ponbrichel), Messrs. Roberts and Minster (King's attendants), Messrs. Fincham and Denbigh (Joseph and Robert), and the Misses French, Jennings, Harrison, Desmond, Courtenay, Guiver, Ronayne, Yarrand, French, and Rose Snell in minor parts are all capable exponents of the various characters they represent. The choruses and instrumental parts, under the direction of Mr. Otto Manns, are rendered with spirit, and deserve high commendation.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, May 27, the Drama, entitled
"A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS."

Mr. Robert Perriss' company is paying a second visit with the stirring American play, A Fight for Millions, which has for its chief incidents an attempt to wreck a train in a tunnel, the escape of the hero in a submarine, and the bringing of the villain to justice by means of a wonderful type of electric instrument and wireless telegraphy. It is undoubtedly a very attractive play of its kind, and the company all work hard to ensure success. Tom Manley, the hero, is played in capital style by Mr. William Macready; and Mr. Marson Harper is successful in his embodiment of Richard Dudley, the villain, playing in a finished style. A pathetic picture of the ill-used Helen Dudley is presented by Miss Elma C. Turner; and Little Madge is prettily played by Miss Daisy Kent. Miss Rosie Kearns is vivacious as Betty, the maid; while in the later scenes of the play she is equally successful as Mag Baby. Willie Neverwork, a very amusing character, is capitally played by Mr. Karl H. Edwards, who keeps the humour of the story well to the fore when he is around. Miss Winifred Symons is good as Pearl Rivers; and Miss Gwendoline Harper does well as Mrs. Rivers. Hudson Rivers is skilfully portrayed by Mr. Kendrew Millson; and Mr. Harold Turner causes many laughs as Moses, the pawnbroker. The other characters are well sustained. Quite the most novel item of the play is the introduction into one of the scenes of Mr. Tom Jones, the Welsh comedian, who makes his appearance as Clara Ap Morgan. His turn is something distinctly fresh, and he has a rich fund of humour, which he evidently by no means exhausted on the night of our visit. The comedian from the Land of Leeks is very welcome, and he should certainly before long make his mark in London. The play is well staged, and Mr. Karl H. Edwards stage-manages with excellent results.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, May 27, the Farce, entitled
"THE LITTLE STRANGER."

Mr. Charles Steuart and company are at the Coronet this week with Michael Morton's bustling farce, The Little Stranger, which keeps the audience in one continuous roar of laughter, more by token of the weird antics of the supposititious infant, who is an enfant terrible second to none. Mr. Edward Garratt enacts his original dual rôle of the Baby and Tom Pennyman, and most mirth-provoking is his performance. The surprise and terror of all and sundry at the uncanny sapience of this infant phenomenon are irresistibly droll. The clever little actor was called before the curtain again and again. Mr. Charles Steuart contents himself with the small part of Captain Dick Allenby, and glides through it in easy and finished manner. Mr. Edwin H. Wynne as General Allenby, with his rooted antipathy to excitement, acts discreetly and well. Mr. Asheton Tonge is seen to advantage in the rôle of the young illusionist, Alec Howard. Mr. Hubert Druce very quaintly and divertingly portrays the part of Sir George Peacock. Mr. Murri Moncrieff quite realises the spirit of the idea as the charlatan clairvoyant and spiritualistic fraud, Paul Vronsky; and Mr Fred Epitaux is very amusing as the old butler, Eames. Miss Frances Dillon enters thoroughly into the business of Mrs. Dick Allenby, the ultra-intense and idyllic "soul hunter." Miss Louie Tinsley contrives to extract the essence of fun out of the small part of the Nurse, rendered distraught by the sudden metamorphosis of "the baby." Miss Christine Rayner is a charming and attractive Effie Peacock; and Miss Mary Stuart is graceful and refined as Mrs. Allenby. The part of Lady Peacock is rendered full justice at the hands of Miss Alice Clayton Green. In the curtain-raiser, Citizen Morot, Miss Frances Dillon acts with great tragic intensity as Michelle de Cresny; Mr. George E. Bellamy plays with saturnine cynicism and incisive skill as the renegade aristocrat of the title-rôle; and Mr. Fred Epitaux (who stage-manages both productions) as the murderous jailer, Lucien, and Mr. Edwin H. Wynne, as Governor of the Conciergerie, are both well in the picture. Mr. Cecil S. Lamb is acting-manager for Mr. Steuart.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 27, the Musical Play
"MY DARLING."

Mr. Robert Arthur's Kennington patrons doubtless have pleasant recollections of Miss Marie Studholme's previous visit to the Princess of Wales's Theatre, when, as Lady Madcap, she won the hearts of all who saw her in this rôle. Miss Studholme's second visit to this convenient South London playhouse has proved, if possible, even a greater success than before, if one is to judge by the tremendous ovation which greeted her in Seymour Hicks's musical play My Darling. Supported by a large and powerful company, Miss Studholme, charming and vivacious as ever, was the recipient of much applause, her rendering of the part of Joy Blossom being admirable in every way. As Daphne Bell Miss Barbara Dene scored a triumphant success, her excellent singing gaining for her repeated encores. Miss Marguerite Leslie's impersonation of Sylvaine marked her as an actress of no small merit; Miss Alice Barth as Lady Heldon and Miss Helen Kinnaird as Mrs. Pomeroy P. Green were two highly-amusing characters, and the performance of their respective exponents won well-deserved appreciation; in the part of Sir Henry Heldon, Mr. J. F. McArdle was distinctly funny, his dry humour keeping the house in a constant ripple of laughter; Mr. Henry A. Lytton cleverly acted the part of the Hon. Jack Hylton, singing his songs with great effect, for which he received several recalls; Mr. Armand Kalioz gave a most striking representation of Maurice le Blanc, the most notable among his songs being "On the shady side of Bond-street," which was heartily encored; and Messrs. Will Bishop (Sir James Jagg), Tom Graves (Oddy), Archie McCaig (Squib), Mervyn Dene (Hon. Mutty Farrell), George Castles (the MacSporan of Sporan), Maddison Rich (Hon. Charles Dunsdale), Kenneth Maclaine (Lieut. Taff Davies), George Paulton, Harold Barrett, Alfred Lloyd, Alfred Haines (French officers), Francis Court, and Charles Caffery (waiters) all played their several parts in excellent style. The scenery and dresses were effective and picturesque.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, May 27, the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE MYSTERY OF A HANSOM CAB."

The first of a series of popular plays, under the direction of Mr. Frank Adair, which Mr. G. H. Dudley Bennett is presenting during the summer season, was produced here on Monday evening, and met with instant success. The piece chosen was an adaptation of Fergus Hume's famous novel, "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab." Excellently enacted by a very capable company, and staged with a completeness that excited general admiration, the interest of the audience was fully sustained throughout, and at the close of the performance the principals met with a very cordial reception from a well-filled house. Mr. Wingold Lawrence made a fine, manly Brian Fitzgerald, his vigorous manner and earnestness being admirably suited to the rôle. A convincing embodiment of the villainous Roger Morland was given by Mr. Frank Adair, and he is to be congratulated on a sterling performance. Mr. George Mitchell gave a meritorious delineation of the much-harassed Mark Frettlebury; Mr. Fred Withers as the solicitor put in some excellent work; and the parts of the two detectives, Gorby and Kilsip, were capably enacted by Mr. Chris. Mason and Mr. Hugh Mewburn. The necessary comedy was contributed by Mr. George H. Asquin, whose clever acting in the rôle of Felix Rolleston provoked roars of laughter. He received much valuable support from Miss Daisy Maynard as Dora Featherweight. Miss Louie Adair acquitted herself with success in the part of Madge Frettlebury, and made the most of her opportunities. In the rôle of Sal Rawlins Miss Lydia Mannington was eminently satisfactory, and played her part with much expression, gaining the sympathetic applause of the audience. Miss Nellie Daly caused much merriment by her excellent impersonation of the talkative landlady; and Miss Florence Lovell gave a good character-sketch of Mother Gutter-snipe, a drunken hag.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 27, the Melodrama, entitled
"A SISTER'S SIN."

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company are appearing this week at the Dalston Theatre, in the drama, by Mrs. Kimberley, entitled A Sister's Sin. Mr. H. Arnold Allen plays Harold Raymond in a way which thoroughly sustains the interest in the character, and both this actor and Mr. Andrew Money, who appears as George Oakley, succeed in getting on the best of terms with the audience. Miss Violet Addison is Minnie Hastings, whose fate is so mixed up with the story that she becomes inseparable from it, and her acting is of such an earnest nature that she renders the character a most interesting one. Miss Lillian Radburn gives an impressive portrayal of Charzel, a revengeful gipsy; and Miss Violet Langley is also interesting as Redempta, another gipsy. Miss Tydfil Jones provides a good sketch of a young English lady as May Raymond; Miss Edie Mackin and Miss Effie Mackintosh appear as rival lovers; and Master Harry Warden is Jack, a youthful gipsy. Mr. Henry Heeler is Walter Hastings, a gentleman farmer; and Mr. Ernest Frere causes some amusement as Ikey Moses, a money-lender. Others who contribute to the lighter side of the business are Mr. Harry Lyndon, who impersonates Theophilus Hope, who is described as "a slippery slideaway"; Mr. Larry McGowers, who is all go as Larry Murphy, who sings some Irish songs; and Mr. F. Newburn as Billy Smart.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, May 27, the Farcical Comedy,
"BOOTLES' BABY."

Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart and his company have been made heartily welcome here this week by large audiences, who were very decided in showing their approval of this delightful play. With a plot of absorbing interest and a powerful cast of accomplished artists, the sympathy of all present was at once gained and retained. Mr. Stewart, with his fine presence and pleasing, manly voice, was an ideal Bootles; Miss Georgina Wynter charmed everyone with her sweet and pathetic impersonation of Helen Grace; Mr. Henry Wolston as Capt. Gilchrist was very successful in portraying a callous and brutal husband, who comes to a deservedly untimely end; the part of Capt. Lucy was admirably taken by Mr. Leslie Owen, whose interpretation of an apparently guileless officer with an eye-glass was exceedingly clever; Mr. Ernest Gray enacted a typical army doctor; and Mr. Hubert Purser was active and bolsterous as a mischievous young lieutenant. Private Philip Saunders, as rendered by Mr. John Mowbray, was an exquisitely droll fellow, and irresistibly amusing was his constant bickering with Humpty-Dumpty, the nurse, intelligently sustained by Miss Edith Ife. Miss Gladys Harvey, looking pretty and piquant, was bright and dainty as Laura Norris. Last on the programme and least in stature, but by no means diminutive in the estimation of the audience, came Miss Maisie Richardson, whose winning ways and sweet childish face made her a captivating Bootles' Baby.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, May 27, the Pantomimical Comedy,
"THE SWISS EXPRESS."

The Renards are here this week in their well-known pantomimical comedy. As Dr. Gondimar Gull, the quack doctor, on his honeymoon, Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon works extremely hard, and causes much amusement. He is ably supported by Miss Celestine Brandon as Virginia, his bride, her songs, "There's always a girl at the bottom of it" and "My nightingale," being greatly appreciated. Mr. Basil Reynolds is an ardent lover in the character of Rob Rollingstone; and Mr. Alex Wylie gives a fine character-study of the dude, Dudley Green. The two servants, James and John, are played respectively by the brothers C. and F. Renard, whose clever tumbling acts cause roars of laughter throughout. Some excellent dancing is supplied by Miss Lottie Stone's Palace Quartette. For real good, rollicking fun this production has few equals.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, May 27, the Drama, by Henry Pettitt and George Conquest, entitled "QUEEN'S EVIDENCE."

Good houses have favoured a return this week to the Royal County Theatre of melodrama, a form of play that always commands sympathetic audiences in the riverside town. Mr. Arthur Williams, who made a successful appearance the previous week in a triple bill, sustains the rôle of Isaacs in the late Mr. Pettitt's clever piece with his well-known ability, and Miss Maude Stewart Drewry acquits herself with distinction in the part of Kate Medland. Miss Sylvia Morris as Laura Somers and Miss Emily Spiller as Ada Somers both give fine delineations of their respective parts; Mr. Frank Harding scores a great success as the villainous Matthew Thornton; as also does Mr. Douglas Vigare as Gilbert Medland. Valuable assistance is also rendered by Mr. Franklyn Graham, Mr. Francis Hawley, Miss Pelham, Mr Charles Clarke, and Mr. Wilson Blake in the parts allotted to them. The drama is preceded by a musical interlude entitled A Successful Operation, in which the parts are ably sustained by Mr. Tom Craven and Mr. Wilson Blake.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, May 27, the Drama,
"THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."

Melodrama still holds sway at Fulham, where Messrs. Dottridge and Longden's company, under the direction of Mr. James Willard, is playing in The Midnight Mail, a domestic drama of many thrills, by Arthur Shirley. There are some very capable artists in the company, and the piece is excellently staged. Mr. George Harvard impersonates the hero, Harry Steyne, with much force and sincerity, and makes an attractive figure. Some unusually good acting is contributed by Mr. F. G. Evison, in the character of a "work-shy," chronically thirsty and tired working-man. He acts as the evil genius of the play, and shows in a most convincing manner the baneful influence of the boon companion over a man endeavouring to shake off the drink habit. Mr. Charles Spencer enacts satisfactorily the part of Hassan Padisha, a Turkish adventurer; and mention may be made of the good work of Mr. J. Ingledew as Sergeant O'Flyn, Mr. Harry Emmerson as Donald Craig, and Mr. Dobell Lyle as the signalman. Miss Ada Oakley plays the part of Mary Steyne with considerable power, and her excellent work contributes a good deal to the success. Miss Mildred Carr as Nancy Brewer is very refreshing and amusing; and Miss Sandford plays well as Lady Phyllis Eustace.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, May 27, the Drama entitled
"SPORTING LIFE."

A very skilful representation of this exhilarating play has been given in Marylebone this week by the carefully selected members of Mr. A. Beaton's company. The important rôle of John, Earl of Woodstock, was handled by Mr. Henry Doughty in irreproachable style, all his methods being most convincing. Mr. Wentworth Fane made good headway as Sir Charles Braybourne; Mr. H. C. Cooper easily scored as Isidore Andread; Mr. Edward Chester was effectively earnest as Joe Lee; Mr. Frank Woodville was responsible for a good character study of the bookmaker, Cleary; Mr. T. Avery gave a capable delineation of Sergeant Dan Doxey; Mr. H. H. Barrington proffered a careful embodiment of Miles Cavanagh; Mr. Edwin Fergusson gave a most realistic portrayal of the easily-led Philip Cavanagh; whilst Mr. Raymond Dudley did well as Malet de Carteret. Miss Ida Phillips made many friends by her fascinating portrayal of Norah; Miss Nellie Lucas played with much pathos as Kitty; Miss May Marcus was well placed as Jessie; and Miss Constance Elgin sustained the trying rôle of Olive de Carteret with much force and realism. The rest of a long cast all did well, and every credit is due to all concerned.

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

The students' concert on Wednesday began with a duet for pianoforte, "Grand March," by Flux, played by Miss Thirza Taylor and Mr. Francis Sutton. In Kinnison's air, "The love song of the mavis," Miss Nellie Barker was entirely successful; and Miss H. Cartwright, who is not only an associate of the Guildhall School, but a F.R.C.O., was warmly applauded in her organ solos, "Grand Rondo" (Schubert) and Silas's "Sonata in D minor," both of which being executed with much ability. Miss Elizabeth Weiss also played Weber's "Rondo Brillante" for piano with neatness and finish. Parker's song, "At my window," was sung with good expression by Miss Thirza Wall, but the young vocalist must be more careful in the matter of correct intonation. In her somewhat ambitious attempt, Beethoven's "Romance in G," for violin, Miss Blanche Kettle deserved praise for her careful and correct playing; while Miss May Davie's piano solo of Liszt's "Gnomenreigen" may also be heartily commended. Mr. John Britton used his pleasing voice with considerable skill in "O flower of all the world" (Findon); and Miss Isabel Breeze was loudly applauded in Clay's once very popular song, "She wandered down the mountain side." The piano solo of MacDowell's first and second movements from first Modern Suite enabled Miss Leah Abrahams to display her most promising command of the keyboard. The concert concluded with a mandoline solo, with mandoline orchestra, played by Miss Gertrude Macdonald, the orchestral accompaniment being given by the pupils of Mme. Waldahoff, the work performed being "Concert," by Seitz. Miss Jenny Hyman was the accompanist.

MR. F. FERGUSSON, late bandmaster of H.M. 1st King's Dragoon Guards, who will be remembered in connection with the opening of the Earl's Court Exhibition and with many National Sunday League concerts, has been appointed musical-director of the bands of the Egyptian Army.

THE M. D. Waxman Yiddish Dramatic Company, now playing at the Standard Theatre, will give a performance on Saturday, June 8, at the Marlborough Hall, Regent-street, in aid of the West Central Benevolent Society.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

An extraordinary general meeting of the members of the Association was held at the Passmore Edwards Settlement, Tavistock-place, on Monday afternoon. MR. F. MORLAND presided, and there were also present:—Mr. Adam Alexander, Mr. H. K. Ayliff, Miss Marian J. Bird, Mr. Sydney Bland, Mr. Cecil Brooking, Miss Stanley Burt, Mr. Chas. Caffrey, Mr. Lewis Casson, Mr. Robert Castleton, Miss Beatrice Chester, Mr. F. Clive, Mr. C. Hayden Coffin, Mr. C. F. Collings, Mr. David Denard, Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Daisy England, Mr. H. Athol Forde, Mr. James Gelderd, Mr. Vere Gerald, Miss Louisa Gourlay, Mr. Fred Grove, Mr. Walter Hubert, Miss Dorothy Hullah, Miss Stella Leigh, Mrs. Louise L'Estrange, Mr. George Mallett, Miss Rose Mathews, Miss E. Wynne Matthison, Miss Rosamund Mayne-Young, Miss Winifred Mayo, Mr. Archibald McLean, Miss Louise Moodie, Miss Alma Murray, Mr. Russell Norrie, Miss Margaret Nybloc, Miss Mildred Orme, Mr. H. P. Owen, Mr. Robson Paige, Miss Lala Pelham, Miss Ida Phillips, Mr. Cecil Raleigh, Miss Doris Regan, Miss Rosemary Rees, Miss Irene Ross, Miss Lucy Sibley, Mr. Adnam Sprange, Miss Blanche Stanley, Miss Marie L. Stevens, Mr. E. Howard Templeton, Miss Laurence Therval, Mr. Raymond Thomas, Mr. F. Topham, Miss Maude Townsend, Miss Helen Tytler, Mr. Frank Vernon, Miss Rita Ward, Mr. T. Gideon Warren, Miss M. Davies Webster, and Mr. Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

The CHAIRMAN, in opening the proceedings, said that the business before the meeting was quite formal; it was to confirm the resolutions amending the Articles of Association passed at the meeting held on May 6 last.

MR. LEWIS CASSON then moved as follows:

Delete Article XI. and replace by—

"The Association shall be governed by a Council consisting of 25 Members, who shall hold office for one year and shall retire at the time appointed for the Annual General Meeting, any retiring member being eligible for re-election. The Council shall have power to transact all the business of the Association, five to form a quorum.

MR. C. F. COLLINS seconded the resolution, which was carried nem. con.

The SECRETARY said, in reply to the Chairman, that the proxies did not affect the question, as they were in favour of the resolution.

MR. CECIL BROOKING next moved the following resolution:—

"Any two Members whose subscriptions for the current year are paid may give to the Secretary a notice or notices signed by them nominating any qualified member or members as a candidate or candidates for the Council. Such notices shall contain the name and address of the proposed candidate or candidates, and shall be signed by him or them. Such notices shall be sent to the Secretary not less than 21 days before the date of the Annual General Meeting. If the candidates are not more in number than are required to fill the vacancies they shall be declared to be elected at that Meeting. But if a greater number of candidates are nominated than there are vacancies to be filled, voting papers shall be issued by post to all the Members of the Association containing the names of the candidates. The voting papers shall be sent out by the Secretary 14 days prior to the date of the Annual General Meeting, and must be filled in and signed by the Members and returned to the Secretary before the commencement of the Annual General Meeting."

MR. F. TOPHAM seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

MR. LEWIS CASSON moved:

Article XV. to read—
Delete from "time when the term" to the end of Article, and add the words "next Annual General Meeting."

Article XXIII., Delete "President, Vice-Presidents, and"

Article XXIV., Delete.

Article XXV., Section 2, Delete from "But if a greater number" to "hereinafter provided."

Article XXV., Section 3, Delete section and substitute "If the election has been by voting papers the members present shall elect four scrutineers who shall examine the voting papers, and after the same have been counted the result shall be published at the Offices of the Association."

MISS WYNNE MATTHISON seconded, and the resolution was then put to the meeting and carried.

MR. C. F COLLINS moved:

That Articles 7 and 8 be deleted and be replaced by the following:—

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

7. The Entrance Fee shall be Five Shillings.

8. The Annual Subscription shall be Fifteen Shillings payable in advance on January 1 in each year, or Eighteen Shillings payable in advance by equal instalments on January 1, April 1, July 1, and October 1 in each year, and only those Members whose Subscriptions are paid shall be entitled to vote at any Meeting.

Should a Member fail to pay his Subscription within seventy days after it is due his membership shall cease, but he may be re-elected by the Council upon payment of arrears and a re-instatement fee of One Shilling.

The Subscription of any person elected on or after April 1 shall be regulated by the quarterages for the remainder of the year.

The Council may, at their discretion, suspend payment of Subscription by Members travelling Abroad.

MR. LEWIS CASSON seconded the resolution.

MR. TOPHAM asked a question with regard to those members who paid their subscription by instalments. Would the Council take into consideration the advisability of making the total annual subscription of these members 16s. instead of 18s. per annum? He believed it was the general feeling that this reduction should be made.

The CHAIRMAN said, in reply, that the resolution was passed at the last meeting that no amendment could now be submitted. They had only to confirm that resolution. Whether the Council would take any action to reduce the subscription of members who paid by instalments to 16s. per annum he was not in a position to say.

MR. TOPHAM said he quite understood that they would have to adopt the resolution as it stood on the agenda; but he wanted to elicit some expression of opinion that possibly the subscription would be reduced to 16s. Even the members who had been so insistent upon getting everything they could in the way of subscriptions had promised to take this point into consideration.

The CHAIRMAN said it was difficult to give any assurance of the kind, as the first thing the Council had to face in the future was the question of finance. He was afraid that the present financial position of the Association was very unsatisfactory indeed, and it required the co-operation and loyalty of all the members to place the society in a satisfactory condition. As soon as the finances of the Association would allow it, no doubt steps would be taken to alter the resolution in accordance with Mr. Topham's suggestion. After Jan. 1 next, those members who desired to do so could pay their subscriptions at the rate of 4s. 6d. per quarter.

The resolution, on being put to the meeting, was carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN said that all the resolutions passed at the last meeting having now been confirmed, they would be included in the Articles of Association. The first resolution, which governed the election of the Council, would legally take effect at the annual general meeting next year; up to that time the Association would be run on the old lines. He had been entrusted with a resolution which he was sure they would receive with great pleasure. These frequent meetings and the carrying out of the alterations in the Articles of Association had of course entailed a great deal of extra work upon the staff, and he desired to propose a vote of thanks to Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks for his assistance to the Council in every possible way. A great deal of work had also devolved upon their hon. solicitor in getting the resolutions into exact legal form, so that no difficulties should arise after they had been adopted. The Council had received the most cordial and hearty assistance from Mr. Mote, and he desired to include him in the vote of thanks. With regard to the changes which had been made there were differences of opinion amongst the members, but in spite of these differences he thought that they should all work heartily together; and Mr. Mote had given them an example of the way in which such work should be done. It had taken up a great deal of his time, and their thanks and gratitude were due to him for the way in which the work had been done.

MR. ATHOL FORDE seconded the resolution, which was carried unanimously.

MR. MOTE thanked the meeting for their kind appreciation of the small service he had been able to render the Association. He had been connected with it from the very beginning, and he hoped that the recent changes which had been made would be for the best. There was no doubt that the Association had been of immense benefit to the members of the theatrical profession.

MR. HAYDEN COFFIN, in moving a vote of thanks to the chairman, referred to the resignations of members of the Council, and said that, speaking for himself, he desired to assure the meeting he had no feeling against the Association. He should be very sorry if any changes came about that had any tendency to break up the Association, having had its interests at heart for many years past. If his services were considered of any value to the Council he should be quite willing to offer himself for re-election.

MR. TOPHAM, who seconded, asked a question with regard to filling up vacancies on the Council.

The resolution having been carried, the chairman thanked the meeting, and said he was glad to have the assurances of members that they did not intend leaving the ship—he meant the Council. With regard to Mr. Topham's question, the Council as it stood would continue in office until the next annual general meeting. Then a new council of twenty-five would be elected. Mr. Coffin and the others had resigned under a misapprehension. Their solicitor had taken counsel's opinion on the resolution.

MR. COFFIN said he was obliged to Mr. Topham for putting the question, as it solved a difficulty.

MR. CECIL RALEIGH asked how many councillors it was proposed to add to the remnant that remained.

The CHAIRMAN said that their duty was to elect twenty members to fill the places of the twenty who had resigned. There was, however, the difficulty of getting candidates for the Council at that time of the year, knowing that their term of office would terminate next February. He thought that the Council should be made as representative as possible. As to the president and vice-presidents, the articles of association as amended did not provide any means of electing those officers, and so far as he knew the intentions of the Council, it was not proposed to elect for the present any president or vice-presidents.

MR. RALEIGH said he was only partially satisfied with the reply to his question. It seemed to him that they intended to let things stand with regard to the Council, and raise it to its old ridiculous and cumbersome number. If they were going to drop overboard the president and vice-presidents why should they not drop overboard the unnecessary members of the Council as well? He thought that the Council should show a little more courage.

The CHAIRMAN was glad that Mr. Raleigh was supporting them to the extent of trying to give them a little more courage. There was, however, "a fool of a law," and they were bound to stand by the articles of association.

MR. RALEIGH said he did not like the extra members on the Council.

The CHAIRMAN said that Mr. Raleigh, to have prevented this, should have moved a resolution at the last meeting. How could they avoid electing them?

MR. RALEIGH: Forget them at the next meeting. You can easily go on to the next business.

The CHAIRMAN said he was surprised that Mr. Raleigh, with his well-known democratic tendencies, should advise such a course.

MR. RALEIGH: When a law becomes obnoxious that is the time to break it.

The meeting then separated.

The usual weekly meeting of the council took place on Tuesday, when there were present Mr. Kenyon Musgrave (in the chair), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Clare Greet and Wynne Matthison, Messrs. Cecil Brooking, C. F. Collings, H. Athol Forde, Laurence Irving, Fredk. Morland, Frank Vernon, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The hon. solicitors reported their opinion that all those persons who are already members of the Association, but who have not paid their subscriptions, would be bound by the rules under which they joined so far as their subscription is concerned. With regard to any new members joining the Association from this date, the annual subscription would be in accordance with the resolution confirmed on Monday.

The hon. solicitors reported they had had an interview with a member and advised him, and had written a letter on behalf of another member.

The secretary reported that there were no vacancies on the council owing to the fact that at the Extraordinary General Meeting, held the previous day, the resolution passed on the 6th inst., reducing the council to twenty-five, was confirmed.

The council before that date consisted of fifty-five members, one president, twelve vice-presidents, and forty-two ordinary members. The president and nine of the vice-presidents, and twenty of the ordinary members having retired, making a total of thirty, there thus remained twenty-five. The hon. solicitors stated there was no power to add to the twenty-five; but he would, if it be thought advisable, consult counsel on the point. It was agreed that the further consideration of the question be postponed until next week, and in the meantime counsel's opinion should be taken, and that Mr. Fredk. Morland should attend the conference.

It was decided that the secretary exhibit the following notice in the rooms of the Association:—"It having been reported to the council that certain articles have, from time to time, been found missing from the rooms of the Association, the council regret they have no alternative than to post a notice enumerating the various articles which may in future be missing."

It was agreed that a committee be appointed to approach the Variety Artists' Federation on the subject of members of the A. A. appearing on the music-hall stage, and to report to the council as soon as possible, and that Messrs. Cecil Brooking, Lewis Casson, and Kenyon Musgrave be elected on such committee. It was also resolved that the Finance Committee be requested to prepare a brief statement of the financial position of the A. A. at the present time and during the past ten years, and to lay the same before the council on Tuesday next.

The chairman read a letter from Miss Gracie Murielle, and the secretary was directed to reply acknowledging the receipt of the letter, and thanking the lady for her communication.

The resignations of Mr. H. Athol Forde and Mr. Lewis Casson as members of the Finance and General Purposes Committee were accepted. The secretary reported that under these circumstances there were only two members left on the committee, and that as it required three to make a quorum, it would be necessary to elect new members. The following seven gentlemen were accordingly elected to serve on the committee:—Messrs. Cecil Brooking, Lewis Casson, H. Athol Forde, A. Holmes-Gore, Fredk. Morland, Kenyon Musgrave, and Frank Vernon, Messrs. Laurence Irving and M. R. Morand remaining on the committee.

The report of the last social committee meeting was read by the secretary of the A A., and it was agreed that the council approve of the committee carrying on their "socials" during the summer, but must be furnished with further particulars. It was agreed that the social committee has no power to interfere with bi-monthly meetings.

The secretary read the minutes of the Commissioners' meeting, held on Monday, and was directed to inform the committee that it would be necessary for them to supply definite information as to the insanitations complained of at the various theatres.

The chairman having read a letter from Miss Hilda Hatton stating that she thought she might conscientiously withdraw her resignation, it was agreed that this lady's resignation might be withdrawn. Mr. Walter Maxwell tendered his resignation, and the secretary was instructed to write him a similar letter to that sent to Miss Hatton.

A letter from F. R. Benson, dated May 20, 1907, was referred to the Finance and General Purposes Committee for them to draft a reply.

The chairman read a letter from Mr. William Poel to Miss Rose Mathews, and it was agreed that the same be referred to the Social Committee for them to entertain the subject matter if they thought fit.

Five former members were reinstated.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting on Tuesday last, the chair being occupied by Mr. Fredk. Morland. There were also present Messrs. Cecil Brooking, H. Athol Forde, Kenyon Musgrave, and Frank Vernon, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary). The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. Consideration of the question of repairs referred to this committee by the council for suggestions as to the method of increasing interest in the bi-monthly meetings was deferred. The secretary reported that Mr. Woodrow, the hon. consulting architect, had prepared a specification of the necessary work to be done on the premises by way of repair, and had sent copies to four builders, and was awaiting the receipt of their estimates.

The preparation of accounts showing the income and expenditure for some years past was considered, and the secretary supplied information as to the probable income and expenditure for the remainder of the present year, and it was agreed that the further consideration of "ways and means" should be discussed at a special meeting of the Finance Committee.

A letter written to the secretary by Mr. F. R. Benson and referred to this committee to draft reply, was considered, and the suggested form prepared for the secretary's signature. The meeting lasted from five to seven.

A. A. SOCIAL.

MR. CECIL BROOKING presided at the social gathering of the Actors' Association on the 24th ult., when MR. WILLIAM POEL delivered a well-thought-out address on the conservatism which characterised the dramatic profession in regard to certain time-honoured conventions of the stage.

After tracing his twenty-five years' connection with the stage and humorously detailing the surreptitious manner in which his earlier visits to the theatre had to be made, Mr. Poel proceeded to demonstrate the surprise he felt in these early days at the difference he noticed between a Shakespearean play as produced on the stage and the text as he quickly perused it at home. Incidentally, one of his earliest recollections was the wonderful impression which Salvini made upon him. The growing love of the drama eventually decided his going on the stage, and there he found the prejudices of hide-bound conventionalism even more powerful than he could have believed them to be. Thus, in the play scene of Hamlet, it was apparently an immutable law that the King should be hurried off the stage long before the consummation of the scene, although the text would have led one to suspect that the King's discomfiture would have taken place at the conclusion of the scene. So also in the case of the scene of Ophelia with the flowers. In the original edition Ophelia is represented as playing a lute. Shakespeare, in the lecturer's view, did not intend Ophelia to use the flowers on the stage at all—the madness made her imagine that various trivial articles represented flowers. Another branch of modern stage art which Mr. Poel severely criticised was the stereotyped method of enunciation which actors thought it necessary to adopt in reciting Shakespeare's lines. This was only because it was Shakespeare—apparently oblivious of the fact that blank verse contained a large amount of matter which could be perfectly well slurred over. In this connection Mr. Poel gave some very interesting examples of different styles of reading several passages from Shakespeare. Referring to Mr. H B. Irving's recent lecture to the Elizabethan Stage Society, Mr. Poel pointed out that the aspect from which an Elizabethan audience regarded a play was essentially different from that of a modern audience. Then the audience did not look for scenery. They critically studied the author's words, and allowed the scenes to be conjured up by the suggestions of the text. As a matter of fact, in Mr. Poel's opinion Shakespeare would have actually resented the ignoring by the audience of the fact that his lines portrayed the scenery, and that such adventitious aids were at all necessary to the interpretation of his plays.

The chairman proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Poel for his interesting address. Miss Rose Matthews, in supporting the motion, expressed the satisfaction of the executive committee at the success attending these meetings, and also expressed the sense of gratitude which the Association felt towards the eminent authors and dramatists who had so strongly supported their efforts. She prophesied that a brilliant future lay in store for the Association if the members would throw aside all feelings of lethargic indifference and actively assist the executive in placing the Association in the van of art and progress. She concluded by announcing that that meeting would be the last of the present season.

SENOR SOBRINO'S RECITAL.

At the Guildhall School of Music on Tuesday afternoon Señor Carlos Sobrino, the Spanish pianist, gave his fourth recital before a very large audience. The recital on Tuesday was entirely devoted to the works of Chopin, the programme commencing with the great Polish composer's Fantaisie Op. 49. In the Preludes Nos. 1, 3, and 15, which followed Señor Sobrino gave a skilful and intelligent reading, while in the Ballade and Scherzo he simply revelled in the technical difficulties, to the evident delight of his hearers. The beautiful Nocturne Op. 37, No. 1, was also most sympathetically rendered by the pianist, while the quaint and characteristic "Mazurka" was capitally played. Other examples of the great master which proved instructive to students present were the famous Etudes Nos. 5, 12, 1, and 9, in which so much depends on style and execution. The programme also included the posthumous "Fantaisie Impromptu," the No. 2 Waltz, and the dashing "Polonaise." The professor, who was much applauded during the recital, received at the close a most hearty reception.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

ACTORS' UNION.

LONDON.

MR. ROBSON PAIGE presided at Tuesday's meeting of the Actors' Union, which was extremely well attended, among others present being Mr. Harry Paulton, Mr. J. L. Shine, Mr. Rawson Buckley, Mr. Arthur Bawtree, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Marshall, Miss Gladys Ffolliott, Mrs. Robson Paige, Miss Beatrice Lloyd, Miss Winifred Symonds, Miss Marion Bird, Mr. Milsom, Miss Constance Groves, Miss Beresford, Miss Nybloc, Miss Townshend, Mr. Armitage, Mr. Porter, Mr. Wm. Ellison, Mr. Frederic Jacques, Miss Elsie Carew, Mr. Wm. Clayton, Mr. and Mrs. Booth, Miss Woolviston, Miss Lester, Miss Vere, Miss Thorne, Miss Tate, Mr. Dent, Miss Rosie Kearns, Miss Stanley Brett, Mr. Maine, Miss Le Clerq, Mr. J. Collinson, Mr. A. C. Grande, Mr. A. Bennett, Mr. Edwin Wolseley, Mr. Frank Lacy, Mr. H. Tripp Edgar, Miss May Conrade, Mr. Wm. Macready, Mr. Palmer, Miss Maud Shelton, Miss Marie Clavering, Miss Lilian Devine, Miss Adela Harvey, Miss Mapleson, Mr. Charles Ommanney, Miss Florence Groves, Mr. Troughton, Miss Phillips, Mr. A. J. Harding, Mr. C. A. Hann, Miss Hilda Dennison, Mrs. Paulton, Miss Massey, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bradley, Miss Adelaide Gracey, Miss Nellie Moore, Mr. Owen Ducroy, Miss Florence Smithers, Mr. Campbell Goldsmid, Mr. Herbert Hewitson, Mr. Ruddle Brown, Mr. Francis Chamier, Miss Mary Bessle, Miss Edith Chalmers, Miss Nellie Cozens, Mr. George Child, Mr. E. J. Collins, Mr. F. Forde, Mr. William Gilbert, Miss Le Clerq, Mr. Arthur Leigh, Mr. H. Nelson, Miss Isa Patterson, Miss Agnes Paulton, Mr. Fred Permain, Mr. Pritchard, Mr. F. E. Petley, Mr. Fred Rolls, Mr. Wilfred Shine, Mr. Charles Sugden, Mr. Frank Stanmore, Mr. E. H. Templeton, Mr. George Tate, Mr. Watty Walton, Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., Mr. Percy Yorke, Mr. Cecil Calvert, Miss Stanley Burt, Miss Nellie Howitt, and Mr. Frank Elliott.

MR. PAIGE referred in eulogistic terms to the excellent work done in the provinces by Mr. Hamilton Deane, Mr. Campbell Goldsmid, Mr. Ruddle Brown, and others at a time when members were more difficult to get than now. He took this opportunity of thanking all the members who had assisted to return him second on the poll. As to the regrettable deaths of Paul Belmore and Charles A. Leicester, both of these gentlemen had expressed a wish to join the Union, but had delayed sending their entrance fee, and consequently were not entitled to the death levy. He would ask his hearers to pass in silence a vote of sympathy with the relatives of both these gentlemen. Coming now to deal with the poor salaries paid to the women in the profession, there was no doubt that the executive would do something for their professional sisters. He thought that, after all, it would be an advantage if they allowed ladies on the committee. Miss Gertrude Kingston had resigned on that score, and he had had complaints from ladies. However, it would be for the members of the Union to decide in January—possibly at the meeting on June 14. As to Mr. Cecil Raleigh, although that gentleman had put forth certain views which were not very popular, he (Mr. Paige) did not think Mr. Raleigh would lead them astray, so why should they go contrary to his wishes? At any rate, he intended to stand by Mr. Raleigh. He would most certainly resign himself, which he believed would be a small matter, but he would ask them to consider the effect Mr. Raleigh's renunciation would have. Mr. Raleigh was practically the founder of the Actors' Union, and he (Mr. Paige) and his coadjutors, Mr. Bawtree and Mr. Howard Templeton, had been unable to get anything like a following until Mr. Raleigh's name was connected with the movement. At the same time, he hoped that differences of opinion would not alter friendships.

MR. HARRY PAULTON said that they were all willing to admit that Mr. Raleigh had done a great deal for the Union, but apparently he wanted to run it entirely according to his own ideas, some of which were objected to by the majority of members.

MR. FRANCIS CHAMIER said that they were there to talk about the Union, and that discussions as to Mr. Raleigh's ideas were out of order.

MR. OSWALD MARSHALL said that the object of the meeting was to get members, and these totally irrelevant matters should be left out of consideration. There were other subjects of far more importance for them to consider, such as payment for rehearsals, payment of railway fares on joining and leaving a company, and various other reforms.

MISS GLADYS FFOLLIOTT urged that everyone should send a small contribution each week for the benefit of their old age fund. She also wished to draw their attention to the possibility of preventing plagiarism by members sending their plays to the Union and having them marked as having been read by the reading committee. On another point, she thought that actors and actresses should only be called upon to pay three-quarters fares; and an additional benefit might be gained by their having the assistance of a medical man.

MR. RAWSON BUCKLEY made a proposition in regard to an old age pension fund. At the end of six months the committee might put £50 aside for five years, no one for that period to be entitled to call for aid. At the end of five years they would be able to pay a pension of £10 a year. Then they might combine with Actors' Day and give one night's salary every year. He calculated that in ten years' time they would have a sufficient amount in hand to enable them to give twenty old actors pensions for life.

MR. WM. MACREADY complained that there were too many hangers-back. If actors would only be true to each other, to themselves, to their art, and to the Union, the Union would become the most colossal trade union of artists the world had ever known.

MR. FRANK LACY said that members of the Union should advertise its aims, verbally and otherwise, on every possible occasion. They all could afford to put aside sixpence a week when they considered that it would do pounds of good to their brothers and sisters and themselves.

MR. TRIPP EDGAR proposed a vote of thanks to the late provisional committee, coupling with it the names of Mr. Robson Paige, Mr. Oswald Marshall, and Mr. Arthur Bawtree.

MR. J. L. SHINE, in seconding, said that he was now a sketch manager as well as an actor, but he would be very pleased to withdraw from the committee if it was thought desirable that he should do so, although still retaining his ordinary membership. He pointed out that all of them were actors and actresses, and the Union should remain strictly an actors' union.

MR. OSWALD MARSHALL and MR. ARTHUR BAWTREE suitably acknowledged the vote of thanks.

MR. FRANK ELLIOTT mentioned the case of a manager who was in the habit of deducting ten shillings a week from artists' salaries to insure himself against possible loss under the Workmen's Compensation Act, and who also deducted ten per cent. for agent's commission, although he had made the engagement direct.

MR. WOLSELEY stated that a certain manager had offered him an engagement of thirteen weeks subject to his paying ten per cent. on the engagement for one year. He had declined.

MR. MARSHALL mentioned an instance of a manager's dishonest and disreputable dealing which had come to his notice. A company had been engaged for a tour, and towards the end of it the manager told the members of the company that they could have an additional week provided they accepted half salaries, as he was taking on a risk himself. The theatre manager informed one or other of the actors that the touring manager had been guaranteed £120 for the week.

A vote of thanks to the Chairman concluded the proceedings.

BIRMINGHAM.

At a special meeting in connection with the Actors' Union, held at the Metropole Theatre, Birmingham, on the 24th ult., Miss Marie Clavering took the chair, and the list of those present included Messrs. J. T. Dillsen, C. Sterling, Tyrone Power, G. H. Child, H. Clapham, Leslie Beauford, George Hudson, Walter Langford, and Miss Florence Hudson.

MISS CLAVERING, in her opening speech, argued the necessity for a union of actors. The medical profession, the lawyers, the working journalists, and members of the teaching profession, all had organizations for their protection. It was desirable that many abuses should be removed, and she hoped the profession would stand together to remove them.

MR. C. STERLING complained of the hardships to which actors were subjected through unscrupulous managers. For a manager to take a company on tour knowing that he was not in a position to pay their salaries at the end of the week ought, he said, to be a penal offence.

MR. G. H. CHILD said it was absolutely essential that something should be done to put the provincial stage on a better footing. They wished to abolish the unfair competition of underpaid or premium-paying actors, and to insist upon the decent and healthy structure of theatres. After this they would form a provident and an old-age pension fund. Nothing could be done, however, until three-fourths of the profession were in the Actors' Union. Although they had not amalgamated with the Reform Party of the Actors' Association, yet they welcomed the objects of that party, who were striving for the same ends.

MR. J. T. DILLSEN said actors wanted a fair price for their labour and a minimum wage. He denied that such a minimum would lower the salaries all round. Wherever it had been put in operation the result had been beneficial.

A resolution was carried affirming the absolute necessity for the Union.

LIVERPOOL.

MR. HAMILTON DEANE presided at a meeting held at the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, on the 24th ult. The attendance was moderate. Twenty of those present were members, and seven new members were enrolled. The meeting included Miss Haidee Wright, Miss Violet Thorold, Miss Ethel Russell, Mr. Jack Collinson, Mr. E. Howard Templeton, Mr. Hamilton Deane, Miss Gladys H. Walton, Miss Ida Mackay, Miss Cissie Bellamy, Miss Lena Nazeby, Mr. Bernard Hishin, Mr. Charles Herbert, Mr. Frank S. Strickland, Mr. A. B. Mackay, Mr. Campbell Goldsmid, Mr. and Mrs. Hesselgrave, Miss Madge Seymour, Mr. Frank Ayrton, Mr. Francis E. Wybert, Mr. Wallace Campbell, Mr. C. Hall-Eldon, Mr. H. E. Brandon, Mr. Francis Court, Mr. W. Nay, Mr. S. S. Pearse, Mr. Alfred S. Fry, Mr. Chas. Caffrey, Mr. Frank Harvey, and Mr. Harry Tilbury. A cordial vote of thanks was passed to Mr. John Gaffney for the use of the theatre.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you kindly make it known to all members of the above Union that I shall support Mr. Raleigh's views till a sounder adviser and a stronger personality comes to our aid? Mr. Cecil Raleigh really founded the Union, and has attracted most (if not all) of our members. To allow him to drop us at this critical moment would, in my opinion, be fatal.—Yours faithfully,

ROBSON PAIGE.

WITH the object of directing attention to the advantages of the Elizabethan methods of representation, Mr. William Poel, of the Elizabethan Stage Society, will give some performances of Shakespeare's comedy The Merchant of Venice at the Grand Theatre, Fulham, from Tuesday, June 11, to Saturday, June 15. The play has been chosen because it is the one most often acted on the modern stage, and will be given in its entirety, on an open platform, and in Elizabethan costume, as was the custom in Shakespeare's time. Members of the dramatic profession will be invited to the matinée on Thursday, June 13, and on certain days, specially arranged for schools, clubs, and institutes, reduced charges of admission will be made.

MISS ELLEN TERRY

EVERYBODY will be delighted to hear that Miss Ellen Terry has just completed her autobiography, and that its publication in serial form commences in next week's M.A.P.

"The Story of My Life," as her reminiscences are entitled, is a story of absorbing interest. It will rank as one of the most important biographical works of recent years. It is at once the story of the astonishing career of the greatest of actresses, the story of the stage for the last fifty years, and the story of a woman whose friends are as the stars in number, who has held enthralled the hearts of all who have known or seen her by her beauty and by her charm.

"The actress is great, but the woman is greater than the actress," a famous critic once wrote, "and in the final analysis of Miss Terry's acting it will be found that her enchantment is that of a unique personality."

And this personality breathes through every line of the autobiography. "To read it is to hear her speak and see her smile," said a friend who has been privileged to see the manuscript. Just as she charms when she appears in public or in private, so does she charm through her pen. As a brilliant writer, an incomparable story-teller, Ellen Terry is now to shine in a new part.

"For years," she confesses, "I have contemplated telling this story, and for years I have put off telling it. When it was suggested to me that I ought to write down my recollections in the year of my Jubilee, all the difficulties of the undertaking began to frighten me. I could not deny that I had had an eventful life, packed full of incident, and that by the road I had met many distinguished and interesting men and women. I could not deny that I had been fifty years on the stage, and that this meant enough material for fifty books."

So, appalled at the task, but inspired by the knowledge that her story would be warmly welcomed by the great public that had proved so loyal to her through fifty years, she began to write of her eventful life.

"What is the first thing I remember?" she asked herself, and began with that—a picture of herself as a baby in a Glasgow attic asleep on the floor, clinging all night to her father's hand. And then the rest of the story flowed from her pen: the recollection of her first appearance on the stage as a little girl of eight, in the year 1856—the history of her famous brother and sisters, Kate, Marion, and Fred—of her associations with the Keans and Henry Irving—and of those parts with which her name will ever be associated—her triumphs as Ophelia, as Portia, as Beatrice, and as the Margaret of Goethe's "Faust." . . .

Our readers will be well advised on no account to miss the opening chapters of Ellen Terry's "Story of My Life," appearing in next week's M.A.P.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

Sir Charles Wyndham has generously lent his assistance to the matinée which Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw is organising on behalf of Miss Fanny Coleman, and, together with Miss Mary Moore and his company, will appear in an act of The Liars. The matinée, which is fixed for Thursday, June 13, at the St. James's, will also be graced by Mrs. Patrick Campbell and her daughter, Miss Stella Campbell, who will appear in Act II. of Magda; Mr. John Hare and Mr. Charles Groves in A Quiet Rubber; Miss Constance Collier and Mr. Jerrold Robertshaw in The Mummer's Wife; Miss Lottie Venne and Mr. Eric Lewis in a new duologue by the latter; and a host of other artists.

Mr. Beerbohm Tree celebrated Empire Day by inviting 150 delegates of the Federal Conference on Education to a performance of A Woman of No Importance at His Majesty's, and afterwards entertaining his visitors on the stage. Among those present at the reception were the Earl of Meath, the Vice-Chancellor of Glasgow University, Sir Charles and Lady Lyall, the Governor of the Falkland Islands, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude, Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, Sir Charles and Lady Wyndham, and Miss Mary Moore.

In his speech of welcome to the delegates Mr. Tree said if a humble layman, taking advantage of his position as host, might interject an impertinence, he should say that it might be a national advantage if, in the general scheme of education, more attention were given to the rudimentary laws of happiness and of health. We most of us learnt the laws of health too late in life—and we forgot the laws of happiness too soon; indeed, we often forgot them before we went to school. When he was young, the educational conception of health was to kick a ball very, very hard, and the educational conception of happiness was to know the Athanasian Creed by heart, if possible in Greek. It might be a happy thought if some great poet could put those elementary rules of happiness into words, and if some great composer should set them to music, so that all ch might learn them by heart.

The marriage of Mr. Rupert D'Oyly Carte, the younger and only surviving son of the late Mr. R. D'Oyly Carte, to the Lady Dorothy Gathorne-Hardy is fixed for Thursday next, June 6, at St. George's, Hanover-square. Lady Dorothy, who is the youngest daughter of the Earl and Countess of Cranbrook, is only eighteen, and is tall and very pretty.

Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft were present at the drawing room meeting held at the Mansion House on Tuesday in aid of the children's guild in connection with the Royal Waterloo Hospital for Women and Children. Princess Alexander of Teck, the president of the guild presided, and among the speakers was Lady Bancroft, who made an earnest appeal on behalf of the little sufferers.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier will revive The Walls of Jericho at the Garrick Theatre on Tuesday. Besides Mr. Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh in their original parts, the cast will comprise Messrs. Sydney Valentine, Eric Lewis, Douglas Imbert, Cyril Keightley, Arthur Whitby, Alfred Bristowe, Frank Elliott, F. Cecil, William Burchill, Harrison Carter, and Stafford Hilliard, and Misses Pamela Gaythorne, Nora Greenlaw, Elfrida Clement, Mary Weigall, Eva Killick, Mary Sumner, and Annie Stuart.

Mrs. Beerbohm Tree has promised to perform the opening ceremony at the inauguration of the New Theatre and Opera House, which the Bridlington New Spa Co. are erecting to replace the one burnt down last autumn. The new building is being rapidly completed, and will be in every respect an up-to-date structure, Mr. W. S. Walker, the architect, having made a careful study of all the best models. Mr. Hayne, the manager of the Spa, is so sanguine of the contractors finishing their work in time that he has fixed July 29 for the opening.

Mr. George Alexander has generously forwarded £5 to the London Branch of the Amalgamated Musicians' Union.

Mr. Edward Terry and Mr. W. Graham Browne have the direction of an entertainment which is to be given at the Mansion House on Thursday, June 13, and two following days, in connection with the Queen's fête in aid of crippled children. The programme will be a most attractive one, among the numerous artists of eminence who will contribute being Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Lewis Waller, Miss Lilian Braithwaite, Mr. David Bispham, Mr. H. Fragson, and Mr. Wilhelm Ganz. The fête will be opened by Her Majesty.

Mr. Martin Harvey, who reappears in London at the Adelphi on Monday, will add another production to his programme during his brief season, which, despite the heavy advance booking, cannot be extended longer than the four weeks originally announced. The novelty will consist of a one-act play by Rosamund Langbridge, entitled A Tragedy of Truth, and will be staged on June 17 in conjunction with The Corsican Brothers. Mr. Henry Ainley has been specially engaged for the leading part, and the other members of the company will be Miss Maud Milton and Miss N. de Silva. The scene is laid in Ireland, and the play is practically accompanied by music throughout, specially written by Mr. Norman O'Neill.

Once again has exception been taken to the name of a character on the stage. Recently Mr. Martin Harvey received a letter from a Northampton man saying that his name was Tresham, and that he desired Mr. Harvey to change the title of his play, The Breed of the Treshams, to some other name. He further states that although he has not seen the play, he has heard that it was a sixteenth century play, that one of the characters was known as "the Rat," and that as he could trace his lineage back to Charles I. he felt it an insult to his family name.

Miss Marie Löhr, who has made such a success as Beatrice Dupré in My Wife at the Haymarket, is a daughter of Miss Kate Bishop. She has toured with Mrs. Kendal and played in Colonel Newcome at His Majesty's. Her first appearance was in Sydney, N.S.W., where she was born, and was made at the early age of three. Miss Löhr is only seventeen.

The funeral of Mr. Charles A. Leicester (Charles Albert Lewis) took place on the 22nd ult. at Witton Cemetery, near Erdington, just outside his native town, Birmingham. The cortége was a long one, numbering some fifteen coaches, and the floral tributes were very numerous, over forty wreaths, &c., coming from old friends in Birmingham, and from his comrades and fellow-workers in the profession. There was a large gathering of people at the cemetery, many of whom attended the ceremony in the church, afterwards following to the graveside. Miss Florrie Groves wishes to express her heartfelt gratitude to the many friends and sympathisers in her late bereavement, and the mother, brothers, and sisters also tender their sincerest thanks.

Mr. Allen Thomas, who has so successfully sustained Mr. Alfred Bishop's part in Toddles during the past two weeks, is now playing his original part of Haslett again. This experienced character actor concludes his engagement at the end of the present run of Toddles.

The first instalment of the autobiography of Miss Ellen Terry, which promises to be the most interesting theatrical story of recent times, will appear in next Saturday's issue of M. A. P. This popular weekly has always been strong in the personality of the artist, and its dramatic notes, under the title of "M. A. P. in the Green Room," and its occasional chapters of autobiography under the heading of "In the Days of my Youth," have provided the reading public with much interesting gossip on the private and public life of popular favourites.

A new one-act play by W. W. Jacobs and Herbert Sargent, founded on a story by the former, will be put on in front of Toddles at the Playhouse on Wednesday. The little piece is a comedy of humble life, the scene being laid in the living-room of a house in Bermondsey. Miss Pollie Emery will be seen in one of the chief parts, and other characters will be sustained by Mr. George Shelton and Mr. John Harwood.

Two matinées of The Three Bears, a musical play by A. S. Scott-Gatty, will be given by Mrs. Wordsworth's pupils at the Vaudeville Theatre on June 20 and 21, in aid of the League of Mercy. Nearly all the performers, it may be added, are children. Mrs. Carl Hentschel is lady president of the Strand District, and tickets may be obtained from her on application to 55-56, Chancery-lane, W.C.

Mr. J. H. Booth, who has just been appearing as Farmer Thompson, in Miss Lancashire, Limited, is engaged to play the same part on tour through Australia, New Zealand, and America. Mr. Booth sails from Liverpool on Thursday by the White Star liner Runic.

Miss Florence Harcourt, who is in partnership with Mr. William Holles and Miss Nannie Goldman in the production this week at the Crown, Peckham, and the forthcoming tour of Arthur Shirley's new drama, The Stepmother, is playing the part of Johanna Jones, and scored a great success on the opening night.

Mr. J. C. Williamson sailed from Australia on Tuesday last per ss. Mongolia, en route for England. Mr. J. A. E. Malone, of Daly's, is Mr. J. C. Williamson's trusty lieutenant, and to him all enquiries regarding Mr. Williamson should be addressed.

Mr. Charles Collette finishes his spring tour with Messrs. Cartwright, Lawrence, and Tapping's David Copperfield company to-night at Brighton, having won "golden opinions from all sorts of people" for his performance of Micawber. Mr. Cartwright has retained Mr. Collette for his autumn tour for Micawber and other parts in a Dickens' répertoire.

Mr. Leonard Boyne has left London for Grainingfoid, Billingshurst, where he will rest till August, when he resumes work again at the Opera House, Southport, with his company in Raffles. Mr. Boyne's tour, which has just concluded, has been exceptionally successful throughout.

Mr. Murray King and his own company will appear in Niobe at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, on Monday, on the occasion of the visit of the Congress of Booksellers. The Mayors of Eastbourne, Boulogne, Dieppe, &c., will be present at the performance.

The British Empire Shakespeare Society gave a dramatic reading of Macbeth at the Graham-street High School for Girls on Monday, before a highly-appreciative audience, composed of a large number of the society's members and the school's mistresses and students. Mr. Acton Bond appeared as Macbeth, and Miss Celia Palo as Lady Macbeth, the remainder of the cast being filled by other well-known members of the dramatic profession. The reading was received with the greatest enthusiasm.

The Leith theatre has been closed this week for purposes of redecoration, and also for the final rehearsals of the new stock company, which starts its season on Monday with a production of The Shadows of a Great City. Among the performers engaged to appear, either permanently or in the course of the next few weeks, are Miss Doris Gilham, Miss Paulina Gear, Miss Adleston, Miss Constance Medwyn, and Messrs. Fred Freeman, Clavering Craig, James Chippendale, Barry Lupino, James Somerville, Percival Dye, and Nesbit. A series of high-class dramas, short farces, and bioscope pictures will be presented from week to week, under the able stage-management of Mr. John Darlison.

The annual pastoral plays will be given in the grounds of Downing College, Cambridge, on Tuesday, June 11, when The Comedy of Errors and As You Like It will be performed. The plays are under the management of Mr. W. B. Redfern, and are produced for the third year by Mr. O. Lewin-Mannering's company of pastoral players, with Mr. Mannering himself in the parts of Antipholus of Syracuse and Jaques.

Mr. Fred Knight has completed his fourth tour with Beauty and the Barge—two under Mr. Cyril Maude's management, playing Dibbs and Simmons, in That Brute Simmons, and two under the management of Mr. Arthur Hardy, playing Tom Codd.

Mr. Charles J. Cameron, who has just finished his sixth tour with Mr. Martin Harvey, has been re-engaged to appear in the répertoire of plays which Mr. Harvey is producing during his season at the Adelphi. Besides playing his old parts in this répertoire, Mr. Cameron will be seen in a strong character-part in Mr. Harvey's new play, Great Possessions. This will not only be Mr. Cameron's third season in London with Mr. Harvey, but will also complete his third year's work with that well-known actor-manager.

Mr. C. A. White concludes to-night his fourth consecutive tour with Mr. Arthur Hardy, having played the principal comedy parts in The Little Stranger, 'Twixt Axe and Crown, and Clancarty. Mr. White has also completed two tours as Dibbs the gardener in Beauty and the Barge.

Miss Adela Bowen has been engaged by Miss Olga Nethersole for her season in Paris to play the Princess in Adrienne Lecouvreur, Ellean in The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and other important parts.—Mr. W. T. Gliddon has been re-engaged by Messrs. W. and F. Melville as musical-director of the Grand Theatre, Islington, on the re-opening on August Bank Holiday.

Mr. Arthur Law Raynor, who has just concluded four-and-a-half years as manager for Mr. Bert Coote's The Fatal Wedding, has been engaged by Mr. Charles Macdona for business management for the autumn. Mr. Raynor had a very pleasant surprise at the fall of the curtain on the last night at Dover, being presented by the company with a dressing-case, all present joining in the singing of "He's a jolly good fellow."

Miss Edna May's wedding to Mr. Oscar Lewisohn will take place at Ascot on Tuesday. The bridal tour will take the form of a three months' motoring tour through France, Germany, Italy, and Spain, after which the couple return to London, to leave again in the late autumn for a journey to America, Australia, Japan, and many places in the East. Finally Mr. and Mrs. Lewisohn will settle down in a country home near London.

The Lyceum is to be put to the purposes of charity on Tuesday, June 11, when a matinée will be given in aid of the Children's Seaside Holiday Fund. The specially attractive programme will include, among others, Miss Evie Greene, Miss Constance Collier, Mrs. Lewis Waller, Miss Marie Lloyd, Mr. George Graves, Miss Billie Burke, and Mr. George Robey.

Members of the profession who are interested in motoring may be assured of a good afternoon's sport by entering their favourite car for the Southern Motor Club's hill climb on June 22, at Captain Kydd's Hill, East Grinstead, under the auspices of the Royal Automobile Club. Of the seven classes into which the competition is divided, one is specially arranged for lady drivers, and another for cars which competed in the Tourists' Trophy Race in the Isle of Man without alteration to gear or engines; while a novelty of the meeting will be the competition for motor 'buses laden with passengers or equivalent weight. Earl Russell has kindly consented to act as judge. The entry-fee is 2 guineas per car for all classes, and entries can be received by the hon. Sport Secretary, S. W. Phillpott, 18, Gosberton Road, Balham, up to June 10, after which date 3 guineas will be charged.

Mr. John Gaffney, the popular manager of the Liverpool Shakespeare Theatre, will take his nineteenth annual benefit on June 13. The event is regarded in the city as the red-letter night, and that hosts of artists are offering their services is evidence of the esteem in which they hold a gentleman who has most efficiently occupied the position of manager since the theatre was erected in 1868.

A short theatrical entertainment is to be a feature of the dinner to be given by the Prince of Wales at Marlborough House on Monday, June 10, in honour of the King and Queen of Denmark, at which King Edward and Queen Alexandra will be present. By the special desire of His Royal Highness the programme will consist of two one-act pieces, Sixes and Sevens, played by Mr. Arthur Bourchier and his wife (Miss Violet Vanbrugh), and Mr. Charles Brookfield's comedietta, The Lady Burglar, performed by Mr. Cyril Maude and Miss Alexandra Carlisle.

Miss Ellen Terry has been rejoined by her husband, Mr. James Carew, who arrived at Tilbury by the Minnehaha on Wednesday. On reaching St. Pancras Mr. Carew was met by the distinguished actress, and the pair immediately drove to their residence in Chelsea. During his voyage across the Atlantic the news leaked out that "Ellen Terry's husband" was on board, and in order to escape attention Mr. Carew found it necessary to seek the seclusion of his cabin for the rest of the journey.

Mr. Norman MacOwan brought his seventh tour of Monsieur Beaucaire to a most successful conclusion at the West Pier, Brighton, last Saturday, when Mr. MacOwan reached his 572nd performance of the title-rôle. In most of the towns on this tour the clever comedy made its fourth or fifth appearance, but the returns, nevertheless, beat all previous visits. Mr. MacOwan and Miss Violet Sterne are now playing an eight weeks' stock season at the Grand Theatre, Swansea. Still Waters Run Deep, Bunch of Violets, Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and other favourite pieces are included in the répertoire.

"What the Butler Saw" company returns to London this week, and finishes the present most successful tour at the Kennington Theatre. During their visit to Cork last week the performances were under the patronage and presence of the Lord Mayor of Cork, the High Sheriff of Cork, Rear-Admiral Geo. F. King-Hall, Rear-Admiral George le C. Egerton, C.B., Major-General L. W. Parsons, C.B., and the Members of Parliament for the city. Mr. Rignold and Miss Blanche were warmly congratulated on the excellence of their entertainment, and a special invitation was sent for themselves and their company to visit the Atlantic Fleet, which was then lying in Queenstown Harbour.

Miss Trixie Toole, having arranged with Mr. Harold Webb to tour that successful musical-farcical comedy, The Girl from Chicago, will start out in the early autumn. Miss Toole is sparing no expense to keep up the reputation of this bright little show, having new scenery, dresses, &c., and doing everything on up-to-date lines.

"Tommy," the play by Jerome K. Jerome, which Miss Annie Hughes has been touring with such favourable results, is to have its name changed to Miss Tommy, the former title having already been used for a play by Mrs. E. S. Willard, produced at the Olympic in 1891. The new title will manifestly be more appropriate to a charming impersonation in a most attractive play. After Miss Hughes has represented Miss Tommy at the Gaiety Theatre, Manchester, to which town the piece will then make its second visit, she starts rehearsals of Sweet Nancy, which she will play three nights in turn with Miss Tommy. Miss Hughes' tour, it may be added, extends to the second week in August.

Miss Ellen Snow, who has just concluded a long engagement with Messrs. Howard and Hallatt as the Princess Iris in Her Love Against the World, has secured from Mr. Walter Howard the rights of his successful romantic play, Why Men Love Women, with which she will start a tour at the Grand Theatre, Brighton, in July. Entirely new scenery, properties, and uniforms are being prepared for this play, which will be rehearsed and produced by the author.

A three-act farce, by a new author, will see the light at a matinée to be given at the Royalty on Friday, June 28, in aid of the Grosvenor Hospital for Women and Children. The piece is The Pocket Miss Hercules, and the author Mr. J. Storer Clouston, who has already achieved renown in the literary world with the novels "The Lunatic at Large" and "Count Bunker." The new piece will be followed by Messrs. Richard Pryce and Frederick Fenn's popular little play, 'Op o' My Thumb.

Miss Julie Temple has just concluded a successful tour of eight months with Mr. Bert Coote as Bridget, in A Fatal Wedding. Miss Temple, who thus finishes her fourth engagement with Mr. Coote, can now be secured immediately and for the autumn either for character or musical comedy.

Mr. Charles Langley has returned from a most successful tour of the United States with Mr. Forbes-Robertson, and is re-engaged by that gentleman for an autumn tour of the English provinces, playing Polonius, Roger Goodlake, &c.

Baron Harriss's Prince of Pilsen company terminates its second successful tour to-night at Cambridge. After a month's vacation the company reopens at Douglas, with Scarborough, Blackpool, and the principal fashionable seaside resorts to follow. The personnel of the cast will remain practically unchanged, Messrs. Frank Crimp, Harry Kilburn, and Miss Sophie Harriss retaining the principal rôles, with Mr. Albert Vernon as musical director and Mr. Hugh Fleming as advance director. During the recess Baron and Mrs. Harriss will entertain relays of guests at their riverside retreat near Maidenhead, where they have had the good fortune to secure the Braemore, Mme. Melba's electric launch of last season.

"The Boy Wonder" is the latest description applied by a 'chic American journalist to Mr. John R. Rogers, universally known as "Yours merrily," who seems never to grow older, despite his forty-one years of actual life in the theatrical business. He has made seven tours around the world, crossed the Pacific Ocean fourteen times, the Atlantic ninety-eight times, and in June will start on his one-hundredth stretch. His record as the manager of Minnie Palmer in My Sweetheart will long remain in theatrical history.

How it is done is explained by the jovial John himself. He says: "I never worry, never hurry, never do an act to regret, and never eat white bread, as moisture in flour is only good to make paste with which to post show-bills on walls." Mr. Rogers is evidently an apostle of the "simple life," and it is little wonder that, while most of his old associates have long departed the scene, the enterprising entrepreneur still remains a youth.

Mr. Frank Bertram will send out three companies this autumn. The Breed of the Treshams (by arrangement with Mr. Martin Harvey) will commence in July; The Convict's Daughter, with Mr. Bertram in his old part of the Convict, opens on August Bank Holiday; while Hearts Adrift has done so well this spring and summer that it will be again toured, opening in September. Mr. Bertram is at present travelling with his sketch, The Chaperone, but the tour will terminate in Birmingham on August 3, so that he can open on the following Monday with his drama.

Mr. Sidney Dench and Miss Dora Dench were accorded a full house on Monday last at the St. James's, Manchester, where they started a stock season with The Rich and Poor of London.

Mr. Percy Hutchison finished a wonderfully successful tour with Peter's Mother (North company) at Oxford on Saturday, when the demand for seats was so persistent that a part of the pit had to be converted into stalls. The South company of Peter's Mother also finished a most successful tour at Blackpool, the receipts on the opening day coming within 6d. of the record for all previous Whit-Mondays. The advance booking for the two companies, it may be added, exceeded £400.

Mr. William Mollison's tour, which has just concluded, has been a brilliant success. In the course of his itinerary Mr. Mollison was seen in several Shakespearean impersonations for the first time in London, and the encomiums called forth by his admirable embodiment of Shylock, Macbeth, and other parts were in the highest degree flattering. Mr. Mollison is now enjoying a vacation preparatory to starting on his next tour, which begins at the Opera House, Blackpool, and embraces all the leading dramatic centres in the provinces.

At the recent competitive Musical Festival at the Alexandra Palace, the silver medal in the class for basses and baritones was awarded by the judge, Mr. Plunket Greene, to Mr. Mathers Atkinson, a pupil of Mr. Philip Ashbrooke.

Mr. Laurence Irving will appear at the Coronet during the week beginning June 24 in M. Brieux's play, Les Hannetons, of which a performance was given by the Stage Society a few weeks ago. The English title of the play, which will then have its first public performance, is The Incubus. In connection with these performances a new one-act piece will also be produced.

Miss Ada Marius, the daughter of the late famous actor, Mons. Marius, is shortly making her first essay in management, and will enter upon a provincial tour with her own company in the well-known society play, As in a Looking-glass, by F. C. Phillips and F. C. Groves, which enjoyed a long run in London. She will, subsequent to this revival, produce an entirely new costume drama. For some years past Miss Marius has enjoyed an all-round experience in plays of every kind, and has recently been enacting leading Shakespearean parts with Mrs. Russ Whytal, whom Mr. Tree has recently engaged for next season as his leading lady. As understudy to Mrs. Whytal, Miss Marius had the opportunity of taking her place on tour as Portia and Viola while Mrs. Whytal appeared at His Majesty's Theatre during the recent Shakespeare Festival.

Mr. J. Maundy-Gregory is extending his work in an appreciable degree. Besides his Lights Out companies he has taken over for the summer Mr. H. A. Saintsbury and company in Anna of the Plains, and will launch in the autumn a bigger production than he has as yet attempted of a London piece.

Something elaborate, strikingly novel, and up-to-date may be anticipated in the pantomime Robin Rood, to be produced on Boxing Day. The production is the result of the joint efforts of Leolyn G. Hart, the well-known scenic artist, and John Henderson, author-producer, whose experience and ability in this kind of seasonable attraction have gained him a sound reputation. The magnificent transformation, which will be a feature of the pantomime, will be of a beautiful and novel nature, as will be at once apparent when the title is made known. Costumes, scenic effects, and paraphernalia are being specially made, and the music will be under the bâton of a first-class conductor. Miss Millie Henderson is the principal boy, and other important artists are in negotiation. A full chorus and ballet will be travelled.

"The Merry Widow" is putting the finishing touches to her toilette, and her début at Daly's will not be long delayed after next week. The composer of Die Lustige Witwe, Franz Lehár, is little known here, but his work has had remarkable success on the Continent, the fascinating tunes finding a place in every household in Vienna, where the piece was originally produced. Miss Lily Elsie will appear in the title-rôle of the new piece, in the cast of which some changes are to be noted. Mr. Robert Evett, and not Mr. Louis Bradfield, is now to appear as the Marquis de Jolly Don; Miss Elizabeth Firth will have the rôle of the Marsovian Ambassador's wife, formerly allotted to Miss Maggie May, and Miss Nina Sevening has been added to the company.

Mrs. Langtry, having heard from Mr. David Belasco that he will not be able to stage her new American play in New York until Christmas, has decided to undertake a short season in London commencing in September, always providing she can find a play to her liking. To that end she is now spending most of her time reading manuscripts. Thus the rumour that the "Jersey Lily" intended to retire from the stage is obviously incorrect.

The Medea of Euripides, in Greek, will be performed under the direction of Professor Ernest Gardner, in the Botanical Theatre, at University College, on Thursday, June 13, and the following evening and afternoon. The cast will be drawn from the students of University and Bedford Colleges. Tickets will be sold to defray expenses, and should there be any surplus it will be devoted to academic purposes.

Miss Olga Nethersole has sent a cheque for five guineas to the Dick Mansel Fund.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Sweets to the Sweet.

Miss Ellen Terry has indeed gone through the theatrical mill. Mr. Christopher St. John, in "Stars of the Stage," referring to the little Ellen's appearance as Mamillius in The Winter's Tale, says, "The child's salary at the Princess's, which began at fifteen shillings a week, was, of course, handed over to her parents, and the financial results of her work were only represented to her by a weekly remittance of sweets, of which her dignity as an artist did not prevent her from being passionately fond. She had no holidays to speak of. She often rehearsed until long past midnight, and was scolded by Mrs. Kean if she showed the least sign of fatigue."

Would Shave if Necessary.

Mlle. Ghita Corri, the only vocalist of the present day whose range of voice extends from E in alto to G bass with no break in the voice, is an enthusiastic realist in the matter of make-up. "I leave," said she to a visitor from the Halifax Courier, "no single little detail missing. Many lady artists engaged in similar work I know sacrifice many essential details because it would detract from their personal appearance were they to adopt them. I know some who dress their hair one particular way because it suits them, and whatever character they were attempting to give their hair would remain as best became them. Now this is foolish in my opinion. Were it necessary to shave my head, to take a part properly, I would do so."

A Song of Spain.

Miss Corri is appearing as a Spanish girl, but up to a little while ago she had not real Spanish music. One day a Spanish friend called to see her and played an air on the piano which Miss Corri had not heard before. She was enraptured, and desired to secure the rights. There was only one way of getting this, viz., by sending to the author, who lived in Spain. It was eventually found that this would necessitate the despatch of a special messenger over the mountains; that it would occupy two-and-a-half months, as he could only travel at certain periods of the day owing to the heat, and that the cost would be great. The messenger was sent on his errand, nevertheless, and he took three months to accomplish the journey. Its title is "La Cigarrera," or "The Cigarette Maker." Miss Corri's punching blow is 350lb.

A Costly Move.

What is "claimed" to be the biggest building-moving ever undertaken is about to be begun in the case of the Montauk Theatre, Brooklyn, which is to be moved 300ft. from its present site to a new one, besides being turned round in the process. The first operation will be that of raising the building from its foundation to a height of one or more feet, when the moving will begin. This will be accomplished by means of about 1500 jacks and screws 2ft. in length, which will be worked by hand, seven revolutions of all the screws being required to raise the building 1in. The theatre, after being raised to the necessary height, is to be placed upon a steel structure directly under the ground floor. After the building has been raised and rests upon the steel framework it will be moved upon steel rollers, which will in turn revolve on tracks constructed of railroad iron.

About six weeks of preliminary work will be necessary to place the theatre upon this steel framework, and the moving will then be accomplished by fifty screws, each operated by one man, and requiring seven revolutions to each inch of progress made. The most difficult part of the entire undertaking will be to raise the theatre, owing to its thousands of tons of weight, the building being constructed entirely of brick and stone. The cost of the "move" will exceed 75,000 dollars.

Acting and Expression.

"An actress," says Dr. Emil Reich in an article in the Express, "makes a display of what is sweetest, deepest, and best. Expression, as infinite as the expressed sentiment or thought, requires a whole personality. A great actress, in bringing the adjectives, nouns, and verbs of her ankles, wrists, shoulders, and facial muscles to bear on the sentences of the text, writes thereby an immeasurably better commentary on the dramatic work than can any critic. Fascination is really nothing else than the art of expression. The female face, more mobile and more uncovered than the face of a man, allows of an endless variety of expression. And what power in expression! A great actress, like a great statue, reveals to you your own innermost secret, the one that has haunted you for years, and which you were unable to articulate. One switch of an agile muscle in her cheek, one turn of her head, or one movement of her eyebrows, may come like an electric flash over the abysses of Life."

Nice Curls.

"Always very jolly," says the Bystander, "and entirely without affectation, Mme. Melba takes little or no care of her voice. She possesses a Colonial accent, a peculiarly attractive laugh, fine eyelashes, and—her voice. Once, during one of her first seasons at Covent Garden, she was singing in Lucia when some false curls she was wearing fell unashamed to the ground. It was impossible to pick them up, so she went on singing, hoping that the then Prince and Princess, in their box near the stage, had not noticed. But afterwards the Princess said to her (very archly for Alexandra!), 'And they were such nice curls, too!'"

Shaw on Doors.

Mr. Bernard Shaw, in his recently republished "Dramatic Opinions and Essays," says:—"Stagecraft, after all, is very narrowly limited by the physical conditions of stage representation; but when one turns over the pages of The Second Mrs. Tanqueray, and notes the naïve machinery of the exposition in the first act, in which two whole actors are wasted on sham parts, and the hero, at his dinner party, is compelled to get up and go ignominiously into the next room to 'write some letters' when something has to be said behind his back; when one follows Cayley Drummle, the confidant to whom both Paula and her husband explain themselves for the benefit of the audience; when one counts the number of doors which Mr. Pinero needs in order to get his characters on and off the stage, and [notes] how they have finally to be supplemented by the inevitable "French windows" (two of them); and when the activity of the postman is taken into consideration; it is impossible to avoid the conclusion that what most of our critics mean by mastery of stagecraft is recklessness in the substitution of dead machinery and lay figures for vital action and real characters."

Mr. William Archer, in commenting on this in the Tribune, remarks:—"I do not deny that there are cases in which realism demands that the dramatist shall be content with one entrance to his scene, and no more. But where a room may quite naturally have two doors, or even two doors and a French window, it is mere folly to make it a technical point of honour to abstain from using them. Mr. Shaw's plays abound in rooms which have more than one door or other means of egress. In the cottage scene in Mrs. Warren's Profession there are two; there are three in the studio scene of The Doctor's Dilemma. I cite only those which I remember on the spur of the moment; but I remember no case in which Mr. Shaw, any more than Mr. Pinero, oversteps the limits of probability."

ROYAL GENERAL THEATRICAL FUND.

ANNUAL DINNER.

The Lord Mayor (the Right Hon. Sir William Treloar, J.P.), presided at the sixty-second annual dinner of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, held in the Whitehall Rooms of the Hotel Metropole on Thursday evening. His Lordship was supported by Mr. Edward Terry, Mr. George Alexander, Mr. Martin Harvey, Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., Sheriff Dunn, Colonel Clifford Probyn, Mr. H. J. Greenwood, Alderman Crosby, Mr. Theodore Lumley, Mr. J. C. Parkinson, Mr. A. Pulitzer; and others present were Mr. W. Ganz, Mr. C. T. Hemsley, Mr. H. Marriott, Mr. C. Cruikshanks, Mr. H. Evill, Mr. C. I. Coltson, Mr. F. Desprez, Mr. E. de Witt, Mr. C. J. Davies, Mr. Louis Roche, Mr. H. J. Loveday, Mr. C. Rock, Mr. H. Lazarus, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, Mr. T. Harris, Mr. W. H. Godfrey, Mr. P. Nash, Mr. C. Alias, Mr. C. Clarkson, Mr. Bannister Howard, Mr. H. Saintsbury, Mr. Basil P. Ellis, Dr. Allchin, Mr. T. Allchin, Mr. J. O. Schuler, Mr. Gordon Young, Mr. D. L. Mathias, Mr. H. J. Hughes, Mr. H. Hughes, Mr. D. Croker, Mr. W. Collier, Dr. Wilson, Mr. W. A. Blakemore, Mr. E. Morgan, Mr. H. Earle, Mr. G. Hast, Mr. B. Harris, Mr. C. N. Foreman, Mr. H. Le Forestier, Mr. H. Rabbetts, Mr. W. A. Collins, Mr. H. H. Oliver, Mr. W. J. Ebbetts, Mr. F. Blake, Mr. T. Maskall, Mr. W. Millwood, Mr. G. S. Edwards, Mr. C. C. Wakefield, Mr. A. H. Elliott, Mr. F. C. Marshall, Mr. W. Lumley, Mr. W. Whitehouse, Mr. C. Paget, Mr. F. B. O'Neil, Mr. P. Chatelant, Mr. Jules Ayer, Mr. J. T. Grundlay, Mr. J. W. Marchant, Mr. G. Scamell, Mr. E. Carpenter, Mr. H. R. Smith, Mr. S. Smith, Mr. D. Munroe, Mr. H. F. Smith, Mr. G. French, Dr. Grant, Mr. A. Warren, Mr. W. Hogg, Mr. C. K. Cooper, Mr. W. Borrodale, Mr. J. Bruce-Joy, Mr. S. Heilbut, Mr. E. Maddick, Mr. S. Butler, and Mr. M. R. Morand.

After the loyal toasts had been duly honoured,

The Lord Mayor, rising to propose the toast of "The Royal General Theatrical Fund," said:—There are two reasons why this fund should be supported. First of all, because it is not a charity—it is a fund which is instituted to help those who help themselves. It provides annuities for actors and actresses who subscribe to the fund; and it is a fund which appeals to all those who have so much enjoyed seeing actors and actresses on many occasions. No man in London knows better than I do how willingly actors and actresses assist the cause of charity. There is no one in London who has had a greater reason to thank actors and actresses than I have, and therefore it is with peculiar pleasure that I come here to-night to take the chair at this annual dinner. If by any word of mine I can induce any of you gentlemen to alter the amount which you have already put down I shall be very glad. The two reasons I have stated are quite sufficient to claim your attention to this toast, and there is no greater argument I can offer than that I have already given you. I am aware it does not want argument. Your coming here to-night has proved that you want to benefit this fund. I will ask you to drink the toast with enthusiasm, and to do the best you can to make it successful.

Mr. T. P. O'Connor, M.P., in submitting "The Drama," said: The toast of the drama is not a toast which requires any defence in an audience which consists of those who are either associated with the drama or are friends of it. The drama as an instinct in human life has existed in all times, and will exist to the end of all time. If I wanted a proof, I should find it in the fact that David danced before the Ark, and that the Lord Mayor led the "furry" dance in the streets of Cornwall, thus showing a natural and logical sequence between the wise man of the Jews and the present Chief Magistrate of London. The commentators of the time of the Greeks were constantly surprised at the fact that human beings who had enough of sorrow and trouble in their own lives were yet never so delighted as when they saw those sorrows and troubles represented in a most poignant fashion on the stage. That tendency also exists to-day. If you ask a large number of people if they have enjoyed a drama or not, the usual reply is that they had a good cry and they enjoyed themselves extremely. To-day, as in all time, the drama may be regarded as the most popular form of social, spiritual, and, I might even say, religious exhortation. A plea for a better life, for the kinder treatment of women, for a tenderer love and greater sympathy and indulgence between men, is not the less, but the more, effective because it happens to be couched in the form of a stage production which appeals to the desire for amusement as well as to a desire for exhortation. Therefore, I am rather surprised that even to-day some persons of a profoundly religious turn seem to think that the playhouse is still a trap for catching unwary and innocent souls. I hold to the gospel of Hamlet—

> The play's the thing
> Wherein I'll catch the conscience of the king.

By the king, I mean the masses of the people. If you take out three or four of the great epics of the world—Homer, Virgil, Dante, and Milton—and if you want to point to the masterpieces of literature, you come to the drama—Sophocles, Euripides, Shakespeare. These are the great names in the literature of the world, and these all were playwrights. There has never been in my experience an instance where a dramatist has presented a snobbish thing or a mean thing to the admiration of an audience. It may be that the ideas represented in melodrama are not true to life, but it is something for the dramatist that in the popular theatre he does try to bring that necessary consolation to us that virtue is always triumphant and vice is always defeated. The last fifty years of human history have been more remarkable for progress and achievements in many directions than any previous period. I have no doubt that the contemporaries of Shakespeare lamented the fact that instead of the sweet melodies of an earlier age they were content with such poor stuff as Romeo and Juliet, Hamlet, &c. Therefore, I do not attach too much importance to the jeremiads about the decay of the drama or literature. I am inclined to believe that the drama in this country and other countries in Europe is making enormous steps in advancement, and one of the steps is the greater broadening of the themes of the dramatist and the closer approach to life. I am not surprised that Ibsen has never been a great draw in this country. The ideas of the people of this country are normal and healthy. It is an excellent characteristic of the English people that they do not care to dwell on the morbid, or the unpleasant, or the diseased. But there is a fault of an opposite character, and that is a demand that life shall be described not as it is but as it should be. In my opinion, the drama, the novel, and every literary effort should describe life as it is, and not as it is supposed to be. The worst and the most demoralising of literature is "goody-goody." I am sure a greater number of people have been delivered over to the enemy of mankind by the Sunday-school literature than by the playhouse. I can scarcely consider myself a fanatical admirer of Shaw, considering the examples of Irish balderdash he presented in John Bull's Other Island. But everybody must acknowledge Mr. Shaw's claims—on his own behalf. And everybody must acknowledge that Mr. Shaw has done a great deal for the stage by enlarging its limits and by bringing into discussion on its boards many questions that had been hitherto avoided. Mr. Pinero, Mr. Jones, and Mr. Sutro have also done good work in a similar direction. Fifty years hence people will be lamenting that they did not live in our day. The drama is approaching more and more the mirror of human thought and human action which it is intended to be. I will now call upon to respond to this toast one of the ablest and most artistic actors of our time—Mr. Martin Harvey.

Mr. Martin Harvey, replying to the toast, said: I do not know why the genial secretary of this admirable Fund has singled me out for the honour of replying to this toast. I cannot conceive a more exquisite form of torture than to ask a man to reply to a toast when it has been proposed in such eloquent terms as only that speaker can command who has the good fortune to belong to the most eloquent race in the world. I can only suppose that Mr. Secretary Davis is having a tardy revenge upon me for my not being a member of this Fund. I will say at once that if I am still unregenerate it certainly is not for the want of efforts on his part to reform my constitutional improvidence. You all know La Fontaine's fable of the cricket and the grasshopper. The provident cricket (he who has joined the R.G.T.F.) has gathered together through the summer his little store for the winter, while the grasshopper, thoughtless of the cold days to come, has chirped his life away in the enjoyment of the summer days; and then the winter falls, and the cricket retires to his warm and well-lined quarters, and the grasshopper, feeling the chilly blast upon him, knocks at the door of the cricket for shelter and food. "And what have you been doing all the summer days," says the cricket. "I have sung," says the grasshopper. "Very well, then," comes the very proper retort, "now you can dance." And here we have the parable of the actor who does and the actor who doesn't join the R.G.T.F.; and the improvident old grasshopper looks about him when the door is shut in his face and finds that he is too old for Mr. George Edwardes to give him a dancing engagement. I am here to answer for the Drama; and a very serious duty it should be—because, of course, the drama is going to the dogs. It was going to the dogs when Marcus Aurelius was so bored with the comedies of his day that he read state-papers in his box. It was going to the dogs in the days of Shakespeare, who deplored, in the mouth of a player, the craze for the infant phenomena who were drawing the town. Garrick, in his day, saw no hope for its future, and the morning papers of our own time deplore the symptoms of its approaching demise. And who is to blame? The actor-manager, obviously. Is there not a conspiracy among actor-managers to keep out the untried dramatist? Does he not cut down every rôle in the play in order that his own may acquire the greater prominence? Is he not the worst judge of a play in this world? Preferring one which will give him a fine part, and which, though his own fortune may be at stake, he will prefer to play to empty benches rather than one which will afford him less opportunity as an actor but will fill the theatre? If he play Shakespeare, is it not because he refuses to encourage contemporary dramatic talent, and wishes to avoid author's fees? Shame on him! And if his artistic proclivities inspire him to attempt the noblest and the best, irrespective of cost and material reward, and if he then ruins himself and sees his theatre turned into a music hall, does it not serve him right for his unpardonable extravagance? Well, these are the arguments usually brought forward to account for this so-called decline of the drama. But let us not forget that, with few exceptions, all the remarkable and memorable plays of our time have been produced by this scapegoat, the actor-manager, and not infrequently what material rewards he has gained in their production have been swallowed up by the lack of support he has received when placing before the public work as carefully produced, as painfully considered, and as honestly believed in, as his more successful efforts. And may I venture to say that to please his public is not the actor-manager's sole aim. There is a worthier ambition than that. It is to please himself—i.e., to be true to his own artistic conscience; to attempt the thing which he knows to be the great thing and the noble thing, and the thing which he knows is due to the calling he respects. And this, believe me, gentlemen, he often does, sometimes without much hope of material reward. I am claiming no sentimental halo for the actor-manager. It is only what every other art and profession demands, and which is one of the sovereign remedies against that very decline which we have been touching upon. I mean the work which every artist and every professional man does for the sake of the calling he belongs to, and in order to uphold what is best in that work, irrespective of personal reward. I will only say, in conclusion, that I see no reason why the drama should decline while we actor-managers have before us the splendid ideal which Sir Henry Irving upheld. But what I would plead for among the young and brilliant band of coming managers I see rising in our midst is individuality. I would venture to say, "Follow your own road to the ideal, and not another man's. Try to find a road which shall be your road, and not one upon which you must imitate the footsteps of those who have gone before." May I apply to the drama the prayer which Kipling addressed to the art of painting in his "L'Envoi"?

> When Earth's last picture is painted, and the tubes are twisted and dried,
> When the oldest colours have faded, and the youngest critic has died,
> We shall rest, and, faith we shall need it—lie down for an æon or two,
> Till the Master of all good workmen shall put us to work anew.
> And those that were good shall be happy: they shall sit in a golden chair;
> They shall splash at a ten-league canvas with brushes of comets' hair;
> They shall find real saints to draw from—Magdalene, Peter, and Paul;
> They shall work for an age at a sitting and never be tired at all.
>
> And only the Master shall praise us, and only the Master shall blame;
> And no one shall work for money, and no one shall work for fame;
> But each for the joy of the working, and each, in his separate star,
> Shall draw the thing as he sees it for the God of things as they are!

Mr. Edward Terry, replying to the toast of the Fund, said: As honorary treasurer of the Royal General Theatrical Fund, I rise to make my annual address. I must say that it has always given me the greatest pleasure to speak at these meetings, because we are all here in a very good cause. The fund has a grand history. Very many big men in the past have occupied the chair, as the Lord Mayor is occupying it to-night—when we remember the names of men like Dickens, who presided twice over the annual gatherings of this fund—and I can only wish that I had been old enough to have joined with him in the speeches and the receptions on those occasions. The fund has for many years been doing a great and good work, and every year the power to do good work increases by the assistance we receive from gatherings such as these. We are doing a great good to the members of our profession who have fallen by the way, and many of us were not provident in our young days. We thought we should never get old. It is a very difficult thing to impress upon the young mind that there may come a time when it will be a good thing to have a little money laid aside to call upon when it is wanted. Our fund now grants annuities on the high scale of £120 a year on a very small outlay. It not only grants an annuity of £120 at a certain age, but after only seven years' payment. Should an actor or an actress fall by the way and become incapable of performing his or her duties, he or she immediately comes upon the fund, whether old or young, and can claim the annuity for life. I am dead against new funds—there was an idea of another fund being started—because I think this one does all that is possible as a provident fund, and another I have the honour of belonging to, the Actors' Benevolent Fund, does all that is possible in the benevolent way. We have during the history of the fund lost many good friends, actors whom we have loved and admired. Our poor friend Toole was one of our trustees, and a great friend of the fund, and since his departure we have, I am sure, elected one who will be a worthy successor—I refer to Mr. George Alexander. We have, as usual, to express our deep thanks to the House of Rothschild for their continued kindness and benevolence to us. We have also to be grateful to our King and Queen, who have always been good friends of the fund, and who remain annual patrons. I have to announce a few items of the subscriptions. Mr. N. M. Rothschild sends us seventy guineas; the Duke of Bedford, £50; Mr. C. C. Wakefield, fifty guineas; Mr. Claude Watney, £25; and Lord Burnham, £20. The total amount resulting from the Lord Mayor's presence to-night is the very handsome sum of £800. Having got over the statistics, I have now to propose the health of our chairman, the Lord Mayor. Where charity is concerned his year of office will be memorable. He has spared himself no time or trouble in the cause of charity. My Lord Mayor, we thank you very heartily for your kindness in coming here and presiding over us this evening, and doing your level best to promote the interests of the Royal General Theatrical Fund.

The Lord Mayor's health was then toasted with musical honours. His lordship, after briefly acknowledging the vote of thanks, proposed "The Musical Artists," paying a high compliment to those ladies and gentlemen. Chevalier Wilhelm Ganz suitably responded.

A very delightful programme of entertainment was provided, under the conductorship of Chevalier Wilhelm Ganz, the artists contributing being Mme. Alice Esty and chorus, Mlle. Suzanne Morival, Mr. Gregory Hast, Miss Constance Milestone, and Mr. Hamilton Earle.

"MAN AND SUPERMAN" REVIVED.

The Comedy, in Three Acts, by George Bernard Shaw, reproduced at the Court Theatre, on Monday, May 27.

Roebuck Ramsden	Mr. James Hearn
Octavius Robinson	Mr. Lewis Casson
John Tanner	Mr. Robert Loraine
Henry Straker	Mr. Edmund Gwenn
Hector Malone	Mr. Dennis Eadie
Mr. Malone	Mr. Edmund Gurney
Ann Whitefield	Miss Lillah McCarthy
Mrs. Whitefield	Miss Florence Haydon
Miss Ramsden	Miss Agnes Thomas
Violet Robinson	Miss Sarah Brooke
Parlour Maid	Miss Mary Hamilton

For the present the performance of the philosophic episode of Don Juan (John Tanner) in hell, which includes a characteristic Shavian disquisition on the evolution of morality as a passion, is deferred by Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker; but the audience at the Court on Monday evening was well content with Man and Superman as it was originally presented at the same theatre on May 23, 1905. As we then stated, the play is Shaw in excelsis, Shaw on the stump, with a very riot of topsy-turvy morality always in the forefront. The irony of the whole thing is that John Tanner—considered by Mr. Granville Barker, the original interpreter of the character, to be Mr. Shaw himself—finds the iron walls of conventionality too much for him, and easily capitulates to the studied simplicity of the orthodox Ann Whitefield, who pretends to be very shocked at Tanner's loud assertion of the irregular doctrine that—possessing the maternal instinct—woman has a right to seek motherhood in the way that seems to her best. The performance on Monday introduced a new John Tanner in the person of Mr. Robert Loraine, a young actor who played the part for the first time at the Hudson Theatre, New York, on Sept. 5, 1905, with great succes. The encomiums of the American Press on the performance were quite justified, for Mr. Loraine gives the remarkably long speech to Octavius Robinson in the first act with much variety of inflection, and his style reminds one strongly of Sir Charles Wyndham. He occasionally drops into an American accent, but it is not strongly marked. He acts throughout with rare spirit and humour. Miss Lillah McCarthy is as insinuating and as caressing an Ann Whitefield as ever, and shares with Mr. Loraine the chief honours. Mr. James Hearn, who takes the place of Mr. Charles Goodhart, the original Roebuck Ramsden, imparts all the irritability necessary to the protests of that monument of respectability, his continual outbursts of indignation in the first act being exceedingly funny. Mr. Edmund Gwenn, as 'Enery Straker, the chauffeur—the best-drawn individuality in the piece—resumes his original character, and the representation derives great advantage therefrom. Miss Sarah Brooke's sketch of Violet Robinson has lost nothing of its sharpness of outline or of its complete freedom from coquetry or romance. Mr. Edmund Gurney makes a genial Mr. Malone; Mr. Dennis Eadie presents a capable study of Hector Malone; Miss Florence Haydon sketches the portrait of the tearful widow, Mrs. Whitefield, with many natural touches; and Miss Agnes Thomas as the conventional spinster of the stern type is admirable. Mr. Lewis Casson does well as the lachrymose poet, Octavius Robinson.

RE-OPENING OF MALVERN THEATRE.

After extensive alterations, the Malvern Assembly Rooms Theatre was re-opened on Whit-Monday with Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Benson's company, who inaugurated the annual Shakespearean week. One of the most striking improvements is the provision of a new gallery to seat 400. The house has been supplied with handsome red and gold tip-up seats and magnificent tableau curtains, and the structural alterations made on the stage will allow of full-size theatre scenery being taken. A complete installation of electric light has been put in, and powerful electric fans will ensure adequate ventilation. A permanent orchestra is also provided.

During the week crowded audiences attended the plays, the house on several occasions being packed. Mr. Benson's programme was As You Like It, Othello, Coriolanus, The Tempest, Richelieu, She Stoops to Conquer, Richard II., and Much Ado About Nothing. At the conclusion of the performance on Saturday night laurel chaplets, bouquets, &c., were showered upon Mr. and Mrs. Benson and their company, who are paying their sixth visit to Malvern. Mr. Benson, in a farewell speech, referred to the improvements carried out by the new lessee, Mr. M. T. Stevens, and remarked he had transformed the building into a commodious and pleasant theatre, with every possible facility, an enlarged staff, and permanent orchestra.

For the summer season Mr. Stevens has arranged an attractive programme of promenade concerts, including the Follies, the Royal Strolling Players, &c., and excellent bookings have been made for the autumn.

Presentation.—In the saloon of the Pavilion Theatre on Saturday Mr. Charles Langdon, who for many years has ably directed the bars of the establishment, was presented with a purse of gold, which has been subscribed by many of the regular patrons. Mr. Cecil Paget made the presentation in his usual happy manner, and Mr. Isrgdon suitably responded, thanking all who had so handsomely contributed.

"MY WIFE."

Comedy, in Three Acts, adapted by Michael Morton from the French of Messrs. Gavault and Charnay, produced at the Haymarket Theatre, on Tuesday, May 28.

Gerald Eversleigh	Mr. Aubrey Smith
Hon. Gibson Gore	Mr. A. E. Matthews
Capt. Putnam Fuzby	Mr. E. W. Tarver
M. Dupré	Mr. Fred Lewis
Baron Granclos	Mr. H. De Lange
M. Valboure	Mr. Athol Stewart
M. Potin	Mr. P. Percival Clark
Davies	Mr. Holman Clark
Crocker	Mr. Patric Curwen
Head Waiter	Mr. Philip Knox
René Falandres	Mr. H. Marsh Allen
Beatrice Dupré	Miss Marie Löhr
Miriam Hawthorne	Miss Millie Legarde
Mrs. Denham Lane	Miss Gordon Walker
Baroness Granclos	Mlle. Marcelle Chevalier
Mme. Dupré	Miss Joy Chatwyn
Marie	Miss Adelaide Burt

MM. Gavault and Robert Charnay's comedy, Mademoiselle Josette Ma Femme, bears pretty well the process of adaptation; and the result of Mr. Michael Morton's manipulation of the amusing play—which is in the height if its prosperity after its production at the Gymnase Theatre last November—is a success. Certain requirements of the plot had to be met by introducing several French characters into the play; but the effect is advantageous, especially as the leading personage, the conscientious and honourable hero, is essentially British, and the Frenchmen in the piece are cleverly acted, and are not the mere caricatures of the "foreigner" which were once prevalent on the English stage. The pivot of the play is one of the most improbable that can be conceived; but the idea is so comically worked out that the effect is very droll, piquant, and agreeable. Beatrice Dupré, the ward of the almost middle-aged Gerald Eversleigh, is ordered by her parents to marry a man she detests, her affections being given to a certain youthful René Falandres, whom M. Dupré looks upon with unfriendly eyes. As "Trixie's" inheritance of a large fortune depends on her marrying before she is eighteen—which will be in two months—matters are urgent; especially as Falandres is suddenly called away to Morocco. So she proposes to Gerald that he shall contract with her a "marriage only in name." After a convenient time they can obtain a divorce, when she will be at liberty to marry Falandres. With great reluctance Eversleigh consents, and in the second act we find the happy pair staying at a Swiss hotel. A French lady-killer called M. Valboure makes love to Trixie in the romantic Gallic vein; but she gives him no excuse for advance, until a certain Baroness Granclos finds a letter from René to Mrs. Eversleigh full of the most ardent protestations. Emboldened by the discovery, Valboure attempts to embrace her, but is repulsed with indignation. Eversleigh enters, and the result is a duel, in which he is wounded in the little finger. At this juncture Monsieur and Mme. Dupré arrive unexpectedly from England, and, learning that their daughter and their son-in-law are occupying separate rooms, and finding Trixie in tears, they express their displeasure warmly. Exasperated by the "impossible" situation in which he finds himself, Eversleigh returns to London with the idea of resuming his old bachelor life; but Trixie, who has grown fond of him, and is cooling towards the absent Falandres, arrives and embarrasses him with endearments, which, bound by his agreement, he cannot honourably accept. The difficulty is removed by the arrival of Falandres, who has married while in Morocco, and is anxious to make amends to Eversleigh, who, on his part, considers himself in the wrong with regard to Falandres. There is an amusing scene when the two men, at separate tables, write out cheques for damages and present them each to the other. Eversleigh is the first to perceive his blunder, but refuses to accept compensation, and the play ends with Trixie becoming Eversleigh's wife in fact as well as in appearance.

My Wife was capitally acted at the Haymarket on Tuesday by a cast of considerable interest. The success of the evening was scored by Miss Marie Löhr, who played Beatrice Dupré in just the right tone and spirit, the impulsiveness of the charming ingénue being delightfully expressed, and the vivacious wilfulness of the "spoilt child" being made very winning and attractive. Miss Löhr's personal gifts were well suited to the character, and she enacted it very naturally and without effort or exaggeration. Mr. Aubrey Smith as Gerald Eversleigh was the ideal of a manly, conscientious English man-of-the-world, his solidity and firmness giving reality to the extravagant situations of the play. Mr. A. A. Matthews's Hon. Gibson Gore was exactly the type depicted; and so easy and accurate was the characterisation as to obscure the essential slightness of the part. Mr. E. W. Tarver was altogether satisfactory as Capt. Putnam Fuzby; and Mr. Fred Lewis's accent and manner as M. Dupré were admirable. He acted, too, with all the necessary energy, spirit, and humour. Mr. H. De Lange hit off the Baron Granclos cleverly; and Mr. Athol Stewart contributed a carefully-studied impersonation of a pale and polished Gaul as the aggressive M. Valboure, Mr. P. Percival Clark being easy and efficient as M. Potin. That always reliable artist, Mr. Holman Clark, supplied a pleasing portrait of a mild and benevolent butler; and Mr. Patric Curwen was commendable as Crocker, Mr. Philip Knox contributing a neat performance of the little rôle of the head waiter at the Swiss Hotel. Mr. H. Marsh Allen showed adaptability by the clever way in which he hit off René Falandres' nervous anxiety; and Miss Millie Legarde made an excellent impression by a very pleasing and intelligent embodiment of Miriam Hawthorne. Miss Gordon Walker was a praiseworthy Mrs. Denham Lane; and Mlle. Marcelle Chevalier gave a fine impersonation of a buoyant and buxom French-woman, Miss Joy Chatwyn being quietly effective as Mme. Dupré, and Miss Adelaide Burt excellent as Marie. Mr. Walter Hann's two scenes were fine examples of his practised art, the Mount St. Flat being exceptionally well furnished. My Wife had an enthusiastically favourable reception, and evoked very hearty laughter and applause. It was preceded, for the first time, by a comedy, in one act, by Keble Howard, entitled

"MARTHA PLAYS THE FAIRY."

Martha	Miss Carlotta Addison
A Neighbour	Miss Lydia Rachel
Monica	Miss Dagmar Wiehe
The Curate	Mr. E. W. Tarver
The Squire	Mr. Holman Clark

This was a kind of "sequel" to Compromising Martha, the loves of the Curate and Monica being further developed by the introduction of Monica's father, the Squire, who objects to the proposed match. He is, however, cleverly managed by Martha, who induces him to conceal himself in her cupboard, where he hears the Curate, prompted by the old woman, express the highest opinion of him. Pleased and flattered, the Squire is mollified; and when Martha threatens to make public in the village the cupboard incident, with certain ridiculous details, the Squire, to buy her silence, accepts the Curate as his son-in-law. Miss Dagmar Wiehe was vivid, alert, and prepossessing as Monica; and Mr. E. W. Tarver, Miss Carlotta Addison, and Miss Lydia Rachel were again unimpeachable as Martha, the Curate, and the Neighbour, personages revived from the earlier play. Mr. Holman Clark contributed a clever and unforced interpretation of the rather weak-minded magnate; and Mr. Bruce Smith's cottage interior was once more admired.

"CLOTHES AND THE WOMAN."

Comedy, in Three Acts, by George Paston, Produced at the Imperial Theatre, on Sunday, May 26th.

Robina Fleming	Miss Wynne Matthison
Mrs. Desmond	Miss Darragh
Ethel Warrender	Miss Muriel Ashwynne
Dr. Lomax	Mr. Trevor Lowe
Jim Bradley	Mr. Reginald Eyre
Claude Goring	Mr. Charles Maude
Colonel Brereton	Mr. Wilfred Draycott
Mrs. Henslowe	Miss Emmerson
Bob Henslowe	Mr. Donald Calthorp
Mrs. Pemberton	Miss Florence Haydon
Mrs. Pershore	Miss Kate Harwood
Maid	Miss Irene Edwards

"George Paston's" play, which was presented by the Pioneers at the Imperial Theatre on Sunday evening, is bright, lively, and amusing, with a dash of thought and theory thrown in. It is a satire on the influence of dress and appearance upon man's estimate of woman and on his attitude to her. "That's what you fell in love with!" says Robina Fleming to her admirers; and she pulls out of a cupboard her Parisian costume, her "switches" and transformation, and all the paraphernalia of female adornment. There is much to be said, of course, on the other side of the case. "The man who does not mind his belly," said Dr. Johnson, "will never mind anything else"; and the woman who does not try to make the best of her physical gifts may be convicted of a kind of egoism more offensive even than personal vanity. Robina has her excuses. She had to labour hard for her living as a compiler of trashy tales, and now that she has made money she realises that she has never "had her hour." Her old friend, Mrs. Desmond, a smart and slightly cynical widow, takes Robina in hand. She makes her change her mud-coloured blouse, her plain skirt, and her easy shoes for a radiant toilet from Dover-street and shoes some sizes too small for her. Her waist is compressed by a close corset; colour is given to her cheeks by a certain "invisible fluid"; and her hair is embellished by some expensive falsities. Then Robina is let loose on society, and soon turns the heads of all the eligible men whom she meets. A young artist who had formerly looked upon her only as a friend falls in love with her, and wants to break off his engagement to a pretty simpleton named Ethel Warrender for Robina's sake; and the noted explorer, Colonel Brereton, Mrs. Desmond's particular admirer, transfers his allegiance to the beautiful and witty newcomer. Both the women protest against this wholesale annexation; and Robina, whose heart is quite free, promises to cure the artist and the explorer of their infatuations. This she does by getting them to call upon her in her old apartments, where she appears to them as the old unadorned, dowdy hack novelist. The artist immediately returns to his Ethel, and the Colonel gives Robina a severe "talking-to" about her intellectual selfishness. The two suitors, however, are got rid of, and Robina ultimately accepts a shrewd and kindly young doctor, who, however, stipulates on a moderate amount of seemliness in her exterior. Clothes and the Woman is brightly and pleasantly written, and some of the lines are extremely neat; and though the tone of the play is appropriately light, there were touches here and there of serious ethical argument. It was very well acted, Miss Wynne Matthison heroically obscuring her charms by an effective make-up in the first act, to blaze out triumphantly in the second in a scarlet costume and a big hat. The part was an easy one for an actress of Miss Matthison's ability, and she played it with plenty of point and an entire absence of effort, which left nothing to be desired. Miss Darragh hit off exactly the good-naturedly indifferent Mrs. Desmond, looked the part quite well, and acted it à merveille. Miss Muriel Ashwynne did full justice to the half-affected sweetness and vapid simplicity of Ethel Warrender; and Mr. Trevor Lowe gave firm, clear, and decided interpretation to the rôle of Dr. Lomax. Mr. Reginald Eyre's Jim Bradley was a brisk, natural, and active embodiment; and Mr. Charles Maude suggested very cleverly the fanciful sentiment of Claude Goring. Mr. Wilfred Draycott was, of course, unimpeachable as Colonel Brereton; and Miss Emmerson was excellent as Mrs. Henslowe, Mr. Donald Calthorp doing good work as Bob Henslowe, and Miss Florence Haydon being quietly amusing as Mrs. Pemberton. Special praise is due to Miss Kate Harwood for her very happy creation of a genteel lodging-house keeper; and Miss Irene Edwards was efficient as the Maid. Clothes and the Woman, which was ably produced by Mr. Norman McKinnel, was preceded by a play in one act by Miss Diana Cholmondeley, given for the first time, and entitled

"A MAN'S FOES."

Daniel Pengelly	Mr. Edmund Gurney
Hannah Pengelly	Miss Clare Greet
Alison Pengelly	Miss Nora Lancaster
Will Marriott	Mr. Athol Stewart

This proved to be a condensed and powerful, if rather gloomy, little drama, and was chiefly remarkable for a clever sketch of a female dipsomaniac, Hannah Pengelly, the wife of Daniel Pengelly, a fine old Cornish fisherman, head of a lifeboat crew. Hannah has been induced by her husband, who is a total abstainer and very religious, to take the pledge; but, at the end of a year, she breaks out, and in order to obtain drink steals the contents of a bottle of whisky which is kept in the lifeboat shed. Jan, her son, comes home in a vessel which is cast on the rocks in the bay; and when the lifeboat crew arrive at the wreck they find him utterly exhausted. Stimulant might save him; but the bottle is empty, and the lad dies before they return to shore. When the mother learns what her indulgence has cost, she falls dead of the shock, Daniel proclaiming solemnly, "It was a judgment!" That excellent actor Mr. Edmund Gurney gave a very deep, strong, and serious representation of Daniel Pengelly; and Miss Claire Greet, in a part a little overweighted, perhaps, with "visions," supplied an acutely conceived and carefully worked-out picture of an inebriate recovering from a debauch—irritable, contentious, and despairing. Miss Nora Lancaster was a picturesque and gentle Alison Pengelly; and Mr. Athol Stewart was vigorously passionate and warmly emotional in the character of Will Marriott. The piece, produced by Mr. Charles Rock, went well, its dramatic qualities outweighing its gloom.

Presentation.—On Saturday last, Mr. W. J. Andrews, the resident-manager of the Theatre Royal, Huddersfield, was the recipient of a handsome silver cigarette-case and a thousand cigarettes from Mr. Eade Montefiore, whose company was playing at the theatre in the evergreen Streets of London. The case was suitably inscribed to commemorate a record week's business.

Mr. Wilhelm Russell, who has conducted the Mansfield Grand Theatre band since the opening of the place, has been appointed conductor of the orchestra at the new St. James's Theatre, Long Eaton.

At the Opera House, St. Helens, Lancs., on Tuesday, was produced for copyright purposes a play entitled As Your Hair Grows Whiter, by Herbert Fuller.

The King and Queen and Princess Victoria were present at the performance of Die Meistersinger at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Thursday.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—The chief item here this week is Rosina Caselli and her midget canines, whose clever feats meet with loud applause; Johnny Walker, comedian, is well received; the Sisters Geretti give a clever and graceful gymnastic act; Tom H. Wood contributes songs illustrated by limelight pictures; Cecilia Maude is a sprightly comedienne; Arthur Astill, farmyard mimic, creates great amusement; and Wilson and Waring are seen in A Bit of Nonsense. "The Blind Beggar's Dog" series of Bioscope pictures is highly appreciated.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Harry Thorpe and Zoe Coe, with their comic episode, My Burglar, have scored a big success; equally entertaining are the Kimberley Boys, their singing, dancing, and witty sayings making them especial favourites; Russell Carr is an accomplished ventriloquist, and Canard a weird contortionist. J. C. Crawley sings many military songs in capital style; and Ethel Dove is a charming comedienne. The pictures are good.

WEDNESBURY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. T. Kuner.—Miss Augusta Tullock and London company, in the drama, entitled The End Crowns All are here. Prince Borinsky is manfully portrayed by Mr. Roy Milton; Lord Arthur Lyndhurst is in the safe keeping of Mr. Arthur Plummer; Mr. Edward Vivian gives a clever interpretation of Clifford Barrington; Ivan Spava is effectively rendered by Mr. Max Coutts; and as John Stubbs, the circus clown, Mr. George Byrne evokes roars of laughter; Mr. Donald Stuart is well suited as Edwin Romaine; a well studied part is that of Lola Ivanwitch, ably presented by Miss Amber Wyville; and loud applause is accorded Miss Augusta Tullock for her clever representation of Vera Romaine.

WEST BROMWICH. — THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. Harding Thomas; Manager, Mr. Richard Nightingale.—The boards are occupied this week by Mr. A. Campbell-Kelly's company, in the drama, The Trail of the Serpent. Mr. Henry K. Penn does full justice to the part of Sir Gerald Kingston, whose son, Gerald, is ably sustained by Mr. A. Campbell-Kelly. As Ralph Hammond Mr. Frank Lyndon is all that could be desired; Mr. J. R. Tyrill does well in the character of William Higgins; Mr. John Cullen plays the part of Gipsy Jake with great force; Miss Jennie Risley makes a fine Rose Wilson; Ethel Maynard having a clever exponent in Miss Phyllis Elton; while Miss Nana Cameron scores in the part of Rachel.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Lessee, Mr Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert E. Feather.—Mr. Fred J. Webb's company in The Hour of Her Triumph is here. Mr. Leslie Hawkins in the rôle of Harold Clavering plays well; the heavy work is ably performed by Mr. Fred J. Webb, in the part of Eugene Harbury; splendid character acting is executed by Miss Lailah Price in the somewhat difficult part of Sal Soaker; Miss Barbara Gott scores a success as Rose Denton; and some genuine comedy is served at the hands of Mr. Louis Nanton as Ben Brodie.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—Some artistic poses are introduced in Chas. Raymond's living study in sculpture; laughter uncontrollable is the result of Bennett and Martell's comedy play; Will Vay's Juveniles, in Life in the Slums, depict mirth and pathos; Madie Scott, a dainty comedienne, wins golden opinions for her quaint style; Leotard Bros. are clever staircase performers, but as hat throwers they excel; Ted Wooton, comedian, is amusing; Maudie Ford provides a clever turn in sand dancing; and the pictures are extra humorous.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE. — KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE. — Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Wm. Fraser Brunner's company is here in The Superior Miss Pellender. Miss Gwennie Fraser Brunner gives an artistic interpretation of Miss Pellender; Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh is exceptionally good as Mrs. Pellender; Miss Marie Ault as Edith and Miss May Staples as Nancy are both entitled to unstinted praise; Mr. Wm. Fraser Brunner gives an exceedingly clever impersonation of Mr. Tister; and Mr. Ellis D. Carlyle evokes much laughter by his humorous delineation of Noel. The piece is preceded by Sweet Violets.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—The Gaieties are here once more, and are proving more popular than ever. Mr. Wilson James is an excellent comedian, and his song, "My Venice girl," is loudly encored; Mr. Charles Conyers greatly pleases the audience with his humorous sketch, Euclid; Mr. P. Watson sings with expression "Autumn love"; Miss B. Jeffreys possesses a beautiful voice which is heard to advantage in "A song of Andalusia"; Miss Wilson sings very prettily "Au revoir my little Hyacinth." An operatic burlesque entitled The Rival Brigands is given, in which all the above artists distinguish themselves. The Austrian Blue Band is a great attraction; and some new pictures are shown on the Lens Bioscope.

VICTORIA HALL.—Manager, Mr. E. W. Sully.—Miss Louie Freear and party, under the direction of Mr. Donald Arthur are here. Miss Louie Freear meets with quite an ovation for her songs, "P.C. Smith" and "The Twiddly Bits," and is screamingly funny in the farcical absurdity, Snooks. Mr. Harry A. Gribben is loudly applauded for his song, "Sympathy"; Mr. Edwin Bennett does well in his character sketches from Dickens's works; Miss Belle Green's imitations of children are well received; Mr. Stephen Bond's fine voice is heard to advantage in "Sally in our alley"; Mr. Vivian Foster is exceptionally good in his humorous sketch; Mr. Edward Brightwell's pianoforte solo finds great favour.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—Dr. Walford Bodie, supported by a fine variety company, is paying a return visit to Stanley this week, after an absence of three years. The doctor, who received quite an ovation on his appearance, moved the audience, first to tears, and then to laughter, and retired amidst great applause. Miss Bella Skene is a smart burlesque actress and vocalist; Little Dolly Robson well deserves the name of the Child Wonder; Belford and Mars give a refined and amusing turn, being singers and dancers of no mean merit. Mr. Tom N. Mills is a capital vocalist, and is correctly termed "The Real John Bull"; Mr. T. Duriah is a good comedian; The Musical Acmes are responsible for a highly amusing turn; Binks' Blunder is a funny comedy sketch, well played by Russell and Reed's company.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Wigan Entertainments Co.—The Manxman has been produced before sympathetic audiences during the week by Mr. Alfred B. Cross's company. Mr. Alfred B. Cross as Pete, and Miss Minnie Watersford as Kate Cregeen take premier honours for able expositions of their respective characters; and Mr. Sydney C. Kearns as Philip Christian, and Mr. Frank Etheridge as Cæsar Cregeen play the parts most commendably. On Friday Miss Minnie Watersford received a complimentary benefit, when a new emotional domestic play, entitled Divorced, was presented.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—Menotti, "the Stockholm wonder," and the Waldrons, in the absurdity, The Silly Burglar, have an excellent reception; and Fox and Melville, in illustrated song, Boden and Bell, vocalists and dancers, Phern and Phern, in a musical mélange, and Louis Vincent, ventriloquist, are also capital turns. The Custances, in a comedy act, Great Reglus, juggler, Fred Roden, in character songs, the Wheelers, cyclists, and Hastings and Fields, dancers, &c., also contribute.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Mr. Claude Ginnett and company are here this week, presenting Dick Turpin's Ride to York. Mr. Ginnett as Dick Turpin does excellently; Mr. Richard Hull typically acts the character of Tom King; Mr. Sam Frantz does well as Simon Sharpscent, as does Mr. C. Ginnett, jun., as Sammy Sharpscent; Mrs. C. Ginnett deserves a full measure of praise for her excellent delineation of the character of Susan Truelove; Messrs. Frank Walker and Tom Keene are alike excellent as Jerry and Dare Darrell; Mr. R. Hulland admirably presents the character of Luke Rookwood. The following variety turns all add to the general enjoyment: Lasma and Mlle. Delouri, in a society gymnast act; Florence Carlow, comedienne and dancer; Dan Noble, comedian; the Bros. Palboni, patterers; Harry Pearson's Bioscope; Marie York, comedienne; and the sketch, The Cockney Sportsman.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. C. W. Collings.—This week the following have appeared:—The Three Behans, refined comedy artists, who are great favourites; Mr. J. H. Kavanagh, a clever descriptive vocalist; the Sisters Lingard, pleasing vocalists and dancers; Miss Zelda, in her up-to-date musical act; Mr. Wal Owen, "the comedy man," in A Bit of Blarney; and the Electric Animated Tableaux.

YORK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—Mr. Will White's company is here in The New World. Mr. Victor Rae as the old gambler gives a character-study full of human interest; Mr. Albert H. Clarke is excellent as Joe Wilhams; and the villainies of Jim Rawling is capitally portrayed by Mr. W. S. Stevenson. Miss Beatrice Moore is most interesting as Jenny, playing with much skill. Willie Hicks, and Bass and Guinness do some clever music hall turns.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Marie Loftus has delighted all this week by her clever sketches; Tery and Lambert have gained hosts of admirers for their clever business, and the dancing of Brull and Hemsley has been a notable item. George Westland is a really funny Scotch comedian, and Mayme Cannon is a great attraction. The Burnells, Adey North, Millie Gordon, and the Bioscope complete the bill.

"HEBER SAYELL."

A Play, in One Act, by Dorothea Wilson Barrett, Played for the first time on any stage at the Prince's Theatre, Bristol, on Friday, May 24.

Heber Sayell .....MR. WILLIAM MACLAREN
Laurie Gates .....MISS LILY C. BANDMANN
Matthew Nash .....MR. F. OWEN CHAMBERS
Mrs. Sayell .....MISS PHENA POWELL

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

At the rising of the curtain the living room at Holt Farm is discovered, and we learn from a conversation between Mr. Sayell and Matthew Nash that, in consequence of a prolonged absence of rain, the crops on the farm are in great danger of being totally destroyed. Mrs. Sayell goes on to say that this has caused her son Heber to be fearfully despondent, they being on the verge of ruin, and that the loss of the crops which, in the event of rain, might possibly be saved, would prevent his marrying Laurie Gates, to whom he had been engaged for a considerable time. Laurie Gates now enters, and is warmly received by Mrs. Sayell, and, both Mrs. Sayell and Matthew Nash having left, Heber enters, evidently fatigued by hard work. The young people greet each other affectionately, and the conversation drifts into the all-absorbing topic of the continued drought. Heber, with much feeling, tells of his struggles to counteract the effect of his continued misfortunes in the loss of crops. Laurie tries to soothe him, and bids him pray and hope for success. He, however, becomes excited, and as nothing but a very heavy and continuous rain can possibly save him from bankruptcy, he in despair seizes a loaded gun standing conveniently in a corner, and is about to end his life. Laurie also seizes the gun, and while they are struggling we hear heavy rain pattering apparently on the roof of an adjacent shed or stable. Heber rushes to the door, and says it is only a passing shower, but the rain increases, and the sky is dark, and they kneel down to thank Providence for saving the crops, and thus enabling them to consummate their happiness by marriage. The little play is well written, and it is interesting so far as it goes.

Mr. Maclaren, made up capitally as a hard-working young farmer, acted with considerable power as Heber; Miss Bandmann depicted Laurie as a loving and unaffected country girl with much success; and the parts of Mrs. Sayell and Matthew Nash were cleverly taken by Miss Phena Powell and Mr. F. Owen Chambers. The staging of the room at Holt Farm was just what it should be, and the downpour of rain was very realistic. Heber Sayell is understood to be the first attempt of Miss Wilson Barrett, a daughter of the late eminent actor, and its success at the first performance should encourage her to try something more ambitious.

REGENT'S PARK FETE.

Under the patronage of Field-Marshal the Duke of Connaught an illuminated garden fête was held on the evening of the 24th (Empire Day) in the grounds of the Royal Botanic Society at Regent's Park in aid of the funds of the Legion of Frontiersmen. Sir Henry Seton-Karr, chairman of the executive committee, opened the fête, and, the weather being fine, the gathering proved a great success for all concerned. It was estimated that the attendance numbered upwards of 2000. The charming grounds were illuminated by thousands of lamps, the general effect being extremely picturesque. There was no lack of attractions, and some of them were of a novel and interesting character. Illustrations of "The Duel in all Ages," given under the direction of Captain Alfred Hutton and Captain Graham Hope, assisted by Sir Frederick Pollock, Bart., Mr. Egerton Castle, and some fifty other well-known swordsmen, attracted much attention. The duellists were in costume, and the weapons used included all kinds of swords and daggers. The contestants displayed great skill, and their mimic combats were conducted with great spirit. Another attractive display was by the Japanese School of Ju-Jitsu, under the direction of Mr. F. R. Wolseley.

Previous to her much-regretted illness Miss Lena Ashwell had organised a dramatic and musical entertainment to take place in the Conservatory Pavilion, and an excellent programme was contributed to by a number of well-known artists. The Bivouac and Camp Fire Concert, under the direction of Lieut-Col. D. P. Driscoll, D.S.O., proved one of the most interesting items in the programme. The horses having been picketed, the men of the Legion assembled round the cheerful camp fire; and, after supper had been served, tales were told and songs were sung. The audience was entertained by some distinguished artists, Mr. Richard Green receiving much applause for his fine rendering of a capital ditty entitled "Cheers," with a chorus that was taken up with enthusiasm. Mr. C. Stuart Edwards also did well with "The Song of Empire," and other vocalists included Mr. Leslie Stiles and Mr. Horace Burnage. Then came a sudden alarm, there was a sound of firing in the distance, and the men hurried to their horses. However, it was only a false alarm, and the troopers returned to camp to join in a stentorian rendering of the National Anthem.

Amongst minor attractions were a "Punch and Judy" show, "All the fun of the fair," with shooting galleries, "Aunt Sally," and other diversions. Music was supplied by the band of the Coldstream Guards, under the direction of Bandmaster Lieut. Mackenzie-Rogan, and Mr. Angelo Asher's string band, conductor Mr. J. H. Alexandra.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

THE staff of the Gaiety Theatre, Glasgow, held their first annual outing on Sunday, the place selected being Inverkip. The party, to the number of sixty, travelled by special train from St. Enoch to Greenock, where coaches were in waiting, and the journey to Inverkip was completed by road. Magnificent weather favoured the trippers, and the drive was thoroughly appreciated. Dinner and tea were served in the Tontine Hotel, Greenock, and after dinner a drive took place to Wemyss Bay, the return home being begun at 6.30.

MR. IKE TROCHMAN, one of the Yiddish stage-hands at the Pavilion, was accorded a benefit on Monday night at St. George's Town Hall, Stepney, when the whole of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company gave an entertainment under the direction of Mr. Sigmund Feinman.

THE staff and friends of the Pavilion Theatre held a supper, followed by a concert on Tuesday night, at the Duke's Head, Whitechapel-road, to mark the closing of the season. The guests, to the number of nearly fifty, sat down to a sumptuous repast, under the presidency of Mr. Fred Brown. The toasts of the Pavilion, Ltd., and the chairman were drunk with acclamation, and an excellent entertainment was given. Great praise is due to the hon. secretary of the affair, Mr. Chas. Briggs, for his energetic labours in bringing this function to its successful issue.

THE Sports Committee met last Saturday, and the list of events was finally completed. The list is as published in The Era of May 18, with the addition of a 100yds. running handicap for boys under twelve years of age, sons of employees eligible to compete in the sports. It has been decided that the price of admission to the ground shall be 6d. Tickets admitting to the ground, grand stand, and stand enclosure will be 2s. 6d., 1s. 6d., and 1s., and may be obtained at 6d. less in each case if purchased before the day. Entry forms and bills may now be obtained on application from the hon. secretary, at 29, Wellington-street, Strand. (Telephone No. 8753.) The committee are anxious to secure the assistance of members of the staff at every music-hall and theatre in the Metropolitan area.

THE Sports Committee hope that, in view of the fact that the Dublin team will not compete in the tug-of-war competition this year, the staff at every London theatre or hall will make up a team to compete for The Era Shield, which has not yet been won by a London team. The Sports Committee are inviting stage-managers to help to make this competition one of the most attractive items. Another team competition, which ought to have the support of each staff, is the "Relay Race," for the handsome silver challenge cup presented the year before last by Mr. C. Aubrey Smith. The present holders are the Daly's Theatre Team.

THE award has not yet been delivered to the Employees' Association, but it has been decided that a meeting of members will be held and the award printed for distribution as soon as possible.

AT a meeting of the General Staff Branch, N.A.T.E., on Wednesday, it was decided to hold the adjourned annual meeting of members as soon as possible after the issue of the Arbitrator's award, and to report thereon, and to proceed with the election of the committee and officers for 1907-8. Nominations for the committee and the various offices may still be sent in. It was decided to give all possible support to the Theatrical Sports.

PAYING THE CHORUS.

At Woolwich, on Wednesday, before Judge Willis, K.C., Mr. George Dance was the plaintiff in an action brought against Mr. Clarence Sounes, late proprietor of the Grand Theatre, Woolwich, which has now been converted into a music hall with the title of the Hippodrome, under the management of Mr. Walter Gibbons. Plaintiff was travelling with a company playing The Beauty of Bath, and he agreed to bring the company to the Grand Theatre, Woolwich, for last Easter week. Plaintiff was to have 65 per cent. of the gross takings for providing an "efficient company," and the defendant was to have the balance of 35 per cent. for providing the theatre and all the local expenses. The company were to have played at Swindon the week previously, but as it was Holy Week the local theatre proprietor cancelled the engagement. The company were, therefore, on the well-known theatrical custom of "no play no pay," not paid their salaries. On arrival at Woolwich on the Easter Monday the choristers of the company, twenty-three in number, were with difficulty persuaded to appear on the stage, as they claimed their salary for the previous week. On the following evening (Tuesday), when the house was packed and everything was ready to begin, the choristers "struck," positively refusing to fulfil their parts unless the previous week's money was paid. The audience showed signs of impatience, and as matters looked like becoming unpleasant, the defendant paid the chorus the money they claimed, £31 11s. 6d., and the play proceeded. At the end of the week Mr. Sounes, the present defendant, deducted this amount from the plaintiff's share. The total receipts for the week were £465 0s. 9d.

Mr. Dance now claimed the amount which he maintained had been improperly deducted. In his evidence he said that the defendant's proper course, if he felt that there had been any breach of the agreement, was to return the public their money, shut up the theatre, and sue for the breach of contract. When his manager, Mr. Newton, reported the circumstance to him, he said that he considered it was a piece of intimidation and blackmail on the part of the members of the chorus, and that he was a man of position and prepared to abide the consequences. For the defendant to pay the chorus was a piece of unwarrantable interference with his (plaintiff's) business. He was an employer of 1,000 theatrical people, and his business would be at an end if such interferences took place.

Defendant said that he was on the horns of a dilemma, and paid the chorus to prevent the theatre being closed.

The learned Judge said he was bound by the terms of the contract that the plaintiff was to receive 65 per cent., and he found for the plaintiff for the amount claimed.

"GENIUS, LIMITED."

A Comedy, in Three Acts, by Mrs. W. Christie Gilmer, produced at the Byfeld Hall, Barnes, on Wednesday, May 29.

F. Farquhar-Forestier ..MR. WERNAM S. RYOTT
James Dalziel .....MR. R. MUNRO

Mrs. Herbert .....MRS. W. CHRISTIE GILMER

Had we not been made acquainted with the identity of the author of Genius, Limited, it would have been quite apparent to us that it was written by a woman. The feminine note runs as a kind of main artery through the whole piece. Some of the sentiments and some of the phrases put into the mouth of one or other of the male characters, are so feminine that one can hardly believe a man could have uttered them. But, for all that, and in spite of certain defects, Genius, Limited, provides a pretty little story, although the three acts could with advantage be compressed into the limits of a sketch or curtain-raiser.

We are afraid that what we may call the personal equation has not been altogether absent from the writing and construction of Mrs. Gilmer's play. However, we can leave that point in order to indicate the tale the lady has to tell. Mrs. Herbert keeps a private boarding establishment at Brighton, where she has the assistance of Winsome, her niece and adopted daughter, whose real name is Davis. Mrs. Herbert writes plays under the pen-name of "Nemo," and these plays are negotiated, from the business point of view, by Gerald Beamish, a middle-aged lawyer, who is really in love with the middle-aged authoress. The bad man in the play is one F. Farquhar-Forestier, who, we are informed, is a wealthy amateur author, actor, and manager, who has exploited several of Mrs. Herbert's plays through Beamish. We are given to understand that Forestier has himself written plays, or, rather, passed other people's off as his own; but in order to prevent any secrets of this nature being divulged, an agreement is arrived at between the two men, whereby the person who reveals the authorship shall forfeit £1000. Forestier has brought to England an American actress, named Nelda Bouverie, who makes a great hit in Mrs. Herbert's latest play, entitled David and Jonathan. On the night of production the audience is so moved that there is a demand for the author. With the coolness and audacity which have characterised his conduct all along, Forestier appears before the footlights, and humbly bows his acknowledgments of the applause, taking credit for the work which has given evidence of such transcendental genius. He is, however, exposed, and his schemes in the direction of love-making and financial sharp practices, checked. The middle-aged heroine accepts her lawyer lover, and when one reaches such a happy stage as that, one need not go further into the story.

The presentation of the play by a company of amateurs, was, all things considered, satisfactory. Unquestionably, the best-acted character was that of Forestier, and great credit is due to Mr. Wernam S. Ryott for a really capital portraiture of the impudent, self-possessed, and conceited American "amateur author and manager." Mrs. W. Christie Gilmer, the authoress, was a quiet, unassuming, and affectionate Mrs. Herbert; and Miss Daphne Hogben acted with grace and charm in the rôle of Winsome. That young lady's lover, James Dalziel, as represented by Mr. R. Munro, was anything but graceful in his movements. Mr. Munro spoke his lines fairly well, but his attitudes were awkward and ungainly. Mrs. Paul Gilmer gave a spirited and amusing impersonation of a retired trademan's wife, with a distinct Irish brogue; and the part of the worthy lady's husband had a capable representative in Mr. William Marshall. Mr. Edwin H. Jeffrey simulated the lawyer-lover in commendable fashion; and Mr. Phil Faulkner was a vigorous, breezy, and sprightly Sammy Corcoran. Mrs. Mackintosh made a vivacious American actress; and Miss Ada Dresser as the governess, Miss Marshall as the housemaid, and Mrs. Daniels as the cook, capably sustained their rôles.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

THE dispute between Mlle. Trouhanowa, the ballerina who appeared in Salomé, and Herr Richard Strauss has caused great merriment in theatrical circles here. It should be remembered that in Paris it is against all etiquette for an author or composer to come before the curtain. But where strangers are concerned the line is not drawn so fine, and when Herr Strauss responds to the call nobody finds fault with him, and the French audience joins heartily in the applause. Now we learn that Mlle. Trouhanowa has tendered her resignation to Herr Strauss, and she gives her reasons in a letter reproduced by the Paris Press. It is as follows:—"Yesterday, at the fourth representation of Salomé M. Richard Strauss informed me that he would not allow me to make my bow to the public at the close of the performance. The danse, he says, is an inferior art, not worthy of such a distinction. I replied that it is less inferior than the 'pose' of a man of talent who considers it necessary to come every night before the curtain.—Trouhanowa." The opinion of the Paris Press is that whereas Mlle. Trouhanowa has talent and is pretty, and Herr Strauss only has talent, it is pleasanter to see her before the curtain than the composer of Salomé.

MLLE. GERALDINE FARRAR scored a genuine success as Elisabeth in Tannhäuser. For a long time we did not hear the rôle so well interpreted. MM. Alvarez and Noté shared with her the honours of the evening. I am informed that Mlle. Farrar has signed an engagement for next year with the new management of our Opéra.

"LA PATRONNE," writes our Paris correspondent, "is the title of a three-act play by MM. Spitzmuller and Geutton recently produced at the Théâtre Molière, Paris. Mme. Mezerel has lost her husband, who was at the head of a big manufactory, and she manages the business while devoting herself to the education of her son Oliver. When the story opens things look promising, for the concern is not only yielding large profits, but the lady is decorated with the Legion of Honour. Then follows trouble. The men demand higher wages, and go out on strike. Their leader, Barnin, comes to see Mme. Mezerel, and in the course of their interview she discovers that Barnin is her son—illegitimate, of course—the result of an intrigue she had whilst a girl. But Barnin does not clasp her in his arms, as we might have supposed. Barnin is a strike leader, and the fact that his employer happens to be his mother does not trouble him in the least. He represents the men's interests, and he informs the lady that unless she gives way the men intend to fight to the bitter end. Unfortunately for Barnin, Mme. Mezerel is quite as obstinate as he, and it is impossible to say what side would have won, when an unforeseen incident takes place. This incident takes the form of a violent scene between Barnin and young Oliver, who does not know that this man is his half-brother. A trouble between her two children is a thing on which madame has not reckoned, and this she must avoid at any price. She, therefore, gives in to the men and the secret leaks out. Having gained his point as a strike leader, Barnin no longer looks upon Mme. Mezerel as his employer, but, thinking of her as his mother, calls out "Mama!" and hugs her.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, May 23.—Ever since the triumphal advent of Sherlock Holmes criminal plays have been the vogue at many of our theatres, and Staatsanwalt Alexander is one of this type. Everything has been done by the author to make the plot "spannend," or to strain the nerves of the audience to the tightest tension of expectancy. Thus, through the whole of one act we wait for the sound of a fatal crack of a pistol which we have as good as been promised; but as the report never comes, and we have been kept on the rack for half an hour in vain, we have a right to feel indignant. In the first act the severity of the Staatsanwalt (public procurator) Alexander is depicted in glowing colours. His words to a certain criminal in the Court are sharp to the verge of cruelty; he declares to the prisoner's old blind mother that the parents are responsible for the depravity of the children, and we feel convinced that the tables will turn ere long against the speaker. Our suspicions are confirmed. Alexander, jun., is a young blood of the most rabid type and a thorough-paced scoundrel. He is up to his eyes in debt, and to avoid having to repay the loan of 10,000 marks to one of his infamous friends—a woman—he strangles her in the dead of night. The murderer is soon discovered, and led before his horror-stricken father, who in the first burst of righteous disgust gives his son a revolver and advises him to use it in an adjoining room. It is this scene to which I have already alluded. The young man has not the courage to take his life, and a friend of the miserable father explains that the best and right way after all is to let the law have its course, to which Alexander agrees. What particular form the law takes is left to the imagination, for at this juncture the curtain descends. The piece was well acted, author and artists being warmly applauded.

A NEW three-act drama, Im Rausch des Lebens, by Oscar Pitschel, has just been produced with considerable success at the Bernhard Rose Theatre (formerly known as the Carl Weiss). The action passes in the first act in a rural village, while in the last two acts the scene is laid in Berlin. The opening scenes are pastoral, and even poetic. Charlotte, the daughter of the village schoolmaster and organist at the little church, is engaged to be married to a worthy fellow named Franz in her own walk of life. She goes to Berlin to perfect herself in cooking and housekeeping, taking a situation in what is reported to be a respectable hotel. The house turns out to be one of ill-fame, and the girl is gradually drawn into the swamp, dazzled by the glittering prospects held out to her. Franz and Lotte's father implore her to return; but the life has a fascination for her which she cannot withstand. She has promised to "take up with" a certain baron, and will not go back from her word. The girl's would-be good angel is a lawyer of high moral character, who appeals to the seducer's better nature, and—in a well-written scene—receives the latter's word of honour not to allow Charlotte to visit him. The baron, however, breaks his word, and afterwards, overcome by shame and the general effects of a worthless life, shoots himself. At his side kneels the girl, full of remorse, and we are left to conclude that she has now been cured of the "Rausch des Lebens," and will return to the peace of her native village. The interpretation of the drama was satisfactory, the interest being kept up until the close, when the author was called repeatedly in response to vigorous applause.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

MELBOURNE. — APRIL 16.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. George Tallis.—Parsifal continues to attract large audiences, and will evidently run for some considerable time. Miss Brune and Mr. Kingston are ably supported by the rest of Mr. Williamson's company. The production is mounted on a most lavish scale, and taken altogether is quite in keeping with Mr. Williamson's previous productions at this theatre.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Bland Holt; Business-Manager, Mr. C. Simonsens.—The powerful military melodrama, Revenge, is proving highly successful, the theatre being filled nightly. Mr Baker, Miss Ross, Miss Ireland, and the rest of the company acquit themselves admirably in their various parts. The production is lavishly mounted, and on the whole compares favourably with any of Mr. Bland Holt's previous undertakings.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon.—Bonita, lady rifle shot, is still the leading attraction here; her season terminates next Thursday evening. Other "turns" which call for special mention include Cleopatra, snake enchantress; Frank Hartley, juggler; Gracie Graham, serio; Cassie Walmer, dancer and descriptive singer; Olive Robinson, dancer; and other interesting items are contributed by Lawrence Kenny, Fred Russell, Will Lochrane, the Bicknells, Leonard Nelson, Ethel Preston, George Warsaw, Art. Slaven, and Marjorie Bray.

SYDNEY, APRIL 16.—The Brough-Flemming company replaced Dr. Wake's Patient with Peter's Mother on the 13th inst., and an admirable representation was given. Miss Beatrice Day has secured a firm hold on those who value true acting, and her Lady Mary Crewys stands out as one of her many excellent impersonations. Mr. Carter Pickford's embodiment of Peter deserves commendation. Mr. Herbert Flemming's John Crewys is marked by manliness, and he makes every line tell. Miss Mary Milward is the sour Georgina Crewys to the life; and Miss Bessie Major presents another of her charming portraits as Lady Belstone. A monopoly of clerical characters falls to Mr. John F. Forde, and his Canon Birch is quite orthodox. Mr. Edgar Payne scores as Dr. Blundell; and Miss Kate Gair, handsome and careful, is Mrs. Hewell. In the hands of Mr. Norman McKeown the rôle of Sir Timothy Crewys is quite safe. Mr. Harry Whaite's beautiful scenery de-

PIETERMARITZBURG, APRIL 26. — SCOTT'S THEATRE.—The theatre here is again occupied by the Williamson and Wood's Dramatic Company, which opened on Monday with a dramatisation by Maud Williamson of Hall Caine's novel, "The Deemster," under the title of The Gates of Bondage. As Mona Mylrea Miss Williamson presented a capable rendering of a difficult part. Mr. Alfred Woods as Dan Mylrea reached a very high order of acting. The villain of the piece, Jarvis Kerris, was in the hands of Mr. Horace Hunter, who presented a very successful study. Mr. Hylton Warde as Hommey Beg caused no end of laughter. Gilchrist Mylrea, father of Dan Mylrea, and the Bishop of Barony, as enacted by Mr. Douglas Gordon, showed him to be a thoroughly finished actor; and the Deemster was played by Mr. W. F. White. The répertoire of the company during the week included In the Palace of the King, The Garden of Lies, and Barabbas

WOOLWICH HIPPODROME.

The patrons of this house of entertainment continue to be amply provided for, and there is no Oliver Twist among them who could reasonably venture to "ask for more." The programme presented this week is particularly pleasing, combining, as it does, variety with excellence—invariably a prosperous partnership. One of the many capital turns is a spectacular episode entitled Saved from the Harem, an Oriental drama by Max Goldberg, in three scenes, the interest of which centres around the tribulations of a Christian girl, Ismalia Meleda, and her persecution at the hands of Murad Effendi, Caliph of Bolsora. Mr. Lionel D'Aragon as the lieutenant portrayed the part with distinction; Mr. Howard Barlow made a most acceptable Caliph; Mr. Dan F. Roe produced much laughter in the character of Peter Wilkins, who gains admittance to the harem attired in female costume; and Miss Eugenie Magnus as Ismalia sustained her rôle with much ability. Mr. W. Reynolds and Miss Revel gave great assistance in their respective parts.

The Sousloffs, wonderfully brilliant dancers, are received with the heartiest applause; Mr. Harry Thurston, in a burlesque of The Silver King, presents some very amusing business, and talks drolly; the Ten Dixie Girls, in their dainty song-scena, form a very pretty picture, their dances being particularly attractive; and Mr J. G Grahame and Zerlina Harrington, in a dramatic episode of Parisian life, acquit themselves well. The little play is of an exciting nature, which holds the interest of the audience. Mr. Bert Morland, in a clever song, describes the numerous complaints he suffers from, together with their remedies, and also burlesques whimsically the hero and villain in drama. The Four Jumels display marked musical attainments in their original musical speciality, their rendering of "The lost chord," with varying lights, being most effective. Miss Louise Zetland has a well-trained voice, which she uses to great advantage; the Sisters Julian sing and dance in dainty fashion; and Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope, which depicts "The Clown Doctor," completes a highly diverting evening's entertainment.

DESPITE the inclemency of the weather, large numbers of visitors assembled on the terraces and in the reserve spaces of the Crystal Palace on Thursday, when Messrs. Brock and Co. commenced their forty-third annual firework season. The brilliant display included some new features, which embraced an Empire set piece, 150ft. long and 60ft. high, representing a trophy of flags. The Union Jack is in the centre, flanked by flags springing from the Imperial crown, the whole being surmounted by an appropriate motto. Following close on this were colossal fire portraits of popular politicians, including Mr. J. Chamberlain. A beautiful sight was the white waterfall, falling from an immense height with an almost blinding intensity of brilliance, followed by a display of electric spray Roman candles, iridescent bubble Roman candles, with stars of unique beauty, and the Indian flashlight Roman candles. Towards the end of the programme was an illumination of the terrace fountains with coloured and silver spray, a grand final melée by multitudes of shells, coloured Roman candles, saucissons, gloworms, cobras, &c., and the "Fairyland Glimpse," caused by the discharge of large special shells. Among the novel mechanical devices were the "Corbeilles of the Riviera" and "The Pyramid Cascades," and Brock's newly-invented flying machine and gyroscopic wheels.

AN attractive feature has been designed for a matinée which is to be given at the Haymarket, on June 27, in aid of the Samaritan Free Hospital for Women. The whole of the parterre is to be cleared, and a number of small tables substituted, at which afternoon tea will be served by Miss Marion Terry, Miss Mary Moore, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Miss Grace Lane, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, and Miss Marie Tempest. To such an agreeable variation will be added a two-hours' entertainment of the best quality.

PUTNEY HIPPODROME.

The programmes submitted continue to find favour with the habitués of this well-organised establishment, and consequently well-filled houses seem to be the rule. The entertainment commences this week with the overture to The Bohemian Girl, to which the orchestra do full justice. Following this item come a pair of droll musicians, Messrs. Martinett and Wallace, who cleverly render duets upon various musical instruments, the best being "Alice, where art thou?" which is played upon saxophones. Miss Maude Courtney, after recounting in racy style some amusing stories, concludes her turn with a topical song, "Wouldn't it be a dream?" Much amusement is caused by Howe and Ardie, comedy acrobats, one of whom makes his entry in the car of a balloon in mid-air, and is promptly brought down by a pistol shot from his partner. Although laughter-creating seems to be the main object, the pair put in some very smart tricks upon trapeze and rings, and secure a flattering recall at the conclusion. Miss Agnes Taylor's renderings of "Annie Laurie" and "Jock o' Hazeldean" prove equally acceptable. She is succeeded by the Matalla Troupe of Siamese jugglers, announced as making their first appearance in this country. Some of their tricks are very smartly done. Will Evans, who had a warm welcome, provides the star turn, and soon has the audience in roars. His introductory song, which may be called "Who am I?" provides material for a ludicrous attempt to sort out his origin from a peculiar family mix-up, and is done in the comedian's best style. His broad burlesque of a Spanish dancer is likewise extremely funny, and the "revival of the ballet," with Mr. Evans as the première danseuse, supported by six or eight masculine coryphées, is exceedingly comical. Princess Pauline, a dashing artist, gives, by way of introduction, a song written round the daughter of the American President, and afterwards raises her audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm by a ditty in praise of the "Grand old flag," appropriately terminated by the dropping of a huge Union Jack from the flies.

An unusually good sketch is presented by Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas, the title of which is Her Birthday. In the opening the lady sweetly sings "Love me, and the world is mine." Then she finds a wire which she imagines is addressed to her husband, and which embodies an invitation to dinner, presumably from a lady. The usual domestic storm is delightfully worked up; and there is a scene between husband and wife in which Mr. Thomas scores by reason of his admirable coolness, which strongly contrasts with the vehemence of the lady. Finally, the necessary explanations follow, and connubial bliss is happily restored. The entertainment is brought to a conclusion by the pictures of the Imperial Bioscope illustrating the laying of the Rhodesian railway. The films are remarkably sharp, and prove very interesting.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.
Once more, stuffed with good things, "The Era" Annual appears from its office at 5, Tavistock-street. The edition for 1907 is as nicely got up as its predecessors, and, in addition to a calendar and other theatrical memoranda, contains two lists of the year's productions, one arranged under the names of the theatres and the other alphabetically. In addition there are a number of striking or humorous contributions by leading actors and actresses—Miss Ellen Terry, Mr. Frank Cooper, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Arthur Collins, Mr. Charles Collette, Miss Alma Murray, and Mr. John Lawson are among those who have contributed bright experiences to this up-to-date shilling theatrical handbook.—Star, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.
"The Era" Dramatic and Musical Annual for 1907 is up to its usual standard—in fact, it is, if possible, smarter than ever. There is an excellent budget of articles from the pens of Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Cicely Richards, Miss Pollie Emery, Messrs. Frank Cooper, Arthur Collins, Charles Collette, Frank Curzon, Edward German, Cliff Ryland, and many others. The illustrated obituary, the alphabetical list of plays produced in London and the provinces, and all the other valuable features of the Annual are as complete as ever, and make this handbook extremely useful not only to members of the profession, but to the infinitely wider circle interested directly or indirectly in the drama.—Whitehall Review.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.
A welcome friend, with many old features as good as new, and with a selection of contributions in story form by theatrical celebrities.—Evening Standard and St. James's Gazette, Jan. 24, 1907.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, JUNE 1, 1907.

TRUST WAR IN THE STATES.

The Americans, it is admitted, are a "go-ahead" people, and their habit of hurried advance is shown in the extreme development of the application of the Trust System to theatrical business. An impression prevails in this country that in the States the Trusts have conquered all along the line, and that, on the whole, their influence has been favourable to the American drama. English actors visiting the States have come back with stories of the convenience created by the wide-spread organisation of the trusts; and certainly the crop of advanced and realistic dramas in America is large enough to lead us to believe that the Trusts have not extinguished the artistic spirit in the Transatlantic playwright. Very startling, therefore, is the account given in the Philadelphian paper, the North American, of the desperate resistance to the Trusts which is being offered by the well-known manager and dramatist, Mr. DAVID BELASCO, and of the methods which he alleges have been employed in the warfare between him and a certain syndicate. Mr. BELASCO, we are told, is not bitter towards the SHUBERTS; but "when he speaks of KLAW and ERLANGER—especially ERLANGER—it is with wrathful, vengeful, implacable vehemence." Ajax defying the lightning was not a more picturesque personage than Mr. BELASCO throwing down the gauntlet to the Trusts.

"I wish to announce to the world," says Mr. BELASCO, "that it doesn't lie in the syndicate's power to break me. With all its superb business organisation, it is weaker to-day than it ever was. It is weaker because it has lost sight of art in the drama. It is weak because all its parts and factors think of nothing, are capable of thinking of nothing, but money. Their intellectual character will permit them to do nothing greater and more enduring than set up a dollar mark over their playhouses. They have given no attention to the development of stars and playwrights. The old stars with whom they began business are passing. They have throttled art for a temporary increase in the profits, and they are coming very near to the blank wall where they must change their methods and restore the stage to its former condition of independence and healthful competition."

Mr. BELASCO congratulates himself that he is beyond the power of the Trusts. When he left them, he says, he was virtually without a dollar. When he took the old Republic Theatre on a system of lease and mortgage, the Trusts, so Mr. BELASCO says, swore that they would drive him out of New York and "set him to digging ditches or running an elevator." After spending $260,000 in fighting the syndicate, Mr. BELASCO has paid off the mortgage, half owns the Belasco Theatre, Washington, and is making money. Is it not a little inconsistent in him, after having pointed to his financial success with so much pride, to attack the Syndicate Vaudeville Combination for endeavouring to make money, especially as he is going to turn his talent to working for the variety stage? At any rate, that is what one understands from the statement that he intends to write sketches for the Keith-Proctor-Williams-Hammerstein circuit, whose managers are banded together to fight the Syndicate Vaudeville Combination.

The bitter desperation which the Americans throw even into their athletic sports, and of which the football business in Strongheart at the Aldwych is an example, is shown in the way in which the war is being waged in the United States between the opposed entertainment interests. Messrs. KLAW and ERLANGER, it is said, have set aside between $200,000 and $500,000 for the fight in Philadelphia alone; and Mr. BELASCO states that his enemies have organised a system of annoyance calculated to send a less enduring individual out of his mind. Attempts have been made to get him into compromising positions, and then "blazon him forth as a pervert and a moral degenerate." His office windows have been broken, and the outside door smashed in. He has been frequently followed and waited for by men, who have loaded him with the coarsest abuse. When he took new offices he discovered that a plan had been laid to "sneak an opium outfit" into the place, and then have it raided by the police. So Mr. BELASCO never occupied his new premises, though he went on paying $65 a month for them. It seems, however, that the worst means employed to annoy him was bad language. A fellow would politely request to have a word with him, "Then it would come—that never-varying string of epithets, beginning with 'go to hell,' and ending with something in comparison with which the latter invitation would be sweetest music." One night as he was leaving the theatre in his carriage a man opened the door and aimed a heavy blow at him with a stick. Mr. BELASCO warded it off, the coachman whipped up his horse, and the manager escaped. "I felt," he says, "that there ought to be some other way of stopping the outrages; but what was I to do? If I reported the matter to the police, I would be laughed at by my enemies and joked about in the newspapers. No one would believe such a weird yarn. They would say 'BELASCO is bughouse,' and ask 'Why don't he carry a popgun?'"

It is evident that the modern American entrepreneur "lives in stirring times." As a man and a manager, we pity Mr. BELASCO; as a dramatist we congratulate him. In one of Mr. G. K. CHESTERTON'S droll stories he tells of a company which was formed to give ordinary people all the excitement of extraordinary and unexpected adventures. Actors and actresses were engaged to impersonate characters in little dramas of the Sherlock Holmes type, ingeniously concocted by hack playwrights. Then the subscriber, taken quite unawares, was involved in a series of "moving accidents." To an ordinary individual this was merely a pleasant change from the routine of everyday life; to a dramatist like Mr. BELASCO adventures must be intensely stimulating and suggestive. We may expect him to follow the example of the American playwrights who have dealt in their works with contemporary facts and phases, and bring out a piece about the Trusts, depicting the stage equivalent of Mr. ERLANGER with the "wrathful, vengeful" implacability with which the late CHARLES READE attacked Trades Unions and other institutions to him objectionable.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

Lohengrin was performed on Friday night, May 24, at Covent Garden, the complete work, without "cuts," being given. Herr Cornelius, the Danish singer, who as Siegmund on a former occasion made a good impression, appeared as the hero, but his Lohengrin, although vocally interesting, suffered to some extent by the singer's lack of strength as an actor. Mme. Fleischer Edel also, while singing the music of Elsa with much grace and womanly feeling, gave a somewhat mature reading of the part; the ideal Elsa is one that gives the impression of youth as well as innocence. In the part of Ortrud Mme. Kirkby Lunn, as usual, gave a striking and dramatic impersonation; while the Telramund of Mr. Whitehill was admirable, vocally strong, and full of dignity and sinister power, the American singer being at his finest in Telramund's impressive appeal to the King in the second act. Herr Knüpfer as Heinrich der Vogler, and Herr Stockhausen as the Herald completed the cast. Dr. Richter conducted, and secured a very fine performance of the prelude to the opera.

On Saturday last, May 25, in the presence of a large and brilliant house, Traviata, Verdi's melodious opera, was given for the first time this season. The opera has been entirely redressed, and Violetta and her companions are now seen in the costumes of 1850 instead of the incongruous dresses in which Verdi's early opera has for so many years been performed, and no doubt the work thereby gained in realism and interest. Although Mme. Melba was, through indisposition, unfortunately unable to appear, Mme. Donalda made a most acceptable substitute, and sang Violetta's music with considerable charm, being particularly happy in her rendering of the beautiful "Ah, fors e lui"; while Signor Caruso, who was in excellent voice, simply revelled in the melodious strains allotted to Alfredo. As the elder Germont Signor Scotti sang most artistically, making the utmost out of the part of the heavy father; and the minor characters of Flora Bervais, Annina, Barone Duphol, Gastone, and Marchese d'Obigny were adequately sustained by Mme. Paulin, Mme. Severina, M. Crabbé, Signor Venturini, and Signor Sampieri. The stage-management was most successful, and Signor Campanini conducted the orchestra with great ability. The performance was honoured by the presence of His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught.

Verdi's fine spectacular opera Aida drew a crowded house on Wednesday night to Covent Garden. No doubt the admirable cast, with Signor Caruso and Mlle. Destinn as the hero and heroine, accounted for much of the interest taken in the production, but the performance throughout of Verdi's Egyptian opera was as perfect in every detail as ever witnessed at Covent Garden. Signor Caruso made a splendid Radames, singing superbly and acting with great dramatic power. Mlle. Destinn, also being in excellent voice, gave a striking picture of the unhappy Aida, and her singing of the "Ritorna Vencitor," and her share in the great duet with Amneris, grandly sung and acted by Mme. Kirkby Lunn, roused the house to a display of unwonted enthusiasm. Signor Scotti, as on former occasions, made a most impressive Amonaero, picturesquely made up, and full of dignity as the captive King; while M. Journet as Ramfis sang finely, and received a most hearty welcome on his first appearance this season. M. Marcon, in the character of the King, completed the cast. The opera was handsomely mounted, the chorus excellent, and the ballets most effectively danced; while the scenery and stage-management alike deserve praise. Signor Campanini conducted, and may be warmly congratulated on one of the finest performances of Aida ever given at Covent Garden.

AMUSEMENTS IN BRUSSELS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Although our climate gives us now every other day a sample of winter, with cold winds and showers of hail, our principal theatres are closed or lent to touring companies. It is thus that Le Bargy has just given performances of Le Demi-monde and Le Marquis de Priola, and we are to have Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's visit at La Monnaie for five days.

Farce and melodrama are occupying our other theatres, such as the Molière with The Ironmaster, the Galeries with Une Veine de . . .!, the Alcazar with La Nuit de Noces, and the Vaudeville with Le Cabinet Piperlin.

The Alhambra, the Scala, and the Olympia are addicted to cinematographic views.

The Palais d'Eté, remaining faithful to its motto as a theatre of varieties, is giving a very good show, full of attractions. After the Parisian chanteuse, Léo Nesville, come those fine equilibrists, the Leigh Brothers, followed by Léo Rogée, a bird imitator; then the Five Whiteleys give a very creditable acrobatic and musical turn on the wire; and the creole Patti, Modjesko, is puzzling the audience with her fine voice, until at the final the boy removes his wig; Harry Alaskas keeps the people amused; and the eccentric MacWalter makes them roar with his quaint, silent wheezes. One admires the ease and strength of the Damm Brothers; and cheers up Gipsy Wolf with her five white piccanninies; and the enthusiasm of the public is brought to its climax by the "Globe Infernal," in which Wizard Stone and Miss Irene loop the loop several times on their bicycle and motocycle. Add to this the coolness of a fine hall, beautifully decorated, and no wonder all travellers from foreign parts are found there every night.

CECIL RALEIGH'S CAREER.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you allow me to gratify the curiosity of your correspondent, Mr. A. Gifford Stacey, who says it would be interesting to know "when I became an actor."

The files of The Era will give him almost the hour if he turns back to the early eighties and traces the first tour of Le Cocq's opera, La Petite Mademoiselle. The proprietor of the company was the late Mr. Charles Bernard, of Glasgow, the general manager was poor Dick South, Mr. Auguste Van Biene was the musical director. I sang in the chorus to start with, and got my first lines given me because I could draw my sword and use it properly, an accomplishment with which the other male members of the chorus were not familiar. I go the "sack," together with Mr. Van Biene, because we spent a long wet afternoon in Edinburgh taking carefully to pieces the iron bedstead upon which poor Dick South habitually reposed. We propped it together carefully so that no trace of our handiwork was revealed, and when Dick jumped into bed rather violently, which was his custom, as we knew, the whole thing collapsed with an appalling crash; but the top end of the bedstead came down rather more heavily than we had anticipated, and it knocked all the humour out of the proceeding. We received our notice on the following Friday.

My first appearance in London was later on, at the Royalty Theatre, when I played in the revival of Frank Marshall's play, originally produced under the title of False Shame, and subsequently called The White Feather. The collaborator with whom I am at present working, Mr. Henry Hamilton, played in the same piece at the same time. In the same theatre I played in a musical piece called Popsie Wopsie, by Sidney Grundy and the late Edward Solomon, who conducted on the first night. The cast included the celebrated Maggie Brennan, Tippy Haynes, and Edward Righton. I sang a duet with Miss Kate Lawler, and on the first night we got a vociferous encore, much to the astonishment of poor Teddy Solomon, who put down his bâton and shook his head. When the show was over, I asked him why he would not let us take our encore. He said: "God knows how you got it; God help me if you had taken it." I played in other pieces at the Royalty, and even when a change in managerial arrangements took me to the front of the house, I still played nightly in the opening farce, for we began very early in those days. On one occasion I played in the piece of the evening for a period of ten nights. Tippy Haynes went down suddenly with rheumatic fever. No understudy was ready, so I went on and played Lambro the pirate in the burlesque of Don Juan Junior till a proper substitute for Mr. Haynes could be got ready. Miss Sylvia Grey was in the company at the time—just a slip of a girl. She stood with her back to the audience while I leant upon her shoulder in a graceful attitude and repeated after her the lines I could not commit to memory. At that period Miss Maggie Brennan was very fond of telling me that I was certain to succeed as an actor, because I looked exactly like Mrs. John Wood in trousers. This was gross flattery, I am certain. Whenever she said it, however, I used to swell with visible, and I still think pardonable, pride.

I wonder whether Mr. Stacey has an equally good credential!

Turning to a more serious matter, I should like to tell Mr. Stacey that he makes certain statements with which neither I nor a number of other people agree. He says, for example, that "managers would never pay fees for non-copyright plays." How does he know? The managers have never been asked. In France, for example, dramatic authors lead the way in the matter of unity. There they would not bother about asking the manager anything; they would simply tell him what he had to do, and he would have to do it. I do not see, however, why we should presuppose the hostility of managers to a charitable scheme. Personally, I take the reverse view. The strong support given to the abnegation principle by Mr. Bourchier, for example, in connection with Actors' Day, I think justifies the faith that is in me. No manager would grudge one per cent. of the gross upon certain occasions. For example, I wonder how much gross the plays of Shakespeare have drawn during the last twenty-five years? If one per cent. of that sum had been paid to the Actors' Orphanage it would not require any further endowment.

In conclusion, I should like to ask Mr. Stacey a question. He says, in effect, that the Actors' Union ought to put pressure upon the resident manager rather than upon the touring manager. Now this is an argument thoroughly worthy of the hopelessly impracticable turn of mind that distinguishes the actor when he attempts his own organisation. How, in the name of all that is wonderful, could the Actors' Union, or any Union, put pressure upon the resident manager? The actor is not employed by the resident manager, and has nothing whatever to do with him; but he is employed by the touring manager, and he can say to him, "I will not go out under £2 a week." If the actor sticks to his guns the touring manager will be forced to stick to his, and say to the resident manager, "If you do not give me decent terms you must go out of the business." The resident manager (who very often is nothing more than an unenterprising, inartistic syndicate) will then have to face the alternative of giving decent terms or shutting up his theatre. The resident manager is the root of much evil, as Mr. Charles Frohman told him very plainly in the columns of a contemporary last Sunday. It is the very short-sighted policy of the resident manager that starves the touring manager, until the touring manager has either to expire, or starve the actor. The result, a miserable mixture of the cheapest actors and of unpaid amateurs has disgusted the provincial public and half ruined the provincial business. As Mr. Charles Frohman says, a first-class show will always pay in the English provinces, but the resident manager himself makes the touring of first-class shows impossible. The net result of all these things is that many actors and actresses are literally starving. No educated human being can live decently on less than £2 a week, and therefore it is the duty of every actor and actress to unite at once in some association or union which will straightforwardly demand the £2 minimum wage, with the double object of properly feeding the hungry and squeezing out the useless amateur. When managers are compelled to give £2 per week to every person they employ they will give it to experienced actors, not to inexperienced beginners. If they are compelled to pay always the skilled worker's wage they will employ always the skilled worker.

Stage carpenters and theatrical managers have their strict and exclusive unions. Actors must have their exclusive union too.—Yours faithfully,

CECIL RALEIGH,
2, Brunswick-place, Regent's Park, N.W.
May 26, 1907.

IN the Court of Bankruptcy on Tuesday, before the Assistant Receiver, the first meeting of creditors was held under a receiving order made against Henry Thomas Brickwell, theatrical manager. The debtor states that he has done but little business, and that by way of commission, since a previous failure in February, 1905. The accounts had not yet been filed, but the liabilities were estimated at from £1,500 to £2,000. The debtor states that the assets consist of any surplus which may be derived from the assets under his previous failure, and he attributes his present position to the delay in realising that surplus and to his having had to borrow money. A trustee was appointed.

MR. BOURCHIER ON DRAMATIC ART.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier delivered his second and concluding lecture on "The Limits of the Dramatic Art" at the Royal Institution on Saturday afternoon. There was a good gathering of members and friends, who were evidently much interested in Mr. Bourchier's able symposium.

The lecturer, during the course of his remarks, said: It is difficult, when we look back at the theatre as it was in Shakespeare's time, to imagine how adequate performances could have been given of the great Elizabethan plays. There was not then, as there is now, a sharp line drawn between the stage and the auditorium, and the spectators sometimes crowded upon the stage itself. They brought their stools with them, and sat just where they liked; and probably the more they succeeded in interfering with the play the better they were pleased. Their chatter was incessant, and, when they took the trouble—which was not often—to attend to the performance, they loudly criticised the actors. Elsewhere in the house orange girls and apprentices exchanged inelegant jokes, or howls of disapproval rose to greet some unpopular player. All was noise and confusion, and the performers must have had to shout in order to make themselves heard. That they did make themselves heard we may rest assured, although there were no elaborate scenes, no pretty faces to attract the public. Scenery was, to all intents and purposes, unknown; female characters were represented by young men or boys, and only by the beauty of the lines to be delivered could the drama hope to appeal. Some such state as that, we are told, is the ideal state of the drama; but I cannot believe that all was well with the Elizabethan theatre. Nowadays the theatre is as sumptuous as of old it was barren. Some say that it is too sumptuous, and cry out for a return to the simplicity of the past. It is true that managers do vie with one another in the magnificence of their productions, but is this rivalry bad for the stage? I hardly think so. The plays we give and the actors we "present" are certainly better than those of a generation ago, when less attention was paid to the mounting of pieces than is paid now. Our acting may not have improved quite to the extent that our staging has, but it has improved, and plays certainly do create illusion now as they never did in the days when details were neglected. And let it be remembered that the most magnificent productions on the modern stage are probably those given to Shakespeare Is the public to blame for much that is wrong in the modern English drama? On that point the drama's doctors most certainly disagree; but I venture to think that most of them will allow that the majority of the public in this country does not take the drama seriously. What, then, is there to encourage the drama to take itself seriously? Perhaps dramatists and their interpreters should insist upon a better recognition of the drama as an art; but the public will have it that the drama is only an entertainment, and those who have their daily bread to win must needs follow the public. That "the drama's laws the drama's patrons give" is an old and true saying. If the public be frivolous, the drama must be frivolous, or those who are connected with the theatre will starve. The public wants to be entertained, and therefore the theatre honestly endeavours to supply just the entertainment that is wanted. It is easy to be piously shocked by this state of affairs, but before we condemn we must first ask ourselves, Why is the public so frivolous? The answer does not imply, as we might expect, a degeneration in taste. The public would, we may safely conjecture, still appreciate the best in art if only there were time. These are hustling days, more persons have to work for a living, and men are harder pushed to succeed in business than formerly, and the public comes tired to the theatre. More and more the office and the mart demand of our energies more and more strenuous work, and more and more we pray that we may not be asked to think when the day's work is over. It would be wrong to blame the man who, after eight or ten hours' worry in the City, rather resents being asked by the dramatist to solve some knotty moral problem. The English stage knows no standard, either of drama or of acting. In Paris there are two houses where the best traditions are maintained; but here we have no traditions. The theatre is in such a chaotic condition that only Englishmen could muddle through. It is not that we have no drama, no actors, but that we have no organisation. If an actor have talent, you may ask, what else does he want? I cannot answer too emphatically that he wants training, training, training. Talent is of little value until the proper use of it has been learned. True, we have here, in London, a school of acting, the Academdy of Dramatic Art, of which Sir Squire Bancroft is the honoured head; while Mr. Hare, Mr. Tree, Mr. Alexander, Mr. Maude, Mr. Pinero, Mr. Barrie, and myself are on the committee. It is an admirable institution, doing good work in a quiet, unobtrusive fashion, and it has already sent some promising recruits to the stage; but one swallow does not make an English summer, and one such school, or, for that matter, a score of them, does not form the ideal training for the actor. That, in my humble opinion, is only to be found in a revival of the old system of stock companies. Much good is done by some of the touring companies, with their extensive répertoires—Mr. Benson's, Mr. Ben Greet's, Mr. Compton's, to name but three—but until the old system is revived of stock companies in all the large towns of England, Scotland, and Ireland, the standard of acting in this country will not be greatly raised. Many of us have cherished dreams of a National theatre, and although I am told that such an institution is an impossibility, I believe that I shall live to see the dream fulfilled. This theatre would be a school as well as a stage, and there the young actors, who had been selected by the director, would be trained. They would earn a living wage, and the répertoire of the institution would be such that they would gain experience in all the best plays produced, both ancient and modern. This répertoire should not be confined to the works of Shakespeare, Sheridan, and Goldsmith, but the director would be free to select from established modern successes, and the co-operation of playwrights who looked for artistic rather than material success would be invited. The moment that a serious practical interest in the drama as an art, not as an entertainment, comes to the people, then, you may be sure, as great and as quick a change will be seen on the stage. It is seriously to be hoped that a deep sympathetic interest in the drama will spring from the performance of pageants and of village plays, all of which are means to cultivate the love of beauty and the dramatic sense.

THE ordinary general meeting of the Bath Theatre Royal Co., Ltd., was announced for yesterday (Friday) afternoon. The report states that the gross income for the year to the 15th ult. is £607 8s. 8d., the amount being slightly less than last year, as there are no unclaimed dividends to be added. Out of the sum of £238 5s. in the bankers' hands the directors propose to pay £104 15s. as the last instalment of principal and interest in connection with their loan, and to carry forward the balance of £133 10s.

THE living pictures which for so many months were a strong attraction at the Empire, were presented in New York on Monday with enormous success.

DRESSES AT THE PLAY.

The attractions of A Woman of No Importance at His Majesty's are due in no small measure to the brilliancy of the costumes. Miss Ellis Jeffreys makes her first appearance in a charmingly simple dress of fine white Irish linen. The long skirt is inset with graduated panels of white Spanish lace, horizontal bands of the same likewise decorating the hem. The kimono-shaped bodice is strapped with bands of linen, which outline the short cape-sleeves and define the V-shaped opening to the waist, the front being filled in with a vest of Brussels lace, which also forms the frilled undersleeves. Miss Jeffreys carries a sunshade square in shape, in palest blue crêpe de chine, delicately hand-painted, and supplemented with a deep cream silk fringe. Later Miss Jeffreys wears a remarkable gown of old-gold net entirely covered with massed gold paillettes. The foot of the long skirt is finished at the bottom with a thick ruche of the net, while folds of paillette tulle, draped in cross-over fashion over an underslip of cream silk spotted tulle, constitute the corsage. The sleeves consist of short flounces of the tulle, finished with a twist of pale blue satin, while a chou of the same and a single pink rose are tucked into the tulle on one side of the décolletage. Miss Jeffreys' dress in the last act is of voile, patterned with an almost invisible black and white check over white, the corsage of which is folded over a gilet of embroidered silver tissue, her deep swathed waistbelt being adorned at the back with three flat bows of the same. The skirt is finished at the hem with a wide band of lace in tone with the grey effect of the gown, whilst the hat which accompanies it is of pale Nattier blue straw, trimmed in front with two immense gull's wings in natural shades, the crown encircled with a band of blue satin ribbon.

Miss Viola Tree's first entry is made in an attractive dress of white silk voile, adorned with lovely embroideries and supplemented with a hem of pale turquoise blue velvet, headed with a massed border of Chinese roses in shaded tones of pink. The same decoration is repeated in the wide sleeves, which are mounted over white lace, the same lace forming the foundation of the bodice, which is supplemented with folded bretelles of voile, and finished back and front with heavy tassels, while the vest of lace is bordered with a wreath of shaded roses. A waistbelt, formed of soft folds of the material, is caught at the back with a large oval blue velvet buckle, bordered with a white silk ruching, and a sunshade of white embroidered lawn, inlet with insertion, supplies a delicate finish to the costume. Miss Tree's second gown has a basis of rich white satin, depending for effect on the severity of its Princess lines. The satin in soft draperies forming the bodice is embroidered in a design of feather fronds in minute silver paillettes, the folds being caught in front at the waist-line with a huge garnet buckle. The space back and front is filled in with bouillonnées of snowy white tulle, while the décolletage is outlined with a fold of black tulle, a huge chou of the same being fastened to the left side, and finished with a streamer of black tulle reaching nearly to the foot of the skirt. Tiny sleeves, composed of frills of white tulle, are worn off the shoulders, the latter being draped with glistening paillette tulle. A refreshing effect is made by Miss Tree's white muslin gown embellished with a corsage of lace and muslin. The folds of the latter are brought together on the shoulders with a row of buttons, the wide balloon sleeves to the elbow being inlet with blonde lace, whilst the skirt is embellished by two wide bands of embroidered lawn of gossamer fineness.

Miss Marion Terry—in the title-rôle—makes her first appearance in the second act in a gown of black net mounted over black taffetas, the trained skirt of which bears several vandykes of black velvet ribbon headed with narrow bands of jet, short tight undersleeves of paillette and jet-embroidered net being worn under epaulettes of the same, while the black tulle which drapes the bodice is finished with jet tassels. Miss Terry's gown in the last act is of soft satin-faced cloth in a pale shade of Marie Louise mauve. Wide bretelles of découpé and embroidered cloth are brought over the shoulders, and form, in addition, the wide cape-sleeves, decorated by two heavy silk tassels.

Miss Kate Cutler's first dress is of mauve voile, a deep band of filet lace, dyed to match, adorning the foot of the skirt, this being bordered with a band of narrow velvet ribbon to match. Her corsage of dyed embroidered silk filet is mounted over an under-bodice of soft creamy lace, the sleeves being bordered with velvet ribbon, whilst the hat which accompanies the costume is of straw, adorned with masses of jet black, crimson, and purple cherries, and pansies in yellow and pale blue, a long streamer of broad green shot ribbon depending from under the brim almost to the hem of the skirt. A sunshade of white silk, adorned with a lovely design of realistically hand-painted lilac, completes the picture. The evening dress worn by Miss Cutler is of pale blue of a most delicate tone, an over-dress of mousseline de soie being mounted over a foundation of the same shade, the latter sewn almost to the knees with large silver paillettes, whose hard metallic outline is softened by the soft transparency of the over-dress. The bodice of white lace is almost entirely covered with massed moonshine crystal bugles, the bugles being embroidered in horizontal fashion across the front of the bodice, and perpendicularly on the short wide sleeves, which are finished with frills of lace. Miss Cutler wears over her shoulders a scarf of mousseline de soie, the centre of which is adorned with the Greek key design, embroidered in black, whilst the curls of her coiffure are kept in place with a band of pale blue satin ribbon, the same forming a waistband to the gown.

AMONG the rapidly-rising ventriloquists is Mr. George Gulliver, who is scoring along the line at his provincial engagements. He should be very welcome at the West End.

SANDY MCNAB AND CO., in their Scotch sketch, The Egyptian Mummy, made an instantaneous hit on opening on the Stoll tour this week at the Glasgow Coliseum. Special bills were issued after the first night.

MEMBERS of the dramatic and musical professions should note the improved train service to the Norfolk coast effected by the Great Northern Company for June. A train will leave King's Cross each Friday at 5.45 p.m., arriving at Sheringham 9.36, West Runton 9.43, and Cromer 9.50 p.m.; and on Mondays a new train will leave Cromer at 9.50 a.m., and Sheringham at 9.59 a.m., arriving at King's Cross 1.55 p.m. Restaurant cars will be available on these trains between London and Peterborough, and the service will be a great convenience to passengers wishing to spend the week-end at Sheringham or Cromer. Special season tickets are issued from London (King's Cross) to the Norfolk coast resorts mentioned for periods varying from one to twelve months at rates which work out at only 1s. 9d. per day, and a handy folder containing particulars of these and other facilities can be obtained from the Chief Passenger Agent, Great Northern Railway, King's Cross, N.

AT the Standard Theatre, Bishopsgate, this week a series of Yiddish plays is being presented by Mr. M. D. Waxman's operatic and dramatic company. Each night the house has been packed to the extreme, and much satisfaction has been expressed.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

THE anxiously-expected award is not ready yet, and another week may elapse before it is made known by Mr. Askwith, the arbitrator.

MISS MARIE LLOYD has come to the conclusion that the present time is inopportune for the holding of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund dinner, and Mr. Horace Marriott has received a letter to this effect through the V.A.F. At the moment of going to press a meeting of the Joint Committee is being held at the Benevolent Fund offices, at which a later date will, it is hoped, be fixed. Meanwhile, we would impress upon our readers the fact that the charity is in great need, and that immediate funds should be forthcoming to keep the work going, especially that in connection with the poor pensioners. Intending donors would be doing an immense service to the Fund by sending on their cheques at once.

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD WARNER, who had been great personal friends of the late Mr. George Adney Payne for many years, sent a beautiful floral tribute in the shape of a harp, and Mr. Warner paid the last tribute of affection to his dead chum by being present both at the church and the grave.

THE hundreds of friends of Miss Dot Stephens will be surprised and delighted to hear that that talented young lady is returning to the stage. It will be remembered that last November, whilst Miss Stephens was journeying from Walsall to Glasgow, she fell out of the train and sustained such severe injuries that for a time her life was despaired of. Everyone imagined that her professional career was ended. Thanks, however, to the special medical treatment she has received, the young lady is now once again in the best of health, and is prettier and daintier, if possible, than ever. The wonderful surgical appliances she wears enable her to walk without the slightest suspicion of a limp, and it is good to know that a month from now Miss Stephens will once again be seen on the Moss-Stoll tour.

MR. FRANK PARKER will produce his fortieth consecutive spectacle at the London Hippodrome on or about June 17. It will be an ice carnival, the scenes of which are laid near the Hague. By new machinery, now being installed, Mr. Parker will be able to change the aspect of summer into that of winter, and the arena will become a cool pleasaunce, with a crowd of 150 people attired in the picturesque garb of the Netherlands, skimming the surface of the arena lake with something of the natural grace of Holland's most famous canal skaters.

MR. BERT GILBERT and Nipper Lupino Lane are secured for the principal male parts, and the famous skaters, Hess and Lisbon, and the Four Figaros, will be introduced. Scores of Tiller girls, whose Dutch clog dancing has long been popular, are now learning to skate for this carnival, and it will be interesting to watch these clever young ladies in a new rôle. Mr. Parker has been scouring England for weeks to find a principal lady who is at once pretty, a good actress, a singer, a dancer, and a skater. Surely the last qualification should not prove to be an insurmountable obstacle.

A MOST amusing sketch by Wal Pink, called The King o' the Castle, was produced at the Camberwell Palace on Monday by Mr. Joe Elvin's capital company. Those who are familiar with Mr. Elvin's drollery can imagine how irresistible he is as Peter, and how hearty is the laughter he evokes by his exquisitely unctuous and original humour. The King o' the Castle is one of the merriest sketches that have been seen in London for a long time.

MLLE. ADELINE GENÉE, the première danseuse of the Empire Theatre, has signed an agreement to appear in New York. She is not going there for ballet, but to play the part of the Fairy in The New Aladdin—a wordless part, but one that will provide opportunities to introduce many kinds of dancing. It will be remembered that recently, at the Playhouse, the popular mime and danseuse scored an emphatic triumph by her impersonation of the Dryad, in Miss Dora Bright's musical fairy fantasy.

LA SYLPHE, another favourite dancer, who was for two years at the Alhambra, sailed on Saturday, per the Walmer Castle, for Cape Town and Johannesburg, and will continue her globe-trotting experiences by sailing in September for Australia to fulfil an engagement of five months under the management of Mr. Harry Rickards. She will return through America to play the Orpheum Circuit, and does not expect to be back in Europe until 1909.

MR. WALTER GIBBONS, who has been obliged to keep his bed through a sharp attack of rheumatism, is rapidly getting better, and will return to business next week.

WITHIN six hours of the decision of the Derby on Wednesday the Alhambra will, by the expert aid of "Urbanora," present a full and complete cinematographic record of the classic race, as well as some animated scenes in the grounds of the historic Durdans, where Frederick, Prince of Wales and son of George II., resided during Epsom meetings in the eighteenth century, and where Amato, the "coughing pony" of Sir Gilbert Heathcote and the Blue Riband victor of '38 lies buried. The series of pictures is being taken by the courteous permission of the Rt. Hon. the Earl of Rosebery.

THE similarity of the title When Knights were Bolder to the successful farcical comedy by Harriett Jay, now running at Wyndham's, has been pointed out by Mr. James Welch, and as there is no wish on the part of the author or producer to create confusion in the minds of playgoers, the sketch is about to be renamed. The fantasy, which was successfully produced at the Devonshire Park Theatre a week or two ago, was primarily intended for the halls, and will be given for the first time in London at the Granville, Walham Green, on Monday, with a new title.

HYMACK, who returns to the Empire on Monday, is a Scotchman, and his turn is one usually described as protean. But he does not merely change his clothes: he discards coats, collars, neckties, walking-sticks, until the stage becomes a mere litter of personal attire. Yet the marvellous thing is that, in place of his old collar, half a dozen fresh ones are seen round his neck, and new walking-sticks seem to spring from the ground. The turn must be seen to be believed, for it took Hymack five years of steady, unremitting practice before he allowed himself to give it in public. Biograph pictures of the Derby will be shown on Wednesday night.

MISS MARGARET ASHTON, who this week concludes a highly successful provincial tour upon the Moss circuit, has been singing, with great success, Messrs. Cobb and Edwards's stirring "Hands across the sea" song, entitled "When Tommy Atkins marries Dolly Gray." The charming American soprano will, after enjoying a short holiday abroad, appear during July at the Oxford and other London halls, and subsequently at the Tivoli.

MR. HORACE COLE, formerly manager of the New Cross Empire, having been so completely successful in his management of the Liverpool Empire since the introduction of two houses nightly, has been selected by Mr. Oswald Stoll to take over the management of the oldest house of the company, the Empire Theatre at Edinburgh.

MR. ALBERT C. DUNCAN, one of Mr. George Dance's well-tried veteran managers, succeeds Mr. Cole. Last Saturday night Mr. Duncan finished touring with Mr. Popple (of Ippleton), and will take up his duties at the Liverpool Empire on Monday. The new manager of the Lime-street house was brought up to the law, but it had no attractions for him. So he deserted parchments to become an Indian tea-planter. Malaria claimed him for its own, so he returned home, and when well started out in management with A Chinese Honeymoon company. Since then he has been in charge of companies playing The Orchid, Three Little Maids, and was with Mr. Weedon Grossmith's Night of the Party.

AT the Pavilion, Glasgow, the new underground waiting-rooms and lounge are proving a great success, more particularly in the wet or cold evenings to which we are unfortunately so liable. These rooms are beautifully fitted up, and as they accommodate the full seating capacity of the pit, and the greater proportion of the stalls and dress circle patrons, their advantage over the queue system outside is undoubted. Mr. Samuel Lloyd and his directors are to be heartily congratulated on their enterprise.

MR. RICHARD THORNTON celebrated the completion of his new Sunderland Empire by inviting the workmen and staff engaged, with some local gentlemen, to a dinner, on the stage of the new house, on the 24th ult. Mr. W. Milburn, who has designed the building, took the chair, and Mr. J. W. White, the builder, proposed the health of the proprietor, to which Mr. Sam Gething responded. In the course of his reply Mr. Gething mentioned that the new Empire is the largest music hall in England, having a slightly greater accommodation than the Coliseum. He also promised that Sunderland should see the cream of variety, and that the first artist to top the bill would be Miss Vesta Tilly, on July 1. Mr. Dick Thornton said a few words, as did Mr. Esden, the manager-elect. The proceedings closed with a very good concert. Some 400 were present.

THE marriage arranged between Mr. Frank Hargreaves, general-manager of the Empire Theatre, Rochdale, son of Mr. T. Hargreaves, proprietor, and Miss A. Dearden, daughter of the late Mr. B. Dearden, of Castleton, Lancashire, will take place at Baillie-street Chapel, Rochdale, on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at two o'clock.

BY permission of Mr. B. Pearce Lucas, Mr. Walter Norman, the popular manager of the Hastings Hippodrome, is taking his benefit on Wednesday next. A long and interesting programme is being arranged. Artists from London, Brighton, Eastbourne, and other parts have kindly volunteered their services, and a crowded house is expected.

MR. CHARLES MUSSETT, of the Empire, Glasgow, on Saturday night last, before leaving, was the recipient of a purse of gold, subscribed for by the patrons and staff of that house, together with several other presents. A hearty send-off awaited him at St. Enoch's Station, where the entire staff assembled at 11 p.m. to wish him godspeed.

MR. CHARLES STANSFIELD, of Dover, the secretary of the syndicate owning the Palace and Hippodrome, Market-square, Dover, has passed away, much to the regret of a large circle of friends. The cause of death was pneumonia.

MR. FRED LEIGHTON, the popular manager of the Hippodrome, Sheerness, has been seriously ill with influenza. We are pleased to state, however, that he is rapidly recovering and will soon be back at his post.

THERE was a great crowd at the Happy Valley, Llandudno, on Saturday afternoon to witness the first performance of Mr. W. J. Churchill's Minstrels. Mr. Churchill's company includes eighteen talented artists, of whose performances any seaside resort might well be proud. To celebrate the opening each occupant of a front seat was presented with a copy of a special programme, containing photographs of the Happy Valley and of Mr. Churchill.

AT Mr. Pickard's American Museum, Trongate, Glasgow, there is on view a dwarf called Tom Thumb, who stands only 23in. high, and weighs under 24lb. This little wonder was born at Stockport, Cheshire, in 1887, and is therefore twenty years of age. He is exactly 12in. shorter than the original General Tom Thumb, who was considered the smallest man on earth. The prodigy has been examined by many medical men, and one and all pronounce him to have a sound constitution, to be well developed, and to possess all his faculties. Crowds are flocking in daily from all parts to visit this wonderful phenomenon.

A SPECIAL meeting of the Justices of the Peace was held in the City Chambers, Edinburgh, on the 24th ult., for the purpose of dealing with the petitions for renewal of licences for various theatres in the city. Lord Provost Gibson presided. Mr. David Lyon, the Clerk, reported that the Firemaster had inspected the Empire, Lyceum, Royal, and King's Theatres, and that the fire appliances were all in a satisfactory condition. There were no objections by the police to the renewals.

COUNCILLOR BROWN asked if the Justices had power to make it a condition of the granting of the licence that the premises would not be open on Sunday for entertainments. That was, he said, an important question. Mr. Allan, who appeared for the licensees of the Empire, gave an undertaking, on the suggestion of the Justices, that the theatre would not be given on Sunday for other purposes than religious, charitable, or philanthropic. On the question of the bars, the resolution was carried to close them at ten o'clock.

STERLING AND LOVE have been booked to play two principal parts in the next pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Bristol, by their exclusive agent, Mr. Fred Reeves, who has also secured for Messrs. Frank and Free a Christmas engagement at the Grand Theatre, Brighton.

THE death has occurred at Watermouth Castle, Ilfracombe, of Lieutenant Walter Basset Basset, R.N., the inventor of the Great Wheel at Earl's Court, which has just been taken down. He was the eldest son of Mr. C. H. Basset, and grandson of the late Sir William Williams, first baronet, of Tregullow. He was an officer of the Bacchante during the cruise of the Prince of Wales and the late Duke of Clarence. He subsequently became a partner in the firm of Maudslay, Son, and Field, engineers.

MEIER AND MORA, with their new show, are a decided success at the Alhambra, Paris. They have been engaged for the following month as the feature attraction at the Jardin de Paris.

MISS MARIE EMPRESS wishes to contradict the report that she is about to be married. There is no truth whatever in the statement. This lady, who is gaining popularity wherever she goes, is appearing this week at the Empire, Birmingham, and on Monday will be at the Empire, Coventry.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL NOLAN (Miss Agnes Hazel) and their daughter, Miss Agnes Nolan, will sail for Australia on Friday next to fulfil engagements with Mr. Harry Rickards. The favourite Irish comedian's health has not been all that his friends could wish, and the voyage should set him up.

GREAT excitement is being caused by the challenge made by Miss Georgina Lennard to Mrs. Edgar Forrest to swim the Channel. These ladies have been tutored by Miss Gertie Wright, and both have turned out excellent pupils. The great event will take place this month.

MR. L. WESTCOTT HICKS has been appointed manager of the Duchess Palace, Balham, in succession to Mr. Bertram Ross, who has become lessee of the Operetta House, Clacton-on-Sea, which he is running during the summer season with variety business.

THE Elliotts-Savonas are by way of taking a fortnight's rest, and this will be their first holiday for years. The popular troupe is so fully booked up that in order to secure this much-needed recreation they have had to make special arrangements.

MR. HARRY TATE is not the only boy of the family who posseses the gift of comedy. He has a brother who has been successfully playing the famous sketch Fishing on the other side, both with Keith and Proctor and Klaw and Erlanger.

THE twenty-second anniversary of the reopening of the Paragon will be celebrated with a special entertainment on Friday next. Messrs. Fred Miller and Charles Beecham will present a festival programme. One figure will be missed from the gathering in the lounge—that of Mr. G. A. Payne, who always took an immense interest in the house that was associated with his first proprietorship.

MR. R. G. KNOWLES, after an absence of over two years from England, comes to the Palace Theatre on Monday, when he will bring with him new songs and patter. During his stay at the Shaftesbury-avenue house he will present his new entertainment, "Old Worlds through New Eyes."

MR. EDWIN BRETT and Miss Emmeline Orford, after a successful run of the halls, have arranged to return to the theatre stage for this coming autumn, when they will tour the No. 1 towns as Mr. Popple and La Bolero in the musical comedy Mr. Popple. Christmas will see Mr. Brett and Miss Orford as principal comedian and principal boy at the Theatre Royal, Hull.

THE Terriers, with their friends (ladies being specially invited), are now busy with the arrangements for the river outing and sports, which take place on Sunday, June 16. The party will meet at Waterloo at 9 a.m. sharp, departing at 9.10, and arriving at Hampton Court at 10 o'clock. They will then board the magnificent steam launch, La Burgoine, on which refreshments and luncheon will be served on the outward journey. Arriving at Old Windsor at 2 p.m., two hours will be allowed for sports, to take place in the meadows. The return journey will commence at four, when a knife and fork tea will be served on board. Hampton Court will be reached at 8.30, and the departure from there is fixed for 9.10, arriving at Waterloo at 10 o'clock. Tickets can be had from the secretary, Harry Lester. As the number is strictly limited early application is necessary.

A CRICKET match between the Terriers and the staff of the Empire, Camberwell, took place at Freeman's Grounds, Denmark Hill, on Wednesday. Tom Packer, Sidney Lawrence, James Elmo, Woolmer Young, Sid Barker, Leon Bassett, James Willson, Fred Barker, Ben Woodger, and Algar were found among the fraternal canines; and the "Imperialists" were represented by Harry Bawn, Sam Mayo, Teddy Webb, C. Shedden, F. Martin, Edgar Budden, Ted Cowan, and others. The latter team won after an enjoyable game.

THE 513th meeting of the Executive Committee of the M.H.A.R.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon, when the following members were present:—Messrs. Charles Coborn, Harry Blake, Jeff Vendome, Fred Neiman, Douglas White, Bernard Stavordale, Fred Harrison, and C. Douglas Stuart. Mr. Charles Coborn took the chair. The date for holding the river outing will be definitely fixed next week. A deputation of the committee was appointed to interview the Ocean Accident Company regarding the insurance premiums. The hon. treasurer's statement was submitted, also the weekly statement, which showed that thirty-five members had joined during the week, and the total amount received was £41 1s.

FAVOURED by excellent weather, the teams representing the London Pavilion and the Palace Theatre, enjoyed a capital game of cricket at the Grange, East Acton, on Wednesday afternoon, victory resting with the Palace by 46 runs. For the winners, Mr. L. Smith scored 30, Mr. Graham Harding 22, Mr. J. Tasker 21, and Mr. W. Hughes 14 (not out); and for the Pavilion, Mr. D. C. Clark contributed a well-compiled 39, which included four 4's, and Mr. C. Hart made 14. The total scores were:—The Palace Theatre, 131; London Pavilion, 85.

MISS DOLLY HARMER, the clever burlesque actress, has made a big success at the Empire, Johannesburg, and is already an immense favourite on the Rand.

MISS BERTHA STUART, the favourite Scotch character vocalist, is making a big hit at the Palace, Cork. She takes a short holiday next week before opening on the Moss-Stoll Empires. Her first vacancy is January, 1911.

THE latest recruit to the music-hall stage from the theatres, viz., Mr. Charles Penrose, has been specially engaged for a principal comedy part in the Lyceum pantomime by Mr. Ernest Carpenter. This engagement has been negotiated by Mr. Fred Reeves.

MR. CHARLES ELTON, of the Kronemann Brothers, and Miss Jenny Avolo, of the Four Musical Avolos, were married on Sunday, May 12, at Philadelphia.

SWAN AND VESTA, having concluded a nine months' starring engagement and Indian tour with their successful musical comedy extravaganza, In Nelson's Days, have left Bombay on the s.s. Malta and arrive home on Tuesday.

CALVERTO, the well-known Scottish agent, who numbers amongst his clients H.R.H. the Duchess of Fife and the élite of Scotland, is now in town in search of high-class entertainers for northern concerts, private parties, &c. Letters to 12, Euston-square, will receive attention.

MR. PETT RIDGE, in a recent article on the rapid improvement of variety theatres, writes:—"One can easily count the distance of years when decent women rarely went to a music hall, and when those who had been flatly denied the experience. Those were nights of comedians who came on with a hiccough and should have been sent off with a kick; of bulky ladies who generally had bitter words to say concerning the policy of Mr. Gladstone; and of songs with two verses having no meaning, and a last verse that possessed two."

MR. FREDERICK BAUGH announces that, in consequence of the action of the Lord Chamberlain in refusing to permit variety artists to appear at the Britannia, Hoxton, he is obliged to cancel all existing contracts for that theatre.

MR. PERCY PERCIVAL, the new manager of the Hackney Empire, for the past six years has been the manager of the Grand Theatre, Wolverhampton, and, prior to that, acted as business-manager to Mr. Milton Bode in London and the provinces.

OUR readers will regret to hear of the death on Tuesday, from a stroke of paralysis, of Mr. Asher Simmons, a popular frequenter of the halls, whose amiable disposition endeared him to a large circle of friends in and out of the profession.

CINQUEVALLI, the great juggler, will appear at the Hackney Empire on Monday. This is his final appearance prior to his next American tour. It was an accident in the most emphatic sense of the word that caused Paul Cinquevalli to turn his thoughts from flying through space as a trapezist to the art which he has brought to such perfection. Cinquevalli, then but a stripling, was performing in St. Petersburg, and had flung himself from one trapeze to another, which he caught, apparently, as usual. But through some mischance the bar was greasy, and Cinquevalli fell seventy-four feet. He was picked up a mass of broken limbs, and spent eight months in the hospital. In that time he had decided to give up the trapeze business. He always had a weakness for tossing everything handy in the air, so what more natural than that he should be a juggler? So a juggler he became.

MR. MALCOLM SCOTT has given us Catherine of "Arrogance," and in his own funny way has revived memories of the triumphs of Boadicea and her woad-stained hordes. His latest "woman of knowledge" is to be Nell Gwynne, whose poetic calling as a vendor of oranges at Old Drury may have suggested the dynasty of the same name. Mr. Scott gave Sweet Nell an airing on Monday at the entertainment given by Messrs. Adeler and Sutton's Pierrots at the Olympian Gardens, Harringay, and will deliver the Gwynne monologue during the week at the London Pavilion. The latest Nell will wear a beautiful Restoration frock by Harrisons, Limited.

MRS. BENNETT, the favourite actress, has just signed with Mr. Harry Rickards, through Tom Pacey's agency, to sail for Australia on June 28.

MR. HARRY THURSTON, a clever mimic, has struck out a line for himself which has proved successful—nothing less indeed than a burlesque monologue on The Silver King. Its future is to be steered to the harbour of prosperity by the original pilot of Mr. Harry Tate—no other than Spot Oliver.

MR. FRED DAY (the manager of Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter's New York establishment) sails from that city to-day (Saturday), per s.s. Lucania, for West Hampstead and Charing Cross-road (which is another name for England, home, and beauty), on a well-deserved holiday. What sort of welcome awaits him can be better imagined than described, and a red-letter day to be marked with a white stone will be a forthcoming Saturday this June when (at Wendover, we believe) the full strength of both London branches of the great house will welcome as honoured guests at their annual outing Messrs. William Francis—happily now convalescent—and David and Fred Day. The unparalleled and stupendous progress of the British firm in the land of the Stars and Stripes has been almost entirely due to Mr. Fred Day's business perspicacity and untiring energy, and yet the house styles itself in its cable address, "Playtime, New York"!

THE Emmell Comedy Company, in a mythical muddle, entitled My Statue of Grace, appeared at Messrs. Broadhead's Manchester Hippodrome with such success on Monday that Mr. Will Dalton, who has booked the initial tour of fourteen weeks, was immediately offered all Messrs. Broadhead's other establishments for this act, which is quite a distinct novelty in the sketch line. Mr. Alfred M. Loader, the author, has provided Miss Adèle Levey with a part which suits her admirably, and she is well supported by Miss Jeannie Weston and Mr. Fred Haming.

THE Haverleys, the well-known song illustrators, finish their engagement to-night at the Richmond Theatre, where they have been doing a "trial week" for Mr. Frank Allen with a view to the Moss and Stoll circuit, and have scored a success. They leave London for an extended provincial tour on Sunday.

MISS FANNY ROBINA and Miss Florrie Cooper, after sixteen weeks' successful tour, will return to London for one week's holiday. They hope to witness Slieve Gallion win the Derby on Wednesday. They will resume business on June 10 at the Hippodrome, Crouch End.

DOLLY, Agnes, and Maud, the Staffordshire factory nightingales, have just finished a record run of three years without a break in their unique vocal and original novelty, starring both in London and the provinces.

MR. AUSTIN BOYD and Miss Trixie Gilfain are meeting with a most flattering reception at the London Pavilion in their new operette, Sunny Spain.

MR. HARRY LESLIE, of the Leslie Concert Agency, Manchester, who again is the lessee of the entertainments on the St. Anne's-on-Sea Pier, means to keep things lively for the visitors this season. He has a capital list of bookings for the Pier Theatre. Mr. Leslie has produced a surprise this week in the person of Master Joe Smith, the boy soprano. He expects much from this gifted performer. Master Smith, who is thirteen years of age, is described by the adjudicator of a festival at which he won the soprano class last week as "without doubt the finest boy soprano England has ever produced."

THE Brook Green Skittle Club gave their annual dinner at the Holborn Restaurant on Friday, May 24. Mr. A. W. Bray, one of the directors of the Camberwell Palace, is the esteemed president. An appetising menu was provided, and the musical arrangements after dinner were under the direction of Mr. Fred Neiman. Amongst those who contributed to the harmony were Miss Forsyth (soprano), Mr. Harry Lynx (comedian), Miss Linda Dale, Gurney Russell (comedian), Miss Ethel Walker (with songs at the piano), Miss Ellen Rose, Tom Collins, B. Norton, Mr. Lewis Bennett, Harry Paul, and Maurice Garland.

HENRY JORDAN, 22, a naval stoker, was charged on Monday, at West Ham, with assaulting Arthur Hunt, lessee of the Royal Albert, Canning Town, and with damaging a silk hat, which was valued at 15s. 6d. Prisoner, who was sober but in merry mood, was dancing about in the music hall on Saturday night. Refusing to desist, he was ordered to leave. A policeman was sent for, and in the course of a melée Mr. Hunt's silk hat was knocked off and smashed. Mr. Hunt added that he had no desire to press the charge, and Jordan saying he would pay 15s. 6d. for the hat, Mr. Gillespie said he would allow the charge to be withdrawn.

NECESSITY invented stools, and convenience next suggested elbow-chairs; but it has been left to Messrs. Shoolbred to patent a chair seated in which ladies will no longer need be inconvenienced by holding fan or opera glass, nor the "mere male" worried as to the preservation of his expensive "topper."

HERR THEODOR ROSENFELD, manager of the Passage Theatre, Berlin, passed away on Monday at Karlsbad, in his fifty-seventh year. For many years he has been one of the most prominent and popular figures of the variety business in Berlin, and his death will be regretted by all artists of international reputation, who came within the circle of his acquaintance.

A SALE of work to raise funds for renovating the wards of the Gordon Hospital, Vauxhall Bridge-road will be held at the Hospital on Tuesday, June 11, and will be opened by Her Highness the Ranée of Sarawak, while T.R.H. Princess Victoria and Princess Louise of Schleswig-Holstein have promised to be present. The work of the Hospital is seriously hampered for lack of funds, and the occasion is one that must commend itself to all charitably-disposed persons. Mr. Fred W. Mills, who has recently undergone an operation, speaks highly of the skill and attention that are being shown to him at this excellent institution.

MRS. MEL B. SPURR desires through the columns of The Era to thank Mr. Nelson Jackson, Mr. Robert Reynolds, Mr. Walter Grace, Mr. George Robins (chairman), and Mr. Arthur Roberts (secretary), of the Concert Artists' Benevolent Fund for the great assistance they have been to her and her child. The long, weary waiting for the settlement of her late husband's affairs caused the widow acute distress, and brought her and her daughter to a dreadfully reduced position. As she says in her letter to us, "Everything seemed so hopeless for us, and but for them (the gentlemen mentioned above), I dread to think what we should have done."

MRS. CAMP has for sale the singing rights of several of her husband's unpublished songs. She also desires to warn unauthorised singers against infringement of her rights in her late husband's property. Those desirous of acquiring any of the numbers may communicate with Mrs. Camp, 27, Gairloch-road, Camberwell, S.E.

MR. ROBERT GANTHONY writes:—"A very happy company, with a number of funny recollections, terminates its engagement at the Alhambra, Paris, this week. The engagement has been made very comfortable by the sustained courtesy of Mr. Brookes, the stage-manager, who is always looking after the company in many ways, which is of great assistance in a foreign city, and always cheerful, pleasant, and unaffected. Mr. Neighbour imitates his courtesy, but naturally we do not see as much of him as we do of our stage-manager.® The stage hands, especially those born in the city, speak French very well, which is not to be wondered at, as they are always practising. Those who speak with a Yorkshire accent get on best with English artists.

"WHEN we arrived in France James Stewart, who did not wear his tramp's costume, was mistaken for an English nobleman, and the crowd of porters surrounded him, crying 'Pour boire!' 'What do they call me "poor boy" for?' he asked. 'I don't want their pity if I can't speak French.' It was explained that they wanted his pity, and were asking for a drink. We got into the train de luxe (the express), which of course provoked a lot of fierce talk and as much gesticulation when we showed our tickets as we should all use in a life-time. Some of the party, on arriving at their lodgings, found them full. Not speaking a word of French, they felt done till one took the cabman to an Alhambra bill displayed on a wall, and, slapping the address, returned to the cab, and, by this action, to the Alhambra, where they found friends who secured them apartments.

"ONE artist, after his show, went to the bar in front of the house and then remembered he didn't know how to ask for a drink in French, so walked up and down the corridor with a thirst that was inconvenient. Seeing Mr. Neighbour, he asked him what he should say. When asked what he wanted, he said, 'A bottle of Bass.' 'Then go to the bar and say "I want a bottle of Bass"—they are all English girls.' How easy it was after that! The general plan of living is to hire your apartment, and, beyond your morning café au lait complet—a bowl of coffee, rolls and butter—you look to the restaurants for your other meals. It has been intensely hot at times during the month—90 degrees in the shade—although we heard that the weather has been unsettled in England.

"THE route viâ Boulogne is the shortest sea trip and the longest train journey, and the excess luggage comes expensive. Mine cost as much as my fare. The route viâ Dieppe and Newhaven is the shortest train and longest sea trip, but the turbine steamers make the water journey pleasanter, the cost of excess luggage is not so alarming, and the fare is less. Luggage can be sent as freight, but this is only possible to those who have not to show soon after arrival. These few particulars may be useful to those contemplating a Continental engagement.

"ON our opening night there was a revolution in progress, and the crowds swarmed in the Place Republique, and the mounted soldiers galloped about the streets, which, as you were not allowed on the path, made pedestrianism more dangerous than is usual in Parisian highways, which is saying something. We didn't know if we should open, but after a soldier or so had been shot and one or two orators of the labouring classes quieted with a few bullets from the soldiers, things quieted down, and we showed to a packed house. We heard the shots from the stage-door, and saw the crowds following the bodies of the killed and wounded, which didn't give us the impression that Paris was quite as gay as it was represented. The "harmony" of our company was not confined to the Four in our programme, but was universal with the entire company during the entire month, and I don't think some of us will ever forget our month in Paris and our trouble with the vernacular."

VERSATILITY has not only its rewards and its penalties, but it demands no little strenuousness on the part of its fortunate possessor, as Mr. Fowler Thatcher has discovered during the last three months. Finishing as Tommy Green in pantomime one Saturday night, he opened as the Baron in a Red Riding Hood burlesque on the following Thursday, finishing on the Saturday. He opened on Monday for a special week as lecturer and ventriloquist. Travelling from London by the Saturday night mail, he arrived at Wednesbury, and, with one rehearsal on Sunday night, played the old man in Leo Dryden's sketch, Charley's Indian, during the week, besides doing a single turn. A telegram from Messrs. Garside and Knowles on the Tuesday necessitated his travelling from Huddersfield to Rotherham, to rehearse in the day-time. This travelling, rehearsing, and playing nightly occupied from 9 a.m. till 10.30 p.m., not leaving much time for study; but still, Mr. Thatcher opened perfect in the principal comedy part of over 500 lines on the next Monday night at the Theatre Royal, Leeds, in The London Fireman.

PARIS VARIETY GOSSIP.

THE Revue at the Ambassadeurs will be produced early in June. In the meantime there is an excellent company on the concert programme, including Mlle. Foscolo, M. Strack, and Mayol, with a good budget of new songs.

THE Alcazar d'Ete opened on May 17 with their summer Revue and a fine concert programme. Special items in the latter are Braatz's dogs, who made a big success here last year, and Rebla, the comic juggler. The Lorrison Sisters are also paying a return visit, and have several good numbers in the Revue.

MISS LAWLER, who has been for so long associated with the successes at La Cigale, and who is at present at the Variétés, has been offered an engagement at the Palace Theatre. If she accepts, this clever young lady will no doubt be seen in London about the month of July. It is also stated that Mr. Alfred Butt, on his recent visit to Paris, engaged Miss Maud Allen, who introduced her wonderful dance, "The Vision of Salome," into the Variétés' Revue a short time ago.

THE Marigny is doing excellent business. The Revue has been judiciously pruned, and now forms an excellent evening's entertainment. The principal attraction in the variety programme is the Sisters Hengler, who sing some well-chosen numbers from their répertoire of American successes. Little Allright, the Mascott Trio, and Paul Lacroix are also starring here.

MISS HANOKO, the celebrated Japanese artist, has made a big success at the Little Palace in the drama, A Little Japanese Girl.

BARRASFORD'S Alhambra will close on June 15 until Sept. 1. A new company is due on June 1. The Eldorado also announces its annual closing for May 30. At the Bal Tabaran, Bert Coote's Belles of New York have made a big hit, and their success is fully deserved, for they give an excellent entertainment.

Now that the hot weather has started, the Jardin de Paris is becoming the Mecca of the English and American visitors. A delightful evening may be spent there, as, besides the beautiful gardens, there is an excellent variety and circus show.

AT the Folies-Bergere the Madcaps are the latest addition to the bill. The musical piece, Pretty Madge, and Rider Stone in his daring cycling act still hold the chief positions on the programme.

AT the Olympia the Revue Merveilleuse is still drawing crowded houses. The principal rôles are sustained by Mlles. Lena Ruby, Lise Fleuron, Pompomette, and M. Leprince.

AT La Cigale, the new summer Revue is in active preparation, one of the chief rôles being played by M. Prince, of the Variétés.

THE STANDARD.

The old-established hall of which Mr. T. S. Dickie is the proprietor and manager, has been the scene of great excitement this week, caused by the performances given by the Yamato Trio of Japanese wrestlers. They are three in number, Yamato, the leader; Taiko, who is only eighteen years of age; and O-Fugi-San, a young English lady with a Japanese name. They are introduced to the audience by Mr. R. Voss, manager for Yamato, who explains that Japanese wrestling is different from all other kinds, and gives particulars concerning each of the contestants. Then follows an exhibition of "Kata," known as Ju-Jitsu self-defence, by O-Fugi-San and Yamato. This performance shows how a lady can defend herself against any attack on the part of a mere man, the assailant being quickly and effectually floored at each attempt to kiss her, or place his arm around her waist. After an exhibition of Ju-Jitsu wrestling by the young lady and Taiko in quick time, the various locks and holds are shown by the leader of the troupe, a member of the audience, who has been invited to come upon the stage, acting as assistant in this interesting illustration of how a man can be held quite securely, his struggles to release himself from the grip resulting only in a broken arm or leg. Lastly, come contests between the two Japanese and wrestlers who have accepted their challenges. It is these competitions that are responsible for most of the excitement. On the night of our visit Sailor Ditch wrestled with Taiko, and Jack Mittin with Yamato, and both contests proved to be of a very spirited character.

The quartet known as the Dandies are appearing here in their refined musical mélange, called "Song, Mirth, and Dance." The two ladies and two gentlemen, who form the troupe, sing excellently, more particularly Mr. Henry J. Corner, the leader, a baritone vocalist, whose fine rendering of "The Trumpeter" evokes quite a storm of applause. The ladies display much vivacity, and the whole entertainment is one that can be heartily commended. The Meymotts, in their comedy duologue, entitled Semi-Detached, represent a lawyer and a lady who lives in the adjoining flat. She calls to ask his advice on a legal matter, and he makes the discovery that his visitor is the pianiste and vocalist, who, by her poor playing and singing, has caused him so much annoyance and loss of temper. However, he also discovers that the lady is a widow with a large fortune, and the impecunious lawyer resolves to win her case and, eventually, her hand, too. The duologue is rattled through in capital style by Mr. and Mrs. Meymott, to the accompaniment of merry laughter. Mr. Harry Tate's No. 1 company, in Motoring, also adds to the gaiety of the audiences at the Standard. The sketch has been considerably elaborated since it was first produced, and the succession of funny incidents causes continual merriment. Mr. Laurence Barclay, comedian, opens with the ditty, "Oh! Ria," and quite wins the favour of the audience with his grotesque impersonation of a lady of the ballet. Little Zola, eccentric comedian, makes a palpable hit by his funny rendering of his songs, "Four feet two and a bit," and "Whoever would have thought it?" Zola's broad grin is a thing to remember; and his agility is quite marvellous. The Brothers Adderley, in their musical act, meet with deserved success; and Oakley and James, comedy duo, give a capital turn. Miss Ethel Ra-Leslie has an excellent voice, and sings in truly artistic style "Egypt" and another well-chosen song. Miss Arabella Allen's impersonations of characters from Dickens's novels are very good; Miss Ethel Yorke, comedienne, is well received; and so also are Mr. John Macauley, character vocalist, and Mr. Wal Phillips, comedian. The Katos, with their automatic theatre, is another commendable turn. Under the able direction of Mr. Frederick Allwood the orchestra performs a selection from The Casino Girl; and Mr. Maurice Volney performs the duties of assistant-manager with zeal and courtesy.

PRESENTATION.—Mr. Fred Ball, who is retiring from the position of assistant-manager of Boscombe Hippodrome to take up a similar post at Southampton, was the recipient, on the 26th ult., of a handsome 18c. gold watch and chain, given to him by a few personal friends as a mark of the esteem in which he has been held during his twelve months' stay at the Hippodrome.

MR. W. F. FRAME, "the man you know," was called upon on Monday night to appear at the Manchester Hippodrome in addition to his performance at the Ardwick Empire. Hooch Aye!

SONGS, WRITERS, AND SINGERS.

A CHARMING song just being issued by Messrs. Francis and Day, is entitled "I'd be happy in a wigwam with you." It is by Harry Castling and Fred Godfrey, and will be much in request at seaside resorts.

MR. GEORGE LASHWOOD will on Monday, at the Holloway Empire, sing a new song by Chas Wilmott and Max Darewski, jun., entitled "In the twilight." Mr. Lashwood has such a high opinion of the prospective popularity of this number that Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter, the publishers, are working their printing staff night and day to get an enormous supply ready for the trade.

MR. WOOLMER YOUNG has just published with Mr. David Day's firm a stirring song, by Harry Adams (of "On guard" fame) and Ernée Woodville, entitled "Don't you think it's time that you woke up, John Bull?"

MR. MARK SHERIDAN'S newest number, "There's no harm in kissing a lady," by Alf Rick and Maurice Scott, has just been secured by Messrs. Francis and Day.

MISS MAUD ESMOND is scoring a success this week with her two latest numbers, "My beautiful Avon rose," published by Francis, Day, and Hunter, and "I'd like to call you sweetheart," by Shapiro, Von Tilzer.

THE success of Mr. Sam Mayo's two songs, "The Policeman" and "I'm going to sing a song," is phenomenal, and both of them are in great demand for seaside work, and the publishers, Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Co., Ltd., are inundated with applications.

MR. GEORGE LASHWOOD will feature next week, at the Holloway Empire, his latest success, "Girls all love a soldier bold" (Bagley and Moore), of which he intends to make a special feature on the Moss and Stoll tour. The publishing rights have been secured by the Shapiro, Von Tilzer Co.

MISS MAUD ESMOND'S success in "I'd like to call you sweetheart," with which she scored an unmistakable hit in town, has been evoking much enthusiasm from Stoke-on-Trent audiences, and the publishers, Shapiro, Von Tilzer Music Co., consider this one of the most promising of the season's numbers.

POSSIBLY the most successful song ever penned by that clever author-composer, Mr. J. F. Lambe, viz., "Queen of Old Samara," has been well "featured," both in town and country, this week, notably in Kitty Grey at the Marlborough Theatre, by Miss Eily Helene, also by Misses Lilian Lea and Margaret Radcliffe, and by Mrs. Fred Elton, on tour. This famous item in the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s "Sixpenny Successes" is being extensively sung everywhere by every pierrot troupe of note.

So great has been the success of "Little Miss Turpentine," by Messrs. John P. Harrington and Jas. W. Tate, both at the Tivoli and Euston, on its production this week by Little Tich, that that talented artist has given the same author and composer a practically unlimited commission for new songs and "business." The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. are including "Little Miss Turpentine" in their "Sixpenny Successes."

ON all hands it is conceded that the hit of both the London Pavilion and Holborn Empire programmes this week is that charming song-scena, "My Cuban Girl," by Harrington and Tate, wherewith Miss José Collins (a veritable replica of the charming and vivacious Lottie of that ilk) is scoring the biggest success she has ever yet experienced on the variety stage. The Monte Carlo Publishing Co. have already had many trade demands for this tuneful number, which will be ready for issue at the end of the coming week. No other music-hall permissions for this song will be granted for many months to come.

MISS MARGARET RADCLIFFE, most dashing of princi pal boys and burlesque artists, will open in town at the Palace, Camberwell, on Monday next, when she will attempt to repeat the success she has been achieving in the provinces with the same two songs that she has been singing all round her tour, viz., "I'm going back to the Fatherland," by Mellor, Lawrance, and Gifford, and "Queen of Old Samara," by J. F. Lambe. Both of these successful numbers are published by the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.

WHEN Miss Vesta Victoria returns to England shortly, after her victorious American campaign, on her reappearance on this side she will make a special feature of her successful "sequel" song, by Harrington and Tate, "I've told his missus all about him," which has "caught on" so tremendously in the States. Miss Victoria will also sing, "I'm looking for a Don Juan," by the some prolific author and composer. Both songs are published by the Monte Carlo Publishing Co. in their "Sixpenny Successes" series.

"THE MOATED GRANGE."

Vaudeville, in One Act, written by Frederick Bowyer, Music by Carlotta Rowe, Produced at the Royal Hippodrome, Preston, on Monday, May 20.

Jonah Tittlebit ..... MR. EDWIN GARTH
Maria Amelia ..... MISS ISSA STEELE
Adelina Fitzhohn ..... MISS HETTIE LIND
Rembrandt Oscar Smythers ..MR. J. MORGAN

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The writer of The Moated Grange has successfully availed himself of the humorous possibilities of his subject, and on Monday evening the vaudeville was received by a large audience with hearty laughter and applause. Jonah Tittlebit is the new tenant of the Moated Grange, and has just entered into possession prior to the arrival of his wife and her daughter, who shortly afterwards appear and express emphatic objection to their new home, with its dismal aspect and "creepy" occupants in the shape of beetles, &c. During the absence of the other characters, one Rembrandt Oscar Smythers, deposits on the floor of the hall a note stating that one murder has already been committed at the Moated Grange, and bidding the present tenants beware, as they are doomed to the same fate. This note is discovered by Mrs. Tittlebit, who is thrown into a state of terror thereby, and Jonah declares that under such circumstances her prejudices against their new abode is fully warranted. Rembrandt then presents himself before Jonah, whom he invites to join him in a draught of poisoned beer. Jonah makes a pretence of drinking the beer, and, with mock pathos bids "Good-bye for ever" to his "beloved sausages, his wife, and daughter." At this point Rembrandt sues for the hand of Adelina (Jonah's daughter), and on assuring her father that the liquor is not poisoned and confessing that he (Rembrandt) is the writer of the mysterious note, he is rewarded with the hand of the fair Adelina.

Mr. Edwin Garth provided abundant fun in the rôle of Jonah Tittlebit; Miss Issa Steele effectively portrayed Maria Amelia; Miss Hettie Lind sang and acted well as Adelina; and Rembrandt Oscar Smythers had an excellent representative in Mr. J. Morgan. Appropriate music has been supplied by Miss Carlotta Rowe, and the production as a whole should prove an acceptable item in any programme.

PALACE IMPROVEMENTS.

The lavish but masterly use of gold in the decorations, the lovely marble frame of the proscenium, and the quality of the scheme of ornament generally lend to the Palace Theatre the proud distinction of chaste magnificence, and its dazzling richness, elegant spaciousness, and sumptuous upholstery, have set a standard that, even in the present century, is rarely approached. But the theatre, regarded as perfect in 1891 by the L.C.C. of that date, did not quite satisfy the new authority at Spring Gardens. Since Mr. Calcott's terra-cotta façade reared its head in Cambridge-circus, the laws of theatre-structure have undergone much revision; new ideas have been formulated by successive committees; and the edict went forth from the L.C.C. to the Palace Board to set their house in order. Mr. Alfred Butt and his brother directors, Mr. T. Ernest Polden and Mr. Cremetti, have interpreted this edict in the most liberal spirit, and, under the direction of Mr. Emblin Walker, the company's architect, whose theatrical experience dates back forty years, for many weeks past, in the silent watches of the night, alterations of the most radical character have been carried out, both behind and in front of the footlights.

To alter the French apophthegm—autres temps, autres chaises: the fauteuils and stall seats have been entirely replaced with the "Shoolbred" patent chairs—new, luxurious, up to date, and resembling in appearance cosy and comfortable drawing-room chairs, which seem to spell "welcome" to all visitors. They are of dark polished mahogany, inlaid with satinwood, and are of the Sheraton type. The number of each seat is emblazoned in a medallion of marqueterie centred in the backs. They are upholstered in old gold frieze velvet. In the front of each row two polished mahogany shelves are ingeniously fitted—the upper one to accommodate fans, opera glasses, and so forth, and the lower to provide a safe place for gentlemen's hats. The simple elegance of the chairs is very striking, and the whole installation, which was carried through under the direction of Mr. George Ridout, of the famous firm in Tottenham Court-road, only occupied two days. The rich blue carpets and draperies are by Messrs. Maple and Co.

On the South side of the stalls a new direct exit has been created to the street; two doors have been fitted to this exit which, by an automatic arrangement, open instantaneously on the slightest pressure from the inside, whilst the double doors have the effect of keeping out any possible draught. From this new direct exit an entrance to the corridor has been made which leads directly to the refreshment buffets, and this, with the corridor on the other side of the house, to which an improved entrance has been made from the stalls on the North side, forms an ambulatory which is without rival in any other house of amusement. The new exit on the ground floor in direct communication with the street increases the number to seven.

That part of the stage which hitherto projected beyond the proscenium has been cut off, and a new ornamental shield has been put to the footlights. The floor of the orchestra has been raised several inches so that the music can be heard to better advantage.

Automatic-closing fire-resisting doors have been fitted throughout, so that not only the stage and its appurtenances, but the whole of the administrative departments, are now cut off from that part of the house used by the public.

Directly underneath the stage, and in a line with the proscenium opening, a solid concrete base has been installed, and when the iron curtain is lowered on this the stage is completely isolated from the front part of the house.

The gangways and exits on the ground floor have all been widened, and the pillars at the back of the promenade have been considerably reduced, so as to give a getter view of the stage from the promenade.

The whole of the electric installation in front of the house has been thoroughly overhauled, and a very considerable amount of new wiring has been done. An elaborate new switchboard has been installed on the stage, and three others in front of the house, thus enabling the lights on the stage and those in front of the house to be independently controlled. The auditorium lighting has been rearranged on a duplicate system, one service being kept constantly supplied by the theatre's own generating plant, consisting of four 140-horse power engines with three locomotive boilers, and a second supply from the Charing Cross Supply Company, thus completely guarding against any possible failure of current from either source, and ensuring certainty of light throughout.

It may be interesting to mention that the electric lights for the stage and auditorium number more than 5,000, the stage alone needing 1,700 32-candle power lamps.

The bioscope chamber, which is fireproof throughout, has been fitted with a most modern switchboard, and a new bioscope lamp, which is capable of taking 100 amps. This is the highest capacity of any bioscope lamp in London, and in a great measure is responsible for the steadiness and clearness of the pictures. In the event of a breakdown, the new switchboard immediately enables the operator to change over on to another circuit. The tableaux curtains have been remodelled and the scenery has been entirely repainted by Mr. Philip Howden. Everything on the stage has been chemically treated for the prevention of fire.

A private view of the alterations and improvements was afforded a select company on Tuesday afternoon, when Mr. Herman Finck's orchestra discoursed the following selections of excellent music:—Overture, "Di Ballo," Sullivan; suite de ballet, "Les Deux Pigeons," Messager; entr'acte, "La Colombe," Gounod; "Danse des Bacchantes," Gounod; three dances from Nell Gwynne, E. German; "Chant sans Paroles," Tchaikowsky; ballet music, Faust, Gounod; gavotte, "Yellow Jasmine" (from "The Language of Flowers"), Cowen; "Moonlight Dance," Finck; barcarolle, "Tales of Hoffmann," Offenbach; valse, "Caressante," Lambert; and incidental music to The Tempest, Sullivan.

MR. GUS ELEN AND PARTY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—A misstatement of facts appeared in various newspapers during the past week referring to Mr. Gus Elen becoming a variety artist-manager, and running his own company at the Royal Victoria Hall. Mr. Elen, with ALL the company, was engaged by Miss Baylis (for Miss Cons, hon. sec.) at a stipulated salary, and took no financial risk, neither did he engage any one of the company. I believe he asked Miss Baylis to bill him as Mr. Gus Elen and party, which she did. Mr. Elen's reasons assigned in various papers for running his own companies have caused great annoyance, and as we were appearing on the same programme, and were engaged and paid by the Royal Victoria management, I feel it my duty to dissociate myself from Mr. Elen's action, and in justice to myself to state the true facts.—Yours faithfully,

HARRY BLAKE,

MR. J. P. HARRINGTON, who has just recently moved into a larger Lyric Lodge at Bedford, had a pleasant surprise a few days since whilst plodding along the country road. A motor pulled up, and he was greeted by the voice of Miss Marie Lloyd, en route from Scotland to London.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE TIVOLI.

Masked singers have been for some years familiar objects of the seashore; and the air of romance engendered by hidden identity no doubt has had much to do with the general acceptance of the device by entertainers sur la plage. The latest vocalists secured by Mr. Joseph Wilson have adopted the same expedient, and appear under the broad designation of the Wanderers. They have strolled apparently from the opera stage, and are a trio of performers who sing with rare excellence. The baritone chooses "Dream in the twilight," by Strauss, and gives the solo the requisite tone-colour. The soprano chooses the very difficult air from Ambroise Thomas's opera Mignon, "Je suis Titania," making light of the scale passages and trills; and the contralto is heard to advantage in "Softly awakes my heart" from Samson and Delilah, by Saint-Säens. In conclusion, the three join with good effect in Henry Smart's trio, "Queen of the Night." The mysterious effect of the soloists' disappearance is cleverly heightened by the darkening of the stage, and they sing before a diaphanous curtain on which various coloured rays of light are thrown.

An enormous Tivoli favourite returned on Monday in the person of Little Tich, who is at the zenith of his popularity. "'I've only just found it out" is the prelude to a number that bids fair to be as successful as was the lamented Dan Leno's "Shopwalker." It is entitled "The drapery sale," and touches in the most humorous fashion on domestic economics. Our womankind love a bargain; and the weakness of the sex for securing something cheap is cleverly satirised. Screams of laughter greet the appearance of the great little comedian as the patient and long-suffering husband, loaded with responsibility and parcels as a result of his visit with Martha to a drapery sale where "things were cheap." "Little Miss Turpentine," a tuneful composition by J. P. Harrington and J. W. Tate, enables Little Tich to repeat his triumphs as a burlesque serpentine dancer, and he is assured of the immense favour he enjoys by repeated calls.

The American tramp comedian has long been a welcome turn on our stage; and Mr. Will Van Allen, who elects to sink his respectability in tattered garments, is an excellent banjoist—as well as a patter comedian. The comic man belonging to the combination, Cole and Rags—the latter fellow we presume—is also decidedly funny in his various juggling tricks, adopting the dolce far niente, indifferent manner that makes his seeming gaucheries so effective in the promotion of mirth. He is very alert, however, at the conclusion of the turn, when he catches a number of plates thrown at him with lightning-like rapidity.

Miss Annie Purcell introduces nothing new; but the absence of a turn on the night of our call let in the living encyclopædia, Datas, who kept the house interested by the accuracy of his marvellous memory. Mr. Harry Fragson has a clever new song, "Fairy Tales"; Miss Jenny Burns, being a Scotch balladist, chooses, like most of her countrywomen, "Annie Laurie," which always goes down; Kurkamp, the singing conductor, has a pretty song in "Loveland"; Mr. Tom Woottvell has an excellent vehicle for his humour in "Blowed if I didn't wake up"; and other turns in the bill are Carrie Laurie's Juveniles, George Robey, Dan Crawley, the Three Newsomes, fine acrobats, and Lee and Kingston. Mr. James Howell, "in front," is a popular assistant-manager.

THE SURREY.

Twice nightly, all the year round, Mr. Frank Macnaghten's patrons pack every part of the spacious variety theatre at St. George's Circus, sure of an entertainment full of infinite variety and enjoyment. The current programme is chock-full of good things, each item winning enthusiastic approval. Sold to Slavery, a condensed version of the old drama, The Octoroon, is admirably played throughout by Mr. Arnold Bell as Salem Scudder. Miss Frances Campbell as Zoe, Mr. Cuthbert Imrie as the slave dealer, Jacob McClosky, Mr. J. W. Henson as Pointdexter, Miss Dorothy Richardson as the lad Paul, and Mr. Arthur Lennard as the mute Indian, Wah-no-Tee, the last-mentioned in a capital character-study, full of clever points. Another attractive item is the strong military sketch, For the Honour of the Regiment, which proves of absorbing interest to the Surreyites. The chief characters are powerfully delineated by Miss Irene Carlton as the faithful Vera Dare, Mr. Henry Hillar as Captain Harry Dare, V.C., Mr. R. Crickshanks as the repentant renegade, Major Carr, Mr. Frank Hardie as the dude, Lieut. Clive, Mr. Fred Dobell as the Colonel, and Mr. A. N. Body as the smart (?) Private Jones. Both these productions are adequately staged and warmly received.

Mulvey and Miarim are a couple of clever artists, and in their bright and merry duologue, In the Studio, indulge in much original humorous cross-talk, coon songs, and decidedly unique dancing, which wins them much applause. G. W. Hunter still retains a firm hold on public favour, and keeps his audience laughing all the time with his merry song and patter on "Woman, their many faults and virtues," and one of his own smartly-written humorous songs on "The freedom of the Press." The Pichels are a troupe of three adults and two fearless youngsters, whose feats of hand and feet balancing, springs, and protean acrobatism, are all neatly executed and full of skilful precision. Lade Henderson, the actor-vocalist, hits the tastes of his audience in a song entitled "John Bull's Empire," a strong indictment of the present Government's Little England policy. Augustin and Hartley, in their wonderful barrel act, perform marvellous jumping feats that require coolness, judgment, and skill, while the young and graceful lady performer lends ready assistance.

Miss Rose Elliott has a cultured voice and the rare charm of being both heard and understood. Her song, "I'm wearing my heart away for you," is full of tender sentiment, and a equally happy theme is found in her second effort, "What's the good of worrying father?" The Lorrisons are a right merry couple, with much quaint and amusing business and unique dancing. Florrie Bray, bright and buxom, is charming in her rendering of "On the pier at Blackpool." Milner Verren's light tenor voice is heard to advantage in his song, "I love daddy"; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux depict incidents of the Thaw Trial. Mr. Charles Craig is the able manager of the Surrey, and Mr. Rattray's orchestra is efficient in every respect.

THE METROPOLITAN.

The Master Musician, the playlet by Thomas Broadhurst, which forms one of the leading attractions in the current Metropolitan programme, is an excellent specimen of the stage production which is just suited to the requirements of a variety theatre audience. The white-haired musician is a picturesque central figure, and the pathos of the story is direct and forcible without being in the least exaggerated. The devotion to the old man of the little slavey, Jenny, is touching in its sincerity, and the tragedy of the starving genius is brought home to the audience in so effective a manner as to arouse the keenest sympathy for old Heinrich Klein, the poor musician, dependent for a meal upon a good-hearted lodging-house drudge. But the sunshine of happiness and prosperity breaks through the dark clouds at last, and Jenny is duly rewarded for her unselfish loyalty. Mr. Auguste Van Biene puts real feeling into his embodiment of the title-rôle, and his selections on the 'cello, played in his own masterly style, are keenly appreciated by the audience. Miss Lena Burnleigh continues to play with marked success the part of Jenny, the slavey, whose sympathy for the half-starved musician takes such practical form. Miss R. Pulleyne is also well suited as the pupil, Miss Carlisle. Mr. Percival Goffin acts as musical director for Mr. Van Biene.

The Tally-To Trio are engaged here this week. They arrange to meet at an hotel; one arrives before his friends, and disguises himself as a waiter; but they knew him all the time, and so the joke misses fire. The trio give some excellent vocal selections, and the touches of comedy introduced are very welcome. Mr. Ernest Rees is correctly described as "a droll comedian." His patter excites much hilarity, more particularly his remarks concerning the ladies, and the contrast in their appearance when out for the evening and when next morning they are seen taking in the milk. Mr. Mike Nolan, the popular Irish comedian, also scores with his patter, which is richly humorous. He renders his songs in good style, and concludes with a funny recitation, "Murphy must not sing to-night." Mr. Harry Rogerson, known as "the tired comedian," appears in the character of a doctor's boy-in-buttons, who, when the curtain rises, is discovered asleep on a couch. He carries on an amusing conversation with one of his master's patients by means of a telephone, and so far conquers his desire for taking it easy as to indulge in a nimble dance. The Three Sisters Silcott, appearing in ordinary attire, sing with good effect a song about "Big brown eyes," and then, effecting a quick change, they reappear as smart naval officers, and give a lively ditty and dance, which evoke much applause. Little Ganty causes roars of laughter by his droll antics, first as a policeman and then as a soldier carrying a lance. His success in both characters is beyond question. Miss Ethel Ra Leslie, in the handsome costume of a bygone day, contributes a couple of songs in charming style; and Miss May Belfort, making her first appearance in the old country after her recent successful American tour, makes a hit with her song, "The story of a woman-hater," and another well-chosen ditty. Mr. Will Evans easily sustains his reputation as a comedian, and, as usual, he quickly gets on good terms with the audience. Marquis and Mignonette appear in their comedy act, entitled Little Willie; Miss Agnes Hazel has a good song in "Always look before you leap," and also well received are Miss Nora Moore, comedienne; Mr. Geo. W. Day, "the man from New York"; and Miss Katie Butler, character comedienne. In Mr. Henry De Vry's white marble statuary act are reproduced some famous groups, including "Peace," "By the Waters of Babylon," "The Runners," and other classical subjects. Jeapes's "animated Graphic" depicts "A Woodland Tragedy," a realistic poaching sensation; and during the interval the orchestra, under the direction of Mr. D. M. Trytel, plays a selection from Planquette's comic opera, Rip Van Winkle. The front of the house is under the careful supervision of the manager, Mr. J. W. Edgar.

ISLINGTON EMPIRE.

The first-class entertainment which is being provided at this hall during the current week is receiving good patronage; and not without reason, for the programme is sparkling with brilliant items, and not a dull moment is experienced from start to finish. Mr. Allan Holt's company, in the smart sketch, A Society Woman, holds a prominent position in the bill. The playlet is one of considerable interest, is well mounted and staged, and is represented by a capital cast. The story is sufficiently powerful in itself to hold the close attention of the audience from beginning to end, and the piece is brought to an exciting conclusion by means of a realistic and sensational nght between a man and a woman. Each character receives adequate treatment, and both players and playlet meet with much appreciation. Miss Nina Gordon proves herself to be a clever mimic, and is warmly applauded. She ably reproduces the style and mannerisms of such widely differing stars as Harry Lauder, Eugene Stratton, Connie Ediss, Vesta Victoria, and Gus Elen, and is to be congratulated on her excellent performance.

Mr. Arthur Pearl causes considerable laughter with the song, "She left her little brother at home," and his other contribution is also delivered in good style. Mr H. O. Wills is a comedian with the drollest of methods. His song, "I kept on waving my flag," savours of the essence of humour, and is ably rendered by this clever artist. Much praise is due to the King's College Boys, whose voices blend admirably in many operatic numbers. Particularly good is the rendering of Piccolomini's popular ballad, "Ora Pro Nobis," given by one of their number, and the applause they obtain is certainly well deserved. The Morton Comedy Trio dispense some admirable music, and infuse a good deal of eccentricity into their work, their efforts being appreciated to the full. An excellent performance is provided by Tray and Rich, a couple of song and patter comedians of a high order. The quaintness of their methods is very striking, and the ball of fun is kept merrily rolling whilst they occupy the stage.

Miss Daisy Stratton, a clever and charming comedienne, quickly places herself well up in public favour with her song, "In old Cologne." She uses her excellent voice to great advantage, and finishes with a neatly-executed dance. Several pictures of much interest are shown by the Imperial Bioscope. The Piccad Troupe appear in their pantomimical absurdity, entitled The Burglars of New York, in which some clever acrobatic business is freely introduced. Throughout the piece fun and frolic reign supreme, and the quaintness and originality of the act is much appreciated. Mr. A. Petersen, the musical director, leads his forces with his customary skill; and Mr. Harry Blight, the manager, ably attends to the front of the house, thereby ensuring the comfort of its patrons.

THE FORESTERS'.

A thoroughly enjoyable programme is provided this week, and the large appreciative audience on Monday evening welcomed each number in the most favourable manner. The principal item is the Six Brothers Luck, in their original pantomime, The Hotel Grande. In this the audience is kept continually in roars of laughter by the comicalities of the waiters. The Brothers also do some very clever tumbling. This very attractive scene is well staged, and beautifully illuminated by electricity. Soupsa's band playing in the balcony is a funny skit. Dandy George and his dog Rosie furnish an interesting turn. The canine has been trained to perfection, and the very difficult and catchy commands of her master she obeys immediately. Dandy George is also a neat and clever gymnast. The Misses Tennis and Laune are two bright little ladies, who sing admirably together "I want no other little girl but you." Their next item, "Life's three chapters," is a good song, in which youth, middle and old age are well described by the young couple.

The Three Pirmans (a lady and two gentlemen), in their comedy pantomime act, are specially good, for, combined with some clever tumbling, the males do some difficult feats on the horizontal bars, and their legmania business is capital. Mr. Tatten Hall, comedian, renders in delightful style a song describing how very lazy he is; and his next number, "Hang that eyeglass," is also popular. James Willard and company, in an amusing dramatic sketch, entitled Did he Deserve It? show the troubles the villain (capitally played by Mr. Willard) meets with in his endeavours to force his attentions on a pretty flower-girl, who is invited by his fiancée to her flat with the object of giving her a better position in life. Miss Mildred Carr plays well the character of the pugilistic lady; Miss Queenie Elliott as the flower girl is very pretty; the page-boy, Little Tony, is a funny little chap.

Miss Jenny Venton, comedienne with plenty of dash, sings "Cheyenne," and another pretty little song, "The poorest coon on earth," finishing with a quick-time neat little step dance. Mr. Horace Slade performs in neat style a top-boot dance. Miss Daisy de Roy, in very attractive dresses, submits two catchy numbers, "A castle on the sands" and "I wonder if the girl I'm thinking of is thinking of me!" much to the liking of the audience. The Campeons, nautical and coster duettists and dancers, sing a "natty" little song concerning Jack on his holidays, and the sailor concludes with a smart hornpipe. The Maxim Girls are seen in a couple of clever acrobatic dances. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux presents a fine film in "The Orphan Child." The orchestra is ably conducted by Mr. W. McDonald, and the very genial manager, Mr. Cochrane, is indefatigable in his endeavours to make everyone comfortable.

"THE KING O' THE CASTLE."

A Sketch, in One Scene, by Wal Pink, produced for the first time at the Camberwell Palace on Monday, May 27.

Peter Slowburn ..... Mr. Joe Elvin
Seraphina ..... Miss Nina Osborne
Mrs. Maggett ..... Miss Stafford
Dr. John Maggett ..... Mr. Harry Low
Amelia ..... Miss Grace Vicat
Mr. Briggs ..... Mr. Kenneth Altamont

The long list of "winners" which stand to the credit of Mr. Joe Elvin was added to in an unmistakable way on Monday by his creation of the title-rôle in the above-named playlet written by Wal Pink, with music by J. S. Baker. There is a welcome element of freshness in the idea conceived by Mr. Pink, who has done such good service for the popular comedian in times past, and has now fitted him with a rôle in which quite a new trait of his talent is developed. The regal hero of the piece is Peter Slowburn, an invertebrate individual who is at the mercy of his wife and his mother-in-law, not to speak of the brother, a medical man. The landlord of the house has announced his intention of raising the rent, despite the fact that a large sum of money has been spent by the tenant on improvements, and Peter has not sufficient energy to resist the imposition. The landlord refuses to discuss the matter with anyone but Peter, and Dr. Maggett determines to prepare a draught which will infuse new life into his brother-in-law for the space of ten minutes, during which he may meet the landlord and argue the matter out. The draught is administered to Peter under the persuasions of his wife and her relations, who stand round threateningly until the mixture is gone. Its effect is magical. From a passive lamb Peter changes into a roaring lion. He makes violent love to the housemaid; he belabours his mother-in-law with a walking stick; he destroys his wife's new hat and forces her to return the £20 note he had given her to pay for it; and finally he compels the doctor to swallow the contents of a bottle of ink. Then suddenly Peter undergoes another change. The ten minutes have gone by, and the effect of the drug passes off as quickly as it came. Peter is more limp than before, and when the landlord comes with his agreement Peter signs it without a protest, and allows his visitor to borrow the £20 note which is lying on the table and to annex a box of cigars. Finally, the "King o' the Castle" seated in a chair, takes the tongs for his sceptre and an inverted flower vase for a crown, and the curtain falls on a picture of abject imbecility.

The famous Cockney comedian has been suited with a part in which the opportunities for humour are illimitable, and Mr. Elvin takes the fullest advantage of his chances. The changes of expression which the face of the placid Peter undergoes are irresistible, and from the moment Mr. Elvin steps on the stage laughter never languishes. The sight of the popular Joe raging and ramping round the stage under the influence of his new-found energy is funny in the extreme, while the grotesque appearance of the limp and inanimate "master" of the house surrendering helplessly to his persecutors is a sight never to be forgotten. Mr. Elvin receives admirable support from Mr. Harry Low as Dr. John Maggett, by whom the "doping" process is performed; Mr. Kenneth Altamont plays the avaricious landlord in typical style; Miss Grace Vicat as the servant Amelia shares cleverly in a humorous scene with the "master"; and Miss Nina Osborne as Peter's wife and Miss Stafford as the dragon-like mother-in-law acquit themselves to the utmost advantage. Hearty recalls are bestowed on Mr. Elvin at the close of his latest production, which is to be ranked among the most successful of his career.

THE PALACE, STOKE NEWINGTON.

The programme that Mr. Albert Gilmer sets before the patrons of the Stoke Newington Palace certainly does not err on the side of brevity, the visitors to the second house on Monday evening last being treated to nearly two and a half hours' solid entertainment, each and every item of which appeared to give unqualified pleasure. First and foremost in popular approval, though last on the bill, is the sketch provided by Mr. Fred Karno's clever troupe of comedians and pantomimists in The Dandy Thieves. From first to last this is played to a running accompaniment of laughter due in the main to the efforts of Mr. George Hestor, a resourceful comedian, who by his many quaint gags and oddities, in the part of Sergeant Lightning, bears the burden of the sketch upon his shoulders. Good as he is throughout, it is in the shop scene that he especially distinguishes himself, and his performance is a tower of strength to the production. He is adequately and loyally supported by the other members of the company, notably by Messrs. Frank Morton and Charles Usher and Miss Leonora Castelle. Needless to say the song of "The six little burglars" remains as popular a number as ever. Miss Connie Milton contributes imitations of the late Miss Bessie Wentworth, Miss Vesta Victoria, and Mr. John Lawson. Wilde, Willie, and West in their act prove themselves clever and expert acrobats, and infuse into their turn a pleasing essence of comedy. One of the most interesting items of the programme is that provided by Mahatma. Although so-called thought-reading performances are no novelty, they have recently been brought very prominently before the public, and while claiming no supernatural powers, but frankly and freely admitting that their results are achieved only by code and sign, the lady and gentleman who work this turn provide as bewildering and perplexing a performance as any that has lately been seen in London. The whistling of Mr. Charles Mildare is a revelation, but why does he only contribute one song, and that of a somewhat sentimental order? He could surely find something in a rather lighter and more jocular vein in the style of "The whistling coon," for instance, for the audience would gladly welcome a second song from him. Little Tichbourne is a diminutive comedian who sings a song and afterwards dances in long boots after the style of another comedian with whom he is never likely to be confused, despite the similarity of the names. Mr. Gus Hindell gains applause at the conclusion of his scena, "Boys will be boys," and the vigorous acrobatic dancing of the Carlyles is certainly not the least attractive feature of the show. A genuine success is scored by Miss Helen Martin by her artistic and refined rendering of two ballads, and the comedy act of the Vivanes complete the programme.

We regret to hear of the death of Miss Marie Brooke (Mrs. D. Scott-Dalgleish), who passed away quite suddenly on Wednesday at her residence, The Rowans, Hutton Mount, Essex. She was the composer of "A Soldier's Wife," "Monkey on a Stick," "Love's Answer," and other numbers.

BIRMINGHAM WHITSUN FAIR.

When in ancient days two fairs were granted by Royal Charter to the Midland town of Birmingham the terms of the Royal grant were: "Two fairs for ever—one at the Holy Feast of Whitsun and the other at the high Festival of St. Michael and All Angels."

"Two fairs for ever." Yes; the centuries have rolled on, the whole of England has changed—politically, socially, industrially—yet the fairs remain. It is still "two fairs for ever." The proud monarch who assumed that his Royal word would abide for all time, the Lord of the Manor to whom the valuable privilege and profits of a fair were given, dived only their own day and played only their little drama of life, yet the fairs remain. Birmingham has changed scores of times, yet the fairs remain.

The fair of Whitsun, 1907 is the greatest, the best, and the most popular of the long line of Birmingham fairs—

"Broad based upon the people's will."

The fair endures because it is the will of the sovereign people. Would-be reformers and would-be dictators of the pleasures of the people have tried to kill it, still it remains, with an abiding force that prejudice, cant, and calumny cannot wreck—"two fairs for ever, one at Whitsuntide and one at Michaelmas."

Driven away from the centre of the town, it took root in the great industrial suburb of Aston, on the now famous Old Pleck Fairground, under the banner and enterprise of the Brothers Collins, showmen of national fame and celebrity.

Its Present Importance.

For its variety of show and machine novelties, for its side-show and other fairground attractions it certainly ranks amongst the best half-dozen of the great fairs of the kingdom. The big shows at the fair this time included—Menagerie, circus, two cinematograph theatres, an occult mystery show, boxing saloon, midget exhibitions, fat lady show, abnormal and freak exhibits, and novelty booths. The array of riding, whirling, racing, motoring, and glissading machines are amongst the best of their class in the world. Shooters of all kinds—ranges, galleries, jungles, and batteries—form a special feature, and the hundred and more throwing games, ring and dart boards, football frames, coker and Emma sheets, weighting-chairs and striking machines, pannum, toy, and other stalls, make a Birmingham fair that has no "Brummagem" about it, but is the real and lasting institution of the great life of the people of the Midland metropolis.

The People at the Fair.

In tens of thousands they crowd the Old Pleck, New Town-row, and all roads at fair-time lead to the fairground. There are no class divisions at the fair; the artisan and his family fraternise with the city clerk and his family. Even the city merchant and his family unbend at the fair. The joy and colour of it; the merrie sound of it; the articulate utterance of its throbbing, thronging, exuberant life; the comradeship, the common life and fellowship of tolerant humanity; the happy exchange of merry jest and joke; the perfectly harmless intercourse of all classes; in full, freedom, yet without vulgarity or rowdy clamour. This is the charm of the fair—this is the open secret of its increasing power as a means of common recreation and necessary relaxation from toil of hand or brain.

Proctor's Circus.

A real survival (the survival of the fittest) is this capital show. The dear old sawdust ring, the tight-rope, old-time business (ever new), the Proctor family giving the principal items of a most delightful programme, introduced by their father, George Proctor. There were Marie Proctor, Ena Proctor, the Proctor Sisters, Master Wm. Proctor, and with them Paul Minto, the tumbler, and no less than five clowns. In fact, the quick-change ability of the Proctor family is such that the audience sees double. The trained horses, ponies, mules, and donkeys introduced by Mr. Proctor are marvels of animal intelligence and expert training.

Prof. Haydn and Mystic Clytie.

This really marvellous occult show outclasses most of the second-sight demonstrations that are so popular with the general public. When we witnessed the Haydns and noted the rapidity of their business and the bewilderment of the audience we no longer marvelled at the phenomenal success of their show.

Harry Wall's Lilliputs.

The worthy and talented son of a great showman—the late Professor Wall—Mr. Hammersley (known professionally as Harry Wall) inherits the fine presence of his sire and the persuasive eloquence that made his father a power in his day. The great art of the doorsman is now almost a thing of the past. Mr. Hammersley is the young man eloquent, and we listened with great delight to his outside "patter." The show is of the entresol variety—always showing—and the little people are seen in the centre well of the booth.

Sagar's Palace of Delight.

This first-class cinematograph theatre and portable variety palace has been purchased from Mr. P. Collins by the present proprietor, formerly known as Collins's No. 1 Show, and will continue to travel the Midland circuit. The films exhibited are of the best and most up-to-date character, and a new feature of Mr. Sagar's management will be the variety turns, which he intends shall equal the best popular stationary variety shows run on the two-houses-a-night system. Mr. T. G. Humphries, late manager of the show with Mr. Collins, still remains, and will continue the high-class character of its entertainments.

Mander's Star Menagerie.

Still to the fore, this fine wild beast collection holds a deservedly high place in popular esteem. the trained lions, tigers, leopards, and wolves are special features of attraction. We are glad to know that travelling menageries like this one still supply a felt want in the show-loving community. Their educational value is still undoubted, and as an object lesson in the growth of Empire the animals from our Crown Colonies and our British free governing states—"Britain over seas"—must be of immense teaching force to the rising generation.

P. Collins's Coliseum.

The premier show of the fair, with its magnificent Marenghi organ-front and its thousands of electric multi-coloured lamps—a joy of sweet music, art, and light. There was a constant stream of eager patrons to this superb cinematograph theatre—living and talking pictures, with capital variety turns. In an age when things are moving so rapidly it is very difficult to say when perfection has been reached. The show business especially is subject to so many changing conditions, so many improvements are the direct result of previous experiments that in their day were counted, and justly so, perfect. Mr. P. Collins's new show, exhibited at Wrexham Fair five weeks ago for the first time and fully chronicled in our columns, is the very best of the Marenghi organ type now on the road. Mr. and Mrs. Collins are to be congratulated on their latest show enterprise. Mr. Patrick Ross Collins, their capable and energetic son, is closely identified with the management of the concern.

Fistiana at the Fair.

The recent observations of Sir Ralph Littler on the educational value of boxing as a fine old British institution are fully borne out by a visit to Harry Cullis's School of Boxing, and the manly art of self-defence—the science of Fistiana—found exponents in Cullis's show in both national and local champions.

Hastings' Two Abnormal Shows.

Hastings' Midgets, "the atoms of humanity"—two charming little people—held public receptions and gave much delight to crowds of patrons. Hastings' No. 2 concern—the giant lady, Mme. Lambert—fully justified her proud position as a great and weighty attraction.

Leonine Howard.

This extraordinary freak of nature, known as "the lion-faced lady," was a veritable centre of public notice. This remarkable physiological puzzle has been exhibited to the leading medical faculties of the world, and the leonine features of her dual nature still remain as great a problem as ever.

Warwick's Novelty Booth.

A good example of the side-show that still maintains a popular place on our fairgrounds.

P. Collins's Riding Machines.

Three grand motor-car sets, one set of racing cockerills, the wheeling-the-whirl machine, and the twin ships in the air.

John Collins's Machines.

Motor-car set, four-a-breast galloping horses, steam yachts, and whirling-the-whirl machine.

Children's Roundabouts.

These popular novelties at all our fairs were provided by Messrs. Mercer, Wm. Chaplin, Wright, Montgomery, Dobson, Ford, and Cordwell, and consisted of gem horses, ponies, and motor-car sets.

Shooting Tubes and Jungles.

A goodly array of these were provided by Messrs. Dobson, Ford, Whyatt, Wright, Stokes, and Humphries, jun

Throwing Games, Stalls, &c.

The ceaseless fun of the fair. The funmakers-in-chief were Messrs. Mercer, Cordwell, Chaplain, R. Deeks, J. Hall, Clayton, Horton, Ford, Dobson, Humphries and Son, Whisper, and many local caterers. Mr. Caddick, with his well-known photo van, was on his usual pitch for the first three days of the fair, and old-time swing-boats were provided by Mrs. S. Hayes. There were toy, pannum, and other stalls, ice-cream barrows, weighing chairs, and try-your-strength machines on every available pitch. Say we not well when we thus set it out in detail that the fair as illustrated at great Birmingham city of to-day has all the elements that justify the quaint words of its ancient Charter—"two fairs for ever," one at Whitsun and one at Michaelmas?

BIO OPERATORS' ASSOCIATION.

At a meeting of the committee on Tuesday, at the office of the Association, 29, Wellington-street, Strand, Mr. C. Catlin, of the Surrey Theatre, presiding, a number of applications were considered. Mr. A. Merritt, who has acted as hon. secretary pro tem., having to take up a position in Dublin, was reluctantly compelled to notify the committee of his resignation. The committee have much appreciated Mr. Merritt's services, and unanimously passed a vote of thanks to him, expressing their best wishes for his success in the Irish capital. Mr. Weedon was appointed to succeed Mr. Merritt as hon. secretary.

The draft bye-laws were considered, and the following approved for the consideration of the members:—

DRAFT OF RULES.

1. That this Association shall be known as "The Bioscope Operators' Association," and shall consist exclusively of qualified operators of machines for the projection of animated pictures, and be Branch No. 10 of the National Association of Theatrical Employees.

2. The office of the Association shall be at 29, Wellington-street, Strand, London, or such other place as shall be fixed from time to time.

3. The objects of the Association shall be as follows:—

(a) To protect and promote the interests of qualified operators, and to raise the status of their profession.
(b) To encourage among its members a knowledge of the science of and new inventions affecting their business.
(c) To establish a standard of proficiency by a qualifying examination or otherwise.
(d) To secure the recognition of a minimum rate of pay for each class of work.
(e) To establish an employment register and such other benefits (Sick, Funeral, or Legal Aid) as may be hereafter agreed upon.

4. An applicant for membership must be over 21 years of age, and have had, at least, two years' experience in a theatre or music hall, or 18 months otherwise professionally exhibiting before the public. An operator who has not worked the above period, but is otherwise qualified, may be accepted by the Committee as a full member or a probationary member. Every application for membership shall be made on a form supplied by the Association, and submitted to the vote of the Committee.

5. Any person in sympathy with the objects of the Association may be elected an honorary member by the Committee on payment of 10s. 6d. per annum, but such honorary members shall not be entitled to take part in the management of the Association.

6. The entrance fee shall be 2s. 6d., payable with the application.

7. The contribution to the Management and General Fund shall be 1s. per calendar month, and due on the first Monday of each month.

8. The Association shall be managed by a Committee of 12, consisting of the President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, three Trustees, and five other members, to be elected annually in January of each year, and to hold office until their successors are elected. After the first year no member shall be eligible for election to any office who has not been a member 12 months, or is two months in arrears with his contributions, or owes an equivalent sum, including fines, levies, or other dues. In the event of any vacancy in any office such vacancy shall be filled by the candidate receiving the next highest number of votes for such office at the previous election; vacancies not otherwise provided for shall be filled by the Committee until the next ensuing general meeting.

9. A general meeting of members shall be held in January of each year, when the election of officers, committee, amendment to rules, and the annual report and financial statement shall be dealt with.

Makin's motor-car, Wm. Holmes' helter-skelter, Shuttleworth's juvenile motors and roundabouts, Makin's swings, Humphries' shooter, Sharpe's shooter, Ingham's games, and varieties by Messrs. F. Wood, Butterworth, Freer, Jephson, Humphries, and Middlebrook.

Leek Fair.

FOR this capital fixture were present the concerns of Clem Hackney, cinematograph theatre; machines by John Whiting, E. Holland, and Alf. Bates; shooting galleries, &c., by Jewell, Bates, Ormrod, Beckett, Jewell, jun., and Whiting.

Bakewell Holidays

WERE maintained with great enterprise by the local showmen, Messrs. Hall and Potts.

On the Lancashire Round.

BOLTON holidays follow closely on Preston school walk, and the best of the show and riding-machines on this circuit take both fixtures. Here were Kemp and Payne's picture shows, Le Neve boxers and lady wrestlers, E. Ball's midget show and novelty booth, the Mitchell family with their big machine aggregation, T. Hurst with racing birds, John Green with galloping-horse set, East's steam horses, Whiting's Japanese cars, Wingate's bicycles, and small machines by Messrs. Humphreys and Sharpe. The rifle galleries, ranges, &c., were provided by George Cornwell, Mrs. John Cornwell, and Mrs. Jewell.

AMONGST the caterers of minor novelties were Messrs. Taylor, East, Jewell, Forshaw, Holmes, Whiting Lee, Harrington, J. Taylor, J. Mitchell, Bliss, Wright, Waugh, and C. Wright, all set out and arranged by the market superintendent, Mr. Robert Pike.

The Westmorland Round.

THE chronicle for this week includes fairs at Kendal and Ulverston. The concerns on this circuit are those of Monte Brothers, Wilson, Wm. Murphy, Mrs. Hoadley, Carr, Casey, Rostron, Doughty Hives, Gray, Russell, Sheeran, Broughton, Newsome, Stockwell, and Bean.

On the Welsh Round.

ABERGAVENNY fair had for its entertainers Messrs. Jacob Studt, J. Dooner and Son, Wadbrook, Prince Samonda, Gess, Ford, John Studt, White, Odeley, Moore, Clarke, Fossett, Butlin, Winsper, Freeman, Jones, Davies, Scott, and Nail.

A Palace on Wheels.

A CORRESPONDENT sends us a most interesting account of the latest and best thing in showmen's living-vans. Built to the order of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Taylor, of cinematograph theatre fame, it fully shows that the outcry against showpeople and their homes on wheels arises from the prejudice of those who still refuse to see any difference between the ramshackle wagons of gipsies and the really perfectly healthy and admirably-fitted living carriages of real showpeople. To those mistaken faddists who scent danger to public health in the coming of show vans into their town, we commend the description we have great pleasure in giving of the real living carriage as used by our principal show proprietors. The designers and builders, Messrs. Orton and Sons, of Burton-on-Trent, have been engaged in show and living wagon building for many years. Mr. Taylor's palace on wheels is but the last and most perfect of its class, and we heartily wish continued success, health, and happiness to its owners, deservedly esteemed and popular both on and off the fair-ground.

Composite Sitting and Dining-Room.

ROOMY, well lighted, with polished mahogany fittings, silver-plated mountings, and an electric light installation, no expense has been spared towards making the "house on wheels" a palace rather than a mansion. The whole vehicle is 27ft. long, 8ft. wide, and 13ft. high, and the exterior is coloured deep red, with gold panels. Inside, a luxurious mis en scène presents itself, the door leading into a living apartment, replete with every contrivance tending to the comfort of residents therein. An Axminster carpet is on the floor, polished mahogany drawers and cabinets present themselves, while around the walls are seats upholstered in old gold velvet. Nearly opposite the door is a miniature cooking-range, in which are the most cunning devices for economising space. In a corner is a handily-arranged desk for writing purposes; while a folding table, also of polished mahogany, opens out for use when required. Every bit of space is utilised, triangular cupboards filling the corners, and there are drawers beneath every seat. A handsome electrolier is in the brilliant cut mirror panelled roof, and should electricity not be available from the tractor accompanying the show, light will be provided from tastefully-designed ruby-shaded lamps.

The Sleeping-Room.

THIS apartment is 13ft. long, and at one end a door opens into a bedroom, 7ft. 6in. long, of which the same story of tasteful fittings can be told. An ample-sized bed is placed behind the door, having a spring mattress, and beneath the mirror is a nicely-arranged dressing-table, with mirror complete. In a corner is a lavatory, and nothing has been overlooked to make for the comfort of the occupant. At the other end of the van is another bedroom, 6ft. 6in. long, which is furnished in a similar manner, with the addition of a cunningly-arranged wardrobe. The colour-scheme of the whole of the apartments is in pale green and pink, the whole of the walls being panelled in relief. These panels are fitted with hand-paintings, exquisitely executed, and representing a variety of subjects. In fact, the walls are a picture gallery in themselves. Here a glowing landscape, there a seascape, resplendent with varying effect; here a cluster of fruit tantalisingly represented; there a group of birds, glorious in brilliant plumage. Every variety of scenery is artistically depicted, and even the panels of the beds and drawers are effectively painted. The whole of the windows are of brilliant cut glass, and a clerestoried roof gives ample opportunity for additional ventilation.

In the Lions' Den.

DURING the performance of Mme. Ella and her lions at the Temperance Hall, Merthyr, Mr. Israel Price, the proprietor of the hall, entered the den and presented Mme. Ella with a gold medal. Upon emerging, Mr. Price was loudly applauded by the packed house which witnessed his feat.

Guild Subscriptions.

By Mr. Wm. Chaplain: John Whyatt, 10s. 6d.; Alfred Birch, 10s.; James Whiting, 5s.; J. Hastings, 5s.; John Sagar, 5s. By Mr. Mercer: S. Mercer, 10s. 6d.; G. Smith, 5s.; J. Mitchell, 5s.; Mr. A. Jones, 5s. By Mr. Shuttleworth: Messrs. Connell Bros., 10s. 6d.; W. Scott, 5s.; J. Cottam, 5s. By Mr. Harry Ashington: Joseph Joy, 5s.

THE FAIRGROUND CHURCH.

Of the series of Guild services held since Easter on the fairgrounds by the organising chaplain, the one held on the Sunday of Birmingham Fair was especially interesting. Both at Wrexham and at Knutsford the weather was cold and wretched, and although this fact did not deter the showpeople from attending the services, yet it did affect the outside attendance. A particularly interesting feature of the Birmingham Fair service was the clergy and choir (in their robes) from the parish church of the Fairground (St. Stephen's, Newtown-row). The vicar, the Rev. J. T. Jones, and the assistant clergy, the Revs. A. E. Heaton, F. S. Ployne, and H. A. Richings, were present, with the choir, and took part in the Guild service. The Vicar played the harmonium and read the Lesson. The Rev. T. Horne conducted the service and preached. P. Collins's splendid cinematograph pavilion was crowded from end to end. The choir and church workers from St. Stephen's occupied the three front rows of pit-stalls, and it was a most impressive sight, the white-robed choir and clergy giving dignity and reverent order to the service, as well as leading the congregation in the hymns and singing part of the Order of the Showmen's Guild.

The showmen, their wives and families were present, and in every way justified the scheme of the Guild in providing these services at the fairs. The Hon. Chaplain is attending to arouse interest in the trade defence work of the Guild. On all sides Mr. Horne hears the most gratifying and sincere appreciation of his work. He hopes to conduct similar services at Penzance next Sunday, at a suitable centre in Wales (yet to be determined) the following Sunday, at Mexboro' Feast, Halifax Fair, Burnley Fair, Burslem Wakes, Longsight Wakes, Hunslet Feast, Manningham Feast, Mitcham Fair, Holbeck Feast, Ayr Fair, Gloucester Fair, Hull Fair, York Fair, and at other centres yet to be fixed.

For many years past the Rev. T. Horne has conducted special services for showpeople during the Sundays of his holidays and at other times when his fixed clerical work was done for him by his brethren in the ministry. These opportunities—necessarily few in number—were so heartily embraced by his showmen friends that for many years past he has been looking forward to the time that he could entirely devote himself to this special work. The time has now fully come. From the commencement of the successful services at the World's Fair, Islington, and similar services at the Fun City, Olympia, West Kensington, last winter, when the enterprises left the tentative and experimental stage, Mr. Horne has entirely given his Sundays to the educational and religious side of the work of the Guild.

Last year services and public meetings in connection with the Guild were held with signal success at King's Lynn, Longsight, Gloucester, Hull, and Rotherham Fairs. In many parts of the country honorary local chaplains provided services at their own fairs, this being the direct result of the greater interest in show life arising from Mr. Horne's many years of persistent and self-sacrificing work.

The importance of this work is fully recognised by all our leading showmen, and every facility is afforded by the prominent proprietors and ground lessees for its development and permanence. Services have already been held in the magnificent show-booths of Messrs. Wm. Clark (twice), P. Collins (twice), Jacob Studt (twice), Captain Tom Payne, George Green, J. Dooner and Son, George Kemp, and Wadbrook's. The local clergy have not only welcomed the work in their various parishes, but have co-operated heartily in it. Many of them have also expressed delight at the admirable way in which a show-booth may be turned into a temporary church. The Rector of the Albert Memorial Church, Manchester, used this felicitous and most appropriate phrase to Col. Clark concerning the interior of his show at the recent Easter Fair:—"Your beautiful pavilion is the cathedral of the fairground." That apt phrase is true of all the shows, each in its own special perfection of interior decoration, that have been so freely and readily given to the use of the Guild for church purposes. This statement is true not only of the generous proprietors, but it is true also of the working staff of each show. Electricians, engineers, artists, and employees of every grade have given their generous services to mark their personal interest in the work of the Guild

Going Like Hot Cakes.

THE new film "Willie's Dream" is such a favourite with the showmen that the Sheffield Photo Company, who own the film, report that it is going so strong that they are unable to keep pace with the orders which are flowing in from all parts of the world for this subject. They anticipate having to make other negatives to cope with the demand.

Films in New Zealand.

MR. JOHN FULLER, JUN., a partner in the firm of John Fuller & Sons, of New Zealand, says that the cinematograph is in great evidence at their various halls. The Urban and Pathé films are those used by the firm.

Taylor's New Show.

THE fortunate owner of this palatial residence on wheels is Mr. W. Taylor, of London, for whom Mr. Orton is providing an absolutely new show, which in itself will be one of the finest in existence. The living-van above described is one of the largest in existence, and is fitted with ample brakes and devices for rounding corners. The accompanying show will, when fitted, contain a huge organ, having 4000 coloured electric lights. The truck when closed measures 31ft., and when opened out extends for 51ft. The whole train of vehicles is to be drawn by a specially-designed traction-engine of 8 h.p., from which also electric light is obtained by means of a dynamo.

MR. TAYLOR is now at Hendon for a short season with his coliseum of animated pictures. We understand that the new show will open for the first time at Cambridge Fair.

Ball's Bioscope.

MR. ALF. BALL and company, with up-to-date pictures and varieties, are having a most successful season at Tilbury Docks.

MR. WM. HAGGAR is this week at the Carmarthen Corporation fairground with his magnificent new bioscope and organophone, and is doing excellent business. The show is a remarkably fine one, and is considered one of the best travelling.

AT Treorchy Fair were the immensely popular cinematograph theatres of Harry Scard (Wadbrook's superb electrograph) and Dooner and Sons, both displaying the latest and best films, and affording delight to crowded audiences. Prince Samonda, in occult and second-sight mysteries, outrivalling the Dancigs in second-sight business and the Maskelynes in the disappearing trick; Ada Russell, giantess; and the boxing saloons of Scarrott and Frank Gess made up a big show list. T. Fossett exhibited shooters, photo booth, and other novelties; H. Studt and Son motor-cars; John Studt motors and ostriches; Wm. North, jun., big wheel, shooter, and sheets; Jacob Butlin shooters, juvenile gallopers, swings, and variety sheets; Winsper swings, shooter, and sheets; Matthews gem horses; Jones swings and sheets; John North with shooters and sheets; and throwing games, in endless variety, by the following:—North, Freeman, Winsper, Kinder, Wm. North, Jones, Butlin, and others.

THE MIKADO AND SIMPSON CROSS.

A felicitous sequel has been made to the visit of the Japanese sailors to Southport at Easter last year by the presentation to Mr. W. Simpson Cross, the well-known naturalist, of the Zoological Park, of a mark of appreciation from the Mikado himself of the hospitality extended to the honoured guests. It will be remembered that the Japanese, who came to this country to navigate back to Japan the battleship Katori, went to Southport on the Easter Saturday on the invitation of the then Mayor (Mr. C. H. B. Hesketh, J.P.), when the Katori was lying in the Mersey. The sailors were first entertained to luncheon at the Cambridge Hall, and subsequently proceeded to the Zoological Park, where they were present at the opening ceremony. The proceedings at the Zoological Park included the handing to Captain Yoko, the commander, of a fine specimen of the British bulldog, by name "Duke," as a present to the Mikado from Mr. Simpson Cross. The dog, which was the only present to the Emperor taken from England, reached Japan in excellent condition.

On the 14th ult. Mr. Cross received from Mr. Michinori S. Nagasaki, Chancellor of the Imperial Court, who is a member of the suite of Prince Fushimi, a telegram stating that his Highness would be pleased to see him at York House the following day. Accordingly Mr. Cross, accompanied by Councillor Trounson, who as Deputy-Mayor last year had a good deal to do with the carrying out of the arrangements for the Japanese visit, presented himself at the Palace, and was ushered into the presence of Prince Fushimi, who greeted him with a hearty handshake. His Highness was most gracious, and said the Emperor had desired him to express the great pleasure he had felt at receiving the bulldog, and wished him to present to Mr. Cross on his behalf a silver Cloisonné chrysanthemum vase. The Prince also said how delighted the Japanese sailors were with their visit to Southport, and the Emperor wished him to accept the vase as a souvenir of that occasion.

Mr. Cross, in accepting the gift, humbly expressed his gratitude to the Emperor for so handsome a present, which he said he would prize exceedingly. He added that the people of Southport had felt it a keen pleasure to entertain the officers and crew of the Katori in their midst. The conversation with the Prince was carried on through Mr. Nagasaki, who acted as interpreter, the Prince expressing his thanks for Southport's hospitality and the good time given the men at Zoo Park on April 14 last year in Japanese.

The Emperor's gift to Mr. Cross is a massive chrysanthemum bowl of solid silver, with Cloisonné enamel in typical Japanese design, which includes the imperial crest of Japan in three places. The vase is enclosed in a specially lined case.

In connection with the presentation of the bulldog to the Mikado the following letter was sent from Japan in December last:—

"Imperial Household, Tokio, Dec. 20, 1906.

"Sir,—I have received your kind letter, and it is my great pleasure to inform you that the British bulldog which you committed to the care of Commander Sakamoto when our man-of-war Katori anchored at Southport, was received in good health on the 24th of August, and immediately being laid before his Majesty, with its pedigree, it was graciously accepted.—I remain, sincerely yours,

"M. TANAKA.

"(Minister of the Imperial Household),

"P.S.—The beautiful postcards of garden were also received with thanks."

ANSWERS TO SHOWMEN.

SHOWMAN.—Any of the films offered by the cinematograph manufacturers who advertise in these columns will be found suitable.

IN DISTRESS.—Send fuller particulars. Address your letter to the Rev. Thomas Horne, Chaplain to the Showmen's Guild.

MESSRS. BOSTOCK AND WOMBWELL'S Royal No. 1 Aggregation is now touring West Carmarthenshire, and is receiving well-deserved patronage, the collection being an excellent one, and the performances by Captain Wombwell, Captain Fredericka, and Captain Daniels being most daring and sensational. On Saturday Carmarthen was visited; Monday, Whitland; Tuesday, Narberth; Wednesday, Tenby; Thursday, Pembroke; and Friday, Pembroke Dock.

WE hear that Mr. Haggar, jun., intends applying again to the Licensing Committee of the Carmarthenshire County Council for a licence for his portable theatre to be erected on the Carmarthen Corporation fairground. We wonder whether the committee have regretted their former decision, and will capitulate to public opinion.

THE Rev. T. Horne will be at Penzance Corpus Christi Fair this week-end. Mr. G. W. A. Norton, the hon. local agent for the Guild, is making all necessary arrangements for the meeting of the showpeople in the afternoon and Guild service in a show on the fairground on Sunday.

MR. W. C. DEXTER'S concert and pierrot party opened their season, to the delight of a large number of guests, at the Keswick Hotel, Keswick, on Whit-Monday. On Saturday and Sunday concerts were given at the Queen of the Lakes Pavilion, and large audiences assembled. Residents are delighted to have a permanent concert and pierrot company in their midst. Mr. Dexter's company is an excellent combination. Miss Bertha St. Ruth (operatic and ballad vocalist) sings in fine style, and Miss Madge Floyd possesses a beautiful contralto voice. Mr. J. Williams (baritone) is heard to advantage, and Mr. Albert Keighley (tenor) renders good support. Mr. Ellis Midgley is the solo pianist and accompanist, and Mr. W. C. Dexter conducts the string orchestra

THE SHOWMEN'S GUILD
AT BIRMINGHAM FAIR.

The most successful, from every point of view, of the fair-ground gatherings of showpeople this season took place on Collins's ground, the Old Pleck, Birmingham. The intention of the Executive Committee of the Guild is to arouse the interest and to obtain the necessary additional support, in order that the work of trade defence may be carried on effectively, and the usefulness of the Guild extended. The earlier meetings with this object beginning at Manchester in Easter week, and then at Wrexham, Knutsford, and Preston Fairs, have resulted in most gratifying results, both as regards increase of members and financial support. The highly-successful meeting at Birmingham took place in the afternoon, and was held in P. Collins's superb exhibition. Amongst the prominent showmen present were Mr. P. Collins (vice-president), who was unanimously voted to the chair; Mr. John Collins, V.P., P. Collins, jun., Messrs. Mercer and Chaplain, members of the Executive Committee, and Messrs. Manders, Proctor, Jeffery, Hammersley, Haydn, Culliss, Hastings, Howard, Harris, Warwick, Cordwell, Sagar, Humphries, sen., Humphries, jun., Ford, Wyatt, O'Flynn, Bailey, Gordon, Day, Wright, Dobson, Hayes, and Lewis.

Amongst the friends and local traders interested in the show business were Mr. T. Baird and Mr. A. Kirby, of Birmingham. The meeting was marked by considerable enthusiasm, and all the speakers succeeded in making a deep impression upon the audience. Mr. P. Collins briefly introduced the Rev. T. Horne, preferring, as he said, to speak after they had heard their reverend friend and champion.

The Work of the Showmen's Guild.

Mr. Horne, who was very warmly received, reminded the showmen present that the Guild was the mother of all trade societies dealing with the business of the fair-ground. For well-nigh twenty years the Guild had been actively and increasingly engaged in defending the showmen's business and avocation in life. Their work, broadly speaking, was divided into three great departments: Firstly, there was trade defence, both in Parliament as against Corporations or public bodies, or defeating Corporations and public bodies by opposing obnoxious and inimical bye-laws. Then, in the second place, they had to educate and foster a right and just public opinion, both with regard to the business of the fair-ground and the large and industrious class of the community that carried on that business. In the third place, and of necessity arising out of the other two great departments of their work, was the uplifting and betterment of the entertainments provided for the amusement of the people at our fairs, feasts, and wakes

Parliamentary Work.

Nine years ago, when they began their Parliamentary defence work, they were overwhelmed with the magnitude of the task at every point of view as it then confronted them. In their first year they had to deal with over twenty Corporations, who were proposing clauses in their Private Bills that would have directly injured and interfered with the show business. With the great majority of these they were able to deal without incurring Parliamentary conflict; but with five Corporations they had to deal and to oppose in the Committee Rooms of the House of Commons. In the first and second year of their Parliamentary work they secured three very important victories. The first was, as against the Mansfield Corporation, that no additional powers should be given to public bodies to regulate the opening-time or the closing-time of their shows and entertainments, other than the ordinary law of the land, that amply governed all other industries and trades. To put it very clearly, what was good enough for the "tinker and the tailor, the butcher and the baker, and the candlestick-maker," was good enough for the showman in his hours of business, and that he demanded the same liberty to carry on his lawful calling as any other trader or workman.

Free Trade in Fairs.

Their next great victory was over the powerful Corporation of Halifax, which, in a Private Bill, amongst other things, sought to gain a monopoly of fairs whin their borough boundaries. In other words, no private ground could have been opened by showmen within the Borough of Halifax for the carrying on of their trade and business without the consent of the Corporation. This signal victory of their trade organisation established free trade in fairs, and the Halifax decision has governed all similar cases since.

No Restraint of Trade.

Their third important victory was gained over the important Corporation of Eccles, who sought powers similar to those attempted by Mansfield, and also powers to prevent anyone, whether resident or a travelling trader, opening up a stall or exposing goods for sale, on private land, without the consent of the Corporation. This, the Guild submitted, was distinctly in restraint of trade, and if Eccles had gained these extraordinary powers other Corporations would have followed suit, and the opening up of new fairs, so important and so necessary a condition of their very life and being, would have been denied them. He asked them to bear in mind that every one of these great protective declarations governing their business were entirely gained by their trade society opposing, and continuing to oppose, all extraordinary and unreasonable proposals to regulate or to destroy their business whenever they were embodied in Parliamentary Bills.

Cost of Parliamentary Work.

The Showmen's Guild had spent over three thousand pounds in this particular branch of trade defence. Upon an average, one hundred Private Bills, promoted by public bodies, had to be scrutinised by their Parliamentary agent every year, and all proposals of a destructive character referred to the Executive Committee, and they were in this proud position that, either by private negotiations or by a fight to a finish in the Committee Rooms of the House of Commons, every proposal detrimental to their business has been successfully met and defeated. When they started this work of theirs they had a very useful balance of reserve funds in the bank; the end of their second year's work saw that balance exhausted, and it had been one of the urgent efforts of the organisation from Session to Session of Parliament to raise the funds to maintain this important branch of their trade defence in efficient working order. They had done it, but he felt sure that, as business men, they would see the paramount necessity of always having a substantial balance at the bank, in order to meet all emergencies, whether to fight Corporations in Parliament or to defend the popular holidays and fairs of the people.

Educating Public Opinion.

Perhaps, although comparatively a much less costly proceeding than Parliamentary work, to educate and foster a right and just public opinion is of equal importance to Parliamentary work. He was glad to realise that showmen all over the United Kingdom were taking pains to correct misconceptions and prejudices with regard to the show business. He found that correspondents from all parts of the country were sending to The Era for him to deal with all unjust attacks that from time to time appear in the newspapers upon the show business. He cited the most recent example of these unjust attacks that occurred at Harrogate, and which had been fully dealt with by himself in the Harrogate Press, and fully reported in the Showman World columns of The Era. Looking back upon the strenuous work of the past twenty years, he was proud and happy in the thought that some of the best work of his life had been to justify, to lift up, and to defend, whenever necessary, the travelling showman and his calling and business in life.

Increased Member Roll.

It was quite true that the showman industry touched the industrial life of seventy thousand persons, but it was lamentable to think that the member roll of the Showmen's Guild was as small as it at present existed, and one of the great objects he had set out to achieve was to increase that member roll, so that we should be able to speak of its membership by thousands. He was quite convinced that it was of the utmost importance to enlist every fair-ground trader, that by his own personal interest and responsibility, their united effort would have greater power and influence whenever they had to meet influential Corporations or prejudiced individuals. He had been dealing entirely with outside difficulties, the things that threatened to destroy their business from without. He recognised that there were difficulties within, that questions of great and immediate importance that distressed and divided them, existed within their own borders. Conscious as he was of the serious nature of these inside divisions, he begged them to remember that the enemy without their borders would not relax his effort to injure and to penalise their trade and business until they had settled their domestic difficulties. Other societies had arisen in their midst, and he had always held that, properly promoted and wisely carried on, there was room for such societies to do good work; in fact, he believed that a division of labour would be of great value to them as a body. The Showmen's Guild, from its start twenty years ago to the present day, had been their bulwark of defence against all outside attacks. The best brains and the best talent amongst them had been devoted to this necessary and ever-pressing work. Many, in fact nearly all, had devoted years of hard work and painfully-acquired expert experience to this work, without either fee or reward. Parliamentary and legal work of necessity meant big fees and costly expenditure, but on all other points of their work and enterprise the Guild had been carried on as the free-will offering of those who, either in the business itself, or who, like himself, for the love of the showman, had cast in their part and lot with the men and women of the fair-ground. He concluded with an eloquent appeal for more members, for more self-sacrificing work for the general good, and for increased funds, that the old Guild might continue its ever new and important work.

The Chairman's Appeal.

Mr. P. Collins referred to the difficulty that speakers at their meetings invariably experienced when they had to follow Mr. Horne. But he felt sufficiently inspired by what they had heard to join with their Chaplain in making an appeal to them to rally to the banner of the old Van-dwellers' Society. For twenty years, they had been told, this Society had worked to protect and defend them, and he knew, and they knew, all of them knew, that but for the protective work of the Guild their business would have been practically swept off the face of the earth. Let there be no mistake about it, that was the truth, and he was speaking with both knowledge and experience of the things of the past, and with a keen sense of what was before them. It was their duty to rally to the support of the Society, and to provide the sinews of war and the ways and means, not only for trade defence, but to lift up and extend their trade and business. Mr. Horne had been their champion, and he asserted that, without Mr. Horne to defend them in the way that he had done, and without Mr. Horne to encourage others to follow his lead, they would have been at the present moment in a most parlous position. He instanced the fact that before their Society came into existence nearly all the Corporations in the Midland Counties had obtained powers, either by bye-laws or private legislation, to sweep away the fairs, and to hinder or destroy their business. It was only by the creation of a good and just public opinion to shelter and defend them that he and other lessees had been able to open up new fairs, and to carry on their business. They might not know it, or they may have forgotten it, but he knew, that it was the public opinion which this Society had educated, both in the Press and before Parliament, and that they had brought to bear upon Corporations, that they were now able to carry on their business in the comparative freedom they enjoyed. He was so convinced of the importance of this work along all the lines so ably set out for their consideration by Mr. Horne, that he had determined to use all the influence he could bring to bear to increase the member roll of the Guild, and he desired them to know that both he and his brother (Mr. John Collins) were prepared to give preferential treatment to tenants who were able to show their certificate of membership when applying for ground at any of the fairs they controlled.

Other Speakers.

Mr. William Chaplain, member of the Executive Committee, in response to the chairman's request, addressed the gathering. As a committee-man, he said, he had been actively engaged in making new members, and he was proud to inform that meeting that he had met with considerable success, and had enrolled a goodly number of new members. Mr. Horne had rightly said that the work of the Society was to guard them from outside attacks and dangers. Both their chairman and Mr. Horne had referred to inside troubles, as well as outside attacks, but they all realised, he was confident, that, however urgent the inside troubles, it was their duty to rally as one man to the defence of their interests from outside attack, and to strengthen the hands of the executive officers of the Guild to carry on both Parliamentary and defence work. They had inside troubles and difficulties—he, for one, felt very keenly about them, but he could only add that the work of the Guild was urgent, immediate, and absolutely necessary to everyone engaged in the show business. He joined with the previous speakers in urging his fellow-travellers to become members.

Professor Haydn,

In ready response to the call of Mr. P. Collins, delivered a bright and telling speech, in the course of which he referred with pride to the fact that he had never wavered from his support of the Guild, that he had never lost his membership, or ceased contributing to its funds. He was, in a technical sense, "a wide traveller"—that is, he attended fairs all over the kingdom, and he was able to gauge the conditions of public opinion, and was quite sensitive of the petty annoyances, and, at times, serious hindrances, of prejudiced individuals and public authorities. These attacks upon them and their business could only be met by a strong defence Association, and he urged his fellow-showmen to strengthen their position, to stand shoulder to shoulder in defence of their just rights and privileges as entertainers of the people. With regard to the troubles from within, to which reference had been made, he, too, held strong opinions, and was in favour of reform. He trusted that all their troubles and all their difficulties, both within and without, would be brought to a peaceable and just conclusion. He begged them to rally round the old Society.

New Members.

The following were enrolled at the close of the meeting:—R. Manders, £1 1s.; S. Jeffery, 10s.; Mr. and Mrs. G. Procter, 10s.; G. Ford, 10s.; Mr. S. Mercer, 10s. 6d.; T. Beard, 10s.; H. RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking Engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follow :—

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

Pioneers of the 4 D. per foot, nett.

THE LARGEST FILM MANUFACTURERS IN THE WORLD.

A JEALOUS WOMAN.
Code Word, CALIBRE.

A jealous wife, seeing her husband buy a bunch of flowers, evidently not for her, follows him to his destination, and there lets him have a piece of her mind; so much so indeed that help is necessary, and his little adventure has cost him dear. Very amusing.

248ft. The Subject, £4 2s. 8d.

A MAN OF STRAW.
Code Word, PAILLE.

A resourceful but hungry man is compelled to think of some ruse to satisfy his hunger and thirst. He takes a dummy from outside a shop, and with this he begins. The different experiences he goes through with this absurd figure are screamingly funny. He gets some money and a good dinner; but was it worth it? The film will tell you.

480ft. The Subject, £7 12s. 4d.

A DRUNKARD WILL DRINK.
Code Word, CHLORAL.

Our friend in this film makes up his mind never to drink again, but he meets some old "pals." Well, what can you expect? He enters an—shall we say?—"inn," and comes out—well, never mind how he comes out. Next day he takes his wife to a Cinematograph Show. Madam is delighted, as well she might be, for it is "Pathe's" Show, until she comes to the part where they show the doings of her husband the night before. Tableau!

428ft. The Subject, £7 2s. 8d.

JIM'S APPRENTICESHIPS.
Code Word, CAP.

A father puts his boy to be apprenticed to all kinds of trades—hatter, grocer, hairdresser, pastrycook, inn-keeper, etc.—with much the same result at each, that is to say, most unsatisfactory, until he comes to the latter, which seems, indeed, to be his vocation. Awfully comical.

676ft. The Subject, £11 5s. 4d Colouring, 6s. 6d.

CHARLEY PAINTS.
Code Word, CITRON.

Imagine a small boy with a pot of paint left alone, and you will not find it difficult to believe the things that take place in this film. Charming pictures.

362ft. The Subject, £5 0s. 8d.

CLOWN DOCTOR.
Code Word, CHIGNON.

Little Gwen is taken to a circus, and is much in love with the clown. She is taken ill, and nothing will do but she must have the clown. The doctor comes, mother does everything, but finally the clown has to be fetched. He comes and nurses her back to health. Sweetly pretty.

428ft. The Subject, £7 2s. 8d. Tinting, 10s.

PALMISTRY.
Code Word, CHIMIE.

The following pictures will present, as seen by a witch, the future of the gambler, the drunkard, the financier, the worldling, the work-girl, etc., etc., which it is absolutely impossible to alter. Some smile, but some go away feeling anything but happy.

478ft. The Subject, £7 19s. 4d. Tinting and Painting, 10s. 6d.

THE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.
Code Word, CIGOGNE,

A most exciting story, which grows in interest at every scene and incident. A man is refused work, and utterly broken-hearted tramps on. On the way he sees a scarecrow, divests it of its clothing, puts it on to cover his own threadbare garments. He arrives at a big city; sleeps on the Embankment. Gets his first job running after a cab laden with luggage. Then buys papers; sells them; makes a living; finds a purse containing value; takes it to its owner, who gives him work in his office. He rises to a good position. There is a fire at his employer's house; he saves his daughter, and is finally rewarded with her hand. The story is perfectly carried through. Every episode is more enthralling than the last.

980ft. The Subject, £16 10s. Colouring extra.

THE FROLICS OF DINGDINGIMP.
Code Word, CAPITOLE.

A little boy called by this very silly pet name leads everybody he comes in contact with such a life that he drives them nearly mad. Most true to life, as we all know what a small boy can do when he feel like it.

297ft. The Subject, £4 19s.

THE POLICE DOGS OF PARIS.
Code Word, CLEMENCE.

A wonderful picture showing the dogs at work tracking criminals. Through streets, country, over the river, they go, finally bringing down their prey in a garret. A remarkable exhibition of what training and a natural instinct for hunting can do.

824ft. The Subject, £13 14s. 8d.

POOR DOLLY.
Code Word, CIGALE.

A charming picture of children's simplicity. Father brings them some toys. The little boy cuts off the head of a dolly. There is a funeral, to which the other children are invited to witness the obsequies and burial of the doll. Very beautiful quality, and its tender home touch will appeal to all.

248ft. The Subject, £4 2s. 8d.

BYKER DOES THE IMPOSSIBLE.
Code Word, CANNIBALE.

This cyclist is really a marvel. He and his machine work as one. Up and down stairs, overcoming every obstacle, and always followed by a crowd of onlookers. Finally he gets mixed up with a small carriage, lets go his own machine, and rides on the wheel of the carriage. Wonderful film.

330ft. The Subject, £5 10s.

REDSKINS AND COWBOYS.
Code Word, BURIN.

The cowboy chief's wife and daughter are kidnapped by redskins. Owing to the intelligence of the cowboy's dog they are able to trace them, however, and after exciting and varied scenes the prisoners are restored.

548ft. The Subject, £9 1s. 8d. Tinting, 12s.

The Stolen Pig.

COPYRIGHT 1907 BY THE VITAGRAPH COMPANY OF AMERICA.

A NEW, NOVEL, AND ORIGINAL COMIC.

An old darkey steals a pig—Pig escapes out of bag—Farmer chases darkey—Darkey chases pig—Lots of screaming fun—Darkey gets home, puts pig in cradle, and is calmly "rocking the baby to sleep" when the pursuers arrive. Not being able to find the pig, they go away, and Rastus and his mammy have plenty of young tender pork to eat.

Length 450ft.

ANOTHER SPLENDID STORY PICTURE!

THE PIRATES' TREASURE.

A SAILOR'S LOVE STORY.

COPYRIGHT 1907 BY THE VITAGRAPH COMPANY OF AMERICA.

The sailor boy and his sweetheart meet at their trysting place. The betrothal. Girl's father forbids the marriage and looks her in her room. She escapes and runs away with her sailor boy. The marriage. Two years later. In poverty. The sailor's dream of Captain Kidd. Search for and discovery of the treasure. Reconciliation with father and happy ending. A novel and charming subject. Length 715ft.

WHO'S WHO.

Code Word, WHO.

Who's the tramp and who's the policeman (a clever reversing picture)? Write for a copy, you will know then! Very amusing.

500ft. £12 10s. (less 33⅓%).

THE FEMALE HIGHWAYMAN.

Code Word, HIGHWAYMAN.

For thrilling excitement and dare-devil adventure this picture is hard to beat. Novel effects and astounding situations abound throughout. The audience, no matter where they sit—gallery or box—will be wrapt in interest watching the escapades of this young girl.

Briefly—She steals valuable diamonds from a jeweller by means of a dual disguise—from woman to man—and in which chewing-gum plays an important part. Holds up a motor-car party, and finally attempts to rid a bank messenger of his valise. This proves her undoing, and she poisons herself on the verge of arrest. Perfect photographic quality.

URBAN PRODUCTIONS

GREAT NATIONAL SPECTACLES of WORLD-WIDE INTEREST.

The following Pictures form this week's Urbanora Programme at the Alhambra Theatre:

THE DUEL IN ALL AGES. A Series that will always be Seasonable.

Produced under the direction, and by courtesy of, Captain A. HUTTON, F.S.A., and Captain GRAHAM HOPE, of the LEGION OF FRONTIERSMEN.
Nearly forty of the world's best fencers are engaged, and the magnificent costumes worn, the activity and skill of the swordsmen, and the thrill of numerous combats with all their varying chances, make a charming and animated picture under the old trees of Lincoln's Inn.
Procession of Combatants: a superb picture. DUELS: Retiarius and Mirmillo; Two-handed Swords; Duel des Mignons; Dagger and Cloak; Musketeers and Guardsmen; British Soldier v. Pathan. A Romantic, Enthralling, and Picturesque Subject. No. 2012. Code, "DUEL." Length, 360ft. Price £6.

THE WELLMAN POLAR EXPEDITION. A Visit to Danes Island.

The departure from England on May 25th of Mr. Wellman for his second attempt to reach the North Pole by airship having aroused special interest, we remind exhibitors and the trade that the Urban Series of August last furnishes the only published animated picture record of the first attempt, and that it will prove all the more valuable on that account.
No. 3134. Code, "POLAR." Length 500ft. Price £8 6s. 8d.

THE DERBY, 1907.

In addition to the actual records of this classic race, this year's series will include many animated scenes in the grounds of the historic Durdans, by the courteous permission of the Right Hon. the Earl of Rosebery. Our arrangements enable us to secure splendid preliminary scenes, the Start, Rounding Tattenham Corner, the Finish, the re-entry of the Winner, and all the principal features of the Derby of 1907.
Code, "DOWNS." Orders executed at the earliest possible moment, in strict rotation as received.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.

To anyone connected with the stage, from the call-boy to the "star," and from the electrician to the manager, the "Era Annual" makes an appeal which it is very hard to resist. The number of stories and anecdotes contributed by well-known members of the theatrical profession are always bright, breezy, and fresh, and, as usual, the photographs are excellently reproduced. The calendar is arranged so as to give an interesting theatrical event, with the year of occurrence, for every day in the year. The tables of plays produced at the various London and provincial theatres provide an interesting story of successes and failures, and in every respect the Annual for 1907 is well up to the usual standard. It is published at one shilling by "The Era," at 5, Tavistock-street, London.—Dublin Express, Jan. 28.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.

A capital shilling's worth is the "Era Annual," with its valuable lists of new plays produced during the year in London, the provinces, Berlin, and Paris. In contains, also, many readable articles by stage favourites, notably a characteristic contribution, "How I Spend My Day," by Miss Ellen Terry.—Daily Express, Feb. 2.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.

The "Era Annual" for 1907 is now out. It is full of good things, and will be eagerly perused by all who are interested in dramatic and musical affairs and personnel. Portraits of, and original contributions by, several public favourites and managers appear, including Miss Ellen Terry, who tells "How I Spend My Day"; Mr. Frank Cooper, Mr. Arthur Collins, Mr. Charles Collette, Mr. Frank Curzon, Mr. Matthew Brodie, Miss Constance Moxon, Miss Edith Cole, and Mr. Tom Craven. There is, in addition, the usual store of miscellaneous theatrical information which is indispensable to all who are interested in stage matters.—Liverpool Post, Jan. 26.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1907.

"The Era" Annual deservedly ranks high as a record of the passing theatrical show. The new issue, in a comprehensive survey of the drama, mentions in proper order all the productions and revivals of the year, both at home and abroad and gives a list of the theatres and music halls of the United Kingdom, with the names of their respective managers. The lighter side of the publication, to which many well-known managers and performers contribute, is of exceptionally high literary merit.—Morning Leader, Jan. 21, '07.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Adair Nelson.—The Shadows of a Great City draws big audiences to the more popular parts of the house this week. Mr. Fred Morgan plays the hero with all the necessary breeziness and emphasis; and Miss Mary Raby shows to admirable advantage in the part of Biddy Roonan. Mr. H. A. Lyons makes a first-rate villain; and two minor characters are capitally represented by Messrs. Fred Bentley and Storey Gofton. Miss Dorothy Clifton plays an ingénue part most gracefully; and all the other members of the company ably assist in making the piece a success.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The Warsaw Brothers' entertainment proves thoroughly enjoyable, being one of the smartest of its kind; Mr. Harry Nelson makes a big hit with his catchy and up-to-date songs; and Sprightly Wee Archie McAllister, a local laddie, delights the house with his rendering of "Mona" and his clever sand dancing. The Sisters Lotus are smart duettists; Mr. Harry Briggs, the triple-voiced vocalist, possesses an exceptional range; Cyclamena does a novel cycling turn; and Miss Jennie Sydney is a good vocalist and dancer; Zenora, a clever contortionist; Miss Evie Hamilton, a dainty comedienne; and Lambeth and Robertson, in their very humorous sketch, Scotch Folks' Wooing, are all exceedingly well received.

ALDERSHOT.—THE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Resident-Manager, Mr. Jack Gladwin.—Somebody's Sweetheart is being played by Mr. Marris's company. As Lulu, Miss Effie Vincent is winsome and clever, her singing and dancing being excellent. As Stanton, Mr. Cecil W. Parke sings and acts with exceptional ability; as Freddie, Miss May Norris is good; Martin Blabbs, around whom all the frolic revolves, finds a particularly clever exponent in Mr. George Brentwood, whose puns and funniosities, not to mention the mandoline efforts, are the hit of the evening. Mr. Frank Gala makes a fine Old Joe; while Miss Dolly Rayne and Miss Rosie Chandler dance gracefully. The quasi-villainous Stephen is ably impersonated by Mr. Percy Maitland.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Her One Great Sin is being presented by Miss Lydia Donovan and company. Miss Lydia Donovan assumes the rôle of Grace Warhurst, and depicts the varied phases of the character with power and pathos. Another important rôle which is very ably interpreted is that of Arnold Thornhill, by Mr. C. Quinton Fulford; Reuben Warhurst, the wronged husband, finds a capable exponent in Mr. G. Edwd. Hall; humour is imparted by the acting of Mr. F. Hodson as Jerry and Miss Nellie Lambert as Nancy, a servant girl. The shady side of slum denizens and low life are portrayed with skill by Mr. Chas. E. Lambert, Mr. J. Crondace, and Miss Louie Walton; effective work is also done by Miss Phyllis Damian, Miss Maudie Lambert, and others in minor parts.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—W. G. Wesley reappears here in quaint melodies, sung in a quiet, yet humorous, style; Cora Duncan and Albert Brasque appear in a smart little playlet, A Society Butterfly; the Three Lancashire Harmony Boys, assisted by Mr. Cliffe Dover, comedian, appear in the vocal scena, Home for the Holidays, with pleasing harmonic effects; the Juanitas are finished athletes as well as daring acrobats; Landon Brothers are clever comedy acrobatic contortionists; another feature of interest which fixes attention is the dramatic sketch, Nancy, from Dickens's "Oliver Twist." Miss Georgette Thierry's assumption of Nancy is very vivid and characteristic; Mr. Willie Black's Bill Sikes is brutal and savage; and Miss Florrie Sorsby as Oliver, Mr. Henry Deane as Mr. Brownlow, and Mr. Bernard Liell as Fagin, act in capital style. The Brothers Robson, versatile comedians, are eccentric comedians and dancers; Fred Dornan is a good character-vocalist; Miss Agnes Molteno has a delightful scena, with living tableaux and specially-painted scenery. She is assisted by Miss Ida Thompson and Mr. T. Edwards. The bioscope pictures are "Sports in Galway."

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Chris A. Wordsworth.—Picture entertainments are still a powerful attraction, with Miss Nellie Burke as vocalist.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Lacy Lyne; Assistant-Manager, Mr. T. E. Owen. An attractive programme here is headed by the Three Royal Dreadnoughts (Lilian, Vera, and Major Charles) in a remarkable exhibition of skill as rifle shots. The Brady and Johnson combination, in a laughable comedy sketch, My Uncle, is heartily received; a pleasing combination of whistling, singing, and dancing is given by Phillips and Merritt (lady and gentleman); Miss Maud Esmond is a dainty burlesque artist; Chester and Lees afford much amusement with their marionettes; fun and skill are combined by Elton and Elma in a triple-bar act; juvenile Joe Conway is a versatile comedian; and the programme is completed by Mr. Clayton's Attergraph pictures.

CENTRAL HALL.—Lessees, Jasper Redfern, Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frederick W. Holmes.—The pictures here are well diversified, and the variety turns are furnished by Shawlene, the whistling genius; Miss Laurina Lindberg, vocalist; the Two Gentrys, in an interlude, varied by an acrobatic dance from the lady; and Alpho, an accomplished ventriloquist.

BARNSLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Mr. A. C. Mitchell.—The Sledge Hammer is presented here this week by Mr. George Henry. Mr. David Hamilton as Matthew Derrick gives a capital study of the part; Mr. Alfred Burrows does well as Everard Derrick; and as his step-brothers, Jacob and Simon, Mr. A. Bertram Croucher and Mr. Hardy Marco are to be complimented. Mr. Fred Best is well placed as Tom Walker; and the same may be said of Miss May Douglas as Catherine Henris, their quaint humour being responsible for much laughter. Miss Jessie Hope acts with distinction as Rose Maywell; and Miss Ethel Stuart well acquits herself as Maria Derrick. The remaining parts are all in good hands.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—The D'Oyly Carte Principal Répertoire Opera company is here this week. Miss Mabel Grahame acted with much charm and vivacity and sang brilliantly as Gianetta; and Miss Lulu Evans made a charming Tessa. Miss Theresa Rassam was a commanding Duchess of Plaza-Toro; while Mr. Charles R. Walenn was an amusing Duke. Luiz was well done by Mr. Leicester Tunks; the Casilda, by a deputy, was a pleasing performance; while Mr. Fred Billington revelled in the congenial part of the Grand Inquisitor. Messrs. Pacie Ripple and Albert Kavanagh were delightfully pleasing Gondoliers.

TIVOLI THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Edgar Laban.—Frank and Alice Lurin are extremely successful in an extravaganza, entitled Cinders; Edgar Dudden is a good comedian and bone soloist; the Four Figaros vocalise and dance agreeably in Ten Minutes on the Continent; and Bishop and Vale are pleasing comedy artists and dancers. Miss Mabelle May is a dainty singer; the Grosvenors contribute some tuneful harmony; and the Gladenbecks give a clever hand-balancing and ring speciality act.

BATH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Closed.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Chas. Schuberth.—The regular vaudeville season having concluded last Saturday, Mr. Macnaghten has started a summer season of picture entertainments, which appears to be likely to prove as equally successful locally as it does in the other halls he controls. The films by the Raymond Bio-Tableaux are of the latest and best, and include educational, historical, and humorous subjects. A word of praise is due to Mr. Teal, who carries through his no light task as pianist with pleasing results.

BEDFORD.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. E. Graham-Falcon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter R. Wilson.—On Monday night, before a good house, Mr. F. R. Benson and company submitted Cervantes's Don Quixote, dramatised by G. E. Morrison and R. P. Stewart. The title-rôle was rendered with fine passion, tenderness, and dignity by Mr. Benson; the rich humour of Mr. Geo. R. Weir as Sancho Panza made the part a delightful reality; Mr. Murray Carrington was an important and dignified Don Miguel, the Chancellor; Mr. Clarence Derwent was a capable Duke; Nicholas, the lover of Antonia, found a spirited and manly representative in Mr. Geo. Buchanan; and Palamque was given full scope by Mr. E. A. Warburton. Miss Mildred Forster was a truly regal Duchess; and Miss Gwladys Wynne played with exquisite feeling as Antonia. The lesser parts were all in capable hands, and the staging was of the usual good order which characterises Mr. F. R. Benson's productions.

BELFAST.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; Acting-Manager, Mr. James M. McCann.—Closed for summer vacation, re-opening on July 29 next.

PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. De Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. Harris.—The Fourteen Black Hussars appear to the greatest advantage in their musical act, The Bass Drum Trust; the reception nightly of this clever combination has been most enthusiastic. Mr. Peter Bermingham, the Scotch comedian, creates much merriment with his droll songs; and the Courtiers at once establish themselves favourites with their unique act. The Musical Jees uphold their reputation with their instrumental novelty act, and their performance is certainly a feature of the programme; Mr. Henri Cazman is undoubtedly a smart artist, his mimicry being surprisingly realistic; and a hit has been made by Miss Florence Yaymen, the American coon caricaturist. Also appearing are Miss Dolly Denton (comedienne), the Sisters Belmont (comediennes and dancers), and the Palace pictures.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Belfast Hippodrome Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Will Sley; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—The Brothers Luck Co.'s sketch, The Hotel Grande, evokes the loudest hilarity; the feats of strength by Mr. Launceston Elliott have created quite a sensation, and we have nothing but praise for this clever athlete; Martine and Son, song illustrators, have been accorded a good reception, and deservedly so; and Regan and Ryan are exceedingly droll Irish comedians and fine dancers; and the contortionist feats of Mr. Sim Maree are certainly very clever. Lanos and Montes, Continental eccentrics, take well; as does Miss Edith St. Clair, comedienne. Also appearing are Mr. Dick Kendal (comedian), Miss Lil Hartley (comedienne), and the new pictures on the Hipposcope are certainly a most attractive feature of the programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—Fred Karno's company present with great success their latest creation, The Bailiff. Mr. Fred Kitchen's impersonation of the Bailiff has created roars of laughter; Mr. Billy Farrell is a capital coon vocalist, his songs being splendidly rendered; and as a mimic Mr. Arthur Gill has few equals. Miss Amy Russell's fine voice has been heard to the utmost advantage; and Spry and Monti uphold their reputation as a comedy duo of great excellence. The Lashmars, in their speciality act, have been enthusiastically received. A word of praise is due to the orchestra of this hall, so skilfully conducted by Mr. W. L. Richards, I.S.M.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sinclair Neill.—The Alhambra Dramatic Company, under the direction of Mr. M. Montgomery, are here with the drama, On the Stroke of Twelve. Mr. Horace Denton furnishes an admirable impersonation of Jack Rutledge; and we have nothing but praise for that charming actress, Miss Nina Blake-Adams, for her delightful interpretation of the part of Jess Bainbridge. Mr. Cyril Grier gains the utmost approval for his impersonation of the Jew; and Miss Kathleen Magee could not easily be surpassed as Marie Bergerre. Mr. Elmore Frith is admirable as Henry Rutledge; and the humour of the piece is in the safe hands of Mr. Tom H. Solly, his impersonation of Pat creating roars of laughter. Mr. Edward M. Heanley must be commended for his skilful impersonation of James Horton; the rôle is a difficult one, but in Mr. Heanley's hands it was presented in a manner that would be difficult to excel. Mr. Ed. Smythe as George Bainbridge scored heavily, and Miss Mattie Crawford was charming as Doris Rutledge. Mr. J. E. Davies as Warder Dole completed the cast. Mr. Tom H. Solly is responsible for the admirable stage arrangements. The Alhambra Bioscope, under the direction of Mr. W. Newlove, present a fine picture, "When We Were Boys."

ULSTER HALL.—Proprietors, Belfast Corporation.—The Zancigs opened on Monday. Their remarkable demonstrations of thought-transmission have created quite a sensation, and undoubtedly the visit here will be a pronounced success. A concert-party of great merit assisted. Miss Ethel Grimes, who is the happy possessor of a fine soprano voice, sang "Il Bacco" with great effect; and Miss Kate Moss sang two songs with her own violin obbligato with great acceptance; Miss Clare Alexander's plantation songs delighted all; and the clever society entertainer, Mr. E. Thornley-Dodge, created much amusement with his sketches, recitations, &c. Mr. David Brazell's songs have been loudly and deservedly applauded. The accompaniments are faultlessly played by Mr. Harold E. Scott. It should be added that the tour is under the direction of Mr. Alfred Moul.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Reginald Grant; Secretary, Miss Isabel Morris.—Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company is on a return visit with Two Little Drummer Boys. Miss Maggie English and Miss Maud Douglas are highly popular in the title-rôles; Mr. Edward Bikker is well suited as General Kingsley; the four officers of the 6th Royal Warwicks are admirably impersonated by Messrs. Geoff Sutherland, H. Ryeland Leigh, F. Rogers, and Philip Redgrave; and Mr. Michael Madden as Quinery O'Quirke and Mr. Charles Locke as Timothy provide the necessary humour. Miss Beatrice Shirley gives an interesting performance of Alma Kingsley; Margaret Rivers is well played by Miss Mildred Eversleigh; and Miss Lizzie Chambers is a sprightly Molly Meadows.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Haley's Juveniles give a clever and interesting entertainment, and are a leading feature; Mr. Arthur Rigby, comedian, is a warm favourite; and Tennyson and Wallis are patterers of exceptional ability. Miss Rachel Lowe, a vocalist of ability, has many admirers; and an excellent company includes the Three Rio Tintos (acrobats), Addison's fox terriers, Miss Dolly Andrews (comedienne), and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Tom B. Davis; Acting-Manager, Mr Philip Rodway.—The promenade concerts continue to increase in popularity, and yield rich enjoyment. On Monday the orchestra excelled itself, giving the overture to Carmen and the Intermezzo, the D minor Rhapsody of Liszt, the Rakoczsky March from Berlioz's Faust, and Mr. Granville Bantock's Sappho Prelude, &c.; Mr. Max Mossel gave Sinding's First Violin Concerto, and Miss Edith Clegg shone as the vocalist. Mr. J. MacCabe is business-manager for Mr. Mossel.

PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Rodgers, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. F. Graham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry Johnston.—A Message from Mars greets the Prince of Wales's patrons; Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore being secured for his well-known and finely-finished rôle of Horace Parker. Mr. William H. Brougham makes an excellent impression as the Messenger from Mars; Miss Joan Ellis is much applauded as the fiancée, Minnie Templar; Mr. Bruce Lindley scores heavily as the tramp; Miss Flora Hastings acts in a distinguished and graceful manner as Miss Parker; Mr. Thomas Holding is exceptionally good as the American, Arthur Dicey; and Miss Madge Herrick plays the rôle of Polly to admirable advantage.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Guilty Gold, the new drama by Horace Stanley, and produced here last Monday, is noticed elsewhere.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—A smart variety company holds sway for the nonce here, consisting of Dan Agar, burlesque comedian; Florrie Wright, ballad singer; the Sisters Dudley, duettists; T. W. Lenner, the quaint comedian; Marie Vincent, burlesque serio; Will Sandes, the "indiarubber comic"; David Hallam, of Geo. Dance's Toreador company; Sandes and Vincent, speciality artists; and Lena Dudley, in illustrated songs, all of whom receive much applause.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—The Sorrows of Satan and A Soldier of France fill the bill here, with Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company, in conjunction with Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond. On Monday and Tuesday A Soldier of France revealed Mr. Arthur Hinton's splendid ability and energy in the rôle of Corporal—later, Father Jean. Mr. Travis Green excited due feeling with his clever character-study of the villain, Judas Delara; Mr. Victor Millard gave a praiseworthy portrayal of the hero, Louis, also appearing as the father, Captain Lorraine; Mr. Arthur Lowry scored as the Duke De Laval; Miss Lydia André pleased well as Rita; Dolly Turner was admired as Master Louis; Miss Leila Zillwood, whose admirable desserts brought her a benefit list night, came out strong in the part of Pauline; and Mr. Wilton Drury's clever exertions as Jollyboy were well seconded by Miss Jennie Clare as Margot.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—At the head of the bill is Mr. Sidney Dooley and Mr. Charles Seymour's company in A King for a Day. This is a complete musical comedy in itself. There is a strong chorus, and throughout there are many tuneful songs and pretty dances. Humour is the keynote of the tabloid comedy, and Sidney Dooley as Septimus Tupper, and Miss Edith Barwell as Eliza Remnant, are conspicuous in many laughable situations. Theo. Bouwmeister is a protean actor of more than average ability; Claire Romaine pays a welcome return visit; Gwennie Hasto dances as cleverly as ever; the Millman Trio are smart tight-wire artists; and the Sonsloffs are clever whirlwind dancers. Bert Byrne, comedian; the Delevines, sketch artists; and the Sisters Poole, duettists and dancers, also contribute.

GAIETY.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The premier position here is occupied by Happy Holland, presented by Jake Friedman and Miss Florence Hunton. Jack Lorimer is responsible for several pleasing songs and dances; Montague Biggs is received with great favour; an excellent musical turn is presented by Sterling and Lowe; and the Four Avocas, in The Reckless Miner; Fred and Maud Vypond, Lord, Murray, and Lord, Johnny Fuller, and Stella Stoll, are also in the company.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The Minstrel Maids, whose turn proves very successful, strike an original note in their entertainment, and The Bass Drum Trust proves a fitting finale. Fred Edwards and company give a bright and laughable sketch, entitled The Kleptomaniacs; J. G. Aitken is a capital Scotch comedian; May Edouin presents a refined song-scena; Edwin Boyde is a droll comedian; Kendrick and Laura are clever society entertainers; and Maudo Vera, serio and coon artist; Wat Watkins, comedian; and the Nirdas, juvenile acrobats and equilibrists, add to the evening's enjoyment.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—At the head of an interesting programme are Matthew Brodie and company in the sketch, entitled The Drummer of the 76th. John L. Shine has a novelty in his excellently-conceived sketch, An Actor's Art. During his stay of twenty-five minutes on the stage he portrays no fewer than seven characters. He is ably assisted by his brother, Wilfred Shine, and Richard Purdon. Entertaining items are also provided by Ellis Barrieton, vocalist; Johnny Walker, comedian; Tom H. Wood; Lady Fauntleroy; and the Five Osranis.

NATIONAL TRADES' EXHIBITION, BINGLEY HALL.—General-Manager, Mr. George Stanley.—This colossal show, with its many side-shows and other varied attractions, closes to-night (Saturday) when the annual cheque, this year amounting to over £200, will be handed the treasurer of the Queen's Hospital here on behalf of that institution.

BLACKBURN.—PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—The entertainment here this week is of all-round excellence. Howard and Harris appear in an amusing sketch, while Addie Dorina shows some remarkable "quick-change" work in her sketch Dr. Spot's Patients. Larola is a clever comic juggler of the three Brothers Huxter, acrobats, who do some remarkable feats; and the Sisters Edwards, comediennes; Walter Stanley comedian; and Rose Cabini, chorus vocalist, complete the programme.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Miss Emma Litchfield's company in the drama A Clever Imposter is playing here. Mr. Stewart Cleveland, in the part of Manuel Teixeira, acts powerfully; and Miss Litchfield is good as Norah Grovenor. The piece is capitally staged.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—The New Boy, very capably enacted by Mr. Jerrard Grant Allen's company, is meeting with a cordial reception here this week. The title-rôle is played by Mr. Leon M. Lion, in whom custom hath made it a property of easiness. Miss Katherine Harrington does well as Mrs. Rennick; Misses Nellie Redwood and Beatrice Manning are seen to advantage as Nancy Roach and Susan respectively; Dr. Candy has a good representative in Mr. Harry Ashford; and Mr. George de Lara, Mr. W. J. Rea (as the French master), and Mr. Stanley Logan (as Bullock major) likewise play their parts satisfactorily.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. T. Sergenson.—Mr. Herbert Ralland and T. Sergenson's company is playing Shall We Forgive Her? here this week. Mr. Charles B. Vaughan scored a complete success in the part of Oliver West; Mr. Frank Bradley's impersonation of Neil Garth is forcible and telling; Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont carefully portrays Paul Elsworth; Mr. A. C. Thornhill is effective as James Stapleton; and Mr. H. Robert Averell as Reggie Walton could scarcely be improved upon. The acting of Miss Edith Anton Laing as Grace West is much admired, and Nellie West is gracefully represented by Miss Ida Chapman.

Palace.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Martin Adeson and company top this week's bill in their successful sketch The Masked Lady. The Four Athos, ball manipulators, also have a big reception; and other popular turns are supplied by Geo. Collins, comedian; the Brothers Obo, duettists; the Zerbinis, musical specialists; the Custances in a sketch; the Seven Walfrunas, acrobats; Walter Munroe, comedian; Josie Money, comedienne; and Sylvia's tableaux.

North Pier.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. James Walker.—Mr. Ernest Lloyd's Excelsior Opera Singers are supplying the entertainment here this week. They are all vocalists of undoubted merit, but as Mr. Frank Quinn, the baritone, stands out so much above the ordinary, he deserves special mention.

Victoria Pier.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Geo. Roberts.—The Melfords, versatile entertainers, are fulfilling an engagement here. George Royle's Troubadours and Herr Blome's orchestra are still retained.

BLYTH.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur C. Moody.—Mr. Harold Wantage's company is here with The Pick of the Bunch. In the rôle of Dick Seymore, Mr. Wantage renders an amusing impersonation; whilst Mr. Algernon W. Lee has a most favourable reception as Halliwell Menit. To Mr. Percy Haverstock every praise is due for a fine portrayal of Colonel Menit; Ruth Gay finds a charming exponent in Miss Eva Elliss; in the hands of Miss Bina C. Hilton the part of Nellie Mather stands out prominently; to Miss M. Sadie the honours of the evening are due for a clever and vivacious rendition of the part of Nancy. Mr. Harry Bolton conducts in an able manner a well-organised orchestra.

Gaiety.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. G. E. Good.—Dr. Carl Hermann, in his bloodless surgery and electric wonder-working, has proved a strong attraction; also appearing with success are Mme. Angeline, in a smart dancing and juggling act; Miss Francis Hanlon, a dainty comedienne and dancer; Carley and Place, patterers and dancers; Sidney Leon, swell comedian; J. H. Malva, ventriloquist; and the Three Bostonians, in their attractive American songs and dances.

Hippodrome.—Proprietor, Mr. William Tudor.—Pictorial and variety entertainments continue to form the programme here, and good houses are the rule.

BOLTON.—Theatre Royal, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Melvin.—Miss Marie Dagmar and Mr. Fred C. Somerfield are presenting The Tyrant, in which Mr. Roy Fortesque appears as Angelo, Mr. Fred C. Somerfield very ably plays the part of Homodei, and Miss Marie Dagmar cleverly portrays the character of Tisbe. Miss Margaret Frame gives an excellent rendering of the part of Lady Katherine; the Rudolph of Mr. John Cecil was much appreciated; and Miss Lallah Shelton was responsible for a good piece of acting in the part of Bulle.

Grand Theatre, Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The principal item here is Paul Pelham's nautical scena, King's Naves, in which Mr. Pelham appears in his great impersonation of Lord Nelson concluding with a sensational and realistic tableau of the Battle of Waterloo. Other items in an interesting programme are Bock Pyolades, in his facial entertainment; the Olympian Trio, in plantation melodies; Eddie Ford, extempore vocalist; J. H. Milburn, comedian; Dardan and Iris, in their original and refined dancing act; H. E. High, burlesque skater; Miss Ida Fair, comedienne and ballad vocalist; Charles Tempest, laughing comedian; Astley's American Circus, and the Imperial Bioscope.

BOOTLE. — Muncaster Theatre. — Proprietors, Messrs. Pennington; Manager, Mr. H. Pennington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Young. — Mr. A. Campbell Kelly and company are here in The Trail of the Serpent. The rôle of Sir Gerald Kingston is well sustained by Mr. Henry K. Penn; Mr. A. Campbell Kelly is seen to advantage as Gerald Kingston, also enacting Old Jack with power; a sweet and charming Ethel Maynard is Miss Phyllis Elton; and Miss Nana Cameron is effective as Rachel, the gipsy. Mr. Frank Lyndon brings down the wrath of the house as Ralph Hammond; and Mr. John Cullen well depicts Gipsy Jake with power. The comedy is entrusted to Mr. J. R. Tyrell as William Higgins, and Miss Jennie Risley as Rose Wilson.

BOSCOMBE.—Hippodrome.—Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry Ball.—The chief attraction this week is Fred Karno's comedians, in the amusing travesty, Mumming Birds; Minnie Hunt and Rhys Thomas are clever in the amusing duologue, Her Birthday; J. H. McCann submits an original turn as a dancer on roller skates; Bliss and Bliss cause laughter with their patter; Lillian Rigby is successful as an instrumentalist; Master Chas. Carr gains much applause for his dance; Rosie Rival is a chic comedienne; and the Hippodrome pictures conclude.

BRADFORD.—Theatre Royal.—Lessee, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. T. F. Doyle; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Richardson.—On Thursday evening, May 30, Mme. Jane Hading, the accomplished French actress, gave one performance of the part of Gilberte in the drama of Frou-Frou, and a well-filled house applauded the gifted lady's impersonation. On Monday Messrs. Leonard Pagden and G. M. Copping's company commenced a six nights' engagement in Jim the Penman, and Mr. Pagden submitted a fine character-study of the forger, James Ralston. Miss Alice Farleigh impressed her audience greatly in the character of Mrs. Ralston; Mr. Orlando Barnett effectively filled the part of Baron Hartfield; Mr. Ernest A. Douglas was amusing as the sleepy Captain Redwood; Mr. W. Lockhart played Louis Percival with the required dignity; and Miss Muriel Pope made a charming Agnes Ralston.

Prince's Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Francis Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—The London Fireman was presented for the first time here on Monday. Mr. J. Forbes Knowles, in his fine impersonation of Hal Curtis, has excellent support. Miss Nellie Shirley acts with tenderness as Ida; Mr. Herbert S. Humber effectively fills the part of the villainous Viscount Fleming, whose father is an excellent character-study strongly sustained by Mr. E. L. Garside; Mr. L. Thomson as Abel Folnum (Ida's father) and Miss Beatrice Sinclair as Grace Curtis are especially noteworthy. Mr. Fowler Thatcher is comic as Nixey; and Miss Nellie Garside makes an amusing Polly Bramble.

The Empire.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—A fine company here includes Allan Hanbury, comedian; Collins and Rice, quaint rhymsters; Tom Child, the Yorkshire tenor; the Egbert Brothers, "the happy dustmen," quaint, diverting, and popular as ever; Fanny Iris, who displays courtly grace as a knight of old; Herbert Shelley, in a thrilling episode Dan the Outlaw; the De Breams, in clever Japanese jugglery; Frank Lynne, funny comedian; Drew and Alders, in their new funny sketch, The Coastguards; and Herbert Darnley's company in the sketch Moving In.

Palace Theatre.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. R. Ralli.—Ailsa Douglas is first on a programme of much merit this week as a chorus vocalist; and following the lady are Fyne and Hurley, in a capital turn, The Coster and the Dude; the Lannons, exceedingly clever high pedestal dancers; Jack Dawe, a purveyor of acceptable comedy; the Four Spanish Goldinis, carpet spinners and acrobats; the Sisters Walmsley, duettists and dancers; and the Six Brothers Luck, in The Demon of the Cellar.

BRIDLINGTON. — Royal Prince's Parade.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Two of the great features at the promenade concerts, under the able conductorship of Mr. Joseph Sainton, are the violin solos of Mr. Rudolph Bauerkeller, who plays with great taste and technique some of the best works of the great composers; and the very fine cornet solos of Mr. J. Bossi, who is a master of this difficult instrument. The vocalist this week is Miss Joan Ashley, a lady with a contralto voice of great beauty and power. Mr. Flockton-Foster and his company of costume entertainers are a never-failing source of delight to the large audiences who assemble in the Grand Pavilion.

New Spa and Gardens.—General Manager and Secretary, Mr. Henry Hague.—Mr. Sydney James's talented company, the "Rustic Scholars," are giving their last performances this week, to the delight of the frequenters of the Spa. The New Zealand twins (Misses Aileen and Doris Woods) score immensely with their new item, "Bedtime at the Zoo"; Mr. Gilbert Farine is very amusing in his "Potted Poetry"; Mr. Harker Nicholls sings some fine baritone songs, and his clever solo played on a collection of jam-pots is a great novelty; and Mr. Alfred Wooton's fine tenor voice is heard to advantage. Herr Simon Wurm and his Imperial Viennese Band render with fine effect their varied programmes, and Herr Van der Naotan's pianoforte solos are a great treat.

The Palace.—Managers, Messrs. W. H. and J. W. Delmar.—The Parisian Animated Picture Co. are this week giving a very fine show of living pictures. The Alvoys, in their amusing sketch, Bertie's Birthday, and the Leopold Leglere Troupe of acrobats are retained in the bill for another week.

Summer Gardens.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Beanland.—The novelty of the week is a screaming absurdity, Hamelton's Diorama; or A Trip Round the World, Mr. George Hyam, the conductor of the tour, giving the audience a most amusing time. The pierrot programme of the troupe is well arranged and admirably carried out.

BRIGHTON.—Theatre Royal.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. Cecil Beryl; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Harcourt M. Beryl.—Mr. Robert Crossman's company opened here on Monday with Sergeant Brue. Mr. Arthur Reynolds was very entertaining as Sergeant Brue; Mr. T. A. Shale made a humorous and eccentric Cookie Scrubbs; Mr. J. H. Goldsworthy gave an excellent impersonation of Michael Brue; Miss Mary Hay was a bright and attractive Aurora Brue; Miss Marion Hargrave was a droll Daisy; and Miss Ethel Ivimey a pleasing Mabel Widget. In the absence of Miss Cissie Raymond, owing to a relaxed throat, Miss Lilian Leslie, at short notice, submitted a creditable representation of Lady Bickenhall. The remaining characters were ably sustained, and the chorus and orchestra did well under the direction of Mr. Sydney Shaw. Between the first and second acts Mr. James Coward performed several pieces with much success on the Mustel organ.

Grand Theatre.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Mr. Carpenter's company is performing The Shaughraun here this week, and attracts large audiences. Mr. Charles Preece gives an admirable impersonation of Conn; Miss Lucy Murray is a charmingly winsome Moya; Miss Daisy Scudamore submits an excellent enactment of Claire Ffolliott; Mr. Roy Redgrave is well suited as Captain Molineaux; and the villainous Squireen and his creature, Harvey Duff, are forcibly portrayed by Mr. Ellis J. Preston and Mr. Charles Russell; Miss Amy Venimore as Arte O'Neal and Mr. Arthur H. Hill as Robert Ffolliot are distinctly effective; and Mr. H. C. Lanceley is a genial Father Doolan.

Alhambra.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—A capital company is engaged here this week. Harry Tate's company is highly amusing in Motoring; Charles Kitt's and Rhoda Windrum evoke hearty laughter with their military comedy, The Cuckoo; Rezene and Robini achieve great success in Army and Navy; Johnny Holland and company are very warmly received in the comedy domestic sketch, The Millionaire; Ina Lorrimore is a versatile Scotch comedienne and pleasing dancer; Massona gives a clever juggling turn; La Belle Lillian is a clever and graceful cyclist; Tony Iveson, "the ragman at the piano," is entertaining; Barney Vox is a capital ventriloquist; and the Alhambrascope pictures under the superintendence of Ruffel's Imperial, Ltd., are interesting.

Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—An attractive programme is sustained here this week. Harry Ford, comedian, keeps the house rippling with laughter; the Westwoods, comedy and expert cyclists, are exceptionally clever; Frank Danby and company win enthusiastic applause in Edward Marris's new musical comedy sketch, The Chauffeur; Barton and Franklin, "Scottish princes of music," are versatile instrumentalists; the Two Kays are effective in their vocal scena, The Nightingale; Cullen, Carthy, and Little Cluley are droll and amusing comedians; the Henres are clever club throwers and jugglers; the Ringling Trio are capital American eccentrics; Tod Lowen, comedian, and Gladys Wilton, juvenile contralto, submit pleasing turns; and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

West Pier.—Secretary and Entertainment Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Norman V. Norman and company are still here, and are delighting large audiences. On Monday they gave an admirable performance of The Adventure of Lady Ursula. Mr. Norman V. Norman achieved brilliant success by his masterly impersonation of Sir George Sylvester; Miss Beatrice Wilson won great favour by her thoroughly artistic impersonation of Lady Ursula; Miss Sybil Ruskin made a vivacious Dorothy Fenton; Mr. Aubrey Mather was capitally suited as the Earl of Hassenden; and Mr. Brember Willis as Mr. Dent, and other members of the company gave able representations of their parts. The programme for the week also included As You Like It, Robin Hood, David Garrick, and the balcony scene from Romeo and Juliet.

Palace Pier Theatre.—Mr. Arthur A. Horner's company is here this week with Walker, London. Miss Ruhamah Catton makes a delightful Nanny; Miss Mary Pemberton is a charming Bell Golightly; Miss Ruby Wyndham's Mrs. Golightly, and Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite's Sarah Rigg are admirably played; Mr. Edward Coventry merits warm praise for his excellent impersonation of Jasper Phipps; Mr. Forrester Harvey is a capital "W. G."; and the remaining characters are satisfactorily sustained. The comedy is preceeded by Hester's Mystery.

BRISTOL.—Prince's Theatre.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Macready Chute.—Mr. Brandon Thomas' company is here with Charley's Aunt. Mr. Spencer Trevor acted capitally as Lord Fancourt Babberley; Mr. Hastings Lynn did well as Jack Cherney; Mr. Brandon Thomas was highly successful as Colonel Sir Francis Chesney; Mr. Richard B. Mason was satisfactorily cast as Charles Wykeman; Mr. Walter Beaumont made the most of Spettigue; and Mr. Sydney Compton was successful as Bassett; Ella Delahay is played in interesting style by Miss Marjorie Murray; Miss Lena MacNaughton is sufficiently dignified as Donna Lucia; and Kitty Verdim and Amy Spettigue have pleasing exponents in Miss Amy Harpwaye and Miss Ida Vynall. The performance commences with The Lancashire Sailor, in which Mr. Walter Beaumont, Mr. M. A. Wetherall, Mr. Sidney Compton, Miss Molly Robertson, and Miss Amy Harpwaye distinguish themselves.

Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. Henry C. Alty.—A Warning to Women is being played here by Mr. C. Watson Mill's company. Mr. C. Watson Mill acts effectively as Shaun; Miss Rosalind Tate displays considerable power as Moira Kennion; Mr. Richard Vane makes the most of the unsatisfactory part of Dr. Marcus Dread; Mr. William Vane and Miss Grace Barton both act pleasingly their respective parts of Fergus McNaughton and Sheila Kennion; Mr. N. C. Slaughter is amusing as Lord Eversleigh; and Mr. Henry Rutland acts remarkably well as Squire Kennion; as also does Miss Edith Rutland as the cripple boy, Miles O'Moore.

Palace Theatre.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Fred Ginnett's Boy Army tops the bill here, the boys and ponies doing their work admirably; John E. Coyle, comedian, obtains applause; Venie Clements is a pleasing comedienne; James Willard and company score with the sketch, Did He Deserve It?; Kitty Clover and company also score with the comedy sketch, Mr. There's Heir; the Knick Knacks are smart dancers, and amuse with song and patter; Bugler Carr is successful in his equilibristic and musical act; and the performance concludes with interesting animated pictures.

Empire.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—George Marriott and company are highly successful here with their dramatic sketch, Oliver Twist. Madge Grey, comedienne and mimic, presents an exceptionally clever and refined turn; Violet Stockelie is a pleasing comedienne; Lavater Lee is successful with his performing dogs and donkey; Elmo and Recco amuse as comedy acrobats; the Four Olympian Stars, speciality dancers and vocalists, present a good turn; Will Lytton, comedian and dancer, is successful; and Beau and Belle score with their vocal scena, A Pierrot's Serenade. The performance concludes with up-to-date animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—Victoria Theatre, Ltd.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred. Watson.—Under the personal direction of Mr. Julian Graham the musical play Juno, the Living Statue, is finding much favour. Miss Edith Barnes, the American soubrette, is a host in herself; a funny Timothy Twinkle is provided by Mr. Harry Walsh; the title-rôle is well sustained by Miss Kate Graham Beck; Samuel Strong is fittingly portrayed by Mr. Fred Carrington; Mr. G. Walker is a capable Anthony Somers; John Murphy is in the capable hands of Mr. Richard Teasdale; Miss Florence Wood is a pleasing Priscilla Strong; and Miss Gertrude Lawson a sprightly Lottie Stimson.

BURNLEY.—Empire Theatre of Varieties.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. W. C. Horner.—Of a high order is the programme provided here this week. Leoni Clarke presents his menagerie of cats, canaries, rabbits, monkey, &c., in a remarkable performance; the Piccolinis, a smart pair of children, are greatly applauded for their handbalancing and dancing; Flo Chevalier sings acceptably; Flo Hilton is good as a male impersonator; Matlo is a neat juggler; and the performance of Max Duffek, contortionist, is excellent. Francis O'Flynn is well received for his banjo solos; Spencer and Marks are funny in a sketch, The Stage-struck Waifs; and "The Short-sighted Cyclist," by the Empire Theatroscope, is good.

BURY (Lancs.).—Circus of Varieties.—General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—The Ottograph pictures are again the chief item here this week. Other turns are the Haverleys, song illustrators; and Miss Ena Compton, vocal comedienne.

The Hippodrome. — Proprietors, Messrs. Broadhead and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. W. Broadhead, jun.—A capital programme includes the Four Kurios, in a comical and mysterious turn; Bert Danson, vocalist and dancer; Roy Bevis, magician; Mlle. Renne, a clever lady juggler; Edgar Forrest's comedy company in a sketch, entitled My Friend the Enemy; the Lombards, acrobats; May and Ruby, vocalists and dancers; Cissie Astbury, comedienne and dancer; and Doyle and Gibson, comedians.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.—Opera House (Hippodrome).—Proprietor, Mr. H. Dudley-Bennett; Acting-Manager, Mr. John Waller.—Bennett and Martell give an original and amusing performance; a skilful acrobatic exhibition by Lack and Ford is highly applauded; R. C. Note is eminently successful is his humorous songs; Miss Maie, a graceful figure on wire and rope, is extremely clever; Daisy Davenport sings and dances in capital style; Dick and Dorothy, Fred Fano, and up-to-date living pictures by the Operascope conclude an enjoyable programme.

EDMUNDS.—Royal Hippodrome.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Eade Montefiore.—Miss Fanny Robina tops the bill here, meeting with a flattering reception; the Five M.Ps. give an excellent display of musical talent; Miss Daisy Palmer is an unusually clever dancer; Alf. E. Passmore sings genuinely humorous songs; Haig and Russell contribute a farcical sketch; C. Tamamoto's performance on the slack wire is cordially applauded; and Miss Florrie Cooper, a tremendous favourite, uses a powerful contralto with excellent effect.

CAMBRIDGE. — New Theatre. — Managing Director, Mr. W. B. Redfern, J.P., D.L.—On Monday night Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton with their company appeared in Taming of the Shrew, and as Petrucio Mr. Asche fulfilled to the utmost the high expectations promised, while the Katharina of Miss Lily Brayton was also a surpassingly clever performance. The following were also responsible for a good share of the success of a remarkable production, viz., Miss Agnes Brayton, Messrs. H. R. Hignett, Caleb Porter, Reginald Ian Penny, Alfred Brydone, J. Fritz-Russell, G. K. Souper, R. F. Anson, and Henry Kitts. On Tuesday Othello was played, with excellent results, and Taming of the Shrew was repeated on Wednesday.

CARDIFF.—New Theatre.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—The Officers' Mess is presented by Mr. W. Penrhyn Forster's company. Mr. G. Cadwaladr as Major-General de Beaune undertakes the part with much success; Mr. Chas. D. Cleveland in the rôle of Antonio Wilkins presents a good delineation; Mr. P. Gedge Twyman makes a handsome Captain Melville; Mr. Harry Emerie as Thomas Nugg proves particularly amusing; as Sybil Carruthers, Miss Edith Harmer is delightful, her voice being a valuable asset; Miss Clara Nicholls ably fills the part of Lady de Beaune; and Miss Nellie Sheffield puts in some capital work as Rose Smith. Mr. H. Vivian is seen to advantage as Dick Potts.

Theatre Royal.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Robert Redford.—Proving an attraction here is Mr. Ernest Abbott and company in Sapho. Miss Ada Abbott undertakes the title-rôle with infinite credit; Mr. Abbott impersonates Jean Gaussin with considerable ability; Mr. Frank Stephens as Unucle Cesaire is amusing; and Lucy is portrayed with much pathos by Miss Edith Knight.

Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. W. Lea; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. S. Dring.—The Prince of Monte Carlo, a laughable sketch, is at the head of the bill here. Mr. Harry Roxbury as P.C. Longfellow is exceedingly funny, with Mr. Richard Bosco as the Count; Miss Ethel Bryant portrays Lady Carr in a satisfactory manner; Miss Queenie Leighton makes a distinct success with her songscena, On and Off the Stage; a screamingly farcical sketch, Kiss Your Father, is presented by Lonnen Meadows and company; a mystifying turn is that of Dida, styled "the creation of a woman from nothing," introduced by Lewis de Burg; the Miles-Stavordale Quintet give a perfect imitation of the human voice; Larry Lewis is a really quaint comedian; J. B. Preston is also a good Scotch comedian, his patter being exceedingly laughable; and Dan Leno, jun. (comedian), the Two Dixons (bâton swingers, banjo, song, and dance artists), and a picture of life in the Far West on the American Bioscope complete the programme.

CARLISLE.—H. M. Theatre.—Lessees, Mr. Thos. Courtice and Mrs. R. Stewart M'Kim; Manager, Mr. Thos. Courtice.—The Shadows of a Great City is excellently interpreted by the stock company. Mr. W. J. Miller makes a breezy and robust hero; and the heavy part is played with considerable power by Mr. Joseph Millane; Mr. Harry Douglas as the Jew pawnbroker submits a clever and interesting character-sketch; the detective is ably delineated by Captain A. E. Winnington-Barnes; and the comedy relief is in the safe hands of Mr. Charles R. Stone. A clever sketch of Biddy Roonan, a big-hearted, voluble Irishwoman, is contributed by Miss Emily Kelsey; Miss Mabel Rose acts pathetically as Annie Standish, and Nellie, her daughter, is charmingly played by Miss Ethel Bracewell.

The Palace.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Ltd; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—Miss Lottie Lennox secures a flattering reception for her well-rendered songs; Elton and Edwin are loudly applauded for their clever banjo duets; Ferdie's Ma-in-Law goes with a scream from start to finish; Arnold Richardson is responsible for most of the fun, and all the parts are briskly played. Harry Carmen is a capital comedian, his principal song, "My Irish Molly," as rendered by singers of almost every nationality, is cleverly done. Some wonderful feats in the way of spade-jumping in and out of tubs and over various obstacles are performed by Fioretti and Elly; Harvey and Holt, comedy artists, give an excellent turn; and Daisy Lane, a dainty little comedienne, is seen and heard to advantage. New pictures by the Pepiscope conclude.

CASTLEFORD.—Queen's Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietors, Messrs. Chas. Beanland and Will H. Emerson; General-Manager, Mr. Will H. Emerson.—Topping the bill is Chevalier Cliquot, who swallows swords and electric lights; much enthusiasm is evoked by the Four Eugenes in daring and clever gymnastic displays; the Two Neilsons dance well, and cause much laughter with witty and humorous patter; Patty Tole makes a good impression, her dancing and singing going very well; George Grenville, with catchy songs, appeals strongly to the audience; as musical eccentrics, Lanfretta and Napio gain rounds of applause; the Sisters Ford give an excellent turn as character and comedy duettists; and new animated pictures by the Loyal Dominion Co. still interest and amuse the house. The orchestra, under Mrs. H. B. Coda, lent excellent aid.

CHATHAM. — Theatre Royal.—Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—Here we have Mr. Morton Powell's company in The Woman Who Gambles. In the leading rôle Miss Lilian Herries scores quite a success; Mr. Geo. Steele as Otto and Mr. Reginald Fox as Carl Ctzarteriski are prime favourites; Mr. Percy Ballard's Baron Cratzlaw is powerful; and Miss Lillian Rignold makes a lively Zila.

Barnard's Palace of Varieties.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—The Unwritten Law is being played here in thrilling style by Mr. John Lawson, and a capital company, including Miss Buena Bent as Evelyn; Marlo and Manton create plenty of fun in Other People's Babies; Martinett and Wallis are a pair of coloured musical entertainers; Will Farrell's songs go down well; Leah Arden scores with "What makes me love you as I do?" and others appearing are Will Farrell, comedian; Daisy Hicks, comedienne; and Victor Courtney, comedian at the piano. Lacey's Erascope projects some good films.

Gaiety Theatre of Varieties.—Proprietor, Capt. H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—Here we have Dinah Morris and company in a lively production, entitled The Village in Dahomey; Dan Kirton, clog dancer; Peggy Fame, whose turn is more popular than ever; Lilian Warren, in some well-rendered ballads; Nellie Gannon, vocalist; Lilith, a neatly-worked illusion; and Harry Wright, in "Items of the day." The Edisonograph contributes an interesting film, "The Betrothed's Nightmare."

CHELTENHAM.—Montpellier Pavilion.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—This week Mr. Will C. Pepper's Original White Coons pay a welcome return visit with a capitally varied programme, the artists being Mr. James Godden, humorist; Miss May Hudson, musical entertainer; Mr. Allan Thomas, banjoist and light humorist; Miss Lillian Wesson, soprano; and Mr. Alfred Wood, comedian and banjoist. On Tuesday the band of the Grenadier Guards gave two concerts.

CHESTER. — Royalty Theatre.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. B. Fountaine.—The Colley-Dryden company is attracting large houses here this week. Miss Ada Colley, with her melodious voice, rouses her audience to enthusiasm; Martin Conway is the cause of great laughter with his clever songs and patter; Los Rupertos are a couple of smart equilibrists; Miss Mollie Molan is a chic comedienne and a dainty kaleidoscopic dancer; Mr. Leo Dryden is highly successful in his various efforts, and presents a change of songs each evening; Vernon's Bioscope proves entertaining; and Lytton, ventriloquist, also appears. Each performance concludes with a farcical sketch, entitled Charlie's Indian.

COLCHESTER.—Hippodrome. — Joint Proprietors, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot and Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. Jack de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ben de Frece.—The Poluski Brothers, who are starring here this week, score heavily at each house; the Paolis, in a posing and speciality act, are a particularly smart pair, and are applauded accordingly; Rudge Whitworth, society entertainer, is a versatile artist, going especially well as a coster elocutionist; Ted Thomas is a droll comedian; Tennis and Laune are a graceful pair of duettists, with some attractive business; and May Kent is quite a popular comedienne. The orchestra is now under the conductorship of Mr. Amos Parker, who wielded the bâton here for the first time on Monday.

CORK.—Opera House.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—Mr. Eugene C. Stafford's company is here in The Private Secretary. As the Rev. Robert Spalding Mr. Donald Price-Evans kept the house in roars of laughter; Mr. W. Hargreaves as Mr. Cattermole fills the part to perfection; Miss Dora Gray as Edith Marsland is admirable; and the same may be said of Miss Mary E. Deverell in the part of Eva Webster. Mrs. Alfred Davis as Miss Ashford extracts much humour out of the rôle; Mr. H. Sinclair makes an effective Mr. Marsland; Mr. Randolfe Reade is excellent as Douglas Cattermole; Mr. Vivian Gilbert is the Bond-street tailor to the life; and Miss Cecily Wade gives a pleasing interpretation of the landlady. The play is preceded by My American Admirer, in which Mr. H. Sinclair, Mr. James Hussey, Miss Cecily Wade, and Miss Mary E. Deverell take part.

COVENTRY.—The Opera House.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here in A Broken Heart. Mr. John Clyde ably fills the rôle of the master blacksmith, John Barnard; and is capably assisted by Miss Vera Trevosper as Mary Barnard. Mrs. Harry Foxwell is seen to advantage in the dual rôle of Miss Grace Fanshawe and Mrs. Krellett. Other characters are well represented by Mr. Scott Leighton (Stephen Rayllon), Mr. Will Lindsay (Tony Tibbets), Mr. Charles Vivian (Gash Giles) Mr. Geo. Addison (Skrimp), Miss Helen Grahame (Mrs. Barnard), Miss Nancy Mitchell (Sally Travner), and Miss Florrie Sorsby (May Barnard).

Hippodrome Theatre.—A Pair of Spectacles is being performed by an excellent company under the management of Mr. Chas. M. Daly, who takes the part of Uncle Gregory in a very able manner. Mr. Henry Belding, in the character of Benjamin Gildfinch, keeps the house in roars of laughter. Good acting is furnished by Mr. Stanley S. Gordon as Percy, Mr. G. M. Newall as Dick, Mr. Tom Bowron as Lorrimer, Mr. Fred H. Turrell as Bartholomew, Mr. Edward W. Cudd as Joyce, Miss Nina Vaughan as Mrs. Goldfinch, Miss Hilda Merrilees as Lucy, and Miss Dora Hilstrom as Charlotte. Between the acts a very fine set of coloured pictures is shown, and the Sisters Desmond appear and give songs and duets.

Empire Theatre.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Dance. One of the chief items is the sketch The Little Stowaway, the two principal characters being capitally portrayed by Mr. J. K. Walton as Capt. Worsley and Miss Eva Lumley as the Stowaway. Will Bishop and company appear in a humorous piece, My Gollywog, which is very pretty. The clever dancing by Will Bishop is heartily appreciated; Marie Empress scores a success as a dainty comedienne; the performance by Mlle. Ameda, an entertainer, is well received; and Fred Hastings (comedian), Charles Kay (raconteur), and Arthur Astell (comedian) capably contribute to the programme. The Chronophone, which is a combination of the phonograph and living pictures, is also given.

CRADLEY HEATH.—Empire Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton.—Kennedy's Komikas are giving their second week's show to full houses. Little Hatch again delights with his funniosities; Miss Josephine Townshend has a charming voice; Miss Mabel Yorke sings some good songs; James Burt again gives his ventriloquial turn; Dan Noble is a first-rate comedian; and Mlle. Lucretia gives a fine exhibition of top-boot dancing. A Bioscope display concludes.

CREWE.—Lyceum Theatre.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry Taylor, J.P.—The Shulamite is being presented by Mr. William Greet's company. Miss Ruth Shepherd, who possesses remarkable talent for the rôle of Deborah Krillett, acts superbly; Miss Emily Levettz gives a clever delineation of Tante Anna Vanderberg; Mr. Algernon J. Hicks as Simeon Krillett is a typical Boer farmer, a part he appears to have carefully studied; Mr. Charles Fancourt's Robert Waring is full of power and individuality; and Mr. Geo. Rammell gives a skilful rendition of Jan Vanderberg. Miss Chrissie Bickerstaff's performance of the Kaffir slave girl, Memke, is good; and Mr. Albert Rogers as Klas is a distinct success.

CROYDON.—Theatre Royal.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Herrick.—The attractive programme this week includes Fred Southern's company in Lost at Sea, and also the humorous sketch, His Lordship's Birthday. Harry Hillier is a good instrumentalist; the Players give a praiseworthy turn; the Courtney Family in Jack's Return do well; the Sisters Bronson, duettists, are welcome; and Raymond's Bio-tableaux is appreciated.

Empire Palace of Varieties. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace Jay. — La Milo, in her poems in marble, is being well received here; Bert Brantford is a clever comedian; E. J. Johnson, coloured comedian, wins applause; Brett and Orford are great in their sparkling vaudeville, Two Love Birds; the Eight Stella Girls sing and dance their way into favour; the Tally Ho! Trio make a big hit in their mirth and harmony act; Queenie Essex is an entrancing little comedienne; Ed. E. Ford, comedian, is good; and the Piccad troupe of American pantomimists bring down the house with their exceedingly humorous knockabout sketch, The Burglars of New York. The Bioscope pictures are well up to date.

DARLINGTON.—Theatre Royal and Hippodrome.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. James Bell.—The stock season opened here on Monday with Mr. F. B. Woulfe and Miss Ethel Griffies and company in Lady Godiva. Miss Griffies makes a beautiful Godiva; Miss Theo. Henries is a charming Lady Aldyth; Miss Edith Lorraine an excellent Elfrida; and Tom of Coventry is in the capable hands of Mr. F. B. Woulfe. Mr. R. S. Innes as the Earl of Mercia is exceptionally good; Mr. Clifford Rean as Alga gives a capital rendering; and Mr. A. Holland Day as Unwolf Unwolfson is successful. The Merchant of Venice was played on Friday.

DERBY.—Grand Theatre.—Sole Owner and Proprietor, Mr. T. Allan Edwardes; Assistant-Managers, Messrs. Chas. Denley and Herbert Taylor.—Billie Barlow is paying a welcome visit here, and with her smartly-rendered songs scores a distinct success. Galetti's monkeys provide a most amusing turn, which is greatly appreciated; Mignonette Kokin is a charmingly quaint comedienne, and her speciality dances meet with cordial approval; the Saletos are daring equilibrists; Dan Robans is a baritone vocalist of great ability; Zeta Gray and company, in a sketch, The Lancashire Lass, introduce some capital singing, interspersed with humour; Lambert and Hands, in a vocal scena, do exceedingly well; and Will Poluski, jun., comedian, soon makes himself a favourite. The Bioscope, with its film, "Picturesque Japan," adds greatly to a well-arranged programme.

DEVONPORT.—Metropole Theatre.—Manager, Mr. G. S. King.—The summer stock company commenced operations on Monday, The Ticket-of-Leave Man being produced to a well-filled and appreciative house. The members of the company are Messrs. D. C. Phelps, L. Aardale, S. Bedwell, L. Clements, and R. Webb, and the Misses Olga Andre, Elsie Shelton, and C. Cleveland.

DONCASTER.—New Grand Theatre and Empire.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Chapman.—A variety company, with Dr. Walford Bodie as the central figure, is drawing well here this week. T. Duriah, comedian, scores; Belford and Mars, duo singers and dancers, are brilliant; and daintiness characterises Little Dolly Robson, the child-wonder; the Musical Acmes, in their drawing-room entertainment, afford a rich treat; and success attends Tom N. Mills, Australian actor-vocalist; Russell and Reed's company, in Binks' Blunder, provide piquant humour; and Bella Skene, burlesque actress and vocalist, is commendable. Dr. Bodie demonstrated his prowess in the science of electricity. On Monday evening a child of tender years, having been paralysed from infancy, was subjected to treatment, and subsequently walked to the wings amid the wildest enthusiasm. Similar astounding cures were effected on Tuesday evening.

DO

ming.—Mr. Joshua Dyson's Dyorama and Gipsy Choir still continues its successful career at the Grand Theatre, with a change of programme each evening.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Clark and Gallimore's San Francisco Minstrels attracted good houses nightly on the occasion of their first visit to this town. The first part of the evening was given up to selections interspersed with the old-time gag, while the remainder of the programme was composed of vaudeville items contributed by G. Richins, a clever bird imitator; the California Quartette of cultured artists; Ed. Camplin, the story teller; the Two Chandons, in a humorous interlude; Clark and Gold, banjoists; Gallimore and Stene, in a smart turn; an amusing sketch by the Gallimore Trio, and lastly the "Great Little Thomas," the talented comedian so long associated with the Mohawk Minstrels. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, Mr. F. R. Benson's North Shakespearean company are billed to play Macbeth, Twelfth Night, Richard III., and As You Like It.

PIER PAVILION, PROMENADE PIER.—Lessees, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—The Sparkenhoe Concert Party is here this week, and submit a series of capital entertainments. Master Cyril Godwin, a violinist of great brilliancy and wonderful technique, receives a great ovation; and Mr. Arthur Pickett's marvellous execution in his pianoforte solos as well as his tactful accompaniment are duly recognized; Mr. Charles E. Barratt, an accomplished humorist, sings good songs; Mr. Carl Weber is a smart conjurer and interests the audience with his thought transmission scene, in which he is assisted by Miss Daisy Pollock. The fine selection of songs rendered by Mr. Andrew O. Sarson prove him to have a tenor voice of excellent quality; the cultured voice of Miss Annie Weed, L.R.A.M., is heard to advantage; and Miss Daisy Pollock sings most pleasingly, and meets with universal approval.

PALACE HIPPODROME.—Lessees, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Holt.—A very clever turn is given this week by the Four Herberts, who deserve unqualified praise for their original acrobatic act, entitled Novel Farm Furniture. Some funny songs are smartly rendered by Chas. Ridgewll; a rousing welcome is accorded Bernan and Weston, patter comedians; Nellie Montague is a most popular artist, and Lily Watson submits a quaint and humorous turn; Dan Filmer's eccentricities are well received; Ivy Adelaide, a refined and graceful singer and dancer, makes a good impression, and Raymond's Bio-tableaux are watched with interest.

DUBLIN. — GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Directress, Mrs. Michael Gunn; General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Hyland.—The boards are occupied here this week by Mr. J. Mackey Glover's juvenile company from Drury-lane Theatre with the pantomime of The Forté Thieves, which proved a delightful and attractive performance, and was heartily appreciated by a crowded audience. The parts were cleverly fulfilled. Master Jack Frost distinguished himself as Abdalla, and the Ali Baba of Master W. Bishop was a capital performance; Miss Florrie Clarke gave a dainty and pleasing portrayal of Morgiana, and Miss Jessie Evans made an effective Ganem; Miss A. McDonald sang and acted nicely in the part of Hassarac; Master Teddy Gordon did admirably as Cassim Baba; and Miss L. Randall was amusing in the rôle of Cogia Baba. The remaining parts were successfully portrayed, and the choruses, dances, pretty dresses, and scenery, with the grand transformation, "The Coming of Spring," added greatly to the attractiveness of the performance, which concluded with a grand shadow pantomime.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—An old Dublin favourite is here this week in Tom Costello, who gives his latest success, "The Suffragettes," which is exceedingly smart and clever. Mr. Bates Maddison's comedy company in an up-to-date sketch, entitled Charley's Uncle, causes much laughter, and Lily Langtry sings and dances in a charming manner; Edwin Barwick, comedian and mimic, is well received; Maude Laverne, comedienne, has a host of admirers; the Jackley Trio, including the whistling comedian, George, in their acrobatic speciality, are particularly good; and Minna Merry, the female George Robey, scores a decided hit; the Eight Emerald Gems, in songs and dances, repeat their former success; and the Trapnells Troupe of juvenile acrobats are highly appreciated. The Empire Pictures conclude the performance.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—A hearty welcome greeted Florrie Gallimore on Monday night, her new and catchy songs being heartily appreciated; Barney Stuart, in his scena, "The Miser," was well received. A smart speciality act, "On Board an Ocean Liner," by Fred Elton, was greatly enjoyed. The Three Sisters Treo were warmly applauded for their capital hunting song and dance; the Bros. Smarte gave a clever and eccentric performance; Nash and Noel, with their song and patter, won rounds of applause; the Cheers and their performing cats appeared with great success; Josie Delaine scored with her songs and dances; Gatsuma gave a good display of Japanese conjuring; and the Bioscope concluded.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—Joe Cash, eccentric comedian; Rose Cameron, ballad vocalist; Teddy Lennon, comedian; the Cashlings, duettists and dancers; and the new Cinematograph furnish the entertainment here.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—The following artists are appearing here this week:—James Dunn, eccentric comedian; Stella Maine, serio and expert dancer; Harry Boland, comedian and dancer; George Howard, tenor; Michael O'Shea, Irish comedian; May Olive, comedienne; and Cobb and Cobb, sketch artists PAVILION (Kingstown).—Manager, Mr. Fred R. Heley.—The Gaieties, under the direction of Wilson James and Charles Conyers, opened here on Monday for a short season, and met with a warm reception. The programme provided is most entertaining, and includes humorous and vocal items by Miss Beatrice Jeffreys (soprano), Miss Lois Barker (contralto), Mr. Percy Watson (tenor), Miss Ruby Wilson (comedienne), Mr. Charles Conyers (versatile entertainer), and Mr. Wilson James (humorist).

DUDLEY.—EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. B. Peberdy.—The Decars, with their unridable mule and clever acrobatic performance, are causing endless amusement here this week. The Brothers Corcoran, musical ship builders, are great favourites; Mlle. Sylvesto, lady contortionist, gives a very good exhibition of suppleness; Hans and Lux, the argumentative college chums, prove themselves excellent comedians and dancers; Acakabar performs some smart tricks on the silver chains; and Nellie Lauurn (comedienne) and Chas. Rutland (comedian) are well received. The Empire Pictures conclude the programme.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. E. J. Dexter.—The Bensons, at the top of the bill here in their clever musical and comedy act, meet with approval; excellent comedy juggling is contributed by Mike Gray; Rowland Hill has some capital songs; Babs Lloyd has a flattering reception; Claire Greta gives charming interpretations of the songs and dances of the Sunny South; and Nellie Vance scores with tasteful singing. The Fordyces appear in a clever turn; the Florias prove themselves aerial acrobats of uncommon merit; and Vernon's Imperial Bioscope concludes.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Fant Abbott, wonder worker, tops the bill, and completely baffles the audience with his clever performance; George Melvin, Scotch comedian, is also appearing with success; Hall and Wilson give a smart exhibition; and the "Strong Man" turn contributed by Titan is exceptionally good. Telka, a pleasing ballad vocalist, gets a good reception; Wyllie, in "The Adventures of a Musical Tramp," is responsible for much laughter; Madge Carew, serio and dancer, gets a good reception; as do also the Orchids (Violet and Harry) for their comedy turn; a clever mind-reading act, "A La Zancig," a cycle competition, and the Electro Motorscope complete the bill.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Mr. Clarence Lewis' company is appearing here with success in The Black Vampire and Oliver Twist.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Devonshire Park and Baths Co.; Managers, Messrs. Murray King and Clark.—On Monday Mr. Murray King and his company performed Niobe here. Mr. Murray King has much to do, and in his characteristic manner he makes extensive fun as Peter Amos; Mr. Charles Crawford animated and interesting, is a really excellent Cornelius Griffin, Mr. Edmund Beresford is a suitable Phillip, and Mr. Ardene Linden is a capital Hamilton Tomkins. Miss Lilias Waldegrave as Niobe adds another success to her list; Miss Pauline Straus is an attractive and able Caroline Dunn; Miss Violet Hollom and Miss Sepha Julians share honours as Hattie and Beatrice, and Mrs. Stanislaus Calhaem, gives a very fine embodiment of Helen, and Miss Tessa Myers is a bright, animated Miss Mifton.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Charles la Trobe's company in Jedbury, Junior, is here. Mr. A. W. Tyrer works hard and successfully in the name-part; Mr. Edward Ouston is a dignified Jedbury, senior; Mr. F. Stoney is a satisfactory Major Hedway, Mr. George Percy is an able Mr. Simpson, Mr. Richard Neville is a bright Tom Bellaby, Mr. Claude Vernon causes much fun as Job, and Mr. Reginald Craven is an amusing Mr. Glibb. Miss Victoria Addison is a charming, expressive, and dainty Dora, Miss Joan Wellman is an imposing Mrs. Jedbury, Miss Dorothy Rowell is a pretty girlish Nelly, and Miss Leonora Thomas is a smart Mrs. Glibb.

THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Sidney W. Winter; General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day.—Mr. Fred Cary is in high favour as an original and eccentric comedian; Miss Nora Moore is a handsome lady, beautifully gowned, and she has taking songs; the Dancing Gilberts are a couple of bright, enthusiastic ladies; Mr. Gus Hindell sings and impersonates to the great delight of the audience; the Almas contribute one of the most popular turns in a very smart balancing and tumbling act; Miss Florence Leonard sings in a very pleasing and refined manner; Messrs. Farrell and Miller sing and dance well; and new pictures are added.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Carpenter.—Mr. H. B. Irving and company began a week's engagement here on Monday with The Lyons Mail, Mr. Irving being greeted with enthusiastic applause. The strongly contrasted characters of Joseph Lesurques and Dubosc gave the actor the opportunity of manifesting not only his unmistakable dramatic power, but the earnestness with which every point of the dual rôle had been studied. Mr. Irving was loudly recalled at the end of each act, and at the conclusion of the play he thanked the audience for their reception. Mr. Frank Tyars acted with vividness and truth the part of Jerome Lesurques; Mr. E. Harcourt Williams contributed a finished piece of acting as the dandy Courriol, and really admirable character-sketches were given by Mr. Charles Dodsworth as Choppard and Mr. Tom Reynolds as Ferrinard. Mr. Arthur Curtis was capital as Joliquet, and Mr. Fewlas Llewellyn as Dorval, Mr. Eric Mason as Didier, and Mr. Frank Cochrane as postmaster of Montgeron were all as good as could be. Miss Madge McIntosh's performance of Janette was an exceedingly able one, full of sincerity and strength; and Miss Sybil Noble was a charming Julie. King Rene's Daughter was played as a curtain-raiser, Miss Madge McIntosh acting with tenderness and grace as Iolanthe, and Mr. Tyars, Mr. E. Harcourt Williams, and Mr. Arthur Curtis giving excellent support. The Bells, in which Mr. Irving's Mathias was notable for its thrilling intensity, was given on Tuesday evening, and Charles the First was also played during the week.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Whitehead.—All-round attractiveness marked this week's programme, which was headed by the notable Lorch Family in their wonderful Risley performance; Mr. Graeme Goring and Miss Lilian Locke appeared with artistic effect in the humorously pathetic sketch, Cinders, a pleasing production out of the ordinary run of vaudeville duologues. A decided novelty in music and song was provided by Mr. Wilbur Hill and Miss Willette Whittaker, who gave a most exhilarating turn; the living marionettes of the Katos are clever; Wallace proves himself a remarkable expert young juggler; Miss Gwladys Elvey, of recent local pantomime fame, was cordially welcomed, and her turn is a bright one; Mr. Alec Kendall put in some quaint patter as a comedian; Mr. Hal Forde's songs were vastly appreciated; Miss Helen Charles was loudly recalled for her versatile imitations and dialect pieces; and a good series of Bioscope films concluded a pleasant show.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Parham Wells.—Mr. Harry Lauder's name on the programme here this week has drawn crowded houses. Mr. Lauder is in his best form, and his rendering of several of his favourite songs has called forth the customary demonstrations of approval; the Hartley Wonders give an extraordinary display of jumping feats, and the Three Rubys are dexterous acrobats. The Punch Bowl, a hunting sketch, serves to introduce some capital singing by Messrs. Frank Wood, G. Ide, Sydney Bracey, Robert Selby, Millroy Cooper, and Ralph Nairn; Mr. J. W. Rickaby's well-known humorous ability is shown in a clever song, and Miss Maggie Walsh, the singing mill-girl, charms her audience by her expressive singing; Miss Gracie Moore, a pleasing vocalist, contributes a taking song, which is illustrated by a series of beautiful pictures; Mr. Percy Honri displays excellent executive ability as a player of the concertina, and he sings effectively; while Wallace Selkirk's juvenile performers in a stirring military spectacle, Egypt, and humorous films shown by the Bioscope add to the attractiveness of a first-class bill.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Ventom Swift.—The Boston Twins are well to the fore this week with their amusing knockabout act, entitled Kilt Land. An interesting Indian musical sketch, The Belle of Arizona, is presented with much acceptance by Emmie Milsted and Joe Bell; Miss Amina Rinder's illustrated songs are very warmly received; Miss Ada Twibell, another pleasing vocalist, makes a favourable impression; and Mr. Charles Lester gives a skilful display of juggling. Miss Daisie Cordelia dances in a dainty and somewhat novel fashion; Mr. Ted Young is successful as a character vocal comedian; and up-to-date Alhambrascope Pictures complete the bill.

EXETER. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Chairman and Managing-Director, Mr. Edward J. Domville, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy M. Dunsford.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and Miss Kate Clinton's company is here with a répertoire which includes Othello, The Three Musketeers, Macbeth, Julius Cæsar, and The Octoroon. Mr. Edmund Tearle as Othello is seen at his best, and his acting is very fine indeed, and, together with Miss Esther Tearle as Desdemona, well merit the unstinted applause with which they were received. As the scheming Iago, Mr. Bernhardt Turner proves himself a very clever actor; Mr. Clifford Marle as Cassio is all that could be desired, while Mr. J. A. Keogh as Roderigo is decidedly good; Miss Mary Campbell makes a sympathetic Emilia. In The Three Musketeers, Mr. Tearle is quite at home as D'Artagnan, and he is ably seconded by Miss Kate Clinton as Miladi, and Mr. Bernhardt Turner as Richelieu.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Messrs. C. and F. Renad's company in The Swiss Express are here. The Messrs. Renad give a very humorous rendering of James and John, and put in some good acrobatic work; Mr. Wilfred E. Brandon is very amusing as Dr. Gull; Mr. Basil Reynolds and Mr. Alex. Wylie leave nothing to be desired as Rob Rollingstone and Dudley Green; and Miss Celestine Brandon sings and dances daintily as Virginia. Miss Lottie Stone's Palace Quartette contribute to the success of the performance. A flying matinée on Tuesday attracted a large audience to welcome Mr. Seymour Hicks, Miss Zena Dare, and company in a triple bill, Scrooge, You and I, and Papa's Wife.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager and Musical-Director, Mr. D'Arcy Clayton.—The Excelsiors commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. Miss Ethel Branston and Miss Marie Moffert are received most enthusiastically; Mr. Willie Rouse, comedian, is as good as ever; and Mr. Wilson Bamber and Mr. W. H. Webb meet with well-merited success.

GATESHEAD. — KING'S THEATRE — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harold Arnold.—Chanti, a protean artist, is possessed of wonderful dancing abilities and a host of novel scenic contrivances; the Deer Family present a picturesque scena called "Indians of the Past," in the success of which the dancing of a young lady member of the party is a potent factor; admirable foolers are found in the persons of Hector and Sultan; McAskell is described as a "comic talking conjurer," and he does not belie the description; Tom E. Hughes, a genuine comedian, has a very hearty reception; Stidder and Dunbar, in The Sport and the Gypsy Girl, prove excellent entertainers; Percy Curry is a comedian with gags which go well; and pictures by Vernon's Imperial Bioscope complete the show.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; Acting-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—The Eve of Her Wedding is being presented here by Mr. Wilson Benge. Mr. Benge impersonates quietly yet powerfully George Tremaine; Mr. Louis Hector makes a striking picture as Dean Clifton, and his acting is worthy of high praise; Mr. Arthur Keand provides a capital portrayal of Squire Leverton; Mr. Chas. H. Gallier is excellent as Dick Leverton; Mr. Chas. Digby is highly amusing as Rudolph Earle; and Giovanni receives the best of treatment at the hands of Mr. David Beattie. One of the best performances seen here for some time is that of Mr. Norman B. Cannon, who plays Jack Hearne; Mr. Chas. Groves, jun., is seen to advantage in the parts of Paul Cairsham and Hiram P. Younger; a very emotional depiction of Mavis Leverton is furnished by Miss Sadie Smith; Miss Adeline Raby achieves a large amount of success in the part of Renniede Tell; and Miss Sybil Hare is charming in the rôle of Gwendoline Younger.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Councillor Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—The New York Picture Company and Mysterious Parker in a quick-change act form the fare at this house.

GLASGOW. — KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, pro tem., Mr. Percy Humphrys.—Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart and company opened on Monday in Bootle's Baby. As the good-hearted Bootles, Mr. Stewart acts with excellent effect, firm, yet restrained; Miss Maisie Richardson makes a charming Bootle's Baby, and her bright and animated style proves very fascinating. Mr. Henry Wolston was a duly cynical Captain Gilchrist, and his sorely-tried wife was acted with pathetic sympathy by Miss Georgina Wynter. Miss Gladys Harvey as Laura and Miss Isabel Roddick as Mrs. Smith made an attractive couple of society ladies. The humour of Private Saunders as played by Mr. Tom Mowbray was most enjoyable, especially his little tiffs with Humpty-Dumpty, the nurse, cleverly acted by Miss Edith Ife. Officers in the regiment were ably portrayed by Messrs. Leslie Owen, Ernest Gray, William Midgeby, and Hubert Purser.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here with An Abandoned Woman. The title-part, as presented by Miss Edith Blande, is an exceedingly effective performance. In the rôle of Phillipe Malvoisin, Mr. Richard Ferris gives an impersonation of exceptional merit; as the hero, Captain Seaton, Mr. Walli Spinner bears himself in gentlemanly fashion; Miss May Richardson makes a sympathetic Eleanor Deane; in the part of Paddy Boyle, Mr. Jim K. Wood acts and sings with much good humour; Sammy Sharp is cleverly played by Mr. Will Glaze; Miss Elsie Deane makes a smart housemaid, and the parts of Sir Marmaduke Seaton and Robert Saunders are well filled by Mr. George Gormby and Mr. P. Morton Wright respectively.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Manners.—Paul Conchas, the herculean juggler, gives a unique and novel performance. An old favourite, Dutch Daly, submits a fine musical performance; and the veteran, W. J. Ashcroft, attracts more than usual attention, proving himself a marvel. Bonnie Goodwin's piccaninnies (now under the direction of Marie Goodwin) are highly appreciated for their dancing ability. The Netherlands are successful in their smart scena, Dutch Pastimes; Colombia's Cyclists give a wonderful and daring performance; Harry Bedford, comedian; and Fred and Pauly, acrobats, are also worthy of note in a clever programme.

ZOO-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The Lukushima troupe of Japanese acrobats perform some daring and elegant risley feats; George Kirk's company present an exciting little drama, called Grip; or the Fatal Hand, in which Mr. George Langdon gives a strong representation of a detective; while Miss Connie Laurie is excellent as a street waif. The Karno Four, in a sketch, The Dinner Hour, provide some pantomimic knockabout fun; the New York Nippers, in Bed-time, keep the merriment going while they are on; Kent and Keith are lively comedians whom all are glad to see and hear. Others are the Wedburns, instrumentalists, vocalists, and patterers; Sydney Lee, a clever sleight-of-hand performer; and Nellie Martell, a smart comedienne. Bioscope pictures are agreeably shown between some of the turns.

PAVILION, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Mr. John Tiller's company is this week giving A Trip to Paris, the artists being Messrs. Bob Selvidge, Teddy Gibbs, Barney Dixon, and Harold Wardroper, and Misses Jessie Templeton, Nelly Rodney, Lizzie Hay, and Emmie Franks. Alexandra Dagmar makes a hit with a versatile turn in the way of impersonations; Belrose and De Velin enhance their already high reputation by their cultured singing of several duets; Charles Faning and Lotta Charles provide a clever comedy turn, and Arthur Albert scores well as a light comedian; Hyram Travers, the famous "pearly king," gives a touch of his quality in several smart songs. An excellent turn is that of Barnard's Mannikins in The Coons' Revelry.

COLISEUM. — Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Burdette.—Fred Ginnett's popular Dick Turpin's Ride to York company top the bill, and the clever performance is much enjoyed. The Dorrell Sisters are warmly recalled for expert and neat dancing; as patter comedians, the New Macs make a hit, and their admirable dancing wins much applause; Olive Tree sings a pleasing song, illustrated, about "Two little dirty hands," which is well received; Herbert Rule gives an eccentric song turn, and Nellie Wallace repeats her success of last week. The singing and playing of the Boccaccio Minstrels are enjoyable, amusing and clever; and Signor Francia is a mandolinist of great talent; a fine gymnastic and equilibristic series of feats calls for admiration, the lady member of the Lafailler troupe standing out prominently in trials of strength. One of the very best things in the programme is the sketch, In Her Boudoir, by Edward Laurie and company; fine operatic singing, graceful dancing, the gentleman's make-up, by-play, and like variety of business mark the features in which Ivy Beatty has a worthy share. The menagerie procession on the Bioscope is very interesting.

PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Rich. Waldon; General-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—John Lawson's company is here in Sally in Our Alley. The production is expensively staged and is well received; Gertie Gitana also has a good reception, and is heartily applauded for her singing and dancing. Other notable turns are Ruby Bijou, an artistic bare-foot dancer; Williams and Monkhouse, comedy artists; Dan Thomas, comedian; Nat Clifford, eccentric comedian and dancer; the Clavers, in a smart juggling exhibition; Winifred Ward, male impersonator; Walker and Lake, comedians; and the Bioscope.

GAIETY, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Harry Bowerman.—The Four Berlin Belles top the bill, and give a smart exposition of artistic dancing and high-kicking, which is much appreciated; Tom Garland excels as a ventriloquial entertainer; and an unique juggling and globe-walking performance is given by Globella; Mueller and Coyne contribute an excellent variety entertainment; and the fun produced by Comical Walker and his troupe of "Aristocratic Nippers" created roars of laughter. Other acceptable turns include Bert Anderson, society conjurer; George Edney, vocalist; James Lowrey, original Newcastle singing furnace-man; and the new Bioscope with new films.

BRITANNIA.—Proprietor and Director, Mr. A. E. Pickard.—De Ora, flying trapeze artist, gives a display that is greatly enjoyed by the audience. Another successful performer is found in Frank Vallance, conjurer, who is full of mystery; while Will Candlish, negro comedian, also makes a hit. Others items are given by Ethel Lease, comedienne; Daisy Dalmery, comedienne; Lillie Benson, comedienne and dancer, and the Chronophone.

GLOUCESTER.—PALACE.—Owners, Messrs. C. W. and J. R. Poole; Manager, Mr. R. T. Rea.—At the head of this week's bill we have the Royal Banzai Family, who are extremely good in their acrobatic feats; the Sisters Selwyn give a pleasing vocal and clever dancing act; Arthur Croxon is splendid in his impersonations and mimicry, and earns an enthusiastic recall; while Percy Farrimond is the possessor of a really good tenor voice, and is immediately in favour with the audience. Fred Hallam is funny in his songs; the Zano Brothers on the triple bars are responsible for a mirth-provoking performance; Nancy Langtyre is a charming comedienne, and looks well; the Bonanzas have an interesting acrobatic turn; Hector and Paulus are also acrobats, with the addition of some comedy; while E. Montefiore and company have a pretty scena, The Little Colonel, and the Bioscope, as usual, show an excellent film.

GREAT YARMOUTH. — ROYAL AQUARIUM. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mr. Henry Swinerd's company is here with Dare-Devil Dorothy. In the title-rôle Miss Dorothy Desmonde plays with spirit and vivacity, and is ably supported by Miss Marie Vere as Ruth, Mr. Walter Ashley as Captain George Fielding, Mr. Henry C. Ward as Captain Edward Dudley, Mr. Dean Cliffe as Featherstone Haugh, Mr. William G. Hearson as Smith, Mr. Arthur Hartley as Hawkins, Mr. Bert Edwards as Silas Crump, Miss Lillie Blake as Rosy Ann, Miss Mabel Blake as Polly, and Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith.

GREENOCK.—EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry L. Skivington.—Mr. J. Cumming is here with up-to-date Animated Pictures; Miss Lily Moselle and company keep the audience in an almost continuous roar of laughter by their appearance in the mirth-provoking sketch, The Woman Who Risked It; David Stewart, tenor vocalist, is much applauded for his fine singing; and Corelli, in a humorous interlude, entitled A Lesson in Magic, is good.

PAVILION THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—General-Manager, Mr. Chas. A. White.—The Lizzette Troupe of lady acrobats have achieved a great success here this week; Molly Augarde is a capital comedienne; Shirley and Ransome, in a coster episode, entitled 'Arf a Quid, are much appreciated; Queenie May, juvenile comedienne, displays much talent; Jack Neil remains for another week; L. R. Atholl, actor-vocalist, also contributes, and the Paviscope Pictures are up to the usual standard.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry.—Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company is here in East Lynne. In the part of Lady Isobel Miss Julie Kennard accomplishes very realistic acting, and wins universal favour; Mr. Alfred Beaumont admirably sustains the character of Archibald Carlyle; the quaint characters of Cornelia and Justice Hare find excellent exponents in Miss Ethel Hardacre and Mr. C. C. Grattan; Mr. Frederick Harker is quite equal to the part of Francis Levison; whilst others taking prominent characters are Miss Ethel Savile as Barbara Hare, Mr. Harry C. Rutland as Richard Hare, Mr. Cyril Hayward as Lawyer Dill, Miss Jessie Bayes as Little Willie, and Mr. Alfred Tate as the amusing policeman.

CURRY'S TIVOLI.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. W. North.—Closed until August.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwardes; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. F. Miller; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Houghton.—Bella and Bijou provide an entertainment which is at once amusing, original, and refined; excellent vocalism is contributed by Gittings' Opera Company, whose condensed representations of Maritana and The Bohemian Girl are popular features of the programme; a remarkable illusion is presented by the Venturinis, who materialise two women apparently out of nothing; Ada Parker gives good coon songs; Arthur Aiston and company have an amusing absurdity, Duck Hunting; and Billy Dewey, coloured vocalist; A. E. Clifford, vocalist; and H. Pawson, necromancer, also appear.

HALIFAX. — THEATRE ROYAL, LTD. — General-Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling.—Master and Man was presented by the Northern Theatres' stock company on Monday. Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee achieved a notable success as Jack Walton; while no less successful was Mr. J. Cook Hinton in the difficult rôle of Robert Carlton. Mr. Ernest Plumpton put forth his mightiest efforts in the intricate character of Humpty Logan; an acquisition to the company was Mr. Bernard Mervyn, whose forcible representation of the rebellious Jim Barleigh left an indelible impression; a good-tempered Tom Honeywood was found in Mr. Henry C. Gilpin; while Miss Jessie Belmore was a capable helpmate in her simulation of Letty; and Miss Winnie Tempest made a convincing Hester Thornbury. The local management are to be commended for the admirable manner in which the plays are staged each week under the able guidance of Mr. Otto C. Culling.

PALACE AND HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—This week we have Will Pay's Juveniles, in Life in the Slums; the singing of the kiddies is delightful. A couple of loquacious exponents of comedy are Wake and Dean; an excellent collection of cockatoos, well trained by Marvelle and May, give an entertaining performance; very pleasing are the Maples in How to Treat a Burglar; Abdy and Bushman produce a canine and table act very painstakingly; Normo, who terms himself the mad, but uncommon, juggler, has a host of up-to-date tricks; the Martelloni Troupe of vaulters are here, the vaulting of the ladies being especially graceful.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. T. Winks. — John Higgins accomplishes some astounding feats in the art of jumping; Sheila McNeill, "the lass from Killiecrankie," contributes meritoriously, and is greeted cordially; Will Rain and company, in Motor Maniacs, are very clever; and Violi is a gifted instrumentalist. The Veronia Troupe of singers and dancers create a favourable impression, and are loudly applauded; Will Onda and company, in Hovel Comfort, and the Grays, comedians, are amongst the performers to meet with favour.

HANLEY.—GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. James Wynes.—A capital programme is headed by Robbins, the Canadian cyclist, in a marvellous performance; a clever dramatic sketch presented is 99, and arouses much interest; the Four Juggling Geraldos contribute a turn which is decidedly clever; James Kurry is most amusing in his songs and business; Ruby and Laws are a smart pair, their singing being quite a feature in the sketch In Old Madrid; Mabel le Blanche sings a nice song in good style; the Five Brewsters are successful in a turn consisting of drills, dancing, and banjo playing; Mill May and Teresa in their Japanese scena and quick-changes are much appreciated; and the pictures are excellent.

HARROGATE. — GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. F. Smith.—For the first three nights of this week we had a visit from the London Comedy Company, in Sidney Grundy's charming play, A Fool's Paradise. Mr. Henry Twyford was good as Philip Selwyn; and Mr. Arthur Claremont was well placed as Lord Normantower. Mr. Wylie Thompson as the Hon. Tom Verinder, and Miss Hilda Stericker as Mildred Selwyn, were both excellent; Miss Margery Chard as Kate Derwent was all that could be desired; Miss Laura Hansen was good as Beatrice Selwyn; and Mr. Cecil Wynne was Sir Peter Lund. The play was preceded by An April Shower. For the rest of the week variety was the order.

HARTLEPOOL.—EMPRESS.—Proprietors, Messrs. Councillor Everton and J. W. Cragg; Manager, Mr. Harry Burns; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Charlie Ferrier.—The programme for the week is headed by those old-time favourites Charles Majilton and his company of comedians with The Trippers; Narrow Bros. do some marvellous knockabout cycling feats; to the vocal and comedy scena by the Napoli Sextette is awarded an encore; Hilton, the Scotch ventriloquist, is an expert; Nellie Lewis charms all with her descriptive songs; Copeland and Son give an exhibition of clog dancing; and some new pictures are exhibited.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Mr. John Gerant and company are playing At Duty's Call. Mr. William S. Parkes plays impressively as General Gordon; Mr. John Gerant as the renegade Harold carries through his revengeful schemes with much energy; Mr. Henry Watson makes an admirable hero, and acts his part as Captain George Allison in a bold and frank manner, and in the lighter scenes, together with Mr. Frederick Sandy as Jack Spencer, gives an admirable boxing exhibition; Mr. Frank Caffrey provides some amusing comedy as Terry O'Hallaron, together also with Miss Doris Lorraine as Mary and Mr. Ivan Mavis as Joey Trot; Miss Lily Crammonde charmingly fills the onerous part of Dora Drummond; and Miss Beatrice Western gives an exceedingly strong interpretation of the rôle of Salema. On Wednesday Mr. Seymour Hicks and London company, with Miss Zena Dare, played a special matinée.

HASTINGS PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—Called Back is holding the boards here and is commendably staged. Gilbert Vaughan is naturally played by Mr. Talbot Homewood; Mr. Charles Hawker intelligently sustains the part of Anthony Marsh; Mr. Frank Carlisle is very successful in the character of Paoli Mascari; Mr. Arthur St. John is easy and natural as Dr. Ceneri; a good character-sketch of Petroy is given by Mr. Howell Sequin; and Captain Varlamoff and Adolphus Raker are well taken respectively by Messrs. C. and H. Howell. The housekeeper, Priscilla, could not be in better hands than those of Miss Eva Bayley; Miss Violet Graham gives a well-studied impersonation of Mary Vaughan; and Miss Kate Randolph is charmingly natural as Pauline Marsh.

HASTINGS HIPPODROME AND THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Norman.—Miss Mabel Le Roy starts a good programme; Grant and Allen evoke great laughter; Miss Venie Belfry, a smart comedienne, finds plenty of admirers; Casselli is a clever banjoist; Mr. Will Freedo is a good vocalist and expert dancer; the operatic singing by the Victoria Duo makes a distinctly favourable impression; a spirited little sketch, Teasing the General, is enacted by Perrette and Mona, whose quick change of character, catchy songs, and clever dancing are applauded; and Mr. Charles Austin is highly diverting.

ST. LEONARDS PAVILION THEATRE. — Pier-Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Dr Seaton is making a welcome return with a series of animated photos. Dr. Seaton is clever in sleight-of-hand and plate-spinning. Professor Trillo is an amusing ventriloquist, and Mr. Cecil Clark introduces interesting pictures.

HUDDERSFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. J. Andrews.—Miss Annie Bell and company are here in Sapho. Miss Annie Bell looks well and plays with much dramatic force as Sapho, and Mr. Otto Minster's Jean

"BLACK & WHITE"
THE WHISKY OF WORLD WIDE REPUTE

is convincing enough to warrant Sapho's infatuation. The minor parts are capably filled, notably a clever character-study by Mr. George Antley as Cesaire.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The Mohamed Troupe of Arab acrobats are seen in their wonderful exhibition of pyramid building and tumbling. The other turns are J. W. Rowley, who has a great reception in his native town; Cosgrove and Burns, refined duettists; Joe Cheevers, a quaint comedian; Sisters Melba, vocal duettists; Feldman's clever troupe of juveniles; Allis and Cassati, humorous duettists; Jules Kiaro, hand balancer; Miss Ella Dean, in some good songs; and new pictures on the Bioscope.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Alexander Loftus and company is here in The New Barmaid. In the title-rôle, Miss Clara Beck has a part which she fills with much verve; as Bertie White, Mr. Loftus is hugely entertaining.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—This week we have Under the Czar. In the part of Sonio Gregorvitch, Miss Carlotta Anson contrives to secure much success; Mr. Gerald Smythe gives an excellent account of himself, and adds to the evening's enjoyment.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE AND MORTONS, LTD.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—A Woman's Past is being played by Messrs. Warden and Sandford's company. Miss Marie Hanbury as the heroine sustains most of the hard work of the play, and her efforts tend largely to maintain the interest which is manifested from commencement to end.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—George Gilbey, Harry Taft, Mark Lemon, Dale and O'Malley, Gladys and Alber, Marian May, and Austin constitute a good company.

THE PALACE.—Vesta Tilley is drawing crowded houses; Fred Poplar's songs cause much amusement; the Twin Sisters Anderson's speciality dancing gains much applause; and the admirable company includes Kitty Wager, Tom Owen, Wartenburg Bros., Will English, Guy Ryder, and D'Arc's Marionettes.

THE EMPIRE.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Slingsby.—Mlle. Florence, the rolling globe lady, goes through a smart performance; Abex, the miniature Hercules, gives an excellent show; the Ottawas appear in an interesting musical cowboy representation entitled After the Hunt; and other good turns include Marie Liston, Fred Ace, Fred Ellis, Alton and Lois, Maud Clifton, Erom and Charlotta, and Professor Wallace.

THE CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson.—Animated pictures are drawing record houses.

IPSWICH. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Arthur Watson, Flo. Stanley, and their troupe of comedians, appear in The Cruise of H.M.S. Victory, which abounds in humorous situations, the songs and dances being exceptionally good; Kate Lynd is applauded for her turn as a comedienne; Charles Dixon contributes humorous ditties and clever dances; Frances Letty scores a success; Ernie Mayne well sustains his reputation; Lozelle is a nimble, alert gymnastic performer on the rings and bar; George Doughty and Co. give a laughable sketch entitled Captain Cupid; and Hendon and Wooton give a smart bicycle performanc.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson.—Mr. Fred Granville's company is here this week with Defending His Honour. Mr. John Davidson is excellent as Douglas Bryce; Miss F. Melrose Millet as Ethel Bryce plays well; Mr. Clifton Earle and Mr. J. D. Geddes are genuinely good as Stephen Graid and George Duncan; the troubles of Richard and Dick and Mrs. Verison cause laughter in the hands of Mr. F. Arthur, Mr. H. Macaulay, and Mrs. E. Lyons; and Mr. Evan Roland appears successfully as Jack Damish.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Edward Marris.—The Russell Rosse Répertoire Company opened on Monday with Captain Swift. Mr. J. Edward Fraser gave a fine interpretation of the captain; Mr. Charles H. Kenny admirably enacted Mr. Seabrook; Mr. George Mudie was good as Harry Seabrook; Mr. W. P. Lipscombe appeared as Gardiner; Miss L. Kingston made a charming Stella; Miss E. Nolan O'Connor capably took the part of Mrs. Seabrook; and Miss Maude Vincent as Mabel Seabrook and Miss Rachel de Travis as Lady Staunton did well. Betsy and A Pair of Spectacles also appear on the bill.

TRIANGLE PARK.—The Park has opened for the season with the Dandies. The troupe, five in number, is proving a big draw.

KEIGHLEY.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall.—Pete and Minnie Lee do a very entertaining comedy and vocal sketch here called The Scotchman's Visit to London; Dick Bradley is a clever trick cyclist; Ernest Hildred sings in good style; Mme. Lumiere still scores heavily; the Three Behans, quick-change dancers, are seen to advantage; and Mint and Mart are successful in a smart speciality. Fred Danvers' sketch company is here, and gives a capital rendering of The Two Polts. Mr. Fred Danvers is exceedingly good; Mr. Evelyn as the Colonel acts admirably; and Mr. Fred Griffiths and Mr. Linney do justice to their parts.

KING'S LYNN.—NEW ROYAL THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. J. Bannister Howard, Ltd.; Business-Manager, Herr B. Pareezer.—The final week of the Hippodrome season is being favoured by crowded houses. The Sisters Judge introduce a collection of beautiful and highly-trained cockatoos, parrots, and macaws; Mr. Fred Squire, with Mr. Wilfred Heath and Miss Louisa Hunter, present a clever ventriloquial comedy sketch, £1,000; or, the Missing Ward; the Brontés are intensely funny in their duologue, Saucy Maud; A. P. Boswell, the black-faced comedian, is highly amusing; Li-Chang-Hi proves a mystifying magician; Nelson Hardy is good as a mimic and impersonator; and Wilfred Heath appears successfully as a vocalist. On Wednesday afternoon Mme. Jane Hading and company paid a flying visit in Frou-Frou.

LANCASTER.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. W. J. Fergusson and John Porter.—A really good programme is arranged this week. The Alexandroff Troupe of Russian singers and dancers, who head the bill, give a smart performance; Emma Don, with her black and white comedy company, sings well; the Villions, acrobatic cyclists, win hearty applause; Mlle. Ada Gatley supplies a pleasing turn; Harry Maynard, character vocalist; Fame and Fortune, in a clever comedy act; the Sisters St. Julian, duettists and dancers; and the Hippograph complete.

LEEDS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager, Mr. Edward Cadman.—The Importance of Being Earnest is being revived at the Grand this week by Messrs. Hoffe and Campbell's company. Mr. J. Graeme Campbell gives a fine character study of John Worthing; as the cynical and caustic Moncrieff Mr. Monckton Hoffe is eminently successful; and Mr. Walter Hope is to be complimented on a capable effort. Miss Amy Lloyd-Desmond is the very correct Miss Prism to the life; Lady Bracknell has an effective exponent in Miss Phyllis Manners; the Hon. Gwendoline Fairfax is cleverly enacted by Miss Hestor Newton; and Cicely Cardew is also a fine effort by Miss Nona Hope. The curtain-raiser, Father Varien, is well played.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—This theatre is occupied by Mr. A. B. Cross's company with a presentation of the popular Hall Caine play, The Manxman. Mr. Cross himself gives a powerful delineation of Pete; the Kate Cregeen of Miss Minnie Watersford is sympathetic; Mr. Frank Etheridge plays Cregeen effectively; the Dr. Mylcreest of Mr. C. H. Mortimer is a capable effort; and Miss Nellie Freeland and Miss Hazel Dent are also seen to advantage.

EMPIRE.—Moss Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—Ernest Shand, at the head of an attractive Empire bill, is vastly popular; Tom Edwards, a past master of the ventriloquial art, gives a finished and thoroughly entertaining exposition; the McConnell Trio are big favourites; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden score with a clever quick-change duologue; the Lupino Brothers are doing well with an original specialty; Eily Adair is a pleasing comedienne; and Harry Freeman has a big reception.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece.—Apollo, the strong man, is a leading feature of the week's bill here. An interesting turn is that of the Three Demons, in a daring cycle act; Wisper is a big success with comic jugglery; Cribb and Cribb prove vastly amusing; and Charles Cranston, comedian, Maggie Rimmer, vocalist, and Beattie Bloom, dancer and burlesque artist, all enjoy popular favour.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; General-Managers, Mr. Chas. Weldon and Mr. Claude Shayler.—Freddie French and company are here this week with an amusing burlesque act, The Policemen's Ballet, a suffragist skit, which proves most entertaining; Kelly and Gillette foot the bill with their clever acrobatic billiard table act; a fine musical turn by the Columbia Trio is much enjoyed; Stacey and Williams are popular with smart songs and patter; Carlotta Levey finds ready acceptance; a capital comedy act by Terry and Bentley is well to the liking of the audience; the Sisters Warwick have an expert and graceful trick cycling act; and Arthur Woodville, comedian, Conway and Garland, in an original absurdity, Pat Carey, Irish comedian, and Chas. Rozell, an expert gymnast, are doing particularly well.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—A pair of smart Hebrew comedians, Lowenwirth and Cohan, find themselves very popular at this hall; the Arthur Lloyd Trio are doing their well-known twin sister comedy act with good success; Barney Armstrong, a favourite comedian, is having a good week, as also are Brull and Hemsley, in a clever comedy specialty; the Sisters Hampel, comediennes, Dan Conroy, comedian, Anthony the Conjurer, and Nell Wynne, vocalist, make up a first-rate programme.

LEICESTER.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton.—A large and fashionable audience here on Monday gave Mme. Jane Hading a most enthusiastic reception, when the gifted French actress and her Parisian company presented for the first time in Leicester Frou-Frou.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—A capital attraction is presented here this week by Mr. T. Arthur Jones's No. 1 Company in the drama, Life's Sweetest Sins. Miss Marie Daventry, a talented young actress, is seen to considerable advantage as Doreen Rivers; Mr. T. Arthur Jones makes a good impression as Captain Harold Marston; Mr. Oswald Douglas as the evil genius, Dr. Colbrooke, plays well; Miss Mary Ainslie is good as Fay Colbrooke; and Mr. Percy Meads as Mr. Burrows is also well placed. Both Miss Marion Armitage as Bess Grayson and Mr. Edgar Morgan as Bob Tanner give amusing portrayals.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Bertram G. Iles.—Included in a good programme here is the production by Messrs. Philip Reid and Percy Ford's combination of a new dramatic military episode in one scene and two tableaux, entitled A Test of Friendship, by Percy Ford, suggested by the story written by Major-General Baden-Powell of Mafeking. The scene is laid in Matabeleland, the two tableaux representing the last stand. As Dick Maynard and Jack Foster Mr. J. A. Bentham and Mr. Harry Scott are deserving of the highest commendation for the way in which they play their parts. The Kellinos are making a big hit with their Risley act, "Venetia"; Daisy Jerome has a fascinating style; Boswell's Stage Circus pleases all sections of the audience; Starr and Leslie score their usual success with a bright and entertaining turn; Woodhouse and Wells are a clever couple; Ian Colquhoun's baritone voice is heard to considerable advantage; Walter King, comedian, is well received; and Kitty Marion is a dainty comedienne. The Bioscope is a feature with "Jim's Apprenticeship."

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Joe Lawrence.—Madie Scott, comedienne, holds the most prominent position here, and her bright style and smartness are rewarded with great applause. Mat Wilkinson and company are creating the utmost hilarity with their comedy sketch, The Registry Office; the Brothers Kroney are humorous and clever comedians and acrobats; Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope is again making a hit with a series of enjoyable films; Nellie Vera gives a capital musical turn; Mlle. Frederica's dogs are put through a performance of rare excellence; and Violet Beatrice does well as a boy impersonator.

LEIGH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. W. Cragg; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Rousby.—This week Mr. Harry Roxbury's company is here with A Little Vagabond. Miss Vashti Wynne gives a capital rendition of the part of Poll; Miss Alice Bowes as Arthur, the little vagrant, achieves an unqualified success; Miss Caroline Fenton is suitably placed as Julia Pilbeam; Mr. Cyril A. Collins gives an impressive portrayal of Jim Harris; Mr. Stanley Radcliffe is well placed as Eric Arden; Slideaway Bates finds a skilful and humorous exponent in Mr. J. W. Gallagher, his efforts being well seconded by Miss Bella Moody as Hannah Smithers; and Mr. Richard Bosco gives a capital study of Thomas Withworth.

LEITH.—NEW GAIETY THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. C. Buchanan; Resident-Manager, Mr. John Darlison.—The new stock company opened their season under encouraging auspices on Monday evening. Foremost in a full bill came the good acting drama, Shadows of a Great City, which was carefully staged, with Mr. Fred W. Freeman a vigorous hero, Mr. Clavering Craig a gentlemanly villain, and Mr. James Somerville as the conventional type of detective. Mr. James Chippendale and Mr. Barry Lupino—old Leith favourites both—have to do with the comic relief; the former in the part of a money-lending Jew, and the latter as a nondescript scapegrace. Miss Paulina Gear, with a fair share both in the pathetic and humorous scenes, invested her impersonation of Biddy Rooney with abundant warmth and impulse; and Miss Doris Gilham acted with grace and ability in the dual rôles of a mother and daughter; while Mr. Percival Dye, Mr. Paul Dysart, Mr. Dudley White, and Mr. Nesbit showed evidences of study in their renderings of minor parts. Mr. John Darlison's farcical sketch, The Baby and the Butterfly, afforded opportunities for an exuberance of fun, to which Mr. Chippendale, Mr. Lupino, Mr. Freeman, Miss Gilham, and Miss Gear very successfully contributed. There was also an interesting exhibition of Royal Star Animated Pictures.

LOWESTOFT. — HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Frank Freeland.—The interest and variety of the pictures here are well maintained, and the auditorium is filled nightly with delighted audiences. Craig, Roze, and Craig head the variety turns; Ray and Miles are excellent in their comedy; and Steve Cooke's comic songs go well.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery.—Napoleon the Great, played by Mr. Frank M. Thorne's able company, has proved a good draw here this week. Foremost in the cast was Mr. Hugh Montgomery, who presented with care and effect the title-rôle; Mr. Oliver Birrel showed conspicuous ability as the rascally Colonel Laverauness; Mr. Phil Harper did justice to Colonel Meuron; Mr. Bartlett Garth afforded good support as Paul Laczinska; and excellent work also came from the Misses S. Porteous (Lisette), Florence Thorne (Mère Dumont), Marie Harcourt (Marcelle Choupin), and Leslie Warner (Marie Walewska).

LYRIC — Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold.—The capital ventriloquial show given by Coram, who pays a return visit here, has been much enjoyed; another excellent turn was submitted by Ted and May Hopkins, a smart couple of humorists, with Welsh Courtship; a neat carnival scena, entitled The Garden of Girls, came from Haley's Prize Juveniles; loud applause followed the efforts of Topsy and Usher, who had some smart plantation songs and dances; Sandow went through an able exhibition of strength; Maston showed himself a versatile mimic; and others in the list were J.C. Crawley, with his regimental smoking concert turn; and Nellie Boden, a popular comedienne and dancer. On Thursday evening Mr. Fred Coles, the acting-manager, who has had to resign owing to ill-health, took a benefit.

STAR THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—This popular resort has this week been giving its patrons A Sister's Sin, capitally produced by Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company. The rôle of Harold Raymond was ably portrayed by Mr. H. Arnold Allen; Miss Mabel Scudamore showed high gifts in the character of Minnie Hastings; a fine George Oakley came from Mr. Andrew Money; as the gipsy Charzel, Miss Lilian Radburn acted with considerable power; Mr. Ernest Frere was an amusing Jewish moneylender; Miss Dorothy Love made a sweet May Raymond; Mr. Henry Heller was a typical gentleman farmer; and the Misses Edie Macklin and Effie Mackintosh were the rival lovers.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Walter Hassan.—Top of the bill here this week are Arthur Roberts and company with the very humorous farce The Woman Who Was, which has proved exceedingly enjoyable; George D'Albert had a cordial reception on his return visit; Percival and Morley rendered an amusing trifle, Turtle Doves; the vocal efforts of the Elgars were much appreciated; clever work on the slack-wire was shown by Albert Kartelli; Will Walton kept his audience in a merry mood; and the list also contained the names of Harry Vardon, ventriloquist; Nellie Chandos, comedienne; Lottie De Abbey, vocalist; Flo Warner, vocalist; and Cordite and Buffalo, smart rope manipulators.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—This week the "Royal" Stock Dramatic Company have presented The Executioner's Daughter, from the pen of Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson. Included in the principal artists were Messrs. Cecil Ravenswood (Monsieur Roche), Sydney Grant (Felix Marius), Harry Tresham (Paul Rouvell), Robert Wilton (Tom Holmes), Miss Nellie Bonser (Annette), and Miss Beryl Ravenswood (Felice). Mr. Percy Boucher has left the company.

PADDINGTON PALACE.—Lessee, Mr. M. Montgomery; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Edwards.—The stock dramatic company here this week have given Geoffrey Langdon's Wife. Included in the cast were Messrs. Wallace Campbell (Cyril Langdon), Frank S. Strickland (Geoffrey Langdon), H. Hesslegrave (Will Maynard), Francis E. Wybert (Vimbart), H. G. Brandon (James), Miss Sara Blumenthal (Janet Miles), Miss Gladys H. Walton (Lily Mortimer), and Miss Lina Nazeby (Elinor D'Arville).

PARK PALACE.—Proprietors, Lancashire Vaudeville Syndicate, Ltd.; General-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece.—Jeanie Deans is the title of the drama being presented here this week by the popular stock company. Mr. Albert Sember makes an admirable David Deans; Miss Lilian Burns distinguishes herself as Madge Wildfire; Miss Nelson Ramsay and Miss Violet Barley-Clarke efficiently hold the rôles of Jeanie and Effie Deans; Mr. Archie Helsby does well as the outlawed Geordie Robertson; Mr. Hugh Carmichael is an imposing Duke of Argyle; as the Laird, Mr. Will Percy acquits himself well; and Mr. Walter Foster is Mr. Sharpitlaw. There are fourteen tableaux, all neatly put on.

HAYMARKET.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—Harry Calden and company are still here delighting everybody; this week they are presenting A Lost Name. Cecilia Maud has a number of acceptable songs; the Sisters Anderson are dainty vocalists and dancers; and Joe Humphreys puts in a second week with several new songs, including "That is the reason why."

WESTMINSTER.—Lessee, Mr. Fred E. Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—The Bioscope here has been delighting audiences with a fine film showing a torpedo attack on the Dreadnought; Eustace and Eyre had a funny ventriloquial sketch, entitled Tomkins, Jun.; Cyril Carle gave with effect Godfrey's scena, Dreams; Carney Bros., as comedians and vocalists, earned loud applause; some excellent work on the ladder was executed by Signor Bertani; and Lily Vane, comedy artist, also appeared.

OLYMPIA. — District - Manager. Mr. Albert Bulmer; Resident-Manager, Mr. Ernest Wighton.—Foremost here this week is a new dramatic sketch, entitled The Great Poison Case, which is rendered with effect by C. W. Somerset and company, the principals including Messrs. C. W. Somerset, G. Newman, Henry Latimer, and Cameron Carr and Miss Katherine Romsey and Miss Agnes Russell. The work, which includes a murder trial, was keenly appreciated. Frame, the laughter creator, brought much new business; the wonderful pianoplaying of Mendel was listened to with great attention; Cruikshank was as funny as ever; a neat musical duologue, An Appointment, emanated from Clark and Hayden; Johnny Alexander and company had a merry sketch, Brown in Paris; Charles Hargreaves, with his illustrated songs and fine baritone voice, supplied an agreeable turn; the performing dogs belonging to Rosina Caselli proved exceedingly interesting; and the singing of the Jonghmann Sisters was most enjoyable.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—The remarkable conjurer Chung Ling Soo returns here, and has again mystified large audiences. Casey's Court, produced by an army of youngsters, has pleased everybody; Florence Burns and James Danvers had an excellent comedy musical pianoforte mélange; Leo Stormont rendered several taking songs in his own able style; the acrobatic dancing of the Satanella Trio met with the highest approval; Gladys Mavius, assisted by Dot, had a sweet scena, Rosie is Waiting; Charles Norton, "the old firm," gave a smart exhibition of mimicry; Anna Hope had some choice illustrated songs, particularly "Won't you come over to my house?" and May Walsh was a dainty American comedienne.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Liverpool Theatre of Varieties, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. James Marks.—Heading the bill of this popular resort this week are the Geni Family of risley acrobats, who pay a welcome return visit; the Romsakoff combination of girls go through a really creditable lightning musical drill act; as lady instrumentalists the Three Sisters Transfield show high accomplishments; Will Johnson is a comedian of merit; clever and humorous acrobatic work comes from the Alaskarno Trio; Harry Candale, "the farmyard linguist," possesses remarkable mimetic powers; and also in the list are Daisy Martell, comedienne and dancer, and Lilian Elfreda, mimic of music hall stars.

MANCHESTER.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The United Theatres Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. M. Thorburn.—Miss Annie Hughes once more offers Manchester the opportunity of seeing her interpretation of the title-part in J. K. Jerome's play, Miss Tommy, originally produced not long ago in this city. The piece has many features of interest, and it pleased a good audience on Monday. Miss Hughes's performance is of course excellent; and a fine, breezy, comedy version of William Clodd is provided by Mr. Willie Hartill. Mr. Evelyn's Vernon's Peter Hope is a very natural creation; and great praise is due to Mr. Rupert Lister for his finished and sympathetic depiction of Dick Danvers. Miss Winifred Pearson acts distinctly well in the difficult rôle of Mr. Morrison, the other woman; while as Honour, Miss Ida Richardson could not easily be improved upon; and Mr. Reginald F. Beach adds much to the humour of the lighter scenes as Flipp, the office boy. Good-for-Nothing Nan precedes.

ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE. — Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Mason.—The attraction here is provided by Mr. J. Rice Cassidy's company, in Dan the Rake, a romantic costume play of strong interest. Mr. and Mrs. J. Rice Cassidy, as Dan and Madge, succeed very well indeed in these important humorous rôles; Mr. Arthur Stratton as Captain Tom Cooper, the villain, is well placed; and Mr. Frank Copeland as Lieut. Kavanagh makes an ideal lover. Mr. Jerrold E. Reed as Colonel Flamer and Mr. Frederick Lloyd as General Lake act with distinction; Miss Florence Creagh gives a dramatic rendering of Helen; and Miss Alice Marsden plays with due pathos the rôle of the blind and deserted Mrs. Donnelly.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hearn.—That fine specimen of humanity, L. W. Murray, figures prominently here this week in feats of strength and physical culture posing; Wyndham and Waters, in their laughable act, The Professor and His Pupil, are also a big attraction; Wee Mona Vivian, child comedienne and dancer, is well received; Adams and Roose, in a new-style singing playlet, are entertaining; W. T. Ellwanger and company are seen to advantage in a capital sketch, entitled The Peacemaker; and considerable amusement is caused by the Three Currans, in their boxing act. Exceedingly smart turns also are those of Alf. Ripon, the ventriloquial Lauder; Bert and Dora, comedy artists; and Shavo, comedy juggler. Pictures complete.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Manager, Mr. P. Ryan Smith.—Mr. Sidney Dench's company remains here another week, and is seen to great advantage in The Octoroon, Mr. Dench playing the part of Salem Scudder.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Dry.—The World's Great Snare is presented here this week by Mr. W. Alexander Dallas's company.—A good house on Monday was especially appreciative of the excellent acting of Mr. Leonard Williams as Royal Keene, Mr. A. F. Bassett as La Mort, the renegade; Mr. Theodore Hill as Red Heart, the Indian chief; Miss Lily Forsyth as Wild Rose, the charming Queen of the Plains; Miss Fay Garnett-Vayne as Star-Eye; and Mr. Maurice Jones as Levey, the moneylender; while others who well earned the applause they received were Mr. Fred Lillywhite, as Granville, the mine owner; Mr. George Scully as the amusing Von Vinck; and Mr. Hyland O'Shea as Maloney, the Irish settler. The minor parts were also well rendered, and excellent staging contributed to the complete success of the performance.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—A powerful attraction here this week is George Leyton, in his military scena, Lucknow, assisted by a number of Indian Mutiny veterans, and a tableau of the historical Relief by the Highlanders. Miss Marie Kendall adds considerable interest to the programme by her spirited singing of comedy songs; and a fine turn, elaborately staged and strongly played, is that of Fred Storey and company, in Rip Van Winkle. Good business is added by Harry Friskey, a capital comedy juggler; Edith Reynolds and company, in a quiet but effective sketch; Steve McCarthy, comedian and dancer; the Macarte Sisters, in a graceful wire act; the Carlyles, in a series of whirlwind dances; and Frank Leslie, character comedian.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—An excellent turn here this week is provided by George Gray and company, in Parson Gray, V.C.; Lockhart's Elephants are also a big turn; Tom E. Finglas gives effective delineations of negro life in the Eugene Stratton style; and Peggy Pryde adds to her reputation in characteristic songs. Strong turns are added by David Poole, ventriloquist; Dion Wade, comedian and mimic; Arthur Aldridge, accomplished vocalist; Bessie Butt, soubrette and dancer; and the Choir, who are heard in several pleasing items. The Bioscope depicts a torpedo attack on the Dreadnought.

KING'S (Longsight).—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. B. Taylor.—Mr. Augustine Knight presents Mr. E. Hill-Mitchelson's romantic drama, The Assassin, here this week, with great success. Mr. Knight himself is seen to advantage as Prince Demetri; Miss Ella Vane is particularly good as Countess Wanda; Mr. E. E. Ashby plays Ivan Ipanoff with distinction; and excellent support is rendered by Mr. Fred Constable, Miss Hettie Senior, Miss Frances Waring, Miss E. Robertson, Mr. Tom J. Taylor, and Mr. Edwin Jenner. The scenery and general mounting of the play is exceptionally good.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter de Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Tealor Wade.—A strong programme is headed here this week by that prince of illusionists, Carl Hertz, assisted by Miss Emiline D'Alton, their "Bridal Chamber" trick being particularly effective. Prominent also are Fred Earle, of "Seaweed" fame; and the Tokio Troupe, a wonderful Japanese family, in a clever act. Excellent items are also forthcoming from Charles Ulrick, the barrel king, an astonishing turn; Duncan and Godfrey, in their coster scena, Me and 'Er; Frank Cass, vocal comedian; Daisy Mayer, coon comedienne and sand dancer; Nellie Dunbar, comedienne and dancer; Alice Ormonde, vocal comedienne; Sammy Shields, Scotch comedian; and Blarney and Kennard, with their waltzing dog. The sixteenth anniversary performance is announced for June 27.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Charles A. Wilkes; Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—A distinct novelty here this week is Herr Oscar Van Coppee's fantastic transformation scena, Children of the Sun, introducing twelve charming Dutch girls, prettily attired, and all excellent singers. Another capital turn is that of Mabel Osborne and Gordon Brookes, who create no end of laughter, and meet with a flattering reception; the Voldam Brothers are exceedingly clever Dutch acrobats of the eccentric order; Tom Moore, character comedian and vocalist, makes a hit; Louie Oswald is a dainty singer; and Lily Black and Dorothy Vincent are pleasing comediennes. Up-to-date pictures on Raymond's Vivagraph complete the show.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Meek.—A good programme is offered here this week, the principal turn being Harriett Vernon, whose chief item is a pretty scena, entitled Sunshine and Shadow. The Emmell Comedy Company (including Adele Levey) are smart and amusing in a short sketch, My Statue of Grace; the Four Sisters Victoria are charming juvenile instrumentalists and dancers; and Mi Narom, comedienne, tickles the audience immensely. Beside these, Leslie Race is a cultured vocal comedian; the Betsons, comedy cyclists, are highly diverting; May Newall sings daintily; and Harry Bentley is a pleasing comedian. The pictures are good.

HIPPODROME (Hulme).—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. Kay.—The Royal Hungarian Szarvaci Ferencz Troupe of singers, dancers, and acrobats, are at the top of the bill here this week, and their marvellous performance is greatly appreciated; Robbins and Collier, as usual, make a hit in their musical comedy act; Cliff Ryland is an excellent story-teller, and vastly amuses the audience; Lily Gaston is a very clever dancer; Shirley Liggins and company, in their novel scena, Farmyard Pastimes, are highly successful; and other good turns are offered by Ella Beaumont, comedienne and dancer; the Currie Trio, burlesque artists and dancers; and Lillie Dene and Charles Dawson, in an amusing skit, Stage Aspirants. Laughable pictures are shown on the Bioscope.

MANSFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Herbert Darnley; Resident-Director, Mr. Tom Jennings; Acting-Manager, Mr. Mark Lorne.—The End Crowns All is being presented by Miss Augusta Tulloch's company. Mr. Roy Milton, in the rôle of Prince Borinsky is all that can be desired; Mr. Arthur Plummer gives a splendid interpretation of Lord Arthur Lyndhurst; as Ivan Spava, Mr. Max Coutts is successful; in the comedy part of John H. Jubbs, Mr. George Bryne is quite at home; and as the acrobat, Edwin Romaine, Mr. Donald Stewart is successful. Miss Augusta Tulloch proves herself an actress of ability in the part of Vera Romaine; and in the rôle of Lola Ivanwitch Miss Amber Wyvelle is very capable.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, Mansfield, Sutton, and District Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Capt. Cecil Clayton.—Mr. Harry Joseph's Pierrots continue to attract. Good singing is the rule, and the dancing is all that can be desired.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr Edward Michael; Stage and Business-Manager, Mr. A. Austin-Leigh.—The Liars, presented by the Margate Stock Company, under the direction of Mr. A. Austin-Leigh, has been having a successful run during the week. Mr. Austin-Leigh plays admirably as Colonel Sir Christopher Deering, and is ably supported by Mr. Robert Grey as Edward Faulkner; Mr. Ernest Cossart puts in some good work as Freddie Tatton, and Mr. H. G. Mason is efficient as Gilbert Nepean, capable support being given by Mr. G. W. Eton as Archibald Coke. Miss Mabel Archdall is delightful as Lady Rosamund Tatton, and Miss Nancy Beresford is equally charming as Lady Jessica Nepean; Miss Emmie O'Reilly is good as Mrs. Ebernoe, Miss May Saker plays well as Mrs. Crespin, and Miss Belle Travers is excellent as Dolly Coke. The other characters are all carefully portrayed.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Joint Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—A very smart performance is contributed to the current week's programme by the Three Juggling Breens, whose act is particularly smart and funny; Mlle. Renee, in her unique musical act, is a great success; the Sisters Charnley, vocalists, dancers, and bâton manipulators, are deservedly applauded; Pollo Jerome, gymnast, and Flo Wood, comedienne, contribute pleasing turns, and J. Wright Aitken and company, in a dramatic sketch, The Devil's Hand, play well. An exciting picture is shown by means of the Biograph.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, The South Wales Entertainments, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Albert Jackson.—Mr. Charles Draycott's company is here this week with The Stolen Birthright. Mr. Draycott provides a skilful delineation of Marco Taddeo; Miss Muriel Thompson as Miranda submits an artistic performance; Mr. A. C. Holmes is both outspoken and manly as Andrea Celsi; an admirable sketch of Stefano is contributed by Mr. Harry Scatchard; Mr. G. Ridgeway-Thorne and Mr. John Sheridan as Prince Michele Salvati and Prince Antonio both fill their parts with tact and ability; Miss Maud Desmond is quite satisfactory as Fidelia; a bright and vivacious Nita is seen in Miss Ethel Vinroy; and Mr. Harry Harrop is distinctly humorous as Pedro.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—The leading turns here this week are provided by Captain Devereux's comedy troupe of dogs; Les Blancs, comedians on the triple bars; the Magnet Trio of vocalists and dancers; Gale and Gale Trio, in an amusing absurdity; George Menva, illusionist, assisted by Mlle. Etoile; and Horace Sadie, characteristic dancer. The Biograph exhibits some new pictures.

MEXBOROUGH.—PRINCE OF WALES' THEATRE—Manager, Mr. W. Melton.—Go-Won-Go-Mohawk and her American company are presenting the drama, Wep-Ton-no-Mah. Mr. C. W. Charles plays capitally as Colonel Stockton; Mr. Guy D. Hackney is an excellent Capt. Franklin; Manuel Lopes has a capable exponent in Mr. Edward Leroy;

Chief Gane-Gau is well played by Mr Pasco Bioletti; Mr. Arthur Selwyn and Mr. Dan Ryan do well as Sam White and Carry Cullen respectively; the title-rôle is played with distinct skill by Go-Won-Go-Mohawk; Miss Bessie Frank is a charming Nellie Stockton; while Miss Jessie Hart is an interesting and amusing Matilda Sniffles.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—The Idler was produced here for the first time in Middlesbrough on Monday by Mrs. T. Greenwood-Croft's company. Mr. Philip Cunningham received a hearty welcome in the leading rôle of Mark Cross; as Lady Harding Mrs. T. Greenwood-Croft gave a pleasing portrayal; Mr. Stephen T. Ewart was an admirable Sir John; Mr. William Attfield figured prominently as Simeon Strong; and Miss Celia Gordon was a delightful Mrs. Cross. Mr. C. W. Spencer as General Merryweather and Miss Zoe Davis as Kate Merryweather were all that could be desired; Miss Lucy Edwin was a pleasing Mrs. Glynn Stanmore, and Mr. Joseph Bardsley as Bennett did well.

OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, The Middlesbrough Grand Opera House Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. W. Ker Chatto.—The Native Choir from Jamaica occupy the boards here this week, and give a fine selection of coon songs and plantation melodies.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles G. Rembges.—Colby and May provide the star turn here this week; Charles McNaughton and May Garstang cause much laughter in their comedy act Bill; Les Poses create a great impression with their singing; Will McIvor is an excellent vocalist; and Henri Bekker does some clever conjuring tricks. Mr. and Mrs. George Leonard please in a sketch entitled Coming Home, and Stuart and Evans, comedians, and Ted Cowan are also in the programme.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Alf. Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—Harry Pleon, Celia Kent, and party provide the star turn here this week, and they create roars of laughter in their scena Pudden Watchman. Harrigan and Holt, eccentrics, score a success; and Billy Williams fully maintains his reputation. J. P. Carroll gives a clever tambourine display, and Will Driscoll, comedian and dancer, pleases. Other turns are Carr and Rose, vocalists, and the Sisters Brooke, duettists and dancers.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. T. W. Rowe.—A capital company, under the management of Messrs. Silverstone, Wright, and Belton, appeared here on Monday in The Nihilist. As Ivan Wowasky, Mr. Felix Pitt played with true insight. Other members of the company aiding in the success of the thrilling play with able and well-studied impersonations were Mr. Henry Wright, Mr. Kenyon Gray, Mr. Carl Rovinelli, Mr. O. Silverstone, Mr. John Belton, Mr. Morgan Richards, Miss Mary Dawson, Miss Florrie Kelsey, Miss Jessica Ford, and Miss Vera Pettitt.

GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Man's Enemy is here, played by Mr. Hartwell J. Kirby's company. Leading rôles are ably undertaken by Messrs. Norman A. A. Overton, T. G. Vane, Fred Owen, T. Arthur Ellis, William Jeans, and Hartwell J. Kirby; while excellent support is rendered by Messrs. Charles E. Johnson, Burt Gordon, Frank Hedley, Harry Clifton, and Fred Ross, Miss Maud Buchanan, Miss Maudie Grayson, and Miss Evelyn Geldard.

EMPIRE THEATRE. — Resident-Director, Mr. R. Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Harry Esden.—Neil Kenyon has had warm receptions this week from crowded houses. As a Scottish fish-wife and the Scotsman with his pack, he provides excellent entertainment. Miss Hetty King, male impersonator, does well, each of her songs going well; Signor and Mme. Borelli are clever pianists and singers; Miss Amy Augarde, supported by Messrs. Sydney Watson, Wilfred Howard, James Dallas, and E. A. Hill-Mitchelson, appears in La Carmencita; Howard and Collinson contribute an amusing duologue, The Porter and the Parcel; and other turns are Miss Leonie Dixon, soubrette and dancer; Lieut. Travis, ventriloquist; Celtic Comedy Four; and the Gasch Sisters.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Barrasford Co.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Unique and clever feats of juggling are done here by Mr. Morris Cronin; the Vails provide a distinctly good gymnastic turn; and a good performance is given by Wylie's Dogs. Jack Pleasants, comedian, has a couple of very good songs; Enid Errol and company appear in a fantastic little sketch; Keith and Merson contribute amusing dialogue in The Meet; and other turns are those of the Jimsons, in The Burglar's Surprise; Boumeister, violin virtuoso; Fields and Lewis, burlesque artists; and Miss Bertha Zander, with illustrated songs.

NEWPORT.—LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—Mr. Chas. Macdona's Gay Parisienne company is here. Mr. Wm. Harman is humorous as Ebenezer Honeycombe; Mr. Squire Day's Major Forsdyke is an excellent character-study; and Mr. Clifford Seyler as M. Pompier does well, his dancing being very clever throughout. Mr. J. FitzJames is a good Hans, the hotel-keeper; Mr. Tom Kennard sings well as Tom Everleigh; and Mr. R. Kloss is satisfactory as Amos Dingle. In Miss Alice Nixon Mlle. Julie Bon-Bon had a very charming interpreter; she acts smartly, dances delightfully, and possesses a very graceful figure. Miss Holford Beringer's Mrs. Honeycombe is pointed; Nora is well played by Miss Nance O'Neill; and Miss Madge Soutter is good as Ruth. The Imperial Glee Singers, Messrs. Hoddy, Rose, Kennard, and FitzJames, received quite an ovation for their singing in the second act. Mr. Cooper has oragnised for two nights of the week fêtes in the Belle Vue Park, at which there will be displays of fireworks by Messrs. Pain, of London.

EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Manager, Major Gallagher; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Page.—Mariedl, the giantess, is proving an interesting feature of the bill this week. A lively turn is provided by a company of coloured artists, with Billy McClain, "the hottest coon from Dixie," as the leading spirit. Marzella's troupe of birds are popular; and Horace White, a novel ventriloquist, is amusing. Gintaro, a Japanese equilibrist; Burney and Wally, an acrobatic dental act; and Ross and Grayson, in a singing and dancing mélange, come in for warm recognition. The Bioscope shows pictures of the laying of the Cape to Cairo Railway.

NORTHAMPTON.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors and Managers, Mr. Milton Bode and Mr. Edward Compton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Frank Seddon.—On Tuesday evening Mme. Jane Hading appeared in Frou-Frou, receiving a most enthusiastic welcome. The remainder of the week has been filled in by Mr. J. A. Campbell's company in The Little Breadwinner. Mr. Dunlop Stewart is excellent as the old Quaker, Lord William Dorrington; and Joseph Prior, the villain, is effectively played by Mr. Alfred Maurice. The fun is supplied by Mr. Norman Hall as Charles Prior. Richard is played in a satisfactory manner by Mr. Matthew Boulton; Miss Emil Leslie plays the heroine in a quiet and ladylike way; little Emmie Thomas makes an attractive and winsome little Meg; Miss Nellie King as Bobby Trott is a thorough boy, and the pair are clever singers and dancers.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Fred H. Anderson; Resident-Manager, Mr. Thos. A. Evans.—The Dillons are a great success here, and their bouncing competition has been the cause of much mirth. Johnny Dwyer is a character comedian who is always welcome; the Darnton Sister are charming duettists; Cull-Pitt, who is assisted by Mlle. Adele, gives a pot-pourri of conjuring and impersonations; Miss Kitty Kearns gives an agreeable turn; Stan Aubrey, eccentric comedian, furnishes some eccentric dancing; Lesrto and his dog Babs give a musical display; the Palace pictures this week have a comic interest; Miss Florence Smithers, Mr. Owen Dacroy, and company present a sketch, Hard Lines.

NORTH SHIELDS. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The New Magdalen, presented here this week by Mr. Edward Sorley's company, is warmly greeted. As Julian Grey, Mr. W. S. Hartford gives a powerful and interesting performance; Mr. Horace Logan is seen to advantage as Horace Holmcraft; Mr. W. Simpson is a capable Ignatius Detrel; Mr. Barry Sullivan does well as Captain Arnault; and Mr. James A. Storey is an acceptable Surgeon Saville. As Mercy Merrick, Miss Yvonne Orchardson proves herself to be an actress of no mean ability; Miss Rachel Donne gives a capital rendering of Grace Roseberry; and Miss Bartle Frere is clever as Lady Janet Ray. A Case for Eviction proves a good curtain-raiser.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr Wm. Mould.—The star turn here is the Coopers, with their vocal scenas, which meet with appreciation. Messrs. Ryan and Hall, smart acrobats and eccentric comedians, come in for an enthusiastic reception; Rappo and Ella, gymnasts, perform some clever feats; Miss May Macdonald, character vocalist, is popular; Little Georgie, boy comedian, is good; Mr. Joe Cookson, ventriloquist, goes well; Mr. Harry Leaton, vocal comedian, submits an acceptable turn; and the Bio-Photoscope is, as usual, a popular item.

NORTHWICH.—PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietor, Mr. Glanmore Jones.—Mr. Harry Liston and Miss Lord Lumley are paying us a visit. Mr. Liston proves that he has lost none of his old skill, and keeps the house in rapt attention with his wonderful versatility. He is ably supported by Miss Lord Lumley, whose charming manner and clever acting draw forth rounds of applause. Mr. Phil Lister, an instrumentalist, gives a skilful performance on the bells and other musical instruments. The Bioscope still occupies an important place on the programme.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Immense excitement is caused here by the appearance of George Hackenschmidt, the "Russian Lion.' Among other attractions are the Four Burnells, in their sketch On the Links; Burley and Burley, an amusing turn; Sandy McNab and company, in an absurdity, The Egyptian Mummy; the Nightingales, song illustrators; Jennie Johns, soubrette; Bessie Arthur, Scottish vocalist; McDonald and Hunting, American entertainers; and the Hippo. Biograph.

NOTTINGHAM. — GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Chas. P. Cooke.—Mr. Allan Wilkie's company is here. Monday saw the production of Hamlet, and on Tuesday The Merchant of Venice. Mr. Allan Wilkie assumed the rôle of Shylock, and in it he gave a wonderful exhibition of versatile acting; while the Portia of Miss Carrie Baillie was a great artistic success. Through indisposition Miss Iné Cameron was unable to assume the rôle of Jessica, which in her absence was undertaken in a very capable manner by Miss F. Hunter Watts; Miss Daisy Horrocks looked very winsome and was altogether satisfactory as Nerissa; Mr. Geo. Munro as Lancelot Gobbo was well suited. The necessary gravity and dignity of Antonio was easily portrayed by Mr. G. Alexander Marsh; Mr. Paul Lovett made a very satisfactory Bassanio; and the rollicking Gratiano found a suitable exponent in Mr. John Paley. Mr. E. Digges had all the necessary accomplishments for a charming Lorenzo, and was well supported by Messrs. Lambton and Dockwray as Salanio and Salarino respectively. Messrs. Gordon Phillott, Ian Fleming, and John Phelps all did good work, as also did Mr. Gordon Ash and Miss Eily O'Dempsey. Romeo and Juliet, David Garrick, The Bells, Othello, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man are also announced. Mme. Jane Hading and full Parisian company appeared here on Thursday in a matinée of Frou-Frou, and a large audience gave the talented artist a warm reception.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles H. Bowmaker.—Lew Lake and company are presenting My Pal Jerry, and securing nightly most gratifying receptions. Two amusing and clever comedy artists are Tom and Marie Motramo; Lindon's vaudeville entertainers provide an entertainment at once varied and refined, and the humorous songs in the Scottish dialect sung by Miss Ruth Lytton, combined with her charming appearance and clever dancing, compel admiration; Bert Woodward does all his cycling tricks in the neatest possible manner; Lina Verdi sings very sweetly and dances very neatly; and Beattie and Blanche are duettists of no mean attainments. J. A. Wilson causes much amusement, and the feats of his dog Towser are the acme of animal training. Some good films shown by the Bioscope complete an excellent programme.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Mr. Gilbert Payne and an excellent company opened here on Monday with The Honeymoon. Mr. Gilbert Payne as Nathaniel Noodle kept the house in constant merriment, being ably supported by Miss Nellie Dyson as Emaretta Noodle, Mr. Leslie Erle as Jack Armstrong, and Miss Pattie Fairley as Madge. Mr. Fred Fulton was a good Archie Mashington, his comic songs being well received; Mr. Aldyn Sawyer did well as Col. Vandyke Brown; and Miss Myra Douglas and Mr. Harry Hoyland are worthy of mention.

OLDHAM.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Hulme.—Mr. Valentine Beadon's company in The Best Must Win opened on Monday, under the direction of Mr. Sidney C. Cranston. Miss Marie Menzies as the persecuted heroine was capital; and Miss Marie Robson ably filled the part of Lucille La Ffanche. Mr. Sidney C. Cranston does some smart work as Paul Dumaresq; and Mr. Graham Woods as Gaston makes a gentlemanly villain. Mr. J. Dobson Clyde as Juan Minos was also very good. Mr. A. Hall Menzies provided excellent comedy as Jacques Courcel, in which Miss Daisy Humphreys as Suzette was well to the fore. Mr. George H. Child makes a capital Sabertache; Mis Violet Ospringe as La Marquis de Marcel and Miss Mary Vincent as Therese were excellent.

COLOSSEUM.—Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—Miss Ethel Van Praagh and Mr. J. Edward Whitty opened here with An Unwedded Wife. Miss Van Praagh appeared as Marion, and ably sustained a trying part; Miss Elsie Walton was a dainty Elsie Langham; and Mr. Valentine Henry portrayed the part of Frank Armstrong in a manly fashion. Mr. E. St. Clair Forbes in the heavy part of Philip Blakstone acts in clever style, and receives much assistance from Mr. Wilton Bedford as Christopher. Miss Jessie Gilette makes a lively Caraway Crumpet, and with Mr. Will Casey as Napoleon B. Boomer infuse much humour into their parts, in which Mr. J. E. Whitty as P.C. O'Runyin also takes a fair share. Mr. Logan Darra is a capital John Hawthorn, and Mr. J. A. Grove is very good as David Drummond.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—The Gems give a turn full of tuneful melody and some excellent comedy; Schenk Bros.' equilibristic feats are marvellous; W. H. Clemart, in his ventriloquial entertainment, provides a novel turn; Russell Brandow is a capital dancing comedian; Jeannette Hall, lady baritone, sings in an able manner; and the Cromwells are smart in juggling. Miss Marie Neilson is an engaging comedienne and dancer; and Fred Herbert, extempore vocalist, is quite popular. The pictures shown by the Dottoscope are very good.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Nuttall.—The Maitland Trio cause hearty laughter with their absurdity, The Picture; the Donnas Trio are smart in a balancing trapeze act; Mozetto, juggler, has added new tricks to his act with success; the Maros, comedians, on the triple bars, are excellent; the Evalos, in a varied turn, are very clever; Fred Maitland, discoursing on "Should Women Have Votes?" causes roars of laughter; Harry Rayley is a smart vocalist; and Mr. E. poses as a patterer in a humorous manner. The Dottoscope also provides a good turn.

OXFORD.—NEW THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Lucas, J.P.; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. C. Dorrill.—The latter half of last week Mr. Oscar Asche and Miss Lily Brayton drew tremendous houses with Othello, The Virgin Goddess, and the Taming of the Shrew. This week the National Theatre Society, of the Abbey Theatre, Dublin, are giving a most interesting series of Irish plays. On Monday there was a full and highly-appreciative house, who gave a most cordial reception to The Gaol-gate, Hyacinth Halvey, The Shadowy Waters, and The Rising of the Moon. The first play was exquisitely performed by Miss Sara Allgood, Miss Maire O'Neill, and Mr. F. J. Fay. In the second little comedy Mr. Fay greatly distinguished himself as Halvey, and received capital support from W. G. Fay, A. Sinclair, Sara Allgood, and Bigit O'Dempsey. In The Shadowy Waters, Miss Darragh gave a powerful rendering of Dectora; and Mr. F. J. Fay again scored heavily as Forgael. In The Rising of the Moon, W. G. Fay was very effective as the ballad singer, and Arthur Sinclair gave his effective support as a policeman. During the engagement there will be performed Riders to the Sea, On Baile's Strand, Kathleen ni Houlihan, The Jackdaw, The Playboy of the Western World, and Spreading the News.

EAST OXFORD THEATRE. — Lessees, Miss Winifred Stuart and Mr. C. Watson Mill; Manager, Mr. Frank Stuart.—Mr. Wm. Fraser-Brunner's company is here with The Superior Miss Pellender, preceded each evening by A Man of Vengeance. In the latter piece, Mr. Wm. Fraser-Brunner, Mr. Ellis D. Carlyle, and Miss Queenie Fraser-Brunner all acquitted themselves admirably. In The Superior Miss Pellender, Mr. William Fraser-Brunner gave a very artistic and clever rendering of Mr. Lister; while Mr. Ellis D. Carlyle achieved considerable success as Noel. Miss Beatrice Fitzhugh made a captivating Mrs. Pellender; Miss May Staples was winsome as Nancy; Miss Marie Ault was true to nature as Edith; and Miss Queenie Fraser-Brunner admirably sustained the difficult rôle of Miss Pellender.

PAISLEY.—PAISLEY THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. H. Savile.—In possession here this week is the J. C. Cummings Animated Pictures, of first-rate importance. The variety company includes Kitty Leveyne, comedienne; Bandoni, the one-man band; Miss Alice Golding, vocalist; and W. H. Smart, comedian and dancer.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur Douglas F. Bostock.—The Aurora Troupe perform with grace and dexterity cycling feats; Victor Newman scores in his character impersonations; the Three Prestons submit a funny absurdity, The Liftman's Rise; Harry Arnold, Scotch comedian, is applauded; Albert Athas and Lizzie Collins furnish a clever and entertaining number; the Sisters du Barrie are refined duettists and dancers; George Prince, comedian, gives a successful turn; the Calcotts display ability in their musical scena, Rags and Tatters; and the Hippodrome Bioscope is to the front with new pictures.

PLYMOUTH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—An admirable satire on a street mendicant is given here this week by Mr. John Le Hay, supported by Mr. Charles Causley and Miss Mary Duggan; Miss Florence St. John is also a strong attraction in My Milliner's Bill; Will and Alice Vokes furnish a novel terpsichorean turn; Mr. George Robins is heard to advantage in a couple of items, à la Grossmith; and Miss Beatrice Lindley is a graceful and attractive vocalist. Other contributors to the programme are Mr. Bert Morland (comedian) and the Sisters Le Hay.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. P. Williams.—A capable production of Her Wedding Morn is given here this week. Mr. C. A. Melton plays Harold Saxby with creditable zeal and ability; Mr. Cyril Melton is a success as Seth Mason, an ex-convict; and Mr. Greene Taylor is well fitted with the humorous part of a Sexton.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. Jack Field.—The Davis and Gledhill Trio are on a return visit with their novel and daring cycle turn, which is highly attractive; the Brothers Horne evoke loud applause for their humorous contribution; Dusty Rhodes delights his many local friends with his peculiar patter; and Eadie and Ramsden furnish a popular vocal and dancing item. Other contributors are Billy Burns, James and Lucy Allison, and Vernon's pictures.

PORTSMOUTH. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Weedon Grossmith's farcical comedy, The Night of the Party, is staged here for the week. Mr. Sebastian Smith plays Crosbie with conspicuous success; Mr. Frank Frayne is personated by Mr. Frank H. Denton in first-rate style; Mr. Douglas Munro gives a capital character-study as Mr. Flambert; Mr. Roundle and Mr. Bogle are ably sustained by Messrs. Percy Robinson and Stanley Arthur; Miss Beatrice Mervin is excellent as Lady Hampshire; Miss Florence French well portrays the gipsy, Vandelier; and Miss Lillian Williams does capable work as Paulina.

PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—Messrs. Chas. H. Phelps and Harry Tilbury, with their company, are here this week with The Blind Foundling, Mr. Phelps taking the part of the wronged husband, Gerald Dalton, in artistic fashion. Parson Ray is depicted in becoming manner by Mr. Frank Harvey; Mr. A. George Fry as Mark Redman, an adventurer, is very efficient; Dick Bobbins, with songs, is in the able hands of Mr. Tilbury; and Miss Trixie Toole as Winnie Bobbins, with songs, enlivens the otherwise pathetic play admirably. Miss Bella Tilbury as Isabel, the wife of Dalton, gives an excellent portrayal of the character; and Miss Mabel Hall as Fairy, the blind foundling, is charming in a pathetic part.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The bright and lively comedian, Arthur Reece, is paying a return visit here, and with new songs scores well; Amy Sullivan, a very taking comedienne, pleases the audience immensely; Charles Clifford, vocalist and solo harpist, is a very capable musician; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the Factory Nightingales, are popular, and receive genuine applause; Talbot and Pearce give an artistic musical duologue; the Prince Milner Trio are very clever on the slack wire and with their hoop manipulation; Tom Parker, comedian and dancer, is diverting; the Sisters Lunelle, a pair of graceful and energetic soubrettes and danseuses, are much appreciated; the Monckton, in musical comedy episode, Are Wives Dummies? prove very entertaining; Harry Radford and Mlle. Valentine, jolly juggling jesters, cause much laughter; and Payne's pictures brings a well-diversified programme to a conclusion.

HIPPODROME, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. Nelson Barry.—The star turn here is the ever-popular and vivacious Marie Loftus, the charming comedienne, who, with new burlesque business and several of her best songs, delighted the audience, and had a splendid welcome; the Melroses, comedy artists, are most amusing; Rochez' Circus, consisting of highly-trained ponies and dogs, are much admired for their intelligence; Miss Rose Harvey, a comely comedienne, is much liked for her capital songs; Frobel and Ruge, aerial comedians, are well applauded for their daring antics on the swinging bar; Miss Maud Courtney, the American girl in song and story, had a cordial greeting for her efforts to amuse; the Mysterious Mr. C. also had a warm welcome for his very capable vocalisation and amusing patter; the Three Amaranths do a wonderful acrobatic dancing act; Hanvarr and Anna Lee, the golfer and the maid, are expert jugglers; and the Hippodrome pictures complete an excellent programme.

RADCLIFFE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. G. T. Santé; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Boothman.—Monday night, the closing night of the season, was set apart for the benefit of Mr. Boothman, the acting-manager, and the house was as full as it could possibly be. A capital variety programme was provided. A bright party of local children, trained by Mrs. J. B. Lord, danced the Maypole, their pretty dresses, combined with the electrical effects, making a pleasant spectacle. Mr. Ernest Nelson gave an exhibition of strength and skill, which greatly interested; Mr. Fred Lever sang with the aid of bioscope pictures; the Testo Brothers gave their entertaining turn as musical acrobats; a good balancing turn was provided by Messrs. Allan and White; Knoto proved a clever contortionist; Clown Nippo created laughter by his efforts to train local lads; Messrs. Kay and Grimshaw were entertaining in a descriptive vocal scene; and Messrs. Jill and Laval were good in their comedy act, Tramps at Play.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—Closely following on the productions of The Pick of the Bunch, Somebody's Sweetheart, and In the Soup, comes The Lady of Ostend, and Sir F. C. Burnand's comedy proves as witty, clever, and as great an attraction as ever. As Dick Whortles, Mr. Henry Hampson gives a good study of a married man of Jonah-like propensities; Toby Krockitt, the prize-fighter, finds an admirable exponent in Mr. Watkin Wynne; whilst Mr. Percy Marshall's sketch of the sporting old father-in-law is a fine piece of work. Mr. Laurence Brough presents us with a refined and gallant Frenchman; Miss Kate Milford as Mrs. Whortles is good; and as the cantankerous mother-in-law, Miss Bessie Harrison evokes hearty applause. The love interest is charmingly sustained by Miss Evelyn Ormonde as Millie Grace; and Miss Roberta Svendson, in the title-rôle, is clever.

READING.—ROYAL COUNTY THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Milton Bode.—Mr. George Dance's Variety Season.—Manager, Mr. E. J. Macdermott.—Mme. De Vry's Three Golden Graces appear this week in a series of classical poses; the Delomes produce a clever dancing speciality, The Phantom Dancers; Sam Dalton does a good turn; Little Tichbourne, a juvenile artist, appears with success as a comedian and long-boot dancer; Lillian Travelli is a pleasing comedienne; Harry Brayne and Bert Lloyd give a very funny sketch, The Tree of Truth; and some more new pictures are shown on Vernon's Bioscope.

RHYL.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Will Smith.—For the first three nights this week Mr. Fred Smith's company appear in Trilby. Svengali was in the capable hands of Mr. Will Smith; and Mme. Constance Bellamy gave a good interpretation of the title-rôle. The Corsican Brothers was billed for the last three days.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott. — A good company is headed by Alex. Chentrens, Anglo-French comedian, whose style at once captivated the audience. Fred Barnes, comedian; Frank Dunlop, Welsh comedian; Lillian Barnes, contralto; Jack Macdermott; and Forshaw and Kershaw, also appear.

ROCHDALE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Robinson; General Manager, Mr. Otto C. Culling; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. Hague.—A Gambler's Daughter is here. Mr. Robert Ayrton, with his Irish brogue, makes a typical Desmond O'Dare; Mr. Alfred Sanders is prominent as the grabbing Solomon Solomons; Mr. George Vinning submits an earnest portrayal of Jack Grant; and Mr. W. H. Terr acts with success the part of Ralph Gillman. Captain Stanhope has an able exponent in Mr. H. Barham; and Stephen Brand is in the safe hands of Mr. Charles Yorke. Miss Harriett Loydall is amusing as the loyal Auntie Zeb, a negress; and Miss Adria Hill cleverly enacts the dual rôle of Mildred Grant and Miriam Grant.

EMPIRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Thomas Hargreaves; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Hargreaves.—Julian Mack is a highly-diverting comedian; his amusing description of a "Suffragette" created roars of laughter. Cline and Clark give a smart exhibition of sand and buck dancing. Other artists appearing include Lester Bros., coloured duettists and dancers; Frank and Violet Payte, comedy duo; Onda and Leon, comedy bar performers; Macdonald Trio, musical specialities; Charlie Somers, comedian; and the Empire Bioscope.

CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Smith and Co.—Pringle's North American Animated Picture Company continues its fourth week with new pictures that find great favour. Variety turns are submitted at intervals by Ford and Hanson, the musical millionaires; and the Gilberts, with their trained animals.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy. — Miss Winifred Maude and company are presenting The Sins of a City, directed by Mr. Victor Du Cane. Mr. Leonard S. Harrison is very effective as Donald McIvor; and Mr. Vincent W. Carlyle is a manly Sandy McDonald. Mr. Norton Shields, in the dual parts of Joe Woodleigh and Jasper Woodleigh, is responsible for a very clever portrayal; and Mr. William Bradford is seen to advantage as Ralph Blackwater, K.C.; being ably seconded by Mr. Victor Du Cane as Isaac Levi. Miss Ethel Tinsley is very smart as Lesbia; and Miss Jenny Hackett is most amusing as Midge, receiving well-deserved recalls for her songs and dances. Miss Lily Mason scores as Mrs. Miggs; and Miss Winifred Maude gives a very pleasing and sympathetic rendition of the part of Seawood.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—His Sister's Honour is being presented by Messrs. E. A'Dell and Chabôt's company. Mr. Ed. E. Lewis sustains the hero, Frank Stanley, very satisfactorily; Sir Richard Redvers is excellently played by Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe; Mr. Gilson Brooke works well as Dr. Godfrey; Miss K. Eckart is seen to advantage as Dora Stanley; Miss Ethel Ashleigh makes a charming Ivy Merton; much fun is contributed by Mr. Harry Ugar as Timothy Timid and Miss Janet Lawton as Maria. Miss Winnie Kennedy does well as Gretchen.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson. — A special feature of this week's programme is Mrs. John Lawson as Fay Faber in the sketch, A Devil's Sunday, supported by several clever artists. Jack Lane, an excellent pianist, keeps the house in roars with his patter and comic songs; and a pathetic domestic episode, His Birthday, is smartly played by Mr. and Mrs. Royston Dene and company. Other attractive turns are given by Sibb and Sibb (Gertrude and Willie), double trapeze artists; Stephens and Kennion, eccentric dancers; Edie Anderson, expert dancer; Jean Seul, clever illusionist; and Stanley and Grennop, in a speciality banjo act.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs W. H. Broadhead and Son; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—A bright and attractive bill is presented here this week. Henry Herne and company, in their romantic episode, Colleen Bawn, with a real water scene, are well received; the comical juggling act by Olms and Carbeth gets much appreciation; the Japanese art of self-defence is well shown by the Olympian Lady Jiu-jitsu Troupe; and other turns include Mayme Cannon, comedienne; Madge Allen, comedienne and dancer; Wilfred Gregory, Canadian flexible marvel; Lindsay and Harte, in The Scotchman and the Heiress; and Ian Maclaren, Scottish tenor.

STRETFORD PAVILION. — Proprietor, Mr. Sidney Weatherilt; Manager, Mr. Fred Erick.—Another good bill this week includes Miss Clairette Florence, soprano vocalist; Tom E. Swift, eccentric comedian; Walter Conila, double-voiced vocalist; Arthur Wake, baritone; Marie Riviers, comedienne; and Stratton Wells, versatile comedian.

SCARBOROUGH.—THE AQUARIUM. — Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—The Three Moxons, Continental acrobatic comedians, give a diverting and well-finished entertainment; Morimura, Japanese illusionist, is an adept at his art, and exhibits cleverness in all his tricks; and George Bernard, actor vocalist, always has the ear of a local audience, and acts creditably. O'Malley and Brown present a sketch, Pal of Mine, which is brimful of original ideas; Richardson Taylor, society entertainer, gives pleasure to all who listen to his sketches and imitations; Mollie Seymour (comedienne and violinist, is deservedly applauded for her skill; Mme. Marie Levante's orchestra of ladies, Vernon's Imperial Bioscope, the troupe of lady swimmers, and Jennion's Fantoches complete the programme.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Geo. Zalva.—James Brady, comedian, causes considerable laughter with his songs, and delivers his contributions in good style; James Shields, one-legged dancer, shows much ability, and is well received; Belle Ray is still retained with her illustrated songs, and has become a permanent favourite; the Two Daniels, negro comedians, score with their patter, which is richly humorous; and the animated pictures that are shown are of considerable interest and much appreciated.

SEACOMBE.—IRVING THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. James Kiernan. Engaged here are Harry Harper's Clifton Banjo Party, who render a selection in excellent style; Ye Players, in a smart drawing-room entertainment; Andy Griffin, Scotch comedian; Adeler and Sutton's Pierrots; and the Minster Quartette, all of whom do capital work.

SHEERNESS.—PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Phil Reymond.—A capital company here gives great satisfaction. Valson is a smart musical comedian; Miss Florrie Laurel a clever coon singer; the Sakerbonners have struck oil with their musical act, Our Compound Mixture; Mr. Phil Reymond fully maintains his reputation as a comedian; Miss Topsy Levane, too, scores as a low comedy actress; and the Aurendel Company concludes with a screaming comedy sketch, Matrimony.

SHEFFIELD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—On Monday Mr. Ernest E. Norris and company began the second week of their engagement here before a good audience in An Ideal Husband. As Sir Robert Chilters, Mr. Ernest Norris acted with ease and naturalness; Mr. Austin Melroy cleverly delivered the polished epigrams of Viscount Goring; and well-played parts were the Earl of Caversham of Mr. Edward S. Petley and the Viscount de Nunyar of Mr. Frederick Tyrrell. Miss Vera Beringer was a graceful representative of the fascinating Mrs. Cheveley; and other carefully-acted characters were the Mr. Montford of Mr. R. Noble, the Lady Chilters of Miss Enid Ross, and the Lady Markby of Miss Kate Chard.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—Between the Lights is again delighting local audiences. The acting, scenery, and effects are all good.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Lumsay.—A crowded and enthusiastic house welcomed Mr. Watson Mills's company on Monday in the interesting play A Wrecker of Men. Miss Ruth Zillwood as the fascinating reincarnation of the Egyptian enchantress, Risca, was the embodiment of all the personal graces which have made man the slave of woman since the world began, and she acted with sustained power and emotional ability. Miss Gwendolyn Talbot made a pretty and sympathetic Doris, and Miss Beatrice Reynolds was a vivacious Varisole. As the Priest of Isis, Mr. Sydney Rennef acted with dignity; Mr. Percy Horton was good as the hero, Guise Strange; Mr. Leslie Ross made an amusing Reggie; Mr. Miller Anderson was effective as the silent witness, Railton; Mr. Syd Renouf did well as the Jew, Isaacs; and a fine, forcible, and breezy impersonation was Mr. Eric Campbell's Jim Murley. The scenery was first-rate.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—A first-rate array of talent is engaged here this week, including Mr. Bransby Williams, in his fine impersonations from Shakespeare and Dickens; Donaldson Bros., Ardell, and pantomime troupe in their ever-welcome absurdity, Fun at the Zoo; Miss Maud Mortimer, a favourite burlesque actress; Miss Nelly Coleman, in her funny low-comedy male impersonations; Mr. Dome, the smart and diverting clay-modeller; the Norman-Leonard Trio, instrumentalists; the American Comedy Four, vocalists; the Howes, second-sight artists; Miss Nora Emerland, dancer; and the Bioscope, with new humorous films.

GRAND THEATRE. — Proprietors, The Vaudeville Syndicate; Manager, Mr. David Warwick.—Mr. T. W. Barrett, the original "nobleman's son"; Mr. T. C. Callaghan, vocal comedian; Miss Susie Marney, serio-comic; Burnette and Conri, in a novel act; the Pallister animated pictures; and Peter Gotz, strong man, are delighting large audiences here.

FITZALAN HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Edward Ranier.—Drama and varieties are doing good business nightly.

CENTRAL HALL.—Lessees, Jasper Redfern and Co., Ltd.—The Two Gentrys give a very amusing sketch; and Alpho submits a novel ventriloquial turn. Laurina Lindburg is a vocalist of considerable merit; and Shawlene, the whistling genius, provides an excellent entertainment. The animated pictures, as usual, are up to date, and include "Norway's Derby," "The Police Dogs" (showing dogs at work catching criminals), and a very amusing one, "Catch the Kid."

SHREWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Business-Manager, Mr. W. C. Dornton.—Mr. T. R. Nugent's company is here this week with the musical drama The Little Earl. Mr. W. Dewhurst acts creditably as Harry Dare; Mr. H. Compton makes a good villain as King Ashton; Mr. A. Martin as Reggie Clavering, a dude, merits praise; and Mr. T. R. Nugent, in the character-part of Billie Barton, works hard and successfully. Miss Maggie Gardiner as Belle Langrish plays conscientiously and well; Miss C. Davies makes a smart barmaid; Miss Jean Berresford is a bright Elsie Woodford; and Miss Gladys Greet is attractive as Claire Sidney. Interesting variety turns enliven the piece.

SOUTHAMPTON. — GRAND THEATRE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fredk. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. Arthur Weston.—Mrs. Morton Powell's company is this week appearing in When It Was Dark. The exacting rôle of Gertrude Hunt is remarkably well played by Miss Hilda Beverley. Mr. W. J. Butler as Constantine Schuabe, Mr. Edward Valentine as Sir Robert Llewellyn, and Mr. E. Stanton Sharp as the Rev. Basil Gortre, are all excellent; and Mrs. Morton Powell acts with charming grace as Helena Byars.

PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. William Trussell.—The French conjurer Melot is wonderfully clever, and mystifies everyone; the Three Sisters Sprightly delight all with their sparkling numbers; and a touch of sensationalism is added to the programme by the performance of Le Diabelo, a wonderful trick cyclist. Other turns are given by Oakdene, ventriloquist; Mulvey and Miriam, in In the Study; Le Cren Trio, in a military absurdity; Olive and Owen, vocalists; and Lily Stewart, comedienne.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors and Managers, Messrs. W. de Frece and F. Mouillot; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. P. Howell.—The Ten Loonies score a tremendous success in their act Dotty; Haydn's Marionettes submit another clever performance; and Francini, Ollom, and Page give a smart musical and acrobatic turn, which meets with great favour. Peggy Lennie and Walter Hast appear in The Sea Nymph; and Violet Carlyle scores with her pretty "Mountain maid" song. Forest and King, Ike Scott and Son, and Jeanie Hartley also shine.

PIER PAVILION.—Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Salt.—"The Medleys," directed by Mr. Wallis Arthur, provide the attraction at this resort. The trio of humorists, Messrs. Wallis Arthur, George Blackmore, and J. M. Campbell, are all splendid; whilst Miss Carrie Herwin (contralto) and Mr. Francis Ludlow (baritone), sing delightfully. Mr. George Swaine plays the piano in accomplished style.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—EMPIRE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. Montague Beaudyn provides this week's attraction with the Russian melodrama, A Beautiful Fiend, the mounting and effects of which are good. Mr. Herbert Skardon gives a masterly study of Ivan Paulovitch; in the hands of Mr. Harry C. Robinson the villainy of Count Fedor is strikingly portrayed; Mr. Matt Russell is eminently suited as Sergius Strogoff, and his humiliation is a notable feature; Mr. Dick Seddon proves popular as Christopher Crackles, as also does Miss Marie Fontaine as Patty Woodlands, both causing great merriment; Miss Violet Ingram characterises with grace and dignity the rôle of Nadine Karateff; and Wanda Lubinoff has in Miss Sidney Crowe an interpreter of great ability.

PIER PAVILION.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—This week's attraction, as provided by "The Scarleteers," under the direction of Mr. Charles Hinchcliff, is of an exceptional character, and for the creditable manner in which they entertain a return visit would receive as cordial a welcome as is afforded them this visit. From the opening chorus it is apparent that a capital and enjoyable programme is in store, and which is more pronounced by the jolly and agreeable manner in which the songs and choruses, duets, quartettes, &c., are rendered, all of which gaining hearty applause. Mr. Charles Hinchcliff has a selection of good songs, and his contributions meet with entire approval; Miss Lilian Sanders sings blithely and well, and with Miss Rosa Mellish, whose items are delightfully and cleverly executed, add much to the success of the excellent programme. Miss Nora Wallis, too, is no less successful in her endeavours, sings well, and dances with ease and skill. The humorous element is provided by Mr. Alex. B. Gilbert, who deserves special mention for his taking and clever way of amusing. Mr. Oldbury Brough, who accompanies throughout, also gains distinction for his humorous interludes.

PIER HILL BANDSTAND.—Sole Lessee, Mr. H. E. Angless.—Although the weather for the past fortnight has not been favourable for outdoor entertainments, it has not marred the success of Mr. Ballard Brown's concerts. Vast crowds daily have really enjoyable programmes submitted, and capital business is being done.

SOUTHPORT.—OPERA HOUSE, WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietors, The Southport Opera House and Winter Gardens Co., Ltd.; Secretary, Mr. R. Singleton.—Mr. Albert Chevalier opened on Monday evening. The first part of the programme included four songs, which were rendered in the well-known style of the inimitable coster impersonator. Mr. Chevalier next appeared in the title-rôle of Mr. J. M. Barrie's fantastic play, The Pantaloon, and acquitted himself with success. Subsequently the quaint musical play, The Dream of His Life, written by himself, was presented, in which Mr. Chevalier, in the part of Peter Pinder, has plenty of scope for a display of versatility, his capital impersonation of the character securing well-deserved applause. Mr. Chevalier is very ably supported by a specially-selected company, including Mr. Julian Cross.

ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee, Mrs. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—Maurin's marvellous fountains presented beautiful kaleidoscopic effects, and concluded with an attractive scene, entitled The Water Nymphs. Other popular items were contributed by Stewart and Morgan, in their vocal scena, Leaving Ireland; the Three Sisters Urma, triple trapeze artists; the Six Æolians, in their vocal and dancing act; the Zancigs, in their marvellous demonstrations; Chris Van Berne, comedian and banjoist; Ridiculous Recco, in a burlesque acrobatic sketch, How to Become an Acrobat; Geo. W. Nicholson, Yorkshire humorist; Charlie Williams, Scottish negro and big-boot dancer; and the Parkerscope, with the latest animated pictures.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The Hour of Her Triumph is being presented by Mr. Fred J. Webb's company to enthusiastic audiences. Rose Denton is powerfully portrayed by Miss Barbara Gott; Mr. Fred J. Webb as Eugene Harbury plays in a convincing manner; Miss M. Danvers Smith gains sympathy as Nellie Clavering; and Linda Denton has a charming exponent in Miss Mamie Stanton. Mr. T. O. Stephenson does well as Jack Vernon; Miss Lalla Price in the double rôle of Martha Jinks and Sal Soaker plays excellently; Mr. Leslie Hawkins makes the most of his opportunities as Harold Clavering; Mr. James Stuart hits off the romantic lover, Rosenis Montmorency, in good style; and great merriment is caused by Mr. Louis Nanton as Ben Brodie and Miss Hetty Gale as Jennie Jinks.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. R. Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allan; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—An excellent bill is headed by Ben Hur, whose feats of strength arouse hearty applause. Livesey and Rosebery, assisted by Albert Mason, appear to great advantage in The Would-be Actors; clever character impersonations are submitted by C. Randolph King; Roma and Romani provide an enjoyable musical turn; Victor Travers, coon singer, is entertaining. The programme also includes other attractive items in the Northern Troupe of International Dancers; the Twin Bros. Dean, smart dancers and whistlers, Maude Jestor, ballad vocalist, and the Bioscope.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors, Messrs. J. K. Hall and Joseph Sweeney; Business-Manager, Mr. Harry Burns.—A welcome return visit is being paid by the Universal Picture Company, with an excellent series of new films.

SPENNYMOOR.—CAMBRIDGE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Hugh Robertson; General-Manager, Mr. Lloyd Clarance; Resident-Manager, Mr. David Collins.—Lieut. Albini, illusionist and sleight-of-hand expert, with an attractive series of pictures, met with capital support here last week. This week local patrons are witnessing with pleasure the second visit of At the World's Mercy, a bright little comedy-drama, which is being toured under the ripe and skilled direction of Mr. Charles Herman. Miss Cissie Melford bears much of the burden of the piece, and in the rôles of Kitty and Skittles, two very dissimilar characters, she displays great abilities. She has an admirable help-mate in Mr. Jess Boxer, who fills the rôle of Charlie Smart in smart style; Mr. Carr Loates gives great satisfaction as Captain Manley; and Miss Madge Devereux submits a truly womanly impersonation of Alice Leigh. Tiny Carrie Johnson gives a pleasing performance of Dot, which reflects the greatest credit upon those responsible for her training; Mr. Edward Rawlinson as Jabez Barber, and Mr. G. W. Knight as Morris Goldstein, depict in glowing colours a pair of despicable scoundrels.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—Messrs. Pitt and Halling's company is here this week in £1,000 Reward. Miss Daisy Halling is highly successful as Mme. Sanson; Miss Lynn Darlington is excellent as Meg, being heartily encored for her singing; Miss Rose Conroy is admirably suited to the part of Kitty; and Mrs. Sidney Halling does well as Mrs. McCarthy. Mr. Fred Wilberforce gives a masterly exposition of Gilbert Lisle; and as Fred Ingleford, Mr. J. N. Cowling is effective. Mr. Charles Halling appears with credit as Vincent Rainsworth; and Mr. Frank Dallas does exceedingly well as Inspector Gilbert. Mr. Joe English makes a smart Dick Springthorpe; Mr. Arthur Merton is good as Fighting Jeppe; as is also Mr. Frank J. Pitt as Fred Ingleford, jun.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford, Sley, and Wilmot; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. Vic Carnell.—Frank Purcell's comedy company create roars of laughter here in the sketch, Three Husbands; another excellent sketch, which is exceedingly well received, is My Burglar, presented by Harry Thorpe and company; Miss Edie Veno, comedienne, has made a hit; the Brothers Durant are enthusiastically applauded; and other good turns include Miss Mamie Iris, comedienne; the Veckeys, banjoists; Jack Rae, comedy gymnast; and Miss Elise May, vocalist.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Revill, jun.—This week the drama, The Woman from Scotland Yard, is being played. The chief part is that of Paul Obanoff, and Mr. Alex. C. Grant gives a powerful impersonation of the character. Miss Emily Money makes a stately Lady Stanhope; Miss Chrissie Dunbar acts the title-rôle with charming grace and effect; Mr. George Edwin Clive is very commendable as Harry Stanhope; and Mr. John L. Schofield efficiently presents the part of Ivan Vassilietch. A pleasing vein of comedy runs through the piece, capitally provided by Mr. Walter Clarke as Algernon Fitzmaurice, Mr. Robert Cromwell as Jack Brown, and Miss Sidney Barrisford as Mary.

EMPIRE, LTD.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Black.—The Yiulians Family of clever acrobats are the chief attraction here this week; Lionel Vaughan's comedy sketch company, appearing in In Trouble, has caused boisterous laughter; W. G. Webber, bass vocalist, has been enthusiastically received; Phil Herman, comedian, was very successful; Vandinoff gave a clever display of quick picture-painting; Eric Johns, tenor vocalist, was pleasingly greeted; and Carson Hicks showed ability as a vocalist and dancer.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—HIPPODROME THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Robt. A. Nicholson; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Geo. Stainton. — Libby Blondelle and her Four Johnnies are here this week, and present a novel musical show, which is greatly appreciated; Solari Duo, operatic vocalists, &c., are accorded an enthusiastic reception for their display; Stanley's Urchins are a troupe of excellent vocalists and dancers; and Gillin provides an amusing ventriloquial entertainment. Derenda and Green are a pair of comedy jugglers; and Earle and Melville, patter comedians, are well received. Mme. Du Roche is greatly admired in her soprano songs; and the Selbinis are greatly appreciated in their cycling and acrobatic feats. Henderson, the concertina king, is also well received.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Councillor J. Batty; Manager, Mr. W. Batty.—Leslie Brothers head the bill this week, and are very amusing as the mad musicians; W. B. Raby is a quaint comedian; and Anna Kenwick is well received for her song and dance. Bert Williams is a pleasing ventriloquist; and Wright and Lawson are a pair of funny comedians. The Jansons present a novel gymnastic act; and Johnson and Wells are greatly admired as vocalists and dancers. Fred Sinclair and Grace Whiteford cause great amusement in their sketch, Getting Even; and the pictures complete the programme.

STOKE.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr T. Allan Edwards; Manager, Mr. H. Miller.—Mr. J. Gar Kiddie's company head the bill in The House of Tinn, which is screamingly funny, Mr. Kiddie in his part being exceedingly clever. The Sisters Geretti, in their trapeze performance, contribute a truly wonderful act; scenes from Dickens are admirably given by Miss Eva Hope and Mr. Jack Wayho; Phil Bransby, as a coster comedian, is capital; the Brassos, in their acrobatic performance, are smart and clever; Little Salvino, in a musical turn, does well; the Sages have good business, and dance admirably; Bertha Norwood is a pleasing songstress and dancer; and the pictures are good.

SUNDERLAND.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Stevens and Buchanan. — Mr. Thomas Sidney's company is here in The Marriage of Kitty. The curtain-raiser is John Aylmer's Dream.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Sunderland Theatres Co., Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Jas. Hemingway.—Mrs. F. Wybert Clive's The Branded Woman company is here. Mr. James Stillwell as the artist hero is seen to advantage; Mr. Walter Steele scores in the heavier rôle of Leon; an excellent rendition of Louis Duroc is submitted by Mr. Ed. Lowrie; and Mr. W. Cowell Clarke's study of Zarka is also admirable. The comedy element is contributed in no small degree by Mr. Harry Liddle, in his portrayal of Dick Brown; Mr. F. Wybert Clive, in addition to supporting the rôle of Paul Fleuret, is in evidence as director in front; Miss Lilian Ross proves capable in the difficult part of the title-rôle, Genevieve Laroche; Miss Alice Campbell does excellently as Countess Daphne; and Miss Maude Elliott is equally good as Marie; whilst a word of praise is due to Miss Isabel Hunt for a smart rendition of the soubrette part of Jacqueline. Miss May Warden is also good in the juvenile rôle of Rudolph; and Miss Rose Franklin ably fills the part of Mme. Crevier.

PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Lessees, United County Theatres, Ltd.; Acting-Managers, Messrs. Browne and Stringer.—The Stein-Eretto troupe's turn of hand-acrobatic balancing is novel and clever; Arthur Conquest's pantomimic sketch, The Sioux, is interesting; Harry and Elsie Mayville's marionette duets are well worth seeing; Fanny and Harry Dent score in their musical comedy sketch, Mary and the Squire; Patta Bella, comedienne, Rae Walters, comedienne, J. C. Scatter, comedian and dancer, and the Biograph pictures complete the programme.

SWANSEA. — THE GRAND.—Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Brooks and Woodbridge; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Oswald Brooks; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Dean.—For the second week of his engagement at the Grand, Mr. Norman MacOwen presented on Monday to a capital house A Bunch of Violets. Mr. Philip Marchant, the greatly-troubled aristocrat, received clever treatment from Mr. MacOwen; Miss Violet Sterne as Lady Marchant fully justifies the excellent opinions formed of her last week; the impersonation of Mrs. Murgatroyd by Miss Lester Stephens was marked all through by ability; as was the Violet of Miss Mary Masters. As Mark Murgatroyd Mr. Sidney R. Palfrey was successful; Mr. Murray Hathorn's Lord Mount Sorrell was excellent; and as the Hon. Harold Ingles Mr. Arthur Linay was successful. Mr. Arthur Somers as Jacob Schwartz leaves nothing to be desired Miss Isabel Hathorn, as the maid, created a good impression.

THE STAR.—Manager, Mr. William Coutts; Assistant-Manager, Mr. S. J. Powell.—The Power of Gold is being presented by Mr. Frank Ayrton's company. Mr. George Lyttleton's portrayal of the fiendish Hadgi Zambria is well done; and Mr. R. P. Stacey acts well as Paul Judson. Excellent work is performed by Miss Lily Prescott as Meg Judson; comedy is ably provided by Mr. Frank Ayrton and Miss Madge Seymour; the impersonation of Lady Brandon by Miss Amy McNeill was a powerful one.

THE EMPIRE, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. Mitchell; Assistant-Manager, Mr. P. C. Rowe.—The Boisset Troupe, in The Bricklayers, keep the audience in one roar of laughter. That charming comedienne, Marguerite Broadfoote, renders her songs in her best style; an artistic performance is provided by Powell's Marionettes; Ross and Lewis, in Fits and Misfits, give a clever exhibition of dancing; Frank Couch has a good song and some good stories, which he tells well; high-class selections by Grace Morton are features of the bill; the Phydoras, in an eccentric musical act, do well, as do also the Sisters Chester, dancers and instrumentalists. Bioscope pictures complete the programme.

TORQUAY. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Licensee and Managing-Director, Mr. W. H. Mortimer; Secretary, Mr. Arthur Pearse.—Mr. Charles Harrington's company, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, opened on Monday. In the title-rôle Mr. J. Carr gave a capital representation; Mr. Charles Harrington as Phineas Fletcher did very well; and as George Harris Mr. Leslie Beaufort was daring and courageous; whilst as Eliza Miss Hero Hathaway acted with peculiar tenderness and pathos. Mr. Albert G. Wray as Mr. St. Clair was all that could be desired; and Miss Jenny Malcolm as Aunt Ophelia was quaintly funny. The part of Little Eva was excellently taken by Miss Holly Hazelwood; Miss Hettie Johnson was good as Casey; and Mr. J. Henry Rogers as the hard, unfeeling Legree, was strikingly brutal.

TYNEMOUTH.—PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—Jack Mills, comedian, has a budget of good songs; another capital turn is that of Phern and Phern, in a clever musical act; the Soho Trio contribute some excellent dances; Gravelta and Parr are versatile entertainers; and Dorothy Lawson Taylor, vocalist; Frances Kapstoune, comedienne; and the Bioscope, complete.

VENTNOR (Isle of Wight).—THE PAVILION.—The Pink Carnations concert party, under the management of Mr. Harold Perry, opened a three nights' engagement here on Monday. Special mention may be made of the duets by Miss Nellie Barnwell and Mr. Harold Perry; the solos by Miss Gipsy Dale and Mr. H. V. Crofton; and the humorous sketches of Mr. Cuthbert Rose; whilst Mr. Bert Patterson rendered valuable assistance at the piano. Mr. Burton Yaldwyn is the business-manager for the party.

WAKEFIELD.—ROYAL OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Sherwood and Co.—The drama, Under the Russian Flag, is presented here this week by Mr. Jack Haddon's company. The part of General Romanoff is admirably played by Mr. George Cecil Murray; Mr. Sidney Arnold does well as Michael; and Mr. Charles Stafford is able as Ivan. Mr. Jack Haddon gives a forcible impersonation as Captain Demetrius; Mr. Hal Forde as Peter, Mr. Templar Ellis as Alexis, and Miss Molly Hackett as Ogaritz creditably provide the humorous element. Colonel Souvaroff is cleverly depicted by Mr. W. Wilson; Miss Marie Rayner charms the audience with her graceful and womanly portrayal as Luka Marischia; and Miss Violet Lytton is good as Vera Vassiloff.

HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The Dayton Family of Risley performers head the bill here, with feats of exceptional cleverness and daring; another smart and interesting turn is provided by the Cecilian Family, including Prof. T. Wigham, concertina soloist; the Milford Brothers, on the trapeze, prove very popular; W. Belleau and company, in a comedy sketch, A Night's Frivolity, cause much merriment; Frank Coyle, comedian, is applauded; the Hannaway Brothers, comedians, and the Harry Sansone Trio, in a speciality act, ably contribute.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. F. Willmot.—Louis Hardt, considering his stature, supplies a wonderful performance in feats of strength; Palles and Cussick are again seen in their droll episode, The Funny Side of Life; the Brothers Diamond are seen to advantage in a speciality act; and Arthur Slater is an exceptionally smart siffleur. Donald MacDougal is a quaint Scotch comedian; and Daisy Snow a favourite comedienne. Moon and Morris are capital comedians; and the pictures detailing the Gunner Moir Fight are good.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—GRAND.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Granville; Manager, Mr. Herbert Feather.—The Sporting King is being presented this week by a company including the author, Mr. Charles Whitlock; Mike Crawley, the celebrated London boxer; and Tom Lancaster, the middle-weight champion of England. Mr. Whitlock gives a powerful impersonation of Joe Brave, the old champion, and makes the character a vividly realistic one; as the old Squire Stamford Mr. Harry Richardson portrays the character to the life; Mr. Arthur Chisholm is well suited as the Squire's son, David; the villainy of Renard is ably depicted by Mr. Leonard Yorke; Jessie Lane has a capital representative in the naïve and lively Miss Eva Reed; much dramatic power is displayed by Miss Lilla Wilde in the rôle of Freena Basilk; the comedy, in the hands of Mr. Alfred Terriss as Jack Sharpe, is amusing; and the rendering of the persecuted Joan Brave by Miss Georgina V. France calls forth the warmest admiration.

PALACE. — Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Julius Simpson.—A programme excellent in every item is submitted here this week. Roze and Calvert, the comedy couple, are responsible for boisterous laughter; the Marconis, electrical wonders, cause amazement; Mr. Chas. Diamond and Miss Beatrice discourse sweet music on harp and saxophone; Otto and Olga are clever and unmistakably funny; Burns and Bentley, in simultaneous dancing, are clever; Graham and Barron, comedians and dancers, have a good reception; and an excellent gymnastic display is contributed by the Zelovas.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—GRAND PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. John H. Stevenson.—Mr. John Ridding's Opera Company is paying a welcome return visit. On Monday, in Maritana, Miss Kitty Brownless, with voice of rare purity, in the title-rôle, gained unstinted applause; the Lazarillo of Miss Jessie Dennis was exceptionally good; and it would be impossible to praise too highly Mr. John Riddings's impersonation of Don José; and Mr. Charles Le Sueur's Don Cæsar is entitled to the highest eulogy. The Bohemian Girl, The Lily of Killarney, Il Trovatore, and The Daughter of the Regiment are in the week's bill.

KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. Francis Everard's company is making its first appearance here in The Sorrows of Satan and Shadows of a Great City. Mr. Francis Everard gave an intensely dramatic interpretation of Prince Lucio Rimanez; Miss Vera Fordyce showed histrionic art above the average as Lady Sybil; there was plenty of low comedy in Mr. Arthur Ferris's Morris; and Mr. M. Morley Carrol acted with distinction as Mr. Geoffrey Tempest.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, the Stanley Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Mark H. Lindon.—The smart dancing and clever tumbling of the Poole-Pelhams provides a neat and refined turn; the Four Maisanos, musical eccentrics, give a clever and humorous act; Mr. Geo. Westland is a smart Scotch comedian, who sings and patters well; and Sandy and Carl are a pair of all-round fun-providers, being responsible for some good dancing, boxing, and tumbling; Halma is a juggler who thoroughly understands his tricky business; the Three Zednas are smart dancers and vocalists; Miss Maggie Dilston is a charming little singer, her pretty face and sweet voice making her a general little favourite; Harry Burns's Juveniles are marvels of child training, who present a fine scena, entitled The Waif.

WIGAN.—ROYAL COURT THEATRE.—Proprietors, the Wigan Entertainments Co.—Mr. Harry Starr and company are here in The Unseen Power. Mr. Starr as Fred Granville plays the part with much strength of character and resource; Mr. Edwin Firth as Antonio is capital; and Mr. Will Hee as George Granville, and Mr. Fred W. Graham as Horatio Cracklesby, take honours. Lucretia Granville is ably impersonated by Miss Kate Norris; and Miss Madge Blundell gives an admirable representation of Anita Romano.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. C. W. Collings.—This week the Musical Palmers, five in number, who are great favourites with Wrexham audiences, make a welcome re-appearance in their refined musical and military entertainment; Miss Daisy Palmer, one member of the family, who does a single turn, is a delightful comedienne and danseuse; Arnotti scores in an eccentric musical show; Rex and Ford are amusing patter comedians; the Days give a mystifying second-sight performance; and some excellent "pictures" complete a most interesting programme.

CHARLES FRY'S RECITALS.

The debt of gratitude which the student of Shakespeare owes to Mr. Charles Fry was added to on Saturday, when an opportunity was given of witnessing Troilus and Cressida for the first time since the poet's death. Such neglect of the piece is hardly surprising, for the representation of Saturday showed that however rich in dialogue the play may be, it is unfitted for the stage. The episodic nature of the work was plainly apparent, and the scenes, except in a few instances, seemed to bear little relation to each other. Shakespeare's Troilus and Cressida, in its first form, appears to have been written and played about 1603, while an adaptation by Dryden, with the subtitle of Truth Found Out Too Late, was produced at the theatre in Dorset Gardens in 1679. Mr. Fry, by whom the piece has been adapted and produced, has followed the cuts suggested in Sir Henry Irving and Mr. Frank Marshall's edition of Troilus and Cressida. The interview between Helen and Paris, which appeared in Mr. Fry's version, scarcely justified its retention; but the omission of the death of Hector, which Mr. Fry considers to be unworthy of the Achilles, was a wise move, which gave added significance to the latter scene when the event was related by Troilus. As a contribution to contemporary dramatic lore the production is of distinct value, and Mr. Fry is to be commended for his enterprise. The customary care was displayed in the allotment of the characters, and though there were some weak points in the cast, an artistic treat was in many cases provided. Mr. Lewis Casson, who is again lent to Mr. Fry by the Court management, was a superb exponent of Troilus. He lacked nothing in manly dignity, and though occasionally he hurried the lines, he was always audible. His love-scene with Cressida was tender and delicate, while his impassioned and vehement outburst after witnessing the perfidy of his betrothed so affected the audience that the clever young actor was repeatedly recalled. The refinement and delicacy of Miss Olive Kennett was employed with effect in the part of Cressida. The sincerity of Cressida's love for Troilus was finely expressed, and made all the more effective her gradual yielding to Diomedes, the reluctance which takes possession of Cressida when she looks on her first love token being indicated with rare art. Mr. Fry contented himself with the part of Thersites, the deformed Grecian, of which he made the utmost. The waspish retorts of Thersites were made very droll, and not one went unrewarded with a laugh. A conspicuous success of the afternoon was the Cassandra of Miss Winifred Rae, whose raven locks adorning a face of marked beauty gave character to the part of the Prophetess. Her doleful accents lent a weird rhythm to the lines, and the rendering was a most impressive one, which called forth repeated cheers. The fine physique of Mr. Patrick Munro marked him out as an ideal exponent of Hector, and his ringing voice sounded effectively in the declamatory lines. The long speeches of Ulysses were well maintained by Mr. Arthur Broughton, who acted well, and exhibited praiseworthy perfection in the knowledge of his lines. Mr. Vernon Cartwright was a handsome Diomedes, acting with infinite tact in his scene with the faithless Cressida; and Ajax was invested with the sheepish qualities proper to the part by Mr. William Stewart. Mr. H. A. Rourke was a stately King of Troy; and Paris was discreetly impersonated by Mr. Arthur W. Steed. Mr. J. K. Maclean outlined the character of Agamemnon clearly and distinctly; Mr. W. J. R. Cane was an elderly but volatile Pandarus, making much of his opportunities, which included a song; and Mr. Stanley Leverton was a dignified Nestor. Mr. T. Rowbotham did well as Patroclus; and Mr. William Anning was a comely Achilles, and acquitted himself of his duties with grace and skill. Miss Annie Williams's Andromache was an impersonation of distinct promise. The actress has youth and freshness on her side, and sympathy was compelled by the natural pathos of her acting. Mrs. E. J. Way was a regal Queen Helen; and Miss Frances Edmonds displayed a strikingly weird make-up as Hecuba. Miss Dora Keith betokened an intelligent appreciation of the part of a boy; and Mr. T. Milford doubled the rôles of servant to Cressida and also to Paris. A prepossessing impression was created by Mr. Guy Cooper, who spoke the prologue with spirit and admirable elocution. As is customary with Mr. Fry's recitals, the play was given on a draped stage, but the costumes were very elaborate; and Mr. Arthur Fox's music aided the production, which was greatly appreciated by a large audience.

Contrary to his usual practice, Mr. Fry, in association with Miss Olive Kennett, is giving his recitals daily, and Monday evening saw the revival of The Comedy of Errors, which was divided into five scenes. The play is an admirable example of Shakespeare's constructive skill, and the ingenuity of the story kept the house alive with mirth throughout the evening. With few exceptions, the piece was rattled through with remarkable smartness and verve, and the conflicting adventures of the twin Antipholi and their similarly-related servants kept the audience in a constant state of pleasing bewilderment. The responsibilities of the brothers were shared with equal credit by Mr. Arthur Broughton and Mr. Patrick Munro, the former actor being suitably bright and buoyant as the Syracusan hero. Mr. Munro exhibited his customary cleverness in the rôle of the Ephesian youth, his fine delivery giving effective aid to the lines. Alike in appearance as well as drollery were the Two Dromios of Mr. Chas. Fry and Mr. C. Francis. The richness of the humour of the Dromio of Syracuse was markedly increased by the mellowness of Mr. Fry's style; and Mr. Francis as the Dromio of Ephesus employed a wealth of comic resource with irresistible effect. The tribulations of Adriana were borne with charming fortitude by Miss Olive Kennett, who gave a true touch of comedy to many of the speeches placed in the mouth of the Ephesian's wife, while her perturbation and solicitude for her husband's safety were expressed with captivating grace. The classic beauty of Miss Muriel Hutchinson added to the attractiveness of her performance of Luciana, and a sympathetic voice and a refined manner completed the excellence of her rendering. The stately bearing and gentleness of the Abbess were successfully assumed by Mrs. E. J. Way; and Ægeon, was represented with intelligence by Mr. Stanley Leverton, whose delivery of the merchant's long speeches was carefully emphasised. Mr. H. A. Rourke won laughter by his eccentricities as the schoolmaster, Pinch; and the Angelo of Mr. T. Milford Cottam was a well-defined and pleasing representation. Mr. T. Rowbotham looked a truly benign Duke, and spoke with agreeable earnestness; Mr. N. C. Wetheritt gave a commendable rendering of the Officer; and the cast was completed by Mr. J. K. Maclean as a merchant and Messrs. Skinner and Oliver as soldiers. The Comedy of Errors was preceded by the quarrel scene from The School for Scandal, in which Miss Annie Williams gave a bewitching portrayal of the varying moods of the youthful Lady Teazle, and won general admiration. Mr. Arthur Fayne made up well as Sir Peter, and exhibited the old gentlemen's petulance and irritation in a manner quite in tone with the character.

AT the adjourned sitting of the Glasgow Theatrical Licence Court on Monday all the applications for the renewal of licences for the various places of amusement in the city were granted, with the exception of that for the Theatre Royal, which was continued pending the completion of alterations.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BERLIN, THURSDAY, May 30.—This old-new piece has become the success of the late season, and will certainly prove the most popular play in the New Schauspielhaus bill. Wilkens was one of the fathers of the Berlin burlesque-farce, the original Hopfenrath's Erben having flourished more than thirty years ago. But little is left of the author's work, properly speaking; the couplets and many of the episodes having been added, while the great hit of the present piece is a parody of Salome, written by the well-known composer of light music, Bogumil Zepler. This was in the hands of Frau Schneider (Salome), Herr Walden (Herodes), and Herr Ernst Arndt (Jochanaan), and was irresistibly comical, played and sung as it was most cleverly. The "Dance of the Seven Veils"—perhaps the clou of the parody—executed by these smart comedians is a thing to be remembered, and the composer has drawn some of his best bits from Schumann, Wagner, and even Strauss himself, with fine impartiality. As regards the plot of the piece itself it is simplicity personified, as were ever the plots of the good old farces. Good, honest work finally succeeds, the parvenu's pride receives its well-merited fall, and the firm of "Hopfenrath's Erben" regains the high standing it had lost by foolish speculations. The piece was capitally acted down to the smallest detail, but the principal laurels were gained by the trio of artists above mentioned.

At the Luisen Theatre a novelty was recently produced making exactly the opposite impression to that calculated upon. It was a four-act drama—a "picture from life"—by S. Shorowitz, entitled Freie Liebe. A well-to-do young architect is ruined body and soul by his inamorata, with whom he resides outside the bonds of matrimony. The lady finally deserts her lover, and goes off with another to a ball while the wretched architect is dying of a broken heart. In the final act a couple of nurses appear with an ambulance to bear him to the hospital, where, we are assured, he will give up the ghost, and his mother rushes in to scream "Mein armer Sohn!" as the curtain falls. The audience—truth compels me to record—were convulsed with laughter instead of tears, and applauded the tragic passages with visible delight.

BERLIN, THURSDAY, June 6.—This is the work of a native of Alsace. It has been—astonishing to relate—the winner of a prize competition, and this fact, no doubt, influenced the management of the Schiller in the accepting of it. Public opinion here thinks the production of such a maliciously anti-Prussian piece was not either in good taste or a good stroke of business, but the gallery, at least, appeared to enjoy it thoroughly. Nobody minds a little harmless fun poked at red-tapism, but the author has entirely overshot his mark in making the Prussian Custom House officials such contemptible fellows, such impossible caricatures. Herr Dinter's spite, too, against the Prussians in general is plainly manifest in places, and altogether it would have been more judicious to have left Die Schmuggler in its native country, where it is evidently far better appreciated. The action passes in an Alsatian frontier-village, where the smuggler-king, François Sperber, has his haunts. Schimmel, the landlord of the inn, is one of Sperber's satellites, and the principal incident in the piece is the narrow escape both have from being discovered and arrested. Sperber's impudence and ready wit never desert him, and in the nick of time he manages to slip into the stolen clothes of a Prussian official and pass himself off as that person to his brother officials. The situation is distinctly humoursome, and this scene makes the chief running in the piece. The acting was capital throughout.

MISS GERALDINE FARRAR has returned from her American and Parisian triumphs to our Royal Opera. Her first reappearance was on Monday in Traviata, the opera in which she was first heard here, five years ago. The Opera House was crowded from floor to ceiling with an enthusiastic audience, the beautiful young artist receiving a welcome such as must have delighted her. Miss Farrar's voice has matured and gained in volume and roundness since her absence, and the duet sung by her and Naval (Alfred) in the fourth act was a musical treat that could not easily be surpassed.

AT the Lustspielhaus a novelty made its appearance on Saturday with very satisfactory results. It is a farce in four acts by MM. Alexander Engel and Julius Horst, entitled Die Welt ohne Männer. Plot there is little or none; the theme is much the same as that of the farce Los vom Mann, which was given here some years ago. But Fräulein Pepi Glöckner, a very popular Viennese soubrette, had splendid opportunities for the display of her versatile talents, and that for the delighted audience was the chief thing. The heroine has openly declared war against the male sex, and a couple of friends join her in the determination to withstand all masculine blandishments. The trio succeed in remaining adamant only for a time, one after the other falling a victim to the despised lords of creation. A few skilfully-placed couplets made a hit, sung as they were with much verve and charm by Fräulein Glöckner.

THE successful run of the farce-burlesque Hopfenrath's Erben was broken on Friday for a single performance of Goethe's Faust. It was an unusually even cast, and one of the best classical evenings the New Schauspielhaus has had since its opening. The only drawback was the length of the intervals, which made the performance too long for the taste of the majority of the audience. Herr Grube, the former Royal Schauspielhaus manager and an actor of great merit, gave the rôle of Mephisto. His conception is original and striking; Lucifer is more cynical and jocular than he is in the hands of most of his exponents, and the reading gains considerably in consequence. Fräulein Maren is always a most sympathetic Gretchen, and the rendering of the name-part by Herr Zimmerer was very interesting. The mounting was excellent.

WE are being literally deluged with operettas and comic operas. It is a positive epidemic. There is, to begin with, the uninterrupted sway of Leliar's Lustige Wittwe at the Theatre des Westens (whose company proper since the insolvency of the management has been scattered to the four winds of heaven), and Karl Millöcker's melodious little work, Die sieben Schwaben, has opened the Ferenczy season of summer opera at Krolls, or the New Royal Opera. In the latter work Fräulein Mia Werber, the pretty and petite original Geisha, takes the principal rôle of Kätchen and sings and acts it with all her customary charm. The remainder of the cast is satisfactory, while the exceptionally good mounting adds considerably to the attractions of the operetta, which will certainly enjoy a long lease of life. Paris, the pretty little one-act operetta, is still holding the boards of the Folies Caprice, with the Figaro company, and, finally, there is the very excellent company from the An der Wien Theatre, Vienna, at the Lessing. The Viennese guests are capital singers and actors, and the management understands the mounting of the Waltz King's operas to perfection. Thus The Bat, Der Zigeuner-Baron and other similar works are being given nightly to very appreciative audiences. Fräulein Mizi Günther creates a particularly favourable impression as Adele in Die Fledermaus; her voice is as pleasing as her appearance, while her vivacious acting carries the audience completely with her. The Lessing Theatre closes this month for a six weeks' holiday.

DIRECTOR GREGOR and his company have returned from London, and reopened at the Komische Oper. Hoffmann's Erzählungen is still filling the bill to the exclusion of all else, and will probably do so until the summer holidays commence. Herr Gregor is more than satisfied with his London season, and fully intends to go there again next year.

CRIMINAL novels and plays being the vogue here with a great portion of the population, a new piece in the style of Sherlock Holmes and water is to be produced at the Bernhard Rose Theatre to-morrow. It is entitled Der grosse Unbekannter, and the author, Herr Kurt Mattull, has laid the scene in London, depicting the life of one of the swell mob.

THE Lortzing has had to close precipitately before the close of the season in consequence of some technical difficulties of the stage, which the police authorities have discovered to be dangerous to the artists. In consequence of this state of things a number of engagements have had to be cancelled. The management is looking out for a vacant theatre to be able to continue acting until the end of June, but up to now nothing suitable has been found.

"CHARLEY'S TANTE" is being given every night at the Thalia, with Herr Thielscher in the name-part, which was created by him. The popular comedian is making a tremendous hit with it once more before leaving that theatre for the Metropol.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The students' concert on Friday evening, May 31, opened with Haydn's Quartette for Strings in G, carefully interpreted by Mr. Thomas Peatfield, Miss Gladys Raymond, Mr. Herbert Kinze, and Mr. Felix Norman Salmond. The piano solo Sonata in B flat, by Clementi, was given with neat and finished execution by Miss Adelaide Bonnar, an Associate of the Royal College and Clementi Exhibitioner, and Mr. Robert Murchie was loudly applauded for his admirably-played flute solos, Berceuse (Joachim-Andersen) and Ch. M. Widor's Scherzo. Another interesting item in the programme was Schumann's Sonata for violin and piano, in A minor, Op. 105, rendered with much ability by Miss Amy Rydings and Miss Winifred Gardiner. The songs included in the programme were A. Goring Thomas's beautiful Nocturne ("Night hymn at sea"), in which Miss H. Marie Wright's fine voice was heard to great advantage. Miss Anna Izard also deserved praise for her well-played violoncello obbligato. Although the music lay somewhat too low for the lady's voice, Miss Wena Pickering received a warm greeting from the audience for her clever singing of Secchi's "Lungi dal caro bene." Mr. Thomas Watson was also well received for two songs, "O Mary, dear" (M. V. White) and A. Jensen's "My heart's in the Highlands." A well-played organ solo, Prelude and Fugue in B minor (Bach), by Mr. Harold Rhodes, concluded the concert. There was a very large audience, and Miss Alice Cotton, A.R.C.M., ably performed the duties of accompanist.

With the exception of Bach, the programme of the orchestral concert on Thursday afternoon was devoted to the works of Glazounow, the Russian composer. In Bach's Concerto for violin and flute (Brandenburg, No. 5), with stringed orchestra, the soloists, Mr. Frank Tapp, Miss May Harrison, and Mr. Robert Murchie, were much applauded by the large audience for their skilful and finished performance. The stringed orchestra, conducted by Sir Charles V. Stanford, also greatly distinguished themselves. A. Glazounow's Two Melodies for contralto and orchestra, Chanson and Romance Orientale, were admirably sung by Miss Dilys Jones, and the same composer's Symphony No. 7 in F major beautifully rendered by the orchestra. M. Glazounow, who was warmly greeted, himself conducted the violoncello solo, "Chant au Ménestrel," Miss Beatrice M. Harrison playing with fine tone and expression. The Suite for Orchestra, "Raymonda," was also conducted by the composer. "Raymonda," is arranged from the ballet in three acts, which shows "how Jean de Brienne, the lover of Raymonda, goes to the wars to fight the infidels. While absent, Abdourahman, a Saracen, attempts to carry off Raymonda. De Brienne, however, returns in time to save her and kill the Saracen, afterwards marrying Raymonda." The ten picturesque movements were capitally played by the Royal College orchestra. At the close of the suite both band and the eminent composer received a hearty reception from the audience, one of the largest ever seen at the Royal College.

TICKETS FOR THE PLAY.

At Brompton County Court, on Monday, before Sir William Selfe, Mrs. D. Laing, of 7, Seville-street, Hyde Park, was sued by Mr. Cecil Roy, theatre-ticket agent, of 91, Knightsbridge, for £2 6s., said to be due for four stalls at the Savoy Theatre, booked by telephone in June last.

Miss Richardson, a young lady in plaintiff's employment, who was sworn on her own Testament, said that in June Mrs. Laing ordered six stalls for the Savoy, and later in the same day telephoned for four more seats, as near the others as possible. Witness was able to procure the seats, but after she had done so Mrs. Laing sent to say she found most of her party had seen the piece, and she would not want the tickets. She was told it was impossible to cancel the seats, which had been ordered specially for her, and a gentleman, who afterwards called at the agency, said he would leave the tickets on sale.

Mrs. Laing said she paid for the first lot of seats she ordered, and it was not until the following morning that she asked if she could have the refusal of the other four until six o'clock. The agents said, "Yes, if we can get them." Later defendant found she could not use the tickets, which had been sent to her house by mistake, and a friend took them back for her.

Judgment was given for the plaintiff.

THE KING AND QUEEN and the Princess Victoria were present at the performance of Lohengrin at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Monday.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

Guilty Gold, the dramatic significance of which occurs later in the play, was not found wanting in any of those essentials which go to build up a successful melodrama. The piece is redolent of humour, and the dramatic surprises should keep any audience sympathetically bound to the end. In the first act we see Elsie Middleton, the heroine, and her father, ostensibly a country gentleman, but in reality a convict on ticket of leave. Elsie is beloved by Harold Elmore, a young clergyman with "a past"—a "reformed rake," in point of fact, as his former mistress, Rhoda Hampton, jeeringly reminds him. This lady, desiring to keep Elmore unto herself, readily helps Ralph Bartlett in his scheme to possess himself of Elsie Middleton and her fortune. Accordingly, the villain presents himself as a suitor for the daughter's hand, and is repulsed by the father, whose unhappy secret he knows, and whom he at once denounces to the police. At the same time, Rhoda Hampton is pursuing the young clergyman, but it transpires that she possesses that—for her—inconvenient appendage, a husband, who has been suffering imprisonment for a crime committed by her. This husband, having made his escape, appears to the astonished wife, on vengeance bent, but speedily succumbs to her wiles, and is betrayed by her to the police. In the next act, Bartlett, who, to revive his flagging fortunes, has stolen the Duchess of Chandos' diamonds, seeks to induce Middleton, who has returned from prison, to aid him in the safe disposal of his booty, and, on Elsie frustrating his plan, he hands her over as the thief. She is, however, discharged, and Harold Elmore, who has all this time been staunch, implores her to marry. This she will not do until her father is completely reformed. Anon, Harold is beguiled to Rhoda's room, as a means of compromising him in the sight of Elsie, who, nevertheless, remains steadfast in her love and faith. An unwelcome arrival here is Martin Haldane, Rhoda's convict husband, returned from penal servitude, and once more on vengeance bent. Failing to get him in her toils again, a fierce fight ensues, in which the wanton contrives to force him, by an unexcepted coup, into a tall safe, and shutting the door, leaves him to suffocate. The dramatic moment is in the sequel to this, for one, "Toffee," on burglary intent, discovers the crime, and the body falling out, a most tense situation is created. The father, and daughter, and lovers, continue to be persecuted, but despite the villain's persuasions, Middleton refuses to be bribed and fed with "guilty gold," the proceeds of the diamond robbery; and now the diamonds themselves seem to be the primary object, for, being hidden for security in the Lea Marshes, they are appropriated by the now wild and dishevelled Rhoda, who, by the way, has developed a strong craving for brandy. The disappearance of the diamonds brings on Bartlett in hot pursuit of his false accomplice, and a desperate struggle, hand to hand, takes place between the pair, which ends in the death of both. The last scene, Cheriton Church, is devoted to the wedding of Elsie and Harold, which brings the curtain down on an exceedingly pretty set. Scenes, "Near the Willow Pond," in Act 1, "Down by the Ferry," in Act 2, outside "the Half Moon," "At Poverty Junction," and "Lea Marshes," in Acts 3 and 4, all arrested attention and applause by their beauty and completeness, and are really a credit to the local artist, Mr. Edward A. Hall. The music, by Stephen E. Blythe, is appropriate, and the author, Mr. Stanley, has good reason to be satisfied with his work.

Mr. Alex. Alexander acted and spoke with manly fervour and gained general admiration as the young clergyman, Harold Elmore. Mr. Charles Bourden elicited more than the usual execration by the thoroughness of his acting as the bigamist, blackmailing villain Ralph Bartlett. Miss Violet Crauford as the adventuress Rhoda Hampton gave one of the best-acted rôles in the drama, her passion and frenzy being fine, whilst her power and witchery were enthralling. Miss Elsie Capell gave a charming portrayal of the heroine, Elsie Middleton, full of sympathetic touches and traits. Mr. David Curtis, as John Middleton, looked and acted the part, no more and no less, the character of the ticket-of-leave man being represented as it should be, with occasional gleams of hope and touches of despair. Mr. Tom Roydan's share of the work as Martin Haldane was extremely well done, and secured much sympathy for the unhappy and despitefully used husband. Mr. Horace Stanley, the author, found a congenial rôle in "Toffee," otherwise Septimus Sweet, a humorous desperado, with a pious aversion to work. Mr. Tom E. Sinclair made one of the successes of the piece in the rôle of an exceedingly comic policeman. Miss Kate Kilpack as his sweetheart and wife, Nancy Bright, was a vivacious and clever supporter, whose little tirades gave welcome relief; and Miss Evelyn M. Walton as Bertha Blossom, with views on the rights of women, Miss Charlotte Maine as Jane Watson, a derelict, Mr. Harry Loates as the bucolic bellringer and sexton Giles, Mr. Ernest Griffiths as the bully and wife-beater Jem Huggins, Mr. Arthur E. Francis as Algernon Carruthers, Mr. Mark Lane as the aged Tobias Dobbs, and Mr. Alaric Burton as the hypocritical Uriah Fudge made the utmost of their opportunities. One more rôle, and a serious one, cleverly and pathetically played by Miss Josephine Lee, and deserving of special mention, was that of Hetty Hoyle, a village girl, betrayed by Bartlett and rescued by Elsmore, and who, having joined the Salvation Army, makes a fruitless effort to reclaim the adventuress. The verdict of the house was entirely favourable, the audience attending the progress of the play with enthusiasm, and cheering lustily at the finish.

MR. THEO. BALFOUR'S NAME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I have had a portion of a day bill forwarded to me of a Miss Susie Campbell's No. 1 company—general-manager, Mr. W. Campbell Maxwell—in the romantic French military play, A Master of Artifice, in which my name heads the list of characters as playing Seigneur Duvernay. As this has been, and is likely to be, misleading to managers who have known me for upwards of twenty years, will you allow me to state through your columns that I do not know Mr. W. Campbell Maxwell, and that he has no authority whatever to use my name for such purpose as I have mentioned.—Yours faithfully,

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LA CATALANE."

Lyric Drama, in Four Acts, by MM. Paul Ferrier and Louis Tiercelin, Music by M. Fernand Le Borne, Produced at the Opéra, on May 5.

Anita	MLLE. GRANDJEAN
Inès	MLLE. MARTYL
Antonia	MLLE. LAUTE
Pépa	MLLE. GOULANCOURT
Une Etoile	MLLE. AGUSSOL
Térésa	MLLE. BEAUVAIS
Franciska	MLLE. MATHIEU
Andrès	M. MURATORE
Miguel	M. DELMAS

Blas	M. TRIADOU

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, MAY 30.—The libretto of La Catalane is heavy, and so "unmusical" that M. Le Borne had a difficult task in having to set this indigestible story to music. It is quite apparent that there has not been a proper collaboration between authors and composer, otherwise the result would have been more satisfactory. The plot is founded on a three-act Catalonian drama called Terres Basses, by M. Guimeira, wherein we are given to understand that if we search for virtue we must not look for it in the lowlands, but on the mountains. The purer the air the better the morals! In the opening scene, Andrès, a shepherd in the highlands, tells us that he is leaving his beloved mountains to marry Anita, who, down below, is in the employ of Miguel, a rich miller. Miguel has given his consent to the marriage. Why was his consent necessary? Thereby hangs a tale, and a wicked tale. Don Miguel is a powerful man, who treats his dependants in mediæval style. Anita has been his mistress. Everybody knows it—except Andrès. But Miguel is in financial straits, which compel him to look for a rich wife, and, having found one, settles things in a comfortable manner, as far as he himself is concerned. He wants a husband for Anita, and as he is not likely to find one in his own district, where people know their liaison, he ascends the mountains and finds the guileless Andrès, who, having always admired the pretty Anita, is only too happy to ask for her hand. And in this way the wily Miguel has, as he thinks, arranged matters in such a way that Anita can remain his mistress even after she has become a wife. We next assist at rejoicings in expectation of Anita's wedding, and poor Andrès fails to understand the more or less spiteful jokes levelled at him. As to Anita, she is under the impression that Andrès, knowing all her past, is an "obliging husband," and she, therefore, is barely civil to him. After the church ceremony, the wedding guests meet in the inn, where, of course, there is singing and dancing. But when the amorous Andrès wants to take his young wife in his arms, she pushes him away and tells him that he never will cross the threshold of her bedroom. And whilst the latter stands wondering what it all means, Miguel comes and whispers to Anita that he wants to spend that night with her, adding that Andrès is not an "obliging husband," and knows nothing of his wife's past. This leads to a scene between Anita and Miguel. Andrès now is worthy of her love; she wants to belong to him—to him alone, and implores Miguel not to persecute her any further. Miguel, however, is obstinate. He claims his right primæ noctis, and will not be done out of it. His obstinacy costs him dear. When he comes to conquer, Andrès, who now knows everything, seizes him by the throat and throttles him. Having despatched his rival, Andrès tells Anita that he will forget the past, and he takes her with him to the mountains, away from the wickedness of the valley. M. Le Borne's music is not lacking in poetry; it is melodious in parts, and the work is excellently orchestrated, but, like the story, is long-winded, and consequently tedious. The weight of the piece rested on the shoulders of M. Muratore, and this artist, in the rôle of Andrès, was as good as ever. The other parts were well sustained by Mlle. Grandjean, Mlle. Martyl, and M. Delmas.

"SALOME" has proved not only an artistic, but a financial success. The six performances have brought in £7,800, or £1,300 per performance. The organisers have every reason to be satisfied with this result, a record one in the good city of Paris.

"MONSIEUR DE PREVAN."

Comedy, in Three Acts, in Verse, by MM. Gumpel and Delaquys, Produced at the Odéon, on May 30.

PARIS, THURSDAY, June 6.—Everybody knows Laclos' famous novel "Les Liaisons Dangéreuses," which at the time created much scandal on account of its "immorality," and to-day—more than a century later—seems tame by the side of the up-to-date productions. The principal personage therein is M. de Prévan, a roué, the prototype of the modern Marquis de Priola, an epicure in questions of love, who thinks that liaisons should be ephemeral, in order not to become dangerous. The authors, attracted by this strange figure, have dramatised the story, and their effort has been crowned with success. The slight plot is as follows: Claire, Anaïs, and Philippine are inseparable. Each of these ladies has a lover, but their friendship, which dates from the time they were girls, has not been affected by this. They are so smitten with the men of their choice, and are so sure that their love is requited, that they are above petty jealousies. Nothing can break up their intimacy. To Prévan all this seems preposterous, not to say unnatural, and he is anxious to know whether these ladies are really different from other mortals. He starts making love to them, and neither of them is proof against his fascinations. But the ladies' lovers learn what has occurred, and challenge him to fight. Prévan consents on condition that his adversaries accept his invitation to luncheon. When the meal is finished a reconciliation takes place, whereupon Prévan proposes to the three men a scheme that will teach their ladies a lesson, and punish them for their infidelity. The women, who have been kept in ignorance of what has occurred, meet at Prévan's house, where they find their lovers. To the latter Prévan tenders his apologies, and the ladies discover that they have been fooled by Prévan. A noisy explanation follows, ending in the three men breaking off with their mistresses, who, in their turn, quarrel with one another. The "inseparables" are separated for ever. The work was fairly well interpreted.

OWING to the fact that Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's theatre was filled with English and Americans, Miss Olga Nethersole can hardly claim to have appeared to a representative Paris audience. The average French playgoer feels bored if he has to listen to a language with which he is not familiar. On the other hand, the Paris Press was well represented, and they showed themselves deeply interested in the celebrated actress's performance, whom they consider very talented and most sympathetic. It was a daring venture on Miss Nethersole's part, and she was fully entitled to the hearty reception that greeted her. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, in her stage-box, surrounded by numerous friends, applauded louder than anyone; and the English actress will have cause to look back with pleasure on the nights she appeared at the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre, with the great Sarah among the spectators.

"FORTUNIO,"

Musical Comedy, in Five Acts, by MM. G. A. de Flers and Robert de Caillavet, music by M. André Messager, produced at the Opéra-Comique on June 5.

Jacqueline	MME. MARGUERITE CARRE
Madelon	MLLE. LA PALME
Gertrude	MLLE. VILLETTE
Maître André	M. L. FUGERE
Clavaroche	M. DUFRANC
Landry	M. JEAN PERIER
Fortunio	M. FRANCELLE
Maître Subtil	M. CAZENEUVE
Guillaume	M. HUBERDEAU
De Verbois	M. GUILLAMAT

ALFRED DE MUSSET'S delightful comedy Le Chandelier had already tempted Offenbach, whose operette Fortunio's Song had a tremendous run in England some forty years ago. But Offenbach did not deal with the story as told by de Musset. His libretto was a kind of sequel to it, showing us Fortunio grown old, seeing one of his clerks make love to Mme. Fortunio, like he did to his employer's wife when he was young. MM. De Flers and de Caillavet have given us more or less the plot of Le Chandelier. I say more or less, for in their desire to drag the work through five acts instead of contenting themselves with three, they have not only rendered the musician's task most difficult, but have deprived Musset's masterpiece of one of its greatest charms, its simplicity. It is quite true that a five-act work is entitled to a higher scale of authors' rights; but this consideration should not have weighed with the librettists. The plot can be briefly told. Jacqueline is the wife of an old notary called André. In the opening scene, on the fashionable promenade of a small provincial town, André is introduced to the gallant Captain Clavaroche, who is to play the lover's part in this ill-assorted marriage. We also make the acquaintance here of Fortunio, whom the notary accepts as a clerk, and who at once falls under the spell of the Jacqueline's beauty. We next see the lady in her own home, in the early morning, inducing her old husband to regain his room. No sooner is he gone than she advances on tiptoe to the cupboard and releases Clavaroche. And it is in this scene that we have the explanation of the slang term "Chandelier." André being jealous of his wife, Clavaroche suggests to her that, in order to detract attention from the real lover, she should show some slight favour to a harmless young man, allowing him to carry her dog or her shawl, and rewarding him with a sweet smile. Fortunio is chosen for the office of "Chandelier"; but the result is not the one Clavaroche expected. The impressionable Jacqueline falls in love with her "chandelier," and the noble warrior is out of the running. As regards the music, M. Messager has given us the brightest and freshest of music in his first three acts, but from that moment our interest in the musical portion ceases. The whole first act is delightful, and the finale with its soldiers' march evoked enthusiastic applause. The second act, where the orchestra imitates the braying of an ass, preparing us to the scene between Jacqueline and her husband, is very successful from a musical point of view. The love duets, too, between the lady and Fortunio are written in M. Messager's happiest vein. Then follow the two monotonous acts that mar the work. As to the interpretation, nothing could have been finer than Mme. Marguerite Carré's rendering of the rôle of Jacqueline. M. Dufranc was an excellent Clavaroche; and the rôle of Fortunio was safe in the hands of M. Francelle. M. Carré has done wonders in the way of mounting.

ROYAL ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

On Friday afternoon, May 31, at Queen's Hall, a chamber concert was given by the students of the Royal Academy, the programme being on this occasion entirely supplied by the juvenile students. In the course of the long programme most of the young performers did the greatest credit to the training they have received at the Royal Academy, but perhaps the strongest item in the concert was Master Stanelli de Groot's capitally-executed violin solos of Bach's Air and De Beriot's Bolero, which elicited loud and long-continued applause from the large audience. It was really wonderful to see the confidence and command of his instrument displayed by the little fellow, and "It gives one furiously to think," as the French say, what our young folks will do in the future at their present rate of progress in music. Second only in merit to Master de Groot were the violin solos of Master Victor Harris, who most successfully essayed Romance in D, by D'Ambrosio, and Carl Bohm's Moto Perpetuo. Miss Gladys E. Adams's cleverly-played harp solo of Gustav Hölzel's "Song without words," arranged by John Thomas, was only marred by a defective string in her instrument; while Master Vivian Langrish showed great promise in his pianoforte solos of Chopin's Nocturne in F and Valse in D flat. Miss Norah Cordwell in Liszt's "Eglogue" and Chopin's Study in G flat (Op. 25) also displayed talent; and Miss Dorothy Chiltern Griffin, another clever pianoforte student, received much applause for her rendering of Preludes, Nos. 11 and 9, by Blumenfeld. Other able performers were Master Frank Hutchens, heard in Three Studies, Nos. 3, 7, and 16 (pianoforte), by Chopin; Miss Evelyn Dawkin, who gave Felix Swinstead's piano solo, Prelude in D; and Miss Dorothy Bramley and Miss Evelyn Dawkin, who played "Invitation à la Valse," for two pianos, by Weber—Corder; while Master Stanelli de Groot was associated with Master Victor Harris in Duettini, "Souvenir de Campagne," Minuit, and Sérénade, for two violins, by Godard. The vocal items included in the programme were not less interesting than the instrumental pieces. Miss Clara Butterworth sang "A Summer Night" (A. Goring Thomas) with real artistic expression; while Miss Olive Turner was heard in two song MSS. of her own composition, "Go, and be free," founded on the anecdote how "Tamberlik, the great tenor, one day bought up all the birds in the market at Madrid, opened the cages, and set them free," and "May." Both songs, although, of course, miniature, showed merit, and the youthful composer, vocalist, and player was most heartily recalled to the platform. Another clever little vocalist was Miss Marie Cuyper, heard in Sullivan's "Orpheus with his lute" and the duet, "Brother, come and dance with me," from the first act of Humperdinck's Hänsel and Gretel, was skilfully acted and sung by Miss Janet Woolley and Miss Olive Turner. Miss Hilda May Campbell sang two of E. Elgar's songs, "Queen Mary's Song" and "Through the long days"; and Miss Gertrude Newson, Reinecke's air, "An Evening Song." The accompanist was Miss Elsie W. Owen.

"EGYPT."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Our attention having been drawn to a paragraph in your issue of May 25 to the effect that Mr. Sidney Rennef will produce a new drama, entitled Egypt, at the Star Theatre, Liverpool, on July 1, may we, as the author and composer of Mr. Wallace Selkirk's successful military and naval spectacle of the same name, be permitted to draw the attention of Mr. Rennef to the fact that the sketch Egypt was first produced at the Empire, Sheffield, four weeks ago, and is now being played all round the Stoll tour (next week at the Zoo-Hippodrome, Glasgow) by Mr. Wallace Selkirk's Co.?

Under these circumstances, and to avoid confusion, we should esteem it a favour if Mr. Sidney Rennef could see his way clear to in some way alter the title of his drama, as priority undoubtedly rests with Mr. Wallace Selkirk and—yours faithfully,

HARRINGTON AND TATE,
3 Berners-street, W., June 6.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

KING'S, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, June 3, the Comic Opera, Book by Herbert Dawson and A. F. Allen Tower, and Music by R. A. Smith, entitled "THE YOUNG LIEUTENANT."

A very picturesque period for a comic opera is 1805, "Nelson's glorious days," and given brightness of treatment, tuneful music, and lively acting, success should easily be attainable. But, truth to tell, much of these ingredients was wanting on Monday evening at the King's. The story is founded on very slight lines. The young lieutenant, Harry Summers, in the hearing of one of the characters, casually mentions that if the crew of his ship were made aware that they would be sailing on a Friday there would be a mutiny on board, and he devoutly wishes this were the case, so that he could remain on shore to persuade his cousin, Marjorie Mayfair, to marry him instead of the Duke of Bowminster. Summers is placed under arrest, and a court martial ordered but is not proceeded with, and everything ends happily. The dialogue is by no means brilliant, but the music, though reminiscent, is melodious. Mr. Buchanan Wake made an energetic Admiral Sir Stoke Newington; and Mr. L. C. Hughes played efficiently as the Duke of Bowminster; Mr. Wilfred Norman was a brisk 1st Lieutenant Charles Layhurst; Mr. E. B. Davies as 2nd Lieutenant Reginald Greenlaws secured praise; and as 3rd Lieutenant Harry Summers Mr. Douglas Phillips sang and acted very effectively, receiving encores for several of his songs. Bill Barnacle was well sustained by the veteran singer Mr. Richard Cummings, who scored very decisively with his stirring patriotic song; Bob Bruiser, Jack Plane, and Jem Fellows were capitally undertaken by Mr. Bert Burton, Mr. George Robertson, and Mr. A. H. Drinkwater. Dick Bulger, a rat-catcher, found a lively and amusing representative in Mr. Fred Payne, who made the most of the poor opportunities afforded him. By far the greatest success among the ladies was attained by Miss Nellie Wigley, whose Polly was a brilliant success; her acting was animated and her singing in excellent taste. Miss Madeleine Stone made a pleasant Dowager Lady Harlington; and Mother Price was humorously undertaken by Miss Maud Esdaile. Miss Madge Davies and Miss Mollie Elliston were successful as the Ladies Winifred and Evelyn Archer; Kitty Green and Nellie Brown were capably played by Miss Violet Campbell and Miss Violet Braham. The costumes of the period were absolutely correct, and the scenery was worthy of all praise.

THE MARLBOROUGH.

On Monday, June 3, H. Armitage and A. Leigh's Company in "LEAH KLESCHNA."

The management is offering a very attractive programme this week, the pièce de résistance being the New Theatre success of 1905, Leah Kleschna. The play is not new to the patrons of the Marlborough, having appeared in November, 1905; nevertheless, judging by its reception throughout the week, it is still a great favourite. In the character of Leah Kleschna we find Miss Haidee Wright, an actress whose good work we have more than once had occasion to commend. It is early seen that Miss Wright has made a careful study of the part, which, from start to finish, she plays with telling effect. The character abounds with opportunities to score, of which Miss Wright takes every advantage. Her greatest chance of shining is in Act IV., in Leah's renunciation of her old life and her parting from her father. It is here that the actress boldly grasps the situation, and presents it most powerfully. The part of Kleschna is one that affords much chance of brilliant acting, and Mr. William Clayton may be said to do all that is possible with the material at his disposal. As Paul Sylvaine Mr. William F. Grant has a part which suits him admirably, and which he plays in an easy and natural style. The somewhat unsavoury character of Raoul Berton is ably played by Mr. Harry Nunn. As General Berton Mr. Ronald Daniel draws a faithful picture of the stern and unrelenting military man; and also appears with success as Valentine Faber. A creditable account of Schram is given by Mr. Campbell Goldsmid. Among the ladies Miss Ethel Russell must be credited with a satisfactory rendering of Mme. Berton; and Claire Berton is a part in which Miss Emmie Wallace appears successfully. Miss Violet Thorold gives a praiseworthy performance of Sophie Champonniere; and satisfactory support is also found in Messrs. Bert Gunter (Anton Piaff), Bernard Rain (Johann), Arles Conway (Reichman), F. Bannerman (Baptiste), Henry Buxton (Officer), Miss May Hamond (Frieda), and Miss Edith Summers (Charlotte).

CORONET THEATRE.

On Monday, June 3, "KITTY GREY."

Mr. C. St. John Denton's company is putting in a week at the pretty Notting-hill Gate theatre with the sparkling and melodious work yclept Kitty Grey. Several new numbers have been added to the musical score, notably Miss Nellie Cozens's "The feeling's just the same," which is tumultuously encored, Miss Eily Helene's "Grow, little mushroom, grow" and "Queen of Old Samara," and Mr. Robert Whyte, jun.'s "When we see a blue moon in the sky"—all very successful items. Miss Hilda Guiver enacts the part of Kitty Grey. Her singing is delightful, and her acting is full of vivacity, not unmixed with pathos. Mr. Leslie Harris, who as Reggie, Lord Plantaganet is quite the making of the piece, is another who must have played his part any number of times, yet he is full of freshness and spontaneity in his humorous exposition of character, and his dancing is very nimble and quaint. Miss Eily Helene acts demurely and daintily as the extremely proper Lady Binfield, who only feels her feet in the last act. She acts with a nice sense of humour and sings most acceptably. Miss Nellie Cozens is bubbling over with high spirits and good humour as Mrs. Bright, formerly as Zo Zo, the bare-backed circus rider, and enters thoroughly into the fun of the piece, and sings and dances with verve and ability. Mr. Robert Whyte, jun., does all that is required of him as the merry monarch from Illyria, and acts with well-restrained ardour and animation. Mr. Yorke Hatton sings well and acts agreeably as the much-perplexed Lord Binfield; and Miss Lena Denton is a bright and lively Sadie de Poulson. A bevy of beauty, in the shape of visitors to Biarritz and ladies of the Frivolity Theatre, add to the attractiveness of the piece. Mr. Leslie Steward, who does well as Ponbricket, stage-manages the show; and Mr. Herbert Sich is acting-manager for Mr. Denton. The tour is under the direction of Mr. F. J. Richardson, and the full chorus and augmented orchestra is under the direction of Mr. Otto Mans.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, June 3, the Drama, entitled "THE MIDNIGHT MAIL."

On Monday evening this theatre was en fête, for the employees of Messrs. John Brinsmead were being entertained by the founder of the firm, on the occasion of the seventieth anniversary of his wedding, and the whole of the pit and nearly all the stalls had been reserved for their use. Messrs. Doutridge and Longden's company appeared in Arthur Shirley's exciting drama, The Midnight Mail, and this play, with the sensational fight on the footplate of the engine, seems to be greatly appreciated. It is certainly not lacking in excitement, and the company work hard to ensure success. Mr. George Howard makes a capital Harry Steyne, and plays with great earnestness throughout; while Mary Steyne, the sorely-tried wife, is very sweetly portrayed by Miss Ada Oakley, who enlisted the full sympathy of the audience for the character. Mr. Fred G. Evison is most entertaining as Billy Brewer—the publican's friend, as he aptly describes himself. He cleverly manages to extract much humour from this character, without being in any way objectionable, and in one of the latter scenes he gives a fine display of his dramatic powers. Mr. Charles Spencer is good as the wily Hassan Padisha; Miss Mildred Carr is very lively as Nancy Brewer; while Miss Sandford is acceptable as Lady Phyllis. Leonard Royle is played in an earnest manner by Mr. Austin Mortimer; and Mr. Harry Emmerson is particularly good as the large-hearted Donald Craig, who proves such a friend to the hero. Mr. H. Dobell Lyle is seen to advantage as Jasper Thornleigh. The many other minor characters are in each case suitably filled, and the play is staged in the most complete manner; the scene of the midnight mail running at full speed is most realistic. The whole production is under the direct supervision of Mr. James Willard, whose name is a guarantee of the excellence of any production with which it is associated. Mr. Wilfred Stanford ably performs the duties of acting-manager.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, June 3, the Comedy "WHAT THE BUTLER SAW."

Mr. Lionel Rignold's company in What the Butler Saw opened at Kennington Theatre on Monday under the most favourable auspices. Mr. Lionel Rignold as Pink, the butler, is, of course, the life and soul of the comedy, but he is supported by a company of first-class ability all round, and in the second act especially the fun is fast and furious. There is never a dull moment when Mr. Rignold is on the stage. Miss Ada Blanche makes a big hit by her humorous delineation of the rôle of Mrs. Barrington, and the clever manner in which she handles a long succession of hilarious situations stamps her as a comedy actress of great merit. The part of Jack Barrington, the jovial Irishman, is admirably taken by Mr. Chas. Fawcett, who puts in some of his best work, and hugely delights the house. Mr. Alec Alves gives a grotesque, but none the less mirthful, interpretation of the character of Vere de Bogyne; Sir Chas. Foden is excellently represented by Mr. Louis Lingard; and Miss Clara Russell scores a personal triumph by her happy rendering of the part of Miss Foden. Mr. H. H. Rignold as Abraham Mikestein presents a careful study of a Jew; and Miss Dorothy Garth is happily ingenuous as Maria, the maid. Mr. Victor Widdicomb makes a very good General Dunlop; and as Clarissa and Selina Dunlop Miss Dorothy Hart and Miss Vera O'Connell both do well; Mr. Roy Byford deserves warm praise for the able manner in which he sustains the rôle of Professor Shale; while Miss May Hart comes in well as Sophonisba Hake, the child of the piece. Others whose bright and willing efforts and abundant humour contribute largely to the evening's amusement are Mr. Leo St. Clair as Sydney Clifford, Mr. George Ascot as Dr. Clayton, Mr. Charles Barnes as John, Miss Jennie Wigney as Nora, Miss Mona Garland as Mrs. Fleming-Smyth, Miss Elsie Terris as Fanny, and Miss Julie St. George as Mrs. Hake. The scene, Foden Hall, in which the play is developed, is a finely-equipped set.

BROADWAY THEATRE, S.E.

On Monday, June 3, was presented the Drama, by Arthur Shirley, entitled "THE GRIP OF IRON."

Mr. Samuel James is responsible for this week's programme, which consists of the popular drama entitled The Grip of Iron, billed as having been played over five thousand times. Mr. James has secured a strong company to interpret the play, including Mr. Fred Powell, whose Jagon is identified with the play, and whose performance of this repulsive character is as good as ever. Mr. Wallace Curnock is an earnest and clever Paul Blanchard; Mr. C. Lodge Percy gives a capital interpretation of the villain Lorentz de Ribas; Mr. W. J. Riley as Alphonse de Coucou and Mr. John Brittain as Dodot are very amusing representatives of the detectives of the new and old schools respectively. Mr. Sidney N. Hallows presents a natural portrait of the lawyer, Robert de Belfort; Mr. George Ashley is good as Monsieur de Beaudin; Mr. George Denham gives a splendid character-study as Loustalot; and Mr. Eric Dane (Governor of the gaol), Mr. John Arthur (Captain of the Raven), Mr. Tom Hayes (Warder of the Raven), Mr. A. H. Hughes (Warder at La Roquette), Mr. G. Fentfield (Footman), Mr. A. James (Prison Barber), and Mr. Charles Mackay (Captain Guerin) are all excellent. Miss Rosabel Dod as Cora Simmonet gives a clever interpretation of the character; Miss Florence Lovell is very good indeed as Sophie Blanchard; Miss Helen Cameron is a pretty and sympathetic Marie Guerin; Miss Cissie Hayes is good as Babette; the same remark applies to the Mlle. Delaney of Miss Pope Royal. This week is the third of the four weeks advertised as the experimental season of two houses nightly. Next week the bill will consist of A Life's Revenge.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, June 3, the Drama, entitled "HONOUR THY FATHER."

Mr. T. Morton Powell's company is drawing good audiences this week with the above favourite play, which is exactly suited to the taste of lovers of melodrama. The piece is capitally acted and excellently mounted, several of the sets being very effective specimens of scene-painting. The central figure of the play is the old farmer, Gabriel Garth, a part played in rugged and effective fashion by Mr. Walter M. Cameron, who is pathetic in his scene in the asylum in the second act. Mr. Robert Gilbert is a breezy young Captain as Jack Halyard; and Mr. Howell Travis is a powerful Duncan Bly. Mr. W. H. Melrose is amusing as the dense but good-hearted yokel Ned; and Mr. Fred L. Conynghame is very humorous as the eccentric Mike Copplestone. Miss Mabel Coleman is pathetic as the wronged Lillian Garth; and Winnie Donovan is a charming representative of the young heiress, Mercy Merry. Miss Ada Salmon is a merry and fascinating Poppy Cornleigh; Miss Kate Newton acts with feeling as Gertrude Garth; Mr. Frank Eden plays well as Dr. Sleek; and a powerful character-sketch is provided by Mr. Claude Merton as George Bloggs. Mr. Frank Eden is the general-manager and Mr. Claude Merton the stage-manager for the company.

GRAND, FULHAM.

On Monday, June 3, the Play, by G. R. Sims and Arthur Shirley, "TWO LITTLE VAGABONDS."

Messrs. Hardie and Von Leer's company, is paying a return visit with Two Little Vagabonds, which, in spite of its ten years or more of life, has not lost its power to attract. The company is well up to its work. Mr. Douglas Vigors makes the most of the somewhat unsympathetic rôle of George Thornton; Mr. Sidney Vautier plays quietly as Captain Darville; and the important part of the Gaffer is in the hands of Mr. Lionel Ellis, who makes a success of it, his humour and dramatic power not being found wanting. He is well supported by Mr. Frank Gordon, who plays Dido Bunce in a restrained, but effective, manner; and also by Mr. Dick Winslow, a lively and life-like representative of the mercurial Coughdrop. Mr. Harry Wright deserves a word of praise as Leeson, his acting and make-up in his dying scene being most realistic. Miss Grace Heywood gave a powerful study of Marion Thornton in the impassioned scenes; Miss Rosslyn Vane as Barbara Scarth rendered admirable support; and as Biddy Mullins Miss Evelyn Shaw did very well, notably in the first scene of Act 4—the garret scene. In Miss Edie Martin as Dick and Miss Josie Beltram as Wally are found two excellent boys, and their admirable work materially aids the success. The management is presenting some artistic souvenirs in celebration of the tenth anniversary of the production of the piece.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, June 4, the Drama, in Four Acts, by C. Watson Mill, entitled "A WARNING TO WOMEN."

The series of sterling melodramas which Mr. H. Dudley Bennett is producing at the Shakespeare Theatre is proving powerfully attractive, and crowded houses throughout this week have revelled in the thrilling episodes of the great moral play, A Warning to Women, in which the evils resulting from the habitual use of drugs are so strikingly illustrated. The play, which is under the direction of Mr. Frank Adair, is ably acted. Much of the success attending the production is due to Miss Louie Adair, whose pathetic delineation of Moira Kennion, a dipsomaniac, stands out prominently as the work of an actress skilled in emotional and character parts, and is the most striking performance in the piece. Mr. Frank Adair gives an admirable interpretation of the character of Dr. Marcus Dread, and indicates his pitiless and relentless nature in every speech and gesture. As Shaun, Mr. Wingold Lawrence looks well, and acts with real dramatic power, delivering his lines with vigour and emphasis. Mr. George Mitchell is naturally well gifted for the embodiment of Squire Kennion, and hits off the stern pride of the character exactly. Mr. Jack Denton assumes with success the geniality of Lord Eversleigh, and his clever acting and quaint drollery keep the audience in continual laughter whenever he is upon the stage. Mr. Chris Mason makes the most of his opportunities in the rôle of Fergus McNaughton; and Mr. George H. Asquin adds to the humour of the piece by his representation of Mike McQuade. Mr. Fred Withers is satisfactory as Father Emmanuel Wallace; and Mr. Hugh Mewburn as Ferdinand de Joules also renders good support. Miss Lydia Mannington is admirably placed as the fortune-teller, Molly O'Moore, and gains much applause for a spirited rendering. An attractive Sheila Kennion is found in Miss Doris White, who makes a charming appearance in the part. One of the outstanding features of the play is the impersonation of Myles O'Moore, a cripple boy, by Miss Bertha Hanbury, a young girl who speaks her lines with praiseworthy distinctness, and acts with considerable self-possession. The minor parts are all capably enacted, and the scenery and general effects leave nothing to be desired. Mr. E. De Hague Body is the courteous acting-manager for Mr. H. G. Dudley Bennett.

THE ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

Mr. W. W. Kelly's Royal Divorce company is here. Mr. Fredk. Victor's Napoleon is a fine performance, his short, sharp, and precise manner being quite in accordance with the character he sustains. Mr. William Dexter gives a splendid study of Talleyrand; Mr. J. M. Montanini as the traitor Marquis de Beaumont is convincing; and Mr. George Hudson gives a clever impersonation of the innkeeper, Grimaud. Mr. Albert Grenville is amusing as General Augereau, and Mr. George Frere is a capital Marshal Murat. Marie Louise, Napoleon's second wife, is played in a dignified manner by Miss Agnes Imlay; Miss Helen Richmond is sympathetic Stephanie de Beauharnais; and Miss Maggie Cardiff is natural as the little King of Rome. The trying character of Josephine is played by Miss Edith Cole, who wins the sympathy of the audience from the start, playing with much dramatic force and emotion.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, June 3, the American Drama, in Four Acts, by Malcolm Douglas, entitled "A FIGHT FOR MILLIONS."

This play has been remarkably well received in Marylebone, its several songs and dances, cleverly rendered, going far to make the entertainment a bright and cheery one. A notable success is scored by Mr. Tom Jones as Clara ap Morgan, from some unpronounceable village in Wales, though Mr. Jones makes the name of his birthplace trip glibly enough from his tongue, much to the West Londoners' enjoyment. Mr. William Macready puts plenty of go and determination into his rendering of Tom Manley; Mr. Richard A. Greene vigorously portrays the unscrupulous Richard Dudley; Mr. Harold Turner as Solomon Moses works with a will and dances admirably; while Mr. Karl H. Edwards, in addition to his duties as manager to Mr. Robert Perris, also finds time to sustain the important rôle of Willie Neverwork in characteristically clever style. Miss Winifred Symons does very well as Pearl Rivers; Miss Rosie Kearns is energetic as Betty Brady; and Miss Elma C. Turner makes a decided impression as the sorely-tried Helen Dudley.

BRIXTON THEATRE.

On Monday, June 3, "WHEN WE WERE TWENTY-ONE."

Large crowds have been assembling here this week to enjoy this most charming and engrossing play, admirably presented by Miss Dorothy Cacey and Mr. Riddell Robinson, with a strong company. Mr. Riddell Robinson, who appears as Richard Carewe, acts in his usual finished manner, and obtains frequent applause. Mr. Edgar Coyne is distinctly humorous as Sir Horace Plumely, otherwise "Waddles," and is ably supported by Mr. Frank Powell and Mr. F. C. Pool as his cronies, Colonel Garhame and Dr. McGrath. The rendering of Phyllis by Miss Mildred Hodson is intensely interesting and fascinating. The somewhat difficult part of the Imp, an impressionable boy, who falls in love with the wrong woman, is cleverly sustained by Mr. Gerald Henson. Kara Glenesk, known as "The Firefly," the cause of all the trouble, is powerfully enacted by Miss Dorothy Cacey, whose impersonation of an adventuress is wonderfully impressive. Most realistic was Miss Flo Preddy's portrayal of Mrs. Ericson, a kindly, calm, and comfortable matron; Miss Susie Oak made a chic French maid; and other parts were well handled by Messrs. Forbes Harrison, F. Moorgate, and A. E. Coleby.

"A KNIGHT OF THE ROAD."

A Romantic Drama, in Four Acts, by Ina Leon Cassilis, produced, for the first time, at the Royal County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames, on Monday, June 3.

Capt. Maurice Arundel ....Mr. Gordon Bailey
Mark Drayton .....Mr. Reginald Rivington
Bretton Lee .....Mr. Edward Landor
Daft Willie .....Mr. Arthur Goodsall
Sir Godfrey Lockwood ..Mr. Fredk. Morland
Hugh Lockwood .....Mr. Tom Shelford
Bidwell .....Mr. Robert Bottomley
Adams .....Mr. E. Landor
Chief Constable .....Mr. Arthur Dawe
Stella Lockwood .....Miss Lola Duncan
Rose Milson .....Miss Violet Cecil
Dorothy Lee .....Miss Lucy Wilson

(from our own correspondent.)

The greatest charm about Miss Cassilis's latest effort in playwriting is the picture that it presents of English life in the old days of Dick Turpin and Claude Duval. The story is full of interest, well sustained from beginning to end. Briefly, the plot is as follows. The frequenters of a hostelry called the King's Rest include a handsome young man named Maurice Arundel, believed to be a captain in the Army, and a surly bailiff named Mark Drayton. Both men conceive a strong affection for Dorothy, the landlord's sister, who, however, chooses the captain, and there is naturally bad blood between the two men. Few people dream that the handsome and dashing young captain is the notorious highwayman known as Dare-devil Grahame, but the fact is known to Drayton. Dorothy's brother, it appears, was fond of card playing, and in a game with Drayton managed to win a good deal of his opponent's money. As Lee is crossing the heath at night after play, he is followed by Drayton, who kills the young man and robs him of his money and valuables. Dorothy, arriving unexpectedly on the scene, Drayton accuses his rival, Arundel, of the crime, and then announces to the horrified girl that the man to whom she had given her affections and who had murdered her brother was none other than the redoubtable knight of the road, Dare-devil Grahame. The lady's love thereupon turns to hate, and she straightway proceeds to Sir Godfrey Lockwood, a Justice of the Peace, to denounce the highwayman. When she arrives there and again sees her lover, who happens to be a guest in the house, she hesitates. Arundel boldly confesses that he is indeed the famous highwayman, but offers to give up the life if only she will fly with him. In order to gain time, Dorthy conceives the idea of fixing a date for the elopement and of having Arundel arrested when he keeps the appointment. When the fateful evening arrives at the King's Rest, Drayton, overwhelmed with the consciousness of his crime, is sitting at a table, his head buried in his hands. A half-witted peasant, known as Daft Willie, who had seen Dorothy's dead brother lying on the heath, suddenly discovers that he has a button which he found in the young man's clenched fist, and in a lucid interval he compares the button with the others on Drayton's coat, and the discovery of their similarity, coupled with the fact that the dead man's watch is found in Drayton's pocket, is sufficient evidence to convince even the half-witted peasant that the murderer of Bretton Lee is the man sitting before him on a chair half asleep. When Drayton recovers himself and is confronted with the evidence of his crime by Willie, the bailiff nearly strangles him, and is prevented from doing so only by the timely arrival of Dorothy. It is the moment when Dare-devil Grahame is to keep his tryst and the police are to arrive to effect his capture. When Dorothy learns from the half-witted peasant that her lover is innocent and that Drayton is the murderer she realises what a terrible mistake she has made. Accused of the crime, Drayton ridicules the evidence of a witless being, whose testimony the law would not admit. The captain arrives on the scene, closely followed by the police, who surround the house. Drayton, rushing forward to assist the officers of the law, is shot by Daft Willie, and finally the lovers manage to fight their way out of the house and to escape.

The play, which was received with unmistakable signs of appreciation by a full house, was produced by Mr. Gordon Bailey, who, as the highwayman, gave a fine picture of the free-and-easy manners of a knight of the road. Miss Lucy Wilson, who is not unknown to Kingston audiences, excelled herself in the trying part of Dorothy Lee. The poignancy of her grief was well assumed, and the scenes between her and Drayton when she discovered the truth were powerfully rendered. The impersonation of the witless Willie by Mr. Arthur Goodsall was admirable, and he richly deserved the applause which the audience frequently bestowed upon him. Mr. Reginald Rivington was also very good as the villain, Mark Drayton, and gave an intelligent representation of the part. The part of Bretton Lee, who disappears after the first act, was ably sustained by Mr. Edward Landor. A meritorious performance was also given by Mr. Tom Shelford in the part of Hugh Lockwood, a foppish dandy from town; and Mr. Frederick Morland presented a typical picture of the fine old English gentleman as Sir Godfrey Lockwood. Amongst the rest of the company mention should be made of Miss Lola Duncan, who played the part of Stella Lockwood, Sir Godfrey's daughter; of Miss Violet Cecil, who gave a piquant impersonation of the maid, Rose Milson; and of Mr. Robert Bottomley, as her fellow-servant, Bidwell. The scenery, which was supplied from the theatre stock, was admirably suited to the play. The effect was also enhanced by the rendering of old English airs by the theatre orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Hugo C. Rignold. Mr. E. Playford is acting as business-manager for Mr. Gordon Bailey and Mr. Robert Bottomley as stage-manager.

LYRIC OPERA HOUSE, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, June 3, 1907, Mr. Samuel James's Stock Company in the Drama, by Matt. Wilkinson, "SATURDAY NIGHT IN LONDON."

The Lyric, after a long sojourn in the lands of the more peaceful type of melodrama, has returned to sensational drama, and the satisfactory box office returns prove how very popular this form of entertainment is at Hammersmith. In Saturday Night in London Sir Jasper Wilton, a London banker, was to have been played by Mr. H. H. Barrington, but he was suddenly taken ill, and at a moment's notice Mr. Cuthbert took up the part, and gave a most satisfactory rendering. As the hero, Roy Wilton, Mr. David G. Noble acts with force and wins much applause; Mr. Albert Wainwright as the villain, Edward Mordant, is good; Mr. Edward Chester plays Abraham Shabner, a Jew moneylender, and Mr. Edward Davis is Jacob Giddens, a bill discounter. Mr. A. P. Kaye is excellent as Jack Dorrincourt, pavement artist, &c., and Mr. Will Skelton makes a most amusing Nicky Nobbs. Miss Hilda Baynton as the heroine, Mona Clayton, an orphan, is exceedingly capable, especially thrilling being the scene is which she temporarily loses her reason. as Sarah Shabner, the Jew's daughter, who hovers between good and bad, Miss Winnie White is satisfactory, and Miss Frances Hudson is well fitted with the part of Maud Somerton. Miss May Seton as Polly Hawkins, the future Mrs. Nobbs, gives a clever and funny performance, and on Monday, it being her birthday, Miss Seton met with several signs of affection from an enthusiastic audience. Other characters are well filled by Mr. H. A. Collins, Mr. A. Little, Mr. E. Burgess, and Mr. H. Valentine. The Brewsters give an excellent boxing display in the last scene of Act 3. The play is well staged.

THE SAVAGES AND CHARITY.

The Savages have often emerged from their wigwam in the Adelphi to aid the cause of the "palefaces," and on Tuesday afternoon they put their hearts and their talents into an entertainment at His Majesty's on behalf of the Lord Mayor's Cripple Children Fund, initiated by the present Chief Magistrate of London's city, who, unfortunately, was unable to be present on account of indisposition. The charitable festival was, however, graced by the Prince and Princess of Wales, who came in shortly after three, and evidently enjoyed the special attractions of the afternoon, the chief of which was entitled

"HANDS UP."

Chevalier St. Leger de Main ..... Mr. Barclay Gammon
Tip .....Mr. Maitland Dicker
Lady Journalist .....Mme. Shrimpton
Lord Charles Battleship ..Mr. Richard Green
Mr. Justice Duckling ..Mr. Gerald Fitzgibbon
Father Vaughn .....Mr. Arthur Helmore
G. B. Ess .....Mr. John Bromley
An Actor .....Mr. Farren Soutar
Cyrus Q. Dongs .....Mr. Nelson Jackson
Peace President .....Mr. Courtice Pounds
Suffragettes ..... Mr. W. Gourlay, Mr. Robb Harwood, Mr. Reginald Groome
Police Constables .. Mr. Tom Browne, Mr. Penrhyn Stanlaws, Mr. L. Raven-Hill, Mr. Mostyn Pigott, Mr. Lance Thackeray

This novelty took the form of a revue, the lyrics being by Mostyn Pigott and Adrian Ross, the dialogue by Fred Bowyer, and the music by various composers. The celebrated palmist, Chevalier St. Leger de Main (Mr. Barclay Gammon) is one of the most arrant humbugs of Bond-street; but his salon is frequented by the celebrities of the day—actors, dramatists, judges, preachers, and millionaires. They not only come to have their hands read, but to assert their opinions, topical and political, in the jingle of rhyme. There was an actor-manager (Mr. Farren Soutar), who, with the voice and mannerisms of Sir Charles Wyndham, sang :—

"If business isn't big,
I put on a sort of wig,
For it's Davy Garrick always pulls me through."

The entry of Lord Charles Battleship thrust us completely into a full-dress debate on the Navy, with spirited action and a lively musical accompaniment by Mr. Albert Fox. Lord Charles calls a spade a spade, and in his hearty British way Mr. Richard Green, who represented him, sang the following rousing chorus :—

"We don't want to grouse,
But by Jingo if it's true,
For every battleship we build
Some other chap builds two;
Something must be done,
For we must be number one,
Britannia must be mistress of the ocean."

The tune and the rhythm recall G. W. Hunt's lyrical manifesto of the 'seventies, and the verses were vigorously declaimed. G. B. Ess is designated as the lord of the stage and the press; and Mr. Justice Duckling rejoices in setting the court a-chuckling. The best joke of the whole production was the advent of the Suffragettes, represented by Messrs. W. Gourlay, Mr. Reginald Groome, and Mr. Robb Harwood. To the celebrated tune from The Mikado they sang :—

"Three little Suffragettes are we,
Laugh'd at and chaff'd by the great B.P."

Policemen appeared in the persons of the well-known artists and writers Tom Browne, Penrhyn Stanlaws, L. Raven-Hill, Douglas Almond, Fred Grundy, George Lynch, Mostyn Pigott, and Lance Thackeray, to arrest the trio for breaking the law by singing The Mikado music, but the "ladies" broke off into a parody of Miss Vesta Victoria's famous song :—

"There was I, waiting in the cold,
Waiting in the cold, waiting in the cold,
Lor', how it did upset me.
When we shouted 'All we want's a vote,'
Keir Hardie sent a note; this is what he wrote—
Sorry to say you can't come in to-day—
C.-B. won't let me."

With the arrest of the crowd the merry piece came to a conclusion. The hardest-worked member of the cast was Mr. Barclay Gammon, who played the palmist, given to fits of abstraction—otherwise petty larceny—on very amusing lines. Mr. Maitland Dicker, who stage-managed, was a droll Tips. Mr. Gerald Fitzgibbon sang with point as Mr. Justice Duckling; and Mr. Farren Soutar's imitation of Sir Charles Wyndham was easy and natural.

Another novelty of the afternoon was the one-act play by Mr. Alfred Sutro, entitled

"MR. STEINMANN'S CORNER."

Percy Hardwick .....Mr. Eille Norwood
Mrs. Hardwick .....Miss Henrietta Watson
Norah .....Miss Dorothy Minto
Joseph .....Mr. Reginald Walter

Mr. Sutro should be able to found a three-act play of powerful interest of the simple thesis set forth in this one-act piece. Percy Hardwicke, a stockbroker, announces to his wife that on the morrow he will be hammered on the Stock Exchange unless she, with her vast fortune—for which he has married her—elects to save him. She refuses to do anything of the kind, and when he talks of his good name twits him with uttering romantic nonsense. Theirs has been a marriage of calculation, and she is ready to advance him sufficient to pay his creditors 10s. in the pound. The situation is saved by Norah, an old sweetheart of his, who arrives to tell him that she is going to marry Steinmann, the man who has cornered him, and that the price of her consent is the waiving of her future husband's claim. Percy, though he has jilted the girl, is appalled at the sacrifice she is making; but he is unable to refuse her help. He taunts his unsympathetic wife when she offers him her cheque, and the curtain falls. Mr. Eille Norwood played with feeling as the stockbroker; Miss Henrietta Watson made a distinguished and coldly reserved Mrs. Hardwicke; and Miss Dorothy Minto was fresh and natural as Norah.

Among other incidental attractions The Marchioness, an episode from Charles Dickens, with music by Edward Jones, the book being by Mr. B. W. Findon, was heartily enjoyed. Mr. Farren Soutar played Dick Swiveller with the air of a courtier; and Miss Marie Wright asserted her claims to be regarded as one of the best comic actresses of the day by her excellent representation of the pathetic little drudge, her final minuet being as rich an exhibition of drollery of manner as we have seen for a considerable time on the London stage. There were many "turns," and among these we must specially mention Mlle. Jane May, Mr. Harrison Hill, Mr. Franklin Clive, Mr. Tom Clare, Mr. Robert Ganthony, and Mr. Harry Fragson. The band of the Coldstream Guards was under the direction of Lieut. Mackenzie Rogan.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

At the Council meeting of the Actors' Association, at 10, King-street, Covent Garden, on Tuesday, there were present Mr. Lewis Casson (in the chair), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Miss E. Wynne Matthison, Messrs. Cecil Brooking, C. F. Collings, Fredk. Morland, Kenyon Musgrave, and Frank Vernon, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The hon. solicitors reported the steps taken in two cases for the recovery of salary, and received instructions. They also reported the steps they had taken in a case of recovery of lost property, and received instructions.

Vacancies on Council.—The hon. solicitors reported they had had an interview with Mr. Hodge (of counsel). He stated that in his opinion the twenty-five members of the Council would be acting legally by remaining in office until the next annual general meeting, and that they would not be acting legally by electing further members to make the Council up to forty-two.

A discussion arose as to the probable attendances of members of the Council of twenty-five, and ultimately it was agreed that, inasmuch as there was a suggestion that the Council should meet in future on Mondays instead of Tuesdays, the secretary might make enquiries as to whether the change would meet with the approval of the councillors who were not present.

Two cases where the paymentof the Association agency fee were disputed were considered, and instructions given to the secretary.

The Council considered the complaint of a member who had been struck off for non-payment, that certain important letters containing remittances from abroad had been returned to the Post Office. The member was interviewed, and it was pointed out that as no definite promise to pay had been given, and as the secretary had not been notified that important letters were expected, the staff had done right in carrying out the definite published rules of the Association. The secretary was instructed to confirm this by letter, while expressing the Council's regret at the inconvenience that had been caused.

A similar case was considered, where a member's name had been removed from the register on April 2 owing to non-payment of subscription. The member asked that foreign letters might be left at the A.A. until called for. It was agreed the lady be informed her wish would be carried out, but that the Association could accept no responsibility in the matter.

Questions for the Council.—Upon the proposition of Mr. Fredk. Morland, seconded by Mr. Frank Vernon, it was agreed the secretary in future request all members who desire matters placed before the Council, whether promises for payment of subscription or otherwise, to be put into writing by the member wishing to bring such questions, &c., before the Council.

Hon. Medical Officers.—Upon the proposition of Mr. C. F. Collings, seconded by Mr. Fredk. Morland, Dr. Wallace, of Guernsey, was elected an hon. medical officer to the A.A.

Upon the proposition of Mr. Kenyon Musgrave, seconded by Mr. Frank Vernon, Dr. Rutherford, of Birmingham, was elected an hon. medical officer to the A.A.

Dr. Dunkley, late of Birmingham, was appointed an hon. medical officer at Rottingdean, near Brighton.

Walter Maxwell, Manager.—The Chairman read a letter from this gentleman (May 29), who stated that although there was no actual obligation for him as a manager to resign from the A.A., the fact that the majority of the members did not wish the manager to remain in was sufficient to warrant his action. He therefore confirmed his resignation with the greatest regret. It was agreed his resignation be accepted with regret.

Social.—A letter was read from the Social Committee, asking a member of the Council to take the chair at the next social debate (Friday, June 7). Mr. Casson promised to attend, and the secretary was directed to so inform the Committee.

Holidays of the Staff.—The secretary was directed to arrange these.

V.A.F.—The secretary of the V.A.F. stated there would be a general meeting of the Federation shortly, when the matters referred to would be discussed.

Subscription.—The secretary was directed to amend standing advertisements stating that in future the subscription would be 15s. per annum, or 4s. 6d. per quarter, and to insert a notice, "Should a member fail to pay his subscription within seventy days after it is due, his membership will cease, but he may be-relected by the Council upon payment of arrears and a reinstatement fee of 1s.

Finance and General Purposes Committee, Library Committee, Social Committee.—The reports of these Committees were given. In the case of the Library Committee, a suggestion as to the book-case was adopted; and upon the proposition of Mr. Frank Vernon, seconded by Mr. C. F. Collings, it was agreed that the book-case in the Council Chamber be removed to the saloon.

Mesdames Nance Elmhirst Goode, May Beatrice, and Decima Moore were nominated as candidates for election as members of the A.A.

Five former members were reinstated.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting on Thursday, the 30th ult., to consider the present financial condition of the Association.

Mr. H. Athol Forde occupied the chair. There were present Messrs. Cecil Brooking, Lewis Casson, Fredk. Morland, and Kenyon Musgrave, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The secretary having placed upon the table a rough statement showing the receipts by way of subscriptions, &c., from members of the Association and the cost of maintenance of the institution during the last ten years, the Committee proceeded to discuss the question as to how a statement should be drawn to be placed before the members showing the financial position at the present, the effects in the past, and the prospects of the future. Ultimately it was agreed the further consideration of the matter should be postponed until June 3, at 11.30. The meeting lasted from 4 till 6.20 o'clock.

The same committee held a meeting on Tuesday. There were present Messrs. Fredk. Morland (in the chair), Cecil Brooking, Lewis Casson, H. Athol Forde, Kenyon Musgrave, and Frank Vernon, and Chas. Cruikshanks (secretary).

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Lewis Casson read a statement prepared for the consideration of the Council, and further discussion thereon was adjourned.

ACTORS' UNION.

LONDON.

Mr. Charles Allan occupied the chair at Tuesday's meeting of the Actors' Union, held at the Bedford Head Hotel. Among those present were Mr. Charles Sugden, Mr. Cecil Calvert, Miss Beatrice Lloyd, Miss Daisy Gwynn, Mr. Longford Reed, Miss Adelaide Gracey, Mr. Watty Brunton, jun., Miss Lillian Tweed, Mr. E. Wolseley, Mr. E. Stranach, Miss May Conrade, Mr. Fred Lake, Mr. J. C. Taylor, Mr. Alfred Bennett, Miss Maud Shelton, Mr. Maurice Hoffman, Mr. Campbell Goldsmid, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald Marshall, Mr. A. T. Harding, Mr. Ernest Outtrim, Miss Grace Lester, Mr. Harry Paulton, Miss Nellie Burdette, Mr. A J. Stafford, Mr. and Mrs. Robson Paige, Mr. Francis Wolviston, Miss Violet Thorold, Miss Constance Glover, Miss Patterson, Mr. Frank Sutherland, Miss Audrey Canning, Mrs. Horace Booth, Mr. Percy Everard, Mr. Chas. Medwyn, Miss Irene Leoville, Miss Mary Bessle, Miss Gertrude Tate, Mr. Dave Austin, Mr. Walter Sember, Mr. Richard Elliott, Mr. S. Goodwin, Mr. Thos. Chamier, Mr. H. P. Owen, Miss Una Gilbert, Mr. Lawrence Grove, Mr. E. Howard Templeton, Mrs. Leoville, Mr. Fred Prior, Mr. Alfred Richards, Miss Anson, Mr. C. R. Hann, Mr. Christopher, Mr. Cresfan, Mr. Howard Cochrane, Mr. W. Hubert, Miss Emma Stockley, Mr. J. W. Rider, Mr. E. C. Lilly, Mr. Wesley Russell, Mr. Brandon, Mr. Edgar J. Coyne, Miss Madge Beresford, Mr. F. Jacques, Mr. G. Bradley, Mr. G. Hudson, Miss Lucy Sibley, Miss Bird, Mr. Willie Reed, Mr. Kendrew Millson, Mr. Wm. Macready, Miss Winifred Symonds, Mr. Ruddle Brown, Mr. Rawson Buckley, Mr. H. Armitage, Mr. Arthur Leigh, Mr. Montague Lane, and Mr. James English.

THE CHAIRMAN stated that he could see nothing to prevent any lady or gentleman in the profession from becoming a member of the Union. He really believed and hoped that the Union would in time be of immense help to them. It was for them to work together to secure the best results. Every individual member should do his or her best to get members.

MR. CECIL CALVERT said that it was not sufficient that a member should be a member only—he should also be a missionary. It was only by their united efforts that new members could be got, and a personal conversation was better than a letter. The man who said he did not want to join because he could see no need of it, or because he had sufficient money, was acting selfishly. Was it not far better for him to give them his moral support, and help his poorer brethren to earn a decent living? At the present time they had the sympathy of the touring manager, and that was a good sign. The old argument that actors never have united in the past had been used over and over again, but that was no argument why actors should not unite when there was a reason for doing so. They had all heard a good deal about the poverty of the profession, but by joining this Union actors and actresses would remove the very causes which made for poverty.

MR. WILLIAM MACREADY said that every member of the Union should speak of it as much as possible whenever opportunity occurred. Every one of the four hundred members should secure at least six recruits, and that would make a total membership of 3,000, who could secure great improvements in theatrical conditions. Then the poverty in the profession could be reduced to a minimum by the weeding out of the unfit and the abolition of the amateur.

MR. RICHARD ELLIOTT said that the Union was not intended as an aggressive body. The unjust exactions imposed by managers should be put an end to. He exhorted his hearers to show every confidence in their chairman and committee.

THE CHAIRMAN, in reply to a question put by Miss Lucy Sibley, said that the rules would be supplied on the 21st inst., and at a meeting on that date an important question connected with the rules would be brought forward, and any amendments thereto could be suggested.

MR. MAURICE HOFFMAN expressed the opinion that if a minimum wage of £2 a week could be established, it would be of the greatest benefit to the profession, but he thought it should not be insisted upon at the present moment, because managers could not pay that amount.

THE CHAIRMAN and others assured Mr. Hoffman that there was not the slightest intention on the part of the committee to demand the immediate establishment of a minimum salary of £2 a week. That would come later, when they were stronger.

MR. CAMPBELL GOLDSMID said that this minimum salary could only be met by the resident-managers paying the touring managers better terms. The touring managers were quite in favour of the objects of the Union, and some of them had asked if they could give donations to the Union, which was, of course, not permissible.

A vote of thanks to the chairman terminated the proceedings.

A general meeting of the Actors' Union will take place in the Chandos Hall, Maiden-lane, on June 21, at noon, to consider certain rules passed at the Bijou Theatre on Sunday, April 21. Any member wishing to move an amendment to the rules must give notice in writing to Mr. Oswald Marshall, hon. secretary, by June 14.

Mr. Fred Bentley presided at the first meeting under the auspices of the Actors' Union held in Her Majesty's at Dundee, on the 30th ult. Among those who attended the meeting were:—Messrs. Richard Ewell, Stanley Roberts, Harris Sidney, John A. Carlyle, Ernest Noble, and Harry Cooke. The objects of the Union were put before the meeting by the chairman, who also answered many questions.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—As one of the earliest subscribers to the A.U., I should like to hear some valid reason why I have no voice in the framing of rules, and why ladies should not represent me on the Council. I believe Mr. Raleigh's interest in the movement, and the weight attaching to his name, induced a good number of people to become members, and it is a matter of regret to me that he did not see his way to accept the position of president when he was invited to do so by the provisional committee.—Yours faithfully, DAISY HALLING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Mr. Shine has volunteered to resign his position on the A.U. Council. I, for one, should accept his resignation with satisfaction but that I have never regarded the acceptation of his candidature as a legitimate proceeding. Rule No. 6 of the A.U. membership form, which I signed, reads:—"That any member of the Union becoming a manager or acting-manager shall, during the period of his management, forfeit his right to vote, and cease to hold executive powers in the Union."

Under this rule, I contend that the presence of sketch managers on the committee is not valid. I have no animus against Mr. Shine, but he is a sketch manager (i.e., an employer of labour), so, I understand, is Mr. Paulton, and, as such, they represent the element which has alone deterred me from subscribing to the Actors' Association. The interests of the actor and of the manager are diametrically opposed. A manager may personally love you fondly, but this will not prevent him from offering you, in business, a smaller salary than you are worth. Further, the proposal to extend protection to sketch artists appears to me to be an interference with the business of the V.A.F., and a wandering from the main road into by-ways, leading to bewildering complications. An actor, strictly speaking, is an artist who acts in licensed theatres.

At any rate, this class of artist is sufficient for the A.U. to deal with at present. No doubt the error of excluding ladies from the committee, a subject put to the vote of only forty or so members out of over three hundred, has already been recognised. In many trade unions women are not represented on the council because they have no knowledge of, or concern in, the trade; but it cannot be urged that actresses know less of the theatrical profession than actors. It is small inducement to an actress to become a member to tell her she will not be represented on the committee. "The Union will be governed and developed on strictly democratic lines, by actors for actors" (Rule No. 3). Strict adherence to this rule will be the attitude of every thoughtful member of the A.U.—Yours faithfully, NORMAN TRAVERS.

MR. H. B. IRVING AT EDINBURGH.

Mr. H. B. Irving delivered a lecture on Tuesday afternoon to the members of the Edinburgh Branch of the British Empire Shakespeare Society on "Shakespearean Actors of the Eighteenth Century." The meeting was held in the Albert Hall, where a large audience was presided over by Dr. Marshall, of the Royal High School. Mr. Irving, at the outset, said that Shakespeare—above all a writer for the theatre—was an actor himself. Playing and acting were his business. Shakespeare wrote for the audiences of his day, with an eye to posterity, no doubt, but primarily to carry on the business of a theatre. Poetic plays, however great as literature, had never held and never would hold the stage so long as they were undramatic in their treatment and construction. Shakespeare triumphed over his fellows because of his greater appreciation and understanding of the art of dramatic effect. The eighteenth century was a century utterly unproductive of great drama; without Shakespeare to fall back on, the tragic actor of the period would have been sadly gravelled for lack of matter. Between 1710 and 1740 Shakespeare was almost entirely neglected; it required the coming of another actor of genius to seize the glorious opportunities that had been overlooked or despised by Cibber and his colleagues. The first sign of any attempt at realism in the matter of dress in Shakespearean productions was in 1773. In that year Macbeth was dressed in the kilt, and the Coldstream March was played as incidental music. The most inconceivable nonsense that could be written about Shakespeare by academic critics, ignorant of, or sympathetic towards the theatre, was perhaps carried to its farthest limit when they found Professor Raleigh suggesting that Shakespeare's genius had suffered rather than gained at the hands of such latter-day actresses as Mrs. Siddons, Ellen Terry, and Ada Rehan, and that it had never fared better than in the days when the boy actors played his female parts. What constituted the genius of Garrick and Mrs. Siddons; what made them so unapproachably supreme among the players of their day, was that theirs was a triumph of natural acting as opposed to the unreality of convention. In conclusion, Mr. Irving contrasted the state of the actors of the eighteenth century with those of to-day, and pleaded for actors that training which would qualify them to interpret Shakespeare—a training which the hard work of the old stock companies was eminently fitted to give.

Lord Kingsburgh proposed a vote of thanks to the lecturer, and said that it was about forty-eight years ago since he first met Mr. Irving's father, as a member of the stock company of the Theatre Royal. He believed that it was largely due to the discipline of those days—for an actor had often to play six different parts in one week—that Sir Henry Irving was able to embody so well so many different phases of his art. Dr. Marshall seconded the motion, which was received with great enthusiasm.

"A CASE OF ARSON" REVIVED.

The Haymarket Theatre is likely to be well served for some time to come with that mercurial comedy from the French, My Wife; but an additional attraction, put into the bill for the first time on Wednesday, has been found in Herman Heijerman's strikingly human piece, A Case of Arson. This dramatic curtain-raiser, which is by the author of The Good Hope, a strong play that was produced by Miss Ellen Terry at the Imperial during her season there in 1903, again brought to the notice of London playgoers the clever Dutch actor, Mr. Henri de Vries, who, since he first claimed artistic recognition here has been winning laurels on the other side of the Atlantic. As a vehicle for the display of his conspicuous abilities the piece mentioned above is well fitted. Of course, the distinguished Hollander is protean in the best sense of that much-abused term; but he is something more. He sinks his individuality in the most complete way. It is not mere masquerading in disguise: each character seems to stand before us as a separate personality—truthful, sincere, and convincing. Most of us remember the piece, which deals with the examination by a judge of various witnesses in connection with the burning of his shop by John Arend, a village tobacconist, who is tortured by the consciousness that his little girl's charred body bears witness to the divine judgment that has already overtaken him. At first the man brazens it out, and answers with little apparent hesitation the searching questions of the magistrate. But when the official of the law has had before him Arend's imbecile brother, his doddering old father-in-law, a fat publican, a talkative and reminiscent grocer, an asthmatic police sergeant, the guilty man becomes conscience-stricken and repentant. The voice, features, gait—all are changed in each character, and humour plays its part in the piece as well as pathos, and testifies to the rare powers of the artist. It is to be noted that Mr. de Vries has a greater command of our language, and this improvement adds much to the interest of a performance that only an actor with intellectual and histrionic endowment could hope to make successful. He is supported by Mr. Percy Rhodes as the magistrate—an impersonation of considerable dignity and strength. The performance of A Case of Arson was most favourably received by a full house on Wednesday, when the Dutch actor was honoured with several curtains.

Since the first night My Wife has been judiciously pruned in places, and now plays much closer, with the result that Mr. Michael Morton's comedy is one of the most joyous of the season's entertainments. Miss Marie Lohr, Miss Millie Legarde, Mr. A. E. Matthews, and Mr. Aubrey Smith enter heartily into the scheme of fun, but never overstep the confines of comedy. The fine traditions of the house are well sustained, and Mr. Harrison should not require another principal piece for some time to come.

"DON JUAN IN HELL."

A Dream, from Man and Superman, by Bernard Shaw, produced at the Court Theatre, on Tuesday afternoon, June 4.

Don Juan .....MR. ROBERT LORAINE
Dona Ana de Ulloa ....MISS LILLAH MCCARTHY
The Statue .....MR. MICHAEL SHERBROOKE
The Devil .....MR. NORMAN MCKINNEL

A superabundance of Shaw has been furnished this week at the Court, where have begun a series of Tuesday and Friday matinées, embracing the Dream Scene from Man and Superman, entitled Don Juan in Hell, and the trifle The Man of Destiny, both by Bernard Shaw. The popularity of the Court matinées was evidenced by a crowded audience, who were kept closely interested, and took up the humorous points of both plays with celerity. Mr. Shaw can apparently use any theme for his favourite pursuit of baiting the Briton, and the more audaciously he brings the weaknesses of his audiences before them the greater is the welcome extended to their portrayal. The fashion of laughing with Mr. Shaw has taken a permanent hold, but the marvel is that audiences, however subtle his humour, contrive to laugh so well together. A double purpose is served by the revival in the afternoon of the Dream Scene from Man and Superman, for not only does it gain new followers for Mr. Shaw, but it provokes a wish to see the rest of the play, a desire that can be easily gratified at the same house, where Man and Superman forms the evening bill.

Those who have read the edition of Man and Superman in its entirety will know that the Dream Scene deals with the infernal regions, which are represented on the stage by a dark curtain suggesting an abysmal void. Don Juan Tenorio is already an inmate of Hades, and presently welcomes Dona Ana, the daughter of a Spanish commandant, whom he had killed in a duel. Later, the old soldier arrives in person—or, rather, in stone—and the group is joined by Lucifer, who constitutes himself the chairman of a protracted debate on love, motherhood, religion, and eternity. The discussion in Hades is overburdened with Shawian philosophy, with its attack on social conventions and its ruthless ridicule of cherished religious convictions, which all the excellences of the acting could not lighten; but the contrasts afforded in the delivery of the dialogue by such practised elocutionists as those engaged in the representation of the Dream Scene were fully sufficient to win general admiration. Mr. Robert Loraine, who is the John Tanner of the evening, is retained for the representation of Don Juan, and very picturesquely does he propound his irreconcilable theories, delivering his lines with such well-studied emphasis as to invest them with added brilliance. The social arrangements in Mr. Shaw's Hades permits each member of the community on arrival to fix his or her own age, and consequently Mis Lillah McCarthy is able to appear as a beauteous damsel in crinoline and coiffure. Her part in the performance is more or less restricted to the fascinations of figure and face; but when Donna Ana is called upon to speak Miss McCarthy is sweetly effective, except in the opening, when the muffled tones of her voice are weirdly thrilling. Mr. Norman McKinnel's share in the diabolical debate is strengthened by the richness of his voice and the well-judged phrasing, and frequent cheers gave proof of the admiration which his performance of Satan excited. The mellowness of Mr. Michael Sherbrooke's style is admirably adapted to the drollery of the statue, and the actor's conception of the old Spanish commandant exploited a rich vein of comedy.

The author was equally well served in the trifle, which followed, entitled

"THE MAN OF DESTINY."
A Trifle by Bernard Shaw.

General Bonapart .....MR. DION BOUCICAULT
Giuseppe .....MR. HERMAN DE LANGE
A Lieutenant .....MR. TREVOR LOWE
The Strange Lady .....MISS IRENE VANBRUGH

The play, which lasted for the best part of an hour, has the picturesqueness which belongs to the period when Napoleon was in the early days of his victorious career, and shows him as the youthful General whose ambitions are being stirred by thoughts of conquest. Even such he is made the mouthpiece of Mr. Shaw's tirades against the English, who at that date were not apparently free from the faults of modern times. An ingenious story, not very plainly unfolded, is told in the little piece, which deals with the theft of despatches by a resourceful lady, and their subsequent recovery by Napoleon after much wordy warfare. Mr. Dion Boucicault gave a vivid portrayal of the scheming Bonapart, his play of feature, his intensity, and the meaning infused into his lines being past praise. The brilliance of Miss Irene Vanbrugh's talents shone conspicuously in her rendering of the Strange Lady, the impersonation of which involves the necessity of appearing in the garb of a soldier. The melodious voice and eloquent action which are among the accomplishments of Miss Vanbrugh were invaluable in the part. A superb character-study of a self-confident booby of an army officer was supplied by Mr. Trevor Lowe, who caused the heartiest laughter by his grotesque acting, and Mr. Herman De Lange's shrewd though loquacious inn-keeper was imbued with drollery. An effective set represented the interior of the farmhouse in Italy, in which the scene is laid.

LONDON COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

At St. Andrew's Hall, Newman-street, W., on Thursday evening, May 30, the London College of Music gave a students' orchestral concert, including compositions by Mendelssohn, Wieniawski, Niels W. Gade, and Sterndale Bennett, as well as several vocal solos. The concert began with the overture, "The Naiades," by Sterndale Bennett, a fine old English composer, whose works are nowadays somewhat unjustly neglected. The orchestra, although not quite certain in their attack, gave on the whole a pleasing performance of this fine overture. Mr. John Lister Harrison was to have sung the "Preislied" (Die Meistersinger), but owing to indisposition was unable to appear. In Wieniawski's violin Concerto in D minor Miss Marguerite Bamberg displayed no little talent, being quite at home with all the technical mysteries of double stopping and harmonics. Another clever student of the London College was Miss Gertrude Wilkins, who gave a most artistic performance of Sterndale Bennett's pianoforte Concerto in F minor, the "Barcarolle," the lovely slow movement in the concerto being particularly well played; the orchestra also most ably supported the young pianist, who at the close was loudly applauded. Miss Lilian Marshall, a (Sullivan) scholar and pupil of Mr. Stanley-Verde, sang Hubert Bath's ballad, "The Viking's War Song," correctly, but with hardly enough dramatic power. Later in the programme Miss Marshall was set down for Hatton's song, "The Enchantress." Miss Helena Jackson, a medalist of the L.C.M., was warmly applauded for her singing of Mendelssohn's "Infelice." In the second part of the concert, Miss Frances M. L. Corri played Mendelssohn's brilliant pianoforte Concerto in G minor with considerable effect, the orchestra being at its best in this work. Included also in the programme was Niels W. Gade's Symphony in F. Dr. F. J. Karn was the conductor, and Mr. Gordon Tanner the leader, of the orchestra. During the interval the Bartlelot gold medal, annually offered by Sir Walter and Lady Bartlelot, was presented to Miss Gertrude Wilkins by Lady Bartlelot. Other medals were also presented to Miss Helena Jackson, Miss Ruby Cox, and Miss Olive Chapman.

MATINEE AT THE PLAYHOUSE.

Mr. Cyril Maude very kindly lent the Playhouse on Thursday afternoon for the purposes of a special matinée in aid of the funds of the Parish of Holy Cross in St. Pancras. As usual, many prominent members of the theatrical profession generously gave their services for the occasion.

The programme started with the first act of Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch, performed by the Terry's Theatre company, by permission of Mr. Gaston Mayer. Miss Madge Carr Cook repeated her touching and altogether delightful performance of Mrs. Wiggs; and Miss Bessie Barriscale as Mary, Miss Louise Closser as Miss Hazy, Miss Florence Busby as Miss Lucy, Miss Grace Griswold as Mrs. Eichorn, Miss Bertha Livingston as Mrs. Shultz, Mr. Fredk. Burton as Mr. Stubbins, Mr. Forrest Robinson as Mr. Wiggs, and the other members of the cast did full justice to the very entertaining comedy. Miss Irene Vanbrugh recited a monologue entitled "A Peculiar Attack," by Miss Phobe Hart. Miss Vanbrugh, as the young lady who tells the story of how she "did a faint" and gave evidence of curious "symptoms" in order to gain the consent of her parents and relatives to her marriage with the man she loved, caused a good deal of amusement, the lines being delivered in an expressive yet perfectly natural manner. Mr. Charles H. E. Brookfield's clever little one-act play The New Régime was capitally acted by Miss Lottie Venne as the erring and disobedient wife, who is brought to a proper state of mind by the workings of her own jealous, but loving nature; Mr. Wilfred Draycott as the quiet, unassuming, yet determined husband; and Miss Maud Hoffman as the French maid Victorine.

The novelty of the afternoon was a somewhat pathetic little playlet, by Mr. Herbert Swears, entitled

"PANSY."

Pansy .....MISS KATE RORKE
Nita .....MISS MAUDE BUCHANAN

Mr. Swears calls the trifle "an impression." Pansy is a painter and Nita is her sister. The former is a woman who has seen life and, although not old, not even middle-aged, has matured in experience of the world. The latter is a girl of eighteen. Pansy has acted the part of a mother to her sister, has kept her, paid for her education, and given her that chance in life which Pansy had to make for herself. In the studio the older woman stands hesitatingly before the easel. For the moment inspiration is a laggard. She calls in the aid of her sister, who tells her to sketch a certain type of face, which is described most minutely. Pansy finds a certain pleasure in following Nita's instructions, for the features of the man she is transferring to canvas are the features of the man she loves. And the same man loves, and is loved by, her sister. A letter comes. It is for Nita, and it is from a man who asks her to become his wife. It is the man in the picture. In great joy, Nita hands the important missive to her sister to read while she plays the piano. Then, after receiving Pansy's congratulations, she asks her to dictate the reply. And as the younger woman goes out to despatch a messenger with the note, Pansy regretfully once more stands before the easel, and erases the sketch of the man she has lost and her sister has won. Miss Kate Rorke acted with much feeling the part of the faithful woman who had practically devoted her life to her sister's welfare, and had at last been compelled to part with the one thing that gave her inspiration and helped her to think of the future as a bright and happy prospect. As Nita Miss Maude Buchanan was a light-hearted, irresponsible, "slip" of a girl, and played the rôle with a suitable sense of careless abandon.

As to the other contributors to the programme, Mlle. Jane May recited with wonderful dramatic fervour "A Terrible Moment," almost striking terror into the hearts of her audience by the tragic intensity of her utterance. Mr. Barclay Gammon was exceedingly amusing in a musical sketch, and Mr. Fred Upton told a few funny stories in a delightful anecdotal style.

THE ROYALTY PIERROTS.

The reputation of the little theatre in Dean-street for humour is once more being sustained by the pierrotic entertainment of the Follies, who again present a triple bill—if we may so call it—conceived in the truest spirit of fun. Their return on Monday was hailed with considerable enthusiasm by a large audience, who again found plenty to laugh at in the "Peter Pantomime," Baffles, in which Mr. H. C. Pelissier and Mr. Lewis Sydney exhibit their happy methods of travestie with unquestionable success. Of the "great curse," we may say that we have heard nothing so whimsical or so witty since the production of Paw Clawdian, at the now defunct Toole's Theatre, in the days when burlesque always formed the attraction at one or two of our West End houses. The topical hits are not confined to this laughable skit, for there are plenty of them in Mr. Pelissier's new song, "In the spring-time," one of the most successful numbers of the first part of the entertainment. The humorist touches lightly on the weddings of Edna and Ellen, and refers to the vexed question of costume for La Milo. Of course, Mr. Pelissier's eccentric German character-study of the professor with a wife in the Fatherland, who is quite content with his lot here, is retained. It is much too funny to be left out. Miss Gwennie Mars has a pretty and dainty new number, entitled "The caterpillar and the rose," a title that sounds so much like La Fontaine. The bouche fermée effects in the chorus of this are decidedly pleasing. Early in the bill come Miss Lily Walbrook and Mr. Dan Everard, in the duet, "I want the moon," a number that could not escape the inevitable encore on Monday. Mr. Lewis Sidney described at the piano in his own mercurial way an incident at a ball; and Mr. Pelissier, also at the piano, described with the delightful freedom of a born improvisatore various composers' methods of treating the nursery rhyme, "Rock-a-bye baby," choosing first Miss Liza Lehmann's light, airy, graceful style, and following on with the Scandinavian school, represented by Grieg. Then came the modern German school—the Abbé Liszt and others, the conclusion of this clever item in the evening's bill being the treatment of the theme from the point of view of a French operatic tenor—very intense and in romantic mood. The Nicotine quartets, introduced for the first time, show considerable originality. The quatuor in praise of the Dutch pipe breathes the stolid humour of the inhabitants of the country of canals; and in his exaltation of the hookah the composer, Mr. Pelissier, has, in his music, caught something of the Oriental colouring. The words of the lyrics eulogising the tyrant goddess Nicotia are by Mr. Arthur Davenport. An entirely pleasant evening is again wound up by a circumstantial burlesque of a variety entertainment, in which comic singers, champion rifle shots, versatile instrumentalists, and other turns, regarded as the staple of the entertainments on the lesser stage, are cleverly satirised. Not the least funny part of this portion of the bill is the behaviour of the "audience," represented by the Follies with considerable observation of character.

THE PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF WALES and suite witnessed Mr. Charles Frohman's production of Brewster's Millions at the Hicks Theatre on Monday.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MISS ELLEN TERRY will not be able to appear at Miss Fanny Coleman's benefit matinée, at St. James's Theatre, on Thursday, as she is going abroad. The popular actress, however, has signalised her interest in the event by generously sending a cheque for £50. The fund has also been swelled by a contribution of £5 each from Sir Squire Bancroft and Mr. Pinero.

MR. RUPERT D'OYLY CARTE, son of the late Mr. Richard D'Oyly Carte, and step-son of Mrs. D'Oyly Carte, was married at St. George's, Hanover-square, on Thursday, to Lady Dorothy Milner Gathorne-Hardy, third daughter of the Earl of Cranbrook, of Hemsted Park, Cranbrook, Kent, and granddaughter of the first Lord Cranbrook, who was successively Secretary of State for the Home, War, and India Departments, and twice Lord President of the Council. There was a full choral service, and the wedding ceremony was performed by the Bishop of Stepney, assisted by Canon Mornington (uncle of the bridegroom) and the Rev. A. S. Crawley. The Earl of Cranbrook gave his daughter away. She wore a very picturesque gown of silver satin, made en Princesse, with a long Watteau train. The skirt was bordered with a wide insertion of jewelled lace, with true-lovers' knots in silver, and the bodice was arranged with a jewelled lace yoke, draped with soft folds of chiffon and silver satin, fastened with a handsome paste buckle. The elbow-sleeves of chiffon were trimmed with straps of silver and small paste buckles. The bride's tulle veil was arranged over a wreath of real orange-blossom, white heather, and myrtle. Her ornaments included a pearl necklace, the gift of the Earl and Countess of Cranbrook, and pearl and diamond earrings, presented by the bridegroom.

THE bridesmaids were Miss Una Hardy, Miss Cicely Acland, Miss Ursula Wright, and Miss Alice Hunter Blair, with four little girls—Miss Grace Browning, the Hon. Phyllis Goschen, Miss Rosalind Steward, and Miss Betty Spottiswoode. They wore charming dresses in shaded pink chiffon, recalling the delicate colouring of the Catherine Mermet roses. The skirts were bordered with ruches of shaded rose-pink chiffon, and arranged with fichus in chiffon and silk, and chemisettes of fine silver lace. With these gowns the bridesmaids wore veils of the palest pink chiffon, sewn with silver thread, and caught on either side with silver roses. Their bouquets were composed of orchids, with ferns and smilax. The bridesmaids were dressed in picturesque frocks of shaded pink chiffon, copied from an old Dutch picture, the short-waisted bodices arranged with deep chiffon collars, and bordered with silver lace. With these quaint dresses they wore silver shoes and caps of silver lace. Mr. George Blake McGrath acted as best man.

MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER was present on Thursday at the meeting of the After-Care Committee for watching over the lives of physically defective children after their leaving school. The meeting was held at the house of Mr. and Lady Gwendolen Guinness.

MR. GEORGE GROSSMITH has demanded from Mr. Frank Harris, the editor of Vanity Fair, under threat of legal proceedings, an apology for certain statements which appeared in that paper with reference to Mr. Grossmith's treatment of the celebrated "red-haired girl" who went about selling scissors by means of plausible stories. Mr. Harris has humorously refused the apology, and has sent Mr. Grossmith the name of the solicitor of Vanity Fair.

MISS OLGA NETHERSOLE, whose season at the Sarah Bernhardt Theatre, Paris, began on Monday evening, was on Wednesday served with an injunction restraining her from playing Carmen. M. Albert Carré, the director of the Opéra Comique, who caused the injunction to be served, says that he did so because he considers that the performance of Carmen in a French theatre would be an infringement of his rights over the opera.

MISS EDNA MAY entered for the second time into the bonds of matrimony on Tuesday, when her wedding with Mr. Oscar Lewisohn, son of the late Mr. Leonard Lewisohn, the wealthy copper magnate of New York, was celebrated at the Registrar's Office at Windsor. The small party which assisted at the ceremony was made up chiefly of Mrs. Pettie (mother of Miss May), Miss Jane Pettie, Miss Margaret Pettie, Mr. and Mrs. Skarratt (witnesses), Mr. Royle, and Mr. Rudolf Cohn. The bride wore a close-fitting dress of crêpe-de-chine, heavily embroidered with white lace, and a lace blouse and overall. Her hat was of the Romney type in white straw, with trimmings of white tulle and white lilies.

MANY celebrated stage favourites, including Miss Gertie Millar, Miss Kate Cutler, Miss Marie Studholme, Miss Pauline Chase, Miss Nina Sevening, and Miss Letty Lind, journeyed to Ascot by special train from London, and participated in the wedding breakfast, which was laid out in a large marquee on the lawn of the bridegroom's residence at Torwood. The presents, which amounted to over a hundred, included a gilt and embroidered picture-frame from Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Monckton, a flower bowl from Miss Marie Studholme, a Japanese screen from Mr. Joseph Coyne, and a silver coffee-pot from the Adelphi Theatre staff. In the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Lewisohn left Ascot for London en route for Dover and Paris, from whence they will proceed on a lengthy tour of the Continent by motor-car.

MISS MARIE CORELLI occupied a box at the Devonshire Park Theatre, Eastbourne, on Monday evening and afterwards congratulated Mr. Murray King. The performance of Niobe was also under the patronage and presence of the Mayor and Mayoress of Eastbourne, Mayor and Mayoress of Boulogne, Mayor and Mayoress of Dieppe, and many other notabilities. In the vestibule of the theatre Miss Marie Corelli was presented with a handsome bouquet before being escorted to her box.

THE "Irving Memorial" Committee held a meeting on Monday, when there were present Messrs. Cecil Raleigh (chairman), Sir Charles Wyndham, Messrs. H. Beerbohm Tree, George Alexander, G. P. Bancroft, Acton Bond, Lewis Casson, Norman Forbes, John Hare, Martin Harvey, Alfred Kendrick, Cyril Maude, Forbes Robertson, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). Mr. John Hare was elected president of the Fund. One of the suggested sites considered by the Committee was approved by the sculptor, and it was agreed the president of the Fund should approach the proper authorities with a view to obtaining permission to erect the statue on the spot selected.

THE production of The Changeling, which was to have been given this week at the Playhouse, is postponed to a later date.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY commenced his four weeks' répertoire season with The Breed of the Treshams at the Adelphi on Monday, and when the popular young actor made his first entrance it was the signal for one of the heartiest welcomes it has been our lot to hear. The huge audience followed closely the fortunes of Keresby, known as the "Rat," and at the end Mr. Harvey had to respond with a speech. The "House Full" boards have been adorning the front entrance four nights this week, and it appears as if Mr. Harvey will regret having limited his season to such a brief period.

"GREAT POSSESSIONS" will be produced on Monday, with Mr. Harvey and Miss N. de Silva in the leading parts, supported by Messrs. Charles Glenney, Charles J. Cameron, Albert E. Raynor, Vincent Sternroyd, Philip Hewland, George Cooke, Fred Wright, sen., P. Foster, Kenneth Black, A. Field, F. J. Arlton, Alfred Mansfield, Leonard Craske, P. Alexander, C. Langton, Leslie Palmer, and Denholm Muir, and Misses Suzanne Sheldon, Maud Milton, Coleridge, Madge Fabian, Maud Rivers, Bessie Elder, Mrs. B. M. de Solla, and Mrs. F. Wright. The scene is laid in the market-place of a small town on the Lake of Gennesareth, A.D. 31.

QUITE an interesting evening was that of Tuesday last at the elegantly-appointed Managers' Club in Savoy Buildings. The first event was the drawing for the Derby sweepstakes, which was followed by the bestowal of a silver goblet upon Mr. Stanley White, the winner of the recent billiard handicap. The presentation was made in a few admirably-chosen words by Mr. Graham Falcon, and suitably acknowledged by Mr. White, who asserted that his success was due more to luck than skill. To those who were aware of Mr. White's proficiency with the cue his modesty was fully apparent. The goblet, which was the gift of Mr. G. M. Polini, an ever-generous member of the Club, was filled with champagne and passed round as a loving-cup for each visitor to "quaff the generous wine," and wish the victor continued success, that his aim might be true and his hand ever steady. Friendly conversation and appointments to meet at Tattersall's at Epsom on Derby Day terminated a most pleasant evening.

MR. HARRY KILBURN, who has been playing so successfully Hans Wagner, the Dutch Brewer, in Baron H. Harriss's Prince of Pilsen for twelve months past, has been re-engaged by that gentleman for autumn, Christmas, and spring, 1908. Mr. Kilburn has, consequently, had to refuse several tempting pantomime offers.

"DIVORCONS" in a new dress will be revived at the Duke of York's on Tuesday. The version of Sardou's comedy is by Miss Margaret Mayo, and the company will consist largely of the American artists who were playing in the piece at Wallack's, New York, up to the end of last week, and sailed for London on Saturday morning. Among the English actors is the popular J. D. Beveridge, who during the past two years has been touring the United States in Man and Superman. The rest of the cast will consist of Messrs Frank Worthing, Richard Bennett, J. W. Macdonald, Frank Collins, Max Freeman, and Frank Hatch, and Misses Grace George, Jane Corcoran, Ruth Benson, Ruby Ray, and Sadie Jerome.

THE great success of Her Love Against the World has led to the selection of another play by Mr. Walter Howard for the boards of the Lyceum Theatre. The Midnight Wedding, which is to be the next attraction at the famous Strand house, has been already seen at the West London, where it was produced in February last. It has all the romantic and exciting characteristics of the play now running at the Lyceum, and possesses a military element of an attractive type. The play will be presented on Saturday, June 15, but as Messrs. Smith and Carpenter are under contract to produce The Christian in August and another play later in the autumn, their only chance of doing The Midnight Wedding is presented in the interval between now and August, and the piece can therefore have only a very short run.

THE principal artists who have helped to carry Her Love Against the World on its prosperous way will appear in The Midnight Wedding. Mr. Norman Partreige heads the cast as Paul Valmar, and Miss Nora Kerin will double the rôles of Second Lieut. Karl Helsburg and Princess Astrea Von Strelsburg. The remainder of the company comprises Messrs. Frederick Ross, Ronald Adair, Eric Mayne, Fred Grove, S. Major Jones, Harry Barford, Gus Oxley, Edmund Waller, Harold Chapin, and Henry Armstrong, and Miss Valli Valli and Miss Daisy Gwynne.

MR. EDWARD ERNEST COOPER, who for some years past has held the position of hon. treasurer to the Royal Academy of Music, has been elected chairman of the committee of management of that institution, in succession to the late Mr. Thomas Threlfall. Mr. Charles Rube has succeeded Mr. Cooper as hon. treasurer.

THE last weeks of Clancarty at the Lyric are announced. Mr. Lewis Waller's arrangements compelling him to close his season on July 13. As a consequence, Mr. W. S. Maugham's modern play, The Explorer, which at one time Mr. Waller contemplated doing this season, is to be kept until later.

MISS HELENA HEAD (Mrs. Leonard Shepherd), who has been touring the Southern States of America during the past season, recently gave the first of a series of recitals from Macbeth, before an enthusiastic audience in New York. The recital consisted of an introduction and some half-dozen scenes from the play, including the Letter-reading, the Murder, the Banquet, and the Sleep-walking episodes, together with an outline of the main incidents connecting them.

MR. LEWIS WALLER will impersonate the title-rôle in the dramatic reading of Coriolanus to be given under the auspices of the British Empire Shakespeare Society on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Genevieve Ward will be the Volumnia, and the cast will also include Messrs. A. E. George, Kenyon Musgrave, C. Leveson Lane, Alfred Bristowe, A. Conybeare Gough, David Denard, and Acton Bond; and Misses Jean Mackinlay, Celia Palo, and Sybil Ruskin.

MISS NINA BLAKE-ADAMS, the leading actress of the Alhambra Dramatic Company, Belfast, is to be accorded a complimentary benefit on Thursday. Miss Adams has just completed twelve months' engagement at Belfast, during which period she has impersonated many leading rôles with great distinction.

MISS GRACE LESTER is re-engaged for the seventh time by M. Auguste Van Biene to play the Duchess in The Broken Melody during his short suburban tour, commencing on Monday at Kennington, and for autumn tour. Miss Lester, it is of interest to add, has just concluded an engagement with Messrs. W. and F. Melville's stock seasons at the Standard and Grand Theatres.

MR. G. WALLACE JOHNSTONE has been engaged by Mr. Edward Compton for his season at the St. James's Theatre, as well as for the tour to follow, until Whit week, 1908. Mr. Johnstone will thus reach his fifth engagement with Mr. Compton.

MISS VIOLET M. HARLEY, who made such a pronounced success a little while back in Miss Annie Hughes's original part in A Country Mouse, has had unfortunately to take an enforced rest, under medical advice. During the last few months she has therefore been enabled to devote her time to her favourite occupation—musical composition—with such success that she has already disposed of six or seven ballads to the leading publishers. The first to be published, "Love's a piper gay," words by that well-known writer of ballads, Clifton Bingham, came out this week.

MR. OTHO STUART has secured from Mr. J. H. Leigh a lease of the Court Theatre, and will open his season there in September. His répertory will mainly consist of comedies of modern life.

AT the annual general meeting of the Actors' Orphanage Fund, held on the 31st ult., at the Playhouse, under the chairmanship of Mr. Edward Terry, an announcement was made to the effect that the following ladies and gentlemen had been elected to the executive committee, which will serve until May, 1908:—Miss Carlotta Addison, Miss Lena Ashwell, Miss Ada Blanche, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Rev. Arthur Brinckman, Miss Phyllis Broughton, Mrs. Edward Compton, Mr. Charles Cruikshanks, Miss Vane Featherston, Miss Helen Ferrers, Mrs. Gay, Mr. Martin Harvey, Mrs. Mangles, Miss E. Wynne Matthison, Mr. Harry Nicholls, Mrs. S. Raleigh, Miss Cicely Richards, Miss Genevieve Ward, Miss May Warley, and Mrs. Fred Wright.

MR. EDWARD COMPTON will commence his season at the St. James's Theatre on July 29 with a new piece, the second act of which is laid in the Georgian epoch. Miss Suzanne Sheldon, Mr. Eric Lewis, Mr. Charles Groves, and Mr. Henry Ainley have already been engaged; and Miss Marie Hassall, Miss Phyllis Relph, Miss Marion Ashworth, Mr. Henry Crocker, Mr. G. Wallace Johnston, Mr. Reginald E. Besant, Mr. Benedict Butler, and Mr. Philip Gordon—all members of Mr. Compton's provincial company—will support him at the St. James's, where Mr. George Alexander's adept and active general-manager, Mr. C. T. H. Helmsley, will, by Mr. Alexander's consent, remain to see to affairs in front.

MISS BILLIE BURKE, the pleasing representative of the lady partner in Mr. George, at the Vaudeville, has been engaged by Mr. Charles Frohman as leading lady for Mr. John Drew's next season, opening in September at the Empire Theatre, New York.

"IN THE BISHOP'S CARRIAGE," a four-act comedy drama, adapted by Channing Pollock from a novel by Miriam Michaelson, will be produced at the Waldorf Theatre towards the end of this month. The cast will include Mr. Frank Cooper, Mr. Chas. Cartwright, Mr. Henry Vibart, Mr. Charles Collette, Mr. Arnold Lucy, Miss Agnes Hewitt, Miss Edith Cartwright, Miss Elspeth Dudgeon, Miss Margaret Fuller, and Miss Fanny Ward. The play was originally performed last year at Springfield, Massachusetts, and was given at the Grand Opera House, New York, on Feb. 25. Mr. Charles Cartwright will be responsible for the Waldorf production.

MR. WILFRED STANFORD, the acting-manager of the Camden Theatre, is to be congratulated on having been promoted to the rank of Captain in the 17th Middlesex Volunteer Rifle Corps, to which he has devoted a great deal of his leisure time.

THE tradition of Burbage's time will be followed in the performances of The Merchant of Venice, to be given in the Elizabethan manner at the Fulham Theatre next week, when the character of Shylock will be represented as the comic villain with a red wig. In pursuance of a similar precedent, the stately Portia of modern days will be replaced by the "little body" made familiar to Elizabethan audiences by a boy's impersonation. The strong cast includes Messrs. Lionel Belmore, Harding Stearman, Lionel Atwill, Ben Field, B. A. Pittar, and Edward Landor, and "Masters" Margaret Bussé, Lillah McGrath, Winifred Rae, and W. Mayo.

THE domestic amenities of Garrick's household are quaintly revealed in a letter which was included in a sale at Sotheby's on Tuesday. Among the collection of autograph letters was one written by the famous actor to the Hon. Mr. Fitzmaurice in 1773 respecting a play. The epistle contains the following passage:—"If my wife would not set all ye family in an uproar, I would ask you to call in with ye draft of ye play and stay till go to sleep—but if you'll take things as they are you will come if you like it—were I to hint ye matter ye house would be up in arms." The letter sold for £3 10s.

MR. SAMUEL JAMES has decided to imitate his successful stock season at the Broadway, New Cross, on the two-houses-a-night system by trying the same plan for the following month at the Lyric, Hammersmith. The shows at that house will therefore start at 6.40 and 9 p.m.

MR. EDWARD MARRIS is to be congratulated on the enterprising way in which he has taken over the responsible position of lessee and manager of the Jersey Opera House. The booking for Mrs. Patrick Campbell's visit to the island this week, in spite of advanced prices, was unprecedented.

THE Executive Committee of the "Charles Santley Jubilee Fund" held their final meeting on Tuesday afternoon, under the chairmanship of the Earl of Kilmorey, K.P., when it was resolved that a cheque for £2160, which was the balance in hand after payment of all expenses, be sent to Mr. Santley.

A LONG illness, followed by the necessary rest, has combined to keep Miss Agnes Hewitt off the boards for too long a time. It is therefore pleasant to read her name in the cast of In the Bishop's Carriage, which is to be produced at the Waldorf Theatre, and her many friends will be glad to welcome her back to the stage.

CONTRIBUTIONS to the Annual Theatrical Sports received during the week have comprised the following:—Frank Curzon, £1 1s.; Messrs. Whitbread, £1 1s.; Messrs. Rayne, £1 1s.; Miss G. Ward, £1 1s.; Miss Rozant, 2s. 6d.; Alfred Sutro, £1 1s.; W. S. Gilbert, £2 2s.; Daily Telegraph, £3 3s.

MISS BATEMAN (Mrs. Crowe) is producing Medea in Corinth at a matinée at the Court Theatre on Monday, July 1. This play was written for Miss Bateman by the late W. G. Wills, and produced by her at the Lyceum with great success under her late father's management, and has not been given since. The programme will also include the comedietta Evening Dress, by W. D. Howells, and both casts will be in capable hands, Miss Bateman having secured the services, among others, of Miss Ierne Fitzgerald and Miss Isabel Merson, and Messrs. Lewis Casson, Henry Le Grand, and Jules Shaw. The whole performance is under the immediate direction of Miss Bateman, and will be given in aid of The Orphanage of the Infant Saviour, Barry-road, S.E.

MISS KATE RORKE will introduce several of her pupils at a matinée which she will give at the Great Queen-street Theatre on Tuesday, June 25. On that occasion the programme will consist of W. S. Gilbert's Pygmalion and Galatea, and a new one-act play by Mrs. George Cran, entitled The Shell of a Man.

MR. HERBERT PERCY, who for some years has been associated with Alice Kauser, of New York, has arrived in London. Miss Kauser is the head of a large play agency, and represents in America the foremost managers and dramatists of that country, as well as those of England and the Continent. Mr. Percy will be remembered as an English actor some years ago, and still combines that profession with the play business. He will open next season in New York at the Lyceum Theatre as Dr. Wake in Dr. Wake's Patient, having been engaged as leading man with Miss Margaret Illington (Mrs. Daniel Frohman). Before returning to America Mr. Percy will visit the principal European centres.

LESLIE STUART'S delightful music is now charming the natives of Italy, Florodora having just been produced at Milan.

MISS WINIFRED EMERY has been secured by Mr. Laurence Irving to appear in a new one-act play, called The Phœnix, which he has recently written. The little play will be produced in conjunction with the English version of Brieux's comedy, Les Hannetons, called The Incubus, at the Coronet on June 24.

A ONCE popular actress has passed away in the person of Mrs. George Owen, who died at Leicester on Tuesday at the advanced age of 81. Mrs. Owen was the widow of a former lessee of the Theatre Royal, Leicester, and enjoyed the friendship and respect of the late Sir Henry Irving and Wilson Barrett, from whom she received many kindly letters. The deceased lady was best known for her impersonation of Lady Isabel in East Lynne, and Leah in the drama of that name.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE will be devoted to a matinée on Tuesday, July 2, in aid of the Benevolent Fund of the Foreign Press Association in London. The brilliant entertainment will be contributed to by Mr. Tree, who will appear in a one-act play; Miss Viola Tree will sing; Mr. Arthur Bourchier and Miss Violet Vanbrugh will be seen in a duologue (engagements permitting); and Miss Annie Hughes and company will present an act of Miss Tommy. Mr. James Welch and Miss Audrey Ford supply a duologue. A new romantic play will be acted by Master Edward Garratt; and the list of artists will also include Miss Marie Brema and Miss Tita Brand, Miss Billie Burke, Mlle. Adeline Genée, Leo, Jan, and Mischel, Cherniawsky, Mr. Hayden Coffin, Miss Marie Dainton, Mr. Maurice Farkoa, Miss Rosina Filippi, Miss Kitty Gordon, Mr. George Graves, Miss Ethel Irving and Mr. Bertram Steer, and Mlle. Jane May (assisted by Mr. Clifford Brooke) in the first act of the celebrated mimodrama, L'Enfant Prodigue.

THE Shaftesbury management a few days since offered a prize of two guineas for the best title for a picture by Mr. John Hassall, representing a quaint little maiden, whose gown showed signs of wear and tear. The picture was headed "Lady, Tatters, Shaftesbury Theatre," and out of an enormous number of suggestions the prize was awarded to the inscription, "Full inside. Wish I was!" Since the opening night many additions have been made to the opera, and Lady Tatters may now be said to be one of the brightest attractions in London.

MR. ALLAN WILKIE is this week doing extraordinary business at the Grand Theatre, Nottingham, the theatre on Thursday evening being packed in every part. Next week Mr. Wilkie will pay his first visit to the Theatre Royal, Bradford, returning the following week to the Opera House, Blackpool, and will bring his present successful tour to a close at Scarborough. Mr. Wilkie has secured a powerful company of thoroughly experienced artists for his autumn tour. Special scenery is being painted for his productions, and Messrs. W. Allen and Sons will have most of the new printing.

BARON HARRISS'S principal Prince of Pilsen company brought its second tour to a close at Cambridge on Saturday evening, when an enthusiastic house cheered everything and everybody to the echo, the appearance of Miss Harriss being the signal for salvoes of applause. At the termination of the play the students, who were present in force, waved their caps and gowns frantically, and were not satisfied until the curtain had been raised again and again. During the evening Miss Harriss was the recipient of a handsome Chippendale silver mirror with candelabra attached from the members of the company. The presentation was made by Mr. Harry Kilburn in a few felicitous phrases, and graciously acknowledged.

MR. W. S. HARTFORD, who will conclude on Saturday a six weeks' engagement as Julian Gray, in The New Magdalen, has been re-engaged for a further six nights to appear at Aberystwyth Coliseum as Ben Kershaw, in A Snug Little Kingdom, and Parbury, in The Tyranny of Tears.

WHILE Mr. Auguste Van Biene, the popular actor-'cellist, was playing The Broken Melody recently at the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, the usual professional stage-door pest waited on him, and declared he had had nothing to eat for twenty-four hours. Mr. Van Biene gave him some money, and asked the man not to spend it on drink. "No," he said; "I'm going to get something to eat, buy a bit of 'baccy,' and with the rest have four-penn'orth to hear you to-night."

THE wedding presents included a turquoise and diamond brooch from Mrs. Stanley Boulter (Mrs. D'Oyly Carte), a silver sugar-basin from Sir Charles Wyndham, and a silver inkstand from Mr. George Grossmith.

CLOSE upon the termination of Mr. Lewis Waller's season at the Lyric, which will end on July 13, will come the season of Grand English Opera by the Moody-Manners Company. The season will be of six weeks' duration, and in addition to the regular operas of the repertory several new works may be anticipated.

MISS DOT STEPHENS, who has now recovered from the effects of her railway mishap last year, will resume her engagements at Walsall in July. The young actress, whose feet were both injured in the accident, is completely cured, and can now walk about without any difficulty.

THE usual elaborate preparations are being made for the annual garden party in aid of the Actors' Orphanage Fund, which will be given in the grounds of the Royal Hospital, Chelsea, on Friday, July 5, from three to seven o'clock. Mr. Cyril Maude, who is president of the society, will produce in the Gardens Theatre Royal an original play, specially written for performance on this occasion only, by Captain Robert Marshall and Mr. Alfred Sutro. Jarley's Living Waxworks will be impersonated by a special company of artists, under the direction of Mr. C. Aubrey Smith and Miss Vane Featherston, with Mr. Fred Wright, jun., as Mr. Jarley; and the music hall vaudeville entertainments will be contributed by stars of the stage. There will be two ice-cream tents, under the direction of Miss Mangles and Miss Lilian Braithwaite, who will be assisted by many popular actresses.

THE event is already assured of the presence and help of Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander, Sir Squire and Lady Bancroft, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bourchier, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Compton, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Esmond, Miss Vane Featherston, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Irving, Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Irving, Miss Gertrude Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Maude, Miss Mary Moore, Mrs. Raleigh, Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Sims, Mr. H. Beerbohm Tree, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Terry, Sir Charles Wyndham, and Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Willard. The full band of the Hon. Artillery Company will play during the afternoon, by kind permission of Colonel the Earl of Denbigh, C.V.O. (commanding the Hon. Artillery Company).
